The Duke and Duchess of Newcastle, Lovesome, blew up on Thursday week, when six men were killed. The explosion was caused by the ignition of fire-damp. Two others were also much damaged by the explosion.

On Monday a statue of the poet Moore, by Mr. Foley, executed by Mr. Thornhill, of Dublin, was unveiled at Glocester, in the presence of the Mayor and Corporation, and a large number of the citizens.

Mr. Lincoln has replied to the address adopted at "the meeting of the working men" held at the Free Trade Hall, Manchester, at the close of last year. The President rejoices at the failure of the efforts of "disloyal American citizens" to induce working men in Europe to take part in their behalf, and attempt to establish a government resting "exclusively on the basis of human slavery." He regards the "efforts of working men, like yourselves, to place themselves on by the side of Hollywood" as an instance of sublime Christian heroism, which has not been surpassed in any age of the world. Mr. Lincoln adds that the views and feelings expressed in the address will be sustained by the English nation. He further says:—"I know and deeply regret the sufferings which the working men will have to endure, if, as you say, the action of the war should be suddenly closed. Your interests are deeply involved in the speedy restoration of peace throughout the country, and I trust that the energy with which you have proceeded to the work of emancipation will be followed by equal energy and success."

Several elections are going on locally. On Wednesday Mr. Percy, a Conservative, was returned for Tiverton, after a considerable majority over his opponent, Mr. Fawcett, a Liberal.——The election for a borough member for Tiverton, in the room of Mr. Heathcote, who has retired from the contest. There will probably be no opposition to his return. At Devizes, on Tuesday, Mr. Sotheron Estcourt, Conservative, was returned for the borough, in the room of Lord Sidmouth, a Conservative; Mr. W. J. Probyn, and Mr. Ismael Alexander, Liberals, were the other candidates. Mr. Sotheron Estcourt has been returned for Malmesbury, in the room of Mr. Richardson, who has retired. For Dudmouth, Barbour is the Liberal, and Mr. Verner the Conservative, candidate.

The National Life-boat Institution has just received a contribution of £211 from the living sums collected at Hong-Kong and Shanghai, by favour of Messrs. Gilman and Co. and Mr. W. H. Barton, late Prime Warden of the Revenue Company, and who is also a member of the committee of management of the Royal National Life-boat Institution.

The Lady Chapel at the east end of St. Saviour's Church, Southwark, was stated in our last Number to have been restored under the joint superintendence of Mr. Grelli and Mr. Cottingham. A trustworthy correspondent, however, informs us that Mr. Grelli alone made the design for the work, and alone superintended it, gratuitously.

The Globe states that such a project is on foot of coining, for colonial use, a British silver dollar, of the weight and value probably of four and a half English shillings.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

The freedom of the Worshipful Company of Fishmongers was presented to his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales on Thursday.

On Monday night, at Sadler's Wells Theatre, the dress of a ballet girl took fire almost the theatre lights, and the poor girl was much injured.

The annual election of the Printers' Pension Society will take place at the London Tavern on March 2, when eight out of a list of thirty-six claimants will be elected.

A voluntary examination in architecture has been established by the Royal Institute of British Architects. This examination is divided into two classes—viz., Preliminary and Distinction.

At a public meeting held at Poplar on Tuesday it was decided to raise a subscription for the purpose of erecting a suitable memorial to the late Mr. Richard Green.

The second conversazione of the season of the Society for the Encouragement of the Fine Arts was held on Wednesday at the galleries of the Society of British Artists. There was a brilliant assemblage.

A dinner was given on Wednesday at the Mansion House at which Ministers under-secretaries, the Speaker of Quebec, and Mr. Galt, the Commissioner from the Southern States of America, were present. The health of both the gentlemen was drunk.

A return to the House of Commons has been printed giving an account of the financial transactions of the Metropolitan Board of Works. The principal sums borrowed amounted to £2,000,000. The total amount of interest to be paid was £32,945. Of this principal, £420,000 had been repaid, and on March 25 £630,000 was outstanding.

A handsome and well-merited testimonial was presented to Mr. G. W. Martin at Exeter Hall on Thursday week, by the members and patrons of the National Choral Society, over whose concerts he so ably presided. The testimonial, which consisted of a well-executed bust of Mr. Martin, and a purse containing 100 guineas.

As Mr. F. W. Gingell, of East Ham, of the firm of Messrs. James Gingell and Sons, was sitting at dinner with the family on Tuesday week, he observed to his father, "I have a presentiment that I shall die suddenly." The words were scarcely uttered when he had dropped down a corpse. The post of Whitechapel have lost in Mr. Gingell a valued friend.

The Regent's canal left Paul's Wharf, Limehouse, took place on Tuesday night at Willis's Rooms. The stewards had limited the number of tickets to 460, in consequence of the size of the guests, and the arrangements showed that every attention had been paid to details. A choice repast had been provided, at which the commodore, Mr. A. Arcedeckne, presided.

A course of lectures on the Fine Arts, founded on the late International Exhibition considered in reference to its decorative art is about to be delivered in connection with the School of Art, South Kensington Museum, Bloomsbury. These lectures will take place at the Russell Library and Scientific Institute, Russell-square, Russell-square, on the evenings of Feb. 18 and 25, and March 4 and 11.

On Saturday last the extensive works in connection with carrying the Fleet sewer under the western core of the Great Western Railway at King's-cross, which is in the course of construction for the junction of the Great Northern railway with the Great Western railway, and the water let through. The water is carried through an iron channel, 40ft. in length, 6ft. wide, and 9ft. high, and the flow of the water is at the rate of 10 miles an hour.

The committee appointed by the Court of Common Council to arrange for the reception of the Prince of Wales and his bride in their progress through the City have been unremitting in their arrangements. It is now officially announced that the procession will pass from Temple Bar Arms, through Ilse Borough, over London Bridge, through King William-street, Fenchurch-street, Fleet-street and the Strand, and so on westward to the Paddington station.

The Hospital for Sick Children held its eleventh annual meeting on Monday at the hospital, Great Ormond-street—the Duke Norfolk in the chair. The report showed that the hospital was advancing in efficiency and public favour. The number of patients who were relieved in and out in 1861 to £4250 during the past year; but, at the same time, from the increase of patients and other additional expenses, the total expenditure had risen from £3938 to £4113 in the past year, so that it was necessary to appeal for further public aid.

The annual meeting of the members of the Young Men's Christian Association was held on Tuesday at Exeter Hall. The Earl of Shaftesbury presided. The report, read by Mr. Hill, the secretary, read an abstract of the report. During the year the association had made steady progress. They were encouraged with it might be regarded as commercial Christian missionaries; and some interesting facts showing the good they accomplished were given. The income for the year was £2,000, and the expenditure £2847. The meeting was addressed by the chairman and several other gentlemen, and the report was adopted.

At the annual general court of the Royal Free Hospital, Gray's-inn-road, on Thursday week—General Wade in the chair—the report of the committee was unanimously adopted. The committee have been assisted by all the old friends of the hospital; but owing to the expense incurred during the last half year, amounting to nearly £1000, in unliquidated. The special contributions received during the year had amounted to £1,000. There had been 29,568 patients relieved in 1862—11 operations, out-patients, 1,000. There had been 1,000 in-door cases of severe accident were admitted into the wards, of whom 23 died and 901 were discharged.

Last week the births of 2093 children—1055 boys and 1038 girls—were registered in London. In the corresponding weeks of the years 1852-62 the average number (corrected) was 2068.——By favour of a mild winter the mortality in the last week was considerably below the last two weeks. In the week that ended Jan. 3 the deaths were 1631; in that which ended last Saturday they were 1485. The average number of deaths in the weeks of ten years 1852-62 that correspond with last week is, with a correction for increasing population, 1,555. Of the 1485 deaths in last week registered 1 in ninety-five and ninety-six years. A boy, fourteen years of age, died of local paralysis from the continued effects of cold bath.

The annual winter treat to the parents of children who attend the ragged school in Fox-alley, Drury-lane, was given on Wednesday, by the committee, in the large room at the Crown and Anchor, A substantial dinner of roast beef and plum-pudding was placed before nearly three hundred parents and friends. The chairman, in a few appropriate observations to the improving effects produced upon the close for the children of the adult day and Sunday schools connected with the institution. The children of metropolitan police enlivened the entertainment with a selection of popular music. Judge Payne and Mr. Commissioner Kerr were present during the evening. Several other addresses were given and hymns sung during the evening.

The opening of the Charing-cross Railway, which is expected to be ready for traffic in the course of a few months, will render it necessary to construct a new station on the greater part of the South-Eastern Company's present offices at London Bridge terminus. It is understood the necessary junctions will be made with Kent, and Greenwich lines; in anticipation of which the central offices of the South-Eastern Company are about to be removed from the Charing-cross buildings in Cannon-street, City, which have recently been purchased by the Charing-cross Railway, and the purchase of which is now completed. It is expected that the works connected with that terminus—more particularly the City bridge—will be completed in the course of the present year, and that the Board of Trade having given their decision as to the proper design, under the provisions of the 25th and 26th Act of last Session.

LAW AND POLICE.—A singular case, in which a Mr. Clare, of Liverpool, claimed half a million from the Government as the inventor of the steam-ram which, during the late American civil war was constructed, has been brought to a close in the Court of Queen's Bench, after a trial which extended over several days. The jury found a verdict for the defendant.

The trial of George Buxton and James Bestire for defrauding the Universal Benefit Assurance Company was concluded at the Central Criminal Court yesterday week. A verdict of "Not guilty" was returned in each case.

An action in the Exchequer Court, Dublin, in which Lord Cloncurry applied for damages against the Brighton Railway Company for injuries sustained on the Kingstown line, which was brought to a close on Saturday, when the jury awarded to the plaintiffs the sum they asked for—£2000 for the husband and £500 for his wife. The case was tried at the Exchequer Court, where the plaintiff, Edward Purvis, obtained £600 against the company for damages sustained at the same time.

The Roman National Committee have issued a circular rejoicing in the approaching marriage of the Princess of the Carnival.

Princess Soltikoff, Lady of Honour to the Empress of Russia, has just died at a very advanced age.

The distribution of the medals awarded to the successful Austrian exhibitors in the London Universal Exhibition has just taken place at Vienna, in the great hall of the Academy of Sciences. Nearly all the members of the Cabinet were present, and the Minister of Commerce delivered an address, in which he stated that the number of Austrian exhibitors was 1410, of whom 492 obtained medals and 907 honourable mentions. He also observed that this result satisfactorily proved that Austria, though chiefly an agricultural country, had made considerable progress in the industrial arts, and he advised his countrymen to continue their efforts without relaxation, and to take "Onward still!" for their motto. The Minister was followed by expressing thanks to the English Government for having afforded Austria the opportunity of displaying her capabilities to the world, and announced that the Emperor intended to confer special distinctions on the principal Austrian exhibitors.

ST. VALENTINE'S DAY.—DRAWN BY A. HUNT.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

MARCHING OFF POLISH PATRIOTS TO SIBERIA.

OUR Engraving is from a photograph of an admirable and a touching picture presented to Mr. Denman, M.P., under circumstances explained in the following correspondence :—

PRINCE CZARTORYSKI TO MR. DENMAN.

"Paris, Jan. 10, 1863.

"My dear Mr. Denman,—The report of your masterly speech and motion in the House of Commons, on the 4th of April last, has awakened all over Poland a deep sense of gratitude. No one inquired whether or not measures would immediately follow the generous expression of feelings aroused in Great Britain by that eloquent exposure of our violated rights and of the sufferings we endure. You had done what was essential and all that laid in your power by exposing once more, before a great and powerful Government and country, the flagrant disregard in Poland of all laws, human and Divine; and you had thus strengthened the confidence of all good men in the ultimate triumph of what is just, both in the eyes of God and man.

"It will, consequently, not surprise you to learn that a general wish was felt throughout my country to forward to you some token of acknowledgment for what was universally felt to be an important service rendered to her in her state of resistance to foreign and barbarous domination. A popular artist was invited to paint for you one of the daily scenes of which Poland is the theatre—the marching off to Siberia of a party of young men whose only crime was the love of their country.

"This I am now requested to send to you. However painful the subject, I trust it will help to confirm and still more arouse the sentiments so eloquently expressed by you last year. May you soon enjoy the fruits of your exertions for justice and right! May Providence allow us to send you from our liberated country further proofs of our gratitude; and, above all, may we justify by a wise self-government your efforts for the restoration and independence of our country!—I am, dear Mr. Denman, yours most truly,

"L. CZARTORYSKI."

MR. DENMAN TO PRINCE CZARTORYSKI.

"1, Tanfield-court, Temple, London, Jan. 27, 1863.

"My dear Prince Czartoryski,—I am quite unable to express the pride and satisfaction with which I read your letter of the 10th inst. My delay in answering it will have been explained to you by Major Szulcewski.

"The wrongs and the claims of Poland deserved a far more powerful exposition than that for which you and your noble-hearted countrymen so cordially thank me; but I accept your thanks, together with the beautiful and touching testimonial which accompanies it, as proof that you appreciate the desire to serve the cause of liberty and justice which alone led me to undertake a task beyond my powers.

"I am convinced that any success which attended the effort was due to the strength of the cause of Poland rather than to the efficiency of her advocate.

"Most heartily do I join in your hope that we may all speedily see and enjoy the triumph of justice and right.

"It ought to be impossible that the present reign of cruelty and terror should endure much longer in the sight of Europe, in days like these.

"Begging you to convey my warm thanks to those who have so honoured me, I am, with every feeling of esteem, yours most faithfully.

"GEORGE DENMAN."

Such scenes as the one which forms the subject of this eminently Polish picture have been witnessed only too often in Warsaw, Wilna, and throughout Russian Poland, at various intervals during the last forty or fifty years. We publish in another column, under the head of "The Poles and their Persecutors," a page from the history of Russian persecution in Poland, of which the terrible effects are now being felt over the whole of that devoted country.

MARCHING OFF POLISH PATRIOTS TO SIBERIA.

ST. VALENTINE'S DAY.

WHAT a pleasant occupation it would be for a thoughtful and kindly observer of life if he could suddenly have unrecked for him on St. Valentine's Day a number of genuine English homes, and be as suddenly gifted with the faculty of understanding all that was there passing before him, not as it might be explained to him by mere faces and words, but by his own intuitive skill in reading hearts and minds! What a world of domestic comedy he would find it—full of pleasant mirth, genial satire, and here and there a passage of true pathos! The revelation would also have its farcical side, not necessarily confined to the loves and flirtations and jokes of "high life below stairs," or to the vulgarities of what we stigmatise as cockney life. So also would the scene have its tragic aspects, its timid attempts, its melancholy disappointments, its sad awakenings from long and deeply-cherished dreams, its mournful lifelong despairs.

But nothing of this gloomy character oppresses us in our present picture. Although one by one, in rapid succession, all the younger members of the family have stolen away from the breakfast-table on hearing the postman's knock, the father doesn't see why he shouldn't continue reading his paper; and the mother, who cares only for the politics of the hearth, still looks very comfortable about them, and ready to share in any reasonable amount of enjoyment of the expected fun. But she is probably not in the secret that makes the two young ladies press so closely upon the heels of the servant to see what is forthcoming. And that there is a secret we may be sure from the look of the elegant gentleman on the staircase, who is descending just in time to have ocular demonstration that his blow has taken full effect, and cannot subsequently be denied by the charming victim. Is he a brother, and has he fraudulently sent some very beautiful specimen of the latest invention in honour of the day, cut out in lace-paper, of the most exquisite form, properly perfumed, and adorned with a dried, natural flower, Love's oldest and most favoured of confessing tokens—has he sent this, with such a postmark upon it as will be sure to make the favoured lady attribute it to that brother's bashful and over-sensitive friend, who will not speak, but only looks and sighs, and will go on looking and sighing for many a long year if he doesn't get some encouragement from his lady love? Well, he is a lucky fellow to have such a friend at work for him. He will get what he needs now, if the signs in Love's firmament have not altogether been misread both by the lover and the friend. Or is that carefully got-up gentleman no brother after all, but a visitor in the house who is performing a little drama of his own invention, exclusively in his own interests, and with still more direct personal relation to one of the two young ladies? He looks as though he could readily come to the conclusion that both the sisters are secretly in love with him; what if, in that belief, he is now amusing himself by sending valentines to both, that he may have the felicity of continuing with new zest the pleasant double bit of flirtation he has begun? If so, we hope they will find him out and punish him, as he deserves, by a joint agreement never to "recognise" so untrustworthy a potentate. But we prefer to believe that he is a true lover after all, and, however devious his course may seem, is really winding his way direct to the lady of his heart.

But while this, the mainspring of the intrigue, occupies the chief personages, do they suppose that the good-looking servant is engrossed by their affairs, to the exclusion of her own? Not she; she is already getting her share of the overflowing bag, although she slily slips them aside, and seems only occupied in reckoning up the number of missives for her young mistresses.

And there is even yet below both these movements a third one going on, which to our eyes is by no means the least interesting. It is a custom in certain parts of England to provide on St. Valentine's Day for those who are not likely to be otherwise thought of—the children; and we see the mode in our Engraving. One of the conspirators, an elder child, gets a valentine or valentines ready, and slips them under the mat, and there finds them just at the very moment that the postman brings the long-looked-for sacred correspondence to the older members of the family; an extraordinary coincidence which duly impresses the juvenile imagination. And how the pretty little coquettish toddler, and her not much older brother, enjoy the discovery; how surprised they are at it; how they wonder what the magical letters will contain!

As to the footboy, with the marter's boots on his arm, he seems, with a precocious insight, to understand everything and everybody's position at a glance, and to express his entire satisfaction in a broad grin. Truly there will be matter for talk up stairs and down stairs through all this day, perhaps for many days to come, under the head of this whimsical hap for more serious results ere long, under the head of a marriage, but genial and useful and altogether immortal personage, holy St. Valentine.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING FEB. 21.

SUNDAY, Feb. 15.—Quinquagesima Sunday. Galileo born, 1564. Peace of Hubertsburg; end of the Seven Years' War, 1763.

MONDAY, 16.—Birth of Philip Melanchthon, the great German Reformer, 1497.

TUESDAY, 17.—Shrove Tuesday: the Roman Catholic "Carnivale" (Farewell to flesh). Second Battle of St. Albans (on Shrove Tuesday). Queen Margaret and the great Earl of Warwick totally defeat the Yorkists, 1461. Battle of Monmouth: Sir Charles Napier defeats the Beloochees, Ameers, Russians, under Lipranid, severely defeated in an attack on Hopetoun, 1858.

WEDNESDAY, 18.—Ash Wednesday. Death of Martin Luther, 1546. New Moon, 6h. 4m. morning.

THURSDAY, 19.—Nicholas Copernicus born, 1473. Admiral Duckworth forces the Dardanelles, 1807. Explosion at Lanchill Colliery (above 150 miners perished), 1857.

FRIDAY, 20.—King James I. of Scotland murdered at Perth, 1437. Blake defeats the Dutch fleet, after four days' severe encounter, 1653. The Tycho-Brahe Comet first observed by the Persians at Maragha, 1810.

SATURDAY, 21.—Battle of Gourgaret: Lord Gough defeats the Sikhs, 1849. Sir James Outram defeats 20,000 Persians, at the Ahwaz, near Lassiree, 1857. Corinth nearly destroyed by an earthquake, 1858.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON-BRIDGE,

FOR THE WEEK ENDING FEBRUARY 21, 1863.

Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.
5m 5h	5m 6h	5m 7h	5m 8h	5m 9h	5m 10h	5m 11h
37 0	11 0	47 1	23 1	59 2	35 3	11 4

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE OBSERVATORY OF THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W.; Height above Sea, 24 feet.

DAY	DAILY MEANS OF				THERMOMETERS.			WIND.		RAIN in 24 hours.
	Barometer corrected	Dew Point	Relative Humidity	Cloud.	Minimum in Night	Maximum in Day	Ground	Direction	Interval	Sand
	Inches			0–10						Inches
1	29·747	43·2	86·0	9	32·8	49·5	S.W.	SW. SW. WSW	412	0·17
2	30·260	40·8	82·5	7	40·6	49·6	WSW.	WSW. W.	313	0·17
3	30·220	42·2	87·5	7	43·7	51·3	WSW.	WSW. W.	313	0·00
4	30·177	48·2	94·0	10	45·0	53·0	WSW.	WSW.	213	0·00
5	30·186	47·0	94·0	10	43·0	52·0	W.	W.	213	0·05
6	30·186	39·5	80·4	7·5	33·2	52·5		W. SW.	113	0·00
7	30·186	39·5	80·4	7·5	33·2	52·5		W. SW.	113	0·00
Means or Totals	30·150	42·8	86·4	8·0	38·9	51·4				0·39

The following are the readings of the Meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at half-past nine a.m.:—

Barometer in Inches	30·000	30·000	30·000	30·000	30·000	30·000	30·000
Temperature of Air	43·0°	42·0°	45·0°	46·0°	42·0°	41·0°	41·0°
Temperature of Evaporation	...	39·5°	42·0°	41·5°	41·0°	39·5°	39·0°
Direction of Wind	...	S.W.	W.	S.W.	W.	S.W.	W.

ROYAL ENGLISH OPERA, COVENT-GARDEN.—Under the Management of MR. AUGUSTUS HARRIS.—On MONDAY, Feb. 16, and during the Week, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, Balfe's Grand Opera, THE ARMOURER OF NANTES. On Wednesday, Feb. 18, Balfe's Opera, THE ROSE OF CASTILLE. On Friday, Feb. 20, A Cox and Box, and the Ballet Divertissement of LA FILLE DU DANUBE. On Monday, Feb. 23, and during the Week, Auber's Grand Opera, THE CRUSADERS. On Saturday, Feb. 28, the Grand Procession, BEAUTY AND THE BEAST, concluding with the Transformation Scene, &c. Wednesday (being Ash Wednesday) there will be no performance. Commences at Seven.

THEATRE ROYAL, DRURY LANE.—Lessee, Mr. E. T. FALCONER. On MONDAY and During the Week (Wednesday excepted), the admired Drama of DON CESAR DE BAZAN; characters by Messrs. Henry Loraine, Ryder, Ashley, Mrs. Stirling, and Miss Fanny Huddart. After which, the Grand Pictorial Ballet entitled, for Special Engagement, LA VIVANDIERE; or, THE FIELD OF HONOUR. On Ash Wednesday, Feb. 18, Mr Howard Glover will have the honour of being a Grand Evening Concert, in which the principal vocalists of the day will sing, and his own instrumental will appear.

Lord Burleigh, Mr. Brother Sam's letter secured every night. Mr. Compton, Mr. Paul Bedford, Mr. Wigan, Mr. Danvers, Mr. Rogers, Mr. Wilkins, Mr. Horncastle, and Miss Wyndham. Concluding with the Grand Pantomime, every night, by Messrs. Conquest and Paul Herring. After which, the grand equestrian and Jubilation Extravaganza of HAPPY-LEG; with Mdlle. Adeline, Mr. Frank Evans, Mr. Harry Evans, Mr. Conquest, and Mr. Paul Herring.

THEATRE ROYAL, LYCEUM, OPEN.—MONDAY, and Every Evening during the Week, A SUDDEN ATTACK.—Messrs. Stoyle, Gordon, Wilkinson, Lyon, Webb, and Mrs. Lee. After which, at Seven o'clock, the Grand Romantic Drama, in Three Acts and Prologue, entitled THE DUKE'S MOTTO, by Paul Feval and John Brougham. The original production will be sustained by Miss Kate Saville, supported by Messrs. G. Vining, J. Investigon, H. Widdicomb, G. Jordan, E. Charles, Gordon Thompson, Miss Lydia Foote, Miss Fanny Wells, and Miss Ada Dyas. After which, the Ethiopian Serenade, Negro Sports and Ball-playing, performed by the Christmas serenaders. Mr. Planjo and Mr. Walter Montgomery are engaged, and will shortly appear.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, ADELPHI.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. B. WEBSTER.—On MONDAY and during the Week (Wednesday excepted), A GREY MARE.—Mrs Marie Wilton. A VALENTINE.—Messrs. J. L. Toole and F. Pedley. A GOOD HUSBAND. Commences at 7. A Favorite Night on Saturday, commencing with the Pantomime, at 6½.

THEATRE ROYAL, ST. JAMES'S.—MONDAY, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, THE DARK CLOUD.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kean, Mr. Herbert and Corbett. After which, THE MERRY WIDOW.—Misses Keating, Fraser, Mr. Compton, and Mr. Rogers. On Wednesday, THE DARK CLOUD. On Friday, LADY AUDLEY'S SECRET.

ROYAL SURREY THEATRE.—Sole Lessee, MR. SHEPHERD. On MONDAY and every Evening during the Week, the great Drama, entitled THE WORLD AND THE STAGE; or, LEONORA DORAN. With the original Prologue and Epilogue. In addition to which Mr. Gorlizia (the great Scotch Comedian), Miss Margt. Sharrow, and Miss Minnie Bourne will appear in their Specialities. Concluding every Evening with the Pantomime, HARLEQUIN MOTHER GOOSE. The Theatre will be closed on Ash Wednesday.

MONDAY POPULAR CONCERTS.—ST. JAMES'S HALL.—On MONDAY EVENING NEXT, Feb. 16, the Programme will include the admirably executed SEPTET in D MINOR, for pianoforte, wind and stringed instruments (Weber); the QUARTET in C MINOR, No. 1, for stringed instruments (Mozart); and the QUARTET in MI. FOUR, for the same (Haydn). Mr. Charles Hallé, Pianoforte; Herr Joachim, Violin; Mr. Miller, Violin; Mr. Webb, Violoncello; Mr. Hermann Franks, Double Bass; and Signor Piatti, Violoncello. Conductor, Mr. Benedict. Admission, 1s., 2s., 3s., and 5s. Door Book-stand; and Austin, 28, Piccadilly.

MR. HOWARD GLOVER respectfully announces that he will give a GRAND CONCERT at DRURY LANE THEATRE on ASH WEDNESDAY, Feb. 18, Shakspeare's "Sedes Mundi" Overture, Mendelssohn's Magnificat, Mozart's "Credit's-Benson Trio for Two Violoncellos and Double Bass. Rather important vocal works will be performed by Mesdames Clara Novello and Sherrington, Messrs. Sims Reeves, Santley, Lewis Sante Bates, Miss Kate, Miss Lyall, Miss Lemaire, Miss Lefler, Mr. Miss Pyne, Mr. Weiss, Mr. Lawler, Mr. Lawler, Mr. Lawler

OUR CONTINENTAL SUBSCRIBERS.—Mr. Ludwig Denicke Leipsic, our special agent.—Terms of Subscription at Leipsic—including four Double Numbers and the Christmas Number—One Year, 8 Thalers 20 Sgr.; Half-year, 4 Thalers 10 Sgr.; per Quarter, 2 Thalers 5 Sgr.

TWO LARGE ENGRAVINGS
PRINTED IN COLOURS,
THE LOBBY TO THE HOUSE OF LORDS,
from a Drawing by R. DUDLEY; and a Domestic Subject, TOO HOT!
from a Painting by J. COLLINSON; will be issued with a DOUBLE NUMBER of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS on Saturday, the 28th inst., in addition to numerous Fine-Art and News Illustrations.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1863.

THAT both the day on which the Prince of Wales will escort his bride elect along the streets of London and the day on which he will invest her with the title of Princess of Wales will be marked by the most gratifying demonstrations that can be made by a free and happy people is certain.

> And the tribute most dear to a heart that is loyal
> Is love from a heart that lives liberty too.

The nation will at once show the honour in which it holds its Sovereign and her heir, and the affection in which it is prepared to hold the fair young Princess who comes to take up her life's lot among us. It is needless, indeed, to expend words upon the honesty and fervour of the display of feeling that will be made on the arrival-day and the wedding-day.

But it may not be superfluous to offer a hint or two upon some of the details of the two celebrations, the less so that at the present moment almost everybody who has pen and ink within reach is favouring the public, through the exceeding indulgence of the press, with every crude notion that occurs to him for heightening the effect of the rejoicings, more particularly, of course, those of the day which will be a national and not merely a metropolitan holiday. Those only who have occasion to look through a mass of the newspapers can form anything like an idea of the mushroom profusion of suggestions with which the columns of our contemporaries swarm. We do not mean to speak disrespectfully of any proof, however worthless, that the heart of the people is set upon making the 10th of March a day to be long kept in preternatural wildness of thoughtfulness on the part both of the authorities and of the advisers of the people. Of course, the first question that occurred to every one who is in the vicinities of the line of route in the Metropolis (and it was, what could be done by that body. A bold and original idea, to the effect that volunteers should line the whole road from the Brickayers'-Arms station to the Great Western Railway, was speedily disposed of. In the first place, the volunteers are not much entitled to a holiday as anybody else; and supposing that enough of them could be brought together to line, at any reasonable intervals, the long road in question, it would but be condemning the majority of them to a very dull business; and the plan was also open to the greater objection that such a line would be quite unable to keep the road clear, while the volunteers, who are not much liked by the more ruffianly portion of the lower orders, would almost certainly come into collision with the latter at some of the points where the mob must be greatest. Something, however, must be done by the authorities. In distant localities they will meet, march, and fire a feu de joie, but the crack London corps will, no doubt, be made a feature in the processionday, and will make a demonstration of their own on the 10th. But it is in reference to more extraordinary manifestations of loyalty that the imagination of the inventive has revelled. Some persons propose that huge bonfires shall be simultaneously kindled on every eminence in the islands, the signal to be flashed from London by electric wires, which are also to be laid on for the occasion to the points not already supplied with such conveniences. There are to be some bonfires, no doubt, but the proposed general conflagration seems not to have been taken up with much zeal. In order to encourage a certain trade while we are displaying our loyalty, it is proposed that everybody in the country shall, upon the wedding-day, adorn himself or herself with a rosette, so that we may look like one huge gathering of charity stewards. Neither the higher nor the lower classes will attend to this suggestion, but we should not wonder did it find acceptance with a class that always likes to be en evidence, and it may do some good. There are many reasons for throwing open, free, all the theatres. This has been tried before, but the effect is small. Nor, indeed, can be no real throwing open of places luxuriously furnished for the accommodation of the wealthy orders; for no money would pay a manager for letting St. Giles's into stalls and private boxes, and, if there is to be a distribution of tickets, the affair becomes exclusive, and a job, while the roughs would have it all their own way in pits and galleries. A similar proposal has been made in regard to the Crystal Palace; but, as this can be reached only by rail, and the railway is closed unless the work of a great holiday, there would be a responsibility which we should be sorry to incur in increasing the attraction by abolishing the shilling. There is more sense in the suggestion to have as many bands of music as possible playing in the parks and elsewhere, as anything that can help to break the crowds is desirable. We presume that there will be fireworks somewhere, and, if so, we hope that the precedent set at the time of the last peace rejoicings will be followed, and even improved upon, and that, instead of concentrating the thousands upon one or two spots, we shall have displays at different points, so that not only will a terrible congregation be avoided, but people who will have been wearying themselves in the fatiguing fashion of enjoyment all day will not be forced to add the weariness of a long homeward walk. It is to be hoped, also, that the displays will take place as soon as dark comes on: we have the recollection of excited crowds waiting in grim displeasure upon the last occasion, to the great detriment of the comfort of the weaker portion of the throngs.

It must be remembered, and this is the point we are most anxious to impress upon the public mind, that London is not like Paris or any comparatively small capital. We are not a city, we are a province; and it is almost a question whether in a few years it will be at all safe to use our streets as places for our shows. There narrow channels, constructed with reference to the wants of a population that is exceeded in almost any single suburb of the present time, are not nearly sufficient for the every-day traffic that rushes and roars through them, far less for an assemblage which will comprise not only our own millions but those which will be poured in by the formerly unheard-of means of transport. In old days London kept her shows and pageants to herself, but now they are shows for York, Bristol, and Norwich as well; and she has neglected to provide accommodation for the guests she has invited. Every one sees the difficulty increases; it was great at the Coronation, greater at the Wellington Funeral, greater still at the Peace, and will be greatest of all upon an occasion in which neither the regrets for war losses nor the melancholy character of the spectacle will interfere, but when the loyalty of the country will give itself up to unqualified enthusiasm. We, therefore, respectfully call upon the authorities to do something. We want no dragooning, of course, or any needless interference with the freedom of action of the crowds; but there ought to be arrangements for preventing any intolerable pressure at certain points, there ought to be a system of barricades for the purpose of breaking any rush, and especially ought the entrances to side streets be kept clear, so that either rapid escape or easy departure may be secured. There ought to be no rush after the procession; this should be sternly prevented by the proposition of any force that may be needful; and, if there are fireworks, there ought to be large openings made in the Park railings, the absence of which provision caused fearful scenes at the peace rejoicings. Let us, for once, show a little power of organisation. Let us show that the authorities of the City and of London will have a great day on the entry of the Princess, but this cannot be avoided. Sensible people will pick their own pockets before leaving home, and those who omit this precaution will deserve to lose whatever may be made spoil of. But on the authorities will rest the onus of all to be on the alert. Families will desert their houses in order to see the show, and in numerous instances the confidence of those who believe that their domestics will obey injunctions to remain on guard will be shown to be misplaced. The police will be wanted in force to deal with the crowds, and everything will be favourable to the burglar. This is a consideration for the public—the authorities cannot do everything. We have made these remarks because we deem them useful, and because a certain amount of forethought may prevent hundreds, perhaps thousands, from having disagreeable recollections of what we trust will be two very bright days in the history of our royal family.

THE COURT.

The Queen arrived at Windsor Castle at a quarter-past six o'clock on Wednesday evening from Osborne. Her Majesty was accompanied by Their Royal Highnesses Prince and Princess Louis of Hesse, Princess Helena, Princess Louise, Princess Beatrice, and Prince Leopold. In attendance were the Countess of Ely, the Baroness von Schenck, the Baroness von Gramey, the Hon. Mrs. Bruce, Lieut.-Colonel the Hon. C. Grey, Colonel the Hon. Sir Charles Phipps; Lord Alfred Paget, Equerry in Waiting, and Major Teesdale.

His Royal Highness Prince Louis of Hesse arrived at the castle soon after six o'clock from a tour in the midland counties, and joined the Royal family.

The Queen received at an audience on Saturday last, at Osborne, the Lord Chamberlain, who presented the Address of the Lords in answer to her Majesty's Speech.

On Sunday last Prince Alfred and Princess Louis of Hesse, Prince Arthur, Prince Leopold, Princess Helena, and Princess Louise, and the Indian princes attended Divine service in the chapel Royal, at Osborne. The Rev. G. Prothero officiated.

On Monday Lord Derby, Comptroller of her Majesty's Household, arrived at Osborne, and had an audience of the Queen, to present an address from the House of Commons, in answer to her Majesty's Speech.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

The Prince of Wales visited Marlborough House on Saturday morning, and inspected the workmen employed by Messrs. Myers in the evening honoured the Olympic Theatre with his presence. The Prince attended Divine service in the Chapel Royal, St. James's, on Sunday morning. In the afternoon his Royal Highness walked in the Colonel's Walk, Kensington Gardens. On Monday the Prince again went to Marlborough House, and afterwards to the residence of Mr. Walter. In the afternoon the Prince, attended by Colonel the Hon. C. B. Grey, rode in Rotten Row, where he remained about three hours o'clock in the afternoon, from Buckingham Palace to the Waterloo entrance of the Great Western and South-Western Railway, and left for Osborne, Isle of Wight. On Wednesday the Prince arrived at Windsor Castle, and on Thursday his Royal Highness came to London and received at Fishmongers' Hall the freedom of the Metropolitan corporation.

The whole country seems to be in a state of pleasant excitement in view of the approaching marriage of the Prince. So far as we have been able to gather, the 10th of March will be observed as a general holiday, while in every city and town where it is possible to get up an effective display of loyalty the standing programme of congratulatory addresses, illuminations, processions, and feasting will be carried out.

THE LEVEE AND DRAWINGROOM.

Lord Chamberlain's Office, Feb. 4.

Notice is hereby given that his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales will, by command of the Queen, hold a Levée at St. James's Palace, on behalf of her Majesty, on Wednesday, the 25th inst., at two o'clock. It is the Queen's pleasure that presentations to his Royal Highness at this Levée shall be considered as equivalent to presentations to her Majesty.

Notice is also hereby given that her Royal Highness the Crown Princess of Prussia (Princess Royal of Great Britain and Ireland) will, by command of the Queen, hold a Drawingroom at St. James's Palace, on behalf of her Majesty, on Saturday, the 28th inst., at two o'clock. It is the Queen's pleasure that presentations to her Royal Highness at this Drawingroom shall be considered as equivalent to presentations to her Majesty.

Their Royal Highnesses the Duchess of Cambridge and Princess Mary, and the Duke and Duchess d'Aumale, honoured the performance at the Adelphi Theatre with their presence on Tuesday evening. Princess Mary attended the St. James's Theatre on Monday evening.

The Duke and Duchess of Wellington have returned to Apsley House from Strathfieldsaye.

The Duchess of St. Albans and Lady Diana Beauclerk and Viscount Falkland will return to town on the 27th inst. from Penrhos.

Earl Russell has issued cards for a diplomatic dinner this evening (Saturday), at his residence in Chesham-place.

The Earl of Dalhousie and Lady Christian Maule have arrived at Claridge's Hotel from Brechin Castle, N.B.

The Lord Chancellor received a distinguished party at dinner, at his residence in Hyde Park-gardens, on Saturday last.

Lord Hatherton has been confined to his residence at Teddesley Park for some time past by serious indisposition.

The Right Hon. B. Disraeli gave a Parliamentary dinner on Wednesday at his residence, Grosvenor-gate.

The Duke of Rutland had a heavy fall last Saturday while hunting near Grantham. His Grace was insensible for some time.

THE MARRIAGE OF THE PRINCE OF WALES.

TREATY BETWEEN QUEEN VICTORIA AND THE KING OF DENMARK.

THE following Treaty between her Majesty and the King of Denmark for the marriage of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales with her Royal Highness Princess Alexandra, daughter of Prince Christian of Denmark (signed at Copenhagen, Jan. 15, 1863, ratifications exchanged at Copenhagen, Feb. 4), 1863 has been presented to both Houses of Parliament by command of her Majesty:—

In the name of the Holy and Undivided Trinity.

Be it known unto all men by these presents that whereas her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, on the one part, and his Majesty the King of Denmark, on the other part, being already connected by ties of friendship, have judged it proper that an alliance should be contracted between their respective Royal houses by a marriage, agreed to on both sides, between his Royal Highness Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, Duke of Saxony, Prince of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, &c., eldest son of her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and the Royal Highness the Princess Consort, Princess Albert of Saxe Coburg and Gotha, and her Royal Highness Princess Alexandra Caroline Marie Charlotte Louisa Julia, eldest daughter of his Royal Highness Prince Christian of Denmark, and the Princess Consort, Princess Louise Caroline Juliana, of Hesse-Cassel, and sister to the Princess of Wales, and her descendants, their Majesties the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and the King of Denmark, have appointed as their Plenipotentiaries for the purpose of this Royal Alliance, that is to say:—

Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Augustus Berkeley Paget, Esq., her Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to his Majesty the King of Denmark.

And his Majesty the King of Denmark his Excellency Carl Christian Hall, his Majesty's Privy Councillor of Conferences, President of the Council and Minister for Foreign Affairs, Grand Cross of the Order of Dannebrog, decorated with the Cross of the Order of Danebrog, Royal Swedish Order of the Star of the North, of the Royal Norwegian Order of St. Olaf, of the Royal Italian Order of Saints Maurice and Lazarus, of the Royal Order of Charles III., of the Persian Order of the Sun and Lion, of the Royal Hanoverian Guelphic Order, and of the Tunisian Order of Nichan Iftikar;

Who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following Articles:—

Article I. It is considered and agreed that the marriage between his Royal Highness Albert Edward Prince of Wales, Duke of Saxony, Prince of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, &c., &c., eldest son of her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and her Royal Highness Princess Alexandra Consort, Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, and her Royal Highness Princess Alexandra Caroline Marie Charlotte Louisa Julia, eldest daughter of his Royal Highness Prince Christian of Denmark, shall be solemnised in person, in that part of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland called Great Britain, according to the due honor of the laws of England and the rites and ceremonies of the Church of England, at such time as the same may conveniently be done.

Art. II. Her Britannic Majesty engages that his Royal Highness Prince Edward Prince of Wales Duke of Saxony, Prince of Saxe Coburg and Gotha, &c. &c. &c. shall secure to her Royal Highness Princess Alexandra Caroline Maria Charlotte Louisa Julia, act of any revenues belonging to his Royal Highness or granted to them by Parliament, a yearly sum of the annual sum of ten thousand pounds, to be paid half-yearly to her Royal Highness for her sole and separate use, and without power of anticipation, during the period of their Royal Highnesses' marriage.

Art. III. Her Britannic Majesty engages to recommend to her Parliament that her Majesty shall be enabled to secure to her Royal Highness Princess Alexandra Caroline Maria Charlotte Louisa Julia, in case her Royal Highness should have the misfortune to become the widow of his Royal Highness Prince of Wales, the annuity or pension or payment of thirty thousand pounds sterling money of great Britain, in lieu of dower; she said sum being to be paid to her, to be payable quarterly, during her said Royal Highness or to her assigns.

Art. IV. The present treaty shall be ratified by her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and by his Majesty the King of Denmark, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Copenhagen as soon as possible.

In witness whereof the respective Plenipotentiaries have signed the same, and have affixed thereto the seals of their arms.

Done at Copenhagen, the fifteenth day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three.

A. B. PAGET.
C. C. HALL.

THE DISTRESS IN THE NORTH.

At the weekly meeting of the Central Relief Committee, on Monday, Mr. Cornish reported a further diminution in the pauperism of the Lancashire manufacturing districts. The Commissioner, however, directed attention to the question of competent judges of the state of the operatives, and to the boards employed during the present year, and urged the importance of looking out for new systems of labour for the thousands whose progress was at present at a stand. It stated that the President of the Poor-law Board will be prepared to furnish a tabular statement, showing the average weekly wages of agricultural labourers, mechanics, and artisans in each of the counties of England, so that the operatives and the Committee may the more readily estimate whose expenditure for the last quarter has not reached or exceeded the statutory misexpenditure for the last quarter has not reached or exceeded the statutory misexpenditure in the pound. Manchester, Salford, and Ashton-under-Lyne made a grant of £100 to Ashton-under-Lyne, out of whose proportionate sum they are among the unions exempted from contribution.

The London committee held their weekly meeting at the Mansion House yesterday week. A deputation from the general committee of Ashton-under-Lyne waited on the Lord Mayor and Committee, and a statement was made which had appeared in Mr. Farnall's last report, in which that gentleman had stated that the average wages earned by the operatives in Ashton-under-Lyne was equal to, and in some cases over, the actual loss of wages. The deputation explained to the committee that Mr. Farnall had been misled by the Ashton guardians, whereas their returns included a population of 31,000 more than Mr. Farnall's, and the average loss of wages actually sustained was £1 weekly instead of £0.90, as that gentleman had stated, which would make the amount of relief considerably less than the loss of wages. The deputation concluded by asking that Ashton-under-Lyne upon those representations. Several other grants were made, including £500 to Salford. £1,315. 7s. 6d. was received up to Saturday night was £637,425, of which £307,000 has been remitted to the distressed districts, exclusive of the grants made to Manchester. The total sum which came to hand during the past week was from abroad £4662; home, £2323. Among the foreign sums £1,000 received from the Emperor of the French, making the total £1,000 from France.

The George Griewold arrived in the Mersey on Monday from New York, with contributions and other supplies for the operatives of the cotton-manufacturing districts. On the ship passed up the Mersey was received by a salute from the North Fort. Her cowing was cordially greeted also by a large concourse of persons. It is proposed to present addresses to the captain, and to acknowledge in other ways the gift of our kinsmen on the other side of the Atlantic.

The most remarkable season at Brighton will close with a military and fancy dress ball, on the 16th, in aid of the Lancashire Relief Fund and local charities.

Mr. Villiers proposes to bring in a bill on an early day "to extend the Act of last Session for the relief of the distress in the cotton-manufacturing districts of Lancashire and Cheshire."

As a dinner which recently took place in Smyrna one of the speakers said that the exportation of cotton from that port, which had been 15,000 bales in previous years, was 60,000 bales this year. According to a statement in the Smyrna Mail large plots of land in the interior are being laid out for cotton cultivation, the area being in some places ten times greater than formerly.

PRINCE ISMAIL PACHA RECEIVING THE CONSULS-GENERAL ON THE OCCASION OF HIS ACCESSION TO THE PACHALIC OF EGYPT

THE REJOICINGS IN CAIRO AT THE ACCESSION OF ISMAEL PACHA TO THE VICEREGAL THRONE OF EGYPT.

THE thunder of cannon from the batteries at the citadel on the morning of the 18th ult. announced to the startled inhabitants of Cairo the accession to the Viceregal throne of his Highness Prince Ismael Pacha, son of the celebrated warrior, Ibrahim, conqueror of Syria and Arabia. This auspicious event had been anticipated by many who were acquainted with the serious nature of the illness of the late Viceroy, Mohamed Said Pacha, which assumed a dangerous form soon after his return to Egypt, and under which he gradually sunk, expiring on the night of the 17th ult., at one of the private palaces near Alexandria.

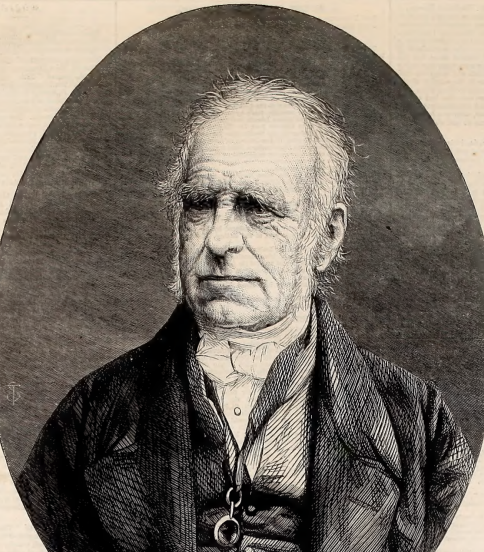
As soon as the news was received officially at Cairo the people assembled in vast numbers about the streets leading to the citadel and the palace of the new Viceroy to greet his appearance.

The Viceroy made his formal entry into the citadel at about noon on Sunday, the 18th, amidst the roar of cannon and the acclamations of thousands of the people, who had met on this momentous occasion to do him honour and testify their joy. For that day and the following the palace was thrown open to permit the people to pay their respects to his Highness. Multitudes of people of all ages and of all ranks, without distinction, passed before the Viceroy in continuous streams.

For three days and nights public business was suspended, prisoners of a certain class were liberated, and all kinds of labour postponed or stopped. At night the streets and bazaars were brilliantly illuminated, and all Cairo was merrymaking.

On Tuesday, the 20th, the diplomatic representatives of all nations attended at the citadel to pay their respects to his Highness, by whom they were most graciously received. A complimentary address having been delivered by a member of the Consular body, the Viceroy replied in an able speech, thanking them for their good wishes, expressing his desire to be on the most friendly terms with every nation, and, moreover, graciously intimated that he was fully alive to the importance of developing the natural resources of the country by promoting agriculture, the great element of its wealth; by extending the area of cultivated land and improving the position of the cultivator; and that his attention would be directed particularly to those matters which would conduce to the welfare and prosperity of his subjects and the country at large. [We give on page 172 an Engraving of the reception of the Diplomatic Corps by the new Viceroy, from a sketch by Mr. Frederick George, of Cairo.]

Prince Ismael Pacha has long since devoted himself to the improvement of the old system of agriculture, and has had in view the importance of applying steam wherever it could be made available. His Highness's sugar factory at Rhodah, in the upper country, is the finest in Egypt. Horticulture, in which he displays an elevated and refined taste, has received much attention; and the gardens attached to his private palaces, abounding with the choicest and rarest plants, have no equal.



THE LATE MARQUIS OF LANSDOWNE.—SEE "OBITUARY," PAGE 182.

The Prince's well-known aptitude for business and liberality of character peculiarly fit him for the exalted position he has been called upon to fill, and will, no doubt, lead to the happiest results. It may be confidently said that a new era has dawned upon Egypt.

THE SUEZ CANAL.

WORKS AT EL-GIRSH.

THE Illustration at page 176 of the works at El-Girsh will convey a notion of the nature of some of the difficulties the company have to contend with in cutting the maritime canal. The excavation at this spot is a heavy piece of work, and is evidently intended as experimental. It is cut in the western side of the "Rigole de Service" to the depth of the proposed grand canal, which is to be 100ft. wide on the waterline. Our Artist (Mr. Frederick George, of Cairo) has introduced in the Illustration one of the machines employed by the company for clearing the cuttings of sand, where the depth is too great for workmen to carry it away. The arrangement is simple and ingenious. A wooden platform is erected on the side of the cutting, upon which are laid two sets of rails, one on the top and the other on the under timber. Many hundred pairs of wheels, attached to two endless chains, run upon these rails. Each wheel-yard carries a canvas sack, which can be filled while in transit from any portion of the platform: as the bags reach the top they pass over a cylinder and are emptied, returning on the under set of rails. The whole is put in motion by a small portable engine of six or eight horse power. The saving of time and labour by this simple method must be immense.

The plateau of Girsh is about three miles in length, and in some parts has been excavated to the depth of 100ft. to get the proper water-level. These light sandstone through which the cutting is made has to be mined; as, although it crumbles to the touch, it cannot be worked with such implements as the Egyptian fellahs are accustomed to use.

Putting aside the sweet-water canal, which, as far as it goes, is a decided success, and looking at what the company has already done—upon the grand canal, or rather the little "Rigole," from Timsah to the Mediterranean—one cannot but admit that they have lost no time, and that the men who have so long devoted their best energies, talents, and ability to the accomplishment of this gigantic enterprise will deserve success. The non-professional person is astonished, looking at the works as they are. But when he is told that they are not a tithe of what is to be done he is overwhelmed with the thought. Not a stone has been turned on the Suez side of the Isthmus between Timsah and the Red Sea, which consists of long-sweeping plains, occasionally crossed by immense boulders of stone, with here and there a plateau; as, for example, that of Serapium, nearly seven miles in extent, and in many places upwards of 100ft. above the water-level.

There can be no question that the Rigole, small as it is—22ft. wide and 4ft. deep—from Fort Said to Timsah, will be very useful for the further development of the works, facilitating the carriage of stores and material. The sweet-water canal, if carried to Suez, will be of another question.

incalculable importance to that place; but who is to pay for it is

TOOSOOMVILLE, NEAR TIMSAH.

Our Number for the 31st of January last contained an account of a trip, accompanied by Views, taken by Mr. Frederick George, of Cairo, by the fresh-water canal to Timsah, whence he was about to proceed on dromedary-back to Suez. On his way across the desert he put up for a night at one of the Suez Canal Company's stations, Toussonville (of which we give an Engraving), a neat little place, a few miles south of Timsah, built in anticipation of the works shortly to be commenced in the neighbourhood, and named after the son of the Viceroy of Egypt. Here he had companions who were most hospitably received by the engineer in charge of the station and supplied with every accommodation. Mr. Gutler, a gentleman in the employ of the company on a temporary mission, was good enough to show them over the line of the proposed canal, which will there take the bed of the ancient canal. They picked up some excellent petrifactions which abound in this neighbourhood; and Mr. Gutler, who was learned in these matters, showed them some fine collections he had obtained.

THE SUEZ CANAL WORKS: TOOSOOMVILLE, NEAR TIMSAH, ON THE ROAD TO SUEZ.

VIEW OF SUEZ.

Suez, situated at the head of the Red Sea, is, it is well known, connected by a railway of 80 miles with Cairo, and is the principal southern terminus of the maritime canal in progress to unite the Mediterranean and the Red Sea.

Mr. Alexander has forwarded to us a general view of Suez as it is at the present time, which we engrave. In the Engraving, to the left, is the most prominent object which Mr. Gutler saw in the distance (erected by the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company, under the agreement for the use of their establishment by the British Government. The anchorage for vessels of any size is at some distance from the town, and is reached by a channel. There are seldom less than eight or ten large steamers lying in the roads belonging to the different steam companies—viz., the Peninsular and Oriental Steam-ship Company, the Austrian Lloyd's Company, the French Imperial Messageries, and Medjidieh Steam Company, trading to the Arabian ports, and some small vessels. The accommodation for passengers and goods at Suez is a decent, and all provisions and water are brought to it from great distances. From its position as the key to the Red Sea and India, Suez has always been a place of extensive transit trade; and since the establishment of the overland route to India it has become the residence of many merchants and agents.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

[The following abstract of the doings in both Houses of Parliament on Friday, the 6th inst., appeared in our Town Edition last week.]

HOUSE OF LORDS.—FRIDAY, FEB. 6.

The Royal Assent was given by Commission to various Bills, on reply to Lord Lismore, and that the Government intended to bring in a bill which would substantially meet the views expressed by the Volunteer Commission. A brief conversation then took place upon the subject.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—FRIDAY, FEB. 6.

Mr. Dredge called the attention of the House, through Mr. Corbett, to the room of Captain Duntroy, resigned.

Sir J. Trelawny gave notice of his intention on an early day to move for leave to introduce a bill to permit affirmations instead of the ordinary oaths.

Colonel Dickson, on the part of Sir Hugh Rose, asked whether any fact was the subject of the refusal of the Indian authorities to present the memorial of certain British officers to Queen Victoria?

Sir H. Bruce asked the Secretary to the Admiralty if it was the intention of the Government to withdraw the Admiralty Surveyor from the Board of Trade generally, with a view to aid those whose means are not adequate for their object, and which is the cause of so much loss of life and property? Mr. Fortescue replied that it was not intended to make any addition to the vote except the ordinary one for the salary of the superintendent of the Dockyard.

Mr. Newdegate gave notice that on Tuesday next he intended to move for leave to bring in a bill to amend the Act relating to the Civil Service. In reply to Sir J. Trelawny obtained leave to introduce a bill to abolish church rates.

In reply to a question from Mr. Lindsay, Mr. Layard stated that copies of the correspondence between the Government and Mr. Christie, British Minister in Brazil, and that the letter addressed to the Brazilian Government was relating to the wreckage of the Prince of Wales, and the alleged ill-treatment of three officers of H.M.S. Forte by the Brazilian Navy, and the correspondence and wreckage of the Prince of Wales, and the alleged ill-treatment of three officers of H.M.S. Forte by the Brazilian Navy, and the correspondence relation and would shortly be laid upon the table. Mr. Layard also stated that the whole of the circumstances been referred to with the consent of the Governments, to the King of the Belgians, in whose sagacity and sense of justice they had every confidence.

Mr. F. Peel intimated that on Monday the Chancellor of the Exchequer would propose certain modifications in the Income-tax Bill.

Mr. Whalley obtained leave to introduce a bill for diminishing the expense attending the sale of advowsons by railways, and for amending the law relating to obtaining ample and trustworthy information thereon.

Colonel Dickson obtained leave to introduce a bill for the amendment of the law relating to drainage of land in Ireland.

Mr. M'Evoy obtained leave to introduce a bill to assimilate the law of Ireland as to salmon fisheries to that of England.

Mr. Hamilton, in moving the whole House, obtained leave to bring in a bill to render it unnecessary to make and subscribe certain declarations as a qualification for offices and employments.

Mr. Dillwyn obtained leave to bring in a bill to amend the law relating to the election of boroughs.

Mr. Hadfield obtained leave to introduce a bill to amend the law relating to future judgments, decrees, and recognizances.

THE QUEEN'S SPEECH.—THE ADDRESS.

Mr. Bailey brought up the report on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

On the question that it be agreed to,

Mr. Locke complained that the Government would do well to introduce a Reform Bill, and that the proper basis of all such measures was found. The ruling this last Session which gave parishes in the country power to borrow money without the consent of the ratepayers. He was not opposed to such an operation by the country, he believed was generally thought when the bill was proposed, but he thought that the Government had been in the wrong. It was the quotation of the poor rates only, however, that would work a second vote in the case of a borough. Some would be fully resistant to the present Session of Parliament.

The debate was adjourned for some time longer.

The report was ultimately read a second time.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—MONDAY.

The House sat for a short time.

Earl Granville, in reply to Lord Wrottesley, and the question as to charitable endowments, said that the considerations of the Government, but at present they did not think it advisable to take the powers from the Charity Commissioners and vest them in the Committee of Privy Council for Education.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY.

Lord Palmerston stated that the Government had agreed, on certain conditions, to purchase the Lansdowne collection of the contents of the Gallery Mall Steam-packet Company.

The debate was adjourned, in reply to a question, that the Duke of Devonshire had decidedly declined to become a candidate for the throne of Greece.

Lord Lismore moved for a Select Committee to inquire into the existence of corrupt practices at elections.

Sir Cornwall Lewis, in reply to Mr. Lindsay, said that the Duke of Devonshire had decidedly declined to become a candidate for the throne of Greece.

Lord Lismore moved for a Select Committee to inquire into the existence of corrupt practices at elections.

Sir Cornwall Lewis, in reply to a question, mob before he is suspended in the sight of the audience. The second act, too, presents a scene of bustle at Murchat's Cairn and St. Anthony's Chapel, where Jeannie Deans meets with peril in company with Geordie Robertson and the Murdochson gang. The scene itself is finely painted by Mr. Johnson. Much attention has, in fact, been shown throughout in the arrangement of the scenery, with excellent effect. The trial scene is set upon the stage exactly as it appears in Mr. R. B. Lauder's picture; but what may be called the literary result is not at all equal to the pictorial. It is comparatively inefective; in fact, a positive failure. But this is compensated for in the third act by a "romance of nature," painted by Mr. Brew, in which a cascade, with real water, falls among precipices, where Jeannie is attacked by the Murdochsons and delivered by Robertson. The fourth act opens with Jeanie's interview with the Duke of Argyll and also that with the Queen, both of which, in a literary point of view, are fairly conducted. To add to the presumed effect of the last scene, the gallows to which Effie is doomed is seen from a bad format at Carlsbrough Steeplechase has excited. From what we have said, it will be readily gathered that the merits of the piece are mainly of the melodramatic and scenic kind. The audience have employed the attention of its adapters, to the exclusion of other qualities which, though of a more elevated character, are of no dramatic value. The handling of it is Surrey audience. In all this Mr. Shepherd has doubtless shown his usual judgment in catering for the taste of the habitués of his theatre. Probably, by this performance will yield to the tendencies of the age, and regard the institution of which they are contributors more as an educational agency for the improvement of the popular mind than as merely a commercial speculation.

STRAND.—"The Knickleduster" is the name of a new farce by Mr. J. Crawford Wilson, in which Mr. Roberts supports the character of a timid Manchester gentleman, who arms himself against the murderous designs that only serve to wound his own person. He sits down on spikes and pricks his fingers with points, and attacks a former lover in his apartments at Highgate, who really proves to be an old quarters, as a burglar. Out of these practical matters the audience extracts considerable sport, and the farce was favourably received.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

THE Epsom handicaps have splendid acceptances—112 out of 153 for the Substitute, and 60 out of 91 for the Metropolitan. The Duke of Newcastle's name is conspicuous by its absence from the list of weights, though he has got through with 47 out of 74. Asteroid (5st. 5lb.), the great "handicap third" of the day, heads both the Epsom ones, as among the Newmarket ones; and Mr. Merry and William Day's lot for the first of the three there seems a disposition to fancy Classical, a neat little Rildaman colt, bred by Sir Tatton Sykes. However, there is no greater man of mystery than he of Woodyates, and few can "Catch him alive O!" The Corinthian Cup at the Market Harborough Steeplechase has not escaped the mistake which caused it to be reopened; and Bridegroom, Medora, Punarth, Xanthus, The Freshman, and Lord Lyon, have been entered for it, whereas its Great National barely musters half that number.

A Salopian half-sister to Daniel O'Rourke, and likewise more than a match for the latest arrivals; and St. Albans' subscription is full. John Day took the last three. Orlando is looking beautiful at 5st. 2lb. a year last year, and breeders never run to grass. The late Mr. Gratwicke's stud sale did not bring together nearly so large an attendance as was expected, although the lots were all good and beautiful as May. Lord Scarborough was in his carriage on Mr. Tattersall's left. Herse-Cassel (160gs.), Robert de Gorham (30gs.), and Orlando (100gs.) were the sires. Mr. Robert Vyner purchased for a horse in his twenty-fourth year, but his age completely frightened Mr. Merry and Lord H. Thynne was also to be averse. The eight mares, two of them not in foal, fetched as follows:—Allington (10gs.), Governess, own sister to Cotherstone (110gs.), Hermeth (65gs.), Hesse Homburg (250gs.), Maid of Kent (250gs.), Preceptress (160gs.), Side Saddle (17gs.), and The Squaw (35gs.), making an average of about 104gs. each. The contest for Governess was entirely between Mr. Upton and Mr. Blenkiron, the latter buying Governess, and keeping her for the last two hundreds with the precision of clockwork till the finish. She had a chestnut filly by Robert de Gorham at her foot, and will probably go to Stockwell. Mr. Naylor bought Preceptress and Hesse Homburg through an agent, and Mr. Harry Hill gave the last sum for Maid of Kent. The lobbings for Side Saddle and The Squaw were by the uncertainty as to whether she was in foal to Stockwell. The yearling colt by Robert de Gorham from Governess made 330 gs., and went into the string of stable (which numbers 40 occupants, 30 of them two-year-olds) for, it was generally believed, Lord Hastings. He is rather plain and large at present; but Mr. Lambert, to whom, if was said, of Lord Westmoreland, fought hard for him. The fourteen lots realized 2275 gs. A foreigner had offered 2800 gs., but 3000 gs. was the valuation.

The horses in training were given by Mr. Gratwicke to a friend, and will be sold at Tattersall's on March 2. We regret to hear that Mr. Wyatt has lost a valuable Stockwell yearling from Nutbourne's dam.

The blood of Judge and Bridegroom was in the ascendant at the Border Union meeting, which was held over the Netherby estate; and, at Lowther, it was Mr. Sowerby's day again with Goldsmith and Sea Flower. The afternoon of Tuesday next will once more witness a meeting on the same course, when Sea Flower, Goldsmith, and the King's-arms station, en route for Altcar, which begins on Wednesday and extends over five days. The Field states that Falstaff carried the battle for the South, and that Mr. Bland intends to run old Bella of the Village. Mr. Warwick judges on Tuesday at Holt, but so absorbing is the Lancashire Handicap, which he has to win by that there is no other English fixture set down for the week.

The Earl of Eglinton's annual hunting-party assembled this last week at a public dinner at Coldstream, in token of the splendid sport which he has shown for twenty seasons on both sides of the Tweed. His Grace the Duke of Buccleuch presided, and the company which assembled to honour to the great M. F. H.; and Mr. D. Robertson, M.P., of Lude-hirk, a late member for Berwickshire, and the first Master of the Duke over won the Derby, was in the chair. These sort of gatherings invariably call forth some very good speeches; but we have not room about these made on this occasion which we have never seen equalled. No health, not even the Earl of Wemyss's, was received with greater enthusiasm than Lord Palmerston's. The chairman spoke of his in 1816 recollections and tell how he had then hunted with his Lordship, and that "he never kept his place better or his head steadier." Mr. Gourlay Steele has been especially successful with the picture, and among the hounds in the foreground are the celebrated three couple which won the cup at Guisborough last August.

Melton has not been so full since the days of Sir Harry Goodricke, and 600 horses are nearly 200 horses. Mr. Merry purchased the celebrated entire horse "Come Away." The sport is first-rate, particularly with the Duke and Ridley. The Duke is recovering from his fall, and will be in the saddle again, we trust, in a few days. On Monday his hounds had the run of the season with a hedgerow fox.

READING STEEPLECHASES.—WEDNESDAY.

Sweepstakes of 5 sovs., Handicap, 1. Gameboy, 3.
Great Berkshire Steeplechase Cup, 100 sovs., Handicap. 1. Cockatoo, 3.
Selling Steeplechase.—Deceiver, 1. Orkonita, 2. The Tattler, 3.
Whitley Stakes.—Gradwell, 1. Oliver Twist, 2. Giantina, 3.

THURSDAY.

Selling Steeplechase.—Orkonita, 1. Long Odds, 2. Giantina, 3.
Innkeepers' Plate.—Giantina, 1. Fairplay, 2.
Sweepstakes.—Deceiver, 1. Fairplay, 2.
Berkshire Hunt Stakes.—Mousey, 1. Perfect Cure, 2.

SCARBOROUGH STEEPLECHASES.—WEDNESDAY.

Scarborough Open Steeplechase.—Red Robin, 1. Rodor Witch, 2. Cherry Bounce, 3.
Innkeepers' Plate.—Crookshank, 1. Ben Waller, 2. Cate, 3.
Yorkshire Hunters' Stakes.—Barsy, 1. Rook the Gardener, 2. Rodor Witch, 3.

The Morgenpost of Vienna states that a recent order of the day forbids military officers to wear double epaulettes. Those who are shortsighted are to wear ordinary spectacles. The new order of the day regulates the cut of whiskers.

MONETARY TRANSACTIONS OF THE WEEK.

(From our City Correspondent.)

CONSIDERABLE flutter has prevailed in the market for National Securities, and prices have had a decided tendency, although the stock of bullion both in the Bank of England and France is steadily increasing, and neither by the imports of the precious metals have continued on a fair average scale. The Bank return for the week ending Saturday from 3s. 6d. to 3s. 9d. per oz. The speculative class in the light of increased shipments of silver to the East, even though the Indian Council are likely to offer one million sterling in bills in each of the next two or three months.

There is at present a very easy money market, demand for money on commercial account, and, as the supply of capital afloat is very large, the rate of discount has ruled extremely low during the previous week. In the open market the best bills are now discounted as follows:—

Three days' bills ... ... 2½ per cent | four months' bills ... ... 3 to 3½ per cent.
Four days' bills ... ... 2½ per cent | Six months' bills ... ... 3½ to 3½ per cent.
Two months' bills ... ... 3 to 3½ per cent.

The value of money in the Stock Exchange ranges from 2½ to 3½ per cent. Continental exchanges are generally in favour of this country. The rate of value of money, and that the demand for accommodation has fallen off. The quotations in the leading foreign cities are as under:—

	Bank rate	Open market
Paris	3	2½
Hamburg	5	4½
Frankfort	4	3½

	Bank rate	Open mark.
Amsterdam	3	2½
Turin	6	5½
Madrid	6	5½
St. Petersburg	6	5½

Several other large transactions in gold have been effected at the Bank of England; but £40,000 has been withdrawn for shipment to Egypt. Notwithstanding the very extensive operations which have taken place in gold, both the latest accounts bring an advance in the premium to 9*d*. The exchange for banker's bills (three months' sight) on Paris is 25f. 30c. per £1 sterling. Rates are highly in favour of England.

The exports of bullion for the week ending Saturday amount to £449,330. Included in that amount is £55,720 in gold for Alexandria.

There is a very active demand for Mexican dollars, at 66*d*. Bar silver is heavy, at 61½*d*. per ounce standard.

Never a more plentiful supply of money than the amount of the current and deposit accounts of the Joint-stock banks in London, exclusive of the London and Westminster, the London and County, and the bank that fourteen years the increase has been £8,000,000.

The investments in Home and Indian Stocks on Thursday were pretty numerous, and the operations in them to a fair extent. Consols, for Money, realized 93½ ex., for Account, 93¾; Reduced and New Three per Cents, 93½; Three per Cents, 1884, 93½; Three per Cent Annuities, 93½; India Stock, 93½; Ditto Bonds, 1859, 94½; Ditto Debentures, 1859, 94½; Ditto Bonds, 1862, 94½; Ditto Five per Cents, 1863, 94½; Ditto Bonds, 1862, 94½; Ditto Five per Cents, 1863, 94½; Bank Stock, 214½; India to the engineer of the Ribble Navigation Company, and soon afterwards it was discovered that the north corner of the masonry was worked out, and the foundation laid bare down to the bottom, below the mounds, there being a large whole filled with water three feet below the foundation. The keepers will assist next day to work to get everything out of the building, except what was absolutely necessary to keep the lights burning. They worked until the rising night's tide surrounded them, and, from the fury of the gale, had little hope that the place would stand until morning, but the lights never burnt more brightly than they did during that evening. On Wednesday morning, the wind still blowing stiffly, they extinguished the lights for the last time, the tide during the night having made greater havoc in the foundation, and carrying away a part of the south corner. Later in the day they took out the glasses and all the remaining property—lenses, reflectors, furniture, and apparatus. By noon the waves had made a further breach into the south corner, which gave way, leaving an excavation like a manhole in the foundation, through which they were enabled to get out the oil from the cisterns in the ground floor. Wednesday night's tide worked further under the south front of the foundation, which gradually gave way, until Thursday at noon, when the building fell.

THE SUEZ CANAL WORKS: EXCAVATIONS AT EL-GIRSH.—SEE PAGE 173.

Lytham Lighthouse was 72 ft. high. It had two fixed lights, the top one being white and the bottom one red. It was built by the Ribble Navigation Company about fifteen years ago, and was then high and dry. The bank seen at the back of the lighthouse in the Engraving was then a long way in its front; but the sea has driven it back, and, consequently, the base of the lighthouse at high water was awash.

For the guidance of mariners we append the bearings of the missing light:—Nelson Buoy, N.W. by W. ½ W., 6¼ miles; N.W. lightship, Liverpool, N.W. ½ W., 10¾ miles; Great Ormshead, W. by S. ½ S., 38 miles; Point Lynas, W. ¼ N., 48 miles; Douglas Head, N.W. ¼ W., 53¼ miles; Mangbold Head, N.N.W. ¼ W. 55 miles; St. Bee's Head Lighthouse, N. ¼ E., 61 miles.

There has been a meeting of the managing committee of the board of directors of the Ribble Navigation Company to consider what steps should be taken with reference to the restoration of the light. The authorities at the Trinity House have been communicated with on the subject, and it is probable that they will arrange for the re-erection of the edifice, as the coast is one of the most dangerous in the kingdom, three of the most dreaded banks lying immediately in the neighbourhood.

LYTHAM LIGHTHOUSE, LANCASHIRE, DESTROYED BY THE RECENT HEAVY GALES.

THE FARM.

"No attendance and business imaginary" was the quaint account which a Scottish paper gave of a recent Dumfries corn-market; and the latter part of the description, comparatively speaking, applies to the Mark-time wheat operations during the past week. The autumn-sown wheat was seldom so backward, but it keeps a good colour; and turnips are "almost given away" in some districts. Fine malting barley commands a capital sale; and the opponents of the malt tax, if they think that the most veritable of "cannon-balls," Mr. Ball, has left the House) they can get hold of any M.P., are meditating another march on Downing-street, to demand relief from this highly popular and productive tax. It transpired during the recent discussion at the Farmers' Club that Berkshire, Sussex, Dorsetshire, and Suffolk are the only counties which have any chronic fervour on the point, and try to elevate the repeal into a battle-cry at the hustings, but that when a special meeting was held in the former, and its own sons were at seldom so backward, but it keeps a good colour; and turnips are "almost given away" in some districts. Fine malting barley commands a capital sale; and the opponents of the malt tax, if they think that the most veritable of "cannon-balls," Mr. Ball, has left the House) they can get hold of any M.P., are meditating another march on Downing-street, to demand relief from this highly popular and productive tax. It transpired during the recent discussion at the Farmers' Club that Berkshire, Sussex, Dorsetshire, and Suffolk are the only counties which have any chronic fervour on the point, and try to elevate the repeal into a battle-cry at the hustings, but that when a special meeting was held in the former, and its own sons were at the same time in the latter, the members of two adjacent counties were invited, those legislators, one and all, begged to be excused. It seems from Mr. Corbet's account that between £2000 and £3000 have been spent already in agitation, and that the only assets are "laughter," "more laughter," whenever Mr. Ball spoke on the subject. In fact, the advocates of the repeal tell their troubles in the most jolly, Mark Tapley style. Figures were adduced to the effect that in 1855, with a duty of 2os., three times the population were consuming scarcely a million bushels of malt more than their ancestors 105 years ago with the duty at 4s.

As regards the most important point of cattle-feeding, Mr. Dring was by no means in accord with Mr. Hudson on the relative value of malt and linseed cake, nor with Mr. Stead on the especial benefit of the repeal. Says Mr. Stead, we should fatten three beasts where we fatten two, and sheep in proportion; and, as the bestsellers "are uncommonly good trencherman, they would get their meat considerably cheaper." On this Mr. Dring observes that he finds that "the men who drink least ale eat most animal food, and were the best fellows, and therefore he did not see any use in reducing the price of beer." Mr. Punnett sighed for the days of yore, when men on his farm brewed their own ale in copper kettles, and now only sat under the hedge, victims to what was called "the withering effect of the malt tax," to drink cold coffee and tea. The argument of Mr. Dayman was to the effect that sobriety would be more fostered by cheap beer than by dear, because the former would be drunk at home and the latter is drunk at the alehouse—a process of reasoning which might hardly hold good in practice. The meeting were not with him when he stated his deliberate belief that there was never more drunkenness than there is at present in these "dear beer" days; and they might well not respond, as it was an unconscious homethrust into the great chink of their armour. In fact, talk to clergymen and laymen where you like in the country, and they will tell you with sorrow of this eternal thirst of the labourer for beer, and its consequences. Their experience does not make them favour any movement to make it cheaper. "Beer, beer, beer," wrote one of our leading agriculturists recently, in a curious crescendo type, "is the bane of our labourers;" and only in the last number of the Royal Agricultural Journal we find a strong protest against the lessons of the tap at many a home farm, and the system of the pence being paid in wages and half in beer. Before the Ides of March, however, the repealers who boldly write All or None on their banners will bear down on the Chancellor, and probably find that reduced tea and sugar duties, or an income tax twopence, or both, have put them before them.

It has recently been decided by the Court of Exchequer, on the construction of a covenant in farming lease, that an additional rent of £10 per ton should be payable if "hay, straw, or other dry fodder were sold and taken off from the farm"—and hay not fit for food had been taken off by the defendant—that such damaged hay was still within the meaning of the covenant, which implied that everything grown on the farm should remain and be used there.

The Wetherby herd has been unfortunate in its 1863 crop of Duchess calves. Duchess 76th and her bull-calf by Fourth Duke of Thorndale both died, and Duchess 77th and some of the other cracks cast theirs. The two heifer-calves Duchess 83th, a roan, by Seventh Duke of York from Duchess 80th (July 14), and Duchess 89th, a white, by the same bull from Duchess 78th (August 2), are schooling for Worcester, and so is Duchess 87th, a thick, plum-roan yearling by Grand Duke of Wetherby from Duchess 70th (the dam of 77th). There is one white bull-calf, Grand Duke of Normandy, by Seventh Duke of York from Duchess 82nd. Duchess 77th and the twins are all forward in calf to Duke of Geneva by Seventh Duke of York from Duchess 80th), who is at present located at Mr. Barber's; Grand Duke of Wetherby (own brother to the twins) is at Colonel Fitzgerald's; his son, Duke of Wharfedale, from Duchess 73rd, at Colonel Towneley's; Seventh Duke of York at Mr. Bowley's; and his son, Duke of Weatherby, from Duchess 77th, and Archduke 2nd, at home. A tempting American offer has been made for Second Duke of Wharfedale, by Seventh Duke of York from Duchess 73rd. Lady Pigot's Second Duchess of Glo'ster and Frida of Southwicke are both at Wetherby, the latter a rare "ill-pull," and yet keeping herself together in a way which, for the fourth year in succession, may earn her Ladyship's nomination a place in the cow class at "The Royal." The Branches herd has had three accessions viz., "Victoria Rubra," a red heifer by Mr. Carr's Don Windsor, from Victoria of the Booth Manfelina blood; and two white British Prince bull strong Hopewell and Rosey, the dam of Rosebud.

Captain Spencer announces for sale one of the earliest calves of his herd No. 2, a roan bull, by Elfin Knight from Caledonia, and Mr. Raymond Brucre also offers some of the sons of Booth's Prince George, who is still in residence at the farm near Middleham.

Mr. Knowle's herd, principally of Wetherby blood, will be the subject of the first shorthorn sale on the English side of the water, and comes off on Feb. 26 at Holme Scales, near Beverley. The average at the late Mr. Coppinger's across the Channel was not a very large one—only £34 for twenty-six. Bachelor made £189, and his son Zemindar £95. The signs of the great shows are not a little hopeful. Since Jan. 1 about 150 new members have joined the Northamptonshire Society under the new summer regime. The Bath and West of England hold theirs at Exeter on June 8-12, and "a special" one for blood and cart sires, with £105 as prizes, at the same city on March 23, as a sort of avant courier. The celebrated Hereford prize bull Claret is advertised for hire; and from Devonshire we hear that Mr. James Davy has no less than sixty things in his herd by his late gold-medal bull Duke of Fitton, and expects twenty-five more. One of the yearlings has been aptly termed "Gold Medal King," being the produce of Mr. Davy's two Batterseas gold medalists.

Seventy-five new members were elected at the last monthly meeting of the Royal Agricultural Council; but, as yet, they hardly drop in so rapidly from the Hereford and Worcester districts as we had expected. "Economy of Labourers' Dwellings," "Influence of Underdrainage on Rivers, &c.," and "Difficulties of Breeding from Pedigreed Stock," are the subjects of discussion at three weekly meetings of the council up to Easter. A new form of certificate has been drawn up which is to be signed by a member of the Royal College of Surgeons and sent in with every entry. The preliminary examination is to be conducted "chiefly with reference to freedom from hereditary disease, and more especially of those of the visual and respiratory organs." The balance in the hands of the treasurer is £2698, so that the society has weathered Batterseas bravely.

RUINS OF LYTHAM LIGHTHOUSE.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

BIRTHS.

On the 6th inst., at Newark, Mrs. Rearmes Welby, of a daughter.

On the 10th of December, at Woodville, near Port Adelaide, South Australia, the wife of Mr. J. Holden Newman, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

On the 4th inst., at Christ Church, Bayswater, by the Rev. Rev. B. Hayter Reed, M.D.D., Incumbent of St. John's, Paddington, assisted by the Rev. R. W. Normand, M.A., Rector of Bentley, George Pulpon Brown, Esq., Warden of St. Peter's College, Adelaide, and of the Royal Artillery, to Beatrice, youngest daughter of the late Sir Wilberforce Bird, Bart., M.C.S., and Member of the Supreme Council of Adelaide.

On the 5th inst., at Hinckley Magna, Leicestershire, by the Rev. G. B. Woodcock, assisted by the Rev. W. H. Chapman, Curate of Hinckley, Lieutenant Millais, eldest son Chapman, Curate of Hinckley, Lieutenant Millais, eldest son of the late Rev. E. Millais, of Kingsley Farm, Dartley, Hants, to Elizabeth Ann, daughter of the late R. B. Morris, Esq., to Elizabeth Ann, daughter of the late R. B. Morris, Esq., of Bridgworth, Northamptonshire.

On the 6th inst., at St. James's, Piccadilly, John Cameron, Esq., of Hartrees, Cousines of Guilford, Lettcom Elliot, Esq., of Hartrees, Cousines of Guilford, Lettcom Elliot, Esq., of Hartrees, Cousines of Guilford.

DEATHS.

On Dec. 28, 1862, at Dapoolie, French Harvey, Esq., late Captain of the 16th (Bombay Native Infantry, youngest son of Admiral Sir Edward Harvey, K.C.B., aged 37.

On the 1st inst., at Rosen, Commander Charles Harvey, R.N., aged 64.

On the 7th inst., at Cheltenham, Martha, wife of William Barrows, of Hinsley House, Staffordshire.

On the 7th inst., at Pudsey Manor, Hampshire, Sarah, Mary Anne Magdiffray of the family of Dunmogeles, and wife of the Rev. John Hall, formerly, minister of that parish, in early youth, and with the sincerest grief of the whole province for her many virtues and her early death.

On the 8th inst., at his residence, 2, Albion-road West Tulston, John Brown, Esquire, Barrister, Esq., for many years in the Temple, London, in the 84th year of his age.

On the 9th inst., at Morecambe, the beloved wife of George Byre, Esq., of Warners, Wilts, deeply regretted.

MARRIAGE SETTLEMENT.

HEDGES and BUTLER, 155, Regent-street, London, W., and 4, Hanover-street, Hanover-square, manufacture Dinner Services, at 36s., 36s., and 50s. per dozen. Pure Claret, of good body and flavour, 18s. per dozen. Pale Sherry, 24s. per dozen. Port, 36s.; Champagne, 42s., 48s., 60s. Our range of Wines, Spirits, and Liqueurs is unsurpassed. Price-lists, and a list of other wines, will be forwarded immediately. Carriage paid. Established 1667.

EAU-DE-VIE.—This Pure PALE BRANDY is of 30 years' growth, imported to prove the recommendations of Cognac. Its French bottles, 30s. per doz.; in. Hogsheads, 27s. per gallon. 26, Pall-mall, and 79, Cornhill. HENRY BRETT and CO., Old Furnivals Distillery, Holborn, W.C.; and 26, Regent-street, S.W. Prices Current free on application.

SAUCE.
LEA AND PERRINS'
WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE,
pronounced by Connoisseurs
"THE ONLY GOOD SAUCE."
Nine genuine with Signature on Wrapper, Label, Bottle, and Stopper. Sold by CROSSE and BLACKWELL, Soho-square; and Sons; and by Oilmen universally.

TURTLE.—MCCALL'S WEST INDIA Superior quality, prepared by our own process, in 4d., 8d., half-pints, 8s. Calipash and Calipee, 1s. per pint. Ox-tail, 1s. per lb. Packing Oil and Italian Warehousemen, Wine and Cheesemen, and others.

J. HOLL and Co.,
Preston House, 137, Hemsworth, N.E.
Prize Medal Exhibition, 1862. Price-lists free by post. Pavilions without excessive charges. Decorations and fittings of the most elegant description.

HORNIMAN'S PURE TEA, "always good and uniform." Imported in sealed packages, and sold by agents in every town in the kingdom, at the following prices:—Strong Congou, 2s. 8d.; Rich Congou, 3s.; Fine and rich Congou, 3s. 4d.; Strong Souchong, 3s. 8d.; Fine Souchong, 4s.; Rich Souchong, 4s. 4d.; Fine Gunpowder, 4s. 8d.; Rich Gunpowder, 5s.; Fine Hyson, 5s. 4d.; Rich Hyson, 6s.; Fine Young Hyson, 6s. 8d.; Rich Young Hyson, 7s.; Fine Imperial, 7s. 8d.; Rich Imperial, 8s.; Fine Old Mixture, 8s. 8d.; Rich Old Mixture, 9s. 4d.; Fine Golden Mixture, 10s.; Rich Golden Mixture, 11s. 4d.; Fine Orange Pekoe, 12s.; Rich Orange Pekoe, 14s. Sold by all Grocers. Manufactory, Horniman's Tea Warehouse, Commercial-road East, London.

E P P S ' S C O C O A.
"Grateful and comforting."—Civil Service Gazette.
"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills."—Vide Report.
Sold only in packets and tins, labelled JAMES EPPS and CO., Homœopathic Chemists, London.

KEEN'S GENUINE MUSTARD, the finest known, is made from the Durham Seed, and is sold in Packets and Tins, 1lb., 2lb., and 4lb. each, by Grocers and Oilmen throughout the World. CELEBRATED BRAND.

Distinguished upwards of a century for purity and strength, has received the greatest number of INTERNATIONAL MEDALS.

Sold by most Grocers, in Packets, 1lb. and 2lb., and 1lb., 3lb., and 5lb. canisters.

KEEN, ROBINSON, BELLVILLE, and CO., Garlick-hill, London.

KINGSFORD'S OSWEGO PREPARED CORN, for Puddings, Custards, Blancmange, &c.

The original and only genuine American preparation of Indian corn. Established 1848.

No other article in America. Beware of spurious imitations.

J. C. and J. FIELD, Original Manufacturers (by Register) of PARAFFINE CANDLES, to whom the Queen's Patent was originally awarded, and whose Candles obtained the late Majesty's Government for the use of the Military Stations abroad. These candles are in the habitual use of all families and gentlemen of United Kingdom. Price 1s. 4d. per lb. Also Field's celebrated

NEW MUSIC.

ON BISHOP'S MELODIES.

MUSGRAVE'S CROUGH AND CROW QUADRILLE. Illustrated. Price 3s.
METZLER and CO., 37, 38, 39, 40, and 16, Great Marlborough-street, W.

ON COMIC TUNES.

MUSGRAVE'S OFF TO BRIGHTON QUADRILLE. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s. Septet 2s.
METZLER and CO., 37, 38, 39, and 16, Great Marlborough-street, W.

Second Edition. Price 4s. Septet 2s.

MUSGRAVE'S ALEXANDRA VALSE. With Portrait of the Princess of Denmark.
METZLER and CO., 37, 38, 39, and 16, Great Marlborough-street, W.

POPULAR TUNES QUADRILLE. By C. GODFREY, Jun. Played by the Military Band. With Comic Illustration. The best arrangement, containing "The Cure," &c. Price 4s. Septet 2s.
METZLER and CO., 37, 38, 39, and 16, Great Marlborough-street, W.

DE GASPARD.—LES FIANCÉS VALSE. With Portrait of the Prince of Wales and the Princess Alexandra. Price 4s. post-free.
METZLER and CO., 37, 38, 39, and 16, Great Marlborough-street, W.

STAR OF DENMARK GALOP. By KARL WOLLEB. With an excellent tinted Portrait of the Princess Alexandra. Price 3s. Septet 2s.
METZLER and CO., 37, 38, 39, and 16, Great Marlborough-street, W.

COOTE'S PLANTATION GALOP. The favourite of the season. Illustrated. Piano Solo, 3s.; Septet 2s. 6d.
METZLER and CO., 37, 38, 39, and 16, Great Marlborough-street, W.

BY THE COMPOSER OF "THE BURLESQUE."

KANGAROO GALOP. By J. CASSIDY. Illustrated. Piano Solo, 3s.; Septet Band, 2s.
METZLER and CO., 37, 38, 39, and 16, Great Marlborough-street, W.

NEW SONG FOR CONTRALTO VOICE.

BY THE BLUE SEA. Composed by VINCENT WALLACE. Price 2s. Post-free.
METZLER and CO., 37, 38, 39, and 16, Great Marlborough-street, W.

SPARKLING CHAMPAGNE. The new and successful Quadrille, composed by Howard Paul. Entertainment. By H. WALKER. Illustrated. Price 3s. 6d.
METZLER and CO., 37, 38, 39, and 16, Great Marlborough-street, W.

G. GRETTON'S PIANOFORTE WORKS, 4, Rede and Blomfield, 7s.; Die Hearn-tune, 4s.; Die Waldtraum, 4s.; Patrician, 3s.; Pastorale, 3s.; Tarantella, 3s.; Varsovienne, 4s.; Zingarella, 4s.; CHARLES, BELLE, and WOOD, 20, Regent-street.

ROBERT COCKS AND CO.'S LIST OF NEW MUSICAL PUBLICATIONS.

"OLD DEER PARK" RECOLLECTIONS OF WALES. The Best of the Scots Fusilier Guards, with full Chorus, will accompany Mr. Sims Reeves in singing the new and original National Song of Mr. Henry Leslie's Grand Concert at St. James's Hall, March 3. It will also be sung by Mr. Sims Reeves at the Crystal Palace, March 7.

MY HOME. Words written by the lonely-one-dedicated-to-domestic-sadness at the National Harp Concert (accompanied by Mr. Benedict's new and fine Harp and Vocal Septett), and at the concert of the St. George's Glee, such at James's Hall.

THE LAST WALTZ. Which we have to record a success so complete, as to be unprecedented.

OLD RILES THE FIDDLER. Two Books of Violin Tunes, Price, by BROUGHTON RICHARDS.

A NEW and effective arrangement will shortly be on every pianoforte.

THE LAST WALTZ. LES ADIEUX. EDWARD MARCH. Arranged for Military Band. By A. F. GODFREY, of the Coldstream Guards. Dedicated, by permission, to the Band of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. No. 86. Price Nine Sts. Piano Duet, 4s. "A 24 arpeggios" Book for Pianoforte. By CHARLES COWARD.

THE FIRST OF THE WALES'S GALOP. By Henry Pyne. Illustrated. 3s.

THE PRINCE OF WALES'S CROWN MARCH. Performed by permission at the Royal Harmonic. By Mr. H. Dixon. 3s.

THE PRINCE OF WALES'S GRAND MARCH. Composed for Piano, 4s.; Band, 2s. 6d. HER DUCHESS OF KENT. Arranged for Piano, 4s.

THE LOVE WALTZ. For Piano. By A. Wrighton, 4s. 6d.

THE FAIR DANE WALTZ. For Piano. By A. Loder. 3s.

THE ROYAL WEDDING MARCH. For Piano. By Brinley Richards. 3s.

THE BRIDAL QUADRILLE. By Henri Dorsay. Piano Solo, 4s.; Duet, 6s.

THE WEDDING WALTZES. By W. Vincent Wallace. 4s.

THE BRIDAL WALTZ. By Stephen Glover. 3s.

THE BRIDAL GALOP. By Brinley Richards. 3s.

Poetry by George Linley. 2s. 6d.

I KNOW A SPOT. E. H. Horn. For Piano. By Brinley Richards. 3s.

THE PRINCE'S PRAISE. Recitation for Piano. By W. Vincent Wallace. 4s.

THE SLEEP OF SORROW. THE SLEEP OF JOY. THE BLESSING OF THE SEA. Words by Mrs. Wilcox Wallace. Poetry by the Author of "What are the Wild Waves Saying?" Each 2s. 6d.

THE SONG OF THE SEA. Poetry by Barry Marks by L. Antoine Cook. Illustrated. 2s. 6d.

WHEN THE BLOOM OF YOUTH HAS WINE. Canzonet. By Rosalind. 2s. 6d.

THE PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY. By George Hogarth. 2s.

THE ART OF SINGING AT SIGHT. CHURCH'S GRADUAL and POPULAR PSALMODY.

ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S PIANOFORTES, in Walnut or Rosewood, 6 Octaves, £20.

London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street, and Foreign Music Warehouse, Publishers to the Queen and the Imperial Conservatoire of Music, Paris.

Agents for India: MESSRS. APCAR and CO., Musical Establishment, Calcutta. Agents for Australia: MESSRS. Nicholson and Co., Musical Establishment, Sydney. Agents for Canada: MESSRS. Nordheimer and Co., to his Excellency the Viscount and Governor-General of India.

SUNG BY MR. WILLYS COOPER.

WHILE MILLY SLEEPETH. Spanish Serenade. By S. J. REILLY. 2s.
ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

THERE'S JOY IN MERRY ENGLAND. Song, with Chorus ad lib. Poetry by W. H. Bellamy. Music by G. W. Hunt. 2s.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street, W. Published this day.

THE ETTRIE VALSES, By G. RENNIE FOWLER. Illustrated with splendid Portrait of Miss Rosetta Vane (Theatre Royal, Haymarket), by King, of Bath. Beg of the music.
ROBERT W. OLLIVIER, 19, Old Bond-street, W.

THOSE REVERING BELLS.—Just published, a new composition for the bells in melody, by RICHARD RICHARDS. Price 3s.; Duet, 4s. A. HAMMOND and Co. (Julliot), 214, Regent-street. All music at half price.

JERUSALEM THE GOLDEN, the celebrated Hymn arranged (with permission of the Bishop of Argyll) as a Sacred Song by MARIE LOUISE GRAHAM. Price 2s. Duet, 4s.
A. HAMMOND and Co. (Julliot), 214, Regent-street.

Now ready.

GUILLAUME TELL (No. 12) and NORMA (No. 13), of WINTERHOLTTOM'S FANTASIAS for CORNET and PIANOFORTE. Price 4s. each. WINTERHOLTTOM'S COMPLETE CORNET TUTOR, 5s.
A. HAMMOND and Co., 214, Regent-street.

WITH JOY I THINK OF THEE: a New Song. By BRADBURY TURNER. Sung with great success at the Hanover Square concerts by Miss Dolby. Price 2s. 6d.
A. HAMMOND and Co., 214, Regent-street.

DOOR SACK BROWN: a New Song. By HENRY SMART. Sung by Mr. Sims Reeves at the Hanover Square Rooms. Price 2s. 6d.
A. HAMMOND and Co., 214, Regent-street.

ALL MUSIC at HALF-PRICE (the best sold), and sent free by post to forwarded post-free by A. HAMMOND and Co. (Julliot), 214, Regent-street. No receipt of stamps to be answered. Country orders punctually executed.

STAMP GALOP, by ARTHUR O'LEARY. This most successful Galop of the season is always encored. The Glissando Movement, and the contrapuntal passage of all instruments beautifully printed in colours. Send free for twelve stamps.—ADDISON and CO., 210, Regent-street, London.

BALFE'S NEW OPERA, THE ARMOURER OF NANTES, libretto by J. V. BRIDGEMAN. The whole of the Music to be had complete.
ADDISON and CO., 210, Regent-street, W.

SYDNEY'S SMITH'S LILY of the VALLEY MAZURKA, "March of the Men of Harlech," and "Pochonis Fantasia," on Jullanella's "Speak, I Listen," and "Home the Aspen," 2s. 6d.—ADDISON and CO.'s Universal Circulating Musical Library, 26, Regent-street. Yearly Subscription, 1 Guinea.

NEW SONGS.

BESSON'S CHALLENGE CORNETS. M. E. Besson has the honour to inform the Public that the Medals for those celebrated Instruments, Manufactory, 198, Euston-road, N.W. Furniture to the Guards.

JONES'S 42 2s. ENGLISH CONCERTINA. Mahogany, 42 keys, screwed ends, carved Box. Rosewood, in Mahogany, £3 3s. Other varieties to £10. Catalogues gratis. JONES and SONS, 9, Crittenden-road, N. and Crystal Palace, S.E.

PIANOFORTES.—H. TOLKIEN'S ELEGANT and MODEL COTTAGE PIANO, first class, having all recent improvements, 7½ octaves, the full compass, extremely sweet in tone, and possessing great durability, price 25 guineas, packed free for home or exportation. Terms for hire, with option of purchase, on easier terms than monthly or quarterly hire.—H. TOLKIEN, 27, King William-street, London-bridge. Established 30 years.

BUTLER'S BRASS INSTRUMENTS, Cornets, Saxhorns, Circular Vibrating Bugles, Flutes, &c., are on view, with the new Improvements, at 9, Great Pulteney-street, within a few doors of any other English house. A written guarantee given with every instrument. Manufactory, Great-street, Soho, London. Prices and drawings post-free.

DISTIN and CO.'S PRIZE MEDAL.—Brass Musical Instruments, with the Improvements of the Inventor, Distin, 4, Great Marlborough-street, London. New Nickeline-action Amateur Cornet, Silver and Plated Prussian Bugles. Drawings and Prices free.

MUSICAL-BOX DEPOTS, 32, Ludgate-street, and 56, Cheapside. NICOLE'S large Musical Boxes, 21 per cent below any other house in the trade. Every tune in their extensive and cost-free-on application to WALKER and CO., as above.

MUSICAL BOX DEPOT for the SALE of NICOLE'S celebrated Musical Instruments is removed from No. 34 to 31 and 32, Cornhill, London. Lists of tunes and prices gratis and postage-free.

NOS. 77 and 78, OXFORD-STREET, MAPPIN and COMPANY, manufacturers, opposite to the Pantheon, and LA REGENT-STOCK in London of ELECTRO-SILVER and RICH CUTLERY.

Full Size.	Fiddle.	Thread.	King's.	Lily.
12 Table Forks ...	£1 7 0	£2 14 0	£2 16 0	£3 14 0
12 Table Spoons ...	1 10 0	3 0 0	3 2 0	4 0 0
12 Dessert Forks ...	1 1 0	2 2 0	2 5 0	2 16 0
12 Dessert Spoons ...	1 1 0	2 2 0	2 5 0	2 16 0
12 Tea Spoons ...	0 16 0	1 10 0	1 12 0	2 0 0

Similar quantities can be had at the above rate of prices, which are 25 per cent below any other house in the trade. Catalogues gratis. The London warehouse is only opposite the Pantheon, 77 and 78, Oxford-street.

CAUTION.—Messrs. MAPPIN and COMPANY (the established firm), of 77 and 78, Oxford-street (opposite the Pantheon), beg to caution the public against the use of their name in any way whatever with the pretence of a similar name and trade mark, as they have no local shop and have no connection with the PATRONAGE OF OPPOSITION.

MAPPIN BROTHERS, Queen's Cutlery Establishment, 4, Prince Arthur-street, West-end, Manchester.

PLATE.—ELKINGTON and SONS, Manufacturing Silversmiths, 22 and 23, Ludgate-hill, London, and 45, Moorfields, Liverpool, have always in stock a large assortment of fiddle patterns, 7s. 6d. per ounce; Queen's pattern, 7s. 6d. per ounce; Kingsdesign, 8s. 6d. per ounce; Lily pattern, 9s. 6d. per ounce; Antique, Fiddle Pattern. Os. £ s. d. | Queen's Pattern. Os. £ s. d.
12 Table Forks ... 40 ... 15 0 0 | 12 Table Forks ... 40 ... 15 0 0
12 Dessert Forks ... 30 ... 11 5 0 | 12 Dessert Forks ... 30 ... 11 5 0
12 Table Forks ... 30 ... 11 5 0 | 12 Table Forks ... 30 ... 11 5 0
12 Dessert Forks ... 24 ... 9 0 0 | 12 Dessert Forks ... 24 ... 9 0 0
2 Gravy Spoons ... 10 ... 3 15 0 | 2 Gravy Spoons ... 12 ... 4 10 0
2 Sauce Ladles ... 6 ... 2 5 0 | 2 Sauce Ladles ... 6 ... 2 5 0
1 Soup Ladle ... 10 ... 3 15 0 | 1 Soup Ladle ... 10 ... 3 15 0
1 Salad Spoon (gilt) ... 3 0 0 | 1 Salad Spoon (gilt) ... 3 0 0
1 Fish Slice (gilt) ... 3 0 0 | 1 Fish Slice (gilt) ... 3 0 0
12 Tea Spoons ... 10 ... 3 15 0 | 12 Tea Spoons ... 14 ... 5 12 0
1 Pair Sugar Tongs ... 1 10 0 | 1 Pair Sugar Tongs ... 1 10 0
Total ... £73 0 0 | Total ... £89 0 0

Elkington and Sons, Manufacturers, as a guide to the Stock in the Showrooms. It contains 350 pages, and upwards of 1,000 Illustrations. It contains also a Priced List of Replating, with prices of ornamental plate for private use or presentation; also, of Re-silvering Church Plate, Candelabra, &c. Sent free by post on receipt of six stamps, on application, and post-free to any part of the British dominions.

Elkington and Sons, 22 and 23, Ludgate-hill, have likewise a large assortment of Electro-plated Spoons and Forks, kept ready for presentation.

PLATED SPOONS AND FORKS.	IVORY PARK SETTER.
	Os. £ s. d.		Os. £ s. d.
6 Table spoons ...	0 18 0	1 Gravy spoon ...	0 7 0
6 Table forks ...	0 18 0	1 Soup ladle ...	0 7 0
6 Dessert spoons ...	0 13 0	1 Sauce ladle ...	0 3 6
6 Dessert forks ...	0 13 0	1 Butter knife ...	0 3 6
6 Tea spoons ...	0 7 0	1 Fish slice ...	0 7 0
1 Egg spoon ...	0 2 0	6 Cheese knives ...	0 6 0
1 Mustard spoon ...	0 2 0	6 Dessert knives ...	0 6 0
1 Pair of salts ...	0 3 0	1 Pair of carvers ...	0 7 0
1 Sauce ladle ...	0 3 0	1 Steel sharpener ...	0 2 0
Electro-plated spoons and forks ...	3 15 0	1 Oak chest ...	1 0 0
Carried forward, £5 11 0		Complete ...	£2 10 0

Every other size and pattern in stock.

MAPPIN BROTHERS, Queen's Cutlery Establishment, 4, Prince Arthur-street, West-end, Manchester. Show-rooms, 67 and 68, King William-street, London-bridge. Spoon prices charged at both houses as at their Manufactory, Queen's Plate and Cutlery Works, Sheffield.

Observe the address.

OSLER'S GLASS CHANDELIERS, Wall Lights, and Ornaments for Dinner and Dessert Tables. Glass Dinner Services for 12 persons, from £7 15s. Glass Dessert Services for 12 persons, from £2 10s. All articles marked in plain figures, at Ornamental Glass, English and Foreign, suitable for presents. OSLER, Manufacturer, 45, Oxford-street, W.

London—Showrooms, 45, Oxford-street, W.
Birmingham—Manufactory and Showrooms, Broad-street.
Established 1807.

CHANDELIERS FOR DINNER-ROOM AND LIBRARY, Candelabra Lamps and Ornaments, in Bronze and Ormolu. GILLES, 45, Oxford-street, W. Established 1807.

GARDNERS' LAMPS are the BEST.—The Gardners' Improved Moderator Lamps, Moderator Table Lamps, Patent Tin Lamps, Bronze and Glass Lamps, Chandeliers, Gas Fittings, &c., may be had of all Lamp Dealers, and at the Manufactory, established 100 years, 453, Strand, Charing-cross, where purchasers are invited to inspect the Stock.

FURNITURE CARRIAGE-FREE to any Part of the Kingdom.

Drawing-room Suites, complete ... £25 0 0
Dining-room ditto, ditto ... £20 0 0
Bedroom Suites, complete ... £20 0 0
Handsome Chimney Glass and Pier Glass, ... £6 0 0
Plate, and Bedding.
F. and S. BEDDOE, 144, OXFORD-STREET.
Illustrated Catalogues sent free on application.

J. MAPLE and CO.'S BEDSTEADS, in Iron, Brass, and Bronze, fitted with Furniture and Bedding complete. J. MAPLE and CO.'S Illustrated Catalogue may be had gratis and free by post.

J. MAPLE and CO.'S FIRST-CLASS FURNITURE.

The Parlour Couch ... 34 guineas.
The Prince of Wales Couch ... 34 guineas.
The Princess Couch ... 34 guineas.
The Sussex Easy Chair ... 5 guineas.
The Lounging Chair ... 5 guineas.
Extension, 6ft., Dining-room Table ... 12 guineas.

J. MAPLE and CO.'S NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE, containing the Prices of every article required for furnishing Cottages, Villas, and Mansions, sent free by post. It is the largest and most convenient Furnishing Establishment in the World.—J. MAPLE and CO., Tottenham-court-road, London.

J. MAPLE and CO. for CARPETS! CARPETS! CARPETS! Best Brussels, 2s. 9d. per yard.
Fairmile, 145, Tottenham-court-road, London.

THE LADY'S TIDY, a Portable Wardrobe, for packing and carrying, without pullback words. Free to 64, CHARLES-st., and 31, Cranbourn-st., 71, 72, and 73, Brompton-street, London, W. An Illustrated Priced Catalogue sent post-free.

UNRIVALLED PRIZE MEDAL.

LOCK-STITCH SEWING-MACHINES, manufactured by the WHEELER and WILSON MFG. COMPANY, with all the recent Improvements and Additions. The perfection of mechanism and a necessity for every household. Instruction gratis to every purchaser. Illustrated Prospectus gratis and post-free. Offices and Exhibition, 139, Regent-street, W.

GREAT SALE OF NEW SPRING SILKS at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-street, London.

PRINCE of WALES'S STATE VISIT. New Silks for the occasion
At KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.

PRINCESS ALEXANDRA'S WEDDING. New Silks for the occasion
At KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.

NEW SPRING
STRIPED SILKS, 21s. 6d. DRESS, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-street.

NEW SPRING
CHECKED SILKS, £1 5s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-street.

NEW SPRING
PLAIN SILKS, £1 7s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-street.

NEW SPRING
CORDED SILKS, £1 15s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-street.

NEW SPRING
CHENE SILKS, £2 19s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-street.

NEW SPRING
GROS DE SUEZ, £2 2s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-street.

NEW SPRING
MOIRE ANTIQUES, £2 15s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-street.

NEW
BLACK SILKS, £1 a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-street.

BLACK
MOIRE ANTIQUES, £2 2s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-street.

PATTERNS OF
SILKS in ALL the NEW COLOURS worn by the Princess Alexandra
At KING'S, 243, Regent-street, London.

GLOVES — GLOVES — GLOVES! The best Alexandra Kid, 1s. pair, 1lb. dozen.
The best Scotch Kid, 2s. pair, 2lb. dozen.
The best Suede, 2s. pair, 2lb. dozen.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street, W.

LAST YEAR'S MUSLINS, BAREGES, BALZARINES, and GRENADINES, at half the original cost. Patterns free.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street. (Corner).

SILKS, PATTERNS POST-FREE. Striped, Checked, and Plain Silks, £1 5s. 6d. the Full Dress.
Very Rich Silks, wear guaranteed, 2s. 6d. and 4s. 6d. per yard.
Rich Glacé Silks, 2s. 6d. and 3s. 6d. per yard.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street.

GREAT BARGAINS in CAMBRIC HANDKERCHIEFS, slightly soiled; 1 new, 1, 2, and 3 guineas a dozen; were double the money.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street.

SPECIAL GLOVES MADE FOR AMERICA, A very best quality, 2s. pair, 2lb. dozen, usual price 3s. 6d. pair.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street.

NEW PRINTED CAMBRICS, MUSLINS, and FOULARDS. Patterns free.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street.

A NOVELTY FOR MOURNING, Two Yards Wide, 3s. 6d. and 4s. 6d. yard. Also, a large variety of Mourning Fabrics at 6½d. and 9½d. per yard.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street.

MESSRS. SWAN and EDGAR are now SELLING the whole of their Stock of Silks for Walking, Dinner, and Evening Wear; it consists of six lots, forming the cheapest Silks ever offered to the public, and will be found to have every kind of fashionable Silk, with a choice and intimate knowledge of the French Silk trade, have at no period in their experience been enabled to purchase a lot of goods at such a price as much below the usual value, their transactions have been so extensive that they are enabled to offer the purchasers of Rich Fancy Silks the benefit of the same, and such goods as they could offer with confidence to their customers.

A large number of Patterns of the above Silks have been laid out to 11 Fleetsidey; and 32 and 34, Regent-street.

F. CATER and CO., Finsbury-square, E.C., and 69, Regent-street, W.
Ridgroof Cloaks, in all the New Colours, 1 guinea.
Ridgroof Cloaks, with sleeves, 25s. 6d.
Ridgroof Cloaks, with Hoods, 25s. 6d.
Zouave Velvet Jackets, 1 guinea.
Velvet Capes, 1 guinea.
Ditto, handsomely Embroidered with Braid 10s. 6d.
Velvet Bonnets, 10s. 6d. and 21s.
Boy, Scout, and Guards' Caps and Hats.
French Cloaks.
Ridgroof Cloaks.

MARRIAGE OF THE PRINCE OF WALES.

COURT TRAINS for MISSES ANTIQUES, Post-free.
are now fashionable an extensive Collection of beautiful new Silks, Unparalleled, &c., for the approaching Marriage. Also, a choice assortment of Rich Fancy Silks, manufactured in anticipation of the above Event, and which will be found worthy the attention of the Public for Novelty, and will be found very moderate in price and variety of especial notice.

The richest Moire Antiques, all colours, at the 6d. per yard, and while the same quality as exhibited at the International Exhibition.

The Rich Glacé Silks, manufactured in France of the richest quality, 2s. 6d. per yard.

500 pieces of new Spring Silks, at 2s. 6d. to 3½ guineas the Dress, extra length of 14 yards, or any length cut.

Patterns of any of the above forwarded to the country.

N.B. The above Silks are manufactured for new fashionable shapes, the number of extra stock of goods purchased from the International Exhibition will be sold out during this month at an annual price.

50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100, 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 107, 108, 109, 110, 111, 112, 113, 114, 115, 116, 117, 118, 119, 120, 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 127, 128, 129, 130, 131, 132, 133, 134, 135, 136, 137, 138, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146, 147, 148, 149, 150, 151, 152, 153, 154, 155, 156, 157, 158, 159, 160, 161, 162, 163, 164, 165, 166, 167, 168, 169, 170, 171, 172, 173, 174, 175, 176, 177, 178, 179, 180, 181, 182, 183, 184, 185, 186, 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, 192, 193, 194, 195, 196, 197, 198, 199, 200, 201, 202, 203, 204, 205, 206, 207, 208, 209, 210, 211, 212, 213, 214, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, 220, 221, 222, 223, 224, 225, 226, 227, 228, 229, 230, 231, 232, 233, 234, 235, 236, 237, 238, 239, 240, 241, 242, 243, 244, 245, 246, 247, 248, 249, 250, 251, 252, 253, 254, 255, 256, 257, 258, 259, 260, 261, 262, 263, 264, 265, 266, 267, 268, 269, 270, 271, 272, 273, 274, 275, 276, 277, 278, 279, 280, 281, 282, 283, 284, 285, 286, 287, 288, 289, 290, 291, 292, 293, 294, 295, 296, 297, 298, 299, 300, 301, 302, 303, 304, 305, 306, 307, 308, 309, 310, 311, 312, 313, 314, 315, 316, 317, 318, 319, 320, 321, 322, 323, 324, 325, 326, 327, 328, 329, 330, 331, 332, 333, 334, 335, 336, 337, 338, 339, 340, 341, 342, 343, 344, 345, 346, 347, 348, 349, 350, 351, 352, 353, 354, 355, 356, 357, 358, 359, 360, 361, 362, 363, 364, 365, 366, 367, 368, 369, 370, 371, 372, 373, 374, 375, 376, 377, 378, 379, 380, 381, 382, 383, 384, 385, 386, 387, 388, 389, 390, 391, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396, 397, 398, 399, 400, 401, 402, 403, 404, 405, 406, 407, 408, 409, 410, 411, 412, 413, 414, 415, 416, 417, 418, 419, 420, 421, 422, 423, 424, 425, 426, 427, 428, 429, 430, 431, 432, 433, 434, 435, 436, 437, 438, 439, 440, 441, 442, 443, 444, 445, 446, 447, 448, 449, 450, 451, 452, 453, 454, 455, 456, 457, 458, 459, 460, 461, 462, 463, 464, 465, 466, 467, 468, 469, 470, 471, 472, 473, 474, 475, 476, 477, 478, 479, 480, 481, 482, 483, 484, 485, 486, 487, 488, 489, 490, 491, 492, 493, 494, 495, 496, 497, 498, 499, 500, 501, 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 510, 511, 512, 513, 514, 515, 516, 517, 518, 519, 520, 521, 522, 523, 524, 525, 526, 527, 528, 529, 530, 531, 532, 533, 534, 535, 536, 537, 538, 539, 540, 541, 542, 543, 544, 545, 546, 547, 548, 549, 550, 551, 552, 553, 554, 555, 556, 557, 558, 559, 560, 561, 562, 563, 564, 565, 566, 567, 568, 569, 570, 571, 572, 573, 574, 575, 576, 577, 578, 579, 580, 581, 582, 583, 584, 585, 586, 587, 588, 589, 590, 591, 592, 593, 594, 595, 596, 597, 598, 599, 600, 601, 602, 603, 604, 605, 606, 607, 608, 609, 610, 611, 612, 613, 614, 615, 616, 617, 618, 619, 620, 621, 622, 623, 624, 625, 626, 627, 628, 629, 630, 631, 632, 633, 634, 635, 636, 637, 638, 639, 640, 641, 642, 643, 644, 645, 646, 647, 648, 649, 650, 651, 652, 653, 654, 655, 656, 657, 658, 659, 660, 661, 662, 663, 664, 665, 666, 667, 668, 669, 670, 671, 672, 673, 674, 675, 676, 677, 678, 679, 680, 681, 682, 683, 684, 685, 686, 687, 688, 689, 690, 691, 692, 693, 694, 695, 696, 697, 698, 699, 700, 701, 702, 703, 704, 705, 706, 707, 708, 709, 710, 711, 712, 713, 714, 715, 716, 717, 718, 719, 720, 721, 722, 723, 724, 725, 726, 727, 728, 729, 730, 731, 732, 733, 734, 735, 736, 737, 738, 739, 740, 741, 742, 743, 744, 745, 746, 747, 748, 749, 750, 751, 752, 753, 754, 755, 756, 757, 758, 759, 760, 761, 762, 763, 764, 765, 766, 767, 768, 769, 770, 771, 772, 773, 774, 775, 776, 777, 778, 779, 780, 781, 782, 783, 784, 785, 786, 787, 788, 789, 790, 791, 792, 793, 794, 795, 796, 797, 798, 799, 800, 801, 802, 803, 804, 805, 806, 807, 808, 809, 810, 811, 812, 813, 814, 815, 816, 817, 818, 819, 820, 821, 822, 823, 824, 825, 826, 827, 828, 829, 830, 831, 832, 833, 834, 835, 836, 837, 838, 839, 840, 841, 842, 843, 844, 845, 846, 847, 848, 849, 850, 851, 852, 853, 854, 855, 856, 857, 858, 859, 860, 861, 862, 863, 864, 865, 866, 867, 868, 869, 870, 871, 872, 873, 874, 875, 876, 877, 878, 879, 880, 881, 882, 883, 884, 885, 886, 887, 888, 889, 890, 891, 892, 893, 894, 895, 896, 897, 898, 899, 900, 901, 902, 903, 904, 905, 906, 907, 908, 909, 910, 911, 912, 913, 914, 915, 916, 917, 918, 919, 920, 921, 922, 923, 924, 925, 926, 927, 928, 929, 930, 931, 932, 933, 934, 935, 936, 937, 938, 939, 940, 941, 942, 943, 944, 945, 946, 947, 948, 949, 950, 951, 952, 953, 954, 955, 956, 957, 958, 959, 960, 961, 962, 963, 964, 965, 966, 967, 968, 969, 970, 971, 972, 973, 974, 975, 976, 977, 978, 979, 980, 981, 982, 983, 984, 985, 986, 987, 988, 989, 990, 991, 992, 993, 994, 995, 996, 997, 998, 999, 1000

THE PRINCE'S WEDDING FAVOURS of the Princess Alexandra and the Duke have been prepared for the approaching Royal Wedding, at the request of the Coventry Ribbon Committee, by the undersigned, and DESCRIBED in the Programme of COVENTRY RIBBONS, which they are selling at very moderate prices. Also, a large assortment of Ribbons manufactured in Coventry.—H. and J. ALLEN, 5, and 5, Wells-street, Oxford-street.

FRENCH KID GLOVES.
GRANT and GASK
are selling the whole of their PARIS KID GLOVES at Nr. E. Holmes, Paris and New Orleans, comprising several thousand dozens, at 1s. 3d. to 1s. 6d. per pair.
Grant and Gask are also selling the PARIS KID GLOVES, quality unsurpassed, at 1s. 9d. per pair, usually sold at 2s. 6d. per pair, and the very best quality at 2s. 6d. to 3s. 6d. per pair; including Suede, Reindeer, and all the best makes.
GENTLEMEN'S KID GLOVES at the same prices—viz., from 1s. to 3s. 6d. per pair.
Sample packet forwarded by post.
50, 51, 52, 53, 54, and 55, Oxford-street; 1, 2, and 3, Wells-street.

SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE.
Rich Black Figured Glacés,
32s. and 42s. the Dress.
Any length cut.
Now on Sale.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.

NEW FANCY SILKS.
Fancy French Glacés, £2 2s. 6d.
Fancy Corded Silks, £2 15s. 6d.
Fancy Checked Silks, £1 19s. 6d.
Fancy Striped Silks, £1 19s. 6d.
The Extra Full Dress of 15 yards.
Patterns free.—JAMES JOHNSTON, 41, Strand.

RICH BROCHÉ GRENADINES, Every new colour in self-coloured French Glacés, at £3 15s. 6d. Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 105, Oxford-street.

Just purchased, 1500 pieces
RICH BROCHÉ GRENADINES, 23s. 6d. to 42s. the Extra Dress of 15 yards.
Checks, Chênés, Stripes, and Plaids.
Best Double Muslins, 8d. to 12s. 6d. Full Dress.
Rich Lyons Velvets for EVENING DRESSES.
Fine Wide Velvets for Full Dress—usual price 18s. 6d.
Now on sale, at PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 105, Oxford-street.

PARIS KID GLOVES.
700 dozen Francois, best make, 2s. 11½d.; worth 3s. 6d.
700 dozen Alexandra, 1s. 6d.; worth 2s. 6d.
Now on Sale.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 105, Oxford-street.

FAMILIES
about to purchase DRAPERY will find it much to their advantage to visit
PETER ROBINSON'S
GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
where they can select from the largest and most varied stock of goods made only for fashionable wear at all prices.
Goods sent to any part of the country for selection.
Complete Lists of Prices and Patterns requisite for every grade or degree of relationship forwarded free on application.

SUPERIOR BLACK SILKS.
Rich Paris Black Silks, from £1 10 0 the Full Dress to the Plain Glacé Silks ... 1 15 0 ... 2 5 0 ... 2 15 0 ... 3 5 0
Drapes ... 1 5 0 ... 1 15 0 ... 2 5 0
Broché ... 1 5 0 ... 1 15 0 ... 2 5 0
Reps and Gros Grains ... 1 5 0 ... 1 15 0 ... 2 5 0
Antiques ... 1 5 0 ... 1 15 0 ... 2 5 0
Half-mourning Silks ... 1 0 0 ... 1 5 0 ... 1 10 0
Patterns free.
PETER ROBINSON'S Family Mourning Warehouse, 103 and 104, Oxford-street, London, W.

ORCHARD and CO.'S ANNUAL CHARGE SALE.
THE ROYAL SHAWL,
in brilliancy of colour and magnificence of design equal to the costly Indian cashmere, is
THE GUINEA BALL DRESS.
THE ALEXANDRA OPERA CLOAK,
the emporium of the Undiscriminate Tartarian.
French Flounced Muslin Dresses, 12s. 6d., 15s., 18s., 21s., 25s., 30s., 35s., 42s., 50s., 63s., 70s., 84s., 90s., 105s., 126s.
Patterns free.
PETER ROBINSON'S Family Mourning Warehouse, 103 and 104, Oxford-street, London, W.

LADIES' MANTLE CLOTHS, Half-a-yard Tweeds and Mottoes, Rice Diagonals, Black Cloths, and Velvets, for Cloaks and Mantles, at 1s. 6d. per yard; patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S Family Warehouse for the Gentlemen and Boys' wear, from 1s. 6d. per yard to the finest quality, equally cheap.
C. HEKING and CO., 111, Holborn-hill (corner of Hatton-garden).

LINENDRAPERS TO THE QUEEN BY APPOINTMENT.
LADIES' WEDDING OUTFITS
and
Descriptive Tariff, with Patterns, sent free by post.
CAPTER, SON, and CO., 24, Grosvenor-street, London, E.C.

Sent post-free, Descriptive Lists of
COMPLETE SETS OF BABY LINEN, from the smallest and most inexpensive
throughout the kingdom free of carriage.
UNDESCRIBABLE BABY LINEN FOR COLONIES, for Ladies and Children of all ages.

LINENDRAPERS TO THE QUEEN BY APPOINTMENT.
BABIES' BASSINETS
ready for use, and sent home free of carriage.
Price-lists and Patterns free.
CAPTER, SON, and CO., 24, Grosvenor-street, London, E.C.

100 PATTERNS—NEW SILKS, the Dress, 12s. 6d., all pure plain and figured, from 1 pattern to 100 Dresses.
At NICHOLSON'S, 50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

50 PATTERNS—BLACK SIL

NEW MUSIC.

Just published.

MOZART'S TWELFTH MASS, for Pianoforte. By FRANZ NAVA. Just published, a new and complete Edition, in neat in cloth, price 2s. post-free.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

ROSSINI'S STABAT MATER, for Pianoforte, with Moscheles' Fourth Duet, for four and eight fingers Beautiful, in cloth, price 2s. post-free.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW SACRED WORK FOR THE HARMONIUM.—Twenty-two FULL or CONCLUDING VOLUNTARIES for the Harmonium, selected from the works of Handel, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Spohr, and the small Churches Masters. Royal 8vo, price 5s. cloth, 5s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

RIMBAULT'S 100 PSALM and HYMN TUNES, ANCIENT and MODERN, selected from the most eminent Church Composers. Price 3s., in cloth, 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

RIMBAULT'S 100 Original INTERLUDES for HARMONIUM, adapted to the Psalm and Hymn Tunes in use in Churches, and arranged expressly for the Harmonium by Dr. Rimbault. Price 3s., in cloth, 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

RIMBAULT'S 200 CHANTS by the best Composers, Ancient and modern, selected from the Books of the various Cathedrals, and arranged expressly for the Harmonium by Dr. Rimbault. 3s., in cloth, 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

RIMBAULT'S 50 SHORT VOLUNTARIES for the HARMONIUM, expressly suited to small churches and chapels. Price 3s., in cloth, 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' ALEXANDRA WEDDING MARCH. Just published, a new Number for the Pianoforte by this popular Composer. Price 3s.; Duet, 4s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' GOD SAVE THE QUEEN. Just published, a new Edition, as dignified to think 'God Save the Queen' one of Mr. Richards' most striking Arrangements. Price 3s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' ANNIE LISLE. This popular Song in new characters for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.; Duet, 4s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' COMPLETE TUTOR for the PIANOFORTE. The best, the newest, and cheapest of all Instruction Books, containing elementary instructions, scales, and exercises, and a variety of the most popular pieces in progressive lessons. Sixty pages, full music size, price 2s., post-free. N.B. A list of Mr. Richards' Popular Pieces sent to any application.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' ELLY MACMAHON. This charming Song from Benedict's new Opera arranged for the Pianoforte.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

OSBORNE'S LILY OF KILLARNEY, a Fantasia on Favourite Airs from Benedict's popular Opera, price 3s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

OSBORNE'S RECOLLECTIONS, from Benedict's Opera, the LILY OF KILLARNEY. Price 3s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

Just published.

KUHE'S NATIONAL MELODIES for the PIANOFORTE.
No. 1. "The March of the Men of Harlech." Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S SEMIRAMIDE. Grand Fantasia on Airs from Rossini's favourite Opera, for the Pianoforte, in this popular series. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S MASSANIELLO.—Just published, a new Edition for the Pianoforte on Airs from this charming Opera. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S PRINCE OF WALES'S GALOP. A new Edition, beautifully illustrated, with a Portrait of Princess of WALES, the Prince of WALES by BAXTER. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S SOLDIER'S POLKA. A new Edition of this splendid Polka in just publish, with a Portrait of the Right Honourable the Duke of Cambridge by BRANDARD, in Colours. Price 3s.; Duet, 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S KATHLEEN MAVOURNEEN WALTZ. Founded on the favourite Song of "Kathleen Mavourneen." Just published, a new Edition, beautifully illustrated. Price 3s.; Duet, 4s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERTS WEST-END POLKA. A new Edition of this charming Polka, splendidly illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD. Price 3s., post-free.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

ALBERT LINDAHL'S New Piece, "Adieu," Mélodie Pensée Fugitive for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NAVA'S DANISH NATIONAL SONG and DANCE. Just published for the Pianoforte price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

EILY MAVOURNEEN, Sung by Mr. SIMS REEVES, Opera, "The Lily of Killarney," and enthusiastically encored every evening. Price 2s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

I'M ALONE. Sung by Miss Louisa Pyne in Benedict's Opera, "The Lily of Killarney," and most satisfactorily encored every night. Price 2s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

I'M WITH YOU IN KILLARNEY VALLEY. A most exquisite ballad, sung by Miss Louisa Pyne in Benedict's Opera, "The Lily of Killarney." Price 2s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

50 OPERATIC MELODIES for the PIANOFORTE. Price 1s. Being No. 41 of CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE. Just published. Post-free, 1s. 2d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

100 IRISH MELODIES for the PIANOFORTE. Price 1s. Being No. 42 of CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE. Just published. Post-free, 1s. 2d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

100 SCOTCH MELODIES for the PIANOFORTE. Price 1s. Being No. 43 of CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE. Just published. Post-free, 1s. 2d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE ORPHAN'S SONG. Composed by OLIVER KING, and sung by Miss Dolby—by all the Morning Popular Concerts with immense success. Price 2s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street, W.

NOTICE.—HALF-PRICE.—All Music, and the best Editions, at half the published price, sent post-free for gateway. Country Booksellers supplied.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street, W.

The Latest Enchantress of the Day.

COOTE'S FAIRY VISIONS. Illustrated. Price 4s. Solo or Duet. One of this Composer's happiest ideas, sparkling and dramatic.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-st.

The best Set of Lancers are

COOTE'S COURT LANCERS. Price 4s. Introducing "The Pilgrim of Love," "My Pretty Page," "So Early in the Morning," "The Chase," and other popular Airs. A real merry set. No dance programme complete without them. Always redemanded.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

COOTE'S NEW YORK QUADRILLES on Popular Melodies. Price 4s. Solo or Duet. The last set ever composed. Price 4s., Solo or Duet; 5s., Duet, 5s.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

NEW MUSIC.

BOOSEYS' MUSICAL LIBRARY.—Every Subscriber at Two Guineas receives a splendid Guinea Volume of Music. Subscription has the use of twelve pieces of music in town and twenty pieces in the country. Subscribers at Three Guineas have the use of four pieces. Full particulars from 28, Holles-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' POETUGUESE HYMN, an arrangement for the pianoforte of "Adeste Fideles" and companion to his new "Portuguese" Hymn. Price 3s. Just published.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' ARIEL. Caprice in 3/8 Valse, published this day, price 3s. 6d. As an original composition, this is likely to be the most popular of all the author's productions.—BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

VIRGINIA GARDEN.
DREAM, DEAR DREAM. A very beautiful Cavatina Song for contralto and mezzo-soprano voices. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

CLARIBEL.
THE TWO NESTS. An exquisite Song by CLARIBEL, Author of "Twilight on the Morning." BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

CLARIBEL.
THROUGH THE ARCADE, New Song, by CLARIBEL, Author of "Five o'Clock in the Morning." BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

NORDMANN'S SICILIAN MARINERS' HYMN, as a Duet for the Pianoforte. Also, by the same Composer, "Adeste Fideles," "Hail to the Chief," and "Adieu Fidelis." Price 3s. each.—BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

HARMONIUM.—BOOSEYS' 60 OPERATIC AIRS for HARMONIUM, in 3 Books, 3s. each, or Short Voluntaries, 3s. 6d. The Harmonium Museum, Sixth Edition, 7s. 6d.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

CHÈRE AMIE VALSE. By FRANK MUSGRAVE. Founded on Rossini's beautiful "Quis Amicum." Price 4s. Superbly Illustrated in Colours.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

BOW-BELLS POLKA. By FRANK MUSGRAVE. Illustrated in Colours. Price 3s.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

CHEAP EDITION OF THALBERG'S ART OF SINGING, applied to the Piano, in 6 Books, each 3s., or complete in one, much pleasure in announcing this important work, which has been published at a cheap price. The Art of Singing "(as performed at the Author's late Concerts, with an accompaniment for the Pianoforte, by the Author) will form a Standard book (answering the purpose of a national Gradus ad Parnassum), for the Study of the Vocal Passages in Pianoforte Music. Also Thalberg's Fantasia, Op. 63, on Airs from Auber's Opera, and "Lucia Dal" (together), 2s. 6d.—BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BOOSEYS' PIANOFORTE CLASSICS. Each number contains 24 pages, and includes the following works at one-fourth their original price—viz., 3s. each.
1. Beethoven's Sonatas (complete).
2. Beethoven's Fantasias (complete).
3. Beethoven's Trios (complete).
4. Mozart's Juvenile Pieces.

SIR HENRY BISHOP'S GLEES, OUR FENNY SKATE.
Boosey' Standard Edition of Glees, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, price One Penny each; or in two parts, 1s.; or complete in cloth, 2s.

1. Clough and crow.
2. Mynheer Van Dunck, and
3. When the wind blows.
4. Ye spotted snakes, beware.
5. Winds, gently whisper.
6. What shall he have that killed the deer?
7. Ye gentlemen of England.
8. Home, sweet home.
9. Bright, bright as the sun.
10. How lovely are the messengers.
11. Fair hope, sweet hope.
12. Who is Sylvia? what is she?
13. Oh, by roses.
14. Fly, birds, fly.
15. Sing, birds, sing.
16. The fire pinnace.
17. Hail, smiling morn.
18. Mynheer Van Dunck.
19. Sweet Echo.
20. Lo! the merry huntsman.
21. Blow, gentle gales.
22. Hark! hark! unbar the lofty gate.
23. Now trump o'er cross and field.
24. Fair hope, sweet hope.
25. Oh, by roses.
26. When Venice' wealthy
27. The two double beauties.

BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

HENRY SMART'S 12 INTERLUDES and 12 INTERLUDES for the Organ, Price 2s. 6d. in cloth. An entirely original work, suitable for opening, closing, and well varied.—Athenæum.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BOOSEYS' SEPTET BAND-BOOKS for outside Twelve Sets of popular Quadrilles, Valses, Polkas, Galops, and Lancers, arranged for Septet Band, forming complete programmes for a ball. Bound in seven books, cloth back, price 3s., complete. Or separately, Nos. 1 to 7, price 6d. each.

BOOSEYS' CHEAP VOCAL OPERAS. Each Opera contains the Overture, Songs, Concerted Music, and the original Italian or German. In cloth volumes. The cheapest edition without any mutilation.

Trovatore	5s. 6d.	Dinorah	3s. 6d.
Lucrezia	3s. 6d.	Sonnambula	3s. 6d.
Rigoletto	3s. 6d.	Norma	3s. 6d.
Favorita	3s. 6d.	Ernani	3s. 6d.
Elisir d'Amore	3s. 6d.	Don Pasquale	3s. 6d.
Linda	3s. 6d.	Zauberflöte	3s. 6d.
Ballo in Maschera	3s. 6d.	Puritani	3s. 6d.
Iphigenia	3s. 6d.	Il Flauto	3s. 6d.

Published every Saturday, price One Penny,

THE WEEKLY VOCALIST; a Miscellany of New Popular Songs for Pianoforte Accompaniment. No. 5 contains "The Old Folk Thorn," by Claribel" and "Ye Mariners of England."

Published every Saturday, price One Penny,

THE WEEKLY PIANIST. No. 3 contains a new Waltz by BRINLEY RICHARDS.
Office: 13, Beaufort-buildings, Strand.

Introducing the Danish National Air,

COOTE'S ALEXANDRA QUEEN, "The Lily of Killarney," and enthusiastically encored every evening. Price 2s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

I'M ALONE. Sung by Miss Louisa Pyne in Benedict's Opera, "The Lily of Killarney," and most satisfactorily encored every night. Price 2s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

I'M WITH YOU IN KILLARNEY VALLEY. A most exquisite ballad, sung by Miss Louisa Pyne in Benedict's Opera, "The Lily of Killarney." Price 2s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

50 OPERATIC MELODIES for the PIANOFORTE. Price 1s. Being No. 41 of CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE. Just published. Post-free, 1s. 2d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

100 IRISH MELODIES for the PIANOFORTE. Price 1s. Being No. 42 of CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE. Just published. Post-free, 1s. 2d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

100 SCOTCH MELODIES for the PIANOFORTE. Price 1s. Being No. 43 of CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE. Just published. Post-free, 1s. 2d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE ORPHAN'S SONG. Composed by OLIVER KING, and sung by Miss Dolby—by all the Morning Popular Concerts with immense success. Price 2s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street, W.

The Latest Enchantress of the Day.

COOTE'S FAIRY VISIONS. Illustrated. Price 4s. Solo or Duet. One of this Composer's happiest ideas, sparkling and dramatic.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-st.

The best Set of Lancers are

COOTE'S COURT LANCERS. Price 4s. Introducing "The Pilgrim of Love," "My Pretty Page," "So Early in the Morning," "The Chase," and other popular Airs. A real merry set. No dance programme complete without them. Always redemanded.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

COOTE'S NEW YORK QUADRILLES on Popular Melodies. Price 4s. Solo or Duet. The last set ever composed. Price 4s., Solo or Duet; 5s., Duet, 5s.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

NEW MUSIC.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD'S MUSIC CIRCULATING LIBRARY for Town and Country. Terms—Two, Three, and Four Guineas per Annum.
201, Regent-street, W.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD undertake the Publication of Compositions for the Author.
201, Regent-street, W.

HALF PRICE.—All full-priced Music sent Post-free at Half the marked Price.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

A. S. SULLIVAN'S TEMPEST. Cloth, 12s. 6d.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

Rose of Nymphs. Quartet. Pianoforte Duet, 4s.—Barnett Dance, Pianoforte Solo, 3s.; Polka, Duet, 3s.—Honour, rules, marriage, Lucas, Duet, 3s.—"When the bee sucks, sung by Miss Banks, 2s. 6d.

"Mr. Sullivan's Concert" Music, pro'ved the either example at Manchester, succeeded entirely. There have been few cases of a Concert-giver's Music being so much in vogue in one time.—Vide Athenæum, Jan. 31, 1863.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

DREAM OF ST. JEROME. Price 2s. 6d. "Many Charley-pieces have been written on the old Folks, and went to the piano, and played as Beethoven's 'Dream of St. Jerome,' which should neither be set aside as a trifle. 'The Dream' is a poem of Tennyson in music.—Athenæum of Philip, by W. H. Thackeray.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' BISHOP'S MELODIES.
No. 1. "Mynheer Van Dunck."
No. 2. "The Chough and Crow."
No. 3. "Tell me, my heart."
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' DANISH MELODIES.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

ROSSINI'S CUJUS ANIMAM, most effectively arranged by BRINLEY RICHARDS. 3s.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

LINDSAY SLOPER'S GALOP DE CONCERT, Illustrated in Colours. Price 3s.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

ASCHER'S—DRYADES NAIADES, Impromptu—une Mélodie de "bonne" as played by Miss Goddard.—CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

FREDERICK SCOTT'S (the Hungarian Pianist) NEW COMPOSITIONS, performed by him with immense success.

"Christmas Bells." Reverie	..	..	3s. 0d.
"La Rosière de Salency." Pastorale	..	..	3s. 0d.
"Le Chant des Oiseaux." Caprice	..	..	3s. 0d.
"Les Cloches du Village." Divertissement	..	..	3s. 0d.
"La Prière de la Vierge." Nocturne	..	..	3s. 0d.
"Souvenir à Vienne." Galop de Concert	..	..	4s. 0d.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

LEFÉBURE WELY.—PENSÉES MÉLODIQUES. 3s. each.

No. 1. "Nuit d'Orient"	..	Rêverie.
2. "La Cloche du Soir"	..	Nocturne.
3. "Les Lapons"	..	Nocturne.
4. "Les Bohémiens"	..	Caprice.
5. "Le Mystère"	..	Etude.
6. "Le Rêve"	..	Nocturne.

All the above are for Concert-performance. Lists gratis.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

STEPHEN HELLER.
Op. 128 .. .. .. Op. 46.
"The Arrow and the Rose." Two charming works by the same original Composer, published this day, and sure to become favourites. The Nocturne is one of the most expressive pieces; the Polonaise will attract by its originality, and the brilliancy of the Introduction and some passages of climax which are truly exciting.—Athenæum, Jan. 31, 1863.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

STEPHEN HELLER'S DANSES NAÏVES SANS PAROLES. In two Numbers, 2s. 6d. each. Two most charming Pieces.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

ARTHUR A. SULLIVAN—"THOUGHTS."
No. 1. "Allegretto con Grazia."
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

WALTER MACFARREN.—FAIRY BOAT. 3s.
A very elegant barcarolle for pianoforte.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

THE NEWEST DANCE MUSIC.
"The youngest daughter of Terpsichore."—Quadrille. G. Scott, 4s.
"Labelle Espagnole" Quadrille. W. H. Montgomery. 4s.
"Bonbons" Quadrille. Lindsay Sloper. 4s.
"Il Bacio" Valse. Arditi. "Les Fleurs" and "L'Amitié." Carlo Zucchi. 4s.
"The Village" Waltzes. W. Vanderwell. 3s.
"Rose of Denmark" Waltzes. W. H. Montgomery. 4s.
"Les Bohémiens" Waltzes. Lindsay Sloper. 4s.
"Whitington" Polka. W. H. Montgomery. 3s.
"Darwin" Polka. G. Scott. 3s.
"Exhibition" Galop. J. P. Clark. 3s.
"Lavinia" Polka Mazurka. W. Vanderwell. 3s.
"Lavinia" Quadrille. W. Vanderwell. 3s.
Marked thus ✱ are beautifully Illustrated.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

J. P. CLARKE'S "POSTMAN" or "NIGHT MAIL." Galop. 3s.
By the Composer of the celebrated Galop, "Night Bell" Galop, which it equals in popularity.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

HERRICK'S LITANY. "Sweet Spirit, comfort me." Sung by MADAME LEMMENS-SHERRINGTON and encored. Song. Sung by Miss Dolby.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

WAYWARD WIND. FRANCESCO BERGER'S New Song. 3s. Sung by Miss Banks.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

HAGAR. Sacred Song. By RENÉ FAVARGER. 3s. One of the best Sacred Songs lately published.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

LOYE'S REQUEST (Liebes Bitte). A. REICHARDT'S New Song. Sung by Madame Lemmens-Sherrington.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

O MOON OF NIGHT! AUGUST MANN'S New Song. 3s. Sung by Miss Banks.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

THE PURE IN HEART SHALL MEET AGAIN. Sacred Song. By ROSALIND GILBERT. 3s. "An exquisite composition."
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

YOUNG EMMELINE. ("Priez pour Elle.") HENRY SMART'S charming Song. 3s. 6d.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

PAQUITA. Ballad. By H. SMART. 2s. 6d.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

WHEN FIRST THE BELLS. GEORGE FREDERICK WEST'S New Song. 3s. Sung by Miss Dolby.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

NOW THOU ART MINE. ARDITI'S New Song.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

ARDITI'S New Song, COLLI NATIVI. 3s.
"Their Song of Songs."—Morning Post.
Arditi speaks in beauty of melody and effect his celebrated "Bacio."
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

A. H. NELLE NOTTI LIMPIDE. Melodia. By F. LASLACHE. 2s. 6d. Admirably written for the Voice, and well suited for the concert-room.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

JOHN BROADWOOD and SON'S NEW SEMI-GRAND, with three strings in the treble. CRAMER, BEALE and WOOD have the honour to announce that these Pianofortes. They are an immense advance on the old Semi-grands. The tone is in the highest degree musically telling in quality. Price 70 guineas, 80 and 90 guineas.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN PIANINO (the only Piccolo to which the Prize Medal was awarded).—A very elegant Pianoforte, of the smallest size, the full compass, check action, and more perfect touch, admirably adapted to small rooms, yachts, bands, &c. Warranted to keep in tune, and to be the best and cheapest Pianoforte with check action and all the latest improvements. Price, in mahogany, rosewood, or walnut, 35 and 36 guineas. A great variety may be seen at
Chappell and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ENGLISH MODEL COTTAGE PIANOFORTE.—To assurers preferring the purer English tone of the Pianoforte manufactured by the Makers to the Royal Family, CHAPPELL and Co. have much pleasure in announcing that a moderate price for the same simple description as the above model, but in a more elegant case, especially adapted for use where the more complicated action is objectionable to many of their friends. In elegant rosewood case, with fret, price 50 guineas; in respect to other instruments at 30 guineas, price 35 guineas; in walnut, 40 guineas.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN MODEL PIANOFORTE, price 30 guineas in rosewood; or in walnut, 35 guineas. This Instrument is the production of the well-known firm of Messrs. Cetawe. It is strengthened by every possible contrivance, and is guaranteed to stand in tune as well as any Piano in any climate. The touch is perfect, the tone full and pure, the tone is round, full, and rich; and the power equal to that of a Robert Stoud. The touch is elastic, and the repetition very rapid. In Pianoforte, as all respects comparable, has hitherto been made in this country at a price so low. Every Instrument is fully warranted, and (if desired) may be returned within a month of the purchase.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BROADWOOD, COLLARD, and ERARD, PIANOFORTES, at 30 guineas, having been now brought to perfection, may be had of the entire stock of these well-known
CHAPPELL and CO.'S, 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES. CHAPPELL and Co. have a large choice of SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES for Sale, by BROADWOOD, COLLARD, ERARD, and other eminent Makers, which have been returned after hire or exchange.—Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

PIANOFORTES at CHAPPELL'S.—The largest Stock in London, by Broadwood, Collard, Erard, &c., for Sale or Hire.—50, New Bond-street.

ALEXANDRE'S DRAWING-ROOM A MODEL HARMONIUM, the best that can be made, price 50 guineas. Descriptive lists of Alexandre's Harmoniums and Catalogues of Pianofortes and Harmoniums upon application to
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

SIX-OCTAVE HARMONIUM by ALEXANDRE, with Two Rows of Vibrators, and Six Stops. These Instruments are lower in price and superior to all other Stop Harmoniums.—Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND HARMONIUMS, by ALEXANDRE, Comprising (if not sold before this week) at greatly-reduced prices, at CHAPPELL'S, 50, New Bond-street.

ALEXANDRE'S NEW INVENTION A MODEL HARMONIUM, for the CHURCH, in case, 8 rows of vibrators, 14 stops, 3 rows of keys, with 30 notes of the right foot, in oak case, 32 guineas. A large assortment may be seen at CHAPPELL'S, 50, New Bond-street.

THE SICCAMA FLUTE.—Old System of Fingering.—These celebrated Instruments are now solely manufactured by RUDALL, RUDALL, and ROSE, late CLEMENTI and CO., 26, CHAPPELL, 24, Regent-street, from whom detailed price-lists may be had. Flutes, Flageolets, Fifes, Boys' Instruments, Sicilian Reed-Band Flutes, &c.

ANTOINE COURTOIS' CORNETS-à-PISTONS.—These celebrated Instruments, used by every performer of eminence in the Kingdom, are made solely by RUDALL, RUDALL, and ROSE, late CLEMENTI and CO., 26, CHAPPELL, 24, Regent-street, from whom price-lists and every information may be had.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD'S PIANOFORTE GALLERY, 201, Regent-street. The largest in Europe.
Every Instrument for Sale or Hire. Lists sent free. All at the Exposition given of it. Inferior Instruments are carefully excluded from the stock.
Pianofortes by all the eminent English, Continental, and American Manufacturers. CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD.

EASY TERMS OF PURCHASE.—CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD have arranged a system of Purchase, by which the Pianoforte is let for a PIANOFORTE by INSTALMENTS. Terms may be known by letter or personally at 201, Regent-street, W.

ERARD'S NEW BOUDOIR GRAND PIANOFORTE.—These Grand have manufactured this new Pianoforte, which is pronounced by the most eminent Pianistes of the day to be the most perfect Pianoforte ever made. Messrs. CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, who have secured the first lease, are prepared to let them on Hire, at Three Guineas per month.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD'S, 201, Regent-street.

THE DRAWING-ROOM COTTAGE. CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD manufacture a Cottage Pianoforte for those who require a thoroughly good Instrument, but have not room for a Cottage or Upright Grand. The touch, tone, and workmanship of this beautiful instrument has been produced with an elegance of design, combining the most perfect principles, which has gained for it universal approbation. No better Pianoforte of this class can be produced. Price 50 guineas. CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

THE ENGLISH PIANETTE, 22 Guineas. CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD manufacture a cottage small instrument, 6 octaves, with the full compass of keys, trichord throughout, check action, solid touch, agreeable tone. The case is of polished oak or pine, 3 feet high, and will be found to stand well in tune, from its rigidity. Every part of this Pianette is precisely on an old instrument by the best makers, and is guaranteed for five years. Price 22 guineas.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

Purchasers are particularly requested to observe that this instrument has not the name of any Firm, but the words of check action; and that as yet Cramer and Co. are the only manufacturers of the Pianette.

REPAIRING PIANOFORTES.—CRAMER and CO. give especial attention to the Repairing of Pianofortes. The most skilful workmen only are employed. Every case is taken to pieces, and every part examined.

TUNE YOUR PIANOFORTES by the YEAR: 10s., 20s., 25s., according to Instrument.—CRAMER, and CO.'s staff of experienced Tuners is the largest in the Metropolis. Metropolis. Note required to communication.

THE HARMONIUM.—CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD HIRE PIANOFORTES by the Night, Week, Month, or Year, with Liberal Arrangements for Purchase.

DEBAIN'S HARMONIUMS.—CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD (Sole Agents), 201, Regent-street.

BOOSEYS' MINIATURE PIANOFORTE, price 20 guineas. This Instrument is suitable for the Drawing-room, Study, or Schoolroom, and has the full compass, and is in every respect a perfect Pianoforte.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BOOSEYS' MINIATURE PIANOFORTE possesses great brilliancy, a good, firm touch, and rapid speech, and is in every respect a perfect Pianoforte.—BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BOOSEYS' MINIATURE PIANOFORTE may be made in the very best manner, and, from its strength and compact form, is especially adapted for the use of a ship or an extreme climate.
BOOSEYS' MINIATURE PIANOFORTE. An extensive stock may be seen at Boosey and Sons, 28, Holles-street, where also an illustrated prospectus may be had.

EVANS'S ENGLISH HARMONIUMS are fitted the Prize Medal at the International Exhibition. Lists sent free.—BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

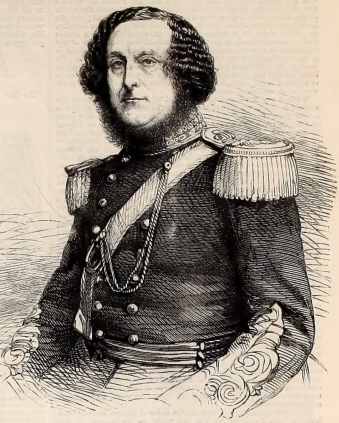
EVANS' COTTAGE HARMONIUMS are of guineas, and School Harmoniums at 12 guineas.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

EVANS' ENGLISH HARMONIUMS, for Chapels, Drawing-rooms, &c., with one or two rows of vibrators, and from 8 to 14 stops, are made in every variety of style. Illustrated Prospectus may be had on application to the manufacturers.—BOOSEY and SONS, 24, Holles-street, London.

CASE'S ENGLISH CONCERTINAS.—These well-known Instruments, which established their unrivalled reputation, possess a rapid speech, a good quality of tone, and remain in tune longer than any other Concertinas.
BOOSEY and SONS, Manufacturers, 24, Holles-street.

THE MOVERS AND SECONDERS OF THE ADDRESS IN BOTH HOUSES OF PARLIAMENT

THE EARL OF GRANARD.



THE EARL OF DUDLEY.

THE EARL OF DUDLEY.

THE address of the House of Lords in answer to the Speech from the Throne, at the opening of the present Session, was moved by the Earl of Dudley. This nobleman, better known as Lord Ward, to which title he succeeded on the death of his father, the eleventh Baron, in 1833, was raised to the dignity of an Earl in 1860. The first Peer in this family was Humble Ward, who, having married Baroness Dudley, granddaughter and successor of Edward Sutton, Lord Dudley, whose title was created by writ in 1342, was raised to the peerage as Baron Ward. His son inherited the two titles, and became Baron Dudley and Ward. The sixth Baron was advanced to the dignity of a Viscount in 1763; and the fourth Viscount, who was distinguished in political and literary life, and who held the office of Secretary for Foreign Affairs in Mr. Canning's brief Ministry, was created Earl Dudley and Ward. On his death, without issue, all the titles became extinct, except the barony of Ward, which passed to the present Peer's father as great-grandson of the first Baron's second son, all the intermediate branches of the family having become extinct. The present Earl was born in 1817. He completed his education at Trinity College, Cambridge, and in 1851 married the daughter of Hubert De Burgh, Esq., who died in the same year. In 1854 he was appointed Lieutenant-Colonel in command of the Worcestershire Yeomanry Cavalry, in the uniform of which corps he appeared when moving the address; and a Deputy Lieutenant of Worcestershire and Staffordshire in 1859. The Earl was chosen as one of the suite of Earl Granville, on the occasion of his proceeding as Ambassador Extraordinary to represent her Majesty at the coronation of the Emperor of Russia. Although an active magistrate, and taking much interest in the local politics of the two counties in which his vast possessions lie, the Earl of Dudley has not until now made any public appearance in Parliament, when he was selected as the mover of the address this Session.

THE EARL OF GRANARD.

The seconder of the address in the Upper House was the Right Hon. George Arthur Hasting Forbes, seventh Earl of Granard, Viscount Granard and Baron Clanehugh in the peerage of Ireland, and Baron Granard in that of the United Kingdom, a Baronet, Lord Lieutenant of the county of Leitrim, and a Knight of St. Patrick. His Lordship, who is the eldest son of the sixth Earl, was born in 1833, and succeeded to his titles in 1837, and after a long minority took his seat in the House of Peers in 1855, having held the post of Attaché to the British Legation at Dresden from 1852 to 1854. The first Earl of the family supported the cause of the Stuarts during the civil wars, and was raised to the peerage after the Restoration. The Earl, who is unmarried, has not hitherto placed himself prominently forward in the discussions in the House of Peers.

THE HON. FREDERICK CALTHORPE, M.P.

The Hon. Frederick Henry William Gough Calthorpe, who moved the address in the House of Commons, is the eldest son of the fourth Baron Calthorpe, was born in 1826, and educated at Eton, and Trinity College, Cambridge. He is a Deputy Lieutenant and a magistrate for the county of Warwick, and has held a commission as Lieutenant in the Gloucestershire Yeomanry Cavalry. He was elected one of the members for the eastern division of Worcestershire in 1859. Mr. Calthorpe is in politics a Moderate Liberal, being in favour of an extension of the franchise, but opposed to the ballot and to the abolition of church rates. As far as can be ascertained, he made his first essay as a Parliamentary speaker on the first night of the present Session, in the semi-official character of mover of the address.

THOMAS BAZLEY, ESQ., M.P.

The seconder of the address in the House of Commons was Thomas Bazley, Esq., member for Manchester, for which borough he was elected in 1858 on the death of Sir John Potter, who had represented that city since 1857, when, in conjunction with Mr. Aspinall Turner, he took the seats of Mr. Bright and Mr. Milner Gibson from them. Mr. Bazley was born in 1797, and is the eldest son of Thomas Bazley, Esq., of Bolton, and is one of the principal manufacturers in Manchester. He was a member of the Royal Commission for the Great Exhibition of 1851. He is a Deputy Lieutenant and magistrate for Lancashire, and is an officer of the French Legion of Honour. In politics he is an outside Liberal, being in favour of an extension of the suffrage, the ballot, and triennial Parliaments. Mr. Bazley is a constant and assiduous attendant on the sittings of the House during every Session; and, though an infrequent speaker, has taken part occasionally in those discussions on which his commercial and local experience give him a right to be heard, and he has been accordingly always favourably received.

Our Portraits are taken from photographs by John and Charles Watkins of Parliament-street.

SKETCHES IN PARLIAMENT.

But for the political advent of the Heir to the Throne the early days of the Session of 1863 would have been devoid of a single feature. We have, unhappily, become so accustomed to the delivery of the Queen's Speech by Commission that it comes as a matter of course; and the scene in the House of Peers, which used to be so picturesque, now borders on the grotesque. This time, however, there was a sight to be seen which was bright-coloured, if it was not graceful in the grouping, and interest was sufficiently roused when one saw the youthful Prince, who, in almost a literal sense, assumed his manly toga on this occasion, pace slowly up the floor of the gilded chamber of the Peers, the somewhat diminutive (physically) centre of a procession of, on the whole, rather tall men. At any rate, placed between the Duke of Cambridge and the Duke of Newcastle, both above the average height, his slight, low form seemed still boyish; and, though the face is handsome (the profile, when it is caught, very like that of his father), and the figure graceful, the general appearance is that of a small man. When seated for a moment in the chair on the right of the throne, one could not but contrast his slightness with one's recollection of the manner in which the late Prince Consort used to fill his portion of the picture which the spot presented when he sat in the corresponding chair on the left. There was, however, but one impression on the minds of all who looked upon the demeanour and appearance of the Prince, and that was that he possesses eminently that charm for which there is an apt French word very inadequately translated by our phrase, gracious. There was a singular gravity and decorum in the place which the Earl of Derby occupied in this ceremonial. It was that to which the Prime Minister, if he had been a Peer, would have been entitled; for it is to be observed that the persons who were appointed to accompany the Prince through the operation of taking his seat were members of the Ministry who are Peers, such as their Majesty's and the Prince of Wales's households are also Peers; the officials connected with the Order of the Garter; the Deputy Earl Marshal, who is not a Peer; and the Lord Great Chamberlain, who is. Now, Lord Derby had, we imagine, no office to be where he was. He stood there as a single Earl; unless, indeed, it is to be understood that the leader of the Opposition is now so completely recognised a functionary that he is to have a high place set apart for him in all State ceremonials. To be sure, his Lordship is her Majesty's far-away cousin, and that might have justified his being one of the Prince's introducers in the absence of a second Royal Duke, but not the position he actually held. As it was the circumstances were suggestive.

MR. BAZLEY, MEMBER FOR MANCHESTER.

MR. CALTHORPE, MEMBER FOR EAST WORCESTERSHIRE.

When it was announced that the Earl of Dudley was to move the address in the Upper House, people began to remember that there was a time when that noble man was supposed to be a Tory, and that there was an apparent incongruity in his doing this act for a genial Liberal Government. But then it was recollected that long ago the Earl formed part of Lord Granville's suite when he was special Ambassador at the coronation of the Emperor of Russia; and that his name has enjoyed not a little notoriety under the fostering auspices of Lord Palmerston, and therefore surprise ceased. Curiously, however, was excited as to how a nobleman who had never appeared much in the House, we believe, although that's not much, but who has the reputation of slight eccentricity, would demean himself on the fashionable commonwealth of a second Royal Duke, but not the position he actually held. As it was the circumstances were suggestive.

When it was announced that the Earl of Dudley was to move the address in the Upper House, people began to remember that there was a time when that noble man was supposed to be a Tory, and that there was an apparent incongruity in his doing this act for a genial Liberal Government. But then it was recollected that long ago the Earl formed part of Lord Granville's suite when he was special Ambassador at the coronation of the Emperor of Russia; and that his name has enjoyed not a little notoriety under the fostering auspices of Lord Palmerston, and therefore surprise ceased. Curiously, however, was excited as to how a nobleman who had never appeared much in the House, we believe, although that's not much, but who has the reputation of slight eccentricity, would demean himself on the fashionable commonwealth of a second Royal Duke, but not the position he actually held. As it was the circumstances were suggestive.

Well, the event has not been eccentric, for that would have been a novelty in moving an address; but he hardly got out of the stereotype of the ceremony. Some of the sentences of it were rather new. As to the Earl of Granard, the seconder, he did second, and that's all that is to be said. One rather fancies that Earl Russell, who used to be also a member of the Upper House, has been a strong temptation to Lord Derby, who, an unmitigated joker of jokes, must think the ex-Lord John Russell to be quite a Peer and Minister for Joking of the first greatest of all jokes. This time the Foreign Secretary had had him-self open to him from those who are less massive and who quarrel with the tongue than Lord Derby; and, truth to say, when one sees Earl Russell sitting on the bench in the Lords, which is too wide and too high for his figure, one fancies that he is a somewhat overgrown boy, cut-self to the requisite dimensions, and when one hears his half-uttered words, which are lost in space, one is apt to think of overgrown boys who cry. Lord Derby found Derby any roasting which he might give him. But the leader of the Opposition, though severe, was generous, and so was Lord Cowley, and Earl Cowell had his revenge when there came the pon-derous platitudinous criticisms of his foreign policy from Lord Malmes-bury, who may be described as a kind of diplomatic parrot. There was a debate in the Upper House was, on the whole, a good one, and con-trasted favourably with that in the Commons, which, after all, might have sat their usual half hour of an evening. But on one occasion even in that brief space, there was caught an opportunity of exhibiting some little temper on the part of the Opposition, which was rather a foregone conclusion.

There was only a change in the order of things, as they have hitherto been regulated on the first night in the Session, in the Commons this year. Time was when the debate was always brisk and ringing, and stretched far into the small hours. Then came the era, which is of three or four years' standing, of well-skimmed Queen's Speeches, and only on the address was there anything like interest general by the chief of the Opposition, a more or less curt reply from the Prime Minister, and an adjournment before eight o'clock. In both these cases members kept their places until all was over. This time the case was different, and, after Mr. Disraeli had spoken, the House emptied as on evenings of special Session, and nothing ensued, kept up by gentlemen who took chances they do not often get, until eleven. In the case of the Lords, the same sort of thing seemed in good humour, almost merry, and they cheered the bores as they promoted themselves with their prescriptive notices of motions and bills to be introduced on Mr. Dary Griffith's and other occasions, as if intending to crown him lord of all the above-mentioned class; and they gave Lord Ellesmere decidedly a hearty cheer, some of it coming from over against him. Then came the address.

A very natural inquiry has been made, why Mr. Calthorpe was selected to take what may be called the formal part of the task of first moving the address? Out of the circle of his personal friends he has not long been out as a member of Parliament, and he has not the air of a Peer, that is not always a sufficient qualification for the function, but it was seen that the appropriation of the moving of the address was a double-barrelled acknowledgment to the Earl of Dudley and Mr. Calthorpe for good service done, in having introduced into novel East Worcestershire two men who had got it into Conservative membership which was made in 1859. Whether that was done commensurately with the services of the two parties themselves. If Mr. Calthorpe's speech was a deliberate composition it was, in some respects, an impudent one; but, if it was an improvised one, things can be, he showed, made of what should be cultivated, and which would do something towards purging him into at least the mediocrity of debaters. His introduction was an commonplace than usual, and he disdained with commendable courage the pedantry of a set peroration. In other times parts of his speech must have made for a most debate. The commercial element in Parliament was appropriately per-sonified in Mr. Baring. From the Treasury bench came a reply to address we always expect facts and figures, and we compound for their being stated both. In Mr. Bailey's case the precedents were followed in all respects, and we could not but feel that the gentleman make a better speech. From the dispiriting of Mr. Seymour Fitzgerald during the discussion, we should say, was mised that he would follow, and therefore that the debate was to be a set one. Lord Dunraven's speech was delivered after the philosophico-political speeches, which are really downright tiresome. There is so much emphasis on mere words, and substance is so fined down, that the whole thing becomes a "fine-drawn" (Cassells), which is a delicate convertible term for froth.

There was a touch of the old fun of his orsition—as it was meant to be, but was not—that with a Speaker less conscientious with regard to the number of hours which he ought to keep in the chair the debate would have continued. Mr. Disraeli, however, hurried into the breach, and was the grim leader of a motley group, in which Lord Dunkellin's sarcasm and Lord Elcho's impulsive his temperament is; and Mr. Charles Forster, who is a useful but generally silent member, actually distinguished himself in a neat-up sentiment; and Sir Patrick O'Brien indirectly asked to be chronicled for the first time as a Baronet; and Mr. Hennessy snipped and snapped at the end of an hour or Island and Major Gilpin and Geo-lowyer, having the House all to himself, raved, ranted, and almost maddened the House, and made it quite clear that nothing could have made it in a degree necessary for Lord Palmerston to forego his evident intention of taciturnity. Of a certainty he did not seem to think the discussion worthy of him, for he was in the most unvigorous a manner that people might have thought the cause physical, and not moral. On Mr. Disraeli his speech produced a little, but for the rest he palpably declined to break butterflies too small; and could have read his secret thoughts, they would probably have been found to be something like this:—"I am not directed in private life towards troublesome children who ought to be modestly whipped and sent to bed. Mr. Somerset Beaumont, in a manner, missed his tip, for some one else got before him at the right moment, and he was forced to be satisfactory and considerate to-minus his prepared indictment on foreign policy. Then Mr. Whalley tried to wake the echoes of the House, but in vain, and when he ceased even the Speaker seemed to think that the time was come for alacrity in putting the question. By-the-by, the next night Mr. Whalley got into a novel position in the House, for he was listened to and almost complimented—a strange contrast to the jeering cheers and laughter which accompany his copious efforts in general.

The impression which the first week of the Session gives one of Parliament is that it has a strong family likeness to a worn-out insti-tution; or, if not that, it must be that a cunning hand has contrived to administer so much political mandragora as to make the legislative body stupefied and drowsy. Nothing threatens and nothing promises looms in the future of the Session. Somebody has suggested that an excitement might be got up by an onslaught on Sir Charles Wood (who, by-the-by, seems this year to speak as if he were swearing in Hindustani) for his Indian administration; but the idea does not appear to have been accepted. Perhaps there is too great a terror of hearing him defend himself. There is a whisper that all contest is to be avoided after the marriage of the Prince of Wales; and that accounts for the stagnation which prevails. It may be so; but, as all the expected topics have been nearly exhausted in the preli-minary skirmishes of the first night, it is not easy to see at present what a row is to be got up about. We have some faith in Mr. Gladstone's genius for stirring up opposition, and he has not yet appeared.

OBITUARY OF EMINENT PERSONS.

THE MARQUIS OF LANSDOWNE, K.G.

The Most Noble Sir Henry Petty-Fitz-Maurice, K.G., third Marquis of Lansdowne, Earl of Kerry and Earl of Wycombe, Viscount Calne and Calnstone, and Baron Wycombe of Chipping Wy-combe, in the county of Bucks, in the Peerage of Great Britain; Earl of Kerry and Earl of Shelburne, Viscount Clanmaurice and Fitzmaurice, Baron of Kerry, Lixnaw, and Dunkerron, in the Peerage of Ireland; Lord Lieute-nant of the Counties of Wilts, Somerset, and of the Stanniries; President of the Board of Trade, and Vice-Presi-dent of the Committee of Council on Education, a Member of the Privy Council, and a Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, died on the 15th inst. at his residence, Bowood, Wilts, in the 78th year of his age.

He was born May 2, 1780, and succeeded his father, the second son by his second marriage with Louisa, second daughter of John, second Earl of Upper Ossory, in 1809. After making a brief trial of the House of Commons as statesman, and Prime Minister in the reign of George III., who was created Baron Wycombe of Wycombe, in Buckinghamshire, in 1760, and Viscount Calne, deceased, known in his younger days as Lord Henry Petty, was born at Luns-borne House, London, on the 2nd of May, 1780, and received his education, where he had for his tutor Mr. Delarey, of Trinity College, Cambridge; and he thence went with him to Edinburgh, where he attended the lectures of Dugald Stewart. He concluded his studies at Cambridge, and took his degree of M.A. from Trinity College in 1801. After making a tour in Switzerland and Germany, he took his seat in Parliament for Calne. He made a successful maiden speech on the 10th of February, 1802, in favour of the Peace of Amiens, which he supported also, with forcible and memorable eloquence, Mr. Whitbread's reso-lution censuring the Ministry for not having made a more favourable treaty. Pitt's Ministry, and Lord Henry Petty was returned for Calne. He was elected M.P. for the University of Cambridge. He, on the 15th of November, 1806, succeeded his half brother, John, second Marquis of Lansdowne, to the marquisate and other family honours. The new Marquis, having gone out with his party, remained for many years in opposition. He supported, and he advocated the abolition of slavery, free trade, and the abolition of all restrictions on commerce. He advocated Catholic Emancipation, and was sworn to the titles of the house of Kerry, on the demise, without issue, of his cousin the fourth Earl of Kerry, in 1818. In 1827 he was sworn of the Privy Council. Secretary in Lord Goderich's Ministry. He was President of the Council in Lord Grey's Reform Ministry of 1830, and in this capacity he took a leading his calmness, sagacity, great temper, and good taste became particularly con-spicuous. His first Lord Lansdowne to say that he should support the Reform Bill through the House of Lords without making any personal enemy. He was created a K.G. in 1831, and in 1832 and 1841, and again from 1846 to 1852, he was Lord Lieutenant of the County of Somerset. He was also a member of the Board of Trade (with Huy, his successor, and Louis, wife of the Hon. James Kennedy Howard) in 1832, and in 1835 and 1836 was Chief Secretary for Ireland

THE POLES AND THEIR PERSECUTORS.

THE EMPEROR NICHOLAS used to say that he only knew two kinds of Poles—those whom he hated and those whom he despised. When he did hate them he hated was something terrific. He added cruelty to cruelty, and with his own hand wrote directions for aggravating the punishments already decreed against them by his not too lenient Ministers and Judges. When the order for transporting five thousand families from Podolia to the Caucasus was submitted to the Emperor by the Minister of the Interior he "deigned" to add with his own hand, "These rules are to serve not only for the provinces of Wolodin, Minsk, Mohilew, Bialystock, Minsk, Volhynia, and Kiefi—which will make other provinces hungry for similar favours." The officials hesitated to carry out this inhuman order, asked for further instructions, and interposed various delays. Ultimately they executed a certain number of families of exile from Podolia, but the first step caused so much indignation that it was thought advisable to drop the rest. The Russian Government subsequently contrived to drive some 20,000 Poles to the last pitch of despair, and this gigantic scheme of extermination was also abandoned.

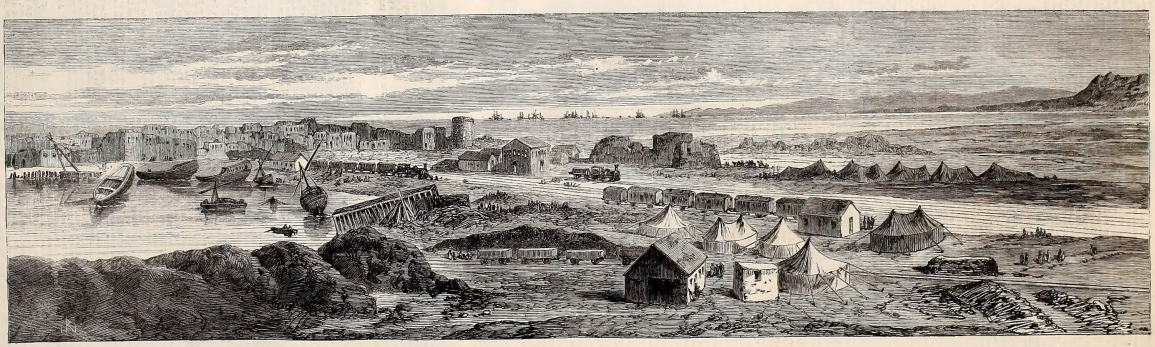
Frederick the Great had transported whole colonies from Saxony into his Prussian dominions, and had found out for the first time the enormous resources there are in their native land in Saxists. But, as the "great" Frederick remarks in one of his letters, "Saxists are not Prussians." Poles are not Russians either. They are, indeed, very like the inhabitants of certain isles, who have been described as "a race between that which they are attacked by and themselves."

Perhaps the blackest and most cowardly action committed by Nicholas in his persecution of the Poles, and certainly one of the most cruel actions ever committed by a ruler in the full light of civilisation, was the punishment of the young Prince Sanguszko as a felon. I have seen Russians and Poles who thought it necessary to transport to the East of Russia, somewhere near to Siberia (one cannot know many subjects of the Russian empire without being acquainted with a few who have undergone the hand of Siberian exile and chain) and have always heard them say that what they had to complain of was the illegality of their banishment—that it was not by any justice that they were beyond that. These, however, must have been fortunate men, who had not seriously committed the crime for which they deserved the fate of Prince Roman Sanguszko. Until I went to Poland I could scarcely believe the story of his having had to undergo the martyrdom of a lash customarily meted out to thieves; but I thought there must be some exaggeration or perhaps some mistake. Since then, however, I have met with several intimate friends of a still more intimate friend, and there can be no doubt as to his having been subjected to the vilest punishment, and by the express order of the Emperor. His crime consisted in the Prince was that of having fought for his country. He was well acquainted with some of the young officers of the Polish army, and was heard to say that when the Empress at Berlin when he was a student and when she was still a Prussian Princess, and had distinguished herself at Court, they were all Germans. There is no way woman of the least heart must naturally have been—as the thought of of this young man, whose family had always stood by the throne of the Jagellons, and entrusted the Emperor to pardon him, or at least to mitigate his punishment. The Emperor, it is said, refused to see any one who had ventured down on their knees and begged the Emperor to spare the young man. These prayers and petitions were only offered on the day

THE TOWN AND HARBOUR OF SUEZ.

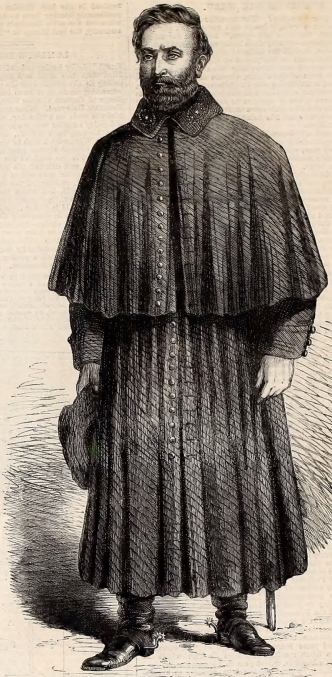
SEE PAGE 174.

PENINSULAR AND ORIENTAL STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY'S BUILDINGS. ENGLISH BURIAL-GROUND. COAL DEPOT. HOTEL. REUTER'S STATION. BRITISH CONSULATE. FRENCH GOVT. OFFICE.



THE TOWN. THE ROADS. ATTAKA POINT.

THE CIVIL WAR IN AMERICA: GENERAL LEE, COMMANDER OF THE CONFEDERATE ARMY IN NORTHERN VIRGINIA.—FROM A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.



THE CIVIL WAR IN AMERICA: GENERAL "STONEWALL" JACKSON. FROM A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

ILLUSTRATIONS OF THE WAR IN AMERICA.

GENERAL LEE.

OUR Artist in the Confederate camp, near Fredericksburg, has forwarded to us a Portrait of General Lee, Commander of the Confederate army in Northern Virginia, which is here reproduced. The Richmond correspondent of the Times writes as follows respecting him:—

"General Lee is, I believe, between fifty and sixty years of age, but wears his years well, and strikes you as the incarnation of health and endurance as he rears his erect soldierlike form from his seat by the fireside to greet courteously the stranger. His manner is calm and stately, his presence impressive and imposing; his dark brown eyes are remarkably direct and honest as they meet you fully and firmly, inspiring great confidence. The shape and type of the head a little resemble Garibaldi's, and the features are those of a much handsomer man. On the rare occasions when he smiles, and on the still rarer occasions when he laughs heartily, disclosing a fine unbroken row of white firm-set teeth, the confidence and sympathy which he inspires are irresistible. A child thrown among a knot of strangers would be inevitably drawn to General Lee first in the company, and would run to claim his protection. His voice is fine and deep, but slightly monotonous in its tone. Altogether, the most winning attribute of the General is his unaffected childlikeness. It is very rare that a man of his age, conversant with important events, and thrown to the surface of mighty convulsions, retains the impress of a simple ingenuous nature to so eminent a degree. It is impossible to converse with him for ten minutes without perceiving how deeply he has meditated upon all the possible eventualities of the campaign in Virginia, and how sound and well-considered are the positions which he advances. It is obvious that the most entire and trusting confidence is placed in General Lee by his subordinate officers, whose respect and affection he seems thoroughly to have won."

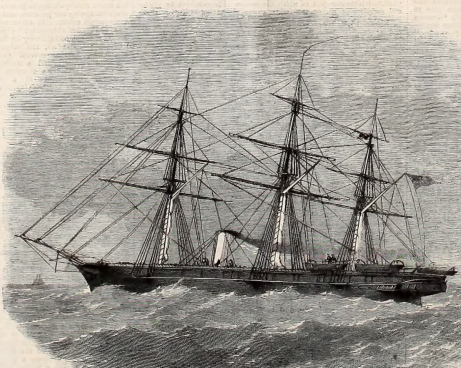
GENERAL "STONEWALL" JACKSON.

Although a Portrait of General "Stonewall" Jackson has appeared in this Journal, we offer no excuse for presenting another of the redoubtable hero from a sketch recently taken by our Special Artist in the Confederate camp, Northern Virginia, where General Jackson is at present located. Appended are a few particulars concerning him from the authority which we have just quoted:—

"At a distance of seven miles from General Lee's head-quarters, near the little village of Bunkerhill, were the head-quarters of General 'Stonewall' Jackson. I had been taught to expect a morose, reserved, distant reception; I found the most genial, courteous, and forthcoming of companions. A bright piercing blue eye, a slightly aquiline nose, a thin, tall sinewy frame 'made all over of pinwire,' a great disregard of dress and appearance—these are the characteristics of General Jackson's exterior. There is also about him a very direct and honest look. The disappointing circumstance is that his voice, which is rapid in its utterance, is weak and unimpressive. Passionately attached to the Valley of Virginia, which has for so long been the principal scene of his achievements, idolised by the inhabitants of Winchester and of the valley, General Jackson has acquired such a fame in that entire neighbourhood that it is sad to think what would happen if the one life round which such prestige clings should yield to a stray bullet or to the chance of disease. Sinewy and wiry as the General seems, it is impossible not to fancy that he is wearing himself terribly by his restless, sleepless activity, by his midnight marches, and by the asceticism of his life. The respect and consciousness of his presence, and what that presence means, exhibited by his staff, impressed me very strongly, and seemed to exceed the respect exhibited towards General Lee.

As there are many conflicting reports about the origin of the name of 'Stonewall,' it may be interesting to repeat the true circumstance under which it was given. In the first battle of Manassas, on July 21, 1861, General Bee, of South Carolina (himself subsequently killed in the same action), observing his men flinching and wavering, called out to them to stand firm, exclaiming, 'Look at Jackson's men; they stand like a stone wall!' In his official report of the battle, General Beauregard employed the same expression in connection with General Jackson's command, and the name has clung to General Jackson ever since."

Thomas Jefferson Jackson was born in Virginia about the year 1825.



H.M.S. SLOOP COLUMBINE, FITTED WITH LUMLEY'S IMPROVED RUDDER.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

Who will help poor Coventry? The traveller who, like Alfred Tennyson, waiting for a train, "hangs with groans and curses on the bridge to watch the three fall spires," has now far different objects for contemplation—to wit, silent looms and deserted factories. Treaties of commerce, that fill the coffers of other towns to repletion, leave a lamentable vacuum in the pocket of Coventry. The staple industry of this ancient and interesting town seems hopelessly decaying; and the cry of Spitalfields, chronic destitution in spite of unremitting toil, is impending over it. If bounteous Lady Godiva could have been prevailed on to ride her white steed once more out of the same fabric; and regarding those who are too poor to buy cotton, there are thousands who are too rich to wear silk, bestow it gratuitously with material. Some little relief might thus be given to Coventry; but, alas! only of a temporary nature. It would be but a "spurt"; and of what avail is a banquet once a year to him who is hungry all the year round? When George IV. was Prince of Wales he was entertained by the Birmingham people to a banquet, the pernicious fashion which supplanted shoeblacks by shootings. The strings carried the day; but Birmingham took heart of grace, and has since done something remarkable in the way of coalscuttle and revolvers. It is possible to be ruined and to get over it.

To the great Exhibition of London could be added the Ragged-school and Industrial Exhibition which enterprising tradesmen are displaying in the windows of pawnbrokers' shops, suggesting not to have now the satisfaction of suggesting that a new anti-scoundrel machine, with "the latest improved principle," should be added. The Home Secretary has at last awakened from that Armida's garden, like slumber in which, according to Mr. Kinglake (In re the council of Dunbober Lodge, a.d. 1858), Ministerial Councils are accustomed to indulge. The ticket-of-leave men are really to be muzzled. On a second conviction he is now ordered to be kept under arrest to its last hour minute, and convicts already in possession of tickets of leave are to be periodically mustered for inspection and identification by the police. A wondrous physiological and mental display will this half-yearly beast show be. William Cobbett once gave vent to a savage wish that all the newspapers in London could be packed upon one Kensington Common in order that the British public might see by what a collection of ugly and shabby-looking fellows their opinions were directed. What, however, would such an exhibition be to a turn out of ticket-of-leave men. Mr. Henry Mayhew tried one some years ago at a public room in Holborn under the auspices of the Earl of Carnarvon, and several celebrated manifestors "improved the occasion" by their addresses; but neither the philanthropist nor criminal audience, having unmistakably manifested their distaste friction at the termination of the proceedings without a tripe supper, Mr. Mayhew never ventured upon a second experiment.

Finsbury-circus, the favourite dwelling-place of the gentility of the city, which likes to live in places of business, and does not care about removing to the palaces of the West-end or the villegiature of the suburbs, is menaced in its integrity by two railway extensions. The Great Eastern Railway by way of the head of Finsbury; the Metropolitan to barrow under its feet—thus realising the popular version of "once upon a time—under one down." The merchants, lawyers, and physicians who inhabit Finsbury-circus naturally object to this wholesale invasion—one, moreover, that threatens to be repeated in almost every part of the metropolis. The chief Railway grievance is the threatened removal of the London Institution, the library of which is second only to that of the British Museum. Was not Professor Porson librarian to this institution in his early days? Neither will Gresham's munificent even survive encroachments are contemplated. Lodgate-hill and the narrow thoroughfares leading to Printing House-square are to be bridged and arched over, and the Gresham premises in office as lamented in between "the coils of a great anaconda." To console itself our contemporary sees in the railway dream of a universal system of terminus, which might have been erected thirty years since, and may be erected a hundred years hence, in the shape of "an enormous central hall, with a dozen passenger platforms through which the citizen, after his day's business, might pass to his own line."

The British Museum has been made recently so unceremoniously "taken" by the Rev. Mr. Shutte—in these days every man of note has an army of biographers lying in wait for him to "take" him—that the Government presented his very handsome and valuable theological library to the county of Cornwall, on condition that a suitable building should be provided for its reception. The munificent gift has been gratefully accepted, and the collection is to find temporary quarters

A case of considerable interest to the literary world—that of Maxwell versus Mayhew—the plaintiff being a publisher and the defendant a printer—was heard last week in the Court of Common Pleas. We say hit trial, for the learned Baron on the bench persuaded the parties to finally settle the matter by the jury and refer the whole matter to the arbitration of Mr. Hepworth Dixon, editor of the Athenæum. This course was perhaps the most prudent one to adopt under the circumstances, as it is not every day we have authorship on the trial case, nor would any number of barristers have been able to throw much light on the subject. All depended upon the "custom of the trade" between author and publisher, the latter naming for damages for a scanty and tardy supply of "copy." The former declared that he could not make bricks without straw, and that he had not had "proofs" of his MS. when printed. When we (a few hundred years since) of shilling's worth of bricks ship we were much given to unpunctuality; and, had damages been obtained from us in any case of the kind, the whole of the building business would have equalled that of a notable newspaper promoter of the last generation who declared that he owed her Majesty's Government three millions, but could not make his balance sheet without stamp gunisher-roofed turrets. The merit of some originality must also be claimed for Mr. Rossiter's little picture of the dismissal of an impudent Cavalier lover by the stern Puritan father (316); in the music carrying, with any other than an ascetic expression, two children across a ford (345), by Mr. Pope; in the two nuns escaping from a convent in a boat and seared by the alarm-bell (301), by Mr. Marshall Claxton; in "Ishmaelites Buying Joseph from his Brethren" (672), a bold composition by Mr. J. D. Browne; and in Mr. W. Field's "Life or Death"—an incident, told in Carlyle's "French Revolution," three Royalist officers condemned to draw lots which one of the three should be executed, and who, being unwilling to draw their own destiny, trusted a little child to draw for them. Mr. P. R. Morris chooses subjects similar to Mr. Hook in his vigorously painted manner. some fishers hauling from a smack to another boat or to the shore (660) and in his boat returning homewards (394), the sea of which, however, is very muddy.

There are here, as in all our exhibitions, a number, in addition to those we have perceived, of cottage scenes and of rustic interiors of the "pinafore" subjects, painted evidently to attract the successful bourgeois or the amiable pater or mater familias. In some of these there is a certain amount of good painting and much hard work, but not the evidence of that more arduous thought in selection and not that severer labour necessary to produce a really truthful and valuable rendering of pastinale nature, nor what alone separates the artist from the artificer—viz., good taste. Grimace and caricature are also not characteristic, artistic, poetic and commonplace for simplicity, triviality or coarseness for humour. We need only mention the "Brimstone and Treacle" of Mr. Morgan as an example under that condemnation, because the artist has proved by his "Jury" and other works that he is capable of much better things. Even Mr. Joseph Clark, the admirable painter of "The Wanderer" and "Restored" (which we engraved some time since) and other well-known works, is perilously near insanity in No. 140, two children, one as an idiot, the one singing (given as an illustration of the song of "Auld Lang Syne"), and then which it would be difficult to find anything more misty, pale, and timid.

A large number of artists, again, content themselves with single-figure subjects, which is not always a satisfactory test of artistic and portrait-painters. The secret is, we suppose, that if such productions do not build a very high reputation they have a readier sale. Some of these works, however, are distinguished by thought, invention, sentiment, or truth to nature, though not always, also, by accurate material qualities. Miss Ada Swift's picture "The Past" (474), for instance, has little charm or variety of colour; but how truly pathetic is the expression of the poor old lonely widowed woman poised on the edge of the deal table slowly wringing the hands and looking vacantly into the shadow, yet unheddening memories, her back turned to the sunlight which lingers round the small cottage window. There is a picture of a plain girl at a village pump by Mr. Burr (99), the modern colour always heavy in colour, is far more interesting in its simple truth than nine-tenths of the most showy works in these rooms. There is an admirable study by Mr. Topham, jun., of a young woman by a quiet sea, entitled "Waiting" (61). And Mr. Eddis's "Study from Nature" (180), though trivial, is sweet and pure, and reminds us of Mulready child-eyes haunt the memory. After these we come to a number of single-figure subjects, mostly by old practitioners, which exhibit little thought or earnestness, or convey scarcely any definite idea. Some are, however, pleasing or well-intentioned and painted fairly, but the aim and intention are more readily recognised when, as in Mr. T. F. Dicksee's pictures of children, the subject recommends itself. This popular painter is, however, becoming conventional in his mechanical cleanness of execution, a set arrangement of monotonous flesh colour, and in the choice of material qualities. Care to more particulars will often the aim at bribing the judgment by inviting admiration of self-satisfied cleverness, or merely gratifying the eye, is much more apparent. Sometimes the subject, like the gaudy cover binding of many a worthless book, or like a superior kind of upholstery, merely for ornament and ostentation. A female model is selected, she is tricked out in studio properties, paid to leer or look sentimental, and the pseudo artist is ready for the publishing or the meretricious taste of his own mind or his own inordinate conceit. These are well-known and too fear, growing evils in British art, and the exhibition under notice presents numerous instances of the truth of our remarks; but the length of these very necessary observations compels us to postpone a review of the landscapes, sculpture, &c., till next week.

NAVAL AND MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.

Captain the Hon. S. T. Carnegie, C.B., has been appointed Commodore-Superintendent of the Coastguard.

Vice-Admiral Sir the White Alexander Thomas Emeric Vidal died, at Sion-hill, Clifton, on the 8th inst., in his seventy-first year.

The decoration of the Victoria Cross is to be conferred upon George Hamilton, seaman of her Majesty's sloop Salamis, for his gallant conduct at the capture of Fungwha, in China, on Oct. 2, 1862.

Captain Lord Gerville Charles Somerset has been appointed a Naval Aide-de-Camp to the Queen, vacant by the promotion of Captain Yelverton to flag rank.

Lieutenant Rogers has been appointed Flag Lieutenant to Admiral Superintendent Symonds, of the Devonport Dockyard, in succession to Lieutenant Hall.

A column has been erected on the Esplanade, Southsea Beach, to the memory of the officers and men of her Majesty's ship Pheasante who were killed or died during the ship's last commission.

Letters from China report that the crew of her Majesty's ship Euryalus have received with cheers and hearty good will the relief that has taken place. Twenty-seven men had been carried off, several on the sick list and a few killed in fair war or those officers have fallen victims.

The foundation-stone of the Aldershott Mission Hall and Soldiers' Institute, founded for providing religious instruction, connected with social recreation, for the soldiers and working classes of Aldershott, was laid by the Rev. Prebendary Sandford, assisted by other clergymen. The spacious hall, accommodating 800 people; a reading-room, library, coffee-room, smoking-room, and other residences for the superintendent, &c., the estimated outlay of between £2000 and £3000.

Every effort is being made at Chatham to bring forward the iron vessels building there. The Achilles, which is by far the most important vessel in hand, has made rapid progress during the past week. In a had few months, there being now upwards of 1000 hands employed exclusively on that vessel. The frame of her immense hull is now completed as far as the bilges, and it is now confidently asserted that she will be completed and her docked in six months from the present time. The Royal Oak, in the adjoining dock, is entirely completed in her armour-plating, and a number of hands employed in getting the shipped armour on her upper works.

The screw-corvette Racoon, fitting in the Medway to convey his Royal Highness Prince Alfred on a special cruise (of which we gave an engraving some weeks), has been pushed forward with extraordinary zeal. Last week alone, where she is being completed for sea with all possible dispatch. The Racoon was originally designed as a sister vessel to the Galatea, to the designs of Admiral Sir Baldwin Walker, then surveyor of the Navy, and is fifteen ships in frigate in having no breastplate guns placed on her upper deck. The ten guns are 64-eighteen inch solid muzzle-loading smooth-bore guns, for throwing either shot or shell, and two 40-pounder Armstrongs; and the full fighting-ship has only 10 pounder guns forming pivot-pieces. It is stated that Prince Alfred himself selected the Racoon for his cruise from having admired her model when in the Admiralty. The Racoon has been in dock for service on a long cruise at present, and it is rumoured at Chatham that she will visit Norway, Sweden, and Denmark previous to proceeding to Australia, which is understood to be her ultimate destination. A picked band of twelve musicians will be attached to the Racoon during the time she is in commission.

It is stated that a treaty is about to be concluded between this country and the kingdom of Italy, for giving all the advantages of the most favoured nation to the subjects of the two kingdoms.

An explosion of gas took place on Sunday evening at Dunkirk, throughout the whole extent of that part of the town known by the name of the Petites-Dunes. The ground was shaken as though by a shock of earthquake. No great damage, however, was done.

Victoria papers state that a thousand Indians have died of smallpox in Vancouver Island this winter. It is thought this disease will soon exterminate the race on the island. Smallpox is committing ravages also among the Indians in British Columbia. 17,000 pack animals have died at Cariboo; the snow being over a foot deep.

COLUMN FOR THE CURIOUS.

THE OLD CLOCHARD, OR BELL-TOWER, OF THE PALACE AT WESTMINSTER.

MOST persons accustomed to note the fragmentary disappearance of Old London will acknowledge that the site of the Palace at Westminster to have presented, of late years, many relics and resuscitations. The clearing of the ground for the rebuilding of the Houses of Parliament has, for nearly thirty years past, rendered this the most fertile spot in such changes and upturnings, which have fully revealed to us the extent and interest of the Royal Palace where dwelt the Monarchs of England, from Edward the Confessor to Queen Elizabeth.

Not the least remarkable portion of this archæological ground is New Palace-yard, where most of us remember the building of Soane's Law Courts; the refronting of Westminster Hall; and the removal of the Law Courts to Tothill-fields, including the Star Chamber, on the east side of the court. The houses on the north side are now being taken down for the new Westminster Bridge and Palace-road approaches; and with these houses will disappear a reminder of the famous Clochard, or Bell-tower, which stood directly fronting the entrance-door to the great hall, on a portion of the site of the more splendid and imposing tower recently erected." Although the Clochard was taken down more than a century and a half ago, the removal of the terrace built upon the site will direct attention to this spot. In the second pediment of the terrace buildings from the Thames-gate will be placed a Clock, according to Speed, was placed exactly where the bell-tower stood.

THE OLD BELL-TOWER OF THE PALACE AT WESTMINSTER.

FOR THE REST OF THE ARTICLE SEE PAGE 188.

In December, 1856, the Rev. Joseph Hunter read to the Society of Antiquaries a paper referring to the erection of this tower and the adjoining "Hall of Accounts," which, before 1834, by King Edward III., when he made such extensive reparations and improvements in the palace. It was considered an appurtenance to the Chapel of St. Stephen, and, from contemporary evidence, was built in 1360 and 1366, the thirty-ninth and fortieth years of King Edward III. Unfortunately, without the account of the receipts and expenses of the surveyor of the King's works for that year have survived the destruction of such documents of the class to which it belongs. There was, at the same time, another tower in course of erection by the same architect. The first entry for the clock-tower is for stone of Bere and stone of Caen, and "400 carriage of Reigate stone for the doors and windows of the two towers, the cost of which was 3s. the load. Above 8000L of usable was bought at Maidstone for the towers and other works, which cost 4d. the foot, including the freight. Between 5000 and 6000ft. of stone called urnell were bought at St. Botolph, without freightage. Stones were other large purchases of ragstone, which was brought up the Thames from Maidstone."

The Society's paper adds that, "it will bear the recital of a few other entries in this part of the account for the sake of the rare words which occur in them. Fifty corbels were bought at Maidstone expressly for the clock-tower, and "400 solum mony above referred to, the two chief dignitaries of the Church, the new Archbishops of Canterbury and York, took the oaths and their seats upon the episcopal benches of the House of Peers.

The precise forms observed on this occasion are deserving of some notice. At two o'clock the Royal Speech was read by the Lord Chancellor, both to the Lords then assembled, and to the members of the House of Commons, who had been previously summoned to attend at the bar of the Upper House for the purpose of hearing it. The Royal Commissioners, in addition to the Lord Chancellor, were the Duke of Argyll, the Earl of St. Germans, Viscount Sydney, and Lord Stanley of Alderley. They were all clothed in their official robes and took their seats at the foot of the throne. There were at this time only a few other Peers in the House, amongst whom were the Earl of Campridown, the Earl of Cardigan, and Lord Berners, who were attired as private gentlemen.

Upon the conclusion of the reading of the Royal Speech the Commissioners and other Peers retired and remained absent from the House until nearly four o'clock.

On the back benches, on the Opposition side of the House, and in the galleries, were seated a large number of ladies, who appeared to take a deep interest in the proceedings, and remained in the House until the Prince of Wales had taken the oaths and his seat, a ceremony which did not take place until about two hours afterwards.

As the hour of four o'clock approached the Peers reassembled in considerable numbers to await the arrival of the Prince of Wales. Upon the Ministerial benches were Earl Russell, the Duke of Somerset, Earl De Grey and Ripon, and in their immediate proximity were Lord Ebury, Earl Grey, the Earl of Clarendon, Lord Wodehouse, the Earl of Minto, Lord Eversley (the late Speaker of the House of Commons), Lord Cranworth, and the Earl of Dudley (as mover of the address, wearing the uniform of a colonel of yomanry). Upon the Opposition benches were the Earl of Malmesbury, Lord Redesdale, Lord Colchester, the Marquis of Bath, Earl Beauchamp, Earl Bantopp, Lord Chelmsford, the Duke of Marlborough, the Earl of Lonsdale, the Duchess of Richmond, Buckingham, and Manchester; the Earls of Shrewsbury, Carnarvon, and Ellenborough, and others.

In the side galleries near the throne were seated their Royal Highnesses the Duchess of Cambridge and the Princess Mary of Cambridge, and a large number of Foreresses and foreign Ambassadors. In the Commons' gallery were several members of the Lower House.

At about a quarter before four o'clock the Lord Chancellor, attired in his ordinary dress of black silk, full wig, and three-cocked hat, entered the House, preceded by the Great Seal, and took his seat on the woolsack.

Prayers having been read by the Bishop of Worcester, a procession of Peers, headed by certain officials, was observed to emerge from the Prince's Chamber and to advance slowly and solemnly up the floor of the House. Sir Augustus Clifford, Usher of the Black Rod, followed immediately by Sir Charles Young in his capacity as Garter King-at-Arms, took the lead. Then came the Prince of Wales, preceded by an equerry bearing a coronet upon an embroidered crimson cushion. His Royal Highness was also accompanied by the Duke of Cambridge, the Duke of Argyll, the Earl of Derby, Earl Granville, Lord Kingsdown, and Earl Spencer, in their robes as Peers; Lord Willoughby D'Eresby, Hereditary Great Chamberlain; and Lord Edward Howard, who represented the infant Duke of Norfolk, Hereditary Earl Marshal.

The Prince of Wales wore the scarlet and ermine robes of a Duke over the uniform of a General in the Army. He was also decorated with the ribbon, &c., of the Order of the Garter, the insignia of the Golden Fleece, and the Star of India. As he entered the House the Peers rose in a body, and remained standing throughout the subsequent ceremony, the Lord Chancellor alone remaining seated, and covered with his official hat. His Royal Highness, having bowed his acknowledgments, advanced to the woolsack and placed his patent and writ of summons in the hands of the Chancellor. He then returned to the table, when the oaths were administered to him by Sir J. Shaw Lefevre, the Clerk of Parliament. The titles under which the Prince was sworn were the Duke of Cornwall, Earl of Chester, Earl of Carrick, Earl of Rothsay, and Lord of the Isles. After signing the roll the procession moved on, passing slowly at the back of the Lord Chancellor, who was still seated, with his head covered, on the woolsack. His Royal Highness on reaching the right-hand side of the throne took his seat upon the chair of State specially appropriated on State occasions to the Prince of Wales. Whilst thus seated he placed his cocked hat upon his head. As this graceful appendage was decorated by a beautiful plume of feathers it was supposed by some of the spectators that it was what is known as the Prince of Wales's plume; but it was not so. The hat and feathers were simply such as are worn by general officers in full dress. Having for a moment surveyed the objects in front of him, his Royal Highness rose, and, again uncovering his head, was conducted to the woolsack, where he took hands with the Lord Chancellor, that high functionary designing, for the moment he was thus personally honoured, to raise his hat a few inches above his head. The Earl of Derby and the other Peers, together with the officials already named as forming the procession, then left the House, retiring by the entrance at the right of the throne in the same order as they had entered. The business of the House was then suspended until the usual hour.

At about five o'clock his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, accompanied by the Duke of Cambridge, re-entered the House (both dressed in private clothes) and took his seat beside his Royal kinsman on one of the cross benches. The Prince remained almost throughout the entire debate, conversing occasionally with the Royal Duke and Earl Beauchamp, who sat near him. During Lord Wodehouse's speech the Prince retired in company with the Duke of Cambridge, having shaken hands with the Earl of Derby and one or two other Peers whom he recognised on leaving.

THE LATE MR. LUCAS BARRETT, DIRECTOR OF THE GEOLOGICAL SURVEY OF THE BRITISH WEST INDIA ISLANDS.

THE LONDON AND MIDDLESEX BANK, FINCH-LANE, CITY.

LUCAS BARRETT, ESQ., F.G.S., F.L.S., DIRECTOR OF THE GEOLOGICAL SURVEY OF THE BRITISH WEST INDIES.

THE last West India mail brought letters announcing the death of this amiable and accomplished naturalist, so lately among us taking an active part in the proceedings of the British Association at Cambridge.

Lucas Barrett was born in London Nov. 13, 1837. He was the eldest son of Mr. George Barrett, the well-known ironfounder. He was sent to school in 1847 to Royston, next to University College School. In 1853 he went to Ebersdorf, near Lobenstein, Voigtland, studying German and chemistry, making a pedestrian tour in Bavaria at a cost of one shilling per day. In 1856 he entered Trinity College, Cambridge, and in vacation visited the British Museum, where he soon became known to the officers volunteering to assist in arranging the fossils. In 1859 he accompanied Mr. M'Andrew in a yachting voyage to Norway and Finmark, and made some observations on the living Terebratulæ, which were published in the "Annals of Natural History," and translated into the journals of France and Germany. The same year he was chosen successor to Mr. M'Coy as Curator of the Cambridge University Museum, and elected a Fellow of the Geological Society of London, being only eighteen years of age. In the following year he went to Greenland, an expedition attended with great expense and hardship, of which no account has been published, but there is a suite of specimens collected by him in the British Museum. In 1857 he again accompanied Mr. M'Andrew on a voyage to Vigo.

During his custody of the Cambridge Geological Museum many considerable additions were made and arranged by Mr. Barrett, such as the saurians from the lias, presented by Mr. T. Hawkins; the beautiful collection of chalk fossils bequeathed by Dr. Forbes Young; and the local collection of the Rev. T. Image. The rapid and extensive development of the use of fossil phosphates from the upper greensand around Cambridge supplied him with a new field of research; and early in 1858 he had detected two bird-bones and numerous remains of several distinct species of Pterodactyle (some of extraordinary size), which have been figured and described by Professor Owen in the Transactions of the Cambridge Philosophical Society. He also prepared a geological map of the vicinity of Cambridge, of which a second edition was published by Macmillan last year.

In 1859 Mr. Barrett was appointed director of the Geological Survey of the British West India Islands. He had charge of the specimens to illustrate the Jamaican department at the International Exhibition with a large series last summer to the Great International Exhibition with a large series of specimens to illustrate the valuable productions of the West India Islands. His friends rejoiced to find that his buoyant heart and youthful looks were very little changed by the toils of his survey or the broiling of a tropical sun. In October he returned to Jamaica full of good hopes and healthy spirits.

While in England he had procured a diving-apparatus, by the help of which he hoped to examine the sea bottom near the coasts of Jamaica, at depths seldom reached by such an apparatus; and on the 17th of December he descended four times successively in Kingston harbour. The results, as stated by one of his friends, "were of the great confidence, and he was in great glee at his success." He then, contrary to the advice of his friends, resolved to go down at the Cays, outside Port Royal, wishing to try deep water and to search the coral reefs. On the 19th of December, about two p.m., after examining the apparatus and the pumps, he did go down at the place above named, with a signal-line in his hand, but not firmly attached, as it should have been, to his person. As he remained long under water without giving any signal from below, his attendants in the boat endeavoured to communicate with him, but found that he had parted from the signal-line; and soon afterwards his lifeless body rose and floated on the surface. So ended the life of this amiable and energetic naturalist.

THE LONDON AND MIDDLESEX BANK.

It has uniformly been amongst the objects of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS to place on record such notices and views of important public buildings in the metropolis as may form hereafter a series exhibiting chronologically the progress of street architecture in London. In pursuance of that object we give in our present impression an Engraving of the latest addition to one of the most commercial edifices of the City—the structure erected in Finch-lane, by Mr. Down, of Southwark, for the London and Middlesex Bank, from designs by Mr. Fougel, of Great St. Helen's. The style is Italian; the façade, entablature, and pilasters are formed of Portland stone, whilst the face is of Suffolk brick and the minor ornamentation terra cotta. The back is faced with Minton's tiles, the reflected light of which is conducive to the benefit of the Royal Exchange avenue and the adjoining buildings, and in due time the whole of the honeycomb will undergo saturation with fluor silicate, as applied by the company at 39, Charing-cross. The decorations of the interior correspond in style with the elevation, the staircase being composed of terra cotta, supplied by Mr. Blanchard, of Blackfriars-road, the contractor. The internal arrangements comprise all the modern requirements of a London bank—strongrooms and iron closets on the basements, fireproof, and a residential suite of apartments for one of the officers of the bank. Buildings like these are marked with the elevated character of the great department of trade to which they are devoted, and the metropolis contains few buildings which surpass the London and Middlesex Bank for beauty, solidity, and convenience, combined with all the modern improvements.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1863.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

No. 1189.—VOL. XLII. SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1863. WITH A SUPPLEMENT, FIVEPENCE

RUSSIA'S TASK IN POLAND.

A FORTNIGHT since, in commenting upon the outbreak occasioned by the enforcement of the conscription in Poland, we stated our belief, based on the scanty scraps of information transmitted by the Russian authorities to Western Europe, that the Polish people had not engaged in a foreknit and deliberate national revolt. Our conclusion was correct. The Revolutionary Committee at Warsaw was as much surprised and, probably, as seriously embarrassed by the premature turn out of large numbers of their countrymen as the Government at St. Petersburg could have been. That conspiracy had been for some time at work organising a "great rebellion" under the direction of the Central Committee—that it had effected a secret understanding with a body representative of disaffection in Russia proper—that the summer of 1863 had been appointed as the most favourable time for commencing operations—and that all classes of Poles, townsfolk and villagers, nobles and peasants, were silently preparing themselves, under able supervision, for a final effort to achieve their deliverance from the intolerable yoke of Russia, is now pretty clearly established. The mode in which the authority of the Czar was employed by military and police officers to carry into effect the Imperial decree, ordering, for the first time since the death of Nicholas, conscription for the army in Poland, suggests a suspicion that the Russian Government in that unhappy province was vaguely aware that a storm was gathering; and, possibly, the determination to select conscripts from town populations only, and by designation instead of by lot, was taken in the hope of skimming off the cream of Polish youth, intelligence, and patriotism, and scattering it on remote frontiers, before revolt should have time to show itself. It seems evident, however, that neither the oppressors nor the oppressed aimed at bringing about the existing state of their relations one to the other. Both have been taken by surprise at the extent and rapidity with which the flames of insurrection, kindled by the unusual manner in which the conscription was being carried into effect, spread themselves over the whole kingdom; and it soon became apparent that neither the military movements ordered by Russian authority, nor the discouraging protestations of the Central Committee, could stay the progress of the fierce conflagration.

A national revolution having been thus accidentally and prematurely precipitated, no alternative remained to the Central Committee but that of recognising and systematising it. Even now, however, it is plainly holding in reserve its principal force, anxious rather to restrain and prolong a desultory and harassing contest with the Russian soldiery than to achieve any very brilliant success. Its plan, so far as it can be guessed from the facts already before us, is a wise one, and seems to have been drawn up by men who know well the terrible magnitude of the enterprise they have been summoned to direct. For the present, and until money and matériel can be secured, it abstains from calling the Poles to arms, contenting itself with enrolling for active service those patriots whose exposure to individual and immediate peril or whose ardent patriotic enthusiasm prompts them to join the insurrectionary bands already afoot. All the well-constructed and powerful machinery at its command for effecting a rising en masse, and for giving unity, consistency, and directness of aim to the latent force it can elicit at will, is kept in abeyance till the suitable and decisive moment shall have arrived. Meanwhile, the system of tactics put in operation, appears designed to attract the Russian military as much as possible to the extremities of the province by the sudden collection of an insurgent force in the neighbourhood, to allow their unmolested march towards the scene of revolt, to tear up the railway lines behind them, to divide right and left through forests and swamps as they approach, and to occupy the roads they have left as soon as they have passed. Each guerrilla band is kept down in numbers as much as possible, and thus the country is covered with a multitude of small bodies, each fed by the surrounding population, ready at any moment, and and on any favourable spot, to interrupt Russian communications and to cut off all supplies, fully informed of every movement that takes place, able to act unitedly with other bodies when requisite, and when expedient to evade superior force by a retreat to points accompanied by impassable to an alien army. The object of the campaign, if we may so call it, seems to be to drain Russian strength collected at Warsaw, in small detachments, beyond the frontier, and then gradually to close in upon the capital and shut it in from all external resources. The above-mentioned correspondent of the Times stationed at Breslau, and therefore likely to be fairly acquainted with the tract of country of which he speaks, leads us to think that the plan is being prosecuted with considerable success. "From Olkusz to Tomaszow," he says, "along the entire line of the southern frontier, the Russian Government has ceased to exist. The public moneys have been confiscated, and the civil functionaries, in most cases, have taken the oath to the Provisional Government. Further on, in the direction of Lublin, Imperial authority, although not entirely superseded, is limited to some isolated points, standing forth from an ocean of surrounding rebellion."

"XARIFA," BY FRANK WYBURD, IN THE EXHIBITION OF THE BRITISH INSTITUTION.—SEE PAGE 201.

On the assumption—a tolerably safe one, we fear—that the Government of the Czar will apply the utmost pressure of coercion for the suppression of this revolt, and that, whatever they may judge it expedient to do afterwards, they will not attempt conciliation until "order reigns," it is abundantly clear that the work of the Russian army for the next few months will be far enough from easy or agreeable. The population whom they will be employed to reduce to submission is one of hereditary military instincts and habits, whose patriotic impulses compressed into intensity by the most galling tyranny; whose men, from the meanest peasant to the proudest noble, cherish a withering contempt for the soldiery of the alien, and whose women, like those of the Southern States of America, are, with hardly an exception, and with all the powers of their sex, devotedly nationalist. The country which this people fondly regard as their own is a vast plain here and there only broken up into hilly districts, much of it covered with dense forests, or rendered impassable, except to such as possess intimate local knowledge, by marsh and swamp. Upon this unwitting stage the Russian troops seem destined to march backwards and forwards to all practical purposes blindfold, but themselves eagerly watched at every step of their progress. Ignorant of the language of the people in whose midst they are, unable to obtain information of their movements, except, without spies, and yet obliged to traverse a most difficult country whenever it becomes necessary to quit the public roads, their very numbers will be a disadvantage to them, by increasing the baggage which will hamper their movements. Stragglers will be cut off—small detachments will be frequently overpowered—it is even probable that desertions will, to an extent quite unusual, recruit the guerrilla bands of the insurgent Poles. The service to which the Russian army is appointed is as harassing to mind and body as can be well conceived, and one in which neither courage nor even fortitude can hope for any crown of glory. But, as though intent upon increasing their own difficulties at the outset, the Russian troops have begun to massacre unarmed citizens with indiscriminate rage, and to give towns and villages to the flames in revenge for every affront, they meet with. The effect is not calculated to make their future work more facile nor their stay in Poland more free from anxiety. And yet there is a prospect of their being thus beset by bands which will seldom fight, but which incessantly hover about the line of march for months yet to come, unless, indeed, they are previously called upon to face a still more formidable danger.

We have already intimated that the Central Revolutionary Committe are resolutely postponing till a more convenient season their final coup de main. It does not appear to be their intention to exhaust the whole of their resources in this desultory and unforeseen warfare. Much has been done probably, and many arrangements have yet to be matured, to give the Imperial Government full occupation in the contiguous provinces, the inhabitants of which profess the Roman Catholic faith, and have been wont to regard Warsaw as their natural centre. It is evidently anticipated that in June next Russia will have embarrassments enough within her own borders to make heavy demands upon her military strength. The day is yet too distant to admit of being taken into present account by the able men who direct the movements of the revolution. But as they approach it no doubt their original plan will be developed. We may then expect to see a change of attitude on the part of the Polish people. The caution which now prevails will probably be exchanged for audacity. The hosts of guerrilla bands will muster into an army; the appointed leaders will be forthcoming; the nation, as such, will put forth its utmost strength, and a desperate and simultaneous effort will be made to sweep Poland clear of the Russians. At present, and in all likelihood for two or three months to come, the movements we watch with so much interest, and, alas! with so little hope, will constitute but the irregular prelude of a gigantic struggle; and it is not impossible that the summer sun may look down upon a vast revolutionary convulsion severe enough to menace the stability of the three northern thrones. That they will make common cause, should matters proceed much farther in their present direction, can hardly be doubted; but how far their subjects, already restive under the military burdens imposed upon them, will sympathise with their determination to sacrifice the well-being of their peoples to dynastic considerations is as yet an unsolved and a most uncertain problem.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

FRANCE.

The Corps Législatif terminated its eight days' debate on the address in answer to the Speech from the Throne on Thursday week; and on Saturday the deputies appointed the report that purports United to the Emperor to present the address which had been voted. His Majesty made a brief reply, in which he declared his satisfaction at finding in the address a new proof of the concord existing between the Representative Chamber and the Government. Such harmony of understanding he declared supremely important at the present moment, in order to strengthen the legitimate influences which France is exercising abroad amid the many passions which agitate other countries and threaten the public peace.

On Monday the youngest daughter of Lord Cowley, Lady Sophia Sylvia Augusta Wellesley, was married by Viscount Feilding, son of the Earl of Hardwicke, at the British Embassy, Paris. The Emperor and Empress, attended by a large Court, honoured the ceremony with their presence, and afterwards also a very numerous assemblage of other invited guests. The religious service was performed by Dr. Wellesley, Dean of Windsor, assisted by the Rev. J. R. Brown, Chaplain to the Embassy, and the Rev. J. C. Coxe, Chaplain at Chantilly. A grand dinner party took place in the evening at the Embassy.

The fancy dress ball given last Saturday night by the Minister of State and Countess Walewska, in their splendid apartments at the Louvre, was the most brilliant event of the season. The Countess was in a costume representing the Muse of the Fine Arts. Their Majesties honoured the Ball with their presence, and remained until morning.

The promenade of the Bœuf Gras took place in Paris on the first three days of the week, with the usual grotesque accompaniments and following of a great multitude of idlers.

The first steeplechase for the season at La Marche is fixed for the 11th of March.

From Mexico there is news that the French were rapidly advancing on the capital, having taken seven places.

BELGIUM.

King Leopold made his appearance on Tuesday, for the first time after a lengthened retirement, in the streets of his capital. His Majesty drove through the principal streets, and appeared to be, it is stated, in good health and spirits.

ITALY.

King Victor Emmanuel has conferred the title of Count on M. Rattazzi, ex-President of the Council.

The Minister of Finance laid before the Chamber of Deputies last Saturday (says a telegram) the budget, which states that the deficit at the end of 1862 amounted to nearly £13,000,000. He further declared that within four years he hoped to reduce the deficit to £4,000,000 by contracting a loan of £28,000,000, by selling Crown lands and railways, by increasing the land tax, by imposing sundry new taxes, and by various fiscal measures. He said that the Ministry deemed it necessary to take advantage of the existing political lull to negotiate the loan. The proposals were favourably received by the Chamber; and on the same day the Minister introduced a bill authorising the contraction of a loan of £28,000,000 by such instalments as the Treasury may think expedient.

PRUSSIA.

The committee on the Budget has, by an almost unanimous vote, expressed an item of 31,000 thalers intended for political secret service.

A convention respecting the Polish insurrection was, according to a despatch from Berlin, signed by the representatives of Russia and Prussia on the 8th inst. Its exact provisions are unknown; but it is understood that Prussian troops will be employed to traverse the Prussian territory, and the Kreuz Zeitung expresses a belief that in certain contingencies the Prussian Government has agreed to the passage of artillery in support of the revolt. Count Bernstorff, in replying to questions put to him by the Polish members of the Lower House on Tuesday, said that the object of the insurrection in Poland at present was to restore the ancient kingdom of Poland, and that the leaders of the movement openly proclaimed in Prussian territory a revolutionary moment. The Government trusted to the fidelity of the majority of its Polish subjects, but it was bound to protect them against the agitators who sought to seduce them. It had been arrested in Russian Poland towards the citizens and peasantry by emigrants, the country, and a portion of the army. On Wednesday the Minister refused to answer two members of the House of Deputies who inquired whether any convention had been concluded with Russia respecting the late insurrection. He said that he hoped that his Ministry did not follow a Russian but a Prussian policy, and that no foreign Power could dictate the commercial, financial, or economical policy of Prussia. The Liberals in the House of Deputies have consequently brought forward a resolution declaring that the interest of Prussia demands that the Government should not side with any party in the Polish question, and that, therefore, neither of the contending parties should receive any support from Prussian territory. The resolution will in all likelihood be passed, and will widen still further the breach between the House of Deputies and the King.

AUSTRIA.

The Government has prohibited the exportation of arms and ammunition across the frontier into Russia.

The Vienna Gazette states that the Minister of Commerce having submitted to the Emperor a proposition for holding a universal exhibition of the commercial and industrial and agricultural products, His Majesty has decided that the exhibition shall take place, if possible, in 1865, or the year after that at the latest.

The Austrian Consul, the defender of Sebastopol, has been named deputy to the Inspector-General of Engineers.

The Russian Government, notwithstanding its extraordinary exertions, seems to have made but little progress in putting down the Polish movement. As soon as the rising is temporarily suppressed at one point it breaks out at another, and the insurrection is said to be spreading through all parts of the country, and, moreover, to be joined in heart and soul by all classes of society. Nor is the movement, even as it may seem at the first glance, without organisation. This aim of the Poles evidently is to wear out the Russian troops in continual marching and countercharge, seizing every opportunity which may offer of cutting them off in detail. There are reports of several skirmishes or engagements, with various success, between the Russian troops and the insurgents; but it is doubtful whether any of these affairs possessed any considerable importance. It is asserted that some Poles have crossed the Austrian frontier and have occupied a Galician town; but it is thought that they were merely escaping from their Russian pursuers, and had no design to excite an insurrection in Galicia.

TURKEY.

Fuad Pacha has been appointed Seraskier, and Mahmud Ali President of the Council.

A new tax has been imposed by the Foreign Office upon the English communities in the Levant, which has given rise to angry excitement.

AMERICA.

By the arrival of the Edinburgh we have New York telegrams to the 7th inst.

WAR NEWS.

There is nothing important from the army of the Potomac.

In a slight affair near the Blackwater, Virginia, the 107th Pennsylvania Regiment, numbering 300, encountered 1200 rebels, fought, and lay down upon the ground during the entire engagement, saying, "You can draught us; but you cannot shoot us, Jeff."

General Foster's expedition from Beaufort had been seen off Cape Fear, en route for Port Royal.

On the 31st ult. two Confederate iron-clad gun-boats, accompanied by three steamers, went out from Charleston at one o'clock in the morning and attacked the blockading squadron. The engagement commenced at four o'clock. The Confederate gun-boats sank the Federal gunboat Mercedita, mounting eleven guns, and captured a gun-boat whose name is unknown. They disabled the Federal steamer Quaker City, but she escaped with the loss of one wheel. The attacking party set four Federal vessels on fire. The blockading fleet consisted of thirteen vessels, with two first-class frigates. The Confederate gun-boats returned to Charleston, where they were received with enthusiasm. Commander Ingraham officially reported that the blockading fleet had gone out of sight. General Beauregard then issued a proclamation reciting the discomfiture and dispersion of the hostile fleet, and formally declaring that the blockade of Charleston by the United States was raised on and after the 31st of January. The General placed steamers at the disposal of the foreign Consuls to see for themselves that the blockade existed. The British Consul went on board the steamer Petrel, five miles beyond the usual anchorage of the blockaders, but could see nothing of them with glasses.

Notwithstanding this, four vessels of the Federal fleet reappeared late on the evening of the 31st, and on Feb. 1 twenty blockading vessels were off Charleston bar.

The Confederate Secretary of State has notified to the British and French Consuls the raising of the Charleston blockade.

The Southern journals announce that the Federal gun-boat P. Smith, carrying eleven guns and 230 men, surrendered unconditionally to the Confederates at Stono Inlet. The Federal Navy Department had received a despatch announcing that her capture ensued upon her running ashore.

The British steamer Princess Royal was captured by a fleet of Union gun-boats while attempting to run the blockade into Charleston with a valuable cargo of cotton. She was on board and other vessels of pow'er, two Armstrong guns, a large lot of machinery, sheet iron, steam-boilers, hardware, locks, bolts, tin, and valuable articles. A party of English workmen skilled in the manufacture of projectiles were also captured in the Princess Royal.

There are contradictory reports of the result of the expedition up the Ogeechee River, in Georgia. Southern reports state that the ironclad Montauk was driven back by the fire from the forts of Fort M'Allister and compelled to haul off. The Federal Navy Department states that the Montauk remained four hours under fire without receiving any injury.

General Banks's expedition had left New Orleans. Its supposed destination is Galveston.

General Magruder officially announces on the 4th inst. that Galveston was open to trade. The Federal Commodore Bell has issued a counter proclamation declaring Galveston, Sabine Pass, and the whole of the Texas coast blockaded, and warning vessels from trading under penalty of capture.

The bombardment of Galveston by the Federals had commenced, but the result was unknown.

General Grant had arrived at Vicksburg. The works on the canal were progressing. The Confederates have planted a battery commanding the lower end of the canal.

Colonel Stewart, chief of the cavalry on General M'Clernand's staff at Vicksburg, whilst on a reconnaissance with a hundred men, was shot and deserted by them. Colonel Stewart had upon his person a memorandum-book containing full estimates of the number and calibre of the forces and batteries at Haines's Bluff, Vicksburg, and much useful information, including projects respecting canals upon which work has been commenced. The book fell into the hands of the enemy.

The Confederates have attacked Fort Donnelson and captured a battery, afterwards regained by the Federals, who repulsed the Confederates with heavy loss.

From the Cumberland River, Tennessee, further atrocities committed on unarmed negro and mulatto men are reported. The coloured plain-bop and cooks employed on the steam-ferry between Fortress at Harpeth Shoals, in the Cumberland River, were taken to an open field and shot in cold blood. Two others got down by the rudder of the steamer and hid their heads above water. They were discovered by the Confederates, and several soldiers were ordered into a skiff, who rowed up to them and deliberately cut their heads. The life of a chambermaid was saved with difficulty by the clerk of the steamer claiming her as his slave when he was removing into Kentucky.

The surviving officers and crew of the Federal steamer Hatteras, sunk off Galveston, had arrived at Kingston, Jamaica, in Port Royal, Jamaica. It appears, however, that the Hatteras sank so quickly that forty-three of her crew were drowned before they could be removed.

THE CONFEDERATE STATES.

The report of the Confederate Secretary of the Treasury has been published. The receipts for the year 1862 were £19,704,048, and the expenditure £16,971,735 dols., leaving a balance of over 40,000,000 dols. The estimates of the War Department were 340,000,000 dols., and for the Navy 20,000,000 dols.

The Governor of North Carolina is acting upon those principles of State rights on which the Confederate Government is founded. He insisted on the recall of a number of the State troops from Richmond to protect the State. The Confederate Government has declined to have an interview with the refractory Governor, in order to persuade him to bring his policy into harmony with that of the Richmond Government.

The military commanders of Georgia, and the Governors of North Carolina and Alabama, have issued appeals to the people not to flinch from their duty to the South in her hour of peril, and cautioning them that attempts to evade the conscription will be punished with rigour.

CONGRESS.

After six days of factious opposition—called in American Parliamentary terminology "filibustering"—a vote was permitted to be taken on the bill for arming and employing negroes. The House of Representatives by a vote of 83 to 54. The numbers to be armed are left to the President's discretion. No slaves of loyal owners are to be thus employed. No compensation is to be granted to Delaware, Maryland, Western Virginia, Kentucky, Missouri, or Tennessee, without the previous permission of those States. Their rations, clothing, and equipments are to be the same as for other soldiers; but privates are not to receive more than ten dollars per month, of which half the pay of the whites.

In the Senate the resolutions denouncing French intervention in Mexico were laid on the table by a vote of 34 against 9.

The Secretary of the Treasury has informed the Senate that a collection of the duty upon paper would increase the Government revenue.

In the House of Representatives the Exempt Bill has been laid upon the table by a vote of 60 to 53, and the motion to reconsider it was also voted to be tabled by the same majority. The United States have no bankruptcy acts.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mr. Cameron, of Pennsylvania, late Secretary of War in Mr. Lincoln's Cabinet, and now holding the appointment of United States' Minister at the Russian Court, is charged by a Democratic member of the Pennsylvanian Legislature with offering him a bribe of 25,000 dols. to vote for Cameron as United States' senator instead of Ma-

Buckalew, the nominee of the Democratic party. The charge, to which no denial has been made, creates great excitement throughout the country, and is used as the means of discrediting the Federal Administration.

The Republican candidate, ex-Governor Morgan, has been elected United States' senator from New York.

The editor of the Philadelphia Journal has been released, after making an humble apology to the Federal Government, and giving a promise of amendment for the future.

Mr. Stafford, the inventor of a shell named after himself, has succeeded in driving one of his projectiles entirely through the iron plating and hallway through the wall of a target prepared for the complete section of the British frigate Warrior. It exploded in the target, shattering it seriously. Afterwards a solid shot was also entirely through the target, penetrating the earth beyond five or six feet; and all this was accomplished with a smaller charge of powder than is used in firing a Lancaster gun.

Napoleon's letter to General Forey, announcing the policy of France to be opposed to the future annexation of Mexico to the United States, has elicited angry replies from the New York press.

The New York Legislature and Chamber of Commerce have passed resolutions in favour of the Union position policy and pledging their support to the Administration.

CHINA.

A telegram from Shanghai, dated Jan. 10, states that the Russian fleet will remain at Manilla. It is expected that the French troops will be withdrawn. It is reported that the siege of Nankin has been abandoned. No further particulars of the rebellion at Saigon have been received.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

Lord Palmerston has been elected a Governor of the Charter house.

At an influential meeting held on Monday, attended by agriculturists from Kent, Sussex, Surrey, Herts, and Dorset, it was resolved to form a "Central Malt Duty Repeal Association."

The annual festival of the Printers' Pension Society will take place at the London Tavern, on Thursday, April 23, when Viscount Enfield, M.P., will preside.

A fire occurred in High-street, Vauxhall, on Sunday morning, and a woman lost her life.—The premises of Messrs. Cole and Co., Regentplace, Old Kent-road, were discovered to be on fire on Tuesday morning: the whole family were taken down from their bedrooms in a fire-escape.

The Hunterian oration was delivered on Saturday last in the theatre of the College of Surgeons by Professor Gulliver. It is the chief point of the oration was an elaborate history of the blood and its vital endowments, which was received with great applause.

A meeting of the friends and supporters of the Emancipation Society was held at St. James's Hall, on Wednesday evening, at which addresses were delivered in support of the objects of the Society. The speakers were Mr. Evans (chairman of the society), Professor Newman, Mr. W. Lusdale, Mr. G. Thompson, Mr. Cremer, and Mr. Washington Wilks.

The Oxford local examination will be held this year at Oxford and Reading, the following places—Abingdon, Banbury, Basingstoke, Brighton, Exeter, Gloucester, Ipswich, Leeds, Lincoln, Liverpool, Manchester, Northampton, Oxford, and Southampton. The examinations will commence in each place on Tuesday, June 2. The printed forms which candidates will fill up will be ready in April next.

The Peabody trustees have purchased from the Crown a piece of land in Commercial-street, Spitalfields, and are preparing to erect dwellings for the poor upon it. The architect is Mr. Scott Russell. The trustees are in negotiation for other properties in various parts of London, which will be applied to a similar purpose.

An instructive paper "On the Best Means for Promoting the Growth and Improvement in the Quality of Cotton in India" was read at a crowded meeting of the Society of Arts on Wednesday, by Mr. Alexander Mcintosh Shaw. A discussion followed, which Sir Bartholl. Colonel Sykes, M.P., Mr. Fleming, Colonel Rathbone, and Sir Erskine Perry took part.

The annual meeting of the Royal General Theatrical Fund Association was held in the saloon of the Freemasons' Tavern, under the presidency of Mr. John Baldwin Buckstone. On the whole, the report showed a satisfactory state of affairs. The number of pensioners at present holding the 10th of February amounted to £1380, while the expenditure had been £991.

Two octogenarians, named Joseph and John Pittwalter, brothers, lived together with their sister in a house in Parliament-street for a great number of years. On Wednesday week the elder died, at the ripe age of eighty-four years. The younger sister of the deceased was much affected by his death, the brother showing excessive signs of grief, and he expired in an hour after his brother. On the same day were fixed for their interment the latter also expired, at the age of eighty-eight years.

The great boat-race on the Thames between Oxford and Cambridge is expected to take place on March 28. The crews are composed as the following men:—Oxford: Rev. R. Shepherd, Brasenose College; J. W. Awdry, Balliol College; W. Jackson, Christ Church; A. J. G. Parsons, Trinity College; S. A. Morrison, Balliol College; S. C. R. Karr, Wadham College; C. Kell, University College; Stroke, W. Lee Warner, Trinity College; Cawsakin, R. Salmon, Exeter College (temporary). Cambridge: Bow, Carlaon; 2, Hughes; 3, Hall; 4, Hedley; 5, Hughes; 6, Rutherford; 7, Young; Stroke, Chambers.

The Harbour Secretary has intimated to the principal fire-offices in the metropolis that the Government intend introducing a bill into Parliament for the formation of a fire-protective force for London, in connection with the police force; and Graham Shaw, the superintendent of Hammett Mr. Braidwood as superintendent of the brigade, has had an interview with the Secretary of State for the Home Office, at which it is understood arrangements will be to amalgamate the present fire brigade with it, so as to form a united establishment, which will consist of one person in the metropolis, bringing the number up to 120 stations and a corps of 360 men.

Last week the births of 2108 children—1092 boys and 1016 girls—were registered in the 30 districts corresponding with the years 1853-62 the average number (corrected) was 1956.—In the week that ended last Saturday 1222 deaths were registered. Of these, 736 were from the deaths in the weeks of the ten years 1853-62 corresponding with last week is, with a corresponding population, 1407. Last week 1222 registered deaths in the week, the oldest of whom was a man, aged ninety-eight. Besides these a centenarian, a woman, died at aged 101. Between 14, Duncan-street, and the 15th of February; she attained the age of 100 years on the 15th of January —a fact verified by the Registrar of Births and Deaths, Islington.

The seventh anniversary festival of the Dramatic, Equestrian, and Musical Sick Fund Association was held at Willis's Rooms, on Wednesday night, under the chairmanship of Mr. George Augustus Sala, who is the youngest of the six excellent charitable societies founded by the theatrical profession for the relief of the aged and is gradually growing into a most important position. This society was the first to admit ladies to its bursary, and Wednesday's festival, which began with dinner and a ball, was graced by a large and brilliant company. Mr. Sala made a most effective chairman, and, after the usual loyal and patriotic and complimentary toasts, proceeded to extol the cause of the institution. Mr. Bilumnd Yates proposed the health of Mr. Buckstone as the principal supporter of the fund, and Mr. Buckstone responded feelingly to this compliment. The health of the chairman was proposed by Mr. Dion Boucicault, and, with the subscription, the total receipts amounted to upwards of £240. After the speeches and concert, which were got through with great delight, dancing was kept up with spirit until the early hours.

Law and Police.—The case of Collingwood against Mr. Henry Berkeley, M.P., and others, directors of the British Columbia Gold and Silver Company, was heard in the Court of Exchequer on Friday and Saturday. The defence was that all these gentlemen had protested acting as directors when they found the nature of the concern was fraudulent, and that Colonel Sleigh was at the head of it; but the jury found them all liable in damages except Mr. Forsyth, who had never given authority for his name to be used in any way. A verdict was returned for the plaintiff for £10 against all the other defendants, with interest and costs, and a rule was granted, which they propose to have considered before the full Court. In the meantime execution has issued.

At the Surrey Sessions on Tuesday Mrs. Thomas, a widow, who received a high character for humanity and kind feeling, was tried for cruelty to a child, a girl who had gone into her service from the workhouse. The case occupied the whole day. The treatment which the girl alleged she had received was of the most unseemly and cruel kind. The defence was a total denial of the charge. The jury, however, found Mrs. Thomas guilty, and she was sentenced to three months' imprisonment with hard labour.

The persons who took forcible possession of the dilapidated house in Stamford-street which caused some little excitement a few weeks ago, were put upon their trial for riot and unlawful entering at the Surrey Sessions on Wednesday. The prisoners all pleaded guilty, and the magistrate dismissed them on their own recognizances to come up for judgment when called for.

The value of the public charities in this country is not less than £70,000,000.

LATEST NEWS FROM ABROAD.

The following telegram has been received through Mr. Reuter's office:—

The Polish Insurrection.—Berlin, Feb. 19.—Letters from Warsaw of Tuesday last received here say:—"An order issued by the chief of the revolutionary committee at Warsaw has been published here. The chief authority commands to leave their workshops and students under eighteen years of age to quit the schools, and continue the war. The Roman Catholic clergy assist in raising demonstrations. When the moment for insurrection in Warsaw shall have arrived the inhabitants will be solemnly exhorted to unite for its success. For the present tranquillity is required at Warsaw. The chief has also addressed an official communication to the Russian Consul in the Polish capital approaching him with displaying zeal in the Russian interest and with assuming a hostile attitude towards the insurgents. The chief concludes by promising that the Russian Government will pursue a more equitable course in future, to save the national Government the necessity of taking energetic measures against him."

CHURCH AND UNIVERSITIES.

On Tuesday the corner-stone of a new church, to be erected in Dunking, Surrey, in memory of the late Archbishop of Canterbury, Egerton, M.P., in the presence of a vast concourse of spectators.

The Minor Canons of St. Paul's Cathedral have presented a handsome silver salver to the Rev. John Henry Coward, M.A.

The chancel of the parish church at Dartford, Kent, has recently been restored by Mr. Hesketh, the large east window filled with stained glass by Heaton, Butler, and Bayne. A fifteenth-century window in the same form is to be inserted.

The Bishop of Chester recently consecrated a new church, dedicated to St. James, at Millbrook, erected at the cost of Mr. Abel Harrison, of Manchester, at a cost exceeding it is said, £20,000. The Rev. Augustus Egerton, M.P., is the presence of a vast concourse of spectators.

The Minor Canons of St. Paul's Cathedral have presented a handsome silver salver to the Rev. John Henry Coward, M.A.

The chancel of the parish church at Dartford, Kent, has recently been restored by Mr. Hesketh, the large east window filled with stained glass by Heaton, Butler, and Bayne. A fifteenth-century window in the same form is to be inserted.

The Bishop of Chester recently consecrated a new church, dedicated to St. James, at Millbrook, erected at the cost of Mr. Abel Harrison, of Manchester, at a cost exceeding it is said, £20,000. The Rev. Augustus Egerton, M.P., is the brother of the late Archbishop of Canterbury and of the Earl of Stamford.

The consecration of Trinity Church, Rusholme, near Manchester, have presented to the Rev. H. T. Venes, M.A., Rector, with an address, elegantly illuminated on vellum, together with a chaunty-designed silver cup, containing 200 sovereigns, as a testimonial of their regard.

A beautiful memorial (by Marochetti) to Prince Albert has just been erected in the parish church of Datford, Kent, and will be set up without much delay. It consists of a marble cross, with a recumbent statue of the late Prince, and is to be placed in the chancel. It was recently visited by the Royal family when residing at Osborne. The Vicar of the parish, the Rev. J. Hall, and the principal inhabitants of the neighbourhood have offered this tribute of gratitude and loyal attention to the memory of one who was so much beloved by them.

A school-church for St. Saviour's new district, Hoxton, was opened on Thursday week. The building is of corrugated iron, about 60 ft. by 30, and will hold 300 persons. The cost, £300, is being principally defrayed. When the room is used for school purposes, a curtain has been provided which cuts off the inner end of the building, and separates it entirely from the other, or from the body of the room.

The Incorporated Society for Promoting the Enlargement, Building, and Repairing of Churches and Chapels, held its usual monthly meeting on Monday, at the Society's house, Parliament-street, when grants amounting to £1185 were made in aid of building and repairing churches in various parts of the country.

The Upper House of Convocation has determined, by a majority, to carry out the suggestion of the Lower House that a committee should be appointed to consider the question of the revision of the Book of Pentatench. The Bishops of Lincoln, St. Asaph's, and Llandaff voted for entering the prayer of the Lower House. The Bishops of London and St. David's against it.

Arrangements have been made, by consent of the Duke of Newcastle, Secretary of State for the Colonies, for the immediate erection of another Australian bishopric, the seat of which will be at Goulburn, situated between Sydney and Melbourne. The new bishop will superintend the affairs of the (though thinly-inhabited region, which, however, like other parts of Australia, is rapidly increasing in population and importance.

Preferments and Appointments.—The Rev. P. H. Cope, M.A., Whitworth, Durham, to be Rector of Ryton. The Rev. Edward Hall, Rev. J. Bowen to Winton Lowes, Norfolk; Rev. F. Barges to Winterbourne, Gloucestershire; Rev. J. Bell, Rev. W. Hunter, Rev. J. Hall, Rev. J. Bell, Rev. Made to Minden Magna, Hertford; Rev. V. Musgrave to Hascomb, Surrey. Surveyor: The Rev. John Jones, Rector of Llanfihangel Glyn Myfyr, Corwen. Rev. G. C. Dickinson to Winterton, Lincolnshire; Rev. R. Jackson to Over, Cheshire; Rev. Mordaunt Mathews to Lower Dover, Kent; Rev. W. S. Thomson to Burgh-with-Winthorpe, Lincolnshire. Incumbency: Rev. W. Bernard to St. Peter, Saffron-hill; Rev. Joseph Jones to St. Peter, Saffron-hill; St. Peter, Saffron-hill; Rev. D. Fleming to West Hartlepool; Rev. W. G. Congdon to St. Peter's, Hackney; Rev. G. G. Morton to Acton; Rev. A. Robertson to Plumstead.—Guardian.

The Universities and Public Schools.—An action has been commenced in the Queen's Bench by Messrs. Longman and Roe, Benjamin Jowett, M.A., Fellow and Tutor of Balliol College, Regius Professor of Greek, in the University of Oxford, against the Rev. B. Williams, author of the Epistle of Paul to the Thessalonians," and other works. The appellants are Rev. Rowland Williams, D.D., Vice-Principal of St. David's College, Lampeter; Margaret Professor of Divinity; and the Rev. Dr. Optivie, Regius Professor of Pastoral Theology, in the University of Oxford.

Under the title of "Liber Cantabrigiensis, Part II," Messrs. Parker, Son, and Bourn have published a work which will be welcomed by every Cambridge man in the colleges and University of Cambridge, with an appendix containing the continuation of the history of the University and colleges from the first volume is by Mr. Robert Potts, M.A., of Trinity College.—There are twenty-two candidates for the scholarships at the Royal Naval College, instead of ten on the number of last year. Of the seventy-two gentlemen who offer themselves for admission to the college, it is understood that about a dozen number of others as Senior and Junior Optimes. The examination begins on Monday, 9th proximo, and continues for a week. The examination for degrees will commence on Tuesday, March 3.

The Oxford Term Commencements, held in the Examination Hall, the Earl of Rose was installed Chancellor of the University of Dublin. After a brief visit to Oxford, during which he was presented with the D.C.L. degree conferred on Mr. Benjamin Lee Guinness, the Lord Mayor; on Mr. Whitworth, the inventor of the rifled cannon; on Mr. Cope, R.A.; on Mr. Richard Cooper, the astronomer, of Markree Castle, in the county of Sligo.

The Rev. Charles Clay, M.A., of Trinity College, Oxford, and assistant preacher of Lincoln's Inn, has been elected Professor of classical literature, Belfast, in succession to the late Professor Sullivan, deceased.

An examination will take place at Uppingham School on Easter Tuesday, for the election of two scholarships, of the value of £40 each, open to the school for five years. Mr. Charles Clay, M.A., of Trinity College, Cambridge, is the examiner.

The secretaries of the whole of the London and provincial fire-insurance offices, for the third year consecutive, have had fortnight signed a petition to the House of Commons for the abolition or reduction of the duty on fire insurances.

Rational Gymnastics.—An interesting lecture on this subject was delivered at the Royal Polytechnic Institution on Saturday last. The system of physical education and training recommended by the lecturer for the use of soldiers in the army and navy, and for the public generally, is introduced by the late Professor Ling, of the Royal Swedish Academy. The only objection to the Swedish gymnastics, according to the views of the human frame, not separately or at the expense of, but through and in harmony with the mind and the whole. Ling's system is comprehensive, and the whole body is founded on common sense and the first laws of nature. Nothing is to be further from it than all appearance of "posturing" and "Ten Minutes Exercises" of Ling. They are simply movements designed in conformity with the anatomical construction and consequent laws of motion of the joints and limbs. They equally and harmoniously develop the frame in the healthy, and they are applicable to the prevention and cure of a large number of diseases. The only reason why they are not more generally prescribed for the sick is that the medical profession generally are ignorant of them, owing to a great extent with the usual resources of ordinary medical treatment, and only very imperfectly acquainted with the principles of gymnastic exercises which would be of little use either to the healthy or the afflicted unless many sanitary conditions which the lecturer considered were properly attended to previously. Alluding to the large number of recruits rejected on medical examination in consequence of their physical weakness, he attributed the principal cause to anything approaching hard work. Dr. Roth remarked that these evils generally originated with mothers and nurses—in improperties (and, in reality, unskilled) dresses of dress, and ignorance respecting the management of infants. The lecturer then alluded to the importance of proper ventilation in barracks, schools, &c.; of wholesome cooking and warm clothing, of baths; and, lastly, of rational gymnastics, which should never be violent or endanger the constitution. To the short high-heeled and more particularly narrow-toed shoes almost universally worn was attributed many injurious effects, and the fact that so many soldiers have to "fall out" on even a short march. The consequences of pressure on the lungs by clothing was also illustrated. And the lecturer recommended and showed the practicability of supplying a portable apparatus for bathing to soldiers in camp or even on a campaign. The model exhibited was constructed to supply the so-called Russian bath introduced by Dr. Roth.

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

In Chamberlayne's "Political State of Great Britain for the Year 1714" is an enumeration of the divers functionaries attached to the Court of England; and by the side of the "Queen's rateatcher," the "Queen's molecatcher" (salary £45 per annum), the "Queen's yeomanfeaster," and the "Queen's hobby-grooms," stands the "Queen's herbwoman." Does such a lady-dispenser of sweet savours hold official rank now? The last time she made an appearance at the Lords was, we believe, at the coronation of George IV., when the Royal train passed along a raised and carpeted platform from Palace-yard to Westminster Abbey; and the "herbwoman," attended by six "maids" clad in virginal white, led the way, strewing flowers in the Royal path. Will there be a herbwoman at Windsor next March? And, of course, Gravesend seems determined to keep up a very old and charming custom; and Princess Alexandra on landing at the Terrace-pier, Gravesend, is to find her first footsteps on English ground clad with a carpet of roses and violets scattered thickly by sixty fair maids of Kent, attired in the national colours of England and Denmark—red, blue, and white.

London will be thoroughly transformed on the 24th days between the entry and the marriage of our young Prince and Princess. Fancy seats for ten thousand persons in the area round St. Paul's, and for four hundred before the portico of the Mansion House! Imagine twenty thousand volunteers massed in Hyde Park! All the public buildings will, of course, be illuminated, and at night, and even gloomy old Temple Bar itself is to be spruced up and decorated. The Lord Chamberlain has been taking counsel of the managers of the theatres as to opening the theatres to the public, "free, gratis, and for nothing," during the four glorious days. This plan, sensibly carried out, would be most popular, and need not be surrounded by any difficulties. The best course to adopt is to issue in the ordinary manner from the Lord Chamberlain's office so many boxes, and no more, as there are places in the theatre for; to act strictly in their distribution according to the order of "first come, first served;" and to exercise judicious discrimination in apportioning admissions to box, pit, and gallery to those who seem respectively habituated to occupying the places in question.

Fall-mall, which before now has been likened—for the number, the splendour, and the variety of the equipages—to the Grand Canal at Venice, with the water concreted over, is to see grand doings on the happy day when the notes of "The Wedding March" are first heard in London. The clubhouses are to be illuminated, the pavement cut balconies draped and canopied, whence the members' ladies can witness the procession, and the Guards, the Life Guards, Blues, the Travellers', the Army and Navy, &c., the gallantry of the respective committees will, doubtless, lead them to do something extensive in the way of "decorations" as well. But will there be a ball? Probably no one can say. But why not a dance after the déjeuner? The clubs have ample room and when did Fall-mall ever fail in its social and choreographic displays.

Then, again, there is an agitation on foot to obtain the necessary authorisation for two or three open-air fairs and fêtes champêtres; and we understand that Mr. Nelson Lee, the well-known caterer for the Christmas recreations at Astley's, is ready to undertake to organise fairs in Hyde Park, Battersea Park, and Victoria Park, on the model—much improved—of those held in the fields round the Court about the time of the festival of the Assumption.

Regent-street is naturally vexed at the announcement that the Royal procession on the 24th is to pass down Dover, Knightsbridge thoroughfare. Preparations on a vast scale for the erection of triumphal arches, Venetian masts, and decorations of every sort, were in contemplation, and there is no doubt that Regent-street would have acquitted itself most loyally on the occasion; but, then, would not a day and every other thoroughfare in the metropolis have done the same? A suggestion was made to please all parties by allowing the municipal carriage to proceed from Hyde Park to the Mansion House, but this would have overruled, and the route along Fall-mall is to be adhered to. In fact, the Lord Chamberlain has a most public convenience to consult, and must cast the aristocratic slabs, of which the real governing classes of the country are composed.

The circulation of the Cornhill Magazine has been prohibited in France, an article on Mr. Kinglake's "History of the Invasion of the Crimea" having found favour in the eyes of the imperial authorities. We can scarcely wonder at it; yet it must not be supposed that Mr. Kinglake's literary matters politically are entirely laboured within the limits of the French empire." We have not yet heard that M. Emile Ollivier has been incarcerated either at Vincennes or at Mont St. Michel, and did M. Ollivier not on the other day in Opinion Nationale but read from the tribune certain passages of our Queen's recent address against George III. and the Duke of Grafton?

The seventh anniversary festival of the Dramatic, Equestrian, and Musical Sick Fund Association was held at Willis's Rooms on Wednesday last. This very excellent and truly philanthropic institution does not in any way clash with the Royal Dramatic College or Royal Theatrical Funds, the advantages offered by which are prospective; whereas those extended by the Sick Fund Association, &c., to its members are immediate. The association makes weekly allowances during sickness or incapacity to work; allocates grants to widows and orphans at the death of a member; guarantees large payments of funeral expenses; procures by means of an agency directed by Mr. W. Adams, all suitable engagements and secures to its members such engagements for its members, and advances them money when bound on distant journeys. The funds have already thirteen hundred solid pounds banked, as capital, and a yearly income of £240 arising from members' payments; and the collection after the banquet on Wednesday amounted to £240. The list of stewards is a long one, and in excess of any former one. The principal donors were Mr. Gray, of Cheltenham; Mr. Bunn; the worthy president of the association); Mr. Tom Taylor, Mr. H. F. Chorley, Mr. Arrodeschoot, Mr. Barnett, Mrs Swanborough, Miss Marie Wilton, &c.

A cockfighting case, legal, and many years an impression has prevailed that all gallinaceous contests have, like beardsinging, dogfighting, and shooting matches, been put down by the stern arm of the law; but from a recent grave decision in the Court of Queen's Bench it appears that considerable dubiety still environs the meaning of the statute which is to extinguish all and every of the barbarous amusements. An appellant against a conviction for promoting a cockfight in a public-house contended that, for his conviction to be quashed, the place where the cocks fought must be one commonly kept and used for such purposes, and that money must be taken for admission to the house. It was decided that the fact that many years was not a place "used and kept," so the conviction was quashed; and an impromptu cockfight was considered not to come under the law. But in a subsequent case, argued the same day, the cockfighter came to grief. In a yard with a bird with a broken leg, however, he was very properly prosecuted by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals; but he pleaded that a gamecock was not, as required by the statute to be used, "a tame and privately kept domestic animal." The Court, however, decided that it was, and that he had wantonly and cruelly caused to be fighting it to fight while in a crippled state.

The foolish woman and her confederate who lately made a riotous and forcible entry into the dilapidated premises known as the "haunted houses" in Stamford-street, and maintained possession of them under the pretence that the property belonged to them, was since gaol for a few days, have found the tenth part assume the very disagreeable guise of a criminal prosecution. They have been tried at the Surrey Sessions, pleaded guilty, but have been treated with leniency in being only ordered to find recognisances to come up for judgment when called upon. The majesty of the law is vindicated; but, surely, there should also be some law to compel the half crazy owner of this shamefully-neglected property to put it into somethine like decent and habitable repair. These "haunted houses" in Stamford-street, on Snow-hill, and in St. Clement's-churchyard are so many black eyes on the fair face of London; and their continuance in such a state of dirt and desolation would not be suffered for a week by the municipality of any metropolis in Europe save our own.

For the year ending in March last the dog tax realised £456,927.

THE CORONATION OF THE KING AND QUEEN OF MADAGASCAR.

THE coronation of King Radama II. of Madagascar and his Queen took place at Antananarivo, the capital, on the 23rd of September, 1862. The cortège of the public coronation consisted of the French and English representatives, the native Princes, Ministers, and officers of State, and a crowd of attendants. They proceeded by the principal street and past the French consulate to the Champ de Mars, where an enormous concourse of people, numbering more than 300,000, awaited their coming. The troops formed a complete hedge from the Royal palace to this place, where they were drawn up into squares, leaving between them the necessary space for the passage of the cortège to the centre of the Champ de Mars, where the throne had been prepared. It is at this spot that the sacred rock is discovered where the Kings of Madagascar have time out of mind presented themselves to the people. It is a circular stone about 9ft. high, cemented round with great care, and leaving its natural surface at the top, where was placed the Royal chair, the foot of which rested upon the bare rock under a painted purple and gold canopy supported by columns. On each side ascended two long estrades on the same level as the throne, that on the right being reserved for the French and English Plenipotentiaries, that on the left for the ladies of the Royal family. On reaching the foot of the steps leading to the throne the King, who was on horseback, dismounted, received the Royal mantle, and ascended to the chair, where he first placed the crown upon his own head and afterwards upon that of his Queen, Rabodoe. While he ascended the steps the King's mantle was supported by his adopted brother, M. Lambert. His Majesty, after addressing the people, received the oaths of fidelity from the chiefs of the tribes, who were represented by deputations with their respective flags and emblems. The impressive ceremony terminated with a grand festival.

Lieutenant Oliver, of the Royal Artillery, who formed one of the coronation cortège, has forwarded to us a Sketch (engraved in the present Number) of the procession passing Andohalo, respecting which he supplies the following particulars:—

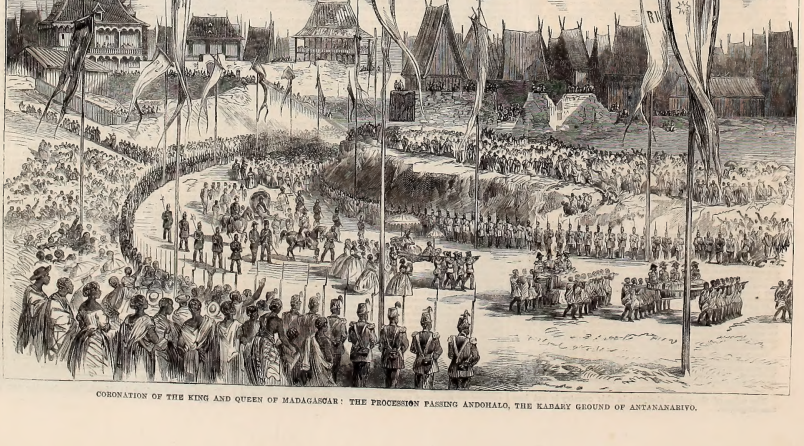
Andohalo is a large market-place and public assembly. The road descends from the main street and was lined with soldiers in red coatees, shakos, &c., presenting arms. The line was marked by poles at every ten yards with banners, white ground and red border, with Radama II. and a star, also in red. The head of the procession cannot be seen, its entire length being over a mile. The officers borne in palanquins in the foreground were the officers of the palace and of the King's household, four or five abreast, wearing cocked hats, with French and English uniforms of a past century, gold and silver belts, and ribbons of every colour, borne by their slaves, all in striped lambas, and followed each by a few attendants. Then came the Queen in a magnificent gilt palanquin, her coronation scarlet robe hanging over the rear of it. This palanquin, built in France, is shaped like an ottoman sofa, and is lined with scarlet. It was borne by twelve of her body guard in scarlet tunics, light grey trousers, and Scotch caps. In front of her, at her feet, was her little adopted daughter, under a smaller red silk parasol. A canopy was fixed to the back of the chair in which the Queen reclined. She was surrounded by her Court ladies in white muslin and moire antigue low dresses, scarves, bouquets and wreaths, and elegant coiffures. Behind the Queen came the King in an English Field Marshal's full uniform, on a fine Arab bay horse, hardly restrained by an Egyptian groom who led it. The groom was dressed in green tunic and trousers and red fez cap. On the right of the King walked M. Laborde, the French Consul, in French diplomatic costume; and Lieutenant Oliver, Royal Artillery, in full dress. Immediately in rear followed General Johnstone, Captain Anson, and Commodore Dupré, all in uniform, except the latter, in palanquins. M. Lambert was mounted, dressed like an ambassador. Ex Hainraka and other officers, the staff of the King, followed, and all the other English and French present. The body guard of the King, armed with poloaxes or spears, in green tunics and shakos, marched on each side. Behind followed a rather indiscriminate mass of people who had lost their places in the procession; and cocked-hats, plumes, bonnets, hats, feathers tossed about in wild confusion as the palanquin-bearers pushed and fought, striving to pass one another. The walls and banks on the sides of the road were covered with spectators all welcoming their popular Sovereign, and saluting him with loud and prolonged cries.

MAJOR-GENERAL J. E. B. STUART, COMMANDING CAVALRY OF THE CONFEDERATE ARMY OF NORTHERN VIRGINIA.

GENERAL J. E. B. STUART.

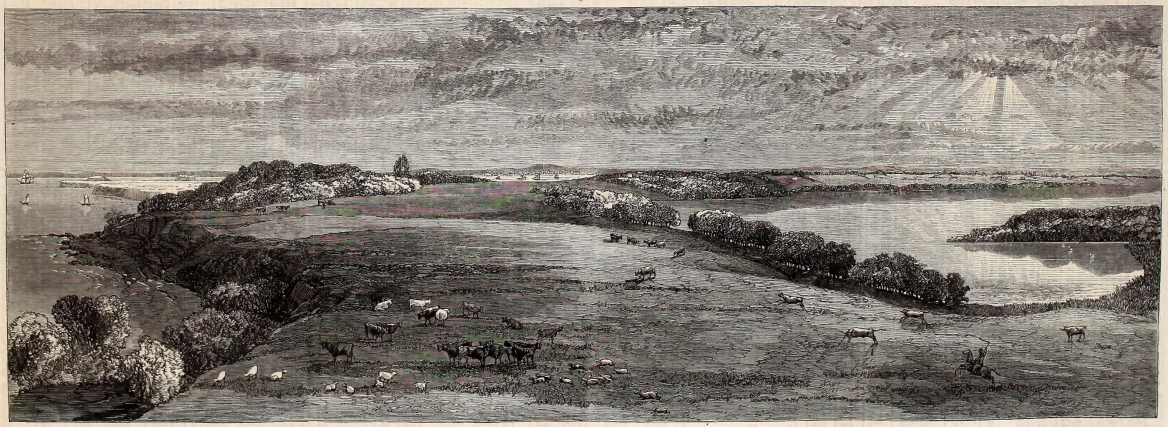
THE accompanying Portrait of the dashing cavalry officer, General Stuart—the Murat of the Confederates; their Prince Rupert, with more than that Prince's success—cannot fail to be of interest to our readers. It is from a Sketch by our Special Artist in the Confederate camp, Northern Virginia, to which General Stuart is attached. Appended are some remarks respecting the General by the Richmond correspondent of the Times:—"While in the Shenandoah Valley the achievements of General Jackson have aroused towards him a generous feeling of gratitude for danger averted and prosperity preserved it is doubtful whether east of the Blue Ridge the twenty-nine years of General Stuart, added to that indefatigable energy which teaches him, after he has ridden fifty miles during the day, to regard it as his highest happiness to ride a dozen more miles at night to tread but one measure' in a Virginian country-house, do not incline the scale, especially if the balance be adjusted by fair hands, in favour of the younger General. There have been many English officers, particularly in the East Indian service, whose endurance in the saddle has been regarded as unequalled; but I doubt whether any Englishman ever exhibited such superiority to bodily fatigue as is almost nightly evinced by the gay cavalier who knows every hospitable roof within a dozen miles of his head-quarters (and what roof is not hospitable?), and, accompanied by his banjo-player, visits them by turns night after night, returning usually to his hard-earned rest long after the midnight hour has flown. With the earliest dawn of morning the first voice calling gaily for breakfast is that of the midnight merrymaker, who rises the picture of health, goodhumour, and strength. It may be noticed en passant that to the circumstance that he has never touched tobacco in any form, or any wine or other liquor, General Stuart attributes much of his health and vigour. Certainly as jovial a company as is assembled at General Stuart's head-quarters it has never been my fortune to see paralleled in either the Federal or the Confederate camps."

In the Times of Tuesday appeared a letter from its special correspondent at the head-quarters of General Stuart, near Fredericksburg, Virginia, dated Jan. 1, containing an account of another of Stuart's raids of which some particulars had previously reached us:—"The return this evening of General Stuart and his staff has shed a glow of cheerfulness throughout the camp, and has afforded much merriment by reason of the incidents which accompanied this expedition, and of which every one is talking. It appears that General Stuart started upon Christmas Eve with a considerable force of cavalry in the direction of Dumfries, distant about thirty miles from these head-quarters. Thence he proceeded towards Occoquan Creek, where, as well as at Dumfries, he had skirmishes with the enemy, during which he took about 200 prisoners, and inflicted some loss upon them, himself sustaining the loss of only one man, Captain Bullock (a very gallant officer), who, it is feared, was mortally wounded. After crossing Occoquan Creek, General Stuart struck the Orange and Alexandria Railroad, and at Burke's station burnt down the telegraph operator was at work, burst into the room where the telegraph operator was at work, and commanded him, upon pain of instant death if he misinterpreted, to read off the messages which the click of the instrument pronounced to be at that moment passing along the wires. In this manner General Stuart learnt the movements which General Hointselman and other Federal generals were concerting with a view to intercept his retreat, and altered his course so as to baffle their preparations. The luckless telegraph operator and his fellow-prisoners—all of them dismounted cavalry soldiers—were started off on foot to walk forty-five miles to Culpepper station, in order that they might learn by practical experience what a long and weary travel was requisite to carry them to that Richmond which they have been so long in reaching. The submarine telegraph clock found at Burke's station is now a valuable acquisition at General Stuart's head-quarters, and will probably be the guide by which many a future reveillée and tattoo will be sounded. After leaving Burke's station General Stuart proceeded towards Alexandria, within eight miles of which town he turned towards the north-west, and returned hither by a circuit which brought him through Warrenton—which town was occupied by a large body of Yankee cavalry a few hours after General Stuart had passed through it—and Culpepper, thus concluding an expedition less important, but not less successful, than its predecessors."



CORONATION OF THE KING AND QUEEN OF MADAGASCAR: THE PROCESSION PASSING ANDOHALO, THE RADARY GROUND OF ANTANANARIVO.

THE SUEZ CANAL: GENERAL VIEW OF THE TOWN OF EL-GIRSH, TAKEN FROM THE MOUNDS THROWN UP IN EXCAVATING THE TRENCH OR RIGOLE DE SERVICE FOR THE MARITIME CANAL.—SEE PAGE 197.



VIEW OF AUCKLAND, NEW ZEALAND, FROM THE LAKE ON THE NORTH SHORE.—FROM A DRAWING BY MAJOR F. B. STACK.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 205.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING FEB. 28.

SUNDAY, Feb. 22.—Quadragesima: First Sunday in Lent. George Washington, the first President of the United States of America, born, 1732. The French landed near Fishguard, South Wales, and surrendered at discretion shortly after, 1797. Commencement of the French Revolution of 1848.

MONDAY, 23.—The Emperor Diocletian burnt the Holy Scriptures at Nicomedia, and began his great persecution of the Christians, 303. Sir Joshua Reynolds died, 1792. The Cato-street Conspiracy (by Thistlewood and others) to assassinate the Cabinet Ministers suppressed, 1820.

TUESDAY, 24.—Matthias, Apostle and Martyr. Francis I. of France defended and taken prisoner at Pavia, 1525. G. F. Handel born, 1684. Louis Philippe of France abdicated in favour of the Comte de Paris, 1848.

WEDNESDAY, 25.—Ember Week. Sir Christopher Wren died, 1723. The Peterborough Boat Race at Goldsmith's Row, Hackney Marsh, 1851. Moon's First Quarter, 0h. 34m. p.m.

THURSDAY, 26.—Ember Day. Reverend: Manfred, King of Naples, defeated and slain by Charles of Anjou, 1266. The Bank of England authorised to suspend specie payments, 1797. Abolition of Negro Slavery in the French Republic, 1815.

FRIDAY, 27.—Arrival of the first Russian Embassy in England, 1558. So-St defeated by Wellington at Orthes, 1814.

SATURDAY, 28.—Battle of Bramham Moor: The Earl of Northumberland defeated and slain by King Henry IV., 1408. Humphry, Duke of Gloucester, said to have been murdered, 1447.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON-BRIDGE, FOR THE WEEK ENDING FEBRUARY 28.

Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.
4 45	5 12	5 41	6 11	6 42	7 16	7 52
5 0	5 27	5 56	6 26	6 57	7 31	8 10

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE NEW OBSERVATORY OF THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

Lat. 51° 26′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W.; Height above Sea, 34 feet.

DAY	DAILY MEANS OF		THERMOMETER.		WIND.		RAIN in 24 hours.
	Barometer reduced to 32°.	Thermometer in shade.	Dew Point.	Relative Humidity.	Highest.	Lowest.	General Direction.	Horizontal Motion.	Inches.	Hundredths.
	Inches.	°	°		°	°			Inches
11	29·190	42·6	37·4	81	51·1	47·9	SSW.	103	·000
12	29·381	43·1	37·7	80	49·3	37·7	W.	141	·000
13	29·647	38·4	33·9	85	47·1	47·0	E.	115	·000
14	29·747	41·0	37·0	86	47·9	34·0	E.	108	·000
15	··	··	··	··	49·3	45·9	E.	203	·000
16	29·329	37·6	31·4	82	50·2	46·0	ENE.	301	·000
17	29·089	39·7	32·3	77	49·3	48·3	NNW. SSW.	74	·000

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, at 10 o'clock A.M. and 10 o'clock P.M.:—

Barometer (in inches) corrected...	29·522	29·347	29·023	29·645	29·325	29·618
Temperature of Air	42°	42°	42°	42°	42°	42°
Temperature of Evaporation ...	39°	39°	39°	39°	39°	39°
Direction of Wind	W.	SSW.	CALM	CALM	W.	W.

ROYAL ENGLISH OPERA, COVENT-GARDEN.—Under the Management of Miss LOUISA PYNE and Mr. W. HARRISON.—Immense season of Italian Opera under the direction of M. JULLIEN DE NANTES, which will be opened on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday. After which the Burlesque Opera of the Grand Pantomime, founded on the Fairy Tale of Cinderella, will be produced. Harlequin, Mr. Frederick Bennett; Clown, HARLEIN, when the entire Pantomime of BEAUTY AND THE BEAST will be produced. Doors to be opened at Seven. Commence at Seven. Box-office open daily from Ten till Four.

THEATRE ROYAL, DRURY LANE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. EDMUND FALCONER.—The Public is respectfully informed that the Management has made such arrangements as will enable the Theatre to be opened for a limited number of nights, nearly-style, to NOW OPEN for the Dramatic Season. Notwithstanding the numerous expenses incurred in the preparations for the Season, the Prices of Admission will be as usual. The Boxes and Stalls of the principal London Theatres.—Last Grand Monster Performance of the Fairy Pantomime, on Monday, the 2nd night of Beauty and the Beast. Harlequin, Mr. HARLEIN; Clown, Mr. FREDERICK BENNETT. On MONDAY, FEB. 23, and during the celebrated Ballet Divertissement, Le Diable Boiteux. On MONDAY, FEB. 23, and during the Week, will be produced a new and original, historical, romantic, and legendary Dramatic Romance, entitled the Wife's Secret, written by Mr. Edmund Falconer, in Three Acts

HASTINGS AND ST. LEONARDS SANITARY INQUIRY.
Local Government Act Office, the Privy Council Office,
Jan. 31, 1863.
SIR,—The Lords of her Majesty's Council having received an intimation that there is an unusual amount of sickness prevailing at Hastings and St. Leonards, direct me to request that the Local Board of Health which has been established in those towns will cause an inquiry to be made into the cause or causes to which such sickness is to be attributed, and with regard to the nature and extent of the fever, and with regard to the sanitary condition of the district.
If the Local Board should require a medical officer of health, their Lordships would be glad to be informed with a copy of any report which he has made on the subject.
My Lords direct me to request that you will communicate to them as to the proceedings which the Board may recently have taken to procure additional or improved water supplies for the district, and to state whether, in the event of such intervention, my Lords request to be informed what steps of that kind recommended in the above-named letter have been taken by your Board to prevent the occurrence of fever, &c., in future.
I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
The Clerk to the Local Board of Health, Hastings. JOHN SIMON.

Hastings, February 18, 1863.
My Lords,—At a quarterly meeting of the Corporation of this town, held on the 4th inst., a letter from Mr. Simon, medical officer of the Privy Council, dated the 31st ult., was read on the subject of the fever which has prevailed in this town for the last few months, and it was resolved that the Board be desired to inform you that a copy of Mr. Simon's letter has been sent to the Commissioners and Overseers in this borough—twenty in number—with a request that each of those gentlemen would favour the Board with information in their power as to what steps the Council as a Local Board of Health to be a correct statement before your Lordships, and that the Board would be glad to receive any suggestions which your Lordships may think proper. The Council believe with pure and wholesome water, and the drainage now in course of completion, the Council believe with pure and wholesome water, and the drainage now in course of completion, the Council believe with pure and wholesome water, and the drainage now in course of completion, the PRESENTATION OF THE FREEDOM OF THE FISHMONGERS' COMPANY TO THE PRINCE OF WALES: MR. TOWSE, THE CLERK, READING THE RECORD OF HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS'S ELECTION.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

"THE COTTAGE WINDOW."

BY G. H. BOUGHTON.

THERE is in this little picture a charm of simple, unforced naturalness, and a freedom from grimace, affectation, self-consciousness, or effort, really refreshing. True, such are rather negative than positive merits; yet, how strange to say, they are very rare among all but a few of the very best of our British painters. Is it not singular that in these simple themes so often chosen by our figure painters, qualities so obviously necessary, and apparently so easy of attainment as to appear inevitable, are in reality seldom found? It is, perhaps, still more remarkable that they seem to be less rare among French painters of domestic life; for, from received notions among us of the character of our neighbours and allies, we might expect to find some traces of a love of display, and a tendency to theatrical exaggeration in all their works. It is certain, however, for it was proved in the International Exhibition, that there is a large proportion of French painters of domestic incident quite free from these faults. In the first rank among such painters is M. Edouard Frère, an artist whose native truthfulness has won for him—chiefly through the exhibition of his works from time to time at the French Gallery, Pall-mall—as high a reputation in this country as in France. Upon this admirable painter Mr. Boughton (whose promise we were one of the first to signalise) has evidently formed his style—if we may apply this term to what appears so simple and spontaneous. The resemblance is indeed so great that, saving a slight thinness and brownness, this picture might have been painted by the French artist. The little maiden bending so prettily over her flowers and watering them from the large family jug with so natural a solicitude is just such an unsophisticated rustic French child as M. Frère delights to paint. Her white calico capoual and sleeves, her little red jacket and dark petticoat, are those of the peasants of Ecouen, the village near Paris among whom M. Frère lives and paints. The outlook from the casement, over the green spring crops and the little sentier beyond, is just such a snatch of simple landscape as one sees in French pictures of this class. The little lassie herself has no pretensions to the beauty of our conventional studio rustics, but she is one of Nature's own wild flowers, and the artist could not have represented her more suitably employed.

We are very glad to hear that the benevolent purpose of the exhibition to which Mr. Boughton kindly consented this pleasing little picture is already attained in the sale (through the large number of sales) which must be very gratifying to all concerned in its formation.

"THE COTTAGE WINDOW," PAINTED BY G. H. BOUGHTON, IN THE SUFFOLK-STREET EXHIBITION FOR THE RELIEF OF THE DISTRESS IN THE COTTON DISTRICTS.

THE PRINCE OF WALES AND THE FISHMONGERS' COMPANY.

THE freedom of the Fishmongers' Company was presented to the Prince of Wales on Thursday week. The steps leading to the Fishmongers' Hall were covered with crimson cloth, while overhead was the canopy, always significant of some City festivity. Eighteen watermen, all winners of Doggett's badge, at various periods, from 1824 down to the 1st of August last, kept guard in the outer staircase, and in the vestibule the band of the Royal Artillery played at intervals. The great hall where the presentation took place was crowded with spectators, among whom were a very large number of ladies. In the centre of the hall was a raised dais and a crimson chair placed for the Prince of Wales. About one o'clock his Royal Highness arrived at the hall, accompanied by General Knollys and Major Teesdale. His approach was the signal for a most hearty reception from the crowd, the cheering being loud and reiterated. The Prince at once ascended the staircase in the midst of a procession consisting principally of members of the Fishmongers' Company, the band of the Royal Artillery meanwhile playing "God Save the Queen." When he had entered the ante-room to the principal chamber, several of the leading members of the corporation were presented to him by the clerk of the company. Amongst those thus presented were the past wardens, Mr. Hanbury, M.P., and Mr. Western Wood, M.P., Lord Clyde, and Sir Rowland Hill. He then entered the great chamber of the company, and took his seat in the chair upon the dais, the spectators standing until they received a signal to be seated. The freedom of the company, inclosed in a massive gold casket, was presented to the Prince with the usual forms—Mr. Cubitt, M.P., briefly addressing his Royal Highness. This chaste and elegant casket, of which we give an Engraving, is in the Renaissance style of ornament, and was designed and manufactured by Smith and Nicholson, of Drake-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields. It is surmounted by a female figure, representing Commerce seated on a dolphin, and by his Royal Highness. This chaste and elegant casket, of which we give an Engraving, is in the Renaissance style of ornament, and was designed and manufactured by Smith and Nicholson, of Drake-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields. It is surmounted by a female figure, representing Commerce seated on a dolphin, and by his Royal Highness's crest and feathers. It bears the Prince's arms and monogram, and likewise the company's arms. The Prince of Wales, after having shaken hands with Mr. Cubitt, spoke as follows:—"Mr. Cubitt and gentlemen, it is with the greatest pleasure that I find myself called upon to return my sincere thanks to you, Sir, as prime warden, and to you, gentlemen of the court of assistants of this honourable and ancient Company of Fishmongers, for the complimentary and kind terms in which you have expressed yourselves towards me on the occasion of my taking up my freedom, and on your enrolling my name as a citizen with those illustrious personages and relatives who stand recorded in your annals. It cannot be otherwise than a source of pride, and of a still deeper feeling—that of affection, when I look on these walls and see the portraits of those whose son and grandson hopes to form one of your distinguished body; and to be thought worthy of occupying the place of that lamented parent whose loss the whole country has united in deploring would be in itself an object of my highest ambition. Gentlemen, let me also tender to you my warmest acknowledgments for the manner in which you have offered your congratulations to me on my approaching marriage, and to the young Princess who hopes so soon to adopt the proud title of an Englishwoman, and to prove herself a comfort to the Queen in her affliction." Cheers followed the conclusion of this address. The interesting ceremony then terminated.

The Prince was subsequently entertained at an elegant dejeuner. In the evening there was a magnificent banquet given in the hall, at which most of the civic members were present, and at which also the Earl of Shaftesbury and Sir Rowland Hill took up their freedom.

EL-GIRSH, EGYPT.

A PREVIOUS Number of this Journal contained an account, accompanied by several Illustrations, of a trip recently taken by Mr. Frederick George, of Cairo, on the fresh-water canal which is being constructed in connection with the works of the Suez Canal. Mr. George proceeded by boat to El-Girsh (of which we give an Engraving on page 193), crossing the desert thence to Suez. El-Girsh is situated near Lake Timsah, and is connected with Port Said by the régole de service or trench of the intended Maritime Canal. The European community here have organised themselves into a club, and possess, amongst other advantages, an admirably-arranged museum, which contains specimens of reptiles, fossils, and many curiosities which have been brought to light during the excavations. A well-conducted reading-room is attached, and the whole thing speaks well for the spirit and intelligence of its members. To the left, in the extreme distance of the Engraving, can be seen the palace of the late Viceroy, with a triumphal arch, erected by and at the cost of the company to commemorate the opening of the Régole and letting the waters of the Mediterranean into Timsah. Nearer is the mosque (also built by the company for the use of their workmen), small Arab town, the company's stores, and, lastly, the streets, which are well arranged and built in stone. The church stands out prominently.

THE CHINCHA (GUANO) ISLANDS: GUANO PILE ON NORTH ISLAND.—SEE PAGE 209.

SKETCHES IN PARLIAMENT.

It days somewhat long gone by there was an axiom amongst lawyers, which we suppose was accepted by the outer world, that English law was the perfection of human reason. If this implied anything, it was that our legal system had passed the necessity of amendment; and indeed it would seem that the exteriorness of the Great Charter had made up their minds on this point when they so unanimously stated their objection to any change in the laws of England. Our notion of human reason of the modern and enlightened era evidently a very different thing to that of the mailed Barons, as well to that of Coke and Serjeant Manning. The amendments of the law means sweeping change now, and we expect a Legislature to be working away at the making of new Acts of Parliament for six months in every year; and at this moment we are all wondering why it is that the present Session promises to be unusually sterile; and the inquiry arises, Has another perfection of human reason been arrived at? Few persons unacquainted with the habits and customs of Parliament remember a state of things like the present, because there are but few of the Old Guard who have found it difficult to eke out a sitting on any night until eight o'clock, and when the Government sits with folded arms waiting for a count-out up, but totally comes to stir. The normal condition of the House of Lords at this time, of the year is kept up—that is, there is a sneaky assemblage of Peers at a quarter past five, a spasmodic effort or two to get up a conversation, which generally fails, and an adjournment before six. This seems to be unmeaning, but the question of Lord Derby's temperament just now. That noble Earl appears to be in high feather; his nervous organisation has been well wound up by his activity in a cause which, of course, must have been extremely well exercised by the antagonism of that distress with which he was so nobly striving, and he is restless and eager for a real fight, whether up to Monday last he could only get up a little skirmishing. It was with an irritable pride that he inquired the other evening whether it was true no measure were introduced into the Upper House, and indirectly demanded when the fighting was to begin. To him Lord Lyndhurst, mailed, prone, replied, as often did those Lordships House was, as they express it, hoary, and that there was nothing yet ready for the House. A construction of contrariety was insisted on, he had no objection to gratify Lord Derby by giving him opportunity of lecturing on a pet subject of his own—reclamation of rivers from the sea. It is true that the Lord Chancellor of elderly, solid and practical, was delivered of his first joke on this occasion, but it was a dry one, and, though much relished by the new member for Southampton, who, as Lord Mayor of London, has an official right to be facetious on all the questions—especially the marvellous benefactions which have flowed into the relief fund—made his first appearance. His spoke blandly and to the point, and with the modesty of a freshman which became one of the youngest members of the House; and if he will, as is most likely, as evidenced on another evening, be a most useful and unpretending one. He is of the middle course always, and speak moderately on matters of which he knows something, and, when he does not, discriminately puts questions which satisfy his ambition. Last year a gentleman, previously nearly if not wholly obscure, forced himself into a doubtful prominency. Sir Baldwin Leighton, Bart. We are sorry to say it was a most pernicious persistency; and the eminence, such as it was, which he then achieved, became desirous of vindication. The Government, while it was practical and took a wide view of the question, was essentially sympathetic with Lancashire, he approved, if not exactly by grudge, to the Government, and, as he humbles one's self to concede to be in a manner poachers on the charitable impulses of the whole country.

What is to be predicted of a Ministry which on the first division of a Session allows itself to be beaten by a majority of 1? Lord John Russell, who was for once the responsible leader of the Opposition, probably never dreamed of the success which followed his languid, dilettante mode of shaking/over the fruit which was at last ready to be thrown into the ministerial ground in Epping Forest. To be sure, the Government defence halted and hammered, and appeared generally if not irritating, and the most serious auspice of Mr. Frederick Peel, who is so like his father—in all his bad points—and who always seems to be speaking a funeral oration when he is only talking common-place, was Mr. Hume. Sir George Grey, who came rushing up to the rescue, has lost all the tones of his voice, and was positively inaudible; and, as he tumbles out a series of words in one prefer-rapid flow, sense is lost in a cracking, rumbling sound, and meaning lost in the most anxious listening ear. If any one could have made out the arguments against the exact frame of Mr. Peacocke's motion, they would probably have been found satisfactory, for the want of intelligence is found to be a defect of Government; and, still more probably, if Lord Palmerston had known of the unpreparedness of his subordinates for the contest he might have come in with a few clear sentences and set the matter right, just as he did on a subsequent evening when his pet lamb, Mr. W. Cowper, was being worried by the Irish Opposition members, who wanted to take the somewhat unusual course of stopping the introduction of a bill. Mr. Cowper is a gentleman of considerable opposition and criticism; but the Premier watches over him like the Homeric gods over their favourite heroes, and always carries him away in a cloud—of words—just when he is about to be hopelessly smashed.

Those who are downhearted because there is not, and seems unlikely to be, any diversion in Parliament still hang their hopes on Mr. Gladstone's budget. The coming financial galee, seven in the last few days it was anticipated it would be, will be followed by a rousing of the slumbering elements of Parliamentary strife. As yet, however, the public mind has not been attracted to the personally his "tameness is shocking to view." It is true that he has blushed unseen, and has not, as in the case of Mr. Sidney Walloughby has fixed his glittering, financial eye, and which have produced from that figurative (in the multiplication-table sense) gentleman a shower of gold, but he has not as yet succeeded in getting that sole effort in that line for which David Deans was accustomed to pray. Mr. Gladstone has spread out by the Chancellor of the Exchequer a curious network of stocks and annuities in a twist of conversion—a very tight entanglement, in which perhaps he may one day find himself tripping; for, as perhaps many people have discerned in reference to Mr. Gladstone, when genius allied with industry is put to the practical purpose of the financial regeneration of the wisdom of Lord Melbourne's policy of letting things alone.

Could it have been the simple fact of the return to the House of Commons of so many members who were not present in the middle days of the Peel Ministry—used to show as a somewhat turbulent majority, and to have given its torpor on Tuesday night a character in such an extent that there was actually debating remotely tending to enactment, and to bring on the half-past two revive? The reappearance of Mr. Ferrand, the newly-elected member for Dewsbury, on the scene in which he was once rather disagreeably prominent, caused the first excitement of the Session. A large number of Conservatives brought from the first Sea Lord of the Admiralty, and who thus represented a great party success. Perhaps by the independent Liberal members it was taken as a sign that the operative elector, even in dockyards, is shaking off the yoke which he has hitherto been compelled to wear by Governments of all shades of politics when he is supposed to be exercising his right of suffrage. One could not but fancy that Mr. Ferrand, while he underwent an ovation evidently prepared, must have remembered a very different scene when he had to defend himself from almost Parliamentary censure, and left the House with an assumption of injured innocence, amidst peals of derisive laughter. Perhaps he has become a wiser and more subdued, if not a sadder, man than formerly. Indeed, one hears he has been, in the interval of his retirement from Parliament, a great sheep farmer; and he may have imbibed some of the qualities of his lambs. If so, he may become a very good member, for he has many strong points both of intellect and character, and much readiness and fluency of speech, his manner of which is quite undeniable. Already he has given proof of the latter attributes, for in an hour or so after he had taken his seat he gave notice of a motion. Lord Palmerston, on the part of the cordial desire of the House to get two animated debates on private bills, ending in divisions, in which, however, the Government majority manner did not comply with the hungriness of the Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs; but he only succeeded in getting Mr. Milner Gibson, for the first time since he has had a Cabinet Minister, into something like what he used to be when he was the incarnation of a political school in Parliament, and was bold in proportion to the dignity of his position. Mr. Milner Gibson probably far beyond that of a mere President of the Board of Trade. He rose up indignantly at the loss of certain privileges peculiarly to the Irish grievance-mongers, and passable, from a religious point of view, even in the eyes of Sir George Bowyer. Altogether the appearance of things betokened that the House had at last got into gear for the Session.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

[The following abstract of the doings in both Houses of Parliament on Friday, the 13th inst., appeared in our Town Edition last week.]

HOUSE OF LORDS.—FRIDAY, FEB. 13.

INDIAN OFFICERS.—The Earl of ELLENBOROUGH presented petitions from Indian officers praying for the loss of certain privileges which appear to have been guaranteed to them by Parliament. The greatest grievance of all was about the Staff Corps. The petitioners complained that the Staff, of which the officers complained most, being superseded by officers having little experience as subalterns, and being sent back on many occasions to take the command over the heads of the seniors—The Duke of WELLINGTON said he was not aware that there was any truth in the petitions. He respect had the guarantee to the Indian officers been violated.—The Duke of CAMBRIDGE said he was sure to answer the petitions, as a great number of British officers on the Indian Staff, inasmuch as one of the requirements for the Staff corps was that the officers should have served with the Indian language. And until officers knew the advantages derivable from that position they would be unable to get to be the Indian language.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—FRIDAY, FEB. 13.

Mr. F. Powell took the oath and his seat for the borough of Cambridge, in the room of Mr. Andrew Stuart, resigned.

Mr. W. Cowper moved for leave, the 3rd of March he would move for a Select Committee on the game laws.

Mr. WILLIAMS moved for leave to bring in a bill to amend the law relating to the liability of innkeepers, and to prevent certain frauds upon them.

Mr. A. Mills obtained leave to bring in a bill to amend the law of settlements at municipal elections.

Mr. PEACOCKE moved for a motion for Supply. Mr. PEACOCKE moved that an address be presented praying that her Majesty will give directions that no salary to Parliamentary Commissioners for Inclosure Lands, and the future office of London.—Mr. COX seconded the motion.—Mr. PEEL said the forest rights of the Crown were not inconsiderable, and the Government had received the remarks from the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Locke, Mr. Ayrton, Mr. Deacon, Mr. Hume, and other members, and would consider them.—The House divided: ayes, 119; against it, 75: majority, 40. The motion was agreed to and the Government defeated.

THE SAVINGS BANKS.—The House having gone into Committee, the CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER moved a resolution to the effect that the bill for enabling the old savings banks to relieve themselves of their labours and their funds, and to hand over the same to the Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt, be read a second time.—The resolution was agreed to.

TOBACCO DUTIES.—The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER, in Committee on Customs Acts, moved the following resolutions:—1. That in lieu of the duties of Customs now payable on tobacco, there shall be paid on all manufactured tobacco under-mentioned, the following duties shall be charged and paid in respect of the undermentioned, that is to say, on tobacco, the lb. 3d.; on snuff, 5s. 9d. per lb.; other manufactured tobacco, 4s. 9d. per lb. 2. That all manufactured tobacco imported in any other manner than as goods subject to the duties of customs may, in such warehouse, be manufactured or converted into the articles mentioned in the preceding resolution.—The resolutions, on the motion produced by such manufacture or conversion there shall be charged and paid on the delivery out of the warehouse thereof, the duties of excise of 3d. per lb. the right hon. gentleman said the objects which he had in view in moving these resolutions were to prevent the present fraudulent system, and that which he which, he believed, would be obtained by the adoption of them. After a brief conversation, the resolutions were agreed to and the report ordered to be brought up on Monday.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—MONDAY.

The sitting of the House was occupied by the Bishop of Oxford, and the Earl of Derby complained that their Lordships were obliged to come down to the House when they had no business to transact. He thought that it was time when the papers relating to the Brazilian imbroglio would be laid upon the table, and expressed a hope that Government would state when they would be able to disprove the" charges of arbitrary and unjust conduct in this matter, which were contained in the letter of Sir Edmund Walker Head.—He said that the papers were being prepared, and in due time would be laid upon the table.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY.

In answer to two questions which were put to him, Sir George Grey announced that the Government had decided to recommend a change in the system for the impression of fines in the metropolis, and that they did not intend to introduce the Army Estimates this week.

Leave was given to introduce bills founded on the resolutions agreed to in Committee of Ways and Means.—Several private bills were also introduced.

The Irish Registration of Births and Deaths Bill was read a second time, and the Irish Fisheries Bill was read a second time.—Lord John Russell and Sir Robert the Drainage of Land (Ireland) Bill was advanced a stage.

Mr. Cowper moved that the House go into Committee on the making of a new street from the end of the proposed Thames embankment at Blackfriars Bridge to the Strand.—Mr. Hume opposed the motion, as the sum of £400,000, which it was intended should be defrayed out of the Thames Embankment Fund, &c., would be better applied to the reduction of the debt.—Mr. Wood said he was to be able to disprove the charges of arbitrary and unjust conduct in this matter, which were contained in the letter of Sir Edmund Walker Head.—He said that the papers were being prepared, and in due time would be laid upon the table.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY.

In answer to two questions which were put to him, Sir George Grey announced that the Government had decided to recommend a change in the system for the impression of fines in the metropolis, and that they did not intend to introduce the Army Estimates this week.

Leave was given to introduce bills founded on the resolutions agreed to in Committee of Ways and Means.—Several private bills were also introduced.

The Irish Registration of Births and Deaths Bill was read a second time, and the Irish Fisheries Bill was read a second time.—Lord John Russell and Sir Robert the Drainage of Land (Ireland) Bill was advanced a stage.

Mr. Cowper moved that the House go into Committee on the making of a new street from the end of the proposed Thames embankment at Blackfriars Bridge to the Strand.—Mr. Hume opposed the motion, as the sum of £400,000, which it was intended should be defrayed out of the Thames Embankment Fund, &c., would be better applied to the reduction of the debt.—Mr. Wood said he was to defray the entire cost, it would be proposed that the coal duties should be continued for the purpose of paying off the debt.—Mr. Locke thought the interests of the metropolitan members to their feet, and one after the other they suggested delay in the matter.—Lord John Russell and Mr. Disraeli, however, came up to the rescue, and this was only asking leave to introduce the bill, and urged that important questions of this kind should not be hurried on in a thin house in and read a first time.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer obtained leave to bring in a bill to give an extension of the period for payment of the malt duties, some objections to the measure having been made by Mr. Hume and Mr. Dobree.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—TUESDAY.

Earl Russell, in reply to some remarks made by the Earl of Derby on the previous evening, said that the Government was not in possession of information taken against the Brazilian Government by the British Minister at Brazil and Admiral Walker.—The Duke of ARGYLL, in answer to Lord Redesdale, said the Earl said that the conduct of the Brazilian Government was so evative that her Majesty's Government had thought it necessary to take a resort to extreme measures.

A message from her Majesty requesting the House to consider what provision should be made on the occasion of the approaching marriage of the Prince of Wales, was brought down by Viscount Canning and Mr. Dobree, by which their Lordships immediately voted a responsive and loyal address.

Lord STRANGFORD called the attention of the House to the correspondence recently presented on the affairs of Rome, which called forth a reply from Lord Russell. His Lordship expressed his high admiration of the new order of things in Italy, and contended that the Papal Government was so bad that it was impossible for any sovereign or statesman to tolerate it, or even hope to assimilate it to the free State which hemmed in on every side. Lord Ellenborough expressed similar opinions.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—TUESDAY.

Mr. W. B. Ferrand took the oaths and his seat for the borough of Devonport, amidst loud cheers from the Opposition.

The Liverpool Licensing Bill, which sought to alter the licensing system in that town, was thrown out on the motion for its second reading.

The South-Eastern Railway Bill was also thrown out on the motion for its second reading.

In reply to Mr. Bentinck, Lord Palmerston said the Government had no further information as to the naval action off Charleston than that which had appeared in the telegraph. He declined to give an opinion as to whether, if the circumstances stated were true, the blockade had been legally raised.

A discussion, introduced by Mr. S. Fitzgerald, followed on the subject of our commercial treaties, Mr. W. E. Forster, Mr. M. Layard, Mr. Disraeli, and Mr. Milner Gibson, being the chief speakers.

Lord Palmerston brought up a message from the Queen asking the House to make suitable provision for an establishment for the Prince of Wales on his marriage. His Lordship moved an address of compliance in reply to the message, and moved that the House take the subject into consideration on Tuesday. Mr. Disraeli concurred in the motion. Inquiries were made by Sir H. Willoughby and Mr. Williams in reference to accounts of the revenues of the Duchy of Cornwall, and the conversation then ensued from the reference of the minority of the Prince of Wales. The Chancellor of the Exchequer would refrain he told upon the subject in the form required by the Act. The address was then agreed to.

Mr. Horsfall obtained leave for the appointment of a Select Committee to inquire into the practicability of consolidating the Boards of Inland Revenue and Customs.

Sir G. Grey obtained leave to bring in a bill to amend the law relative to the religious instruction of prisoners in county and borough prisons in England and Scotland, and to enable prisoners to be more freely visited by the ministers of their own religion.

Mr. M. Gibson obtained the appointment of a Select Committee to inquire into the system of private-acts legislation.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—WEDNESDAY.

Mr. Hudson's bill for abolishing the declaration with respect to the Established Church required consideration, which was read a second time.

Lord Brayborn moved the second reading of his bill for the punishment of perpetrators of certain assaults on women and children, one of the principal objects of which was that, when a third offence of this kind was proved against a man, he should be whipped. If they thought that punishment rather too severe, he was privately whipped, with not more than forty-one lashes. The bill was opposed by the Attorney-General, Mr. Bouverie, and others, and, on a division, it was rejected by a majority of 135 to 43.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—THURSDAY.

ROME.—The Marquis of NORMANBY complained of having been misrepresented, as to a despatch which he had written, by the noble Lord (Earl Russell) in the discussion the other evening.—Earl RUSSELL said he had not intended to depreciate the noble Lord for the purpose of proving the general position of the advantages of giving advice to a country to follow from it, and not compulsory constitutional forms. He had not meant to imply that the constitutional position across the continent which the Marquis was following from what they were now.—The Marquis of NORMANBY said everything in this despatch referred to a particular occasion, and did not apply to the present position. He had, besides, to complain of the despatch being quoted from, although he had been checked for doing that by the noble Lord to which now had quoted.—The Earl of ELLENBOROUGH said it was a general rule that no public officer had a right to read from despatches which he had written, and he thought his official position till they were published officially.—Earl RUSSELL said he had no intention to violate that rule, and had no intention at the time to publish the documents in question.

PRISON DISCIPLINE.—TICKETS OF LEAVE.—The remainder of the evening was occupied with conversations upon the above subjects, the one originating in the Earl of Carnarvon, and the other with the Earl of Derby.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY.

Mr. W. H. F. Gore Langton took the oaths and his seat for West Somerton, in the room of Mr. C. A. Moody, resigned.

The Thames Conservancy Bill, after a considerable discussion, was negatived without a division.

In answer to Mr. Stansfield, the Chancellor of the Exchequer said the Government had under consideration the alterations in the duties on spirits now payable by law.

Mr. Ayrton gave notice that on the second reading of the Tobacco Duties Bill he would move that the whole question be referred to a Select Committee.

Mr. Ayrton gave notice that he would move for a Select Committee.

On the Message being brought up, Lord PALMERSTON rose to propose a grant for maintaining the establishment of the PRINCE OF WALES. He, in doing so he said he would remind the House of that of which all were perfectly aware, that the Prince of Wales was a member of a constitutional monarchy the value of which the people of these times were perhaps more aware of than those of any former period. It was the duty of the Crown to maintain the value of our institutions with events which were passing in other parts of the world, and which they had seen in the case of the exile which now resided in arbitrary sway—they witnessed in the West the wide-spread misery and desolation which were sometimes the consequences of revolutionary convulsions. In this country we enjoyed the happy medium between these two extremes, and we had reason to enjoy that happy condition, and that their hopes would be directed towards the Almighty Disposer of events with thankfulness, with devotional feeling, and with prayer, that the blessings which they then enjoyed might be continued. The people of this country had always been disposed readily to give whatever was necessary for the establishment of the true dignity which was essential to maintain the Monarchical institutions of which they were so proud. He was sure, therefore, the proposal he was about to make would be readily acceded to by the House and sanctioned by the country. He proposed that the Prince of Wales for the establishment of the Prince and Princess of Wales it was right that the House should look at the sum which had been fixed in former days. If they looked to the speech of Mr. Pitt in 1795 they would find that he referred to grants to two princes of Wales in which the sum was fixed was £100,000. In addition to one of those there were the revenues of the Duchy of Cornwall, which in the present hands were not even whether revenues were added or not. Every one was aware that a change in the value of money had taken place, and how inadequate a provision of £40,000 a year would be. Coming down to the later period when Mr. Pitt proposed, and the House assented to the establishment of the Prince and Princess of Wales, the sum proposed was not a similar one to the present, because it was a complicated arrangement for the payment of large debts. In 1795 the Parliamentary grant which was granted, including that portion which was set aside for debt, was £138,000 a year. Deducting from that £38,000 a year, which ceased in 1806 and 1808, or about 1810, the debts being liquidated, the Prince of Wales came into possession of the income of £100,000 a year. It was intended that the present grant should be founded upon what was granted for the Prince of Wales in 1795. The Duchy of Cornwall was not vested in the enjoyment of the revenues of the Duchy of Cornwall; and it was to the honour of her Majesty and the late Prince Consort that they had done so since it was the practice that during the minority of the Prince of Wales the revenues of the Duchy of Cornwall should be applied to the benefit of the Exchequer, the last in this case been set apart to accumulate for the Prince of Wales on his forthcoming marriage. The accumulations had been considerable. So well, with the investments and accumulations of which he had spoken, might be expected that the Prince of Wales would be in receipt of an income of £100,000 a year would not be unparalleled for those expenses which naturally fell upon a person in so exalted a position. He thought, then, he should therefore propose a grant of £40,000 a year from the Consolidated Fund for the establishment of the Prince and Princess of Wales. But there were expenses to which the Princess of Wales would be put, and there was a treaty between her Majesty and the King of the Belgians by which a sum of £10,000 a year for her separate use. The resolution, therefore, he should propose would be that there be granted to her Majesty by the said sum of £40,000 on the renewal of lease on the Cornwall estates, he had to say that the Prince of Wales had consented to sell the fee-simple reversion of the estates, taking such fines, and providing that the estate should be dealt with as in ordinary cases. That was only one instance of the kind he mentioned. It was in the case of a certain event, which he trusted might be long distant, that of the Princess becoming a widow, an annuity would be payable to her. In such case it was also £50,000 a year. In this case he should not propose so large a sum, but only £30,000 a year.

The noble Lord then laid the resolutions embracing the above proposals on the table, amidst loud applause from both sides of the House.—Loud questions being heard,

Mr. DISRAELI hoped the resolution would be agreed to nem. con. The proposition was temperate and well considered. He hoped it would be adequate, for no one could say it was extravagant.

After some observations from the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. A. Smith, Sir John Pakington, and Mr. Bouverie the resolution was agreed to nem. con.

CORRUPT PRACTICES AT ELECTIONS BILL.—On the order of the day for the second reading of this bill, Mr. H. BERKELEY moved that the bill be read a second time that day six months, on the ground that the measure would be wholly inoperative for the purpose and object it aimed at, and would be a considerable mischief. The only remedy for the evil complained of was the vigilance of the electors themselves. If the electors were sincere in their resistance to bribery, they would support. He would not divide the House on the question, but he ventured to predict that if it passed into a law the confidence with the richest pockets would win the day. After much discussion the bill was read a second time.

The Rate in Aid Bill and some other bills were advanced a stage.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

The dashing operations of the owners of Lord Clifden and Saccharometer have helped the "turf tropils" pretty well over the winter; but still they will be most thankful to hear the first saddling-bell at Lincoln on Wednesday. There are ten items there across country and flat—for the two days, and The Brocklesby Stakes numbers sixty-one youngsters. Hubert, whose preparation has, it is said, been aided by Scottish baths, is a fearsome favourite for the handicap. Saccharometer has quite taken the Two Thousand lead from Hoopdoe; and John Scott has begun to "come" at last with Michael Scott. According to the Sporting Gazette, J. Goater is engaged to ride Saccharometer in both his great engagements, and Fordham has declined all "retainers" except from Mr. Tim Brook and Lord St. Vincent.

Nineteen matches are already made for Newmarket in 1863; and Mr. Merry's two-year-old Lucerne has already appeared in the Bell Calendar with thirty-six engagements.

Buccaneer's claim to Mr. Kingsbury's colt Sadlocks; Andover's, Avalanche's, and Underhand's have gone to Buccaneer; Blue Mantle's to Stockwell; Wild Dayrell's to Nutbourne; Magi's and Lady Elizabeth

THE CHINCHA ISLANDS.

The Chincha Islands are three in number, known as the North, Middle, and South Islands, and are situated in longitude 79 deg. west, and latitude 13½ deg. south. They are distant about ninety miles from Callao—the port of Lima, the capital of Peru—and are small in size, the North Island, which is the largest, being under a mile in length and half a mile in breadth at the widest part.

The only value of these islands consists in the enormous deposits of guano, which have been accumulating for ages. The value of this deposit was well known to the ancient Peruvians; and in order to ensure a continuous supply the Incas issued an edict many centuries ago prohibiting the destruction of the birds.

Some doubts have been expressed whether the enormous piles of guano are really produced by the droppings of birds and other animal matter. Chemical analysis has proved this to be the case with reference to the guano received from the islands, and a personal examination of the entire bulk leaves no doubt of the fact that the whole deposits consist of the droppings of birds, bodies of seals, &c.

Mr. M. D. Rucker, of the firm of Rucker, Offor, and Co., of London, visited these islands during the summer of 1862, and found the South Island in its normal condition, no portion of the guano having been disturbed, and, from the difficulty of ascending the rocks, rarely visited. A large plain exists on this island, covered with the bodies of seals, which on being turned over were found to have been already converted to a large extent into good guano.

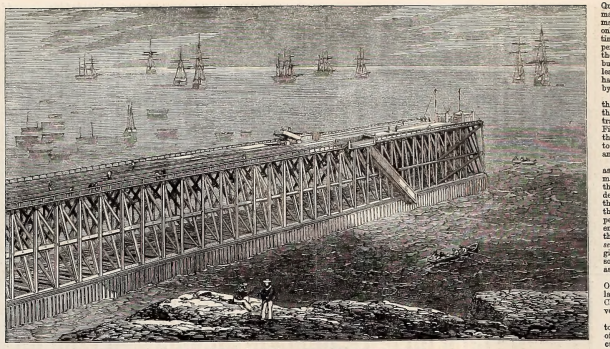
Although in daily use in Peru for many centuries, it did not occur to any one to export it to other countries until about the year 1840, when Senores Quiroz, Allier, y Cie., a native commercial house in Lima, determined to send a consignment to England, and, having great faith in the success of their enterprise, they proposed to the Peruvian Government to purchase from them the deposits on the three islands, and an agreement for the sale was actually made for 200,000 dollars, or about £40,000. Before the deeds were completed news reached the Government of the success of the first shipment, and the sale was at once abandoned,—the Government making contracts which, whilst giving ample profits to the enterprising merchants, left the property of the islands still in the State. By the time these contracts had expired the value of the manure was well established, and the Government decided upon shipping in future entirely on their own account, paying the merchants a commission for attending to the sales. Until the middle of last year these agents were the eminent firm of Messrs. Antony Gibbs and Sons, who had been interested at an early period with Messrs. Quiroz, Allier, and Co. in the contracts; and it is to their careful and clever management that the great success of this manure as a commercial speculation may be attributed. Messrs. Antony Gibbs and Sons acted as agents not only for the United Kingdom and her colonies but also for the entire continent of Europe. The arrangements for these valuable agencies being made periodically, under a system of public tenders, a successful competition on the part of native houses has completely altered the management of the business, the agencies for the Continental countries being given to several leading commercial houses in Lima, and the English consignments being in the hands of a Peruvian company who are at present represented in this country by Messrs. Thomson, Bonar, and Co.

The quantity of guano exported from these islands reached 490,657 tons in the year 1857, giving employment in that year to 620 ships; and although the amount of exports varies to a considerable extent the importance of the trade is very great. According to the report presented by the Minister of Finance to Congress in September last, the income derived by the State from the net proceeds of guano amounted in 1860 to 16,053,908 dols., and in 1861 to 16,921,757 dols.; or, at an exchange of 42d. per dollar, to £2,809,433 18s. and £2,961,306 11s. 7d. respectively.

Previously to Mr. Rucker's visit to Peru great difference of opinion prevailed as to the quantity of guano still remaining on the islands; and as this matter was of immense importance in estimating the value of the security at the disposal of the Government for purposes of loans, &c., besides being of deep interest to our shipping and agricultural communities, he suggested to the Government the appointment of a commission to survey the islands, and, the matter being favourably entertained, the survey was organised under his personal superintendence, Frederick Blumé, Esq., being appointed the engineer-in-chief. The results of the surveys are not yet published; but the engineer reports that the quantity remaining on the three islands exceeds seven million tons, which, at the average net proceeds of £6 per ton, gives a total value of £42,000,000 sterling! Mr. Rucker was present when some of the borings were made, and in one instances a depth of 105ft. was ascertained of solid guano!

Our Illustrations, from photographs in the possession of Messrs. Rucker, Offor, and Co., will convey a good idea of how the guano is shipped. The labourers employed consist of three classes: free labourers from Peru, Chili, China, &c.; Chinese, working under contracts for seven years' service at a very low rate; and convicts from the various districts of Peru.

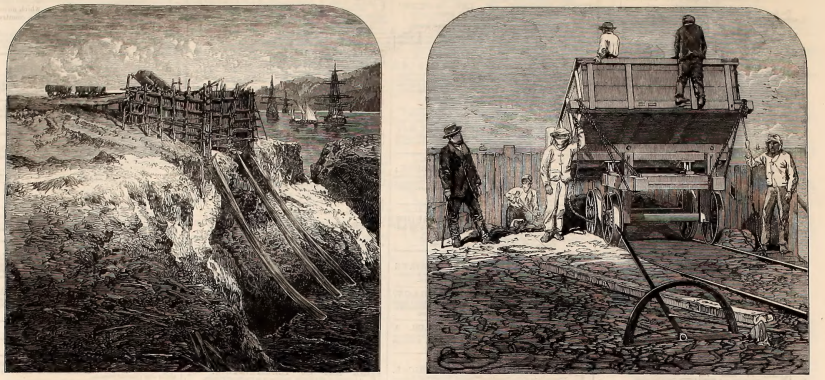
The guano is picked from the side of the heap commencing from the top. The labourers are paid according to the work done, at the rate of 1s. 6d. per ton. The ridges visible in the Illustrations, with steps cut in them for gaining access to the top, are left to form a kind of



THE CHINCHA (GUANO) ISLANDS: THE PRINCIPAL MOLE.

THE CHINCHA (GUANO) ISLANDS: MIDDLE ISLAND, AS SEEN FROM NORTH ISLAND.

THE CHINCHA (GUANO) ISLANDS, PERU.



MANGUERA OR SHOOT FOR GUANO.

SHOOTING THE GUANO.

bin or stall, in which each labourer works singly, the guano cut down being carried away from the bottom of his stall in wheelbarrows to the railway cars, landing about two tons and a quarter each. In these cars it is conveyed on rails either to the mangueras or to the moles. The mangueras consist of long shoots composed of cotton canvas, attached at the upper end to a spout issuing from the lower part of a large bin into which the trucks are emptied. Under the lower end of these shoots the boats are moored, and the guano is poured into them. The shoots on the moles are constructed of wood, and much shorter, but in both cases the waste of guano in the process of shipment is enormous. The loss occurs not only from dust, but from want of ordinary care, large lumps of 20lb. or 30lb. weight bounding over the sides of the boats into the sea at nearly every discharge. The loss has been recently increased from some ships being moored in an exposed position in order to be near the South Island, which contains about 3,000,000 tons, and has only just commenced to be worked. The boats from this island being frequently overloaded, the guano becomes wetted by the roughness of the sea, and large portions of each boat-load are thrown overboard as unfit for shipment in the export ships. The mole is well adapted for loading ships alongside, and within the last few months it has been used for this purpose, the saving of labour and prevention of loss of guano being very great in consequence.

The height of the piles of guano may be imagined by comparing the heights of the figures shown in the illustrations at work upon them.

The quantity of shipping at the islands varies considerably. Last summer, when our views were taken, the number of vessels loading was about 100, capable of carrying some 130,000 tons; on the 10th of November the actual number was 92, registering 86,746 tons. One of our illustrations exhibits the vessels anchored between the Middle and North Island; but there is another anchorage east of the North Island, in which an equal number are moored. The Government bind itself to load the vessels at the rate of 100 tons in ten days, no ship being kept longer than eighty days, unless on demurrage. The contract for loading is let by the Government by public tender, and is known as the Cargine. Through bad management much delay has occurred in loading ships, and the rate of freight demanded by shipowners has increased to meet this loss.

The value of the guano trade to the shipping interest is very great, the amount paid in freights averaging one million sterling. The vessels employed are principally Canadian-built ships, and Americans constructed of light wood, which renders them, from their buoyancy, better adapted for heavy cargoes.

The Hotel shown in one of the illustrations was an unsuccessful speculation; it was never opened as an hotel, but is used for schools, theatrical performances, and other purposes requiring a large area.

Although, from the constant influx of shipping and the works in progress at the North and Middle Islands, the immense flocks of birds that used to assemble on the spot have diminished in number, there are still sufficient to satisfy the observer of their probable extent when in undisturbed possession of the islands. The sole food of the labourers on the South Island in August last consisted of the birds caught during the night, and in a few days their tents were surrounded by a deep layer of feathers. The birds are a species of diver, who burrow in the guano, and are caught at night with the hand—a light at the entrance of their nests attracting them to come out.

The entire absence of rain in the region of these islands is an essential cause of the value of the deposits. Estimating the consumption of guano at the same quantity imported during the last few years, there is sufficient of this valuable manure on the islands to last for a considerable period.

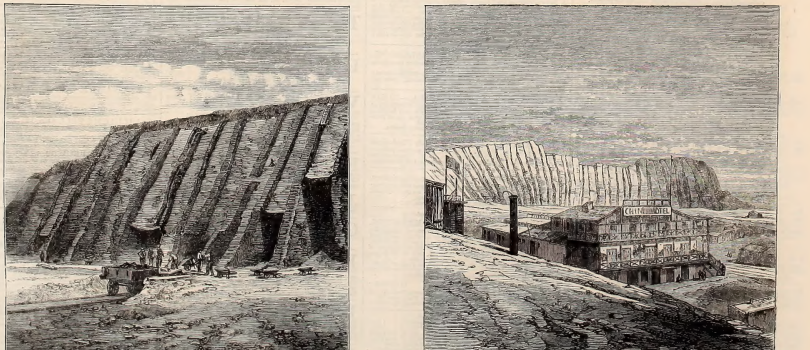
"XARIFA."

PAINTED BY F. WYBURD. IN THE BRITISH INSTITUTION.

THERE are few of the ballads among the ancient Spanish cancioneros and romanceros which have been so popular, or so often imitated by modern poets both in Spain and Germany, as "The Bridal of Andalla," the ballad which contains the gracefully pathetic episode of Xarifa. "The Bridal of Andalla" is translated by Lockhart, in his "Spanish Ballads," and classed among those of Moorish origin. It may occur to some that the part assigned to females in this and other ballads, indicating the same source, is not always in the Oriental taste; but, says the translator, the pictures still extant on the walls of the Alhambra contain abundant proofs how unfair it would be to judge from the manners of any Mussulman nation of our day of those of the refined and elegant Spanish Moors. In the ballad of "The Bridal of Andalla" the forsaken Xarifa will not go to the window to look at the gay bridal procession of her handsome but faithless lover. It will be sufficient to quote the last two stanzas in illustration of the picture we engrave:—

> The Zegri lady rose not, nor laid her cushion down,
> Nor came she to the window to gaze with all the town:
> But, though her eyes dwelt on her knee, in vain her fingers strove,
> And, though her needle pressed the silk, no flower Xarifa wove.
>
> One tassey rosebud she had traced, before the sun drew nigh;
> That bonny bud a tear effaced, slow dropping from her eye:
>
> "No, no!" she sighs, "bid me not rise, nor lay my cushion down,
> To gaze upon Andalla with all the gazing town!"
>
> "Why rise ye not, Xarifa, nor lay your cushion down?
> Why gaze ye not, Xarifa, with all the gazing town?
> Hear, hear the trumpet, hear it swells, and how the people cry!
> He stops at Zara's palace-gate—why sit ye still—oh, why?"
> "At Zara's gate stops Zara's mate; in him shall I discover
> The dark-eyed youth pledged me his truth with tears and was my lover?
> I will not rise, with weary eyes, nor lay my cushion down
> To gaze on false Andalla with all the gazing town!"

The artist has apparently been at some pains to give a Moorish and therefore Oriental character to the costumes and accessories, the patterns and drapery. The low table used for the burning of pastils and scents to perfume the apartment, and also for coffee, is, we know, always seen beside the low divan on which reclines the luxuriant Oriental. Coins such as hang from Xarifa's necklace have been used as trinkets to decorate the hair and dress of women in the East and all along the seaboard of Africa for many long ages. Venetian sequins have, in particular, been very commonly so employed. Xarifa's elegant embroidered velvet jacket is similar to that worn by Algerine and Turkish ladies, and has probably been borrowed from the latter by the Greeks; and so with the turban-like headdress, the hangings, the carpet, the trellised screen, the minarets, &c. It may be objected however, that a portion of the accessories have not been studied from nature; that some of the ornamentation has either of modern or incongruous air, differing from the character of design a the Alhambra and its paintings. As regards the Indian pattern of the gold-enwoven coverlet, the objection is futile, as the commerce of the Moors would account for its presence. And we must recollect that many Eastern patterns remain unaltered for many centuries. Moreover, the Alhambra and some other Moorish remains in Granada and elsewhere most nearly contemporaneous with the period of our ballad afford little data for costumes and accessories such as are here required. On the other hand, the elaborate and ornate richness of the details; the prettiness rather than more commanding beauty of Xarifa; and her repressed sorrow—or melancholica, as it is given in the original ballad—rather than demonstrative grief, are all in keeping with the spirit of the old rhymester's story. Mr. Wyburd seems to have a very decided partiality for these pretty heroines of Spanish and Oriental romance, for dark-eyed Sultanas and houris and beauties of Byron and Moore; but he has not often chosen a theme more suitable to his pencil than the gaily dight and, it is, fascinatingly pretty but, alack! forsaken and woe-begone Xarifa.



GUANO WORKINGS ON THE NORTH ISLAND.

HOTEL NEAR THE PRINCIPAL MOLE.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

BIRTHS.

On the 23rd of December last, at Dalhurst, Australia, the wife of R. B. Gibbs, Esq., J.P., of a daughter.

On the 16th inst., at Walkhot House, Lanarkshire, the wife of Captain Maclean, the Prince Consort's Own Rifle Brigade, of a son.

On the 18th inst., at Walton House, Ailingworth-street, Kelvinside, the wife of Richard Peck, Esq., of a son.

At Clarendon Park, Leicester, the wife of Captain Hall, of a daughter.

On the 11th inst., at Caenham-place, Lady Augusta Fremantle, of a son.

On the 14th inst., at Roundhill Grange, near Wincanton, Somerset, the wife of George A Britinin, Esq., of a daughter.

MARRIAGE.

On the 12th inst., at 3, George-place, Edinburgh, by the Rev. Dr. Hannay, Douglas Hoolings, Chamberlain Gardens, Barnes, Surrey, to Julia Victoria, youngest daughter of the late John Leslie, Esq., of Wardie.

On the 12th inst., at Florence, Baron Gustaf Lejonhufvud, of Gokeholm, Sweden, to Beretta Juliette, eldest daughter of Baron de Kantzow de St. George.

On the 14th inst., at St. Paul's Church, East Meuley, Surrey, by the Rev. C. Scott, A.M., the Rev. H. J. Roberts, Rector of Yardley, Flintshire, to Ellen, relict of Thos. Edwards, Esq., and eldest daughter of Ambrose Owen, of Sygyn, in the county of Denbigh, Esq.

DEATHS.

On the 20th ult., at his residence, Gore Mount, Glenavy, county Antrim, Henry Alexander Pelley, Esq., Captain Royal Antrim Artillery, only son of the late Lieut.-Colonel Robert George Pelley.

On the 31st of December, at St. Helens, of low fever, Edward Drummond Hay, Esq., Lieut., H.M. St. Helena Regiment, second son of Sir Edward Hay Drummond Hay, Governor of St. Helena, and of the Cape of his age.

On the 10th inst., at Normanby Hall, N.R. Yorkshire, from the effects of a fall, Mary Ann, wife of the Rev. Wm. Ward Jackson, J.P.

On the 12th inst., at Pau, Ernestine Henriette Sophie, the beloved wife of Henry H. Gideon, Esq., of St. Helena, and the only child of

On the 14th inst., at Kelvinbank House, Kilsyth, N.B., Mr. James Bell, formerly of Cowcaddens.

On the 16th inst., at Agivoire, Killarney, in the county of Kerry, Jeremiah Daly Hoolley.

At Park, Louise Hickey, widow of Captain R. Bourne, R.N., late of Lydney, Westmeath, and Blackheath Park, 2nd sister of the third Lord Wallscourt.

NOS. 77 and 78, OXFORD-STREET. MAPPIN and COMPANY'S Establishment, opposite to the Pantheon.

LARGEST STOCK in London of ELECTRO-PLATED and CUTLERY.

BEST ELECTRO-PLATED SPOONS AND FORKS.

Full Size.	Medium.	Fiddle.	Kings.	Lily.
12 Table Forks ...	£1 7	£1 4	£1 10	£1 14
12 Table Spoons ...	1 7	1 4	1 10	1 14
12 Dessert Forks ...	1 1	0 17	1 3	1 6
12 Dessert Spoons ...	1 1	0 17	1 3	1 6
12 Tea Spoons ...	0 10	0 8	1 0	1 1

Smaller sizes can be had at the same rate of prices, and are the same as at the manufactory, Royal Cutlery Works, Sheffield.

Mappin Brothers is only opposite Sir Paxton's, and 71, Oxford-street.

CAUTION.—Messrs. MAPPIN and COMPANY (established 1810), of 77 and 78, Oxford-street (corner of Wells-street), beg to caution the public that no connection exists between their firm and any other establishment in London, or the provinces, and that parties who have been induced to make a small shop trust bear to them for the purpose of OPPOSITION.

ROYAL CUTLERY WORKS, SHEFFIELD.

Prize medals, The Exhibition, 1851, and 1862.

MILITARY CANTEENS for Officers, £10 each, Oak Case, containing the following:—

PLATED SPOONS AND FORKS. IVORY HANDLE KNIVES.

	£ s. d.		£ s. d.
6 Table spoons ...	1 10 0	Brought forward ...	4 11 8
6 Table forks ...	0 18 0	1 Pair sugar tongs ...	0 3 6
6 Dessert spoons ...	0 15 0	1 Soup ladle ...	0 5 6
6 Dessert forks ...	0 15 0	1 Gravy spoon ...	0 5 6
6 Tea spoons ...	0 8 0	6 Table knives ...	0 11 0
1 Pair mustard spoons ...	0 2 0	6 Dessert knives ...	0 9 0
1 Soup ladle ...	0 5 0	1 Pair of meat carvers ...	0 7 0
1 Gravy spoon ...	0 5 0	1 Pair of game carvers ...	0 5 0
1 Sauce ladle ...	0 2 6	1 Pair fish carvers ...	0 5 0
1 Mustard spoon ...	0 1 6	Oak chest ...	1 16 0
Carried forward, £4 11 8		Complete ...	£10 0 0

MAPPIN BROTHERS, Silversmiths and Cutlers, Wood and Mason Yds, Regent-street, W., and Queen's Plate and Cutlery Works, Sheffield, have the honour to announce that they have been appointed Silversmiths and Cutlers to her Majesty the Queen, and to his Royal Highness the Prince Consort.

DINING ROOM and LIBRARY CHANDELIERS for Candles and Gas, Candelabra, Moderator Lamps, Argand Lamps, Candles, and Gas Fittings. Batteries in Patent Tubes and Other Chandeliers.—OSLER, 45, Oxford-street, W.

OSLER'S GLASS CHANDELIERS, Well Lights, and Ornamental Glass for Gas and Candles. Glass Dinner Services for 12 persons, from £7 15s. Glass Services for 12 persons, from £3 3s. All articles marked in plain figures.

Ornamental Gilt and Glass Table Decorations for presents. Rich, Engraved, and Furnishing Glass promptly executed.

London.—Showrooms, 45, Oxford-street, W.

Birmingham.—Manufactory and Showrooms, Broad-street. Established 1807.

GARDNERS' LAMPS are the BEST.—The most economical, and cheapest ornamental Gas Lamps, Moderator Table Lamps, from 5s. 6d. each. Illustrations free by post. Gardners' Lamp Manufactory, 453, Strand, opposite Somerset House. Servants must be sent for. Established 1819.

SLACK'S SILVER ELECTRO-PLATE is a perfect imitation of the very best Silver. Manufactured solely by himself, Slack. He must warn you not to be deceived by parties who have not the honesty to sell you their own, but endeavour to impose upon you by selling you the worst and cheapest article they can procure. Slack's Table Forks, per dozen, £2 0s., £2 8s., £2 16s., £3 4s., £3 12s. Table Spoons ... £2 0s., £2 8s., £2 16s., £3 4s., £3 12s. Dessert Forks ... 1 10 0 Table Knives ... 1 15 0 Dessert Spoons ... 1 10 0 Dessert Knives ... 1 10 0 Tea Spoons ... 0 12 0 Kitchen Knives and Forks 2 0 0 Catalogues sent free. Orders exchanged or money returned. Richard and John Slack, 336, Strand, London. Established 1818.

FURNITURE CARRIAGE-FREE to any Part of the Kingdom.

Drawing-room Suites, complete ... £12 0 0
Dining-room Suites, complete ... 20 0 0
Bedroom Suites, complete ... 10 0 0

Every article guaranteed First Class.

THOMAS C. FILMER and SON, 31A, OXFORD-STREET.

Illustrated Catalogue gratis and post-free on application.

DO YOU DOUBLE UP YOUR PERAMBULATOR.—No. 7, TOTHILL-STREET, Patent Safety Folding, for Infants and Invalids. P. TUCKER (the inventor), Manufacturer (Sole), Gardener, Bird, and Dog Cart Maker.

UNRIVALLED PRIZE MEDAL

LOCK-STITCH SEWING-MACHINES, for Family Use.

WHEELER and WILSON MFG. COMPANY, 139, Regent-street, Inventors and sole Manufacturers.

THE LADY'S TIDY, a Portable Wardrobe, for travelling and compact, in various polished woods. Price 5s. 6d. to 2l. 2s. Also the Gentleman's Portable Tidy, 2l. 2s. and 3l. 3s. Servants' Hall Boxes, 2l. 2s. and 3l. Illustrated Price Catalogues sent post-free.

CHUBBS' FIREPROOF SAFES, with their Latest Improvements, Detector Locks, Cash and Deed Boxes, Detector Locks, Iron Safes, Illustrated Price-lists, gratis and post-free.—Chubb and Son, 57, St. Paul's-churchyard, London.

NEW BOOKS.

Ready this day, with numerous Illustrations, from 4to. price 10s. 6d. cloth, 15s. with coloured plates, morocco, gilt edges, 21s.

THE HISTORY OF THE SCOTTISH REGIMENTS IN THE BRITISH ARMY.

By CHARLES ROSS.

Major of the Wiltshire or 62nd Lanarkshire Volunteer Guards.

"Full of interesting information."—Spectator.

"For military information this work is invaluable."—Bell's Messenger.

"Major Ross has done good service to the country in showing that many if not all corps of volunteers, as well as regiments of the line, will add to its distinction."—Standard.

London: WARD and LOCK, 158, Fleet-street.

HALF-HOURS WITH THE BIBLE; or, Scripture Scenes and Characters described in a simple and attractive manner for the Young. By the Author of "Happy Sundays for the Young and Good." Beautifully and profusely Illustrated with Engravings. In two handsome volumes, cloth, gilt, 5s.; with Coloured Frontis, gilt edges, 6s.

London: WARD and LOCK, 158, Fleet-street.

LEARN to READ, WRITE, and SPEAK the ENGLISH LANGUAGE CORRECTLY. Price 1s. 6d. cloth boards, 2s. 6d. cloth, gilt edges.

THE DICTIONARY OF EVERY-DAY DIFFICULTIES in READING, WRITING, and SPEAKING the ENGLISH LANGUAGE. By ALFRED ALLEN, Author of "Lessons in Spelling and Reading," "Lessons in Writing," &c.

"The large sale of this book is the best test of its merit."

London: WARD and LOCK, 158, Fleet-street.

On Feb. 20, price 3s., ornamental boards,

THE ADVENTURERS. By GUSTAVE AIMARD, Author of "The Prairie Flower," &c. A story of intense interest, and full of incident. Translated in numerous languages.

London: WARD and LOCK, 158, Fleet-street.

JOHN MARCHMONT'S LEGACY. A New Story, by the Author of "Lady Audley's Secret." Now Ready, in the December Number of THOMAS BAR MAGAZINE (Price One Shilling), and in Vol. I. (Price 10s. 6d.), just published.

THE TRIALS OF THE TREDGOLDS. A New Novel by the Author of "A Prodigal Son," commences in TEMPLE BAR MAGAZINE for January. Price One Shilling Monthly.—Office: 122, Fleet-street, London.

Now ready, crown 8vo, price 5s.

POEMS, DESCRIPTIVE and LYRICAL. Illustrations of the Beauties of Tropical Scenery and Sketches of Oriental Life and Manners. Hooded, and Engraved.

By the Author of "The Nephtis of Barcelona."

"This is a book of poetry, and a book of power. The author gives genuine promise of future excellence. He seems to have a true appreciation of various objects interesting to himself and to a large portion of the reading public. Many of the descriptive pieces in the island of the Western Archipelago, and the richness of their productions, are full of interest, and the author has evidently studied them on the spot. The lovely tropical scenery of Trinidad is described in a manner in which he has treated the various subjects that he has selected for the metropolitan of his practical and poetic mind."

London: ROBERT HARDWICKE, 192, Piccadilly.

Price 6d. Monthly.

THE BOY'S OWN MAGAZINE.

Contents of Number III. MARCH 1st:—CHESS AND CHESSMEN. By J. G. EDGE. Illustrated by Wehnert and Gray. A Mysterious Footed Snowman. Chap. XVIII.—The Secret Passage. Chap. XIX.—The Secret Passage. Chap. XX.—The Secret Passage. Chap. XXI.—The Secret Passage. Chap. XXII.—The Secret Passage. Signs of Cobbs. With Illustrations by Robert Dudley.—IN MY THE BRAIN OF A BOY. By the Author of "Jack Adrift." Chap. III.—I pass as a ghost.—An exactly multiplied by Captain Bedford Pim, R.N. Illustrated by Dudley.—Chap. IV.—Captain Pim.—The Rescue.—Lessons in Lucifer Matches.—Lessons in wearing cruelty and miserable end.—Three days and two nights on the Wreck.—Rescued.—Conclusion. Illustrated by Dudley.—The

NEW MUSIC.

ROBERT COCKS AND CO.'S LIST OF NEW MUSICAL PUBLICATIONS.—
"GOD BLESS THE PRINCE OF WALES. By BRINLEY RICHARDS. Sung with wonderful success at the Concerts, St. James's Hall, and Monday Popular Concerts.
"Sweet is the Hour." By Miss Pardoe Gazelle will accompany Mr. Sims Reeves (with full Chorus) at Mr. Henry Leslie's Concert, March 4, and at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, March 8. The chorus will be sung by the St. George's Choir.
"Ah, no!" Words that we have to record a success on every night.—Morning Post.
"GOD BLESS THE PRINCE OF WALES. Song and Chorus at 1s. 6d.
"GOD BLESS THE PRINCE OF WALES. Four-part Song; for Choirs, 1s.
"GOD BLESS THE PRINCE OF WALES. Transcribed for Piano by J. LIMMER.
"GOD BLESS THE PRINCE OF WALES. Piano Duet, 4s.
"THE ALBERT EDWARD MARCH, for Piano. By BRINLEY RICHARDS.
"THE ALBERT EDWARD MARCH. Arranged for Military Band.
"THE ALEXANDRA MARCH. Arranged for Military Band. By A. C. GODFREY, of the Coldstream Guards. 1s. 6d.
"THE ALEXANDRA MARCH. Arranged for Piano. By CARL FAUST (from the Military Band Parts). 2s. 6d.
"THE FAIR DAME WALTZ, for Piano. By A. WEISS. 2s. 6d.
"THE ALEXANDRA POLKA, for Piano. By A. WEISS. 2s. 6d.
"THE BURLINGTON ALBUM, a superb Musical Gift. 15s.; post-free, 15s. 6d.
"THE BURLINGTON ALBUM. 250 pp. Sixth and 44 other Nos., 1s. each; post-free, 1s. 1d. each.
"And Since the Prince of Wales," &c.
BRINLEY RICHARDS'S HEST of HARLECH MARCH, for Piano.
"THE THREE GOOD NIGHT. Song. By F. ABT. Poetry by M. LOVELL.
"THE SLEEP OF SORROW, THE RISE OF JOY. THE REASONS WHY. Three Songs by T. WILLIAM WALLACE. Each 2s.
"THE HOLY FAMILY. THE ADORATION. THE HOLY NIGHT, and SACRED MEDLEY for the Piano. By W. H. CALLCOTT. Each work in 3 Books, 2s. each; Books 3.
ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S QUARTERLY CIRCULAR, gratis gratis and post-free.
ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S PIANOFORTES, in Walnut and Rosewood Cases.
Publishers, ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street, and Music Publishers in Ordinary to the Queen and the Emperor Napoleon III.
Agents for India: MESSRS. BURKETTOWN and Co., Musical Establishment (by Royal Appointment), Calcutta, Importers of Music, &c., by the Steamships the Viceroy and Governor-General.

ON BISHOP'S MELODIES.
MUSGRAVE'S CROUCH AND CROW QUADRILLE. Illustrated. Price 3s.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

ON COMIC TUNES.
MUSGRAVE'S OFF TO BRIGHTON QUADRILLE. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s. Sent free.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

Second Edition. Price 4s. Sent free.
MUSGRAVE'S ALEXANDRA QUADRILLE. With Portrait of the Princess of Denmark.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

POPULAR TUNES QUADRILLE. By C. GODFREY, Jun. Played by the Military Bands. With a Comic Illustration. Easy arrangement, economical "The Days." Price 4s.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

DE GASPARD.—LES FIANCÉS VALSE. With Portraits of the Prince of Wales and the Princess Alexandra. Price 4s. Sent free.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

STAR OF DENMARK GALOP. By KARL STIGELLI. With an excellent tinted Portrait of the Princess Alexandra. Price 4s. Sent free.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

COSTE'S PLANTATION GALOP. The favourite Dance of the Minstrels. Piano Solo, 3s.; Septet, 2s.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

BY THE COMPOSER OF "THE BURLESQUE."
KANGAROO GALOP. By J. CASSIDY. Piano Solo, 3s.; Duet, 4s.; Septet, 2s.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

NEW SONG FOR CONTRALTO VOICES.
BY THE BLUE SEA. Composed by HENRY SMART. Price 2s. 6d.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

SPARKLING CHAMPAGNE. The new and successful Song from Rosenthal. Paul's Entertainment. By H. SAUERS. Price 2s. 6d.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

HENRY FARMER'S STRAY THOUGHTS for the PIANOFORTE. Price 4s.—London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S NEW PIANOFORTE TUTOR. Price 4s. "This is decidedly the most useful and best instruction book that we have seen."—Musical Review.—London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars.

HENRY FARMER.—GERTRUDE QUADRILLES. Illustrated in Colours by J. BRATHDAY. Esq. Price 4s.; Duet, 4s.—London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER.—PROSERPINE GALOP. Illustrated in Colours by J. BRATHDAY. Esq. Price 4s.—London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S ALEXANDRA QUADRILLES. Price 3s. 6d.—London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S ALBERT-EDWARD QUADRILLES. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.—London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

MARRIOTT'S "MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM" QUADRILLES. Price, Solo or Duet, each 4s.—London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars; and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S "GUY MANNERING" QUADRILLES. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.; Duet, 4s.; Concerto, 4s.—London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars; and 123, Cheapside.

MASTER ROBIN. "Oh, where is the heart that generously not light, When yon gaze on the hawthorn, all blossoming white?" Sung by CATLOTT. Price 2s.—London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars.

NEW SONGS, by Mrs. MOUNSEY BARTHOLOMEW. "Speak Gently," price 2s. 6d., and "The Price of a Glove," price 2s. 6d. "We wish all our composers of the 'ditcher an' 'navvy' order were to write with such genuine musical feeling."—Musical World, Nov. 8.—Musical World, Nov. 8, 1862.—London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

TO LEADERS OF ORCHESTRAS, &c.—J. GOODCHILD'S JUVENILE ORCHESTRAL BAND JOURNAL Forms Music of the day, by M. FARMER and C. H. R. MARRIOTT, for Violin and Pianoforte published in Twelve Parts, 10s. 6d.; Single Parts, 1s. 6d.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars.

FLEURETTES MUSICALES. Twelve Pieces for Piano by J. T. STONE.
1. The Maids of Merry England
2. The White Squall
3. Merrily merrily, o'er the hoar
4. Bonnie Annie
5. Rondo, the Finale Hunter
6. Sally Gray
7. Mount Ida
8. Not on yon ruin'd castle
9. Where, dear lads, have you been all day?
10. Robin Adair
12. Good night, news from Home
Price 2s. each.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 12, Cheapside.

NEW MUSIC.

TWO NEW SONGS BY CLARIBEL.
MARION'S SONG. By CLARIBEL. Price 2s. Post-free at half-price of HALE and CO., Chichester; or on order of any Musicseller.

THE TREFOIL LEAF. By CLARIBEL. Post-free at half-price of HALE and CO., Chichester; or on order of any Musicseller.

THREE NEW SONGS BY VIRGINIA GABRIEL.
TENDER AND TRUE. By VIRGINIA GABRIEL. 2s. Post-free at half-price of HALE and CO., Chichester; or on order of any Musicseller.

NIGHTFALL AT SEA. By VIRGINIA GABRIEL. 2s. Post-free at half-price of HALE and CO., Chichester; or on order of any Musicseller.

ONE PASSED BY. By VIRGINIA GABRIEL. Post-free at half-price of HALE and CO., Chichester; or on order of any Musicseller.

TWO NEW SONGS BY W. HUTCHINSON, ESQ.
WHEN SILVEY MOONBEAMS SLEEP. By HUTCHINSON. 2s. 6d. Post-free at half-price of HALE and CO., Chichester; or on order of any Musicseller.

'TWAS EVENING IN THE SUMMER TIME. By HUTCHINSON. 2s. 6d. Post-free at half-price of HALE and CO., Chichester; or on order of any Musicseller.

NEW WALTZES, By J. P. HATTON, on THE POPULAR WALTZ TUNES of the Day. One of the most charming sets ever published. Post-free at half price of HALE and CO., Chichester; or on order of any Musicseller.

New Edition,
THE HEATHER-BELL WALTZES, By C. H. R. MARRIOTT. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s. Post-free at half-price of HALE and CO., Chichester; or on order of any Musicseller.

JARRETT'S DER FRUHLINGS WALTZER, &c. One of the most brilliant and effective dancing waltzes ever published. Post-free at half price of HALE and CO., Chichester; or on order of any Musicseller.

MARYLAND! MY MARYLAND! 2s. THE SOUTHERN WAR-SONG. Confederate. Also, THE BONNIE BLUE FLAG. 2s. Post-free at Half-price of HALE and CO., Chichester; or on order of any Musicseller.

RICARDO LINTER'S new DRAWING-ROOM MORCEAU on the Popular National Confederate Melody "MARYLAND! MY MARYLAND!" 2s. Post-free at half-price of HALE and Co., Chichester; or on order of any Musicseller.

THE ETTIE VALSES. By G. RENNIE TITTERTON. Illustrated in Colours. Portrait of Miss Kirsteen Hudson (Tenente Royal, Bristol), by King, of Bath. Dedicated by Permission to Miss KIRSTEEN, 19, Old Square, Bristol. "By Jove, they're all good."

THE BRIDE ELECT. WELCOME TO ENGLAND. Song, by CHARLES JEFFERYS and STEPHEN GLOVER. Illustrated in Colours, with Portrait of H.R.H. Princess Alexandra. 2s. 6d.; post-free, sixteen stamps. CHARLES JEFFERYS, 21, Soho-square.

THE SLEEP OF SORROW AND THE DREAM OF JOY. Words by Charles Jefferys, Music by Stephen Glover. Illustrated in Colours, with Portrait of H.R.H. the Princess of Wales. Dedicated by Command to Her Royal Highness the Princess Dowager of Cleveden and Regent-street. 2s. 6d.; post-free for 16 stamps.—CHARLES JEFFERYS, 21, Soho-square.

THE "IRISH FRISK." Galop. By J. P. CLARKE. Played with extraordinary success by the military bands. This fine Galop is published in Four Editions.—CHARLES JEFFERYS, 21, Soho-square.

THE CELESTIAL OCEAN.
HEMINGWAY'S PRINCESS OF WALES QUADRILLE. Price 2s. Beautifully illustrated with Portrait of Her Royal Highness. Post-free for 24 stamps.—HEMINGWAY, 192, Oxford-street and post-free.

BEETHOVEN'S COMPLETE WORKS in Nine Sonatas, 10s.; 20 Variations, 10s.; 14 Trios, Sonatas, &c., 10s.; 9 Symphonies Piano Solo, 10s.; Duet, 10s. ALBUMBLATT and Co. Grand Library, 48, Temple-street. Annual Subscription, 2 guineas.

BUTLER'S BRASS-BAND INSTRUMENTS, Drums, Harmonicons, Flutes, Fifes, Flageolets, Price &c., are all manufactured on the premises, and sold at prices unprecedentedly moderate. Lists free.—BUTLER, 4, Princes-street, Cavendish-square, Oxford-street, Soho, London. Prize and drawings post-free.

DISTIN AND CO.'S PRIZE MEDAL.—Brass Instruments, Manufactory, Queen's Head, Islington-green, London. New Noiseless-action Amateur Cornet. Silver and Gold Presentation Cups, Drums, Harmonicons, &c.

MUSICAL-BOX DEPÔTS, 56, Cheapside, and 30, Ludgate-street. Nicole's large Musical-boxes £1 per set. Sheffield Plate Musical-boxes, with Bells and Drums. Price and Post-free on application to NICOLE and CO., as above.

MUSICAL BOX DEPÔT.—For the Sale of Musical Boxes by the best Manufacturers in every description, at 15 per cent Cowbill, London. Lists of tunes and prices gratis and post-free.

WATCHES.—A. B. SAVORY and SONS, Manufacturers of Gold and Silver Watches, respectfully call the Public's First-Class Patent Detached Lever Watches, with the latest improvements and compensations for every price whilst being wound, recommended for accuracy and durability.
Patent Lever Watches in Hunting Cases, 5 guineas £5 5 0
Ditto, jewelled in four holes and capped 6 6 0
Ditto, highest quality, jewelled in eight holes 8 8 0
Silver Watches, in Hunting Cases; the 58, extra 3 3 0
Ditto, Keyless, Lever, Action, 4 guineas 4 4 0
Patent Lever Watches, with gold dial, extra £1 11 6
Ditto, with richly-engraved case 1 11 6
Ditto, richly engraved case, jewelled in four holes 2 2 0
GOLD WATCHES—SIZE FOR GENTLEMEN.
Patent Lever Watches, in Hunting Cases, 5 guineas £8 18 6
Ditto, jewelled in four holes, and gold balance 11 11 0
Ditto, jewelled in six holes, and gold balance 16 16 0
Gold Watches in Hunting Cases, 10 guineas 15 15 0
List of prices, with remarks on watches, gratis and post-free.

GOLD CHAINS and FINE GOLD JEWELLERY.—A. B. SAVORY and SONS, Manufacturers, 24, Ludgate-hill, London, respectfully call the Public's First-Class Patent Detached Lever Watches, with the latest improvements and compensations for every price whilst being wound, recommended for accuracy and durability.
Patent Lever Watches, in Hunting Cases, 5 guineas £5 5 0
Ditto, jewelled in four holes and capped 6 6 0
Ditto, highest quality, jewelled in eight holes 8 8 0
Silver Watches, in Hunting Cases; the 58, extra 3 3 0
Ditto, Keyless, Lever, Action, 4 guineas 4 4 0
Patent Lever Watches, with gold dial, extra £1 11 6
Ditto, with richly-engraved case 1 11 6
Ditto, richly engraved case, jewelled in four holes 2 2 0
GOLD WATCHES—SIZE FOR GENTLEMEN.
Patent Lever Watches, in Hunting Cases, 5 guineas £8 18 6
Ditto, jewelled in four holes, and gold balance 11 11 0
Ditto, jewelled in six holes, and gold balance 16 16 0
Gold Watches in Hunting Cases, 10 guineas 15 15 0
List of prices, with remarks on watches, gratis and post-free.

GREAT SALE OF
NEW SPRING SILKS at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.
Address to KING and Co., Regent-street, London.

PRINCE of WALES'S STATE VISIT.
New Silks for the occasion
At KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.

PRINCESS ALEXANDRA'S WEDDING.
New Silks for the occasion
At KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.

NEW SPRING
STRIPED SILKS, £1 a DRESS, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to KING and Co., Regent-street.

NEW SPRING
CHECKED SILKS, £1 5s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to KING and Co., Regent-street.

NEW SPRING
PLAIN SILKS, £1 7s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to KING and Co., Regent-street.

NEW SPRING
CORDED SILKS, £1 15s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to KING and Co., Regent-street.

NEW SPRING
CHENE SILKS, £1 19s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to KING and Co., Regent-street.

NEW SPRING
GROS DE SUEZ, £2 2s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to KING and Co., Regent-street.

NEW SPRING
MOIRE ANTIQUE, £2 15s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to KING and Co., Regent-street.

NEW
BLACK SILKS, £1 a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to KING and Co., Regent-street.

NEW
MOIRE ANTIQUES, £2 2s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to KING and Co., Regent-street.

PATTERNS OF
SILKS in ALL the NEW COLOURS worn by the Princess Alexandra can be obtained gratis and post-free of KING and CO., Regent-street, London.

FRENCH KID GLOVES.
GRAHAM and BODE
are selling the whole of the STOCK of PARIS KID GLOVES of MESSRS. JOUVIN, at 2s. 6d. per pair, comprising several thousand pairs. Ladies and Gentlemen should call early.
Grant and Gask are also selling the PARIS KID GLOVES, quality re-established by MESSRS. JOUVIN, at 3s. 6d. per pair, and the very best quality at 4s. 11d. or 5s. 3d. per pair; including Jouvin's GENTLEMEN'S KID GLOVES at the same prices—viz., from 3s. 6d. to 5s. per pair.
Patterns and illustrations of every article post-free.
58, 59, 60, 61, and 62, Oxford-street; 3, 4, and 5, Wells-street.

MARRIAGE of the PRINCE of WALES.
GRANT AND GASK
are now exhibiting a large assortment of rouen new Silks, manufactured expressly for the Royal Wedding, and which have been remarkably cheap. Chevrolettes, Satins, &c., for Court and Evening Dresses, in the newest and most fashionable colours.
Also the best Moire Antiques, in all colours, at 49s. 6d. per yard, usually sold at 3 guineas. Rich Black Glacé Silks, manufactured for the Queen, 2s. 6d., 3s. 6d., and 4s. 6d. per yard, the best value ever brought out.
Patterns sent free to any part of the country.
N.B. Grant Thorne, Wedding Ornaments, &c., consulted on the propriety of colours and arrangements. Grant and Gask, 58, 59, 60, 61, and 62, Oxford-street; 3, 4, and 5, Wells-street.

ENGLISH MOIRE ANTIQUES.
GRANT AND GASK
SILWELL and CO., by appointment to the Queen, beg to inform those who have not seen a magnificent display of their beautiful Dresses, in all the newest and most fashionable colours, at their moderate prices for the present season.
Patterns free. Address to SILWELL and CO., 248, Regent-street.
N.B.—Their Moire Antique is so pre-eminently distinguished, including a large lot of the quality usually sold at six guineas.
All the novelties for the Prince of Wales's Visit, and Tower Silks in all the new colours for the spring and summer seasons.
Muslins, Jaconets, Organdies, and Barèges for the first Parisian Spring Costumes.
Spring Textures for Dress.
Compton-street, Soho-square, London, W.

THE ROYAL SHAWL.—ORCHARD and CO., 256, 258, and 260, Regent-street.
These Shawls are unrivalled for quality, and equal in brilliancy of colour to the most costly Indian Cashmere. Price 21s. to 5 guineas.
Importers of the Unfashionable Turkishes.
ORCHARD and CO.,
The Queen Open Mouths.
256, 258, and 260, Regent-street.
THE ANNIVERSARY SALE.
this and following days.
ORCHARD and CO.,
256, 258, and 260, Regent-street.

COURT FURS.—The Nobility can obtain the Court Furs, as worn by the Royal Bridesmaids Fur of the finest description at INGES Fur Warehouse, 71, Oxford-street. Fur Trimmings, Muffs, and Boas are offered for sale at reduced prices. Furs made.

SILKS, PATTERNS FREE.
Rich Black Figured Glacés,
Rich Black Gros Grains,
Any length cut,
Any width,
JOHN HARVEY and SONS 9, Ludgate-hill.

LINENDRAPERS TO THE QUEEN AND ROYAL FAMILY OF PRUSSIA.
Established in 1770.
LADIES' OUTFITTING
sent free of carriage,
Descriptive List, with prices, free by post.
CAPPER, SON, and CO., 69, Cornmarket-street, Oxford, W.

Seat post-free, Descriptive Lists of COMPLETE BABY LINEN, which are sent home
throughout the World, and of
UNDERCLOTHING, for BOYS, INDIA, and the COLONIES,
Lasting and Durable.
LINENDRAPERS TO THE QUEEN BY APPOINTMENT.
JAMES SPENCE and CO.

BABIES' BASSINETS
Trimmed and Furnished
ready for use, from 1 guinea each.
Baby Linen Outfitting Warehouse.
Trimmed and Furnished to correspond.
CAPPER, SON, and CO., 69, Cornmarket-street, London, E.C.
Descriptive Lists, with prices, sent free by post.

100 PATTERNS—NEW SILKS, for Dresses, Mantles, and Costumes, post-free, of the celebrated Noble Imperial Alpin, in Checks, Moire Antiques, Glacés, Poult de Soies, Gros Grains, Gros de Naples, Damass, Brocades, &c., from 1 guinea to 20 yds.
At NICHOLSON'S, 50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

1000 DOZEN CAMBRIC HANDKERCHIEFS, at 6s. per doz. Sample 4 for, sent on receipt of 24 in stamps.
At NICHOLSON'S, 50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

DO YOU WISH YOUR CHILDREN WELL DRESSED?—Boys' Knickerbocker Suits in cloth from 15s. 9d., Doeskin School Suits, 21s. 6d. Patterns of the cloths, Illustrations, and 25 Descriptions of the Costumes, post-free.—NICHOLSON'S, 50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NEW FANCY SILKS.
Fancy French Glacés, £2 7s. 6d.
Fancy Spotted Silks, £2 10s. 6d.
Jewelled Pompadours, £3 10s. 6d.
Very rich Corded Silks, 4 guineas
the Extra Full Dress of 12 yards.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 105, Oxford-street.
Elegant Checks Gros d'Afrique, 2 guineas the Dress.
Every new colour in self-coloured French Glacés, at £2 14s. 6d.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 105, Oxford-street.

Just purchased, 1500 pieces
RICH BROCHE GRENADINES, 36, 54, 64, 74, 84, and 94 inches wide, suitable for dinner evening, or summer wear,
FROM SILK CHALLIES.
Checks, Clocks, and Millenaire, 10s. 9d. to 17s. 6d. Full Dress.
Rich Broché Grenadines, 21s. to 42s. Full Dress.
Rich Broché Grenadine Flounces, 21s. to 42s. Full Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 105, Oxford-street.

PARIS KID GLOVES.
Four Buttons, best colors, 1s. 11½d.; worth 2s. 6d.
Sample Pair on receipt of 24 stamps.
Now on Sale.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 105, Oxford-street.

FAMILIES
about to purchase MOURNING will find it to their advantage to visit
PETER ROBINSON'S
FAMILY MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
where they can select from the largest stock in Europe of goods made up, ready for immediate wear or in the piece, at the most economical prices.
Goods sent to any part of the country for selection.
Complete List of Mourning requisites for every grade or degree of relationship forwarded free.
PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 105, Oxford-street.

SUPERIOR BLACK SILKS.
Rich Fancy Black Silks, from 1 2s. 6d. to 2 5s. per yard.
Richest qualities.
Plain Glacé Silks ... ... 1 19 6 Silks.
Rich Gros Grains ... ... 2 2 0 Do.
Rich Corded Silks ... ... 2 5 0 Do.
Repps and Reddemettes ... ... 2 8 6 Do.
Ambiens ... ... 2 12 6 Do.
Half-mourning Silks ... ... 1 5 6 Do.
Patterns free.
PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 105, Oxford-street, Corner of Regent-street.

SPECIAL NOTICE.
DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP.—
WARWICK and SON beg to announce the Mobility, Gentry, and their Friends, in consequence of the retirement of their senior partner, Mr. WARWICK, from the firm, that they intend to carry on the business upon the same principles as heretofore, and will be sold at a reduction of 30 per cent, so as to make room for an entire new Stock.—No. 1, Sackville-street, Piccadilly.

THE PRINCE'S WEDDING FAVOURS of COVENTRY RIBBONS.—GRANT and GASK have prepared for the approaching event of the Royal Marriage a variety of the Costume Ribbed Grosgrains in keeping with the Costumes of MOSELTES and SASHES of the same, and in the Colours of the Tartans of the Royal Family, and Ribbons of the Colours of the Arms of the Principal Cities and Towns at Coventry.—58, 59, 60, 61, 62, Oxford-street; 3, 4, and 5, Wells-street.

UNIFLAMMABLE SILK DRESSES, 12s. 6d. the Full Dress.
Patterns post-free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 105, Oxford-street.

HER MAJESTY'S DRAWINGROOM.—The CARDINIUS PATENT JUPON is the only skirt which displays at all times the beauty of the dress, and in which the pressure is removed. Wholesale only of A. SALOMONS, 35, Old Change, London, E.C. Retail of the Trade generally throughout the World.

VALENCIENNES LACE, made with genuine Linen Thread, recently distinguishable from the silk Fresh a very decided improvement. Sold by the Trade generally. Retail, RAKER and DOWDEN, Upper Baker-street, Euston-square, N.W.

STEEL COLLARS and CUFFS are the smartest and most elegant Fashion of the season. Whalebone stiffening is objectionable, enabling the wearer always to have Collar and Cuffs of the same degree of stiffness. Sold by the Trade. Wholesale only of A. SALOMONS, 35, Old Change, London, E.C. Retail of Lady or Gent's Collar by post for 30 stamps; a Pair of Cuffs, 54 stamps.

THE ALEXANDRA HAIR-WAVER, a first simple and novel invention for giving a graceful permanent wave to the hair, is universally admired. Sold by the Trade. Wholesale only of A. SALOMONS, 35, Old Change, London, E.C. Retail of Messrs. Gabriel, the old-established Textilists, 37, Hatton-street, Liverpool, and 56, Conduit-street, Regent-street, London.

Our visit early enquiries from country patrons.
Gabriel's "Paragon" Serge, for Ladies' Riding Habits.

TEETH.—Mr. ESKELL supplies, upon perfectly painless principles, his Patented Artificial Teeth. Therefore they do not require the most skilful operator. Consultations free. 5, Grosvenor-street, Bond-street.

DR. DE JONGH'S
LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL,
Prepared in the most eminent Medical Schools throughout the world as the safest, speediest, and most effectual
CURE for CONSUMPTION,
BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA,
RHEUMATISM, GOUT, GENERAL DEBILITY, DISEASES OF THE SKIN, RICKETS, SCROFULA, and ALL SCORBUTIC AFFECTIONS, is incomparably superior to every other variety.

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.
ANSAR, HARFORD, and CO., 77, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.

FOR CLEARING THE VOICE and RELIEVING the THROAT from HOARSENESS, use LOCOCK'S PULMONIC WAFERS.—From Mr. Thomas, Chemist, Surrey.—"I HAVE much pleasure in stating that they relieved me almost the moment I put them into my mouth." They have a pleasant taste. Price 1s. 1½d. per box. Sold by all Druggists.

DINNEFORD'S FLUID MAGNESIA is a excellent remedy for Acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion, and as a mild aperient for full and constitutions. 172, New Bond-street, London; and all Chemists.

YOUNG'S IX BOX ARNICATED WHITE FLEX CURE and SOAP, 1s. 6d. and 2s. 6d. Sold by Young, 10, Hatherley-place, Aldersgate-street, E.C. Sent by rail to millions. Ask for Young's 6d. and 1s. box; by post, 1s. 3d.

WANTED, LEFT-OFF CLOTHES, Uniforms, Furniture, Miscellaneous Property, &c. The highest price given for Ladies' and Gentlemen's Left-off Clothes, Uniforms, &c. Mr. and Mrs. D. HYAM, 10, Beak-street, Regent-street, W., 10, Parkside, near the nearest value in cash immediately remitted. Established 1815.

LEFT-OFF CLOTHES.—Uniforms, Jewellery, Miscellaneous Property, &c.—If every description purchased to any amount, by Mr. and Mrs. D. DAVIS, 61, Mary-le-bone-lane, Oxford-street, W. Ladies' Dresses, Gentlemen's wardrobes, Plate, Jewellery, Furs, &c. Established 10 years.

NEW MUSIC.

THE PRINCE OF WALES: a Fantasia on Welsh National Melodies for the Pianoforte, by BENEDICT; performed by Mdme. Arabella Goddard at the National Harp Concerts. Price 3s. Illustrated with a Photograph of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales and Charles Wade's Portrait of the Composer-street. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' ALEXANDRA. With Portrait of her Royal Highness. A new Nocturne for the Pianoforte by this popular Composer. Price 3s.; Duet, 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' GOD SAVE THE QUEEN. On a drawing-room piece, we are disposed to think 'God Save the Queen' one of Mr. Richards' most striking achievements. Price 3s. 6d. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' ANNIE LISLE. A new arrangement for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.; Duet, 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' COMPLETE TUTOR for the PIANOFORTE. The best, the newest, and the most attractive Airs, Dances, Marches, Exercises, Scales, Lessons, and Studies, arranged progressively, and with much peculiar fingering to progressive lessons. Sixty pages, full music size, price 3s., post-free. N.B.—A list of Brinley Richards' Popular Pieces will be sent on application to CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' EILY MAVOURNEEN. The charming Song, from Benedict's new Opera, arranged for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

OSBORNE'S LILY OF KILLARNEY, a Fantasia on Favourite Airs from Benedict's popular Opera, price 3s. 6d. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

OSBORNE'S RECORDANZA, from Benedict's Opera, "The Lily of Killarney," price 3s. 6d. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

Just published,

KUHE'S NATIONAL MELODIES FOR THE PIANOFORTE.
No. 1. "The March of the Men of Harlech." Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S SEMIRAMIDE. Grand Fantasia on Airs from Rossini's favourite Opera, for the Pianoforte, by this popular Composer. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S MASSANIELLO.—Just published, a Grand Fantasia for the Pianoforte on Airs from this charming Opera. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S PRINCE OF WALES'S GALOP. A new Edition. Beautifully Illustrated with a Portrait of the Prince of Wales by BAXTER. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S SOLDIER'S POLKA. A new Edition, with a Portrait (just published, with a Portrait of his Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge by BRANDARD). Price 3s. Duet, 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S KATHLEEN MAVOURNEEN WALTZ. On the favourite Song of "Kathleen Mavourneen." "The waltz of the season." Beautifully Illustrated. 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S WEST-END POLKA. A new Edition of this charming Polka, splendidly Illustrated in Colours, price 3s. Duet, 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

ALBION LINDAHL'S New Piece, MIDNIGHT SONG. Poetic Fugitive for the Pianoforte. Price 3s., net cash. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NAVA'S DANISH NATIONAL SONG and HYMN. Arranged for the Pianoforte, price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

ELLY MAVOURNEEN. Sung by Mr. Farren in Benedict's Opera, "The Lily of Killarney," and enthusiastically encored. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

I'M ALONE. Sung by Miss Louisa Pyne in Benedict's Opera, "The Lily of Killarney," and most enthusiastically encored. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

IN MY WILD MOUNTAIN VALLEY. A most exquisite ballad, sung by Miss Louisa Pyne in Benedict's Opera, "The Lily of Killarney." Price 2s. 6d. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

50 OPERATIC MELODIES for the PIANOFORTE. Price 1s. Being No. 1 of CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE. Just published. Post-free, 1s. 2d. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

100 IRISH MELODIES for the PIANOFORTE. Price 1s. Being No. 2 of CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE. Just published. Post-free, 1s. 2d. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

100 SCOTCH MELODIES for the PIANOFORTE. Price 1s. Being No. 3 of CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE. Just published. Post-free, 1s. 2d. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE ORPHAN'S SONG. Composed by GLOVER, and sung by Miss Poole at the Monday Popular Concerts. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

Just published,

MOZART'S REQUIEM MASS, for Pianoforte. By FRANZ NAVA. Just published, a new and complete Edition, in cloth, price 5s., post-free. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

ROSSINI'S STABAT MATER, for Pianoforte. By BRINLEY RICHARDS. Just published (uniform with Mendelssohn's Hymn, and complete Edition, in cloth, price 3s., post-free. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW SACRED WORK FOR THE HARMONIUM.—Twenty-five FULL or CONCLUDING VOLUNTARIES for Harmonium, selected from the works of Mozart, Haydn, Handel, &c., and expressly suited to small Churches and Chapels. "CHAPPELL'S VADE MECUM." Price 4s.; in cloth, 5s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

RIMBAULT'S PSALM and HYMN TUNES for HARMONIUM. A selection from the most esteemed Church Composers. Price 4s.; in cloth, 5s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

RIMBAULT'S 100 Original INTERLUDES for HARMONIUM, adapted to the Psalm and Hymn Tunes in common use, composed and arranged expressly for the Harmonium by Dr. Rimbault. Price 4s.; in cloth, 5s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

RIMBAULT'S CHANTS by the best Church Composers, ancient and modern, selected from the works of the most celebrated, and arranged expressly for the Harmonium. Price 4s.; in cloth, 5s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

RIMBAULT'S 50 SHORT VOLUNTARIES for the HARMONIUM, expressly suited to small churches and chapels. Price 4s.; in cloth, 5s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

Just published,

BURGMULLER'S COMPLETE METHOD for the PIANOFORTE (Revised by C. A. Macfarren). Containing Scales and Exercises, Studies, and all the Airs; also Duets for Master and Pupil, &c. Price 4s. A. HAMMOND and Co., 214, Regent-street.

STAMP GALOP, by ARTHUR OLEARY. This most successful Galop of the season is always encored, the Title-page is embellished with postage-stamps of all nations, beautifully Illustrated in Colours. Free for twelve stamps.—EWER and Co., 390, Regent-street, London.

NEW MUSIC.

BOOSEYS' MUSICAL LIBRARY.—Every Subscriber at Two Guineas receives a splendid Guinea Volume of Illustrated Music, and has the use of twelve pieces of music in town and twenty pieces in the country. Subscribers at One Guinea have the use of twelve pieces. Prospectuses free on application. 24, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

ROSSINI'S STABAT MATER, arranged for the Pianoforte in simple form, by Henry Smart. Price 3s.; music size. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

MOZART'S 12TH MASS, arranged for the Pianoforte by Henry Smart, in a complete form. Price 3s.; music size. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

14 SACRED SONGS in BOOSEYS' MUSICAL CABINET, with Pianoforte Accompaniments. Selected by subscribers from the following Composers:—Handel, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Spohr, Rossini, Meyerbeer, &c. Also Sacred Song, "Jerusalem the Golden." Price One Shilling.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

20 SACRED COMPOSITIONS FOR THE PIANOFORTE, the greatest Masters, in BOOSEYS' MUSICAL CABINET, No. 73, price One Shilling.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

BOOSEYS' 50 SHORT VOLUNTARIES FOR THE HARMONIUM, arranged by Nordmann from the works of Handel, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Bach, Himmel, Naumann, Ahlvin, Steibelt, Graun, Wolf, Calcott, Cramph, Randall, &c. Price 3s. 6d. in cloth.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

BOOSEYS' 200 CHANTS FOR THE VOICE. PIANOFORTE, HARMONIUM, OR ORGAN, price 1s. 6d. in cloth, 2s. Most welcome when played. Also Boosey on Psalm and Hymn Tunes, 6d.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

THE HARMONIUM MUSEUM, Part I., price 5s., contains Thirty beautiful Sacred Compositions by all the greatest Masters, arranged for the Harmonium by Nordmann. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' PORTUGUESE HYMN, as arrangement for Pianoforte or Adams Fisher, 3s. each net. Also Sacred Song, Price 3s., just published. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

NORDMANN'S SICILIAN MARINERS' HYMN, for the Pianoforte. Also by the same Composer, "The Advent Hymn" and "Adeste Fideles." Price 3s. each. Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

HENRY SMART'S 50 PRELUDES and INTERLUDES for the Organ. Price 5s. 6d. in cloth, an entirely new and original work. Masterly, pleasing, and well varied.—Address BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

HENRY SMART.

FLOATING LEAVES, a plaintive and expressive Song, composed by Henry Smart, the Lady of the Lea." Price 2s. 6d.—BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BRANDARD'S CELEBRATED GALOPS.

DREAM, BABY, DREAM, A very beautiful Cradle Song for contralto and mezzo-soprano voices. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

CLARIBEL.

THROUGH THE JASMINE, New Song, by CLARIBEL, Author of "Five Little Maids Dancing." Published this day by BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BOW-BELLS NEW DANCE FRANK MUSGRAVE. Illustrated in Colours. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHEAP EDITION OF THALBERG'S ART OF SINGING, applied to the Piano, price 2s. 6d., music-size.—BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street. This is a cheap reprint of the portrait work, which contains the last six numbers of "The Art of Singing," and is the only complete edition. Also, Thalberg's "Home, sweet home." Last rose of summer," and "Lillie Dale" (together), in the same size and cheap form.

BOOSEYS' PIANOFORTE CLASSICS, a number of changes will welcome the following works at one-half their original prices, viz.:—
1. Beethoven's Sonatas complete.
2. Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony.
3. Beethoven's Symphony in C minor.
4. Mozart's Jupiter Symphony.

BOOSEYS' BAND-BOOKS contain Twelve Sets of popular Quadrilles, Valses, Polkas, Galops, and Lancers, arranged for a Band (Brass), and a complete programme for a ball. Bound in neat boards, cloth back, price 5s., post-free. Publication in progress. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BOOSEYS' CHEAP VOCAL OPERAS complete for Voice and Pianoforte, all with English words, and Italian or German added where required. Abridged Editions published in many Operas.

Trovatore	5s. 0d.	Sonnambula	5s. 0d.
Ernani	5s. 0d.	Masaniello	5s. 0d.
Somnambula	3s. 0d.	Il Barbiere	3s. 0d.
Norma	3s. 0d.	Puritani	3s. 0d.
Lucrezia	3s. 0d.	Don Juan	3s. 0d.

NEW SONGS.

2 in Vocal Score, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, price One Penny each, or 2 parts, 2s. per 100. Also, 2 Sacred Songs, price 1d. Beautifully printed on excellent paper. Postage of 5 numbers, 1d. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

20 NEW CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS' SONGS in BOOSEYS' MUSICAL CABINET, No. 75. Price One Shilling. Also, Boosey's 200 Songs, in Nos. 1s. each. Nos. 1 to 20 now ready now being sung by the various troupes of Christy's Minstrels.

2 NEW NUMBERS of BOOSEYS' CABINET for pianoforte solo, viz. 1811 to 1820, Mozart's Requiem Mass Songs, and No. 75 contains 20 New Christy's Minstrels' Songs. Price 1s. each.

THE ANGLO-DANISH QUADRILLE, by F. K. GLOVER, as Sung and Played at the Danish Ball at Sandringham. This is the best set of quadrilles published for some time. Splendidly Illustrated, 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE ANGLO-DANISH VALSE, by E. L. HIME, price 4s., sent at half price. Most of the quadrilles and waltzes published this season are by the Danish Princesses, and cannot fail to please.—DUFF and HODGSON, 65, Oxford-street.

"NEVER SMILE AGAIN" and "WHEN I'M AWAY" and "BIRD OF THE WILDERNESS." Two Songs by BLUMENTHAL, the latter of which sung with great success by Mr. Lockey in his entertainment on the Songs of Scotland. Post-free for 15 stamps each. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

MDLLE. PAREPA'S NEW SONG, THE SPIRIT OF SPRING, composed expressly for her by LAGLOY-MARIE, sung with immense success at one of MDLLE. Parepa's Concerts. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

MR. SANTLEY'S NEW SONG, THE LAGGON ISLAND, just published (with Portrait of Mr. Santley). Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

"NEVER SMILE AGAIN." New Sacred Song. By LANGTON WILLIAMS. Just published. Price 3s. Free for 15 stamps. WILLIAMS and Co., 21, Tottenham-court-road.

"NEVER SMILE AGAIN." New Sacred Song. By LANGTON WILLIAMS. Just published. Price 3s. Free for 15 stamps. WILLIAMS and Co., 21, Tottenham-court-road.

WANDERINGS AT MORN. By J. ODE. A charming vein, replete with melody and effect, intended as the reply to "Wreathing at Eve," and within the reach of ordinary performers. Price 3s. 6d.—CRAMER, Beale, and Wood.

ANGELS LISTEN WHEN SHE SPEAKS. Words by J. R. CARPENTER, and Music by L. HIME. This is a most fascinating ballad, full of deep pathos and melody, perfectly enchanting. Price 3s. 6d.—CRAMER, Beale, and Wood.

LOVE'S WHISPER WALTZ. By R. F. HARVEY. Composed expressly for the Prince of Wales's Royal Wedding Ball. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s. BALMFORTH, 9, Salisbury-square.

NEW MUSIC.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD'S MUSIC CIRCULATING LIBRARY for Town and Country. Terms—Two, Three, and Four Guineas per Annum. 201, Regent-street.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD undertake the Publication of Compositions for the Author. 201, Regent-street.

HALF PRICE.—All full-priced Music sent Post-free at Half the marked Price. CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

DREAM OF ST. JEROME. Price 2s. 6d. "Miss Charlotte presently came down from the old folks, and went to the piano, and played to Beethoven."—Dream of St. Jerome, which always soothes me and charms me, so that I fancy it is a poem of Tennyson in music."—Household Words, by W. H. Thackeray. CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' BISHOP'S MELODIES.
No. 1. "Mynheer Van Dunck."
No. 2. "Home, sweet home."
No. 3. "Lo, here the gentle lark."
CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' DANISH GALOP. CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

ROSSINI'S CUJUS ANIMA, most beautifully arranged for the Pianoforte by BRINLEY RICHARDS. 3s. CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

W. GANZ.

SOUVENIR DU FIRST MAZURKA. 3s.
Tyrolienne. .. .. 3s.
Grand Valse brillante .. .. .. 4s.
The above are three of Mr. Ganz's best pieces.
CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

FREDERICK BOSCOVITCH'S (the Hungarian Pianist) NEW COMPOSITIONS, performed by him with great success.
"Christmas Bells" .. .. 3s. 0d.
"Les Bouquilleurs." Danse Orientale .. .. 3s. 0d.
"Le Chant du Cygne." Nocturne .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
"Chanson des Vilageoises Bohémiennes" .. .. 3s. 0d.
"Le Retour." Marche .. .. 3s. 0d.
"Secrets d'Amour." Romance sans paroles .. .. 4s. 0d.
CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

LEFÉBURE WELY.—PENSÉES FUGITIVE. 4s.
No. 1. "Soft Clarion" .. .. .. Réverie.
2. "La Cantatrice" .. .. .. Marche.
3. "Les Loupens" .. .. .. Nocturne.
4. "Le Bal" .. .. Valse.
5. "Le Départ" .. .. Lied.
6. "The Gaity" .. .. Galop.
All the above are in the Composer's favourite style.
CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

STEPHEN HELLER.
"Promesse" (Op. 100) .. .. .. 3s.
"Poésiette" (Op. 101) .. .. .. 3s.
"The above are two charming works by the most original pianoforte composer of the day. Each movement has happiest ideas. The Nocturne is full of dreamy and expressive grace; the Promesse will attract by its originality of rhythm and effect. The Poésiette and some passages of climax which are truly exciting."—Athenæum, 10th Jan., 1863.
CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

STEPHEN HELLER DEUX ROMANCES SANS PAROLES. In two Numbers, 4s. each. Two most elegant Miniatures.
CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

ARTHUR A. SULLIVAN.—"THOUGHTS."
No. 1. "Allegretto con Grazia."
No. 2. "Andante Religioso."
"Mr. Sullivan's 'Thoughts' are real thoughts, real devices and real beauty, and will increase the favourable reputation won by his 'Incidental Music to the Tempest.'"—Athenæum.
CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

J. P. CLARKE'S "POSTMAN" or By the Composer of the well-known "Night Bell" Galop.
CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

HERRICK'S LITANY, "Sweet Spirit, comfort me." A most beautiful Sacred Song, composed by CLARIBEL. 3s. CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

LOVE'S REQUEST (Liebes Bitte). A. CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

O MOON OF NIGHT! AUGUST MARIE WILHELM. 3s. CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

WAYWARD WIND. FRANCESCO BERGER'S New Song. 3s. CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

PAQUITA. Ballad. By H. SMART. 2s. 6d. CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

WHEN FIRST THE BELLS. GEORGE LINLEY'S New Song. 3s. CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

NOW THOU ART MINE, ARDITI'S New Song. CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

HENRY SMART'S NEW SONGS for CONTRALTO. 3s. 6d. each.
"Prize your Own" (Young Ironsides).
"Bright be your Dreams."
"Bright be her Dreams."
CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

ARDITI'S New Song, COLLI NATIVI. 3s. Sung by Signor Arditi at the Monday Popular Concerts, Agnes Zimmermann's Sonata in memory of Schumann, and his entire Programme.
CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

AH, NELLE NOTTI LIMPIDE. Melodia. By S. LAZZARI. Sung by Mdme. Lemaire at the Ancient Concerts, in the Palace, and well suited for the Drawing-room.
CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

G. GRETTON'S PIANOFORTE WORKS, G. Eels and Blumel, 3s.; Der Hexen-tanz, 4s.; Der Waldsitzer, 4s.; Pastorale, 3s.; Mazurka, 3s.; Les Sylphes, 3s.; Cornets, Pipes, 4s., &c. CRAMER, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street.

CRAMER, Beale, and WOOD'S PIANOFORTE GALLERY, 207 and 209, Regent-street. The largest in Europe.

Every Instrument by the best Makers at least equal to the subscription prices of a Lender Instruments are carefully excluded from the stock.

Pianofortes by all the eminent English, Continental, and American Manufacturers, for Sale or Hire.

EASY TERMS OF PURCHASE.—CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD make special arrangements with those desirous to PAY for a PIANOFORTE by INSTALMENTS. Terms may be known on application at the Gallery.—207 and 209, Regent-street.

JOHN BROADWOOD and SON'S NEW SEMI-GRAND, with three strings in the treble. CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD have several of these admirable new Pianofortes. They are an immense advance on the old Semi-grands. The case is fine, the tone extraordinary telling in quality. Price 120 guineas. 207 and 209, Regent-street.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN PIANINO (Size of Piccolo) to which the Public have long enjoyed a very elegant Pianoforte, of small size, the full compass, check action, and most perfect touch, admirably adapted to small rooms, yachts, boudoirs, &c. Warranted to keep in tune, and to be the best and cheapest Pianoforte with check action ever sold at the lowest imperial price.

Price, in mahogany, rosewood, or walnut, 35 and 36 guineas. A great variety may be seen at

Chappell and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ENGLISH MODEL COTTAGE PIANOFORTE.—To maintain for the great English tone of the Broadwood or Collard system; the English check action, by which the most perfect command is obtained over the instrument, and the most delicate and even single repetition of the above makers', and therefore especially adapted to the country and the tuners. In elegant rosewood case, with full iron frame, similar in every respect to those sold by us at 50 guineas. Price 35 guineas; in walnut, 40 guineas.

Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN MODEL COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, with check action, price 30 guineas. This instrument has three Stringes and the fullest grand compass of seven octaves. It is strongly built for very possible means to endure the greatest amount of wear, and to stand perfectly in tune for a long period. Although the price is so moderate, it has been in every respect, and especially in tone, made similar to those of the Grand. The touch is elastic, and the repetition very rapid. In rosewood case, with full metal plate, trichord, and check action. Made in England at the same price. Every instrument will be warranted, and delivered free of charge to any railway station in London.

Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BROADWOOD, COLLARD, and ERARD. The best Pianofortes of every description, including all the new Patents, can be obtained without extra charge on the easy and liberal with option of purchase) at the new Showrooms of CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

ERARD'S NEW BOUDOIR GRAND PIANOFORTE, at 120 guineas, having been now brought to perfection, may be had with its original appendages, at CHAPPELL and CO.'S, 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES. CHAPPELL and CO. have a large SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES for Sale, by BROADWOOD, COLLARD, ERARD, and other eminent Makers, which have been returned on every description.—Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

PIANOFORTES at CHAPPELL'S.—The largest Stock in London of Broadwood, Collard, Erard, &c., for Sale or Hire.—50, New Bond-street.

ALEXANDRE'S DRAWING-ROOM MODEL HARMONIUM, the best that can be produced, price 60 guineas. Also, the Two-manual and Pedal Model, price 80 guineas. Illustrated Catalogues of Pianofortes and Harmoniums upon application to CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

SIX-GUINEA HARMONIUM by ALEXANDER, with five octaves, two footboards, and in oak or rosewood case. Descriptive lists on application to CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND HARMONIUMS, by ALEXANDRE, nearly (if not quite) as good as new, at about one-third original prices.—CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

ALEXANDRE'S PRIZE EXHIBITION MODEL HARMONIUM, for the CHURCH, 13 stops, 4 rows of Vibrators, two Octaves of Pedals, Venetian Swell, &c., price 120 guineas. Also, the Two-manual and Pedal Model may be always seen at CHAPPELL and CO.'S, 50, New Bond-street.

THE SICILMA FLUTE.—Old System of Boehm.—Improved and Increased Compass.—Patent Instruments manufactured, at prices varying from 6 to 18 guineas, by A. ASTHURR CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street, where they may also be obtained. Mr. Barry, of the Royal Italian Opera, Covent-garden, attends daily to give lessons.

ANTOINE COURTOIS' CORNETS-A-PISTONS.—These celebrated instruments, used by every professional player in the kingdom, are manufactured by A. COURTOIS, and may be obtained, without extra charge, of CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street, from whom price-lists and drawings may be obtained.

ERARD'S NEW BOUDOIR GRAND PIANOFORTE, at 120 guineas, manufactured this year. Instrument with a view of providing a first-rate Grand Pianoforte of a more convenient size for the Drawing-room.

These new model instruments are, for the present, only to be had of CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street, who have also a number of Second-hand Grands, by Broadwood, Collard, Erard, &c.

THE DRAWING-ROOM GRAND.—CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD manufacture a Cottage Pianoforte, with the compass, touch, and check action of a Grand. The tone is full, pure, and vocal. The touch is agreeable, rapid, and effective. The Trichord, Check Action, and Repetition will be adopted in this design, quality of wood, and general substantiality which has gained for the Firm the reputation it has for the Cottage Pianoforte. Price in mahogany or walnut, 36 guineas; rosewood, 38 guineas; walnut, 45 guineas.—207 and 209, Regent-street.

THE ENGLISH PIANETTE, 22 Guineas. A Cheap and Portable Pianoforte, with Check Action, a capital Musical Instrument. It has all the requisites of a good practising Pianoforte—check action, a fine quality of tone, and the full compass of seven octaves. The fingers of the player will be strengthened much more rapidly than on the old cottage, and the touch will be much more elastic and true. Made and sold with its tone in mahogany, 22 guineas; in walnut, 26 guineas.

Purchasers may be perfectly assured to obtain what this instrument has not the common or single action, but the double or check action, which is found in all the best and most expensive pianofortes, and is in England alone.—Rosewood, 28 guineas; walnut, 26 guineas.—207 and 209, Regent-street.

REPAIRING PIANOFORTES.—CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD give great attention to this department of the business, and have a staff of workmen always employed. Every care is taken to remove defective or worn mechanism.

TUNE YOUR PIANOFORTES by the ROYAL TUNER, Mr. SUTCLIFFE, who has been appointed by the Queen, Prince Consort, and the Royal Family, and OUR staff of experienced TUNERS are too well known to the public to require further recommendation.

HIRE of PIANOFORTES. — CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD HIRE PIANOFORTES by the Night, Week, or Month, on the most reasonable terms.

REPAIRS & HARMONIUMS. — CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD have a staff of workmen always employed.

BOOSEY'S MINIATURE PIANOFORTE, price 17 guineas in Walnut or Mahogany, is suitable for the Drawing-room, Study, or Bedroom. Full compass and power. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BOOSEY'S MINIATURE PIANOFORTE, with compass of five octaves, and the most rapid repetition and is quite unrivalled as combining cheapness and as combining cheapness and excellence.

BOOSEY'S MINIATURE PIANOFORTE is constructed on a new principle, and possesses a compact form, is especially adapted for the cabin of a ship or an exterior climate.

BOOSEY'S MINIATURE PIANOFORTE. An extensive stock may be seen at Boosey and Sons', 24, Holles-street, where the instruments may be obtained.

EVANS' ENGLISH HARMONIUMS reduced to the lowest possible prices. Lists on application. BOOSEY and CULLEN, 24, Holles-street, London.

EVANS' COTTAGE HARMONIUMS at 20 guineas and 25 guineas. BOOSEY and CULLEN, 24, Holles-street.

EVANS' ENGLISH HARMONIUMS with Pedals, Venetian Swell, and Knee Swell, are the most full, and more in every possible variety. Prices from 4 to 140gs. Lists on application. BOOSEY and CULLEN, 24, Holles-street. Instruments delivered, carriage free, at any railway station in London.

CASE'S ENGLISH CONCERTINAS.—These well-known instruments, which still maintain their unrivalled reputation, possess a rapid speech, a good quality of tone, and remain longer in tune than any other Concertinas.
BOOSEY and CULLEN, Manufacturers, 24, Holles-street.

JONES'S ENGLISH CONCERTINAS, universally adopted by the Profession. Prices from £2 2s. THE SIDEDRUM, with tempered steel vibrators, £10 10s. to £20. Catalogues gratis.—Jones and Son, 5, Princes-road, N.W.

F. BESSON'S NEW CHALLENGE CORNETS.—Manufactory, 198, Euston-road. Twenty-two years' experience in the manufacture of these instruments, which are adopted by the first artists and assistants in the world.

THE "SEAFORTH," AN EAST INDIA IRON CLIPPER.

THE Engraving which we give this week of the Seaforth, a clipper vessel now on her way to Calcutta, does not, perhaps, differ very much from many other sketches of beautiful specimens of naval architecture which have appeared in this Journal. There is one feature, however, in the equipment of the Seaforth which, in these days of "reconstruction," of our navies, both Royal and mercantile, does require special notice. We refer to the fact that the Seaforth is provided with steel lower masts, topmasts and bowsprit, lower yards, and double topsail-yards; and the whole of the standing rigging is composed of the same material. The Seaforth is the first ship which has been dispatched to sea thus fitted; and, when we say that a saving in this instance has been effected equal to twenty-one tons top weight by steel taking the place of iron, the value of the improved system will at once be perceptible. We understand that the same firm are building several vessels the hulls of which are also to be composed entirely of steel.

The Seaforth is owned by Messrs. C. J. Lemon and Co., of Liverpool, who will launch a sister vessel in a short time from the same yard—that of Messrs. Jones, Quiggin, and Co., of Liverpool—where the Seaforth was so successfully built.

JOHN PENDER, ESQ., M.P. FOR TOTNES.

THE borough of Totnes has recently, owing to the death of its two members following hard upon each other, undergone an entire change of its representation. Upon the decease of Mr. T. H. Mills, towards the close of last year, two candidates started for the representation of the borough—Mr. Dent, a China merchant, being the Conservative, and John Pender, Esq., of Crumpsall Hall, near Manchester, the Liberal, candidate. For some time a severe contest was expected, but eventually Mr. Dent found it advisable to withdraw his pretensions, and Mr. Pender was returned without opposition, and now sits as one of the members for the borough. Mr. Pender is a gentleman whose family are of Cornish descent, but he himself was born in Scotland, and at an early age entered the office of a commission-merchant at Glasgow, who in time took Mr. Pender into partnership and constituted him as sole manager of a branch of the firm which was established in Manchester, where, as an exporter of cotton fabrics, more particularly to the Indian and China markets, he carried on business on a large scale.

JOHN PENDER, ESQ., M.P. FOR TOTNES.

Mr. Pender brings to his new position of a member of Parliament considerable commercial experiences, and it is probable that his special knowledge of the Indian and China trades, and the sources of cotton supply and the requirements of the cotton trade, will render him at this juncture a useful addition to the number of mercantile men who represent constituencies in the House of Commons. Beyond this Mr. Pender has been a strong supporter of the diffusion of popular education both in England and Scotland, and has also directed his attention to the amelioration of the condition of the working classes. It is owing principally to him that the Working Man's Restaurant at Guythorn, in Manchester, was established—an institution where, on an average, 1500 persons daily obtain wholesome and well-cooked food for a sum per head not exceeding a few pence. The example set in this establishment has been followed successfully in four or five similar institutions in Manchester, which, it is believed, will outlive the present abnormal distress and become permanent. Mr. Pender, like most of the wealthy manufacturers of the north, is a liberal patron of modern art, and possesses a number of the best pictures and specimens of sculpture of the British school.

The Portrait which we engrave is taken from a photograph by C. A. Duval and Co., of Exchange-street, Manchester.

VIEW OF AUCKLAND FROM THE LAKE ON THE NORTH SHORE.

THE harbour of Auckland is nearly landlocked; the extent of the Waitemata, like the embouchure of some large river, has anchorage for a fleet of ships of heavy burden, and is about eight miles in length, with an average breadth of three or four miles. The city is situated on an isthmus only six miles in width, where the Manukau harbour enters across from the western coast. The narrowest land between the waters of the two harbours is only a few hundred yards wide, which spot the aborigines used as a portage for canoes from one coast to the other.

The view was taken from the tableland on the north shore of the Waitemata, from which situation a distant view of Auckland is obtained, backed in the centre of the picture by Mount Eden, and on both sides in the extreme distance by the deep blue hills of the Manukau and Kiapara (now called Albert Land) forest ranges.

The placid lake on the right is one of the most picturesque spots near Auckland, and a favourite resort of yachting, boating, and picnic parties during the lovely summer season. Twenty years ago all the land surrounding this beautiful piece of water was sold at the Government sales for less than 5s. an acre; but at the present time £30 per acre has been demanded by its owners.

There can be no doubt that as soon as steam ferry-boats of suitable dimensions frequently jut across the harbour from the city to the north shore, all the land surrounding this lake, and the adjacent bays of the seacoast, will be cut up into allotments and sold for the purpose of building thereon pretty villa residences, which will afford secluded and quiet retreats to many wealthy members of the commercial, official and mercantile, after the arduous labours of their daily avocations in the bustling "Metropolis of the Antipodes" are concluded.

THE EAST INDIAN CLIPPER SEAFORTH, 1200 TONS, WITH STEEL MASTS AND YARDS.

The Maories have a tradition that the depth of the lake is unfathomable, and that it was a vacuum caused by the disgorging from the regions below, the triple-peaked island of "Rangitoto," situated about two miles from the entrance to the mouth of the harbour (Kohimarie). However, as this island is, it really is the result of an extinct volcanic crater of enormous depth and large dimensions. It is a remarkable hill, although boasting no height to it by the sea, the strips of land separating it from the briny waves in some places not exceeding 100 or 200 yards, yet the water in the lake is extremely pure, there being no crystal, gypsum, or other rocks, in considerable streams at several spots on the beach, through cavities in the intermediate rocks.

At present the neighbouring land is occupied by small farms, where there is found good pasturage for cattle and sheep. The grand climate of New Zealand seems to cause all the imported breeds of animals to be very prolific, which is evinced in a degree truly surprising in the numbers of the young branches of the trees of Australasia and Celtic races which the stranger cannot help being struck by observing in every settlement of this colony.

Sheep frequently produce double births of lambs three times in about eighteen months, thus enabling owners of extensive "runs" to realise a handsome increase. By reason of a few years, the country not being subject to the periodical droughts which cause such ruin to the settlers in America. By reason also the export of wool from New Zealand has doubled itself consecutively for the last three years—viz., from 10,000 in 1859, and from 400,000 to 800,000 bales for the years 1860, 1861, and 1862.

Sir George Grey, among numerous sagacious acts for the public welfare, has, since his arrival, introduced the "song birds of the Canadian "season," which are now to be seen on the lake, beside wild fowl (long since introduced by Lord Ripon and Sir John Richardson), a pair of these swans had a most containing eighteen eggs," on which they were sitting. His Excellency has likewise recently imported English song birds, and red deer whether for the Governor's "Domain" and Mesnes. Alexander Ridgway and Sons (the agents for the province) are about stocking the extensive woods at Auckland by his Excellency. The Auckland Society of Acclimatisation are taking active measures to introduce British birds of all species and talmon ova, hares, pairs of all kinds of the more useful parts of the world, which no doubt will, in such a climate, follow the general rule to "increase and multiply" prodigiously. We shall then hear the songs of the thrush, blackbird, and lark, will rejoice the heart of the Anglo New Zealander, like pastoral appetite now is, and may be gratified without "fishing in troubled waters," while his lands shall teem with "milk and honey."

FINE ARTS.

THE BRITISH INSTITUTION.

THE LARGER WORKS.

HAVING reviewed the figure subjects in this exhibition in our former notice, we may, before alluding to the landscapes proper, the sculpture, &c., speak of the more noteworthy of several pictures. Mr. Sidney Cooper, A.R.A., must in particular be offered the warmest congratulations for a work of quite exceptional power and originality. All those familiar with the general pearl and silver tone of this artist's pictures of quiet pastoral scenes—pictures of ruminating cows and dozing sheep—which, in their unobtrusive but conventional beauty, have made a fortune on the other along the rugged rocky flanks of the sombre Welsh hill, from the side of which a mist lodged in a gorge rises. The foreground is extremely spirited and natural. The goats are thoroughly studied, their shaggy coats admirable in texture, the heads true in character. The painting, though a little inclining to heaviness of tone, shows throughout a rare combination of force and delicacy in the touch. Royal Academician, Mr. Richard Cooper contributes "John Hampden, mortally wounded, leaving the field" (Chalgrove Field), suggested by Lord Macaulay's History. Mr. Ansdell, A.R.A., has a picture of black-faced heath sheep, with shepherd, pony, and collie dogs crossing a highland moor (20). They are just wading through a little "burn," one of the dark rocky haughs the staggering propensity of the old ram. The sixty bluish cloud, the landscape, and the sheep are admirable in texture, and nearly scarcely up to the level of recent works. Mr. Hodge's "Highland Shepherd's Dogs" (291) is very well painted. There is promise in another engine "The Baron's Heath" (292), by Mr. Henry Carter. Mr. J. P. Herring, sen., is seen to most advantage in his small studies. Mr. Alfred W. Bayliss exhibits a large and elaborate portrait of a donkey fully equipped in harness, with the panning title, "Without Visible Means" (196).

Turning to the landscapes, we may begin at the beginning—ab ovo, as the maxim as the maxim says—with No. 1, "Evening Time," by Mr. Jutsum, a view through the broad road of a picturesque village, with a more extensive outlook over the country beyond. The scene, homely, natural, English as it is, is rendered by the artist delightfully. The sentiment of serenity and peace which, like the sunlight fringing the far-off cloudlets and lingering among the trees, seems every where to diffuse itself, is influence. Mr. Hennessy's large view of "Conway castle" (671), with its stupendous high-level bridge, is impressive from the breadth and grandeur of its natural-scenic effects. The grand scale and comprehensiveness of the representation. The left-hand portion of the picture is unnaturally dark and black in contrast; and, although the middle distance is more careful and true to nature than usual, the foreground has many indications of a too great reliance upon the chance agency for truthful and abrupt effects. The picturesque houses and "Castle Garth, Newcastle" (335), by the same artist, is treated in a more natural manner. Mr. Hayes's "Lake scene" (47) is in many respects noteworthy. The foliage on the right, the sloping harvest-field on the opposite side, the stripes of sunlit meadow land in the middle are many passages of beauty and truth. Mr. Hay, as in all this artist's works, the sky, with its dewy zirri and its light, luminous clouds, is delicately manipulated, and the general execution and, as it were, granulated texture are undoubtedly carried so far as to be mannerisms; but it cannot be denied that, used with moderation, they give a delightful freshness, open, warm palpitating effect to the landscape. Mr. Cooke, A.R.A., has a small truthful picture of "Fishermen on the Coast of Normandy," and "Trabacolo Waiting for the Tide off the Armenian Convent" (107); also "Fishing-boats off Cowes, and Anglesea," "Calais Fishing-boat Aground" (420). We regret to hear that this consummate painter accident artist recently met with a serious accident at Venice: in passing in a gondola he near a gate left arm was severely injured. Mr. Harry Johnson sends two of the most striking scenes in Greece—namely, "Mount Olympus," "Ivory Palace," on which, though high her ancient fames and faith can never be re-edied and rehabilitated. There are also the "Ruins of the Temple of Minerva" (360), crowning the peak of Cape Colonna (Sunium), Mr. Johnson's rich, portant, and admirably-painted view of "The Olympeion, the Athenian Acropolis, and the Monument of Philopappus" (151), from from the banks of the Ilissus under a truthful and poetical effect of sunset. We are especially interesting pictures, and shall therefore have a better opportunity of describing them on their private merits. Mr. Collinson has the most remarkable study from nature (6 cannot be termed a landscape) in these rooms. It is entitled "A Summer Ramble" (276), and represents, with surprising skill of workmanship and the closest fidelity, a brake of thistles by the side of a field of ripe corn, with plantains, foxgloves, and innumerable wild flowers. Excellent for the artist as a disciplinary study, and as such admirable to us, we yet do not see in the slight want of harmony in the method of rendering the vivid trunk and tree beyond how Mr. Collinson would bring into keeping a more extensive view with such an exhaustively painted foreground. There is a view of "Tintagel Castle" (240) and its rocky vicinity, by Mr. Naish, in which the desire for accuracy and power and full force of natural colour have pushed the artist to photographic hardness and exaggerated crudity. Nature never looks like this except, perhaps, in fevered vision. You may take one portion of sea or rock, and match its local colour; but when you give a whole landscape with the same very positive colours you have both in and out of ourselves prevent us from realising from the artist's point of view. Mr. Frank Dillon's two figure-subjects—"Under the Egyptian Wall," with a sultry glow ecculiarly and appropriately given (156), and, more somburely impressive, "A Pool near the Road to Old Cairo" (232)—have similar peculiarities of local habitations; but, even if this were wanted, it would be inferentially supplied by the truthfulness of the figures and animals in the "Under the Egyptian yard" (35). Is it not to be regretted that Mr. G. C. Stanfield does not seek for some of the subtle looseness of handling of the elder Stanfield, or anything which would, in his whole style, approach to the picturesque old town of Limburg, &c. (see No. 8), that ensembled or rather more harsh renderers of natural details—the destruction of aerial charm and suggestiveness? Apart from this, good drawing, colour, and other qualities essential to landscape art, are found in this artist's works. Among other meritorious landscapes may be mentioned a triptych of "Morn, Noon, Night" (124), and besides other small subjects, an effect of "Sunset" (Scarborough) (1). Mr. Lee's "Sunset" is rendered with great tenderness, and would be equally truthful but for a somewhat too formal pattern-like look in the trees. A most admirable little snowpiece with, clear, late afternoon sky, by Mr. Mignot (a name new to us) and a large and bold picture of morning effect by Mr. Percival Skinner (172), "Early Dawn, the sun rising in mist and cloud, and reflected on the wet sands, contending with its additional brightness, and also with the moonlight, which, though injured by slightness (even slovenliness) and crudities of colour. Mr. G. Saxt's "Study in an Autumn Copsewood" (474) looks very true to nature, especially in the left-hand corner. Mr. Peel's "Sea-piece" has usually happy in the sentiment and effect of "Milking-time in the Pevensey" (74). Mr. Frere views in Venice, "Early Morning" (as usual, a fine faculty for colour; not, however, sufficiently subordinated to the facts of nature. Mr. Herring's Italian views are very pretty but undue in harmony, although the artist has evidently seen one of these in a view of Varengeville (219), the place of Garibaldi's imprisonment. Mr. C. Bentley's "Sunset on the Sea-shore" (359), is generally admired, certainly fails in his very large picture "The Sea-bird's Revel" (418); the scale and composition are artistic. Mr. W. Cole's "Lake of Como" (460), by Mr. Lee Bridell, the last looking exceptionally good; it would be no bad thing for Mr. Lee if "A Salmon-trap on the Dee" (459), a promising little landscape, by Mr. Hopkins, were worked upon by Mr. Gill, Webb, R. Ansdell, Orchardson, Mr. Shirley, and L. J. Wood.

* An extraordinary number, four only being the average in this hemisphere.

† The red deer, swans, and Canadian geese were the gift of the late Prince Consort, and were transmitted to New Zealand by order of her Majesty.

A careful review of the landscapes leaves the impression that generally speaking the painters in animate nature are comparatively free from the most glaring faults of many of the figure-painters. They pay more attention to the truthful rendering of form and less meretriciously interpret her meaning in less conventional terms; and make less scruple to forget or falsify their own self-confidence.

The department of still-life is also well represented. Mr. Lance sends a large and even more than usually gorgeous composition of fruit, hangings, and still cup, with a dead game, the materials enamels containing portraits (one of the artist himself), and other objects. Mr. Hunt has likewise a large picture of grapes, game, and landing. Miss E. H. Stannard's "Fruit" (260) has considerable promise.

Among the few works in sculpture the following deserve special notice:—"Pippa," (600), a study of a child's head in marble, by Mr. Spence, is especially delicate in feeling: the subtle relation between pensiveness and pleasure, while a sweet smile plays about the lips, is refined enough for Mr. Lawlor's "Pippa" (1,000); an ideal subject, but treated, perhaps, almost to over-idealisation: the drawing, however, is admirable. A colossal copy of Mr. Hancock, of his colossal "Penseroso" just erected in the Egyptian Hall of the Mansion House. A promising marble statuette of "Eve" (1,000), by Mr. Durham, R.A. This artist, however, has not quite satisfactory anatomically. "Ozone" (603), by Mr. Durham, a bacchante, the drapery admirable, the head (608), bronzed terra-cotta statuette group, a graceful fancy by Mr. Hancock; and two portrait mortuary models by Mr. Lough, which, were they finished work, we should say seem wanting in refinement.

The View of Auckland, the "metropolis of the antipodes," given, with a description, in the Auckland Daily News, is taken from a series of six "Views in the Province of Auckland, New Zealand," drawn on stone by Lieutenant Mundy, 58th (late Major of Brigade, Auckland), and very carefully and artistically reproduced in chromolithography by Messrs. Day and Son. The lithographic execution of the whole of the views mentioned is of the highest degree of accuracy, while the colour-printing is, generally speaking, pure and harmonious. The views are published by Messrs. Ridgway, owners of the city, the picturesque harbour, and surrounding country of Auckland. Lieutenant Mundy has evidently a thorough knowledge of his subject,

MUSIC.

Balfe's new opera, "The Armourer of Nantes," which (as we mentioned last week) was produced at the ROYAL ENGLISH OPERA on the 12th of this month, has obtained the success which it richly deserves or never failed to attend the works of this justly favourite composer. It has since been repeated on Saturday last, and twice this week, and there has been no diminution either in the liveliness of the house or in the warmth of the audience; so that its success may now be regarded as real and durable. It has met with no obstacle, nevertheless, arising from the character of the drama, which, with many merits, labours under the disadvantage of being very complicated and a good deal too free faults in any theatrical piece, and especially serious in a musical piece. Mr. Bridgeman, the author of the libretto, is well known as an able and successful writer for the stage, but his experience as an opera-writer has not been sufficient to make him aware that, of all the qualities of a musical drama, simplicity and clearness are by far the most valuable. On the musical stage fine writing is a secondary consideration. An interesting story, plainly told and distinctly with beautiful music, is almost sure to succeed, while experience has shown that all the genius of the greatest composer is generally thrown away upon an obscure plot and complicated incidents. That Balfe's opera has succeeded as it has done, in spite of an obscure plot and complicated incidents, is the strongest possible proof of its great musical excellence. To detail the plot of a play is at all times a thankless toil, and it is especially so when a laborious endeavour is made to condense a long and intricate story. Je ne vais pas la chandelle; and we shall not attempt it. The subject is taken from Victor Hugo's play "Mary Tudor;" but what Hugo says about enough to convey in spoken language may become utterly bewildering when wrapped up in recitative and song. Victor Hugo, as is usual with his countrymen, pays small regard to English history, and Mr. Bridgeman has therefore changed his heroine from the Queen of Spain to the fictitious Sovereign and has added a number of romantically dismissed as one above her place, to the great delight of the nefarious scrivener-man. At this point a stranger comes to her relief, who professes to be a goldsmith, and takes her under his protection. His speeches are to her, naturally interesting, that Orelia consents to travel with him, that she may find refuge in a convent. They are overtaken by the King's troops and the fugitive is arrested. But the strange jeweller suggests that the Princess Orelia who has a right will be so devoted as to her identity as to be deprived of the power of detaining her. Reluctantly she consents. Left together, her husband proposes to take her to his home, and urges her with such sweet reasonings, that at last she is persuaded to comply. In the last act we find her sumptuously lodged by the goldsmith's wife, and in the course the mystery that hangs over the story is solved. The merchant and the husband of Aragon are the same person; and thus all ends in the oul nursery-tale. All this is exquisite, unworldly, and beautiful, and the dialogue teems with topics which are charmingly illustrated. Mr. Vezin is a charming cousin. Mr. H. Marston as the King of Aragon, and Miss Sedgwick as the wandering Princess, all acted very finely last night. Miss Sedgwick's lively spirited and vigorous style and filled up all the minute points of the character with singular felicity. In conclusion, the opera was called for, and acknowledged the honour by bowing from the box.

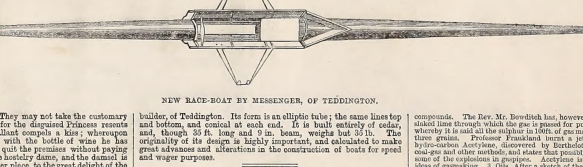
ADELPHI.—Two new pieces are now performing at this house. The first is by Mr. Reginald Moncrieff, and is entitled "A Grey Mare." The term signifies a young lady who will have her own way, and who is the man on whom she has fixed her choice love her. He is a railway surveyor, and in a dispute with the uncle (Mr. Toole), an irascible gentleman and author of a treatise on universal language he threatens to make the line of the projected railway interfere with the ground of his own villa he loses all patience and abuses himself in ridiculous fight. Meanwhile the self-willed lady secures her plant on the interesting surveyor, and succeeds in her purpose. The second is a lighter affair. It is named "A Valentine." How Mr. Paul Bedford contrives to make so simple a story united to the number of relatives that pour through the post-office box and loan his cousins' is a mystery. Suffice it at the address of one of the interesting missives, which he believes is intended for his own sweetheart. His conscience and his interest are in conflict, and for awhile he is tempted to keep the letter, and thus is terrified at the idea of losing that he has committed felony. This is just the sort of thing to bring out the genius of Mr. Toole, who is really great in his delineation of such humorous distresses.

STRAND.—"A Faint Heart which Did Win a Fair Lady" is the title of a drama by Mr. C. H. Ross. He chooses the old-world in Holland, and all the characters are dressed in the Dutch costume, the effect of which is very good. The story is simple and obvious enough, and depends on the acting of Mr. Parselle and Mr. Belford, who represent two youths—one a shy and the other a bold lad. The first contracts himself with seeking to the Burgomaster's daughter presents of tulips and making no further advances, while the other makes love privately, though carrying on at the same time a flirtation with the barmaid of the village inn. The youths are both students; and their teacher is appropriately and cleverly represented by Mr. J. Ray, whose peculiar talent lies in a line of parts in which a certain sort of grave eccentricity prevails. The piece was successful.

MARYLEBONE.—The pleasant farce of "A Day after the Wedding" was acted on Wednesday week at this theatre for the purpose of introducing two candidates to the boards who are likely to secure a position on it. Mr. Charles Wynn dashed through the part of Colonel Freeview with great animation and decided effect, and Miss Clarese St. Pierre simulated the character of the turbulent wife with admirable stage tact. The house was crowded, and received the debutants with decided approbation.

MESSENGER'S NEW RACE-BOAT.

THE novelty in the shape of outrigger racing-boats has lately been introduced by Mr. J. A. Messenger, the celebrated sculler and boat-builder, of Teddington. Its form is an elliptic tube; the same lines top and bottom, and conical at each end. It is built entirely of cedar, and weighs 36 lb. Length, 36 ft.; beam, 2 ft. 6 in.; depth, 1 ft. 6 in. The originality of its design is highly important, and calculated to make great advances and alterations in the construction of boats for speed and wager purposes.



NEW RACE-BOAT BY MESSENGER, OF TEDDINGTON.

SCIENTIFIC NEWS.

A NEW CALCULATING-MACHINE, by M. Wilberg, was presented at a recent meeting of the Academy of Sciences at Paris. It was affirmed to possess advantages over all the preceding ones. It not only calculates with great facility, but prints the results, and thus prevents errors of the compositor.

RUBIDIUM.—At a recent meeting of the Academy of Sciences M. Dumas read a note on the preparation and properties of this new alkaline metal, and exhibited a specimen sent by the discoverer, M. Bunsen, who detected its presence by means of the spectrum analysis. The first matter employed was the mineral lepidolite, from Rozena, in Moravia, and obtained from the manufacture of lithine, by Dr. Struve, of Leipsic. In order to separate the rubidium from potassium, the former compound of rubidium, use was made of the great difference of solubility which exists between the neutral tartrate (bitartrate) of potassium and the bitartrate of rubidium (very slightly soluble). The reduction of the carbonate of rubidium by charcoal is more difficult than that of soda, and more than that of potassium. The mixture treated by heat in a potassium furnace was as follows:—Bitartrate of rubidium, 39·10; carbonate of lime, 8·42; coal of the tartrate of potassium, 1·99—total, 10·19. The metal was collected in a receiver containing oil of naphtha. To prepare a specimen for the spectrum analysis, several metallic globules of 38·5 cent. in density is equal at 1·516. Sodium melts at 96°; potassium at 62°; and rubidium at 38° cent., according to the new determinations made at the laboratory of Heidelberg. Rubidium burns in water like potassium, decomposing it. The properties of great analogy with that metal. M. Bunsen has not yet reduced cesium, having been able to acquire only a few centigrammes of the salts of that metal from 15,000 litres of the water of Durkheim, at Baden.

ROYAL INSTITUTION LECTURES.

PROFESSOR FRANKLAND commenced his course of "Chemical Affinity" on Thursday, the 5th inst., when he resumed the consideration of the phenomena of combustion. He showed that the combustion of coal gas by the decomposition of a compound effected by heat is attended with the disappearance of the compound, the various projects of obtaining heat from the combustion of hydrogen, carbon, and hydrocarbons. He then proceeded to show that the force evolved during chemical combination generally takes the form of heat, but sometimes of electricity. Thus, in the voltaic battery, which is developed, usually accompanied by intense heat and the formation of a solid phosphorous. Lastly, phosphorescence, the sunlight of cool water in the dark, or elevation of temperature produced by merely breathing on the paper was illustrated. Professor Frankland then proceeded to consider the theory that the luminosity exhibited by phosphorus, the glowworm, marine animalcules, and decaying wood, is due to oxidation. The latter, after the rapid combustion of coal gas, is due to chemical action, and may be termed the slow combustion of phosphorus. The phosphorescence of phosphorus is manifested after exposure to a source of light, and soon becomes extinguished; but this luminosity disappears in a few hours. Professor Frankland then considers that in chemical phosphorescence there is at the moment of combination a separation of the molecules of the compound formed, and the resounding luminiferous ether, while in physically phosphorescent and fluorescent bodies the separation of the molecules is produced by the vibrations of light when exposed to light, and afterwards restore to the other the motion that they had lost. Many interesting experiments with various phosphorescent substances were exhibited, for which the lecturer was indebted to the kindness of Professor Faraday and Mr. Tyndall. At the following Friday evening discourse, on the 13th inst. compound, the various projects of obtaining heat from the combustion of hydrogen, carbon, and hydrocarbons. He then proceeded to show that the force evolved during chemical combination generally takes the form of heat, but sometimes of electricity. Thus, in the voltaic battery, which is developed, usually accompanied by intense heat and the formation of a solid phosphorous. Lastly, phosphorescence, the sunlight of cool water in the dark, or elevation of temperature produced by merely breathing on the paper was illustrated. Professor Frankland then proceeded to consider the theory that the luminosity exhibited by phosphorus, the glowworm, marine animalcules, and decaying wood, is due to oxidation. The latter, after the rapid combustion of coal gas, is due to chemical action, and may be termed the slow combustion of phosphorus. The phosphorescence of phosphorus is manifested after exposure to a source of light, and soon becomes extinguished; but this luminosity disappears in a few hours. Professor Frankland then considers that in chemical phosphorescence there is at the moment of combination a separation of the molecules of the compound formed, and the resounding luminiferous ether, while in physically phosphorescent and fluorescent bodies the separation of the molecules is produced by the vibrations of light when exposed to light, and afterwards restore to the other the motion that they had lost. Many interesting experiments with various phosphorescent substances were exhibited, for which the lecturer was indebted to the kindness of Professor Faraday and Mr. Tyndall. At the following Friday evening discourse, on the 13th inst. compound is resumed of the progress made in the theory and practice of "Artificial Illumination." 1. The construction and principle of the now well-known electric lamp, and its various improvements by Duboscq and others, were pointed out and illustrated—the light being produced by apparatus constructed for the successive making and breaking of an electric current, the terminal carbon points being thereby made incandescent. The magneto-electric light based on Faraday's discovery in 1831, and produced by steam power causing the rotation of sets of magnets, was also described, and stated to be the most brilliant and continuous artificial light yet known. It has been successfully employed in certain lighthouses since 1858. Way's electric light, in which mercury is employed, was also shown. In peculiar flickering character renders it objectionable. 2. Coal gas and its adaptation for illuminating purposes. In spite of the progress of research, it still contains the disagreeable sulphur compounds. The Rev. Mr. Dowsbiggin has, however, suggested the heating the naked lime through which the gas is passed for purification to 400 deg. Fahr.; whereby it is said all the sulphur is left behind. It may be removed by two or three grains. Professor Frankland burnt a jet of the new luminiferous hydro-carbon, acetylene, discovered by Berthelot, and obtained by heating coal-gas and other methods, and stated that possibly its presence was considered one of the explosions in gas-engines. Acetylene is by no means the most pleasant ideas of gasmaking. 3. Oils. After a sketch of the history of the production of paraffin, Professor Frankland referred to the recent wonderful discovery of rock oil in Canada and the United States, the annual production from the Canadian wells alone being 70,000,000 gallons, equal to 140,000 tons, of crude gas. The danger of using these oils, unless properly purified from naphtha, was shown by numerous explosions and conflagrations as low as from 90 deg. to 120 deg. Fahr. Young's paraffin oil has not this dangerous quality. 4. Candles. Of these various specimens were laid on the table, amongst which Japanese candles, with hollow wicks. Professor Frankland also exhibited a double-cylinder gasholder, constructed on the principle devised by himself, which he had used for some time. In this burner the waste heat of the gas flame is made to heat both the air and the gas nearly to redness previous to combustion. Thus, like a hot-blast furnace, the temperature of the flame is greatly increased—a result which is also attained with a concentric or argand burner of light. He stated that, as compared with the common argand burner, this double-cylinder burner will give 30,000,000 more light, with the same amount of gas. He gave as a diagram the comparative cost of the light of twenty spermaceti candles, each burning two hours, at the rate of 120 grains an hour. From wax, 7s. 2½d.; spermaceti, 6s. 8d.; tallow, 2s. 8d.; sperm oil, 1s. 10d.; coal gas, 4½d.; common oil gas, 1s. 8d.; Saxby's oil, 6d.; paraffin oil, 6½d.; rock oil, 7½d. The latter part of the lecture was devoted to the chemical and physiological principles involved in the air which we breathe, and the means by which it is supplied to our houses. We give, however, the "conditions for good and pleasant artificial light." 1. It should contain no sulphuretted hydrogen. 2. It should be the case with electric gas, oil, and candle light. In this, solar light is less perfect than artificial light. All the colours in the solar spectrum are invisible by artificial light. The light should be associated with as little heat as possible. Heated rays do not reach the retina, but are felt by the nerves of the eye. Hence the superiority of daylight to any artificial illumination. W. H. GROVE, Esq., F.R.S., Q.C., commences his course on the 26th inst.

MR. W. S. SAVORY gave his concluding lecture on Saturday last, his subject being the phenomena connected with digestion, which he distinguished into general death and special or molecular death. The latter consists in the transformation of the food into the various tissues of the body, such as digestion, muscular contraction, and the changes which take place in the liver from time after the ingestion of food. Much has taken place. In this respect the more important functions of animal life are suspended or greatly reduced, as in the case of hybernating animals. He also cold-blooded animals, and these with a very simple organization, such as the polype, which can be cut in pieces, each of which will become a perfect animal. In such complex organisms as ours, in consequence of the vast number of the component parts, the maintenance of life depends on the mode of union of the different parts. The nervous system is the chief bond of union, and it is from the great organ termed the "brain of life"—the heart, the last to die, and the first to commence its functions—that vitality is derived. Death is usually occasioned by either the sudden or gradual stoppage of the supply of blood to the nervous centres, or by the blood itself becoming unfit for the purpose. In the late Sir Benjamin Brodie that, in almost all cases, the poles of death of from physical debility, and that the connection between sleep and death—viz., loss of heat, the muscular contraction termed "rigor mortis," and the changes in the blood, and its decomposition. The body is not always going on in life, but is then accompanied by renewal; this ceases after death. The body then undergoes the changes termed decay, or putrefaction, and is resolved into its component elements to be taken up again for the continuation of new organisms. Death is a necessity of life. Our limited space alone prevents us from introducing some of the interesting details which Mr. Savory elucidated in his discourse.

PROFESSOR MARSHALL, in his fifth lecture, on Tuesday, the 17th inst., concluded his description of the Mechanism employed in the Circulation of the Blood, noticing especially the valves of the heart, the nature of the fluid, the muscular contraction and expansion of the auricles and ventricles, its slight rotatory movement, its very peculiar sounds—the first long and soft, due to the action of large valves; the other, sharp and abrupt, due to the closing of the small semilunar valves. The pulse was then explained, and illustrations were given of the rate of blood caused by the elongation and distention of the elastic walls of the arteries, and the very great difference of rate in that distinct from the current flow of the blood. By means of ingeniously-contrived apparatus, these pulsations have been measured in a variety of animals. They are found to increase as the size of the animal diminishes—e.g., the average pulse of a horse is 85 beats in a second; of a man, 72; of a dog, 90; of a rabbit, 220; of a squirrel, 300. Yet it is found that, whatever be the size of an animal, the number of beats required to complete the circulation through the whole body averages 27, and the proportion of the weight of the blood to that of the whole averages one-twelfth. While in health we are perfectly unconscious of the existence of the complicated mechanism employed in the circulation of our blood. This is due to the position of the heart and its relation to the nervous system. The lecture was concluded with an illustrated description of the apparatus of respiration, the windpipe, the bronchial tubes, and the lungs, and the muscular apparatus employed in the expansion of the chest.

On Friday, Feb. 27, John Leslie Mackie, Esq., F.R.S., will lecture on the "Ancient Lake Habitations of Switzerland."

PROGRESS OF THE CHARING-CROSS RAILWAY BRIDGE.—SEE PAGE 211.

THE CLOSE OF THE RESCUE.—SEE PAGE 212.

THE ROCK FOR SALVAGE.—THE RESCUE.—THE RESOLUTE ENTERING THE DOCK AT PORTSMOUTH (DRY).

COLUMN FOR THE CURIOUS.

CURIOSITIES OF FISHMONGERS HALL.

THE halls of our great civic companies are the depositories of many memorials of London's greatness in centuries past; and the hall of the Worshipful Company of Fishmongers, at London Bridge, is very rich in this respect. The company, which the Prince of Wales joined on the 12th instant, is one of the oldest and wealthiest of the twelve great companies, of which it is fourth in rank. Five hundred years ago it was great and flourishing; a portion of its glory waned with the decrease of the importance of the trade in fish, which of old gave name to streets and to Stockfishmongers'-row, extending from Feldale Dock, Blackfriars, to the Tower—this importance being, of course, attributable to the vast consumption of fish in Roman Catholic times. The present company dates from the time of Henry VIII., when it was formed by the junction of the salt and stock fishmongers, but long before that date the fishmongers were united as a brotherhood, "the mystery of the art and the hands of fish with which the Thames then abounded. We have lost the "salmon and other fish," but the fishmongers are still a great and wealthy corporation, well known for the employment of their funds in carrying out the necessities of the less fortunate members of the livery; and every one who has partaken of the hospitalities of the company must be aware how fully they enjoy the higher luxury of doing good.

The hall is the third of the company's halls, having stood on the same site. The first was a Tudor embattled edifice, which was almost entirely destroyed in the Great Fire, when

> "Proud London's pile o'er fire and flame all night
> And frighten'd all the river with a blaze."

The hall was rebuilt, by Jarman, in 1671, with a stately river-front, the entrance being from Thames-street. This hall was taken down in 1831, the company having sold a portion of the land to the City for the new London Bridge approaches, and, having, buy, sold to purchase part of the site of the present hall at the rate of £630,000 per acre! It is a fine specimen of the style upon a handsome scale, the finest situation in the metropolis. The view of the Thames eastward, with its forest of shipping, is very fine, as was specially remarked by the Prince of Wales when he visited the hall, and struck with this scene so suggestive of his country's greatness.

The entrance-hall, with its polished Aberdeen granite columns, is very fine. Upon the staircase is the wooden statue of Sir William Walworth, the fishmonger, who slew Wat Tyler. The statue is by Walpole attributed to Pierce, assistant to Wren. We remember it by the former hall, when it was rudely coloured, and bore in its hand the mortal dagger with which Walworth struck down the rebel. The statue is now tinted to imitate stone, and the dagger it carries is of wood. Above hangs a gilt figure of St. Peter, the patron saint of the company; it was formerly placed at the head of their barge. Here also are whole-length portraits of William III. and his Queen, by Murray; and Queen Anne, by Shackleton. In the magnificent room northward are large portraits of the Marquess of Anapach, who was a member of the company; and opposite is the Marquess of Anapach. The banqueting-hall has Sienna seaglobs Corinthian pilasters, between which are emblazoned the arms of the benefactors and past prime wardens of the company. At one end of the hall are the Royal arms and opposite those of the Fishmongers, in stained glass. On the front of the musicians' gallery are blazoned the arms of the City and twelve great companies; and in the centre are ludicrously placed the elaborately-carved arms of Ireland, removed from the company's barge when their river state was given up. Here also are portraits of the Duke of Kent (ironman of the company), by Beechey, and Queen Victoria, by Herbert Smith, executed by the influence of the late Prince Consort, who was a freeman of the company. The heraldic insignia, finely carved in a Grecian hall, are very striking, especially when the room is lighted up by eight chandeliers.

In the southern entrance is a fine portrait of Earl St. Vincent (the Admiral), and a bust, by Beechey. In the court-room opposite is a splendid silver chandelier, weighing 1330 ounces. This beautiful work has been added to the already rich collection of the plate of the company. It appears that a silver chandelier was first manufactured for the fishmongers, which, through the intervention of one of the workmen, was found to leak! inside the scrollwork of the branches, &c., with copper: this, as the work was charged by weight, was a fraud, of which the manufacturer, the detection—by what one would have examined, then another, and at length the entire chandelier assayed by the Goldsmiths' company) and, eventually, another chandelier of the same design was made entirely of silver in place of the copper-loaded one. It is a very beautiful piece of metal-work of the year 1754.

The curiosities in the court-room are especially interesting as a sort of pictorial museum of the history of the company. In a glass case is the banner of Sir William Walworth; it has lost its guard; the workmanship is of Walworth's period. Similarly encased is the funeral-pall of Walworth, very fine. The sides are worked in silk with the Saviour and Virgin, prayer to St. Peter, and at the ends are the Deity and ministering angels. This pall, or hearse-cloth, is described and figured by Stow, and is probably alluded to in her volume on needlework. Above the pall hangs an original drawing of a portion of the pageant exhibited by the Fishmongers' Company, (Oct. 29, 1616), on the occasion of Sir John Lemon, Fishmonger, entering on the office of Lord Mayor. The groups and objects, grotesque as well as splendid, in this pageant, show our present company's connection as Lord Mayor's show to be but a very frigid and formal business. Beneath this picture hangs a drawing of the wager of battle case, whose "golden glutter" on the fishful river now exists but in memory. Here, too, are eight curious pictures of fish, by Spiridione Roma, skilfully painted on correctly-proportioned panels. Below these, Scott, of Old London Bridge and the Custombouse Quay about a century since, and drawings of the old and present Blackfriars bridges and other Thames bridges, and the accessorial portions are from the bridge. The story of the chair is that told on a silver plate in the back:—

THIS chair was made by J. Ogbourne, 71, Great Titchfield-street, London, from a chair, the property of Mr. Thomas Hollis, of Corscombe, in Dorsetshire; and it was made entirely from the wood and stone taken up from the foundation of the Old London Bridge in July, 1831, having been upwards of 600 years, being put down in June, 1176, by the builder, Peter, a priest, who was Vicar of Colechurch; and the rather curious fact a priest should begin the bridge and, after so long a period, then a parson should clear it entirely away.

Upon the seat of the chair is the following:—

I am part of the first stone that was put down for the foundation of old London Bridge, in June, 1176, by a priest named Peter, vicar of Colechurch, in London; and I remained there undisturbed, safe on the same oak plan that I was laid on, until the Rev. William Jaine, Rector of Corscombe, Dorset, Hampshire, took me up in July, 1831, when clearing away the old bridge, after London Bridge was completed.

These are but a few of the illustrations of the history of the Fishmongers' Company. Too much praise can scarcely be awarded for the care taken of the antiquities as well as the commemorations of the more distinguished members of the company: their heraldic honours shine in every direction. More than fifty members (or eighty, as stated by one of our contemporaries) have served as Lord Mayor. Since tells us of "three fishmongers having been jolly citizens and six Mayors of their company in the space of twenty-two years;" and in our time Sir Matthew Wood and Mr. Cubitt, Fishmongers, each filled the civic chair twice; and the name of the Prince of Wales has just been added to the roll in which are inscribed those of his Royal Highness's grandfather and father. The ceremony at Fishmongers' Hall on this interesting occasion will be found illustrated and described in another page.

ROMAN LONDON IN LEADENHALL-STREET.—Mr. Thomas Wright, F.S.A., has communicated to the British Archæological Association the finding of the floor and walls of a Roman house, in digging up the foundation of the late East India House, the floor lying at a depth of nearly 20ft. below the level of the modern street; and, curiously enough, almost at the same time were found the remains of another Roman house at the same level, 20ft. below the present street of St. Dunstan's-hill. The Leadenhall-street floor was in perfect preservation, and was formed of tesserae of about ¼in. square, black, white, and red, but arranged in no very intelligible pattern. The walls appear to have been painted in bands of red and white, and the stucco and fresco were unbroken. This spot has been fertile in Roman remains: for in 1803, opposite the India House portico, was discovered the most magnificent Roman tesselated pavement yet found in London. It lay at only 11ft. below the street, and appeared to have been the floor of a room 20ft. square. In the centre was a Bacchus upon a leopard, with three borders (inflections of serpents, cornucopiæ, and squares diagonally convex), and drinking-cups and plants at the angles. Surrounding the whole was a square border of a hundred of all sorts of animals, such as lovers' knots, and a 5ft. outer margin of plain red tiles. The pavement was taken up; but the pieces were preserved in the Company's library. A coloured print of this pavement was published.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

I. E., Port Glasgow.—Upon reconsideration, the problem which has reached you from India, and which is so "good an illustration of the subtlety which characterises the Indian mind," proves to be unsound, as you suspected. The "Indian Problem," and what published in the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS of April 7, 1860, are identical.

CRUX.—In our notice to "Un Membre de la Société de Quad," which, strangely enough, you speak of as "a note addressed by that gentleman to ourselves," we distinctly showed that Problem No. 885 could not be solved by 1. B to Q 5, unless can it be solved in the way you suggest. Still, it is possible that the author of it has fourfold one, perhaps, in view and improvise for the 1st.

H. A.—Your problem can be solved in four moves, if White at move 3 play R to Kt 7th (ch).

C. L. W., Edinburgh Chess Club.—Before deciding up in the question in dispute we should like to know if the "Scotch gambit" is considered a recognised opening? Should it prove to be so, we intend to have the move in favour of Evans." If they had so agreed the case, as supposed, would be met by closer play at move 3, Pawn to Q B 4th, followed by Pawn to Q 5th.

F. A. W.—Apply to Mr. Hampton, secretary of the St. George's Chess Club, 29, King-street, St. James's, Westminster.

C. F. V.—They are not to our map.

A. K., Jun.—The problem is sent, though very obvious. The game is under consideration.

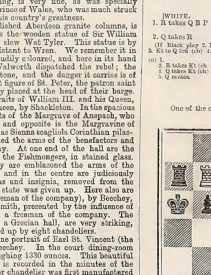
SOLUTION OF PROBLEM No. 890.

WHITE.	BLACK.	WHITE.	BLACK.
1. R takes Q P	1. Kt to B 5th (ch)	and mates next move. If Black play 1. P
(best)		takes Kt, the answer is 2. K to Kt 3rd,
2. Q takes R	2. Kt takes Kt or (a)	if 1. Kt to B 5th, 2. Q to Q 8th, and
(If Black play 2. B takes P, then follow		wins.
3. Q to Q 3rd (ch), 4. Kt to Q 5th, mate.)		3. K to K Kt 8q	Q to Q B 8q
1.	Kt takes B	(If Kt takes B, then 4. Q to R 5th (ch))
2. R takes Kt (ch)	3. to Q 5th (best)	4. Q to Q 3rd (ch), dis. mate.
3. Q takes Kt (ch)	K takes Kt, or B	5. P to K B 4th, or R to Q 4th. Mate.
4. Q to 6th.	takes R.

PROBLEM No. 891.

By MR. GRIMSHAW.

One of the competing Problems in the recent Problem Tourney.



WHITE.

White, playing first, gives mate in four moves.

CHESS IN LONDON.

MR. STAUNTON gives the Pawn and Two Moves to one of the leading English players.

(Remove White's K B Pawn from the Board.)

BLACK (Mr. B.)	WHITE (Mr. S.)	BLACK (Mr. B.)	WHITE (Mr. S.)
1. P to K 4th		15. P to K 6th
2. P to Q 4th	P to K 3rd	(Black plays this part of the game with
3. B to Q 3rd	P to Q B 4th	much ability and spirit).
4. P to Q B 3rd	P to Q 5th	16.	P takes P
(By may also play P takes P perhaps more		17. B (6th) K B P (ch)	K to R sq safely than P to Q 3rd. For example—		18. Kt to B 3rd (ch)	K R to Kt sq
4.	P takes P	19. B to K B 4th	K R to K B sq
5. P takes P	P to K B 3rd	(Discovers in the terse part of valour
6. P to Q B 4th	B to K 2nd	If he had attempted to force the attack by
7. Kt to K B 3rd		19. P to K Kt 4th, 20. P to K Kt 5th, he
(And White has a good opening, considering		must have lost the game, we believe.)
the Pawn.)		20. Q to K 5th
7. P to Q B 4th		(Not only apparently threatening to win the
(How to play to this position is to advance		Pawn, but to win the Rook if Black play
the King's Pawn.)		22.	B to Q 3rd
8. P to K B 4th	Kt to K B 3rd	23. P to Q B 4th	P to Q 3rd
9. P to K 5th	P takes Q P	24. Q to K 3rd	P takes K B P
10. Q B P takes P	B to K 3rd	25. Q to K 4th (ch)	K to Kt sq
11. Q to Q B 2nd		26. P to K Kt 5th	P takes B
(Threatening the following variation—		27. Kt to K 4th
12. P to K Kt 4th	P takes P	(Overlooking the trombust move White
13. P to K Kt 5th	P moved	has at move).
14. B to K 5th (ch), &c.)		27.	Kt to K 4th
	Q Kt to Q 2nd	(This is decisive. It not only renders the
9. P to K B 3rd	B to K B 4th	attack quite useless, but also leaves the
10. P to K B 2nd	B to K Kt 5th	game at the mercy of Black, who can
11. Kt to Q B 3rd	Q to K 2nd	force a draw at least with a winning supe-
12. P to Q 5th	P to K 4th	riority of force.)
13. P to Q Kt 3rd	P to K 5th	28. P takes P	Kt takes B
14. Kt to Q 2nd	P to K Kt 3rd
15. B to K 3rd		(Kt takes Kt (ch) would have been equally (Threatening P to K 5th he could have won		useless, as White, by taking the Kt with by K R Pawn; but he must have lost his		the Pawn, would have obtained a winning
Queen.)		attack.)
15.	Q to Q R 4th	29. Q to K Kt 4th	Kt takes B
(With the hope of being able to force you-		30. K to B 2nd	B to K 4th ward his Q Kt Pawn—a huge Black very		31. Q to K B 4th	Kt to K B P
much in the way.)		32. P to Q 6th	Q to Q sq
16. K to his 2nd	Q to Q B 2nd	33. P to Q 7th	Q to Q 2nd
17. Kt to K B 4th	Q R to Q sq	34. Q R to R 8th	R to Q 4th and White won the game.

Another Game at the same odds between the same Players.

(Remove White's K B Pawn from the Board.)

BLACK (Mr. B.)	WHITE (Mr. S.)	BLACK (Mr. B.)	WHITE (Mr. S.)
1. P to K 4th		20. P to K 6th	P to K Kt 3rd
2. P to Q 4th	P to K 3rd	21. R takes B
3. P to Q 3rd	P to Q 4th	(Premature play. After this White's
4. P to K 5th	P to K Kt 3rd	position is not enviable).
5. P to Q 4th	Kt to Q B 3rd	21.	R takes R
6. P to K R 4th	Q B P takes P	22. Kt to Q 4th (ch)	K to Q sq
7. P to K Kt 3rd	P to K R 4th	23. P to K Kt 4th	R to Q B 4th
8. P to K R 5th	Kt takes Q P	(He might have prolonged the game per-
9. P takes K Kt P	Q to Q B 4th (ch)	haps by playing his King to Kt sq, but the
10. K to B sq	P to K R 3rd	result could have been the same in the end).
11. P to K R 5th	Q takes P	24. P to K Kt 4th	R to Q B 8th (ch)
12. Kt to Q B 3rd	P to Q 4th	(Better possibly to have taken the K Kt
13. P to K 6th	B to Q 2nd	Pawn with Queen, and, when Black had
14. K to Q 2nd	B to K B 3rd	taken Kt with Pawn, to move R to Q 8th
15. R to K B 4th	Kt to K 2nd	(ch), Q to K B 3rd.)
16. P to K B 5th	P to K 5th	25. K to Kt 2nd	Q takes K Kt P
17. B takes Kt	B takes B	26. K to B 2nd	Q to K Kt 3rd
18. Kt to K 4th	B to Q 4th	27. P takes R	Q to K 4th (ch)
(Note good as Kt to Q B 3rd.)		28. Q to K B 4th
		And Black won the game.

NAVAL AND MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.

WAR OFFICE.

Royal Artillery: Major-Gen. W. Wylde, C.B., to be Colonel Commandant; Lieut.-Cols. C. Bingham and H. S. Rowan, to be Colonels; Capts. J. L. Goldie and G. V. Fermor, to be Lieutenant-Colonels; Second Capts. H. Heberden, T. C. Mackay, H. L. Heffner, and G. H. Wilkinson, to be Captains; Lieut. W. H. Wendell, W. R. Read, and J. S. Richardson to be Second Captains; Cadets G. W. Bramley, A. Campbell, C. Compernolle, W. V. Legge, W. T. Goodenough, R. Beadnell, M. R. Hayes, F. Roberts, and H. Hutchinson, to be Lieutenants. Brevet-Major J. C. Ingles, to be Paymaster. Surgeon J. Gibbon to be Surgeon-Major.

Royal Engineers: Supernumerary Lieut.-Col. E. F. W. Henderson to be Lieutenant-Colonel. Capts. J. Fowler, C. H. Mackinlay, and Lieut. Frederick Gallwey Temple, R. E., to be Captains. Lieuts. W. H. Lee, W. Jones, A. B. Bellairs, F. H. Parkes, T. Graves, R. J. Allanson, D. O'Brien, C. B. Carey, W. H. Cotton, H. C. Sankey, C. E. Nicholson, C. E. D. Mockenzie, J. G. Hall, A. A. W. Hogge, H. Raynsford, and R. C. Mortimer-Rose, to be Lieutenants with temporary rank.

Royal Marines: Lieut. Thomas Hall to be Paymaster.

4th Dragoon Guards: Lieut. Hon. H. Cavendish to be Cornet.

5th Lancers: A. Loring to be Lieutenant.

7th Hussars: Lieut. Hon. Arthur Lee, Major B. T. Russell to be Captain; Cornet P. S. Russell to be Cornet.

8th Hussars: Lieut.-Col. Lee, Major R. T. Stewart to be Captain; 1 Sir J. Macleod to be Major; Cornet Hon. C. Bruce to be Lieutenant-Colonel; Lieut. A. W. D. Saunders to be Captain; Ensign J. R. Blair to be Lieutenant; Cornet Hon. C. Bruce to be Lieutenant. 13th: Capt. E. C. Gilbert to be Major; Lieut. Hon. Arthur Lee to be Captain; Cornet and Lieut. A. G. Wright to be Lieutenant. 14th: Lieut. R. Dennis to be Lieutenant. 17th: Lieut. R. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Hillyard and Cornet H. Nicholls to be Lieutenants. 18th: Lieut. R. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Hillyard and Cornet H. Nicholls to be Lieutenants. 19th: Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Captain; Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Lieutenant. 20th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. C. E. Cooper to be Lieutenant. 21st: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 23rd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. C. Trevelle de la Touche to be Ensign. 24th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Hillyard to be Lieutenant. Lieut. J. S. Kemp to be Lieutenant. M. M. Ridsdale to be Ensign. 34th: Capt. H. E. Cooper to be Captain; Lieut. C. E. Cooper to be Captain; Ensign J. R. Blair to be Lieutenant. 35th: Capt. and Lieut. R. Dennis to be Captain and Lieutenant. 37th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 38th: Capt. H. Gratton to be Captain. 41st: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 42nd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 43rd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 44th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 46th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 47th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 48th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 49th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 50th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 51st: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 52nd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 53rd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 54th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 55th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 56th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 57th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 58th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 59th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 60th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 61st: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 62nd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 63rd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 64th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 65th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 66th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 67th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 68th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 69th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 70th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 71st: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 72nd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 73rd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 74th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 75th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 76th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 77th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 78th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 79th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 80th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 81st: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 82nd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 83rd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 84th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 85th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 86th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 87th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 88th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 89th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 90th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 91st: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 92nd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 93rd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 94th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 95th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 96th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 97th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 98th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 99th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 100th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 101st: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 102nd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 103rd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 104th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 105th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 106th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 107th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 108th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 109th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 110th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 111th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 112th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 113th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 114th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 115th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 116th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 117th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 118th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 119th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 120th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 121st: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 122nd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 123rd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 124th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 125th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 126th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 127th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 128th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 129th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 130th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 131st: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 132nd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 133rd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 134th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 135th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 136th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 137th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 138th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 139th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 140th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 141st: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 142nd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 143rd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 144th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 145th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 146th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 147th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 148th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 149th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 150th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 151st: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 152nd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 153rd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 154th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 155th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 156th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 157th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 158th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 159th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 160th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 161st: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 162nd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 163rd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 164th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 165th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 166th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 167th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 168th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 169th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 170th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 171st: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 172nd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 173rd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 174th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 175th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 176th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 177th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 178th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 179th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 180th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 181st: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 182nd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 183rd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 184th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 185th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 186th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 187th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 188th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 189th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 190th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 191st: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 192nd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 193rd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 194th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 195th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 196th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 197th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 198th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 199th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 200th: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 201st: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 202nd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. R. C. Money to be Lieutenant. 203rd: Lieut. and Adjt. H. Hall to be Captain; Lieut. W. Tweedy to be Lieutenant. 204 level of the diagonal ends to form a shelf on which will rest the lower edges of the lower tier of armour-plates. The lowest part of this longitudinal planking is 14ft. 10in. from the point to which the ship was originally cut down. The ship was cut with a sheer forward and aft, which Captain Coles afterwards disapproved. The result was that the ship's topsides were filled in and raised, the greatest extent being sashlights, where it was about 18in. Standing upon the upper-deck beams of the vessel, their form at once attracted attention. Sloping downwards from the centre in all directions to allow of the required depression of the guns in the turrets, the appearance of the Royal Sovereign's upper-deck, when complete, will be as nearly as possible like the under part of a butcher's tray, thus forming the glacis of the gun recess or turrets. The upper deck of the ship is being carried out in the most substantial manner. The Royal Sovereign as a turret-ship, will, without doubt, be very different from the American turret-vessels; and, when completed and fitted for sea service, there is no earthly reason, as stated, why she should not be able to go far to sea as her scale will carry her.

THE VOLUNTEER MOVEMENT.

The annual general meeting of the National Rifle Association, which was announced for Saturday, the 24th instant, has been postponed to Wednesday, the 4th of March, under the Presidentship of the Duke of Cambridge.

The volunteers generally having expressed a desire to be permitted to assemble under arms during the progress of Her Majesty's funeral procession from Windsor to the Mausoleum, we are authorised to state that her Majesty has acceded to their wish, and directs that the corps authorised to be present on the occasion shall be drawn up in Hyde Park, on the occupation of the corps belonging to the city of London, which will be placed at such distance on each side of the route as the Lord Lieutenant may deem fit, with the sanction of the Secretary of State, direct.

The Lord Lieutenant of Kent has reconsidered his decision, declining to accept the offer of a battalion of volunteers to act as a guard of honour to Her Majesty's daughter on her journey at Gravesend, and has now refused via that there was a rule which prevented volunteers from doing such duty, but it is only announced that his Lordship has intimated that there would be no objection to the attendance of the battalion on the occasion."

The adjournment meeting of metropolitan volunteer commanding officers took place on Tuesday at the Horse Guards, Whitehall, Sir James Lawrence, for the purpose of hearing the arrangements to be made with respect to the display of volunteers on the occasion of the marriage of the Prince of Wales and Princess Alexandra, and to decide as to the site for the great Easter Monday volunteer review. The Duke of Cambridge presided, and in particular into the most eligible spot for holding the proposed field-day on Easter Monday was considered. It was in the following manner:—Colonel Gamble, assistant-adjutant-general for the district, moved that Epsom is not large enough for extensive manœuvres; that Blackheath is not available this year on account of the Great Exhibition; that, in the face of the strong opinion of the London and Brighton Railway Company, the committee cannot recommend the division of the forces by sending part to Lewes and part to Brighton on the ground; and therefore recommended for review the ground on which the Easter Monday review be held again at Brighton. This report was adopted unanimously. The volunteer field-day review will, therefore, take place, as last year, on Brighton Downs. An official reply was then read from the War Office, stating that the desire of the Government that the volunteers should be massed in Hyde Park on the occasion of the passage of the Princess of Wales to Windsor could not be acceded to, and why not.

The volunteer season, as regards the metropolis, began on Saturday last. A field-day, in which the Inns of Court, the London and Westminster Rifle, and other corps were invited to participate, took place on that day. At three o'clock there was a field-day parade of the Inns of Court and London Rifle Brigade and of the 1st Surrey in Guildhall-yard, and at four o'clock the corps marched to the open ground at London Bridge, where manœuvres, under the direction of Colonel Gamble, assistant-adjutant-general, took place. From the point the march was continued to Greenwich, where the corps were joined by other volunteers under command of Lieutenant-Colonels Ward and Macdonald. The Queen's (Westminster) Rifle Volunteers, 900 and upwards, mustered in Westminster Hall, and, under command of Earl Grosvenor and Lieutenant-Colonel Cotton, marched to Greenwich, headed by a full band, and returned westward. The 20th (North Middlesex) marched out from Albany Barracks, to the number of 400, in which the Enfield Rifle Association detachment; Lieut.-Colonel Whitehead was in command, and Major Peters, and nearly all the officers present. A review by the Lord Lieutenant of London, preceded by a sham drill in the quadrangle of Somerset House, whilst there was also a commanding officer's parade and sham-drill for the 20th Middlesex in the yard of the Albany Barracks. The 8th Middlesex (Sir J. Shelley's) corps also met, as did the London Irish, at Westminster Hall, and marched to Greenwich and back. Many other metropolitan corps also met on Saturday for marches out or battalion-drill.

On Monday week the seventh company of Birmingham Volunteers were entertained at dinner at the Royal Hotel, Birmingham, by their Captain, Charles Mansell, Esq.

OBITUARY OF EMINENT PERSONS.

SIR ORD HONYMAN, BART.

Sir Ord Honyman, third Baronet, of Armadale, N.B., a Colonel in the Army, and formerly Major in the Grenadier Guards, who died at Nice, on the 17th ult., left his wife, Mary, eldest daughter of the Right Hon. Robert M'Queen, Lord Braxfield, Lord Chief Justice Clerk of Scotland (a Baronet), and the son of Sir William Honyman, Lord Armadale, a Lord of Session and Justiciary, who was created a Baronet in 1804. Sir Ord Honyman was born March 25, 1794, and served for some time in the Grenadier Guards, succeeding as third Baronet on the death, without male issue, of his brother, Sir Richard Temple Johnstone Honyman, Feb. 23, 1844. A romantic marriage with Elizabeth Campbell formed the subject of a cause célèbre in Scotland. Sir Ord Honyman married, on March 27, 1818, Elizabeth Dundas, daughter of Admiral George Bowen, R.N., of Colzie Hall, Sidlop, by whom he became connected with a number of the Scottish clans, and was cousin to Sir George Essex Honyman, the fourth Baronet, who was born in 1819, and is a barrister-at-law.

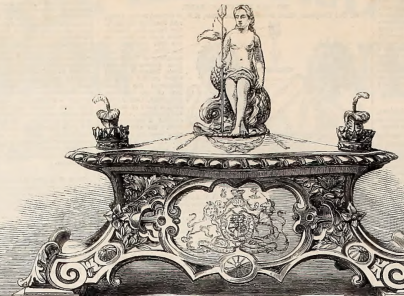
SIR ANDREW ARMSTRONG, BART.

Sir Andw Armstrong, Bart., of Gallen Priory, King's county, who died on the 27th ult. at Chester, was the eldest son of the late Sir Edmund Armstrong, Esq., of Gallen, by his wife, Elizabeth, eldest daughter of the Rev. Andrew Nelson. He was born Oct. 19, 1797. He was High Sheriff of King's county in 1815, and in 1836, and was Receiver-General of Stamps from the 1st Jan., 1838, to the 5th of the King's county from 1841 to 1852. He was created a Baronet on the 29th of May, 1841. He married, Jan. 1, 1835, Frances, daughter of George Nelson Hamilton, Esq., of Tullylost, King's county, and Sullivan, county of Antrim, by whom he has issue two sons and three daughters. He is succeeded by his eldest son, now Sir Edmund Nelson Armstrong, Bart., who was born on the 3rd of Nov. 1836. This family, which settled in Ireland in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, derived from Lynch, a branch of the ancient clan of Armstrongs, Sir Andrew being the eleventh in descent from Lord of the Cree, the Laird of Mangerton, eldest brother of Johnny Armstrong, so celebrated in border song. Sir Andrew's mother, Mrs. Pigott, maternal great-grandfather of Sir Andrew, is said to have been the original of "Lever de Couvrir."

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL MANSEL, C.B.

Lieutenant-Colonel John Mansel, C.B., who died on the 29th ult., in the eighty-seventh year of his age, was the eldest son of Dorothée, was the fourth son of the late Sir W. Manse, 11th, 12th, and 13th Baronet, and brother of the late Sir J. W. Mansel, the present Baronet. He married, in 1811, Jane, eldest daughter of the late Rev. Thomas Combe Honor, Dorset, Esq., by whom he had five sons and three daughters. His wife died in 1851. Their eldest son, Emma, wife of Charles R. Hoare, Esq., survive him. Colonel Mansel entered the Army as an ensign in the 52nd Regiment. He embarked in 1795 for the West Indies, and sailed in the fleet which conveyed Sir Ralph Abercrombie. He was present in the attack on Morne Chabot; at the capture of Martinique, and at the siege of Morne Fortune. He was also present at the capture of St. Vincent; at the capture of Trinidad, and at the siege of Morro Castle, the island of Porto Rico. In 1806 he was promoted to a majority without purchase. In 1811, he joined the 1st battalion 52nd Regiment in Bengal. In 1809-10, in consequence of disturbances which appeared likely to arise in Java, the expedition under Colonel Martindell (Bengal Army).

the thirteen which annually pass through it towards the group of stations beyond London Bridge. There is also to be a distinct entrance for the traffic which comes along the line that is more purely metropolitan from Cannon-street. This is a branch line from the Charing-cross extension, ending the river near Southwark and ending near the Mansion House; it will run on a single line of way, and the tracks of each train from point to point, without stopping, will occupy only five minutes, one train being shifted on to the line on the arrival of the other. At the terminus of the Charing-cross extension at the Strand a large hotel is to be built. At present the railway-bridge does not show signs of immediate completion; for, though the columns and girders are almost all in their places, the roadway has not yet been commenced. The approaches on the south side are going on rapidly, but many of the arches are not yet finished. Amongst other recommendations to the company to which it belongs, this bridge has that of economy in its construction. The suspension-bridges was purchased as a structure for £40,000, and a composition for the tolls was accepted at £120,000. The tolls and steam-boat dues still remain as a source of revenue to the company; while the chains, &c., of the suspension-bridge have been sold, for the purpose of constructing a similar one at Clifton, for £5000; and nearly £8000 has been paid by adapting the brick piers to the use of the new structure. Something like £10,000 out of the £40,000 paid will be reimbursed to the company; while a good annual rental will be obtained from letting the arches beneath the station. The total cost of the new bridge will be only £160,000.



GOLD CASKET CONTAINING THE FREEDOM OF THE FISHMONGERS' COMPANY PRESENTED TO THE PRINCE OF WALES.
SEE PAGE 197.

ARRIVAL OF THE GEORGE GRISWOLD AT LIVERPOOL.

In our last Number was announced the arrival at Liverpool, on the 9th inst., the George Griswold, freighted with provisions from New York for the distressed Lancashire operatives—the freewill offerings of a people suffering the hardships and horrors of a civil war, the like of which for magnitude the world has never seen. It is now our pleasant duty to give a representation of the arrival in the Mersey of the George Griswold from a sketch by Mr. William Woods, of Everton, Liverpool.

The cargo of this ship consists of 200 boxes of bacon, 50 barrels of pork, 500 bushels of corn, 500 barrels and boxes of bread, a quantity of rice, and 13,236 barrels of flour. The contributions on board from the New York Produce Exchange are 1500 barrels of flour, 500 barrels of corn, and 50 barrels of pork.

Before the vessel left New York a meeting was held on board, when the treasurers of the executive committee reported the amount contributed to be over 108,000 dols.; there were, however, two other organisations not reported. The sum in hand amounted to 30,000 dols. in cash, a sum sufficient to inaugurate another similar movement; and it was stated that the sum received by the Corn Exchange committee had amounted to 20,000 dols.

The George Griswold, which is under the command of Captain G. Lunt, left New York on the 15th of January, and after an average run across the Atlantic was on the morning of Monday week telegraphed off Port Lynas, sailing for Liverpool with a fair wind. The circumstances under which this liberal contribution to the relief fund which she carried had been made interested her arrival with some interest, and, as soon as the telegraph was published and became generally known, many persons went down to the river to make inquiries as to the probable time of her arrival. Shortly after receiving the telegraphic announcement, the New Steam Tug Company dispatched their powerful boat Resolute gratuitously to assist the ship into port. The Resolute fell in with the ship about four o'clock, near the bar, and immediately took her in tow; but they did not reach the anchorage in the river until nearly three hours after high tide. The George Griswold had the American and English flags flying, and the steam-tug was also gaily decorated for the occasion. On reaching the Rock Fort she was welcomed with the customary salute by lowering a flag, which was duly acknowledged, and shortly after entering the river a salute of eighteen guns was fired from the North Battery. She reached the anchorage off Seacombe about 5.30 p.m. Her coming was cordially greeted by a great concourse of people.

The benevolent work on which the George Griswold has been employed on her first voyage having invested the ship with some interest, the following particulars may be gratifying to our readers:—She is a smart, handsome clipper-ship, and has such buoyancy that though by carpenters' measurement she does not exceed 1260 tons she will probably carry 1500 tons. She was built at Quincey, Massachusetts, by Deacon Thomas, who has a high reputation as a shipbuilder. The entire frame of the vessel is of oak, with top timbers and stanchions of locust-wood, and she is copper-bolted throughout. Her length is 200ft., breadth of beam 39ft., depth of hold 24ft., and she has two decks; she is provided with double topsail-yards, all handsomely proportioned, and is said to be a good sailer. In consequence of the scarcity and high price of cotton, the heavy duck made of that material into sails has been substituted by Scotch hemp, which is said to be much softer and more durable, but does not hold the wind so well as the old material. Amidships an enormous tank, capable of containing 5000 gallons of water, is constructed, reaching from keelson to upper-deck. With this exception the ship has a clear hold, and between decks from stem to stern. The ample cabin and other houses are upon the upper-deck. The George Griswold is a smart specimen of naval architecture, and will be found very capacious as a merchantman.

Every duty or charge has been remitted in connection with this vessel on both sides of the Atlantic; and the captain and all the officers gave their services gratuitously.

The Liverpool Chamber of Commerce on Monday presented an address to the officers of the George Griswold. The presentation took place at St. George's Hall, before a crowded and enthusiastic audience. The Central Relief Committee purpose to offer a similar compliment to Captain Lunt and his officers.

THE GARRISON CHAPEL AT WOOLWICH.

THE GARRISON CHAPEL, WOOLWICH.

ONE of the last acts of the late Lord Herbert's official life was to give his sanction to the execution of the design which had been prepared for the Garrison Chapel, Woolwich, by the well-known architects Messrs. Thomas, Henry, and Digby Wyatt, who, it may be remembered, had recommended themselves to the authorities of the War Department by obtaining the first premium for the construction of cavalry barracks at the great competition invited by Government in the year 1855. The structure is of very large dimensions, and is sufficiently wide and lofty to afford the proper cubical amount of air to 1500 of officers and men forming the garrison at Woolwich, who may habitually attend Divine worship. It is situated at the east end of the great esplanade in front of the Artillery Barracks, and will form a great ornament to the not unpicturesque Common. It is now on the eve of completion, having been erected with great dispatch by Messrs. G. Smith and Co., of Pimlico, and Southstreet, Grosvenor-square. The cost, which will be a trifle under £14,000, is moderate, taking into account the fact that all the materials are solid and real, and used without any apparent stint. Both externally and internally the walls are finished in brick-work without plastering; and the effect of the warm red of the internal walls is peculiarly agreeable. The style is an adaptation of the general features of Lombard architecture to the materials and technical processes in use in the nineteenth century; and in many features more particularly in the artistic combination of the forms and proportions due to cast iron with those proper to other materials, such as brick and stone, a good deal of skill has been displayed by the architects, who, as well as the War Department, are to be congratulated upon the creation of about the first decent chapel provided for soldiers' use in this country.

The officers of the garrison have taken great interest in this building, and have subscribed with much liberality to fill all the windows of the east end with stained glass of the highest character, the painting of which has been intrusted by the architects to Messrs. Lavers and Barraud. The chapel will also contain a memorial window to the late Lord Herbert, given by Lady Herbert of Lea.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1863.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

Nos. 1190, 1191.—VOL. XLII. SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1863. WITH SUPPLEMENT AND TWO COLOURED ENGRAVINGS } TENPENCE

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

In proposing to the House of Commons a dotation for the Heir Apparent of the Crown of these realms, the Prime Minister took occasion to draw a contrast between the condition of this country under a constitutional monarchy and that of the rest of the world. If the terms in which the comparison was couched were somewhat sweeping, there can be no doubt about the basis of facts on which it was founded. By a curious want of coincidence, the people of England are preparing to make special holiday to celebrate an event which is significant of the perpetuation of a line of Monarchs whom we accept on trust for the future to reign over us; while in at least four of the other communities of the earth there is revolt against constituted authorities, whether they bear the title of Emperor, King, or President. When, a short while ago, a complete though bloodless revolution in Greece changed a dynasty and reintegrated the waning liberties of her people, we ventured to suggest that, if but comparatively a small affair, it might yet prove the beginning of great ends. Some justification of that prediction was shortly found in the attitude which the Sovereign and people of Prussia assumed towards each other; and next came the outbreak against Russian domination in Poland, which has risen from a local insurrection into a national rebellion. Beyond this, the revolt in the Russo-Polish provinces has leaped into a question of European importance, and threatens to produce international complications, while already we hear muttered that ominous phrase which implies a rearrangement of the map of the Continent.

It is quite clear that neither France nor England is at this moment indifferent to the cause of Poland; and something more than rumour has assigned to Austria an intention of showing sympathy with the Poles, which with her is a convertible term for seizing an opportunity of a fling at Prussia. It now begins to be discovered that for some fourteen years everything has been tending towards an outbreak in Poland.

FIRST DISPATCH OF MAIL-BAGS THROUGH THE PNEUMATIC TUBE FROM THE DISTRICT OFFICE IN EVERSHOLT-STREET TO EUSTON STATION.—SEE PAGE 217.

From the time of the revolution which swept through Europe in 1848 the hopes of the Poles for the restoration of their nationality have never wavered, and there have been signs and symptoms, in the last twelve months especially, of the fact that the Polish question had entered a new phase, that matters were once more coming to a crisis, and that the issue between St. Petersburg and Warsaw would demand a solution. It may be starting an heretical, or rather a cynical, opinion to say that the very policy of the Emperor of Russia towards his Polish provinces, which professed to be conciliatory, was founded on ideas of the assertion of Polish nationality. In his dominions proper Alexander is deemed to be more of a weak Czar than a reforming and liberty-giving Monarch; and it is believed that his concessions to popular rights are the result more of a desire to consult his own ease than of high and abstract principles of social and political justice. While all the world accepts his act of emancipation of the serfs in Russia, there are not wanting those, both within and without his dominions, who doubt whether he is exactly the man to have inaugurated such a radical change, and whether he is capable of guiding the new system to its legitimate completion. It has been so obviously to the interest of Russia that at a time when there was a vast social revolution going on within her special territory she should not have disaffection and hostility on her European frontier provinces that the concessions granted and the promises made by the Emperor to the Poles were naturally deemed to have been rather wrung from weakness than dictated by kind and just feelings; and when, therefore, the Czar offered constitutional government as an end the Poles sought it only as a means—the Emperor promised to grant them a form of government, and the people sought for actual independence. Assuming, however, the sincerity of the Emperor, and his belief in the abstract rectitude of his policy towards Poland, the judicial blindness to use the mildest term, of the instruments he selected to carry out his intentions has been remarkable. Without an adequate supply of the ordinary means of sustaining despotic power, the viceregents of the Czar in Poland have acted with a severity, a cruelty, and a folly which rendered an outbreak inevitable. Having begun by despising the strength of those whom they were doing their best, or worst, to erect into active enemies, they have stirred up and aroused an armed insurrection against which the discipline and numbers of the Russian troops have hitherto proved of little avail.

It was just possible that the revolt might have been confined within what may be called local limits—that is, Russia might have been suffered to deal with the insurgents in the usual manner without external interference; but the conduct of the King of Prussia has at once made the question European. Prompted, doubtless, by that natural sympathy which he has to belong to those over whom he rules, and by the fear that the Monarch has adopted a policy which has the negative merit of eliciting the unanimous disapprobation of the Powers of Europe who are spectators at present of events in which it is quite possible they may be called on to participate.

By entering into a convention with Russia, which is nothing less than an alliance defensive and offensive, against the Poles, Prussia—we use the word without reference to the people—supposes that she has established a solidarity against insurgents, actual or eventual; whereas the fact is that she has created a solidarity between the other three great Powers against Russia and herself. France has spoken out, and the sympathy of the Emperor with the Poles is, it is said, about to be evinced by diplomatic action; in England the voice of Parliament has been heard in loud condemnation of this unholy alliance; and Austria, whatever may be her motive, is believed to be in accord with the sentiments of England and France. The moment is favourable for diplomatic pressure in reference to the fortunes of Poland. It is hardly to be conceived that Russia is in a position to wage war—even for the retention of her Polish provinces; and as to Prussia, the accession of the King and the people is just now so complete that if the former should attempt belligerent proceedings it is not difficult to foresee the consequences to himself personally. If this misguided man should so act as to tempt the march of a French army on the Rhine, we would not guarantee his crown to him for an hour; and it would, we believe, be taken from him by the hands of his own people, who would thus choose between such a loss as he would be to them and the dangers of foreign aggression which his conduct will have brought upon them. In short, it seems that there must be either a Revolution in the immediate restoration of the kingdom of Poland. Fo ourselves, we hold that the object will be gained without a resort to arms, and this for reasons which might easily be shown to be nearly conclusive, but into which it is not necessary to our argument now to enter.

In taking a glance at foreign affairs one cannot, of course, fail to let it fall on the struggle which is going on in America. There is much that betokens the approach of a crisis in the affairs of the contending parties. It is stated on good authority that the population of the Southern States, which is about to be again heard, and that it will cry aloud for at least an armistice. That would be, indeed, a great gain; and we believe, that, if once there was an actual cessation of warfare, it would be perpetual. One thing seems to be forgiving, at least, to the liberties of a century—that, unless steps are taken to preserve by some means or the other the Union, there will in a brief period be not only two Republics, North and South, but three, and it may be four. The States of the West have indicated something like a desire for creating a nationality for themselves; and, when this second split comes, who shall say of how many more it may not be the precursor? At any rate, the political prophets are almost unanimous in their assertion that ere long we shall see the beginning of the end of the Civil War in America.

At all this turmoil abroad England looks on from a calm and self-sustained eminence ready to give her moral influence, and, if necessary, her material aid, to the cause of liberty and progress all over the world, while her internal condition is such that with one voice her people may rejoice to be able to say, "It is good, very good, for us to be here!"

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

FRANCE.

In Paris the Polish question has, since Prussian intervention, assumed a graver aspect, and the notion that a European war may arise from it is gaining ground. The Constitutionnel says, "The union raised by Europe against the conduct of Prussia is as yet only a warning—the Prussian Government can hardly desire that it should become a reality." In an article apparently written the semi-official journal seeks to allay the excitement caused by the thought of a European war: "The junction of England, France, and Austria," it states, "is the surest guarantee of peace." The Government has expressed to the Court of Berlin its strong disapproval of its intervention in the matter. It has communicated on the subject with England, and, it is stated, with Austria. A petition, bearing more than 2000 signatures in favour of Poland, was presented to the Senate on Tuesday by M. St. Marc Girardin. Almost all the three journals contain articles recommending or less strongly the Polish cause, and subscriptions for the benefit of wounded Poles have been publicly opened in Paris.

The reception of M. de Broglie at the French Academy took place on Thursday. M. St. Marc Girardin pronounced the speech in answer to that of his colleague.

M. Jules Simon, author of "Liberty of Conscience" and other works, has just been elected a member of the Academy of Social and Political Sciences at the Institute.

On Monday the English Choral Society of Paris gave a concert, under the patronage of Lord Cowley, consisting of English compositions, glees, madrigals, &c., at Erard's Rooms, on behalf of the Lancashire operatives.

PRUSSIA.

There is a rumour in Berlin that Count Bismarck has resigned.

The Minister has refused to treat the Liberal Opposition with contempt. At the meeting, yesterday week, of the Committee of the Chamber on the Address, when some of the Ministerial Royal Commissioners were present—a circumstance which the committee resolved should be entered on the minutes of the meeting. The proposition of the Liberal majority, declining any intervention on the part of Russia, was agreed to almost unanimously—the members only voting against it being the Conservative Chief of the opposition party unanimity prevailed.

The police of Berlin have seized 300 hand-grenades found in the possession of Poles. The latter will be prosecuted.

The German inhabitants of Posen have published a declaration protesting against the intervention in favour of Russia as prejudicial to the province of Posen.

The Times of Wednesday morning speaks of the disgust occasioned by the convention with Russia. He says it was thrust upon the Czar and that King William kept it at first from his Ministers.

The Upper House of Prussia, on the 18th a bill declaring the Ministers strictly responsible for the expenses which they have unconstitutionally incurred was rejected by 274 votes to 43.

RUSSIAN POLAND.

The insurrection in Poland gains ground, and the organisation of the Poles is becoming more complete. According, according to Russian and Prussian telegrams, the guerrilla bands are oft defeated and dispersed, they reappear where least expected and inflict great injury. Concentrated attack, upon which Russia relies, against Government is baffled and bewildered by tactics which wear out their troops and paralyse their movements. Russia has gained victories in dense columns, on which every shot tells, whilst the Poles, scattered in loose order, are hard to hit. Hence Russia's victories against them in the open, except at very short distances. Lastly, the Cossacks, admirable horsemen as they are, can hardly be expected to charge the Polish lancers, who, with one thrust of their murderous weapon, disable both horse and horseman.

The latest telegrams received states that an engagement between the Poles and the Russians, lasting upwards of eight hours, has taken place near Kielce. The Russians were put to flight, and took refuge upon Prussian territory.

DENMARK.

According to arrangement, Princess Alexandra was to leave Copenhagen, on her way to England, on Thursday. Particulars of her Royal Highness's outfit are given in our Court News.

The king arrived at Copenhagen on Tuesday from Frederiksborg, where his Majesty is at present residing, in order to present Princess Alexandra with the Danish decorations of the Order of the Elephant, ordered to be prepared. The present consists of a diamond necklace, to which is attached a portrait of the late Queen Dagmar encased. After the whole of the forenoon the Princess received deputations bringing wedding gifts to her Royal Highness. Princess Alexandra has allotted to each of the deputations apportioned as dowry among six brides belonging to the poorer classes.

GREECE.

The Provisional Government of Greece has been overturned by a kind of bloodless revolution; and henceforth the country will, it seems, be governed by an elective Monarchy. A National Assembly until a King shall have assumed the crown. The Assembly elected the Ministry on Tuesday. Vallis is President; Smolenaki, Minister of War; and Daniel Mavrocordato, Minister for Foreign Affairs.

TURKEY.

Ismail Pacha, the new Viceroy of Egypt, has arrived at Constantinople to pay homage to the Sultan. The firman confirming his accession to the throne has been sent at the Porte.

An Imperial hatt has been published announcing that the Sultan will, in consequence of the financial embarrassments caused for the civil list, ordering the reduction of official salaries and the dismissal of all superfluous employés.

Salvet Effendi has been appointed Presi dent of the Council.

AMERICA.

By the arrival of the Hansa at Southampton we have New York papers to the 14th inst.

WAR NEWS.

From the army of the Potomac we hear that General Burnside is to succeed General Hooker, and will proceed to Suffolk by way of Fortress Monroe.

General Banks's expedition was disembarking at Helens Island, off the coast of South Carolina.

Rumours are rife of disputes between Generals Foster and Hunter, the General in command of the department. General Foster had returned to Washington for further instructions.

The Confederate Navy Department has appointed Commanders Ingraham and Tucker, make no mention of the raising of the blockade.

The British Consul at Charleston, Mr. Bunce, left that city for Havana on board her Majesty's ship Orlando.

General Hunter had informed the Confederate authorities of Georgia that they should hold all persons in close confinement and answerable with their lives for the safety of the Federal officers captured by the Confederates until President David's proclamation was withdrawn.

The Federal ram Queen of the West ran the gauntlet of the Confederate batteries on the Mississippi, twelve miles above Helena, at Yazoo Pass, and at two other places. These object is to lay the surrounding region under water, so as to allow their gunboats to get to the rear of Vicksburg.

An Illinois regiment, attached to General Grant's army, had been placed under arrest for refusing to fight under the emancipation proclamation.

WASHINGTON.

Mr. Seward has replied to M. Drouyn de Lhuys' note suggesting a conference between the Federals and Confederates. The reply is firm and temperate in declining the proposal. Its spirit may be gathered from the following paragraph:—

On the other hand, the President already intimated, this Government has not the least thought of relinquishing the trust which has been confided to it by the nation under the most solemn form of all political acts, and if it has any such thought, it would have still abundant reason to know that it is opposed as the act of dissolution, would be immediately, universally, and indignantly rejected by the American people. It is a great mistake that Europeans sometimes make if they suppose that any party can be raised. Whatever, in case of an insurrection, the people of France, or Great Britain, or Switzerland, or of the Netherlands, would do to save that national existence, no matter how the strife might be regarded by or affect foreign nations, just so much and precisely no less, the people of the United States will do, if necessary, to save for the common benefit the region which is bounded by the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans, and by the British line, and the St. Lawrence and Mexico, together with the free and common navigation of the Rio Grande, the Mississippi, the Missouri, the Ohio, the Red River, Arkansas, Delaware, Potomac, and other national highways by which this land, which to them is at once a land of inheritance and a land of promise, is opened and watered.

A despatch of M. Mercier, the French Minister at Washington, in which he informed M. Thouvenel that his visit to Richmond was fully acquiesced in, and even encouraged, by Mr. Seward, having been published in the French Courrier de Paris, the United States Senate passed a resolution requesting the President to inform them as to what had passed between M. Mercier and Mr. Seward. This resolution has drawn forth a categorical reply from Mr. Seward, which declares that he at all encouraged M. Mercier to visit Richmond.

The Senate has also passed resolutions asking the President for any information of which he may be in possession relative to the employment of negroes in the French Army. The Senate has also passed the bill for compensating Missouri for her slaves in the event of her emancipating them, and a bill taxing the bank circulation 1 per cent for two years and 2 per cent thereafter.

A deputation of the leading publishers and journalists was at Washington, endeavouring to procure a total repeal of the duties on paper, which now amounts to 35 per cent on the value, which, during the present high rate of exchange on Europe, is a prohibitory tax.

A bill to enlarge the Erie Canal and 37 of New York canals has been debated n the House of Representatives.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The movements in indirect opposition to the war continue. The Illinois Legislature, by a vote of 62 against 28, have passed peace and conferees or resolutions. The Republican Governor of Pennsylvania has sent a message to the State Legislature announcing martial military arrests. Mr. Horace Greeley, the editor of the New York Tribune, an emancipationist journal, declares in favour of separate peaceful peoples for peace if, at the end of another three months, the "rebellion" is not then in full retreat.

The Illinois Legislature, exasperated by the defeat of the Canal Enlargement Bill in Congress, have resolved to direct the Governor to appoint commissioners to visit the Canadian Parliament to solicit concurrence for the improvement of the means of transportation to the Atlantic, by way of the St. Lawrence Canals.

General Fremont has applied to be employed upon active service.

Nicholas Longworth, the celebrated Ohio manufacturer of native wines—particularly Catawba—died at Cincinnati on the 10th inst., in the eighty-first year of his age.

New York has been excited by the marriage, at a fashionable church in Broadway, of "General Tom Thumb," twenty-five years of age, 31 in. high, weighing 15lb., to Lavinia Warren, a native of Massachusetts, twenty-one years of age and 32 in. high. The bridegroom was a still more diminutive specimen of humanity, 29 in. high, weighing 20lb., and twenty-three years of age. Miss Warren's mother was a sister of the bride, weighing only 19lb. and measuring 25in., though aged sixteen years. The little couple are about to make the "grand tour" through Europe.

Mr. Wells, the great New York shipbuilder, has published a letter in which he denies having contracted the construction of the ship General Admiral for the Russian Government during the pendency of the Russian War. He adverts to the fact that this vessel was not launched until 1858.

CALIFORNIA.

So dear are cotton goods in California at the present time that merchants have begun to import articles of Chinese manufacture. A ship had arrived at San Francisco from Shanghai, bringing 700 bales of drills and sheetings.

A Democrat has been elected to the United States' Senate from this State after 30 ballotings.

BRITISH COLUMBIA AND VANCOUVER ISLAND.

To the Editor of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

Victoria, Vancouver Island, Dec. 21, 1862.

I see in many English newspapers extracts from private letters giving most doleful accounts of the state of affairs in this country. I assert that in none the writers have only themselves to blame for their sufferings. It was well known last spring, when the gold excitement first started the country, that more than enough food in the country to supply a quarter of the number; and our public and private journals were constantly urging the necessity of immediate attempting to reach Cariboo till towards June or July; meanwhile there was plenty of work to be had in Victoria at high wages, and numbers could have found work on the roads from March till June they would then have gone to Cariboo at the season of action, and would be much better fitted to rush up in search of gold, and flour and other provisions as from 6s. to 8s. per pound. This soon exhausted their limited funds, and there was nothing for them to do but starve or subsist, they could not stay, even if clain-owners would find them employment. There would be no use. Now, at the present moment, and of course during the bad weather of Victoria and brought down the rate of wages.

Victoria is now in a most prosperous state, provisions high. Great numbers of miners are wintering here preparatory to a return to the upper country in the spring. Many of these have very small capital, and to go to gold-digging is always a lottery, and there are others who have not been so fortunate, who intend making a fresh start in this country from what you heard three months ago. All agree that British Columbia has a healthy climate, more like that of England than the majority of other colony of the British Crown; that our resources are almost unbounded, and require only labour to develop them; that capitalists will find their advantage then; but every one who thinks of coming here must prepare for great hardships. No one should come with more capital than will keep him a short market of Victoria and brought down the rate of wages.

Victoria is now in a most prosperous state, provisions high. Great numbers of miners are wintering here preparatory to a return to the upper country in the spring. Many of these have very small capital, and to go to gold-digging is always a lottery, and there are others who have not been so fortunate, who intend making a fresh start in this country from what you heard three months ago. All agree that British Columbia has a healthy climate, more like that of England than the majority of other colony of the British Crown; that our resources are almost unbounded, and require only labour to develop them; that capitalists will find their advantage then; but every one who thinks of coming here must prepare for great hardships. No one should come with more capital than will keep him a short time. The openings for investment in buildings, roads, railways, steam-boats, mining operations, trade, &c., are very numerous.

It is inevitable that a great many people will come here and be bitterly disappointed; a great many will come and build houses for a new British race. The former are entitled to our sympathy, and should be guarded from doing so serious a step as emigration; but the latter, who form the better class must not be overlooked, and I think those who have resided here during the last few years, who have studied the climate and resources of the country are, owe it to their struggling countrymen at home to let them know that there is a free and honourable career for them here, and that those where they can live in a healthy climate and look forward to a future of certain prosperity.

The sum remaining to be discharged of the Sardinian loan of £2,000,000, in the years 1855 and 1856, is £1,851,473 11s. 8d.

The anniversary banquet in commemoration of the birthday of George Washington was celebrated on Monday evening, at St. James's Hall, General Vanderweyde was in the chair. His Excellency the American Minister, the Hon. C. F. Adams, in responding to the toast of "The Union," said that the South had entered upon a career, whether for glory or for shame posterity would determine. But, whatever their objects might be, they could not claim George Washington in support of their principles. A strong anti-slavery speech was made by Judge Winter, of Georgia. Among the English guests were the members for Brighton, Professor Newman, and others. The banquet was graced by the presence at the tables of a considerable number of ladies.

THE COURT.

The Queen received Viscount and Viscountess Palmerston and the Earl of St. Germans on Saturday at Windsor Castle. Lord and Lady Palmerston remained on a visit with her Majesty until Monday.

The Court attended Divine service on Sunday in the private chapel. The Rev. Dr. Wooder officiated.

The Crown Princess of Prussia arrived at the Castle on Monday on a visit to the Queen. The Lord Chamberlain had an audience of her Majesty, and presented the address of the House of Lords in answer to the Queen's message relative to a provision for the Prince of Wales.

The Princess of Wales returned to the Castle on Tuesday from Aldershot, the seat of Earl Spencer, in Northamptonshire.

The Countess of Caledon has succeeded the Countess Dowager of Mount-Edgcumbe as Lady in Waiting. The Hon. Lucy Kerr and the Hon. Victoria Wortley have succeeded the Hon. Beatrice Byng and the Hon. Emily Cathcart as Maids of Honour in Waiting.

THE LEVEE.

The Prince of Wales arrived at Buckingham Palace at noon on Wednesday to receive, on behalf of the Queen, Her Royal Highness, by command of the Queen, held a Levée in the afternoon at St. James's Palace. The Court was very numerously attended. The wife of the Belgian Minister (unaccompanied by her husband), with the secretaries and attachés of their respective legations, were present. One thousand gentlemen had the honour of being presented to his Royal Highness, the presentations, by her Majesty's gracious command, being exclusively confined to representations to the Queen. The Levée was also attended by about 1700 of the nobility and gentry. On no previous occasion since the accession of her Majesty have the presentations amounted to anything like the number who paid their respects to Royalty on Wednesday. The Prince in his progress through the park was received with numerous exhibitions by an immense crowd of spectators.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

The Prince of Wales arrived at Aldhorp on the evening of the 20th inst., on a visit to Earl Spencer and Lord and Lady Churchill. His Highness was out with the Tydckley hounds on Saturday, and again on Monday, upon both of which days he was in excellent health and spirits. The Prince His Royal Highness returned to Windsor Castle on Tuesday evening.

The Marquis of Ailesbury's seat, Savernake Lodge, where the Prince passed a few days last week, is in Marlborough Forest, and not far from New Forest, as stated in error last week; and it was the meet of the Tedworth Hounds, and not that by which his Royal Highness joined on Monday se'nnight.

His Royal Highness has appointed Dr. H. W. Acland to be honorary Physician, and Claudius P. Du Pasquier, Esq., to be Surgeon Apothecary to his household.

PRINCESS ALEXANDRA.

Princess Alexandra is understood to have left Copenhagen on her journey to England on Thursday. Her Royal Highness is accompanied by her father, Prince Christian of Denmark, and by the Adjutant Rittmeister Custenschjold; and her mother, Princess Louise, attended by Countess Reventlow; her brothers, Prince Frederick, attended by Count Holstein, and the Artillery Captain Lundbye; Prince Waldemar, attended by Marine Lieutenant Funch, and Prince Waldemar; her sisters, Princesses Dagmar and Thyra. Her Royal Highness's suite also includes General and Mme. Oxholm, together with Prince Frederick Augustus, brother of Prince Louis of Hesse, attended by Chamberlains Roegstorff and Oertzen. General the Hon. Charles Grey, accredited by the Queen to be in waiting on the Princess, and Colonel Byng, Her Majesty's Minister at Copenhagen, are in the suite of the Princess.

The Danish travellers on leaving Copenhagen will travel by rail to Korsör, on the Great Belt, where their Royal Highnesses will embark in a Danish Government steamer and proceed direct to Kiel, in Holstein. At Kiel the Royal party will again take to the railway and travel thence through the duchy across Germany, either to Hamburg or Harburg, in one of which places they will find the Prussian ships will have previously assembled to accompany the Princess across the Channel.

The Queen's yacht Victoria and Albert will be in attendance to convey the Princess and her illustrious relatives to England. The Royal squadron will leave Belgium at one hour on the following forenoon, as will enable the ships to anchor for the night at the Nore.

On the morning of Saturday, the 28th inst., the Victoria and Albert will steam up to Gravesend, with the ships of war in her wake, so as to arrive at that place punctually at one o'clock.

The debarkation and journey to London will be conducted in the most private manner. It was expected to enter the city of London shortly after dusk in the afternoon.

The household of Princess Alexandra will consist of the following ladies in waiting:—The Countess of Macclesfield, the Countess of Morton, Countess De Grey, and the Countess of Carnarvon; the women of the bedchamber being the Hon. Mrs. Bruce, the Hon. Mrs. W. Grey, the Hon. Mrs. L. Cocks, and the Hon. Mrs. Eliot. On Monday it may be interesting to some readers to know that the Countess of Macclesfield is the daughter of the Marquis of Westminster, married the present Earl of Macclesfield in 1852; the Countess of Morton is a daughter of the late Marquis of Anglesea, married the Earl of Morton in 1853; Countess De Grey is a daughter of Mr. and Lady Mary Vyner, and married Earl De Grey in 1851; and the Countess of Carnarvon is a daughter of the Earl of Chesterfield, and married Earl Percy, Earl of Carnarvon in 1861. Of the women of the bedchamber, the Hon. Mrs. Frederick Bruce is the second daughter of the late Lord Elgin.

Lord Harris, who has been appointed Lord Chamberlain to the Princess, has been Governor of Trinidad and Madras, and was appointed a Lord in Waiting on the Queen in 1860.

A subscription has been made among the Danish residents in London in order to present a handsome souvenir to the Princess. It is to consist of a splendid silver vase of the value of 1000 guineas, designed by M. Bulchetich, a Danish artist, resident in London.

THE CROWN PRINCESS OF PRUSSIA.

Her Royal Highness the Crown Princess of Prussia, who left Berlin on Friday morning, en route for Windsor Castle, passed the night at Cologne, and arrived at Aix-la-Chapelle. Her Royal Highness remained in that city a few hours, on a visit to her illustrious relative the King of Prussia, who had arrived in the Cathedral city from Coblentz. The Crown Princess embarked at the Aix Railway Station, on Saturday evening, arrived off Gravesend early on Sunday morning, proceeding thence by railway direct to Windsor Castle.

PRINCE ALFRED.

His Royal Highness Prince Alfred, whose health has occasioned a national anxiety during the past week or, by the latest accounts, said to be going on very favourably.

Their Royal Highnesses Princesses Helena and Louisa honoured the performances at the Lyceum Theatre with their presence on Monday evening, the Royal Highnesses Princesses Alice and Mary Beatrice were also present at the morning performance of the pantomime on Twelfth-day, Thursday last.

His Royal Highness the Archduke Maximilian of Austria with his Archduchess (née Princess Charlotte of Belgium), is expected to arrive in this country on or about the 4th proximo, in order to be present at the marriage of the Archduke with Princess Alexandra.

The infant son of Count Gleichen (Prince Victor of Hohenlohe) and Countess Gleichen was christened on Thursday se'nnight in the Chapel Royal, St. James's. The sponsors were the Prince of Wales, the Princess of Leiningen (represented by Miss Gore), and Captain Seymour. The child was named by the Prince of Wales—Albert Edward Wilfrid.

The Right Hon. the Speaker of the House of Commons gave his last second Thursday's-at-home dinner last Saturday, and the third on Wednesday, at his official residence in the New Palace Yard.

The Countess of Derby will hold assemblies on the 11th and 18th proximo at her residence in St. James's-square.

Viscount and Viscountess Palmerston returned to Cambridge House on Monday from visiting her Majesty at Windsor Castle. Lady Palmerston has a reception this evening (Saturday), and a dancing-party on Wednesday next.

The Swedish Diet has declared itself in favour of a common system of coins, weights, and measures for Sweden, Norway, and Denmark.

CHURCH AND UNIVERSITIES.

Bishop Colenso's name has been "passed over" in the list of vice-presidents of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

The enthronement of the Most Rev. Dr. Thomson, Archbishop of York, took place in York Minster on Wednesday morning. Nearly 300 of the clergy of the diocese were present.

The new Westminster Abbey Special Services for the present year were commenced on Sunday, in the nave, every part of which was well filled. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Lord John Thynne, the Sub-dean. The sermon next Sunday afternoon will be preached by the Very Rev. Bishop Twells, recently consecrated for the diocese of the Orange River Territory.

Lord Stanley presiding the Church of England Education Institution, Baldwin-gardens, Gray's-inn-road, built and endowed by J. G. Hubbard, Esq., M.P. for Buckingham, was consecrated by the Lord Bishop of London. The offerings are all free, accommodating upwards of 600 persons. We intend giving a view of the interior of the church.

The following are the special preachers at St. Paul's for the ensuing month:—March 1, Rev. A. F. Farrar, Fellow of Queen's College, Cambridge; March 8, Rev. Dr. Hessey, Sunday Lecturer at St. Mary-le-Bow; March 15, Rev. Dr. Magee, Rector of Enniskillen, Ireland; March 22, Rev. Dr. Moberly, Head Master of Winchester College; March 29, the Right Rev. the Bishop of Montreal.

A beneficial candelabrum has been presented to the Ven. Archdeacon Grant on his retirement from the vicarage of Romford. The candelabrum, which is of considerable size, bears that the gift emanates from the parishioners as a token of respect and affection, and in recognition of the twenty-two years' zeal in the cause of the Church which he has exhibited. Testimonials have also been presented to the Rev. George Hervey, by the parishioners of St. Mary's, Lambeth, as a mark of their esteem for his services as Curate during eleven years, in the church, in the schools, and among the poor; and to the Rev. C. D. Collings, on quitting the curacy of Aldshot.

Letters just received from Bishop Stanley, at Honolulu, state that the 28th of November was kept as a public holiday in that city, commemorative of the death of the late King Kamehameha IV. On that day he was chosen for the confirmation of the King and Queen of Hawaii. One-third of the population of the island reserved the memory of the late King in a most creditable way; another third for the regular congregation; and the rest for the Romish Cathedral. Her Majesty received the King and Queen on the door. As soon as their Majesties entered they knelt down and requested the Bishop to give them his blessing, upon which he pronounced the solemn benediction. The service commenced with the Litany, chanted in Hawaiian, the choir standing in front of the altar. The Bishop, with the King and Queen, knelt at the altar, where, having answered the usual questions, they were confirmed by the imposition of hands. The Bishop then informed the people that it is similar to that of an English Field Marshal; the Queen was dressed in white, with a long veil, and the King in the uniform of a Hawaiian commander-in-chief. The Rev. R. C. Wyllie, the Prime Minister; the Hon. G. N. Robertson, Vice-Chancellor; and Mr. Wyllie, the Attorney-General.

Seven memorial windows, by Ward and Hughes, have been placed in Bromsfield Church, two in memory of Mr. John May and Sarah Bromsfield, by Mr. E. A. Bromsfield, and five by the parishioners. The windows are the gift of the present incumbent. The other windows are placed in the north side of the church, which side has been entirely restored by the Rev. Mr. Bromsfield, the Misses Bromsfield, and the late brandy of the cathedrals, erected by the late Mr. Peter Brown, formerly a pew-opener in Canterbury Cathedral, and lately residing in Ivy-lane, Canterbury. The windows are by Messrs. Ward and Hughes. Two are presented by Mr. George Tomline, of Riby Grove. The remaining two are by Mr. Bromsfield, and are placed in the chapel, at the south corner of the great transept, immediately adjoining the Choir. Both are by Messrs. Ward and Hughes, and are placed in the Church, Bath—one to Mr. Empson, and the other, very recently, to Mr. G. Norton, Jun., who was drowned while bathing in the Bay of Biscay. The memorial is in contemplation——A window, to the memory of the Prince Consort, has been placed in the north transept of Canterbury Cathedral, as the gift of the wife of Mr. J. Forrester, of that town, who collected £140 for that purpose. The work was done by Mr. Wailes, of Newcastle, by the direction of the Very Rev. the Dean and the Evangelists. Other additional improvements have been effected in the cathedral, and the parish church of St. Alphege, in the same city, at the expense of the late Mr. Alderman Mr. C. Cottam, who not only gave his time and attention to that the liberality of his family, but also left a handsome sum for the purpose. The church of the parish church at Dartford, Kent, has recently been restored by the Rev. Mr. Bromsfield, and a window has been placed in the north aisle by Mr. Hooton, Butler, and Bigge. It has five lights, and the Crucifixion occupies the centre compartment, with the Ascension above it. The fourteenth century window, by the same firm, is in the south aisle. The subjects are the Six Acts of Mercy, and the Resurrection and portrait.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.—The Rev. W. W. Phelps to be Archdeacon and Canon of Carlisle. Rectories: The Rev. G. J. Boudier to Ewhurst, Surrey; the Rev. A. Barlington, Northampton; Rev. E. H. Gibbon to Chelmondiston, Suffolk; Rev. H. Melvill to Barnes, Surrey; the Rev. J. Bowstead to Hockwold-cum-Wilton, Norfolk; the Rev. R. Copleston to Edmonton; Rev. C. E. Gray to Shipwith, York; the Rev. J. Gilbert to Ashwell, Rutland; the Rev. J. Darlington, Northampton; with the perpetual curacy of Little Cowden; Rev. E. J. Trefry to Pewsey, Wilts; the Rev. Thomas Hall to Ashton-in-the-Mersey. Vicarages: Rev. A. W. Cobb to Kidmore End, Oxfordshire; Rev. R. S. Rowan to St. James, Shaftesbury; Rev. C. S. Bere to Durrington, Wilts. Rev. H. Bousfield to H.M. Assistant Chaplain, Bombay.

COUNTRY NEWS.

Lord Brougham has been unanimously elected president of the Social Science Association for the next annual meeting, which will be held at Birmingham.

A statue was inaugurated at Stoke-on-Trent, on Tuesday, to Josiah Wedgwood, the founder of the potteries.

A general holiday by the inhabitants of Dundee.

A boiler explosion took place on Monday at the Shelton Bar Iron and Steel Works, Staffordshire. Two men were killed and several injured.

The Great Eastern was successfully laid on a gridiron, or platform, on the Cheshire side of the River Mersey, yesterday, for the purpose of undergoing repairs.

A mother elephant, named Mary, the American barque Achilles, Captain Gallagher, arrived in the Mersey on Sunday evening, having on board 5000 barrels of flour from the Philadelphia committee for the relief of the distressed in Lancashire.

The captain and officers of the George Griswold were entertained at dinner last Saturday by Captain Hughes, R.N., the Mayor, Magistrates, and Corporation of Liverpool.

The Queen has been graciously pleased to grant a pension of £100 per annum to the widow of Mr. Thomas Cubitt, the eminent builder, who died on Monday.

On Monday the schooner Ionian Belle arrived at Liverpool from Messina, Sicily, with a cargo of sea Island cotton on board. The cargo is consigned to Messrs. Fraser, Trenholm, and Co., of this town, and is entirely exempt from the blockade runners.

The screw-pile lighthouse on Clevy's Wharf, in Morecambe Bay, having been destroyed in the gale on the 20th ult., a light-ship has been substituted, pending the erection of a permanent building up to Morecambe, in four fathoms low water of ordinary spring tides.

The Royal Agricultural Society has received a donation of £1000 from the Duke of Sutherland, to be applied in building up to Morecambe, in four fathoms low water of ordinary spring tides.

The Royal Agricultural Society has received a donation of £1000 from the Duke of Sutherland, to be applied in building up to Morecambe, in four fathoms low water of ordinary spring tides.

Sir Walter Riddell, Bart., has been appointed County Coroner in lieu of Whitehead, who has resigned. Sir Walter is a Deputy-Lieutenant for the County Court of Staffordshire, in the room of Sir Walter Riddell; and the Rev. J. Lloyd, Q.C., to be Recorder of Wenlock, in the room of Mr. Alpheus Morgan.

The new army estimates for the current year have been published. The sum required to be voted is £15,080,320 against £16,800,309 for the preceding year, showing a decrease of £1,999,113. The total force is stated to be 146,242, and last year it was 148,000.

The Movimento of Genoa states that Garibaldi's health continues to improve. He walks about in his island with the aid of crutches, and is able to go as far as the summit of the hill, whence he directed towards Poland. He has just written to General Cotta, a member of the committee for assisting the Poles, to express his sympathy and the formation of committees.

The Hon. E. F. Leveson Gower, M.P., and Sir Philip de Malpas Grey Egerton, Bart., M.P., have been placed on the commission to inquire into the condition of all mines in Great Britain to which the provisions of the Act 5 and 6 Vict. cap. 99, do not apply, with reference to the health and safety of persons employed in such mines, in the room of the Hon. Algernon Percy Egerton, M.P., and Mr. Henry Austin Bruce, M.P., who have resigned.

A Parliamentary return just issued shows that in the year 1862 the establishment of all the militia regiments in the United Kingdom amounted to 6677 officers, 1242 non-commissioned officers, and 12,751 privates. The numbers present were 3935 officers, 8235 non-commissioned officers, and 12,751 privates. The number of officers and officers' wives was 1127 officers without leave, 42 non-commissioned officers with leave, 51 non-commissioned officers' wives leave, 1144 privates with leave, 12,751 privates' wives leave; the numbers wanting to complete were 1666 officers, 698 non-commissioned officers, and 12,751 privates.

THE VOLUNTEER MOVEMENT.—The first annual general meeting of the National Rifle Association will be held at Willis's Rooms, on Wednesday, March 4—Field-Marshal his Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, K.G., president of the association, in the chair.—The annual competitive trial of volunteer rifles, under the direction of the council of the National Rifle Association, commenced, on Monday, on Plaistow Marshes. — Lord Palmerston has accepted the honorary colonelcy of the 1st Administrative battalion of the Cinque Ports Rifles.—The parade of the volunteers in Hyde Park on the occasion of the Royal procession is not to be confined to the metropolitan corps. Instructions have been issued to the effect that regiments in the country who may wish to take part in the display may do so on application to the Secretary for War, through the Lords Lieutenant of their respective counties.

MUSIC.

The celebrated bass singer, Mr. Henry Phillips, gave a "farewell concert" at St. James's Hall on Wednesday evening. The musical public are well acquainted with Mr. Phillips's antecedents. Almost forty years ago he rose, a very young man, to the highest rank of his profession, on the stage, in the orchestra, and in the concert-room. When at the height of his fame he exchanged his laborious professional duties for a quiet life in a provincial town, where he confined himself to the occupation of an instructor. His has now returned to London, not to resume his career as a singer, but to continue his avocations as a teacher of law at the Royal Academy of Music, namely excited much interest, and attracted a numerous concourse of visitors. He was warmly received by the audience, among whom there were many of his old admirers; and he displayed, not only the beautiful voice, but the fire and spirit of his former days. He introduced some of his sentimental ballads—Dibdin's celebrated sea-song, "In the mid meridian;" Braham's duet, "All's well!" (which he sang, with Mr. Weiss, with extraordinary energy and power), and other famous ditties of the olden time, which are now almost forgotten. Two young ladies, his daughters, made their début on this occasion. They have voices of extraordinary power, quality, and promise, with sturdy and experience, to become excellent artists.

We have had occasion to examine a new description of pianoforte, manufactured by Messrs. Brinsmead and Sons, which combines quality and cheapness in a degree which has not previously been even attempted. It is called the "Model Cottage Pianoforte;" and it will be no named, for it is only four feet long, nineteen inches deep, and three feet four inches high; and its price is seventeen guineas. It looks almost like an elegant toy; but when heard it creates much surprise as would be caused by a child "discovering most eloquent music" with the voice of a full-grown man. It has the compass of seven octaves, with a rich, brilliant tone, quite strong enough to "fill" the largest drawing-room; and the whole mechanism of the instrument seems to be firm and durable. We can but suppose it without making any invidious comparison with the handiwork of other manufacturers; for this piano, at so small a price, has ever before been presented to the public.

THE THEATRES.

DRURY-LANE.—Mr. Falconer's new spectacular drama, entitled "Bonnie Dundee; or, The Gathering of the Clans," which has been so long announced, was produced on Monday in a splendid manner. The author states that it was "historically and lyrically suggested" by Scott's well-known ballad and the old historical chronicles. Many Scotch airs are, in fact, introduced into the piece, such as "John Anderson, my Jo," "Auld Lang Syne," the "Bonnets o' Bonnie Dundee," which were well received. These were sung by Miss Wentworth and Mr. Henry Haigh. The Jacobite conspiracy furnishes the subject. The early scenes present the peaceful occupations by John Graham, of Claverhouse, alias Viscount of Dundee (Mr. Edmund Falconer), who resides with Edith Ramsay (Miss Fanny Huddart). He is waylaid in a roadside pass near the cottage of Alec Campbell, in Perthshire, a scene beautifully painted and set by Mr. T. Grieve. A party of Covenanters is pursued by Sir John, and with no little ease and his wife Janet (Mr. J. Graham and Mrs. E. Falconer), to assist them in "destroying the Malignants," as they denominate their future victim; but the honest couple decidedly object to participate in any such service. This scene is exceedingly well acted, and gave promise of a good drama. Nor was the promise of the first scene illusive. Helen Lochiel (Mrs. D. P. Bowers), who has left her father to escape an incongenial marriage, is in confident with three mysterious Highlanders, and conducts herself with so much discretion that the partisans of Claverhouse, who are in search of all suspects, set a length confide in her thoroughly, and leave their powder-bags in her custody. On their return they find Claverhouse with her, who has to defend himself against the accusation of high treason. Under a brand, and threatens to apply it to the powder-bags unless they suffer him to escape. In the second act the Grand Duncan-well Gathering of the Highland chiefs, who espouse his cause. The carousing of the Princes, and an explanation concerning Alaster M'Donald and Helen Lochiel, are illustrative of the true manners of the age. The scene well supported by Mr. T. Grieve and Oscar Byrne—the first by means of a grand set scene representing Dundee, painted by himself, and the second by a well-contrived ballet, in which the national games and dances are introduced. The scene, after the gathering of the clans, the multitude of variously-accoutred men, women, and children all pouring down from the heights to listen to Dundee's address. Songs are sung with a Highland chorus by the Royal standard is unfurled, and a feudal demonstration takes place which brings down the curtain with tumultuous applause. The scenery was probably altered on the second night, and the new spectacle may nevertheless assume a place in the annals of the drama. It certainly is not deficient in a character; but Mr. Falconer has evidently designed it for a vehicle only to the scenes and processions, which are also magnificent and beautiful, and transcend all former exhibitions on the stage. We may add that the actors exerted themselves to sustain the interest of the story, and the author (who is also the author of London) delivered a prologue to the piece with great elocutionary force.

A man named Martin, aged one hundred and twelve years, was recently received into the hospital at Bayonne. It was thought that his illness would bring the old man to his long career to a close, but in a few days he was again on foot and on his way home.

The Movimento of Genoa states that Garibaldi's health continues to improve. He walks about in his island with the aid of crutches, and is able to go as far as the summit of the hill, whence he directed towards Poland. He has just written to General Cotta, a member of the committee for assisting the Poles, to express his sympathy and the formation of committees.

The eighth annual report of the Registrar-General of Births, Deaths, and Marriages in Scotland, just issued, states that the estimated population in the towns districts for 1862 was 1,610,952; the number of births, 40,808; the deaths, 31,076; and the marriages, 12,552. In 881 country districts the estimated population was 1,470,697; the births, 46,430; the deaths, 27,153; and the marriages, 7987—thus showing the total estimated population of Scotland to be 3,079,650; the births, 87,238; the deaths, 67,193; and the marriages, 20,544.

THE INSTALLATION OF THE EARL OF ROSSE AS CHANCELLOR OF TRINITY COLLEGE, DUBLIN.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

INSTALLATION OF THE CHANCELLOR OF DUBLIN UNIVERSITY.

On Tuesday week the Earl of Rosse was installed Chancellor of Trinity College, Dublin, by the Right Hon. Judge Keating, pro-Vice-Chancellor, in the presence of the Provost, Fellows, members of the University, and a large assemblage of ladies and gentlemen which filled every part of the examination-hall.

The ceremony of installation was performed for the second time in the history of the University, the first and last Chancellor who was thus publicly inducted to his office being the Duke of Bedford, who was Lord Lieutenant about a hundred years ago. This, moreover, is the first time that the office of Chancellor has been given to one who is both an Irishman and an alumnus of the University. These circumstances, added to the fact of the high position which Lord Rosse occupies among scientific men, sufficiently account for the eagerness exhibited by the public to witness the ceremony. As the space contained in the examination-hall is, however, somewhat limited, it was necessary that the arrangements should be very well planned and effectively carried out.

At about two o'clock the procession entered the hall, Lord Rosse and his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant walking together. While the Senate were taking their seats the organ played.

The Vice-Chancellor conferred the degree of LL.D. upon the Earl of Rosse, who took his seat, and was installed with due ceremony.

The Provost then said: My Lord, I confess that I feel myself much affected when I now stand in your presence and that of the august body, the Senate, which has elected you. I hold it to be a happy omen of the further progress of our University that we have elected to the highest position amongst us an individual whose fame has reached every part of the civilised world—who has brought all the required endowments of science to assist the boldest mechanical knowledge, and has thereby sought to gratify the natural cravings of man for philosophical knowledge. My Lord, we cannot assert for ourselves the honour of discovering the extent of your Lordship's claims. All the most distinguished societies in Europe have courted the honour of your membership. The Royal Society have acquired fresh distinction by naming you as their President, and I now feel proud of the privilege which has been given me of conveying to your Lordship the opinion entertained of your talents and acquirements by the members of this University.

The Chancellor replied in a brief and eloquent address, in which he expressed his hope that, from his knowledge of the University, in which he had once pursued his studies, he hoped to be able to discharge efficiently the duties of the high office which devolved upon him. He paid a touching tribute to the memory of the late Chancellor, Primate Beresford, who, he said, possessed every gift of mind, person, and fortune which could qualify him for the position. He did not hope to equal the late Primate; but he did trust that it would be in his power to do some service for the University which had given him so high a distinction.

The Installation Ode, by Dr. Waller, the music composed by Dr. Stewart, was given with fine effect.

The Chancellor then conferred the degrees. Amongst those who received the honorary degree of LL.D. were Mr. Benjamin Lee Guinness; the Lord Mayor; Mr. Whitworth, the inventor of the cannon which bears his name; and Mr. Edward Cooper, the eminent astronomer, of Markree Castle, in the county of Sligo.

The Installation March, composed by Dr. Stewart, having been performed, the ceremonial dissolved.

Our Engraving of the Installation Ceremony is from a Sketch taken by W. Tomsohn, of Dublin.

"BRINGING HOME THE MAY."

In our notice of the exhibition for the present year of the Photographic Society upon its opening in Suffolk-street we freely criticised the large photographic composition which occupies the place of honour in this exhibition, and which we now engrave; but we were careful to intimate that our criticism was intended to be almost entirely relative. We only oppose such composite photographs as the present if they claim, as some think they may, to be in any true sense "pictures." This we do in the interest of photographers, not that of artists, for we believe the latter cannot be affected; and our views are shared by all persons acquainted with the distinctive characteristics of fine art as well as those of photographic art. It must not for a moment be understood that we would insinuate that the photographer does not need and has no scope for artistic taste in the selection, lighting, and picturesque grouping of his models and accessories, for regulating his point of view, and even his "exposure," his developing and printing processes. The photograph engraved would for ever disprove such an assertion. It is, indeed, the possession of more or less of the artistic faculty which, now that manipulatory skill is widely spread among amateurs as well as professionals, makes the difference between one photographer and another. Judged by this standard, the present photograph, and others by the same gentleman in perhaps a still higher degree, justify the high position occupied by Mr. Robinson, and render it due to him, as well as a pleasure to ourselves, to engrave his works. But, while doing so, we feel a principle is involved which must never be forgotten. The photographer, were he a Raphael, is compelled to leave to mechanical, chemical, and unthinking agencies his preparatory labours, precisely, too, at that point where artistic representation diverges from all forms of mere reproduction. As we before remarked, the points of unsuitability in the models, the constraint of posing before the camera, and the simulation in the expression, all of which the artist can suppress or evade, become most prominent in the photograph; and there are other equally vital distinctions. The inevitable failure (always, be it understood, relatively to art) of photography in these compositions is then no disparagement to the skill of the manipulator, but the result of a misapplication of his art. As, moreover, such elaborate figure compositions must necessarily be made up of several studies taken separately, this can scarcely be considered a legitimate application of photography even judged per se. However careful the joins (and they are scarcely perceptible in the photograph before us), there must necessarily be a want of harmony in the tone and a falsification of the natural relations of light and shade. When, therefore, in addition, we take into consideration the enormous difficulty of selecting and posing the various models, arranging and uniting the separate studies, and turning into anything approaching harmony such a work as this, is it not a question strictly in the interest of photographers whether so much taste, skill, and patience as we find lavished here might not be directed in some of the thousand channels in which photography can render most valuable services to science and humanity than in steping out of its own sphere in the vain hope of entering the enchanted circle of art? We trust that, while indicating what on broad grounds must be urged against large composed photographs of figure subjects, we have adequately acknowledged the great skill of the photographer. It only remains to add that there are some charming single figure studies of children, also with hawthorn branches, by Mr. Robinson, and that to accompany the large composition the following lines from Spenser are quoted:—

"BRINGING HOME THE MAY," BY H. P. ROBINSON, IN THE PHOTOGRAPHIC EXHIBITION.

> When all is yclade
> With pleasaunce, the ground with grass, the woods
> With green leaves, the bushes with blossoming buds.
> Young thes folke now flocken in every where,
> To gather may buskets and smelling briere;
> A home they hasten the postes to dight,
> And all the kirk pillours eare daylight,
> With hawthorn buds.

OPENING OF THE PNEUMATIC DESPATCH MAIL SERVICE.

A COMPANY was registered in 1859 for the establishment in the metropolis of lines of pneumatic tube for the more speedy and convenient circulation of despatches and parcels, and an Act of Parliament received the Royal assent in the same year empowering the company to open streets and lay down tubes for the purpose. The directors, having satisfied themselves and the shareholders of the complete mechanical success of the company's system of transmission, by experiments upon a short line of tube at Batterseа, and of its economy and peculiar applicability to the purposes in view, determined on laying down a permanent tube of thirty inches gauge between the Euston station and the North-western District Post-office, Eversholt-street. This tube, with the stations, machinery, and appliances, is completed, and is found to work most efficiently. The length of tube open is not considerable, reaching a distance of only a third of a mile. The transmission of the first batch of mail-bags through it took place yesterday week. Several of the principal officials from the Post Office were present during a part of the operations. The whole of the works were in the most admirable order, and, on the arrival of the first mail-train at 9.45 a.m., the mail-bags, thirty-five in number, were placed in the mail-box by 9.47. The long chamber was then exhausted, and the train containing the first mails ever dispatched by the agency of the atmosphere were blown through the tube to the station at Eversholt-street, reaching their destination at 9.48. The success of the experiment has been so decided that the company will commence the Holborn extension at once, and instead proceeding as rapidly as possible with the main work and all its ramifications.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING MARCH 7.

SUNDAY, March 1.—Second Sunday in Lent. St. David, Archbishop and Martyr, about 642. First number of the Spectator published, 1711. Dr. Thomas Garnett delivered the first lecture at the Royal Institution of Great Britain, London, 1801. Massacre of the Mamalukes at Cairo by Mehemet Ali, 1811.

MONDAY, 2.—St. Chad, Bishop of Lichfield, died 672. King Louis Philippe (as Mr. William Smith) landed in England, 1848.

TUESDAY, 3.—Decease of the poet George Herbert, 1633; and of the eminent philosopher Robert Hooke, 1703.

WEDNESDAY, 4.—Sir John Barbirolli brought bombarded Tripoli, and compelled the Dey to promise to give up piracy, 1676.

THURSDAY, 5.—Battle of Barossa: Sir Thomas Graham (afterwards Lord Lynedoch) defeated the French under Marshal Victor, 1811. Robert Stephenson drove the first locomotive through the Britannia tubular bridge, 1850. Covent-garden Theatre destroyed by fire, after a bal masqué commenced at Mr. Ambrose, "the Hall of the Nights," 1856. Sun rises 6h. 56m. Sets 5h. 6m.

FRIDAY, 6.—Peace between England and France signed at Ratisbi, 1714. The Gentleman's Magazine first published, 1731.

SATURDAY, 7.—Perpetua and Felicitas, martyrs at Carthage, about 201. Two thousand five hundred Volunteer officers presented to the Queen: the Floral Hall, Covent-garden, London, opened with the Volunteer ball, 1851.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE,
FOR THE WEEK ENDING MARCH 7, 1852.

Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.
1 3 30	2 4 0	3 4 30	4 5 0	5 5 30	6 6 0	7 6 30
1 3 50	2 4 20	3 4 50	4 5 20	5 5 50	6 6 20	7 6 50

ROYAL ENGLISH OPERA, COVENT-GARDEN.—Under the Management of Miss LOUISA PYNE and Mr. W. HARRISON.—On Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday will be repeated Auber's most brilliantly successful Opera, THE ARMOURER OF NANTES. After which the Burlesque Opening of the Grand Pantomime, commencing with the Transformation Scene. On Wednesday and Friday, LA SOMNAMBULA, to be followed by the entire Pantomime of BEAUTY AND THE BEAST, including the Transformation Scene. Commence at Seven. Box-office open daily from Ten to Five.

THEATRE ROYAL, DRURY LANE, Remodelled, Decorated, and embellished in a truly magnificent and costly style, is NOW OPEN for the Season.—Under the Management of Mr. E. T. SMITH.—On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, the Spectacular and Musical Effects in the Grand Pantomime of MONDAY, MARCH 1, and during the Week, will be performed the new and original Historical and Allegorical Spectacle entitled and produced by Mr. Planché, with Music by Mr. Falconer, in Three Acts, called BONNIE DUNDEE; or, The Gathering of the Clans! The Scenery by Mr. Grieve, assisted by Mr. Gates and Mr. Pitt. The Dresses by Mr. Tom and Miss Lee. The Machinery by Mr. T. Setten, assisted by Mr. Hemsley. The Overture and Music by Mr. Meechlight, in the Chair Act, by Mr. W. Tolbin, assisted by Mr. H. Tolbin. Mr. Henry Haley, expressly engaged for the Season, and Mr. Augustus Braham, the Distinguished Vocalist of "Bonnie Dundee." Prologue to be spoken by Mr. H. Leonius. Principal characters by Messrs. Augustus Braham, Henry Haley, Leonius, Tolbin, Meechlight, Miss Lee, Miss Pincott, Miss Wallbridge, Miss Falconer, Miss Woolgar, Miss Cooper, and Miss Julia Daly. LITTLE GOODY TWO SHOES; or Harlequin and Cock Robin, Miss Lydia Thompson, Miss Helen Thompson, Miss Bromley, Mr. H. Wyndham, and Tom Matthews. Scenes by Messrs. Cormack and St. Melaxe; Columbines, Misses Bolano and the Misses Gunniss; Clowns, Messrs. Frank Matthews and Tom Matthews. The Grand Transformation Scene. The Old Fire Side. Doors open at Half-past Six; to commence at Seven. Acting Manager, Mr. F. B. Chatterton.

THEATRE ROYAL, HAYMARKET.—Positively the last Week but Six of the Subscription Season and Last Performances of Mr. Macready, Mr. Anderson, and Mrs. Louise Keeley as Rosalind. MONDAY, MARCH 1, and during the Week, will be performed SHAKSPEARE'S COMEDY OF AS YOU LIKE IT, in which MACREADY, PRINCE OF ARTEMISIA. Concluding with MR. AND MRS. WHITE.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, ADELPHI.—On MONDAY and during the Week, A GOAT AS A GARDENER. Mons. Deburau, the Original Pierrot of NATURE—Mr. B. Webster, A VALENTINE—Misses J. L. Toole and F. Sedford, and ADELPHI SCENE. Commence at Seven. Box-office open daily from Ten to Five. Lessee and Manager, Mr. B. Webster.

THEATRE ROYAL, ST. JAMES'S.—NEXT WEEK.—THE SISTERS AT NORWOOD.—Mrs. Frank Matthews, Mr. A. Stirling. After which, LOVE'S LABOUR'S LOST.—Mrs. Nisbett, Mr. Frank Matthews, Mr. Compton, Miss Cicely Nott, Miss Helen Faucit, Miss Heraud, Mrs. Stirling, and Mr. Charles Kean. Scenery by William Beverley. To conclude with A GAME OF ROSES.

EXETER HALL.—Mr. SIMS REEVES in "ELIJAH," by the NATIONAL CHORAL SOCIETY, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 31. Conductor, Mr. G. Benedict. Leader, Mr. Willy. Principal Vocalists, Mrs. Endersohn, Miss Dolby, Mr. Lawler, and Mr. Lockey Hall. Immediate application for Tickets necessary.

SCOTCH CONCERT.—EXETER HALL.—Mr. KENNEDY, the eminent Scottish Vocalist, assisted by Mr. LAND at the Pianoforte, will repeat his popular ENTERTAINMENT on the 1st and 3rd MARCH, with such Selections from ALLAN RAMSAY'S "GENTLE SHEPHERD." EVERY EVENING during the Week at Eight.—NOTICE.—Mr. KENNEDY will positively close the day of the arrival of H.R.H. Princess Alexandra) will take place in the Evening of MONDAY, MARCH 1, at Eight o'clock. Admission, 1s., 2s., and 3s. Stalls, 5s. Tickets at Keith's Royal Library, 150, Oxford-street.

ST. JAMES'S HALL, THURSDAY, MARCH 5.—Mr. HENRY LESLIE'S GRAND CONCERT.—Miss Reeves, Arabella Goddard, Hilda Wyatt, Miss Dolby, Madame Thomas (Pocorelli Pupil), Mr. Lockey Hall, and Mr. Weiss (Harpist to the Queen), T. H. Wright. Full Band of Scots Fusilier Guards and splendid Military Band of the Rifle Brigade. Conductors, Mr. Henry Leslie and Mr. Pinsuti. Admission to the Gallery, 2s. 6d.; Stalls, 5s.; Balcony, 3s.; Admission, 1s. Tickets at Chappell and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street.

MR. SIMS REEVES, Mdme. Arabella Goddard, Mdlle. Piccolomini, Mr. Sautton, Signor Belletti, and Signor Ad. Meo, will GIVE A GRAND CONCERT, St. James's Hall, TUESDAY EVENING, MARCH 2. Tickets, 5s., 3s., 2s. and 1s., at the Hall; and Chappell and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street, Oxford-street.

EWER and CO.'S MUSICAL LIBRARY.—The Proprietor begs to announce that, during the forthcoming Season, he will give TWO MORNING CONCERTS, at which will be performed a Selection of Vocal and Instrumental CHAMBER MUSIC, chiefly added to the Library. Subscribers will be entitled to Tickets to non-subscribers, Half-a-guinea each. Particulars will be shortly announced. Ewer and Co., 390, Oxford-street, corner of Berners-street.

MR. EDMUND YATES'S INVITATIONS to EVENING PARTIES and the SEASIDE will be issued at the EGYPTIAN HALL, EVERY EVENING during the Month of MARCH, at Eight o'clock. Mr. MACKNEY'S Pianoforte Party. A Morning Performance on Saturday at Three o'clock. Stalls, 3s.; Area, 2s.; Gallery, 1s. Tickets and Programmes to be had at the Egyptian Hall Box-office.

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED, with Mr. JOHN PARRY, will open EVERY EVENING (except Saturday) at Eight o'clock, and on Wednesday and Saturday at Three o'clock, in THE FAMILY ASSURANCE; after which Mr. John Parry will introduce his new Domestic Entertainment, entitled CHELMSFORD'S LITTLE PARTY. Notice of Withdrawal of ILLUSTRATION, 14, Regent-street.

CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS.—(Last Week.)—Every Night at Eight, and Wednesday and Saturday Afternoons at Three, in ST. JAMES'S HALL, Piccadilly, the whole of the Company will appear in their Original Entertainments, entitled "Willis, we have missed you." "Annie Lisle," &c. Stalls, 3s.; Area, 2s.; Gallery, 1s. Further Notice of Engagements on Tuesday, March 16, at Exeter Hall.

BALL ORCHESTRAS.—MONS. JULLIEN'S.—Mons. Louis Jullien has the honour to announce to the nobility and gentry, and to his late father's subscribers, that he has succeeded to the musical library and valuable collection of his late M. Jullien's unbroken orchestra, and that he is now prepared to accept engagements for Balls, Concerts, and Dinner Parties.—Address, 214, Regent-street.

MUSIC.—Subscribers to Cramer, Beale, and Co.'s Circulating Library are informed that they exercise three-score every evening all the year round. Their objection includes all the best works of the day, and has no other limit than the wishes of the subscribers.

For terms, address Messrs. CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

DOLLY'S Journey to Dash, Baby's Birthday Present Book. New Letters by Professor PEPPER, commencing MONDAY EVENING NEXT, the 1st of March, and continued for a quarter-year; which will be followed by "Dolly from the Stranger Lottery."—N.B. The "Queen Drama" every Morning and Evening this Week, except Wednesday, at half-past 11 and quarter-past 3. Also, the Grand Resuscitation of Cinderella.—Know ye well that a certain jongleur (or musician) hight Lionel Benedict, and a certain Professor of Legerdemain hight Anderson, have been and are now in the Egyptian Hall, at Piccadilly, and that to-day, and to-day only, a grand Morning Performance at 3 o'clock, each day, at 2s 6d per stall after noonide, and 3s per hour of after noonide.

POLYTECHNIC.—PROFESSOR PEPPER is prepared to make arrangements with large institutions in the Country for the delivery of his Ghost Lectures.

A STORY OF TRAVEL OVER THE ARABIAN DESERT, &c. Every Evening, by Mount Beni Hassan, Dissolving Views, and Illustrations of Pre-Adamite Fossil Remains found in the Journey of the Israelites from Egypt to the Holy Land, will be given by Mr. HENRY BENNETT, at the Royal Polytechnic Institution, on MONDAY, MARCH 1, 1852, at WILLIS'S ROOMS, King-street, St. James's. Tickets, Two Shillings. Family Tickets, Five for 10s.; Back Places, 1s.; Family Tickets, Five for 2s. To be had at Hatchards, 187, Piccadilly; and at Keith, Barrow-street, Oxford-street. To commence at Three o'clock precisely. The proceeds to be given to the following London Charities:—Middlesex Hospital, Royal Free Hospital, Female Mission, Ragged School Society, Church of England Scripture Reader Association.

DANCING.—Miss LEONORA GEARY has the honour to announce to the Nobility and Gentry that her JUVENILE ACADEMY for Dancing Department, and her celebrated Italian Soirée Exercise has RECOMMENCED. Families and Schools attended. Adult Pupils received daily for lessons in the new Valse and every other fashionable Dance.—Terms: Three Lessons, One Guinea. Court Pronunciation Lessons. 4 Insect Evening Class. 14 Grafton-street, New Bond-street.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—OPEN DAILY. Monday to Friday, One Shilling. Children under twelve, Half-price.
Orchestral Band and Great Organ Performances, commencing at One o'Clock.
Saturday, Half-a-Crown. Children under twelve, One Shilling.
Programmes admitted free at Rosbery's Tickets.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—WEDDING FETES.—Preparations are being made to CELEBRATE THIS NATIONAL EVENT in a manner worthy of the occasion. The details will be duly announced.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—A GREAT TORCHLIGHT PROCESSION will be one of the features of the WEDDING FETES.

CRYSTAL PALACE ART-UNION.—BUST of H.R.H. the PRINCE CONSORT.—The Directors ANNOUNCE that the Subscription One Guinea, entitling Subscribers to a Bust, and also a chance of a Prize in the next Art-Union.
A Photograph of this interesting Bust forwarded on receipt of Twenty-four Postage-stamps by the Secretary, 4, Adelphi-terrace, where it will be on EXHIBITION, Monday next.

ART-UNION OF LONDON.—Subscription, One Guinea.—A Prospectus select from the Public Exhibitions. Every subscriber has a chance of a prize, including Perpetua and Felicitas, martyrs at Carthage, about 201. Two thousand five hundred Volunteer officers presented to the Queen: the Floral Hall, Covent-garden, London, opened with the Volunteer ball, 1851.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE,
FOR THE WEEK ENDING MARCH 7, 1853.

Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.
1 3 30	2 4 0	3 4 30	4 5 0	5 5 30	6 6 0	7 6 30
1 3 50	2 4 20	3 4 50	4 5 20	5 5 50	6 6 20	7 6 50

ROYAL ENGLISH OPERA, COVENT-GARDEN.—Under the Management of Miss LOUISA PYNE and Mr. W. HARRISON.—On Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday will be repeated Auber's most brilliantly successful Opera, THE ARMOURER OF NANTES. After which the Burlesque Opening of the Grand Pantomime, commencing with the Transformation Scene. On Wednesday and Friday, LA SOMNAMBULA, to be followed by the entire Pantomime of BEAUTY AND THE BEAST, including the Transformation Scene. Commence at Seven. Box-office open daily from Ten to Five.

THEATRE ROYAL, DRURY LANE, Remodelled, Decorated, and embellished in a truly magnificent and costly style, is NOW OPEN for the Season.—Under the Management of Mr. E. T. SMITH.—On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday the Spectacular and Musical Effects in the Grand Pantomime of MONDAY, MARCH 1, and during the Week, will be performed the new and original Historical and Allegorical Spectacle entitled and produced by Mr. Planché, with Music by Mr. Falconer, in Three Acts, called BONNIE DUNDEE; or, The Gathering of the Clans! The Scenery by Mr. Grieve, assisted by Mr. Gates and Mr. Pitt. The Dresses by Mr. Tom and Miss Lee. The Machinery by Mr. T. Setten, assisted by Mr. Hemsley. The Overture and Music by Mr. Meechlight, in the Chair Act, by Mr. W. Tolbin, assisted by Mr. H. Tolbin. Mr. Henry Haley, expressly engaged for the Season, and Mr. Augustus Braham, the Distinguished Vocalist of "Bonnie Dundee." Prologue to be spoken by Mr. H. Leonius. Principal characters by Messrs. Augustus Braham, Henry Haley, Leonius, Tolbin, Meechlight, Miss Lee, Miss Pincott, Miss Wallbridge, Miss Falconer, Miss Woolgar, Miss Cooper, and Miss Julia Daly. LITTLE GOODY TWO SHOES; or Harlequin and Cock Robin, Miss Lydia Thompson, Miss Helen Thompson, Miss Bromley, Mr. H. Wyndham, and Tom Matthews. Scenes by Messrs. Cormack and St. Melaxe; Columbines, Misses Bolano and the Misses Gunniss; Clowns, Messrs. Frank Matthews and Tom Matthews. The Grand Transformation Scene. The Old Fire Side. Doors open at Half-past Six; to commence at Seven. Acting Manager, Mr. F. B. Chatterton.

THEATRE ROYAL, HAYMARKET.—Positively the last Week but Six of the Subscription Season and Last Performances of Mr. Macready, Mr. Anderson, and Mrs. Louise Keeley as Rosalind. MONDAY, MARCH 1, and during the Week, will be performed SHAKSPEARE'S COMEDY OF AS YOU LIKE IT, in which MACREADY, PRINCE OF ARTEMISIA. Concluding with MR. AND MRS. WHITE.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, ADELPHI.—On MONDAY and during the Week, A GOAT AS A GARDENER. Mons. Deburau, the Original Pierrot of NATURE—Mr. B. Webster, A VALENTINE—Misses J. L. Toole and F. Sedford, and ADELPHI SCENE. Commence at Seven. Box-office open daily from Ten to Five. Lessee and Manager, Mr. B. Webster.

THEATRE ROYAL, ST. JAMES'S.—NEXT WEEK.—THE SISTERS AT NORWOOD.—Mrs. Frank Matthews, Mr. A. Stirling. After which, LOVE'S LABOUR'S LOST.—Mrs. Nisbett, Mr. Frank Matthews, Mr. Compton, Miss Cicely Nott, Miss Helen Faucit, Miss Heraud, Mrs. Stirling, and Mr. Charles Kean. Scenery by William Beverley. To conclude with A GAME OF ROSES.

EXETER HALL.—Mr. SIMS REEVES in "ELIJAH," by the NATIONAL CHORAL SOCIETY, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 31. Conductor, Mr. G. Benedict. Leader, Mr. Willy. Principal Vocalists, Mrs. Endersohn, Miss Dolby, Mr. Lawler, and Mr. Lockey Hall. Immediate application for Tickets necessary.

SCOTCH CONCERT.—EXETER HALL.—Mr. KENNEDY, the eminent Scottish Vocalist, assisted by Mr. LAND at the Pianoforte, will repeat his popular ENTERTAINMENT on the 1st and 3rd MARCH, with such Selections from ALLAN RAMSAY'S "GENTLE SHEPHERD." EVERY EVENING during the Week at Eight.—NOTICE.—Mr. KENNEDY will positively close the day of the arrival of H.R.H. Princess Alexandra) will take place in the Evening of MONDAY, MARCH 1, at Eight o'clock. Admission, 1s., 2s., and 3s. Stalls, 5s. Tickets at Keith's Royal Library, 150, Oxford-street.

ST. JAMES'S HALL, THURSDAY, MARCH 5.—Mr. HENRY LESLIE'S GRAND CONCERT.—Miss Reeves, Arabella Goddard, Hilda Wyatt, Miss Dolby, Madame Thomas (Pocorelli Pupil), Mr. Lockey Hall, and Mr. Weiss (Harpist to the Queen), T. H. Wright. Full Band of Scots Fusilier Guards and splendid Military Band of the Rifle Brigade. Conductors, Mr. Henry Leslie and Mr. Pinsuti. Admission to the Gallery, 2s. 6d.; Stalls, 5s.; Balcony, 3s.; Admission, 1s. Tickets at Chappell and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street.

MR. SIMS REEVES, Mdme. Arabella Goddard, Mdlle. Piccolomini, Mr. Sautton, Signor Belletti, and Signor Ad. Meo, will GIVE A GRAND CONCERT, St. James's Hall, TUESDAY EVENING, MARCH 2. Tickets, 5s., 3s., 2s. and 1s., at the Hall; and Chappell and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street, Oxford-street.

EWER and CO.'S MUSICAL LIBRARY.—The Proprietor begs to announce that, during the forthcoming Season, he will give TWO MORNING CONCERTS, at which will be performed a Selection of Vocal and Instrumental CHAMBER MUSIC, chiefly added to the Library. Subscribers will be entitled to Tickets to non-subscribers, Half-a-guinea each. Particulars will be shortly announced. Ewer and Co., 390, Oxford-street, corner of Berners-street.

MR. EDMUND YATES'S INVITATIONS to EVENING PARTIES and the SEASIDE will be issued at the EGYPTIAN HALL, EVERY EVENING during the Month of MARCH, at Eight o'clock. Mr. MACKNEY'S Pianoforte Party. A Morning Performance on Saturday at Three o'clock. Stalls, 3s.; Area, 2s.; Gallery, 1s. Tickets and Programmes to be had at the Egyptian Hall Box-office.

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED, with Mr. JOHN PARRY, will open EVERY EVENING (except Saturday) at Eight o'clock, and on Wednesday and Saturday at Three o'clock, in THE FAMILY ASSURANCE; after which Mr. John Parry will introduce his new Domestic Entertainment, entitled CHELMSFORD'S LITTLE PARTY. Notice of Withdrawal of ILLUSTRATION, 14, Regent-street.

CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS.—(Last Week.)—Every Night at Eight, and Wednesday and Saturday Afternoons at Three, in ST. JAMES'S HALL, Piccadilly, the whole of the Company will appear in their Original Entertainments, entitled "Willis, we have missed you." "Annie Lisle," &c. Stalls, 3s.; Area, 2s.; Gallery, 1s. Further Notice of Engagements on Tuesday, March 16, at Exeter Hall.

BALL ORCHESTRAS.—MONS. JULLIEN'S.—Mons. Louis Jullien has the honour to announce to the nobility and gentry, and to his late father's subscribers, that he has succeeded to the musical library and valuable collection of his late M. Jullien's unbroken orchestra, and that he is now prepared to accept engagements for Balls, Concerts, and Dinner Parties.—Address, 214, Regent-street.

MUSIC.—Subscribers to Cramer, Beale, and Co.'s Circulating Library are informed that they exercise three-score every evening all the year round. Their objection includes all the best works of the day, and has no other limit than the wishes of the subscribers.

For terms, address Messrs. CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

DOLLY'S Journey to Dash, Baby's Birthday Present Book. New Letters by Professor PEPPER, commencing MONDAY EVENING NEXT, the 1st of March, and continued for a quarter-year; which will be followed by "Dolly from the Stranger Lottery."—N.B. The "Queen Drama" every Morning and Evening this Week, except Wednesday, at half-past 11 and quarter-past 3. Also, the Grand Resuscitation of Cinderella.—Know ye well that a certain jongleur (or musician) hight Lionel Benedict, and a certain Professor of Legerdemain hight Anderson, have been and are now in the Egyptian Hall, at Piccadilly, and that to-day, and to-day only, a grand Morning Performance at 3 o'clock, each day, at 2s 6d per stall after noonide, and 3s per hour of after noonide.

POLYTECHNIC.—PROFESSOR PEPPER is prepared to make arrangements with large institutions in the Country for the delivery of his Ghost Lectures.

A STORY OF TRAVEL OVER THE ARABIAN DESERT, &c. Every Evening, by Mount Beni Hassan, Dissolving Views, and Illustrations of Pre-Adamite Fossil Remains found in the Journey of the Israelites from Egypt to the Holy Land, will be given by Mr. HENRY BENNETT, at the Royal Polytechnic Institution, on MONDAY, MARCH 1, 1852, at WILLIS'S ROOMS, King-street, St. James's. Tickets, Two Shillings. Family Tickets, Five for 10s.; Back Places, 1s.; Family Tickets, Five for 2s. To be had at Hatchards, 187, Piccadilly; and at Keith, Barrow-street, Oxford-street. To commence at Three o'clock precisely. The proceeds to be given to the following London Charities:—Middlesex Hospital, Royal Free Hospital, Female Mission, Ragged School Society, Church of England Scripture Reader Association.

DANCING.—Miss LEONORA GEARY has the honour to announce to the Nobility and Gentry that her JUVENILE ACADEMY for Dancing Department, and her celebrated Italian Soirée Exercise has RECOMMENCED. Families and Schools attended. Adult Pupils received daily for lessons in the new Valse and every other fashionable Dance.—Terms: Three Lessons, One Guinea. Court Pronunciation Lessons. 4 Insect Evening Class. 14 Grafton-street, New Bond-street.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—OPEN DAILY. Monday to Friday, One Shilling. Children under twelve, Half-price.
Orchestral Band and Great Organ Performances, commencing at One o'Clock.
Saturday, Half-a-Crown. Children under twelve, One Shilling.
Programmes admitted free at Rosbery's Tickets.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—WEDDING FETES.—Preparations are being made to CELEBRATE THIS NATIONAL EVENT in a manner worthy of the occasion. The details will be duly announced.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—A GREAT TORCHLIGHT PROCESSION will be one of the features of the WEDDING FETES.

CRYSTAL PALACE ART-UNION.—BUST of H.R.H. the PRINCE CONSORT.—The Directors ANNOUNCE that the Subscription One Guinea, entitling Subscribers to a Bust, and also a chance of a Prize in the next Art-Union.
A Photograph of this interesting Bust forwarded on receipt of Twenty-four Postage-stamps by the Secretary, 4, Adelphi-terrace, where it will be on EXHIBITION, Monday next.

ART-UNION OF LONDON.—Subscription, One Guinea.—A Prospectus select from the Public Exhibitions. Every subscriber has a chance of a prize, including Perpetua and Felicitas, martyrs at Carthage, about 201. Two thousand five hundred Volunteer officers presented to the Queen: the Floral Hall, Covent-garden, London, opened with the Volunteer ball, 1851.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE,
FOR THE WEEK ENDING MARCH 7, 1853.

Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.
1 3 30	2 4 0	3 4 30	4 5 0	5 5 30	6 6 0	7 6 30
1 3 50	2 4 20	3 4 50	4 5 20	5 5 50	6 6 20	7 6 50

ROYAL ENGLISH OPERA, COVENT-GARDEN.—Under the Management of Miss LOUISA PYNE and Mr. W. HARRISON.—On Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday will be repeated Auber's most brilliantly successful Opera, THE ARMOURER OF NANTES. After which the Burlesque Opening of the Grand Pantomime, commencing with the Transformation Scene. On Wednesday and Friday, LA SOMNAMBULA, to be followed by the entire Pantomime of BEAUTY AND THE BEAST, including the Transformation Scene. Commence at Seven. Box-office open daily from Ten to Five.

THEATRE ROYAL, DRURY LANE, Remodelled, Decorated, and embellished in a truly magnificent and costly style, is NOW OPEN for the Season.—Under the Management of Mr. E. T. SMITH.—On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday the Spectacular and Musical Effects in the Grand Pantomime of MONDAY, MARCH 1, and during the Week, will be performed the new and original Historical and Allegorical Spectacle entitled and produced by Mr. Planché, with Music by Mr. Falconer, in Three Acts, called BONNIE DUNDEE; or, The Gathering of the Clans! The Scenery by Mr. Grieve, assisted by Mr. Gates and Mr. Pitt. The Dresses by Mr. Tom and Miss Lee. The Machinery by Mr. T. Setten, assisted by Mr. Hemsley. The Overture and Music by Mr. Meechlight, in the Chair Act, by Mr. W. Tolbin, assisted by Mr. H. Tolbin. Mr. Henry Haley, expressly engaged for the Season, and Mr. Augustus Braham, the Distinguished Vocalist of "Bonnie Dundee." Prologue to be spoken by Mr. H. Leonius. Principal characters by Messrs. Augustus Braham, Henry Haley, Leonius, Tolbin, Meechlight, Miss Lee, Miss Pincott, Miss Wallbridge, Miss Falconer, Miss Woolgar, Miss Cooper, and Miss Julia Daly. LITTLE GOODY TWO SHOES; or Harlequin and Cock Robin, Miss Lydia Thompson, Miss Helen Thompson, Miss Bromley, Mr. H. Wyndham, and Tom Matthews. Scenes by Messrs. Cormack and St. Melaxe; Columbines, Misses Bolano and the Misses Gunniss; Clowns, Messrs. Frank Matthews and Tom Matthews. The Grand Transformation Scene. The Old Fire Side. Doors open at Half-past Six; to commence at Seven. Acting Manager, Mr. F. B. Chatterton.

THEATRE ROYAL, HAYMARKET.—Positively the last Week but Six of the Subscription Season and Last Performances of Mr. Macready, Mr. Anderson, and Mrs. Louise Keeley as Rosalind. MONDAY, MARCH 1, and during the Week, will be performed SHAKSPEARE'S COMEDY OF AS YOU LIKE IT, in which MACREADY, PRINCE OF ARTEMISIA. Concluding with MR. AND MRS. WHITE.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, ADELPHI.—On MONDAY and during the Week, A GOAT AS A GARDENER. Mons. Deburau, the Original Pierrot of NATURE—Mr. B. Webster, A VALENTINE—Misses J. L. Toole and F. Sedford, and ADELPHI SCENE. Commence at Seven. Box-office open daily from Ten to Five. Lessee and Manager, Mr. B. Webster.

THEATRE ROYAL, ST. JAMES'S.—NEXT WEEK.—THE SISTERS AT NORWOOD.—Mrs. Frank Matthews, Mr. A. Stirling. After which, LOVE'S LABOUR'S LOST.—Mrs. Nisbett, Mr. Frank Matthews, Mr. Compton, Miss Cicely Nott, Miss Helen Faucit, Miss Heraud, Mrs. Stirling, and Mr. Charles Kean. Scenery by William Beverley. To conclude with A GAME OF ROSES.

EXETER HALL.—Mr. SIMS REEVES in "ELIJAH," by the NATIONAL CHORAL SOCIETY, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 31. Conductor, Mr. G. Benedict. Leader, Mr. Willy. Principal Vocalists, Mrs. Endersohn, Miss Dolby, Mr. Lawler, and Mr. Lockey Hall. Immediate application for Tickets necessary.

SCOTCH CONCERT.—EXETER HALL.—Mr. KENNEDY, the eminent Scottish Vocalist, assisted by Mr. LAND at the Pianoforte, will repeat his popular ENTERTAINMENT on the 1st and 3rd MARCH, with such Selections from ALLAN RAMSAY'S "GENTLE SHEPHERD." EVERY EVENING during the Week at Eight.—NOTICE.—Mr. KENNEDY will positively close the day of the arrival of H.R.H. Princess Alexandra) will take place in the Evening of MONDAY, MARCH 1, at Eight o'clock. Admission, 1s., 2s., and 3s. Stalls, 5s. Tickets at Keith's Royal Library, 150, Oxford-street.

ST. JAMES'S HALL, THURSDAY, MARCH 5.—Mr. HENRY LESLIE'S GRAND CONCERT.—Miss Reeves, Arabella Goddard, Hilda Wyatt, Miss Dolby, Madame Thomas (Pocorelli Pupil), Mr. Lockey Hall, and Mr. Weiss (Harpist to the Queen), T. H. Wright. Full Band of Scots Fusilier Guards and splendid Military Band of the Rifle Brigade. Conductors, Mr. Henry Leslie and Mr. Pinsuti. Admission to the Gallery, 2s. 6d.; Stalls, 5s.; Balcony, 3s.; Admission, 1s. Tickets at Chappell and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street.

MR. SIMS REEVES, Mdme. Arabella Goddard, Mdlle. Piccolomini, Mr. Sautton, Signor Belletti, and Signor Ad. Meo, will GIVE A GRAND CONCERT, St. James's Hall, TUESDAY EVENING, MARCH 2. Tickets, 5s., 3s., 2s. and 1s., at the Hall; and Chappell and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street, Oxford-street.

EWER and CO.'S MUSICAL LIBRARY.—The Proprietor begs to announce that, during the forthcoming Season, he will give TWO MORNING CONCERTS, at which will be performed a Selection of Vocal and Instrumental CHAMBER MUSIC, chiefly added to the Library. Subscribers will be entitled to Tickets to non-subscribers, Half-a-guinea each. Particulars will be shortly announced. Ewer and Co., 390, Oxford-street, corner of Berners-street.

MR. EDMUND YATES'S INVITATIONS to EVENING PARTIES and the SEASIDE will be issued at the EGYPTIAN HALL, EVERY EVENING during the Month of MARCH, at Eight o'clock. Mr. MACKNEY'S Pianoforte Party. A Morning Performance on Saturday at Three o'clock. Stalls, 3s.; Area, 2s.; Gallery, 1s. Tickets and Programmes to be had at the Egyptian Hall Box-office.

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED, with Mr. JOHN PARRY, will open EVERY EVENING (except Saturday) at Eight o'clock, and on Wednesday and Saturday at Three o'clock, in THE FAMILY ASSURANCE; after which Mr. John Parry will introduce his new Domestic Entertainment, entitled CHELMSFORD'S LITTLE PARTY. Notice of Withdrawal of ILLUSTRATION, 14, Regent-street.

CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS.—(Last Week.)—Every Night at Eight, and Wednesday and Saturday Afternoons at Three, in ST. JAMES'S HALL, Piccadilly, the whole of the Company will appear in their Original Entertainments, entitled "Willis, we have missed you." "Annie Lisle," &c. Stalls, 3s.; Area, 2s.; Gallery, 1s. Further Notice of Engagements on Tuesday, March 16, at Exeter Hall.

BALL ORCHESTRAS.—MONS. JULLIEN'S.—Mons. Louis Jullien has the honour to announce to the nobility and gentry, and to his late father's subscribers, that he has succeeded to the musical library and valuable collection of his late M. Jullien's unbroken orchestra, and that he is now prepared to accept engagements for Balls, Concerts, and Dinner Parties.—Address, 214, Regent-street.

MUSIC.—Subscribers to Cramer, Beale, and Co.'s Circulating Library are informed that they exercise three-score every evening all the year round. Their objection includes all the best works of the day, and has no other limit than the wishes of the subscribers.

For terms, address Messrs. CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

DOLLY'S Journey to Dash, Baby's Birthday Present Book. New Letters by Professor PEPPER, commencing MONDAY EVENING NEXT, the 1st of March, and continued for a quarter-year; which will be followed by "Dolly from the Stranger Lottery."—N.B. The "Queen Drama" every Morning and Evening this Week, except Wednesday, at half-past 11 and quarter-past 3. Also, the Grand Resuscitation of Cinderella.—Know ye well that a certain jongleur (or musician) hight Lionel Benedict, and a certain Professor of Legerdemain hight Anderson, have been and are now in the Egyptian Hall, at Piccadilly, and that to-day, and to-day only, a grand Morning Performance at 3 o'clock, each day, at 2s 6d per stall after noonide, and 3s per hour of after noonide.

POLYTECHNIC.—PROFESSOR PEPPER is prepared to make arrangements with large institutions in the Country for the delivery of his Ghost Lectures.

A STORY OF TRAVEL OVER THE ARABIAN DESERT, &c. Every Evening, by Mount Beni Hassan, Dissolving Views, and Illustrations of Pre-Adamite Fossil Remains found in the Journey of the Israelites from Egypt to the Holy Land, will be given by Mr. HENRY BENNETT, at the Royal Polytechnic Institution, on MONDAY, MARCH 1, 1852, at WILLIS'S ROOMS, King-street, St. James's. Tickets, Two Shillings. Family Tickets, Five for 10s.; Back Places, 1s.; Family Tickets, Five for 2s. To be had at Hatchards, 187, Piccadilly; and at Keith, Barrow-street, Oxford-street. To commence at Three o'clock precisely. The proceeds to be given to the following London Charities:—Middlesex Hospital, Royal Free Hospital, Female Mission, Ragged School Society, Church of England Scripture Reader Association.

DANCING.—Miss LEONORA GEARY has the honour to announce to the Nobility and Gentry that her JUVENILE ACADEMY for Dancing Department, and her celebrated Italian Soirée Exercise has RECOMMENCED. Families and Schools attended. Adult Pupils received daily for lessons in the new Valse and every other fashionable Dance.—Terms: Three Lessons, One Guinea. Court Pronunciation Lessons. 4 Insect Evening Class. 14 Grafton-street, New Bond-street.

CULLETON'S HERALDIC LIBRARY, for tracing the Armorial Bearings of nearly every Name in the United Kingdom, Arms Quartered and Painted, Plain Sketch, 2s. 6d.; in Heraldic Colours, 5s.; Arms, Crest, and Motto, with Pedigree, 5s.; Genealogical Search, 5s.—Culleton's Library of Arms, 2, Cranbourn-street, Leicester-square, W.C.

CULLETON'S HERALDIC OFFICE.—No Charge for Engraving Dies with Crest, Monogram, or Address, if an order is given for a Seal or Paper, with 100 Envelopes to match, at 21s. No charge for Searching. Crest and Motto Office-orders available to Culleton, Cranbourn-street, Seal Engraver, 2, Cranbourn-street corner of St. Martin's-lane.

CULLETON'S SOLID GOLD RINGS, 18-carat, Hall-marked

WILLIAM S. BURTON'S GENERAL FURNISHING IRONMONGERY CATALOGUE may be had gratis and free by post. It contains upwards of 500 illustrations of his illustrated stock of sterling Silver and Electro-plate (Fiddle pattern, Thread, Old Thread, Brunswick, Lily, and Antique), Dish Covers, Hot-water Dishes, Electro-Chromo-copper, Kitchen Utensils, Lamps, Gasaliers, Tea Trays, Urns and Kettles, Clocks, Table Cutlery, Desks, Toilet Ware, Turnery, Iron and Brass Bedsteads, Bedding, Bedroom and Parlour Furniture, &c., with lists of prices and plans of the twenty large Show-rooms, at 39, Oxford-street, W.; 1, 1a, 2, 3, and 4, Newman-street; 4, 5, and 6, Perry's-place; and 1, Perry's-court.

FURNITURE CARRIAGE-FREE to any part of the Kingdom.
Drawing-room Suites, carved £35 0 0
Dining-room Suites, complete 20 0 0
Bedroom Suites, complete 20 0 0
P. and S. BEYFUS, 148, OXFORD-STREET.
Illustrated Catalogues forwarded post-free on application.

DEAL FURNITURE.—ALFRED GREEN'S Stock embraces every description of Furniture, suitable for the Colonies and Indoors, in Deal, at the International Exhibition, and several entirely original designs which can be obtained only at his establishment. The quality of the goods and the workmanship is unsurpassed for style, and the very best materials and workmanship are guaranteed for any period. Prize-medal Dining-room Chairs, Couches, Easy Chairs, and Settees. Illustrated Catalogues, 24 and 25, Bartholomew-close.

FIRST-CLASS FURNITURE.—A splendid Collection, at very moderate prices. Carpets, Chintzes, &c. Patent Equilibrium Chairs, Couches which will be found most comfortable, and to supply a great want.
A. SEDLEY and CO. (late J. Wells and Co.), 210, Regent-street, W.

ROBERT GREEN and CO., 24, Mortimer-street, Regent-street, London, manufacture and wholesale and retail
A Dressing-case, in Walnut, including Chimney-glass £35
A Dining-room 50
A Best Bedroom, in dark Mahogany or Rosewood 50
A Servant's Bedroom, in Japanned Furniture 7
N.B. The largest and best-assorted Stock in London.
Portland Bonnet, Longham-place; and 69, Great Portland-street.

FURNISH YOUR HOUSE with the Best Articles at PEAT'S, Furnishing Warehouse. Established A.D. 1760. A Priced Furnishing List free by post.
Purchasers are invited to come to the Monument, London-bridge.

OLD OAK FURNITURE.—A complete SUITE for a DINING-ROOM, comprising a magnificently-carved antique sideboard, with plate-glass back, a dining-table, and a set of eight chairs, in the style of the Elizabethan period, may be seen at 31 YILD for the inspection of the nobility and gentry, at their manufactory, where estimates are given for a library.—At 3, GREEN and CO'S, 24, Mortimer-street, Regent-street, W.

SUPERIOR EASY-CHAIRS and SOFAS, best quality only, 3 guinea each. Also, a large assortment of BEDSTEADS and BEDDING, of the best and most approved description, at 34 and 35, Rupert-street, Oxford-street, W. An Illustrated Priced Catalogue sent post-free.

LONDON CARPET WAREHOUSE.—WAUGH and SON, 321, HIGH HOLBORN, opposite Southampton-street, W. Curtains, Portière Clothes, &c., of first-class manufacture, for every style of decoration.

GARDNERS' £2 2s. DINNER SERVICES.—A large assortment of patterns to choose from, in Granite, Stone China, Opaque China, and Porcelain, in equal variety, at the lowest possible prices; table glass of the utmost brilliancy and purity. Cut decanters, 6s. per pair; wine-glasses, 3s. per dozen; claret-jugs, 5s. each; and 6d. to 2s. 6d. each, Chandeliers, Candelabra, &c. Established 110 years. Illustrated Catalogue free by post.
GARDNERS, 453, Strand, Charing-cross.

DENT, Chronometer, Watch, and Clock Maker to the Queen, and to the Royal Observatory, the Master of Parliament, &c. Strand (adjoining Coutts's Bank), and 34, Royal Exchange.

BRUCHES, of RICHARD A. GREEN'S Manufacture, for Gentlemen's Dressing-rooms, fitted with Guinea Toilet Requisites.—Designed with Gems Combs, Tortoiseshell Combs, and Enamels after the Roman and Etruscan Order.
Price £2 2s., £3 3s., £4 4s. Jewellery purchased for presentation or exchanged.
RICHARD A. GREEN, 2, Piccadilly.

DIAMONDS, PLATE, and JEWELS PURCHASED for cash or taken in exchange. Several Secondhand Diamond Ornaments on Sale.
R. and H. GREENWOOD, 16, Piccadilly.

HAIR JEWELLERY.—ARTIST in HAIR.—DEWDNEY begs to inform Ladies or Gentlemen that he beautifully makes, and elegantly mounts Hair Jewellery, in Brooches, Bracelets, Rings, Pins, Studs, &c., and forwards the same, on receipt of the required Amount. A beautiful selection of specimens handsomely mounted kept for inspection. An illustrated book sent post-free.—Dewdney, 379, Fleet-street, London, E.C.

HAIR JEWELLERY.—G. HOOPER, Artist in Hair.—Solid Gold Revolving Brooches, for portrait and hair, from 35s.; Hair Rings, from 6s. 6d. each, &c. Instructions how to forward hair free. 121, Regent-street, London.

MUSICAL BOX DEPOTS—56, Cheapside; and 32, Ludgate-street.—Mosley sings Musical Boxes, £1 per air. Snuff-boxes, 10s. to £8. Catalogues of Tunes and Prices sent free on application to WALES and GOLDE, as above.

GARDNERS' LAMPS are the BEST.—The largest, most recherché, and cheapest assortment in London. Moderator Table Lamps, from 3s. 6d. each. Engraved Globes and Shades, 1s. 6d. per pair. Cut Globes and Shades (by appointment to her Majesty), established 100 years, 453, Strand, Charing-cross, W.C. Opposite Northumberland-street.

THE ROYAL MARRIAGE.—RIMMEL'S PERFUMED WEDDING FAVOURS ornamented with Photographs of the Illustrious Pair. Price 1s. and 2s. 6d. each. Rimmel's Perfumed Fans, 2s. 6d. and 5s. per pair. 24, Cornhill; and 96, Regent-street, Rimmel, Perfumer, 96, Strand, and 24, Cornhill.

GOLD MEDAL PRIZE MEDAL
LOCK-STITCH SEWING-MACHINES, manufactured by the WHEELER and WILSON MFG. COMPANY,
The Superior Machine for Dressmaking and Manufacture.
The Machine for universal use, and especially adapted for every household.
Instruction given gratuitously to purchasers.
Illustrated Pamphlet sent free on application.
Offices and Saleroom, 139, Regent-street, W.

CARSONS' ORIGINAL ANTI-CORROSION PAINT, for the surface of iron, wood, stone, canvas, sheathing, &c. Can be applied by any person. Five-cwt. free to most parts of the realm. White and stone colours, 28s. per cwt.; brown, 24s. per cwt.; carriage, and Mark, 2s.; grocers and blue, 4s.; Patentees and authorised agents supplied to Walker Carson and Sons, 9, Great Winchester street, London, E.C.

SAUCE.
LEA AND PERRINS'
WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE,
Pronounced by Connoisseurs, the
"THE ONLY GOOD SAUCE."
Noss genuine without the name on wrapper, label, bottle, and stopper.
Sold by CROSSE and BLACKWELL; Bartley and Sons; and by Grocers and Oilmen throughout the World.

TURTLE.—MCCALL'S WEST INDIA. Superior quality, pieces, in lb., half-pints, 2s. Callipash or Callipee, 1s. per lb. Sold by leading Oil and Italian Warehousemen, Wholesale Agent, 2, Bow-lane, E.C.
J. McCALL and Co.

Prize Medal for Potted Meats, Game, Vegetables, &c. Established, H.R. Preserving Provisions without overcooking, whereby freshness and flavour are retained.

LETTERS PATENT, 1860. PRIZE MEDAL, 1862.
ROBINSON'S PATENT GROATS is the most valuable preparation for making rice and sago pudding. Requires no boiling, and is ready in a few minutes. It is superseded as a non-inflammatory drink, is excellent for mothers nursing, and has been used with great success for rearing infants by hand.

KEEN'S GENUINE MUSTARD, made with the greatest care from the finest English seed. This distinguished vegetable oil is entirely DEPRIVED of the pungency of the pollen. The Lancet, after careful analysis, has received the general approval of the public.
FIRST MANUFACTURED IN 1742.
Sold by most Grocers from the Cash, and in 1lb., 2lb., and 5lb. canisters.
KEEN, ROBINSON, and CO., Garlick-hill, London, E.C.

KINGSFORD'S OSWEGO PREPARED CORN, for Puddings, Custards, Blancmange, &c.
The original and genuine Prepared Corn Flour. Established 1842.
No other article in America or England has the right to the title of "Original."

PRIZE MEDAL AWARDED FOR THE GLENFIELD STARCH
by the Council of International Exhibition, 1862.
Sold by all Grocers.
USED IN THE ROYAL LAUNDRY,
and pronounced by her Majesty's Laundress to be
THE FINEST STARCH SHE HAS USED.
HER MAJESTY'S LACE-DRESSER
Says
THE FIRST SHE HAS TRIED, and the above award by some of the most eminent scientific men of the age
PROVES ITS SUPERIORITY.
WOTHERSPOON and CO., Glasgow and London.

SAUSAGE and MINCING MACHINE.—The GUINEA ONE of RUDGE'S and KEEN'S is the best. It is simple, easily cleaned, and quickest in operation. Sent any other—Burgess and Key, Makers 30, Newgate-street. R.S. Illustrated particulars free on application.

COALS. — COCKERELL'S COALS, price 21s., cash. Central Office, No. 13, Cornhill, E.C.

PNEUMATIC DESPATCH COMPANY (Limited). Capital, £250,000, in 12,500 shares of £20 each. Second issue, 17,500, making, together with the first issue, 15,000 shares. Deposit, on application, £1 per share, and on allotment £1 10s. per share, and no more. Calls not to exceed £2 10s. each per share, at intervals of not less than three months.
DIRECTORS.
The Duke of BUCKINGHAM and CHANDOS, Chairman.
MARK HUISH, Esq., Vice-Chairman.
THOMAS BRASSEY, Esq. | Sir WILLIAM Fothergill Cooke, Napier.
Edward Clark, Esq. | Sir Charles H. J. Hutchinson, Bart.
John Hamilton Lloyd, Esq. | W. H. Smith, Esq., late Bernard.
AUDITORS—Edmund Harvey, Esq.; and James Sallis, Esq.
BANKERS—E. W. Ramsell, Esq.; Lothian Clark, Esq.
JOINT SECRETARIES—Frederick Fox, Esq.; and Henry Smith and Blakeway.
ENGINEER—Thomas Gray, Esq.
SOLICITORS—Messrs. J. Hutchinson and Son, Ascot-court; Messrs. Laurence, Son, and Pearce, Austin Friars.
SECRETARY—G. Maynard, Esq.
OFFICES—Adelaide-chambers, Ascot-street.
The Directors, having satisfied themselves and the public by practical experience of the complete mechanical success of the Company's system of transmission, and having made arrangements for working the same with the London and North-Western Railway Company, invite confidence, Messrs. Pickford and Co. and Messrs. Chaplin and Horne, from which and from the Company's own agents prospectuses and forms of application for shares may be obtained. The contract for the first section will be entered into forthwith.
The Company was registered in June, 1859, and the Royal assent was given to their Act of Parliament on the 6th July, 1859.
The first portion of their line from the Euston Station to the N.W. District Post Office in Eversholt-street, a distance of 1 mile, has been inspected officially by Colonel Scrope Duncombe and Sir Richard Mayne, Commissioners of Police.
A detailed prospectus, with plan and form of application for shares, and cards to view the line in operation, may be obtained from the Company's Engineer and the Secretary, as well as at Mr. Weeks, stationer, Nos. 11 and 13, Charing-cross.
The Directors will be happy to receive applications for the priority of application.

HOSPITAL FOR CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST, Brompton, S.W.—Supported by voluntary contributions. Liberal and gratuitous medical aid is afforded to the necessitous poor. JOHN CONNEY, Sec.

GEOLOGY and MINERALOGY.—Collections of Minerals, Rocks, Recent Shells, and Fossils to illustrate the study of Geology, Geography, and Mineralogy, may be had at 2, 3, 10, 20, 30, 40, 50, 100 guineas each, of J. TENNANT, 149, Strand, W.C. 2 gns. Private Instruction in Geology.

FOR FAMILIES OF LIMITED INCOME.—A first-class Educational Establishment, for the sons of Gentlemen only, at Hadleigh, Suffolk, "Alpha," Mr. Whites, M. Fleet-street. Great reduction for brothers.

MR. W. A. OAKLEY'S REGISTERS comprise Landed and Mercantile Investments on the London and North-Western, Great Northern, Great Southern and Western, London and Blackwall, Great Western, Eastern Counties, South-Eastern, and other Railways, Canals, Docks, Banks, Assurance Companies, Gas Companies, Foreign Securities, &c. 2, Exchange-buildings, Liverpool, and 5, Royal Exchange, London.

PICTURE-FRAMES, Best and Cheapest in London.—Every description of Picture-frame and Mouldings kept in stock. The trade and country supplied. Pier-glass Frames, Brackets, Girandoles, Cornices, &c. HOWARD and SON, 28, Berners-street, Oxford-street, W.

TO INVENTORS.—The GENERAL PATENT COMPANY (Limited), 71, Fleet-street, obtains PATENTS for INVENTIONS and affords many important facilities to Inventors. Pamphlet, containing full particulars, free.

HOME AMUSEMENTS.—BAGATELLE BOARDS of the best make, from 35s. 6d. complete. Illustrated Catalogues of Parlour and Outdoor Games sent free by post.—THURSTON and CO., 17, Berners-street, Oxford-street, W.

SUPERB FLOWER SEEDS, post-free at the annexed Price.—100 fine hardy annuals, 5s.; 50 ditto, 2s. 6d.; 25 ditto, 1s. 6d.; 12 ditto, 1s. 3d. Catalogues, with sample packet, 1s., free. R. W. KNIGHT, Florist, 97, High-street, Battle, Sussex.

CRUSHERS of COTTON SEED and LINSEED, Oil Cake, and Meal Makers.—THOMSEN, 6, New Bridge-street, Blackfriars. Prices of Cake or Oil will be sent on application.

FLOWER-SEEDS, CARRIAGE-FREE.—PRIZE MEDALS for 1862 and 1863.—R. SYDENHAM, Seedsman, by Royal Letters Patent to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, 150, Strand, W.C., opposite Somerset House.
No. 1.—50 Sorts, 5s.; 30 Hardy Annuals, 2s.; 20 Ditto, 1s.; 12 Ditto, 6d.; 6d. packet of Mignonette. Post-free for stamps or postal order. With a view to give the utmost purity, ample cultural directions are printed on every packet.
BUTLER and NICHOLSON, Seed Merchants, Covent-garden Market, London.

OUTLINE FOR ILLUMINATION, designed in honour of and all Stationers, Artists, and Colour-men. Price 1s. 6d.—London: WINSOR and NEWTON.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1863.

AT a moment when the attention of all the civilised world is turned upon London it may not be amiss for London to say a few words about it. The occasion is the fairer that in both Houses of Parliament the proposition to which we desire to call the reader's attention has been raised: in the House of Lords by the Earl of Derby; and in the Commons by one of the metropolitan members, Mr. Harvey Lewis, and also by Mr. Tite, the architect. We refer, of course, to the various plans for driving new railways through and under the metropolis.

It seems almost absurd to commence with even a word of declaration that we are fully aware of the great necessity of fresh means of transit through and about town. This Journal has for years been pointing out that the mere regulation of traffic, though highly desirable, can be but a slight step towards meeting the want of the day. We have long called for a different people from Englishmen as they now exist. Certain mechanical inventions have aided to transform the Briton from a slow man into a fast one. He has learned the value of time, and the means by which his journeys, not by miles but by minutes, and he sends his messages, not by post, but by lightning. Whether he has improved by his transformation is not now the question. We must take him as he is, and provide for him accordingly. It suits him to fly from Paddington to the Bank in twenty minutes. Pneumatic people are ready to shoot him through an air tube, as they would a parcel. On the one hand, he must be furnished with steam wings. The underground rail has given the hint, and there are some twenty plans for forwarding him at a Derby pace from one part of our Province of Brick to another. A good many of these plans must be carried out; and if "temple and bar" are to "go to ground" in order to make way for the rail, the fault must lie with an age that cares more for rails than for towers and temples.

Still we hold that there are other things worth thinking about besides railways. Indeed, it is not necessary to let the frantic surveyor loose upon the trembling ratepayer. London is not so rich in fine buildings or open spaces that she can afford to be quite reckless in her legislation in this matter. And if we are to give enormous powers to the railway companies, new and old, and to permit them to engage in gigantic works for the reconstruction of the metropolis, it is time to look to such things at their hands. First, we ought to require that they destroy nothing that is not absolutely in the way of a necessary line; and, secondly, that they shall erect nothing abominably hideous. If we had a Minister for London, as we shall have some day, a kind of Ædile, he would exercise over all plans for the altering of our city that wholesome supervision which has worked advantageously in Paris, and in consequence of which every architectural move in that capital is, or is intended to be, a beautification of the place. But as we have not got such an officer, and as a Whig Minister when appealed to on the subject makes the very Whig answer that things here are different from things abroad, and therefore it might be difficult to borrow a foreign idea, the press must assist independent members of the Legislature in trying to force the invaders into something like concert and common sense.

We shall have to fight them a little, for their notions of the latitude they ought to have are excessively liberal. One of the companies wishes to take Finsbury-circus and turn it into a terminus. There may be a good reason for making a terminus there; but the reason which is given is that the circus, being a little bare of London, and the very few places in the east where the people who are compelled to live in the City can get fresh air, it can be bought more cheaply than if it were covered with houses. The plea is ingenious; and, as it will equally apply to Hyde Park, we recommend legislators who live in the neighbourhood of the latter to be prepared for the consequences of admitting such a plea. If Finsbury-circus is to be destroyed because a railway company can buy it more cheaply than it can buy the abominable block of dwellings a little further, we do not see how a logical Senate can, in the days that are coming, refuse the Round Pond to another company that will desire to join Kensington and Kennington. The Earl of Derby's damaging attack upon the scheme was perfectly fair, and probably we shall not at present hear much more of such a reason as that for ruining a handsome neighbourhood, when the object in view—or, at least, the alleged object—the convenience of the public, can be so much better attained another way! And that this can be done is certain, if Parliament will only insist upon having the whole case before it and sitting in rational council upon the various schemes, instead of letting them take their chance of success or failure and permitting an imitation in the metropolis of the random process by which railways have been laid down to the least advantage throughout the country. We shall we send the line!" was the old question; and the answer was, "Wherever we can get leave to drive it." The result is "Bradshaw," and the temporary insanity of a person who has anything in the way of cross country to do. Surely, the railway map of England is excuse enough even for a Whig Minister's interference with the random projects with which the metropolis is menaced. Even Mr. Cowper thought so. He advised Finsbury to petition, and did not think that a Committee on the whole question would be a needless innovation.

We want much new communication and much railway. But let us make a united struggle, and then we shall get this effected in the best manner, and without any unnecessary destruction. We are opposed to any undue interference with freedom of commercial speculation, which has done, in its clumsy but not unsatisfactory way, more for the cure of comfort and advantage. But we are not bound to consider anybody except the public; and the public, though not very eager, as we have said, about erecting temples and towers, has no desire to see London defaced and disfigured. We would certainly make it a condition that no new terminus of a hideous character should be tolerated. Each of these places ought to be an architectural ornament to our city, and be declared so by an approved tribunal. This is not much to ask in exchange for the vast powers which we are inclined to give to companies in order that they may make dividends out of our restlessness. The thanks of Londoners are due to the Earl of Derby and to the Commoners who have called attention to the matter; and we hope that new and similar demonstrations will convince the public that London is not to be spoiled. A public meeting on the subject would be a good thing.

THE CONVENT OF CZENSTOCHOW.

IT is not very easy to follow the movements of the Polish insurgents; but, from several accounts that have been lately published, it appears that the "holy place" of Czenstochow will be destined to be the scene of a conflict. The most important convents in Eastern Europe have often had to serve as fortresses; and Czenstochow, in the kingdom of Poland, and Calvarya, in Galicia, like the monastery of Mount Carmel, near Haifa, in Syria, and Loretto, in central Italy, are what is very remarkable, have invariably stood them with success. The popular belief as to the impregnability of these holy places, owing to the special protection vouchsafed to them by the saint in whose honour they have been founded, received fresh confirmation as recently as the last war against Russia, when the convent of Odessa in Asia was bombarded for some time without effect, or, rather, with disastrous effect, upon the attacking forces. According to the Russian legend (if a story only some seven or eight years old can be so called) all the cannon-balls fired at the Sobrietski Monastery either fell short or went over the building, with the exception of one only, which struck an image, or ikon, of the Virgin. The Russians believe that the Virgin herself caught the one well-aimed ball to her breast as represented in the sacred picture, and that the guardian spirits which perpetually hover over the holy edifice deflected the rest so that they fell harmless. With the exception of the blessed ikon which drew the cannon-ball to itself, nothing, they say, in the convent was injured.—Indeed, Indeed, some Catholics assert that the birds flew about the place during the action without showing the least symptom of alarm, chirping, singing, and evidently enjoying the whole thing amazingly.

When the Teutonic Monastery was besieged by the Poles in 1612, before the accession of the Romanoffs, the Russian religious historians assure us that St. Sergius, the patron saint of the establishment (a warrior monk who had really rendered important assistance to his countrymen against the Tartars when he was alive), appeared in the air, and, by his attitude and general bearing, so encouraged the Russians that the Poles soon found the siege a hopeless one, and raised their tents, and departed. St. Sergius again made his appearance in 1812, the time not in the air, but standing firmly on the open ground, in front of the monastery or laura, at the head of 20,000 well-armed monks. The Poles, in 1672, did not see Sergius flying about in the air (no Polish authors, as far as we are aware, speak of the apparition), but the French did see him guarding the road to the monastery in 1812. So, at least, the Russians assert; and any Russian well acquainted with the religious traditions of his native land will narrate how Murat was routed to attack the Troitza by Napoleon (it was known to contain a very valuable treasury), and how at the last he found it impossible to do so with the small force placed at his disposal, in consequence of twenty thousand Russian troops in black uniforms suddenly making their appearance outside the walls!

THE ENTRANCE TO CHARLESTON HARBOUR, WITH ITS DEFENCES.—FROM A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST AT CHARLESTON.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 230.

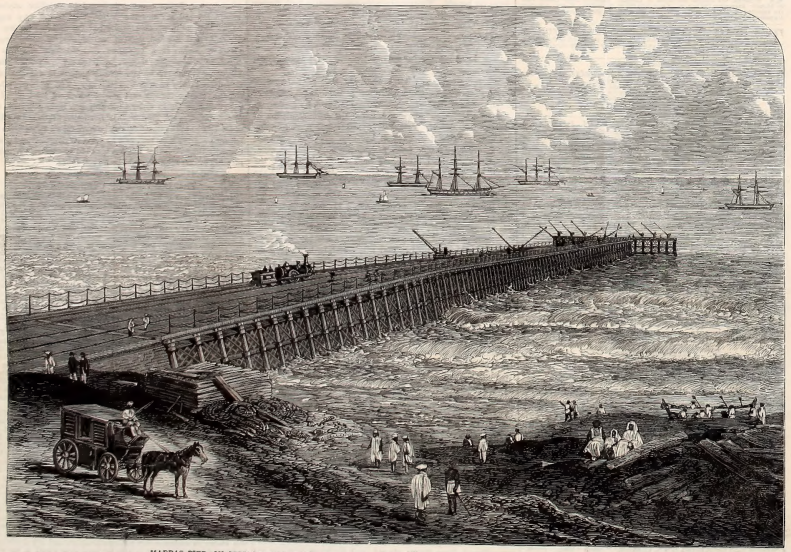
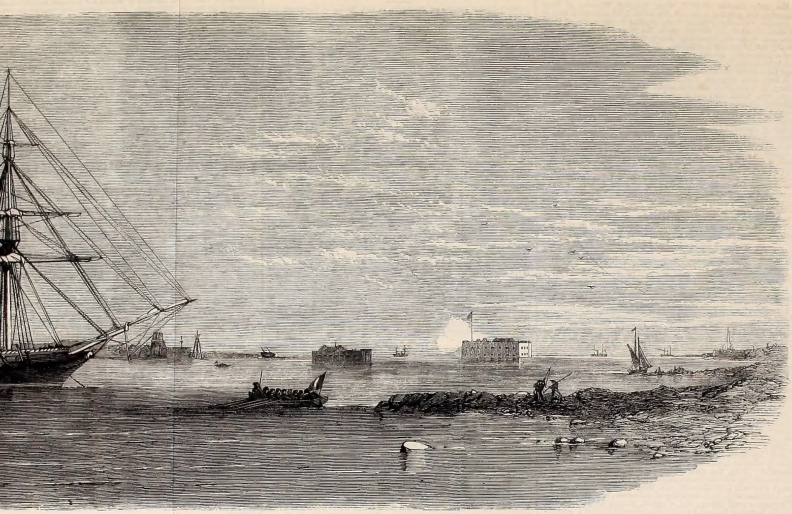
Czenstochow has played nearly the same part in Polish history that the Troitza has played in the history of Russia. The Russians are now to the Poles much what the Tartars were to the Russians from the thirteenth to the fifteenth century; and it was in the Troitza Monastery that the most important of the many unavailing battles of the Russians against the Tartars was planned, as it was at Czenstochow that the Confederates, who maintained a contest against the Russians from 1768 to 1772, finally established their head-quarters. Again the Poles were to the Russians, at the beginning of the seventeenth century, much what the Swedes were to the Poles towards the end; and in the Troitza Monastery the Russians resisted a Polish siege with success, as the Poles resisted a Swedish siege with success in the Convent of Czenstochow.* Finally, Czenstochow and the Troitza are both considered sure of miraculous protection when they are unjustly attacked—we say unjustly, because the attack now expected will be from the Poles, to whom the convent naturally belongs. The Russians have now held the place some weeks; but it was to Czenstochow that the insurgent leader, Langiewicz, was said a few days ago to be directing his forces, and it was to Czenstochow that the Russian troops were to be conducted by the Prussian escort intrusted with the disgraceful duty of leading the executioners to their victims; for the Poles in arms were only looked upon in that light when the convention between Russia and Prussia was first entered into.

Czenstochow occupies a commanding position, and has very natural, as well as supernatural, advantages for standing a siege. But the Virgin of Czenstochow, who bears on her right cheek the marks of two sword-wounds received from the Swedes (which, it is reported, the most cunning painters and restorers are unable to efface) cannot assist the enemies of her country. She ought, on the contrary, to send them forth to their destruction. However that may be, persons of all religions must admit that this time it is the besiegers alone who have any right to expect either Divine protection or human sympathy.



MADRAS PIER, ON SCREW-PILES, THE INVENTION OF MR. ALEXANDER MITCHELL, C.E.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 230.

THE OUTBREAK IN RUSSIAN POLAND: CHURCH AND CONVENT AT CZENSTOCHOW.



FORT MOULTRIE. FORT RIPLEY. FORT SUMTER. FORT JOHNSON.

BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST AT CHARLESTON.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 230.

THE OUTBREAK IN RUSSIAN POLAND: CHURCH AND CONVENT AT CZENSTOCHOW.

Russians have now held the place some weeks; but it was to Czenstochow that the insurgent leader, Langiewicz, was said a few days ago to be directing his forces, and it was to Czenstochow that the Russian troops were to be conducted by the Prussian escort intrusted with the disgraceful duty of leading the executioners to their victims; for the Poles in arms were only looked upon in that light when the convention between Russia and Prussia was first entered into.

Czenstochow occupies a commanding position, and has very natural, as well as supernatural, advantages for standing a siege. But the Virgin of Czenstochow, who bears on her right cheek the marks of two sword-wounds received from the Swedes (which, it is reported, the most cunning painters and restorers are unable to efface) cannot assist the enemies of her country. She ought, on the contrary, to send them forth to their destruction. However that may be, persons of all religions must admit that this time it is the besiegers alone who have any right to expect either Divine protection or human sympathy.

SKETCHES IN PARLIAMENT.

In the early Session of 1857, when the first Ministry of Lord Palmerston was nodding to its fall, the noble Lord assumed a tone in his speeches which has probably been recalled to the minds of those who have witnessed his demeanour in the present Session. In the former case there was something akin to that dementia which is proverbially said to precede men's ruin. In there now a like forsakenness, or if it be event? At any rate, the Premier has taken to lecturing, if not to hectoring, in an unusual manner. On the occasion of proposing the vote for the establishment of the Prince of Wales, when it might have been supposed that he would have been suave and conciliatory, he began with sarcastic sneers at all forms of Government except that which he was about to be noted for the language in but our own, which were not so much to be noted for the language in which they were couched as for the severity and the unfairness of their tone. On Tuesday, on Committee of Supply, the hon. Sir John Hay brought forward the alleged grievances of the Navy, he got what in naval parlance is known as a "regular broadside" from the noble Lord, in terms hardly circumlocutory, that he was a mutineer. To be sure, it was well understood that the noble Lord's remarks, startling sure, it was well understood that the noble Lord's remarks, startling as they were, were premeditated, and avoiding it by an amendment, which was old enough in device but still effectual in result, the Government would have placed him in a minority on a very important question. In fact, Sir John Hay, if a mutineer at all, was in mutiny against the ruler of the Empire of Commons, who accordingly set about bringing him to the rest of the crew into discipline again. By a very obvious coincidence, all day and during the evening there was much talk of a dissolution, and day and during the evening there was much talk of a dissolution, and every one professed to know, or pretended to know, but could easily guess, where. The manœuvre was successful; the enemy outflanked; and a surrender of discretion followed, not without a sense of pain and disappointment from a member for a dockyard borough, who, if not in the Royal Navy, is a sailor, and who has the honourable membership of the Admiralty under a Conservative Government fade like a dissolving view from before his longing eyes. In our belief, this hon. gentleman is not going to be a mutineer. He is a thorough sailor, but the poignancy of his feelings at the failure of what to him was the main object of the night's debate was perhaps less because of the unreality of his hopes. On this occasion Mr. Bernard reappeared. This time he is in the heavyweight champion of the dockyard candidates. He has changed his little, if at all. It is still blatant, aggressive, and vengeance-threatening to all from whom he differs by a hair's-breadth. Mr. Bernard, we know, has set his spring on awful mine of strong epithets; but, as the interest of the occasion declined as it grew, we have not a clear memory of one and a half members in the House, and it was difficult, if not impossible, to get up an explosion. He therefore rather rumbled than roared; but there were indications that he will be a good deal heard of in the domestrivenes on hand.

When naval matters are on the carpet, of course Lord Clarence Paget is prominent; and if ever there was a justification of the tact which enables a professional seaman to be a good naval reformer, it is to be found in his case. Nowadays there is not much force in the phrase nautical, and it hardly represents the idea which one wishes to convey of his noble Lordship's pliable qualities. Perhaps the phrase sea-lawyer will convey to sailors something like a notion of his aptness and doings; but the phrase would be unfair if we said that if they wish to see candour personified and manly virtue in full bow let them look on and listen to the Secretary to the Admiralty. He is making a fine reputation for himself in these instructions. Why, the other night, when Lord Robert Montagu—whose sailorship is not unknown—attempted to find fault with a plan—ventured to attack Lord Clarence, in a bungling way, mixing up the Lord Lieutenancy of Kent, a regulation of Greenwich Hospital, hostilities at Chatham, a good dinner, and a special railway train, for all of which the Secretary to the Admiralty was responsible from a corrupt-practices-of-election point of view, he was met by a burst of fun that had committed an outrage on the meekest, purest of mankind, who only retained a backward hope that he might be able to speak intelligibly. As for painting a picture of the Navy, Lord Clarence possesses an unlimited supply of rose-colour; and as one hears him dwelling on the state of things in respect to the Navy, and everything else naval, ideas of Paradise steal insensibly upon the senses, and we cannot but dream that a period is about to arrive to be kept in such a region of bliss how this will be the fate of its existence. To say the truth, however successful Lord Clarence may appear to have been in office in making things pleasant, there does seem a tendency now to think that plausibility as an official virtue may be carried a little too far, and that things are to be made too easy for the Lords by a rather suggestive circumstance, that whereas on Monday the House was told that the Navy was a thing of yore, on Tuesday the House was introduced an array of facts and figures to show that it was a species of gulf of perdition. To be sure, the latter is the saying of malcontents, who, to establish that the Secretary to the Admiralty is a humbug, cry out for cakes and ale.

Allusion has been made above to the stern lecture of the Premier in bringing forward the question of an allowance to the Prince of Wales; and perhaps in this may be found a reason for some of the caustic observations which fell from several members when the extremely moderate and well-advised scheme was stated. It would be beyond Sir Hugh Cairnhill's powers to avail a descendant of Scottish mercenaries, and Mr. Williams is always forgiven for expressing his difficulty in getting two and two to make more than three and a half; but why should Sir John Trelawny be snappish about the revenues of the Duchy of Cornwall? One cannot but fancy that even Mr. White, of Brighton, must have smiled ironically when the member for Tavistock talked of standing up for the rights of the people on the accumulation of an essentially private estate. If a private fund has been made for a dotation irrespective of the revenues of the duchy, the leak in the dam of the taxpayers' purse could hardly have its source in that fund, which are more than filled by the church-rate question. There have been symptoms of watchfulness over the estimates this year; at least, several have thought them so; but Monday's vote is a step far away. Notably, Mr. Cobden has been patient and active, too, in the only debate which has yet occurred on Estimates. He did not show his speech, though pointed and energetic, was unsatisfactory, perhaps because, while he was pressing his case to a point, he forgot that he was himself at times curiously illogical, as platform orators generally are, and therefore are successful. For the rest, the business has been mainly Irish, and therefore has run in its most natural sense. It is observable that, when an Irish measure is coming on, should be in advance all the Irish members, and, indeed, all the Irish members, and, indeed, all the Irish members, and, indeed,

NATIONAL SPORTS.

"ADAM was the first man," says the song, and Adams was the winner of the first flat race in the 1868 season, on Manrico, one of William Day's favourite Tudmor blood. Twenty two-year-olds were saddled for the Brocklesby Stakes, and gave Mr. Elliot, the starter, an hour's trouble. Starbeam was eventually left at the post, and only five were really in the race from the commencement. The winner (Baron Rothschild) is an own sister to Tomyris, and one of three King Tom fillies which have generally proved so fast in their first season and gone to nothing after. The horse seems, as might have been expected, very forward in their preparation. The Nottingham race-meeting occupies Tuesday and Wednesday, and Derby has a meeting on Thursday. The Great Northern Handicap weights are out, and Carbineer (8st. 12lb.) has experienced rather more lenient treatment than he did in the autumn.

Lord Strafford has had his celebrated mare Tectotum, a month before foaling, on own brother to Asteroid, which was also, if born alive, to be sold by auction at Tattersall's. Mr. Merry's subscription is almost full, and Phryne and Gladiola, Waterloo's daughter, have reached Colonel's paddocks at Hasketon. By this cross for Phryne Mr. Merry has fixed on the most direct way of getting another Thormanby. The Derby chestnut was the son of Melbourne or Windhound from Alice Hawthorne, and if Alice is a foal in this instance, it will be by a son of Melbourne and Alice Hawthorne from the dam of Windhound. The interchange of blood is curious, and the result will be keenly looked for. "A slice of Alice" is here, if grandly becoming of high value in breeders' eyes.

Sir Walter Wyndham's hard luck out of the season on Thursday took from Marsden Grove, 1h. 20m., with a hill in the open, over the forest part of the Cheshire country. For a few weeks past their sound has been breast high. The Quorn have had a good run, a hybrid sport than any pack in the north of England. The scent has been very catching, while the Harewich, whose grub lies in Yelvet Park, from the famed Fighting Cocks Whin, with a fox which gave them 3h. 35m. before nightfall, when they had to whip off.

Owing to a variety of causes Mr. Gordon Canning was not quite so satisfactory as usual. Sea Fink and Kingmaker were beat in the third fire, and Streamer and Foam in the fourth. Mr. Mostyn Baines's four strings to his bow all failed. Silkworm, Robo, Chloe, and Reliance—the three first from Bigwood, the latter from Aldershot—were left in on Friday night; and Chloe, after a very favourable course with Reliance, beat Robo, who made a mistake at the first ditch in a corner hardly good enough for a Welter Cup. Robo and Chloe, the property of Mr. Lister, of Beamsley Hall, near Skipton, is a daughter of Stockwell, and her third of three foals in her very cup. Like King Lear, she had good luck in all her courses; but, even after she had won two, she was the worst favourite of the six—even after she had won two beat at 33 to 1. After winning four she was still at the bottom of the quotations at 7 to 1. She won the Alfred Cup by over the same ground in a canter, so that there was not, perhaps, so much "duke" about it after all. The David blood was not bottled with De Grey's Gladiator, the winner of the Purse, for which Sea Gull ran up, and with Mr. Price's Patent in the Plate, where Scotland got second honours with Dunoon. Only nine of the dogs engaged in the big leg-up were left among them were Reliance and Silkworm. On the day before the meeting Patent was brought in at 200 gs., but Reliance, with the Alexandra Park meeting cocples Tuesday, &c., and, under its new Waterloo regulations, it will perhaps prove the most attractive tourney of the year.

Deerfoot completed 11 miles at Brompton, on Monday, in 1h 4m., under the hour. He is matched to run ten miles against Lang, at Hackney-wick, on Monday.

The cricket is very full already. The two Elevens meet at Lords on May 25, and at the Oval on Aug. 24 (Sewell's benefit). George Parr's Internicioal Eleven will consist of himself, Mr. E. M. Grace, Lockyer, Caffyn, Carpenter, Tarrant, Oscar, Diver, Lockyer, Anderson, and another to be chosen by the majority of the Eleven. Mr. Osbaldeston Mordaunt has been appointed Lang, at Hackney-wick, on Monday.

The cricket is very full already. The two Elevens meet at Lords on May 25, and at the Oval on Aug. 24 (Sewell's benefit). George Parr's Internicioal Eleven will consist of himself, Mr. E. M. Grace, Lockyer, Caffyn, Carpenter, Tarrant, Oscar, Diver, Lockyer, Anderson, and another to be chosen by the majority of the Eleven. Mr. Osbaldeston Mordaunt has been appointed Lang, at Hackney-wick, on Monday.

Jackson's single-wicket challenge, which was originally forwarded to us, after some correspondence, through a mutual North Riding friend:—

BIRMINGHAM STEEPLECHASES.—MONDAY.

Edlington Plate—Xanthus, 1, Nimrod, 2, Lucifer, 3.
Hunt Cup.—Joe Maby, 1, Ireley, 2, Mutton, 3.
Sutton Handicap.—Lucifer, 1, Lucknow, 2, Wilful, 3. Chastisement, 3.
Hunters' Stakes.—Jerry, 1. It's All Over, 2. Killarney, 3.

TUESDAY.

Scurry Handicap.—Jerry, 1, Orkonita, 2.
Birmingham Grand Annual Steeplechase.—Emblem, 1. Joe Maby, 2. Mutineer, 3.
Almond Trustees' Plate.—Deceiver, 1. Light of Other Days, 2. Mutton, 3.
Hunters' Welter Cup.—Fortern Hope, 1. The Lady of La Garaye, 2. Windsor, 3.

LINCOLN SPRING MEETING.—WEDNESDAY.

Trial Stakes.—Maurice, 1, Sovereign, 2. Prologue, 3.
City Handicap.—Sydney, 1, Cornelius, 2. Red Jan, 3.
Brocklesby Stakes.—Sister to Tomyris, 1. Lady Nichol, 2. Faith, 3.
Ash-dyed Stakes.—Lord Aylmer, 1. Colonel Martial, 2. Scamella, 3.
Grand Steeplechase.—Pineapple, 1. Marliana, 2.

THURSDAY.

Selling Stakes.—Estrella, 1. Sanita, 2. Hazard, 3.
Lincolnshire Handicap.—Sandiway, 1. Jack-in-the-Box, 2. Prignot, 3.
Scurry Handicap.—Mr. Somerville, 1. Confession, 2. Prologue, 3.
Handicap Hurdle Race.—Lincoln, 1. Sinking Fund, 2. Bay Middleton, 3.
Hunt Steeplechase.—Victress, 1. Rock the Gardener, 2. Turquin, 3.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

MR. Daniel Whittle Harvey, Chief Commissioner of the City Police, died on Thursday morning.

At the adjourned meeting of the governors of Bethlehem Hospital on Thursday week, it was resolved unanimously—"That the proposition for purchasing Bethlehem Hospital by St. Thomas' Hospital cannot be entertained."

The anniversary festival of the Asylum for Fatherless Children (one of the noble charities founded by the late Dr. Reed) was held on Wednesday evening at the London Tavern—Mr. Frederick Gould, M.P., presiding. A large number of ladies was present. In the course of the evening subscriptions to the amount of £4000 were announced.

Last week the births of 1908 children—1013 boys and 895 girls—were registered in London. In the ten corresponding weeks of the years 1858-67 the average number was 1,496. The number in the last week were 1877. The average number of deaths in the third week of February in ten years was 1,496. This is a correction for increase of population, &c.

Owing to the very large and increasing number of outpatients attending the Hospital for Diseases of the Throat, Victoria Park, it has become necessary to enlarge the present building. It is proposed to erect a wing; and for that purpose to provide for the expenditure of about £6000 is required. There is to be a dinner in aid of the fund, at the London Tavern, on the 18th of March.

The Court of Common Council had a meeting on Tuesday, at which, among other matters, the proposed new street from Blackfriars Bridge to the Houses of Parliament was under consideration. A proposition was expressed to the idea of the Board of Works entering the City at all, as well as to the proposed line of the new street. That matter was referred to the improvements committee.

The preparations for the accommodation of the public to view the entry of Princess Alexandra along the route from the Bricklayers' Arms station are now very general, and, with the exception of the principal in good time for the procession on Saturday next, March 7; while, from the offices which are being made in the City, Westminster, and Southwark, the general illumination is expected to be extensively effective.

A grand number of Chambers of Commerce of the United Kingdom have formed themselves into an association for the protection of mercantile interests in London. The association met on Tuesday at the Westminster Palace Hotel—Mr. Lloyd, the president of the association, in the chair. There were representatives of the Chambers of Commerce from the principal manufacturing towns in the Kingdom. The subjects brought under discussion were—the law of partnership, the patent laws, the new law of bankruptcy, and of which was unanimously recommended; in all the others amendments were suggested. On Wednesday the resolutions took place, and resolutions were carried, respecting commercial treaties, the charges imposed by the Customs Act of 1860, the Sabbath dues on foreign shipping, belligerent rights at sea, the duty on fire insurances, the charges for bonding goods at inland warehouses, and the transmission of samples and patterns through the post.

The council of University College, at their session on Saturday last, filled up the vacant offices of physicians and of professor of clinical medicine at the hospital by the appointment of Dr. Ker; and they appointed Mr. Sydney Jones to the vacant professorship of materia medica. By the recommendation of the senate of the college, they conferred upon Dr. Walshe, lately professor of clinical medicine, the title of emeritus professor, to assume the title of Emeritus Professor of Medicine.

The Royal Horticultural Society held its flower show of the year, in their gardens at South Kensington, on Wednesday. Although the season is yet early, and the effect of diminishing the area was felt, the show, the attendance nevertheless, especially of ladies, was large and fashionable. The chief objects of interest were hyacinths, tulips, primulas, lilies of the valley, erices, rhododendrons, and forced plants and flowers, all of which were in the finest perfection, and excited general admiration.

MONETARY TRANSACTIONS OF THE WEEK.

(From our City Correspondent.)

THE continued downward movement in the Government Funds, arising from the increased complications of the Polish question, has had a depressing influence upon other securities. The transactions in Consols have given way to a limited extent, and the purchases of stock on account of the public have been trifling. No change of importance has taken place in the value of Indian Stocks, but the demand for them has been much restricted.

The Money Market is somewhat heavily supplied with capital, and the demand for accommodation is very inactive, in a comparative sense. In Lombard-street loans have been commonly effected at 2½ per cent.

Thirty days' bills, ...	3½ per cent.	Four months'	3½ to 4 per cent
Two months'	3½ per cent.	Six months'	4 per cent.
Three months'	3½ per cent.

In the Stock Exchange money rules at 2½ per cent, at which, however, very little is doing. The joint-stock banks and discount houses are still giving 3 per cent for deposits, and 2½ per cent for money at call, with only a limited demand.

The Continent money is less active. The rates in the leading cities are as under:—

	Bank rate.	Open market.		Bank rate.	Open market.
	per cent.	per cent.	Amsterdam	3½	3½
Paris	3	2½	Berlin	5	4½
Vienna	6	6	Hamburg	5	4½
Trieste	6	6	Frankfort	5	4½
Frankfort	5	4½	Madrid	5	5

The export inquiry for gold has continued limited, but the amount sold to the Bank has not increased, although over £160,000 has arrived from various parts of the Continent, and £30,000 from Australia, chiefly from Melbourne. The total imports of gold into the United Kingdom during the year have been £27,815,102, of which £12,681,184 were from Australia, and £135,851,127 in bullion.

The silver market movement have, we understand, succeeding in raising a loan of £3,000,000 in Paris on Friday, and therefore the security of cotton to be shipped to the Continent will be made on to-day.

The Bank of England has increased its stock of bullion £1,102,000, New York the premium on gold has receded, and the exchange for bankers' bills, 119.

The Funds were dull on Monday and Tuesday, and declined ¼ per cent. Money, closed on Tuesday [illegible] Ditto, for Account, 92¾ ¼; Reduced and New Three per Cents, 92¾ ¼; Three per Cents, 1853-5, 92¾ ¼; Three per Cents, Annuities, 1726, the Five per Cents, 103¾; the Five-and-a-Half per Cent, 112; India Five per Cents, 103¾; Ditto Four per Cents, 94; Ditto Three per Cents, 87; Bank stock, stationary—Consols, for Money, left off at 92¾ ¾; Reduced and New Three per Cents, left off at 92¾ ¾; Three per Cents, 1853-5, left off at 92¾ ¾; and 113¾; Long Annuities, 14¾; Red Sea Annuities, 21¾; India Debentures, left off at 103¾ 104; Ditto Five per Cents, 103¾; Exchequer Bills, 1868, 1d. to 3d. prem. The quotations showed signs of weakness on Wednesday, and closed as follows:—Consols, for Money, left off at 92¾ ¾; Reduced Paper, 112; Consols, for Transfer, marked 92¾ ¾; Ditto, for Time, 92¾ ¾; Reduced and New Three per Cents, 92¾ ¾; Three per Cents, 1853-5, 92¾ ¾; India Five per Cents, 103 to 108; India Debentures, 1905; Exchequer Bills, 1868, 1d. to 3d. prem. The funds were unsettled on Thursday, and closed as follows:—Money, realised 92¾ ¾; for Account, 92¾ to ¾; the Reduced and New Three per Cents, 92¾ ¾; Three per Cents, 1853-5, 92¾ ¾; Bank Stock, stationary, 239; India Five per Cent Stocks, 103½.

The Stock Exchange was depressed, and a fall of nearly 2 per cent has taken place in prices. Mexican Stock is rather less firm, and Italian continues dull. Spanish, Turkish, and Portuguese Securities are without change. Five per Cents, 103; Ditto, Four-and-a-Half per Cents, 93¾; Spanish, 16½; Egyptian, 91½; Ditto, Unified, 47½; Ditto, Four per Cents, 1868, 87½; Mexican, Three per Cents, 23½; Moorish, 84¾ ex div.; New Grenada, 18¾; Ditto, Two per Cents, 1842, 9½; Peruvian, Four-and-a-Half per Cents, 1872, 59¾; Portuguese Three per Cents, 47; Russian Five per Cents, 89¾; Ditto Four-and-a-Half per Cents, 1862, 84¾; Ditto Four per Cents, 1867, 84¾; Ditto Four per Cents, 1868, 84¾; Ditto, Deferred, 46¾; Ditto, Passive, 25¾; Ditto, Certificates, 1859, 84¾; Ditto, Four per Cents, 1862, 84¾; Ditto, Four per Cents, 1864, 84¾; Ditto, Small, 75¾; Turkish Four per Cents, 102 ex div.; Venezuela Three per Cents, 19¾; Ditto, Deferred, and Interest, 8¾; Ditto, Scrip, 3¾.

Less activity has been observed in the market for Joint-stock Bank shares, and, in some instances, quotations have given way somewhat, while transactions have slightly declined. Agra and United Service have realised 97; Alliance, 27½; Anglo-Portuguese, 19½; Australasia, 84½; Chartered of India, Australia, and London, 21½; Chartered of British Columbia, 8½; Chartered of India, Australia, and China, 41½; Chartered Mercantile, 24½; English and Australian, 24½; Australian Chartered, 29½ ex div.; Imperial, 15½; London and Colonial, 3; London and Eastern, 4½; London and Joint-Stock, 10½; London and Middle Africa, 2½; National Provincial of England, New, 21½; Oriental, 8½; Ottoman, 10½; Provincial of Ireland, 7½; Provincial of South Africa, 8½; Union of Australia, 51½; Union of England and France, 5; and Union of London, 21.

The dealings in Railway Shares and miscellaneous Securities have been limited; nevertheless, prices almost generally have ruled firm. Canada Six per Cents, 1877-81, 107½; Canada Six per Cents, 1878-88, 107½; Ditto, Five per Cents, 1877-81, 101; Natal Six per Cents, 110½; New Brunswick Six per Cents, 106½; New South Wales Five per Cents, 1867-70, 101½; Victoria Six per Cents, 1867-70, 107½.

Miscellaneous Securities have changed hands to a moderate extent. The leading quotations are as follow:—Red Sea Telegraph, 20½; Anglo-American Telegraph, 109 ex div.; English and Australian Copper, 14½; Great Ship Insurance, 6½; Hudson's Bay, 12½; Imperial Mercantile Credit Association, 24½; London General Omnibus, 18½; National Discount, 84½; North British Australian Land, 1½; Peninsular and Oriental Steam, 74½; Ditto, New, 74½; Australian Land, 3½; Telegraph to India, 4½; and Van Diemen's Land, 12½.

In the Railway Share Market transactions are limited in extent; nevertheless, prices almost generally have been fairly supported. The traffi returns still show a steady increase. The following are the closing quotations:—

ORDINARY SHARES AND STOCKS.—London and South-Western, 101½; Metropolitan, 141; North British, 52½; North-Eastern—Berwick, 104½; North Staffordshire, 12½; Shropshire Union, 7½; and Stockton, 8½.

PREFERENCE SHARES.—Midland—Bristol and Birmingham, 137; North-Eastern, Yorkshire, 107½.

LINES LEASED AT FIXED RENTALS.—London and Chatham, 94½; London and Greenwich, 14½.

BRITISH POSSESSIONS.—Grand Trunk of Canada, First Preference, 107½; Second Preference, 87; Great Western of Canada, 41½; Ditto, Six per Cent Sterling Bonds, 1873, 107½; Ditto, Six per Cent Bonds, 1893; Macras, Five per Cents, 1873; Madras, Three-quarters per Cent, 94½; Punjaub, 7½; and Delhi, 1½.

FOREIGN.—Antwerp and Rotterdam, 8½; Great Luxembourg, 15½; Rouen and San Francisco, 14½; San Paulo, 21½.

The returns of the Bank of England for the week ending Feb. 25 shows the following results when compared with the preceding statement:—

Total reserve	Decrease	£171,711	Public deposits amount to £7,201,653,
An increase of public deposits of		£88,581	A decrease of rest of	£2,141
An increase of other deposits of		£1,102,081	A decrease of securities of ..	£1,102,081
A decrease of securities of ..		£1,102,081

The bullion in the Bank is £19,714,098. Public deposits amount to £7,201,653, and private deposits to £13,367,158. Securities are £29,709,079; and the stock of bullion is £24,614,098.

THE MARKETS.

CORN EXCHANGE (Feb. 24).—The supply of English wheat on offer in to-day's market was small, and the trade ruled steady for all kinds of fine qualities, at about last week's rates; in the secondaries of from 1s. to 2s. per quarter, and at which a clearance was not effected. Foreign wheat was in moderate request, at full prices. Barley commanded a steady sale. Floating cargoes of grain were dull, and the turn cheaper. Malting and seed barley was in fair request, at full prices. Malt was in good demand, at 1s. per quarter advance. Beans and peas were in steady request, at the late improvement. Oats were in limited request, but transactions in them were by no means numerous. In prices, however, no change occurred.

FOR.D.—Wheat has a wide sale, at Monday's currency. Flour sold briskly; but the value of the latter article was barely supported.

Arrivals of wheat and flour into the Thames, 10,000 qrs.; Ditto, Medway, 2,000; Scotch and Suffolk, viâ Ely, 4,000; Ditto, Yarmouth, 1,000; Ditto, Lynn, 1,000; Ditto, Boston, 500; Ditto, Hull, 1,000; Ditto, Goole, 1,000; Ditto, Liverpool, 1,000; Ditto, Bristol, 500; Ditto, Gloucester, 500; Ditto, Chester, 500; Ditto, Wisbeach, 500; Ditto, Sharpness, 500; Ditto, Newport, 500; Ditto, Swansea, 500; Ditto, Carmarthen, 500; Ditto, Milford, 500; Ditto, Cork, 500; Ditto, Waterford, 500; Ditto, Limerick, 500; Ditto, Dublin, 500; Ditto, Belfast, 500; Ditto, Londonderry, 500; Ditto, Sligo, 500; Ditto, Galway, 500; Ditto, Dundee, 500; Ditto, Aberdeen, 500; Ditto, Leith, 500; Ditto, Perth, 500; Ditto, Montrose, 500; Ditto, Arbroath, 500; Ditto, Peterhead, 500; Ditto, Inverness, 500; Ditto, Wick, 500; Ditto, Fraserburgh, 500; Ditto, Banff, 500; Ditto, Cullen, 500; Ditto, Elgin, 500; Ditto, Kirkwall, 500; Ditto, Stromness, 500; Ditto, Lerwick, 500; Ditto, Portrush, 500; Ditto, Portstewart, 500; Ditto, Coleraine, 500; Ditto, Ballyshannon, 500; Ditto, Donegal, 500; Ditto, Derry, 500; Ditto, Dundalk, 500; Ditto, Drogheda, 500; Ditto, Wexford, 500; Ditto, Waterford, 500; Ditto, Kilkenny, 500; Ditto, Clonmel, 500; Ditto, Youghal, 500; Ditto, Kinsale, 500; Ditto, Bandon, 500; Ditto, Skibbereen, 500; Ditto, Tralee, 500; Ditto, Limerick, 500; Ditto, Ennis, 500; Ditto, Galway, 500; Ditto, Sligo, 500; Ditto, Ballina, 500; Ditto, Westport, 500; Ditto, Killybegs, 500; Ditto, Londonderry, 500; Ditto, Coleraine, 500; Ditto, Portrush, 500; Ditto, Portstewart, 500; Ditto, Belfast, 500; Ditto, Newry, 500; Ditto, Drogheda, 500; Ditto, Dundalk of the requisite physical force and that accumulation of passionate feeling and augmented intelligence demanded by the increasing interest of a well-constructed play. She is partly indebted for this to that school of high art in which she has evidently matriculated and for which she is eminently suited. It may be that in the more natural scenes of the new play Miss Sedgwick played with extraordinary spontaneity; but it is also true that in the more imaginative situations she rose to the height of the sentiment, and fully satisfied the intelligent spectator. In the scene which our Artist has chosen for his Illustration this is eminently the case. Here Miss Sedgwick, redeemed by the supposed goldsmith from the inconveniences of servitude, has to mark the period of transition between the state of depression into which she had fallen and that of the elevation to which she is destined to be restored. Such a situation is precisely the one that offers the best opportunity for artistic delineation, and Miss Sedgwick certainly availed herself of it in an admirable manner. The scene itself is picturesque, as our readers will perceive from the Engraving, which represents the bridal party on its return from the church, and closes the act with a graceful and striking tableau.

SCENE FROM "THE WINNING SUIT," AT THE PRINCESS' THEATRE: RETURNING FROM THE WEDDING.

DOSSABHOY SORABJEE, MOONSHEE.

DOSSABHOY SORABJEE, a man of Oriental learning and considerable literary talent, belongs to a respectable priestly family. Among the Parsees priesthood is hereditary and as nobility amongst most nations is regarded as conferring distinction on a family, so the sacerdotal order is viewed by Parsees in a somewhat similar light.

Dossabhoy was born, in the year 1786, in the city of Broach, in the province of Guzerat. His father had received such education as was within his reach in those days. It sufficed, however, to enable him to appreciate the advantages resulting from a sound education, and prompted him to leave his native country for Bombay, in order that to his only son, the subject of this memoir, such learning might be imparted as the resources of the now renowned capital of Western India could then furnish. Accordingly, in 1798, Dossabhoy, at the age of twelve years, was brought to Bombay by his father; and his mother, who was a daughter of the late Dustoor Kamdeen, the then celebrated High Priest of the Parsee community of Broach, also accompanied her son. He was immediately placed in the Persian seminary conducted by Hajee Mahomed Kuyem, one of the learned natives of those days. Here Dossabhoy attracted great notice by his passion for books and his aptitude for learning. For about seven years he pursued his studies with unwearied assiduity and the closest application. His most intimate schoolfellows at this time were Mahomed Sycod Rogay, a brother of Mahomed Ali Rogay, and Mahomed Ibrahim Mochin. It is, indeed, a pleasing circumstance to record that in after years these three promising young men became worthy citizens and useful members of society, and promoters of Oriental literature.

DOSSABHOY SORABJEE, MOONSHEE, OF BOMBAY.

In the year 1805 Dossabhoy left the seminary for the busy scenes of active life. He was first employed as a Persian teacher by the late Wadia Hormajee Bomanjee, Esq., and several young gentlemen of that commercial and ancient family were placed under his tuition. One of these pupils was the late Mr. Dossabhoy Jamsetjee Wadia, whose high attainments as a Persian scholar shed a lustre on both the pupil and his teachers. From this illustrious family Dossabhoy obtained the title of Moonshee. His knowledge of Persian, as well as of Gujarate and Hindustani, became at this time well known in Bombay. Not only was his knowledge of the languages great, but he possessed the rare faculty of being able to impart knowledge to others. At this time, however, Dossabhoy was labouring under a very serious disadvantage. There was then no English school in Bombay. But Dossabhoy, with his wonted application, surmounted this difficulty. He began to study English in his leisure hours at home by himself; and though, being thus self-instructed, he had not the advantage of a systematic English training, yet he acquired a tolerably good knowledge of the English language, which was subsequently greatly improved by his constant and unremitting intercourse with Europeans.

About this period several Armenian merchants who had settled in Bombay from Persia placed their sons under Dossabhoy's tuition. Our readers may not be unaware that the Armenians residents in Persia use, like the rest of the inhabitants, the Persian language. Dossabhoy's fame as a first-rate Oriental teacher now attracted the attention of English gentlemen in the late Hon. East India Company's service. The first British officer who studied Persian under Dossabhoy was Captain Robert Taylor, who for many years was Resident at Bagdad. On his arrival at the presidency of Bombay he began to read with Dossabhoy "The History of Scinde" in the Persian language. On the annexation, in 1817, of Poonah to the British dominions in the East, and during, as well as subsequent to, the administration of the late Hon. Mount Stuart Elphinstone, who was Governor of Bombay from 1819 to 1827, many young cadets and civilians placed themselves under Dossabhoy's tuition in Bombay for the study of the native languages in which they had to undergo an examination.

Dossabhoy's character as a judicious and efficient teacher soon became well established, and his popularity among the European and native communities was the natural result of his pleasing manners. It would be tedious to mention all the names of Dossabhoy's distinguished pupils. Suffice it to say that in the list of his scholars appear the names of Messrs. Warden, Simpson, Le Geyt, Reeves, W. E. Frere, Sir Bartle Frere, Messrs. Hebbert, Bellosie, Gibbs, Robertson, Ellis, and many other civil, military, and medical officers.

Dossabhoy is the author of several works. In the year 1808 he published a Gujarate translation of a small Persian treatise called "The Redeem Namah." It gives a very brief outline of the ancient history of Persia, and a cursory account of the emigration of the Persian progenitors of the present Parsees of India. In 1818 Dossabhoy published, at the express wish and through the support of the late Framjee Cawasjee, Esq., a translation of an excellent Persian work entitled the "Tankarat-ul-Hukama," which embodies the life, writings, and moral doctrines of the ancient Grecian and modern Mohammedan philosophers. In 1827 and 1833 he translated two Persian works, respectively "Shawahid-un-Nabuwah-Fi Ishalil Kabisah," and "Dal-eel Hual," published by the late learned Rajee Mahomed Hoshim Isfahanee, on the subject of the long year in the Parsee religion. In 1852 he published a translation of another Persian work, called "Gawahul Kabeesah Dur. Deen-i-Zartoshtiyeh," on the same subject. The publication of these translations increased greatly Dossabhoy's reputation. Soon after the conversion of two Parsee youths, in 1839, Dossabhoy published a work called the "Taleemi-Zartoshti; or, the Doctrines of Zoroaster." This work was a complete success, and its publication gained for Dossabhoy much popularity among the Parsee community. In 1843 he published his famous "Idiomatical Sentences in English, Hindustani, Gujaratee, and Persian." This book contains useful and popular phrases on military, medical, judicial, mercantile, and miscellaneous subjects. In the publication of this polyglot work the author had the benefit of the distinguished patronage of the late much-lamented Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy, Bart. In 1846 he published, at the express wish of Burjorjee Muncherjee Wadia, Esq., a translation of an English work entitled "The Catechism of Health." In 1849 he issued a translation of three excellent Persian works—viz., the "Khalshah," the "Zar-i Deet Afshar," and the "Zindah Rood." The first-mentioned book treats of rational and theological doctrines in proof of the existence of an everlasting Providence, &c. The second and the third treat of metaphysical doctrines. These translations, together with the original Persian, have been published at the expense of Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy Translation Fund.

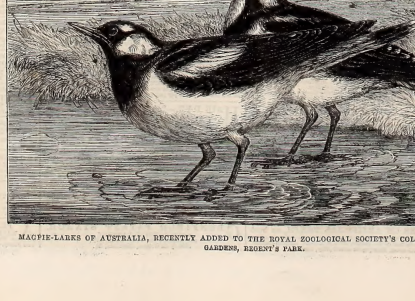
Last year Dossabhoy was elected a member of the Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy Parsee Institution, and in 1855 he received from Government the commission of one of her Majesty's justices of the peace for Bombay. In 1860 the Hon. W. E. Frere, now member of Council at Bombay, got Dossabhoy's likeness photographed at his own expense in token of his feeling of high respect and regard for his old moonshee.

Dossabhoy is in the seventy-fifth year of his age, and in the enjoyment of good health and all his mental faculties. He is a poet as well as a prose-writer, having composed a number of verses on various subjects in Persian and Hindustani.

THE MAGPIE-LARKS OF AUSTRALIA AT THE ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY'S GARDENS, REGENT'S PARK.

THE Zoological Society of London are indebted to the well-known Australian botanist, Dr. F. Müller, Director of the Botanical Gardens in Melbourne, Australia, for a very interesting addition which has lately been made to their living collection in Regent's Park. It consists of a pair of the magpie-lark, or pied grallina (Grallina Australis), a well-known and familiar species of bird in the antipodean continent, but one which has not previously been alive.

"Few of the Australian birds (Mr. Gould remarks, in his great work on the birds of Australia) are more attractive than the pied grallina, or more elegant and graceful in its actions; and these, combined with its tame and familiar disposition, must ever obtain for it the friendship and protection of the settlers, whose verandahs and houses it constantly visits, running along the latter like the pied wagtail of our own island. In fact, the two birds, except in size, are very similar. The flight of the grallina, is very peculiar, and unlike that of any other Australian bird. It much resembles that of the common pewit of Europe, and is performed with the same heavy, flapping motion of the wings. Still, the flight of the two birds differ materially during their passage through the air, the grallina passing noiselessly, and generally in a straight line, while the pewit makes sudden turns and dips—a peculiarity in its mode of flight which must have been noticed by all who have seen the bird on the wing. Its natural note is a peculiarly shrill whining whistle, often repeated. The nest may be regarded as one of the anomalies of Australia, so unlike is it to anything usually met with. It is from five to six inches in breadth and three in depth, and is formed of soft mud, which, soon becoming hard and solid upon exposure to the atmosphere, has precisely the appearance of a massive clay-coloured earthenware vessel."



MAGPIE-LARKS OF AUSTRALIA, RECENTLY ADDED TO THE ROYAL ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY'S COLLECTION IN THEIR GARDENS, REGENT'S PARK.

The pair of grallinas in the Zoological Society's gardens have been placed in a compartment at one end of the fishhouse, which seems in every way suited to their habits, having a sheltered gravelly pool of clear water inclosed within it, where these birds may be observed fishing and dipping themselves like the common wagtails of this country. The pair of grallinas are so well reconciled to their situation here that there is every hope of their being induced to build one of their curious nests.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

BIRTHS.

On the 23rd inst., at Ashfield, Bromley, the wife of William Robinson, Jun., Esq., of a daughter.

On the 24th inst., at Moolmain, in British Burmah, the wife of Mr. William Townley, Collector of Customs, of a son.

MARRIAGES.

On the 5th inst., at Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal, by the Rev. E. J. Rogers, Garrison Chaplain, Major Charles Courtenay Luttrell, H.M. 4th Regiment, to Ellen, only daughter of the late James Shanly, Esq., of Thorndale, in the township of Westminster, Middlesex County, and formerly of Norman's Grove, in the county of Meath, Ireland.

DEATHS.

On the 21st inst., at Pimlico, in his 58th year, deeply regretted, Charles Lethbridge, eldest surviving son of the late Thomas Parker, Esq., of Henley-on-Thames.

On the 19th inst., at Fulmouth, the Right Hon. Charles Edward, Earl of Colchester, aged 58.

On the 18th inst., at Plymouth, the Right Hon. Lord Rosslyn.

On the 30th ult., at Toronto, Sir John Beverley Robinson, Bart., D.C.L., late President of the Court of Appeal, and for more than forty years Chief Justice of Upper Canada, in his 72nd year.

At Versailles, the Princess-Duchess de Polx, née Talleyrand-Périgord, widow of the Prince-Duc de Polx, formerly French Ambassador at St. Petersburg, aged 77.

On the 22nd inst., in Chesterfield-street, Dowager Lady Carteret, aged 86.

"77 and 78," Oxford-street (corner of Windsy-street, opposite the Pantheon).

MAPPIN AND COMPANY

RESPECTFULLY SOLICIT ATTENTION TO THEIR

PERFECT-BALANCE RAZORS,

By Lofdin and Gastinger.

	Black Handle.	Ivory Handle.	Real Russia.
For Gentlemen...	£1 1s. 6d.	£1 11s. 6d.	£2 2s. 6d.
For Ladies ...	£2 2s. 6d.	£2 12s. 6d.	£2 12s. 6d.
For Boys ...	£1 1s. 0d.	£1 5s. 0d.	£1 10s. 0d.

Mappin and Company thoroughly guarantee every razor they are sold in the best manner with Hardstone, Cutlery, &c., and as they have no travellers, they can afford to sell at the lowest possible remunerative profit to purchasers.

Please notice carefully the Nos. of address, "77 and 78," Oxford street (corner of Windsy-street, opposite the Pantheon).

Illustrated Catalogues post-free.

CAUTION.

MAPPIN AND COMPANY

HAVE NO CONNEXION WITH ANY OTHER HOUSE in the trade, and the Public are therefore requested to observe that they have invariably taken the opening of the Establishment,

77 AND 78, OXFORD-STREET,

and to respectfully request that all letters sent to them by post may be addressed

Nos. 77 and 78, Oxford-street

(OPPOSITE THE PANTHEON),

several mistakes having arisen in consequence of a small shop, adjoining their premises, having been recently opened, from obvious motives, by another firm of a similar name and trade.

MAPPIN AND COMPANY,

77, 78, Oxford-street, London.

PLATE.—A. B. SAVORY and SONS,

Manufacturing Silversmiths, 11 and 12, Cornhill, London, respectfully invite the Public to their new rooms, 11A, Cornhill, and 22, Regent-street. Silver pattern, 7s. 6d. per ounce. Queen's pattern, 9s. 6d. per ounce. Fiddle pattern, 10s. 6d. per ounce. Every article is of sterling quality.

Fiddle Pattern.	£	s.	d.
12 Table Spoons	20	14	0	Queen's Pattern.	£ s. d.
12 Dessert Spoons	15	12	0	12 Table Spoons	21 0 0
12 Tea Spoons	7	4	0	12 Dessert Spoons	15 12 0
12 Table Forks	20	14	0	12 Table Forks	21 0 0
12 Dessert Forks	15	12	0	12 Dessert Forks	15 12 0
2 Gravy Spoons	3	10	0	2 Gravy Spoons	3 15 0
1 Soup Ladle	1	10	0	1 Soup Ladle	1 15 0
4 Sauce Ladles	2	8	0	4 Sauce Ladles	2 16 0
4 Salt Spoons (gilt)	1	0	0	4 Salt Spoons (gilt)	1 2 0
1 Pair Fish Carvers	1	10	0	1 Pair Fish Carvers	1 10 0
1 Tea Spoon (gilt)	0	5	0	1 Tea Spoon (gilt)	0 5 0
1 Pair Sugar Tongs	0	15	0	1 Pair Sugar Tongs	0 15 0
Total	120	14	0	Total	142 12 0

A Specimen Number post-free for six stamps.

London: A. B. SAVORY and SONS, 11 and 12, Cornhill.

JOHN MACRIMONTS LEGACY.

On the 1st December Number of TEMPLE BAR MAGAZINE. Price 1s. Ready at all Railway Stations.

THE TRIALS OF THE TREDGOLDS. A New Story, entitled "Passages of" A Prodigal Son," commences in TEMPLE BAR MAGAZINE for March. Ready Monday Evening Shilling Monthly. Office, 8, Bouverie-street.

This day, price 2s., ornamental boards,

THE ADVENTURERS. By GUSTAVE AIMARD. Forming the Eighth Volume of his Books for Boys. Illustrated uniformly in boards of interest.—London: WARD and LOCK, 158, Fleet-street.

Now Vols. entitled SQUIRE TREVLYN'S HEIR, by Mrs. HENRY WOOD, Author of "East Lynne," &c., and THE MISSING WILL, by Mrs. GASKELL, Author of "Cranford," &c.

SQUIRE TREVLYN'S HEIR is commenced in Part XVI. of THE QUIVER, price 6d. Ready with the Monthly Parts, and to hold by all Booksellers. Vols. I. and II. now ready, price 6s. each, cloth.

CASSELL, PETTER, and GALPIN, 596, Strand, and Ludgate-hill, London, E.C.

THE CHANNINGS, by Mrs. HENRY WOOD, Author of "East Lynne," &c., is complete in Vol. I. of THE QUIVER, price 6s., cloth gilt.

CASSELL, PETTER, and GALPIN, 596, Strand, and Ludgate-hill, London, E.C.

MRS. HALLIBURTON'S TROUBLES, by Mrs. HENRY WOOD, Author of "East Lynne," &c., appear in Vol. II. of THE QUIVER, price 6s., cloth gilt.

CASSELL, PETTER, and GALPIN, 596, Strand, and Ludgate-hill, London, E.C.

MOSES IN THE BULRUSHES. Forming a comprehensive Method Guide for the Clergy and Young Students. By T. J. GRAHAM, M.D.

Editor of the Dublin Medical Press, Member of Edinburgh.

"Of all the Sacred Books there is none so suitable to our hands this is by far the best. For guidance and completeness of plan it is all that can be desired."—Irish Ecclesiastical Gazette.

"For expository every publication of its class."—British Standard.

"Dr. Graham's Moses in the Bulrushes is a valuable addition to the Biblical literature of the day, and worthy of a place in every bookcase."—Medical Circular, January, 1863.

London: HOULSTON and STONEMAN, 65, Paternoster-row, and 172, Strand. Dublin: M. H. GILL and SON. Edinburgh: JOHNSTONE and HUNTER.

NEW BOOKS.

THINGS TO BE REMEMBERED IN DAILY LIFE, with Personal Experiences and Recollections. By JOHN TIMBS, F.S.A., Author of "Things Not Generally Known," &c. Vol. I. Now Ready.

W. KENT and CO., Paternoster-row.

NEW AND POPULAR NOVELS, NOW READY.

TRUE AS STEEL. By WALTER C. OLAVE. 3 vols.

"A good novel, written with unflagging ability."—Post.

A POINT OF HONOUR. By this Author of "The Mistress and the Maid."

MISTRESS AND MAID. By the Author of "John Halifax, Gentleman."

LES MISERABLES. By VICTOR HUGO. Authorised English Translation. Three Editions.

HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-st.

Now ready, fcap 8vo, 5s. cloth.

THE RAFT'S CHOICE, and other Poems. By H. WILLIAM STEBBING, late Chief Justice of Victoria. SMITH, ELDER, and CO., 65, Cornhill.

Price 6d. Monthly,

THE BOYS' OWN MAGAZINE. Contents of the MARCH Number.

I. CHESS AND CHESSMEN. By G. KEMP.

II. BY THE MARGIN OF ARNO'S POOL WATERS. By CONSTANCE GRAHAME.

III. CHARACTERISTICS OF ANIMALS.

IV. THE ADVENTURES OF REUBEN DAVIDGER, Seventeen Years and Four Months a Captive among the Malays of Borneo. By the Author of "Well Spoken of the World."

V. COMPLETING VOLUME I. AND THE THANKS TO THE TYRO.

VI. THE YOUNG NORSEMAN. By W. H. RANDS.

VII. KNOTTING AND SPLICING.

VIII. THE ARSENAL AT SPRINGFIELD.

IX. THE BOY'S OWN WORKSHOP.

X. THE ROYAL NAVY OF THE BRITISH NAVY. By EDWIN F. ROBERTS.

XI. UP IN THE ALPS. By the Author of "Wild Sports."

XII. FREE PUBLICATIONS.

XIII. THE BOY'S OWN ENGINE ROOM.

XIV. THE BOY'S OWN ENGINE. By ROBERT MANSELL.

Every Article Illustrated with splendid Engravings from Designs by Eminent Artists.

A Specimen Number post-free for six stamps.

London: S. O. BEETON, 248, Strand, W.C.

Monthly, 6d.,

THE ENGLISHWOMAN'S DOMESTIC MAGAZINE.

CONTENTS FOR MARCH (No. 5), NOW READY.

I. CONSTANCE HERBERT. Illustrated by Gustave Doré.

II. DOMESTIC ECONOMY. By Mrs. Isabella Beeton.

III. WAYSIDE SUMMERS. Chap. XXX. Storm.

IV. PERSONALITY.

V. HOUSEKEEPING. Illustrated from Original Designs.

VI. NEEDLEWORK.

VII. SONG OF THE MONTH. Epiphany "Invasion of the Kings."

VIII. THE FASHIONS AND NEEDLEWORK.

IX. THE MUSIC OF THE MONTH.

X. THE COOKERY AND CONFECTIONERY.

A Coloured Fashion Plate, and a Coloured Design for a Toilet Cushion Accompany this Number.

Large Sheet of Patterns for useful and ornamental Needlework. Diagrams, Explanations, &c., &c., &c.

A SUPPLEMENTARY SHEET OF DOMESTIC RECIPES

is also published, price 6d., containing information on matters relating to Cookery, Confectionery, and other highly useful articles, also a Coloured Design for EMBROIDERY OR LETTERING, comprising the entire Alphabet, printed on Cloth, and Numerals, for Marking Linen, Initials, &c.

Price of the Magazine and Supplement, together, 1s. 6d.

A Specimen Number of the Magazine and pair-free for 15 stamps.

London: S. O. BEETON, 248, Strand, W.C.

NEW BOOKS.

Now ready. New Edition for 1863, with the new Baronets, &c.,

CLAIT. DOD'S PEERAGE, BARONETAGE, KNIGHTAGE, &c., for 1863 (Twenty-third Year), containing all the new Peers, Baronets, Knights, Privy Councillors, Lords of Justice, &c., corrected throughout to the highest authority.

WHITTAKER and CO., 13, Ave Maria-lane, and all Booksellers. Artists' Colourmen, &c.

HERALDRY—Historical and Popular. By C. BOUTELL, M.A. 700 Illustrations. Price 5s. 6d. London: REEVE and CO., 5, Henrietta-street, Covent-garden.

WORTH NOTICE—What has always been wanted is now published, price 1s. post-free, 250 thousand enlarged, and corrected to 1863, with upwards of 7000 words not found in the Dictionary, comprising the particulars of all Proper Names, Places, Persons, &c., which writers find it difficult to spell correctly, and which readers have to look for in vain, or hour cannot fail to appreciate its value. It supplies a desideratum in every department of literature, and will be found a most useful and ready reference for persons accustomed to correspondence, with advantage."—Bankers' Circular. "Worth its weight in gold."—Patriot. "Extremely useful."—Critic. "Invaluable."—Observer. WARD and CO., 27, Paternoster-row.

HALF-HOURS WITH THE BIBLE; or, Scripture Scenes and Characters; being a Popular and Interesting Description of the Various Events and Persons Mentioned in "Happy Sundays for the Young and Good." Embellished with Eighty Illustrations by Harvey. In one handsome volume, cloth gilt, 5s.; with Coloured Pictures, gilt edges, 8s.

WARD and LOCK, 158, Fleet-street.

LEARN to READ, WRITE, and SPEAK the ENGLISH LANGUAGE before a Quarter's Schooling is over. Price 6d., or, post-free, 7 stamps.

THE DICTIONARY OF EVERY-DAY DIFFICULTIES in READING, WRITING, and SPEAKING the ENGLISH LANGUAGE, or Hard Words Made Easy. Price 1s., post-free for 14 stamps. London: WARD and LOCK, 158, Fleet-street.

MORTALITY AMONG INFANTS.—Price 1s. 6d.

THE MOTHER'S RESOURCE-BOOK: containing Medical Advice during Infancy—Description of Important Medicines—Children's Complaints—Cookery—Clothing—Nursery Management—Domestic Economy—Recreation—and Many Things. Illustrated with Engravings.

WARD and LOCK, 158, Fleet-street.

Fortieth Thousand, price 2s. 6d., by JAMES HOGG, M.R.C.S., THE SYDENHAM COOKERY GUIDE: giving advice in the absence of a Surgeon in cases of accident or sudden illness, and the Treatment before Medical Aid arrives. "The large sale of this book is the best test of its merits."

W. STRANGE, 21, Paternoster-row, Corner-garden.

DECALCOMANIE, the New Art of Beautifully TRANSFERRING PICTURES to SILK, WOOD, GLASS, PAPER, &c., without Fire or Water.

STEPHENSON'S (DECALCOMANIE) Instructions, post-free, 54 stamps.

WM. BARNARD, Decalcomanie Warehouse, London, W.

PRINCESS ALEXANDRA.—PARIS ELEGANT.—A beautiful PHOTOGRAPHIC PORTRAIT of her Royal Highness, with a Description of her Dress, and Plate, from "LE PARIS ELEGANT for MARCH, price 1s., or post-free, 13 stamps. London: JOHN DICKINSON, 114, New Bond-street.

W. STRANGE, 21, Paternoster-row, Corner-garden.

Price 1s., with a Series of Drawings in Colour, Engraven, &c.

LANDSCAPE PAINTING and SKETCHING from NATURE. By HENRY HARRISON, M.S.W.P.S.

London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street.

Fifth Edition, price 1s., with 14 Lithographic Plates,

HANDBOOK OF FRAMES and ORNAMENTS. By W. B. HARRISON.

London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street.

Price 2s. 6d., cloth, gilt, post-free, 32 stamps, with Lithographic Plates.

THE ART OF ILLUMINATING. By ALFRED HARRISON, Illuminator to Royal Family.

London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street.

Post-paid, price 1s., with 14 Lithographic Plates,

ALPHABETICAL DESIGNS OF DIFFERENT PERIODS, for Illuminators and Artists. By F. C. WOOLLEY. London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street.

Price 6d., by post 8d., with Twenty-one Lithographic Plates,

STAINED WINDOWS, by the Improved Transparent Process. Fully described, and exemplified, in detail.—London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street.

Price 1d., Stamped Edition, 2d.

FAMILY HERALD, Part CCXXXVIII., for MARCH.

MUSICAL HERALD, Part II., price 6d., containing SONGS and PIANOFORTE PIECES of the most eminent Composers, ancient and modern.

London: J. BLAKE, 61, Strand, W.C., and all Book and Music Sellers.

"THE LITTLE MODELLER: How to make Cardboard Models." Price 2d., by post 2½d.

"HOW TO MAKE A MODEL VILLAGE. 48 Coloured Engravings. Price 2d., by post 2½d. London: CLARKE and CO., 13, Hyde-street.

COMPANION TO THE BALLROOM, by Miss JEROMA GEARY, containing a clear Description of the Quadrille, Lancers, Waltz, Polka, &c., at the head of Mr. MITCHELL'S Royal Dancing, 39, Old Bond-street; 24, Poultry, and Cheltenham, Brighton, and Bath-street. Price 1s. 6d. by post, 1s. 7d.

Now ready, printed on good paper,

THE USEFUL WEATHER GUIDE for the Pocket, Counting-house, and Study.

One dozen copies sent free by post on receipt of one penny stamp.

W. STRANGE, 21, Paternoster-row, Corner-garden.

THE TEACHERS and PRINCIPALS of SCHOOLS and COLLEGES ROYALLY PATRONISED by the Queen, Prince Consort, Royal Family, and Nobility of Great Britain, SUPPLIED with MAPS, GLOBES, and SCHOOL APPARATUS, by JOHN RICHARD BEDDOE, 19, Berners-street, Oxford-street. Price List post free on application. Edward Stanford, Bookseller by appointment to the Queen, 6 and 7, Charing-cross, S.W.

SPIRIT PHOTOGRAPHS.—Three Specimens, with Instructions, and Unnamed Relatives appear with the Sitter, post-free for 3s. 6d. Address, J. BURTON, 5, Cambridge-terrace, Regent's Park, London.

"Spirit Photographs."—Mr. J. BURTON, Photographer to the Royal Family

NEW MUSIC.

TWO NEW SONGS BY CLARIBEL.

MARION'S SONG. By CLARIBEL. Price 2s. Post-free at half-price of HALE and CO., Chichester; or on order of any Musicseller.

THE TREFOIL LEAF. By CLARIBEL. Price 2s. Post-free at half-price of HALE and CO., Chichester; or on order of any Musicseller.

THREE NEW SONGS BY VIRGINIA GABRIEL.

TENDER AND TRUE. By VIRGINIA GABRIEL. 2s. Post-free at half-price of HALE and CO., Chichester; or on order of any Musicseller.

NIGHTFALL AT SEA. By VIRGINIA GABRIEL. 2s. Post-free at half-price of HALE and CO., Chichester; or on order of any Musicseller.

ONE PASSED BY. By VIRGINIA GABRIEL. 2s. Post-free at half-price of HALE and CO., Chichester; or on order of any Musicseller.

TWO NEW SONGS BY MARIE LOUISE GAY.

WHEN SILVEY MOONBEAMS SLEEP. By RITCHINGEN. 4s. 6d. Post-free at half-price of HALE and CO., Chichester; or on order of any Musicseller.

'TWAS EVENING IN THE SUMMER TIME. By RITCHINGEN. 4s. 6d. Post-free at half price of HALE and CO., Chichester; or on order of any Musicseller.

NEW WALTZES. By J. P. HATTON. THE WOODBINE WALTZES. Price 4s. One of the most charming new waltzes of the season. Post-free at half-price. HALE and CO., Chichester; or on order of any Musicseller.

MARY ANN'S MAYLAND! 2s. The National Song of the Southern Confederacy. Also, THE BLUE FLAG. 2s. Post-free at Half-price of HALE and CO., Chichester; or on order of any Musicseller.

HENRY FARMER'S VIOLIN SOLOS, with Accompaniment for Pianoforte.
No. 1. Home, Sweet Home.
" 2. Last Rose of Summer.
" 3. Blue Bells of Scotland.
" 4. Auld Lang Syne. 3s. each.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S GEORGIANA VALSE. Price 4s. net.
Orchestral Parts to the Press.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S NEW PIANOFORTE SCHOOL. "This is decidedly the most useful and most instruction-book for the pianoforte we have seen."—Musical Review.—London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars.

HENRY FARMER.—PROSERPINE GALOP. Illustrated in Colours by J. BRANDARD. Eis. Orchestra, 4s. Military Band, 3s. Full Band, 4s. Septet, 2s. 6d. Quintet, 2s. 6d. Duet, 2s. 6d. Solo, 2s. The Publishers beg to call the attention of Pianists to this popular Galop, which is the most useful and most marvellously produced.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S CHRISTMAS QUADRILLES. Price, Solo, 2s.; Duet, 3s.; Septet, 2s. 6d. Orchestra, 4s. Military Band, 3s. The Publishers beg to call the attention of Pianists to these charming Quadrille Sounds as marvellously popularity.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars.

THE ORIGINAL LANCERS. Arranged by MARRIOTT. With additional new Tunes. Price 4s.; Duet, 4s.; Orchestra, 4s.; Military Band, 3s.; Septet, 2s. 6d.; Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S ALEXANDRA QUADRILLES. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.; Duet, 4s.; Orchestra, 4s.; Military Band, 3s.; Septet, 2s. 6d.; Cheapside.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S ALBERT EDWARD QUADRILLES. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.; Duet, 4s.; Orchestra, 4s.; Military Band, 3s.; Septet, 2s. 6d.; Cheapside.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S PRINCE OF WALES' QUADRILLES. Price 4s.; Duet, 4s.; Orchestra, 4s.; Military Band, 3s.; Septet, 2s. 6d.; Cheapside.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

MARRIOTT'S "MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM" QUADRILLES. Price, Solo or Duet, each 4s.; Orchestra, 4s.; Septet, 2s. 6d.; Cheapside.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars; and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S "GUY MANNERING" WALTZ. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.; Duet, 4s.; Orchestra, 4s.; Military Band, 3s.; Septet, 2s. 6d.; Cheapside.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

BRIGHTEST HOPE OF ENGLAND'S GLORY—National Song, dedicated to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, by W. T. WRIGHTON, and arranged for Four-Part Song for Country Choirs, price 1d.
JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

BRIGHTEST HOPE OF ENGLAND'S GLORY.—New National Song respectfully inscribed to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, by W. T. WRIGHTON.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

FLEURETTES MUSICALES.
Twelve Pianoforte Pieces by J. T. STONE.
1. The Maid of Judah's Lament. 7. Hark Hark Lark
2. The White Squall 8. Margaret (all sweet
3. Gentle Annie (sweet as ever 9. Oh! my love, she's but a lassie yet
4. Gerald Aylmer 10. Robin Adair
5. Sadly Gay 11. Good news from Home
6. Home 12. Price 1s. each.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside.

G. W. MARTIN'S SHILLING ORATORIOS, "The Nativity," "The Crucifixion," Full Vocal Score, with Piano Accompaniment. One Shilling, bound, in cloth boards; gilt edges, 1s. 6d. net. Also, 4 extra sheets. Office for the Sale of G. W. Martin's Publications, 14, 15, Exeter Hall.

G. W. MARTIN'S PRIZE GLEES and PART-SONGS, for 3, 4, 5, and 6 parts. Cheap Edition, Sixpence. Post-free for extra stamps. 14, 15, Exeter Hall.

G. W. MARTIN'S SACRED CHORAL MARCHES. 6d. National Part-songs, &c., for the Army, Volunteers, Choral Societies, &c. Specimen part-song on receipt of 13 stamps. 14, 15, Exeter Hall.

G. W. MARTIN'S MUSIC FOR NATIONAL SCHOOLS.—Specimen part-song on receipt of 13 stamps. In nearly all the training colleges and national schools throughout the kingdom, G. W. Martin's music is in use. Also on receipt of 10 stamps. 14, 15, Exeter Hall.

G. W. MARTIN'S CHURCH MUSIC.—100 G. Chants, for Voices and Organ, post-free, 7 stamps; the Canticles, pointed for Chanting, and all Services, post-free for 4 stamps; the Psalter, or Psalms of David, pointed for chanting, bound in cloth boards, gilt edges, post-free for 1s. 6d. in stamps; the Psalter, or Psalms of David, pointed for Chanting, cloth boards, gilt edges, post-free for 7 stamps; Short Anthems for Christmas, Easter, &c., 1d. each.—14, 15, Exeter Hall.

THE BRIDE ELECT. WELCOME TO ENGLAND, Song. By CHARLES JEFFREYS and STEPHEN GLOVER. Illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD, a full-length Portrait of H.R.H. Princess ALEXANDRA. Price 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps.
CHARLES JEFFREYS, Princess's Theatre, Oxford-street.

THE SLEEP OF SORROW AND THE BRIDE ELECT, POP. Both by Stephen Glover. Music by Stephen Glover. Illustrated with a representation of Mendel's Bartholdy Memorial Window, erected in the Church of St. Thomas, Regent-street. Beautifully Illuminated in Gold, Crimson, and Ultramarine. Post-free for 16 stamps.—CHARLES JEFFREYS, 21, Soho-square.

THE "IRISH FRISK." Galop, By J. F. CLARKE. Played with extraordinary success by the military bands. This is the Galop of the season. Post-free for 16 stamps.
CHARLES JEFFREYS, 21, Soho-square.

THE SPINNING-WHEEL (Copyright), as sung by Mr. Kennedy, from Planché and Reece Gollans' Edition of the Scotch Songs. Free by post for 24 stamps.
PATERSON and SONS, Musicsellers, Edinburgh and Glasgow.

NEW MUSIC.

ROBERT COCKS AND CO.'S LIST OF NEW MODERN MUSICAL PUBLICATIONS.
GOD BLESS THE PRINCE OF WALES. National Song, with Chorus ad lib. By BERNARD RICHARDS. Poetry by George Linley. Sung by Mr. SIMS REEVES with wonderful success at the Crescents, Brighton. Price 4s.
"It is, indeed, seldom there is seen a more complete song or more complete."—Morning Post.
H.R.H. by a song at the Festivals on the Eve of St. David's Day, and by Mr. Sims Reeves on the 3rd and 5th, at Sussex Hall, Brighton, and Crescents, Brighton, respectively, and will be sung also on the Coquette Chair, and the Queen's Birthday, and by every one on the 10th.
GOD BLESS THE PRINCE OF WALES. Arranged for Choral Societies as a Part-Song. 8vo.
GOD BLESS THE PRINCE OF WALES. Transcribed for Piano. By BERNARD RICHARDS. 4s.
GOD BLESS THE PRINCE OF WALES. Piano Duet. By BERNARD RICHARDS. 4s.
THE ALBERT EDWARD MARCH. For Piano. By Brinley Richards. 4s.
THE ALBERT EDWARD MARCH. Arranged for Military Band. By A. J. Godfrey, of the Coldstream Guards. 10s. 6d.
THE ALBERT EDWARD MARCH. For Full Band. Piano. With over two Portraits of her Royal Highness. 4s.
THE ALBERT EDWARD MARCH. By Brinley Richards. 3s.
THE ALBERT EDWARD WALTZ. By A. Talbot. 4s.
THE WEDDING WALTZES. For Piano. By M. Vincent Wallace. 4s.
THE BRIDAL QUADRILLE. By Henri Drouay. 4s.
THE FAIR DAISY WALTZES. By J. Leduc. 3s.
THE FAIR DAISY WALTZES. By A. Lee. 3s.
THE DANISH NATIONAL AIR. Transcribed for Piano. By Brinley Richards. 4s.
THE DANISH MARCH. For Piano. By Henry Marco. 3s. 6d.
THE DANISH MARCH. For Full Band. By Henry Marco. 10s.
No. 20, W. Ganz's Album for the Young. Price 4s.
ANGELS' VISITS. Song. By Frank Mori. Poetry by Mrs. Hemans. 3s.
WHEN LOVING CEASES ARE PARTED. By F. Kücken. Poetry by Longfellow. 3s.
LES CENDRILLONS. By A. Talbot. 4s.
THE GIPSY QUEEN QUADRILLE. For Piano. By Sophia Dussek. 4s.
I DO CONFESS THOUSE SHOOTS AND FAIR. Song. By Frank Mori. Poetry by Ben Jonson. 3s.
THE TWIN BELLS. Song. By J. Bollon. 3s.
I WHISPER THEE GOOD-NIGHT. Song. By Frank Mori. Poetry by Longfellow. 3s.
THE ROSEBUD. Song. Poetry by Burns; Music by A. Lindahl. 3s.
THE ROSEBUD. Song. Poetry by Burns; Music by Frank Mori. 3s.
WHEN THE BLOOM OF LIFE WAS MINE. Quaverot. By Frederick Bevan. 3s.
WHEN CHIA SINGS. Song. By Anne Fricker. 3s. 6d.
THE FIRST DELIGHT. Song. By Frank Mori. 3s.
THE FIRST DELIGHT. Song. By W. Ganz. 3s.
THREE NEW VOCAL DUETS. By STEPHEN GLOVER.
No. 1. Sweet Spring, thou comest with Joy. Poetry by C. Swain. 3s. 6d.—No. 2. Hark, hark the Lark. 3s. 6d.—(3) Music of the Spheres. Poetry by Milton. 3s. 6d.
PELAGIE. Song. By Stephen Glover. 3s. Sung by Mr. Patey.
ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S QUARTETTE CIRCULAR, now ready, price 1s. post-free.
THE PRINCE OF WALES' MARCH. Gratis and post-free.
SUPERINTENDENTS of Musical Bands may, on forwarding their cards to the Publishers, be supplied with as many copies as may be desired of the above List of the Music for Military Bands.
ROBERT COCKS and CO'S PIANOFORTES, in Walnut and Rosewood Cases, from 30 guineas.
London: New Burlington-street; and 6, Great Marlborough-street, Manufactory, 9, Publishers to the Queen and the Emperor Napoleon III., and the Royal Family.
Agents for India: Messrs. Rosenberg and Co., Musical Repository, Calcutta. Messrs. Wheatley and Co., Bombay. Messrs. Spencer and Co., Madras. Messrs. Hamilton and Co., Bangalore. Messrs. Begg, Dunlop, and Co., Colombo. Messrs. Gordon, Stuart, and Co., Hong Kong.

GEO. MARTIN'S NEW SONG, "THERE'S JOY IN MERRY ENGLAND." Just published, price 2s. Post-free, 24 stamps.
ROBERT COCKS and CO. have much pleasure in announcing that they have purchased the Copyright of the above Song, and have made choice of it for the coming season.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street, Publishers to the Queen and the Emperor Napoleon III.

GOD BLESS THE KING OF DENMARK. Arranged for Pianoforte Solo by CHARLES COTE. Price 4s. net.
HALEVY. Music arranged by GEO. W. MANN'N (Director of the Italian Opera, Drury Lane). Published by ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street; and of all Musicsellers.

BURGMÜLLER'S COMPLETE TUTOR for the PIANOFORTE (revised by A. Mackerras), containing Exercises, Studies, and Pieces. Price 4s. net. Book for Hooper and Co., Regent-street, and 65, Cheapside.
A. HAMMOND and Co., 214, Regent-street.

THE MAIDEN'S PRAYER. Ballad. Sung by Miss Poole. Words by Mrs. Bartholomew. 2s. net. "One of the prettiest and best ballads published this season."—Post. Post-free, 18 stamps.—Duncan Davison and Co., 244, Regent-street.

THOSE EVENING BELLS.—Just published, a new arrangement of this beautiful melody. By BENEDICT LEE. Arranged for Piano Duet, 4s. net. (Cramer and Co. (late Jullien), No. 214, Regent-street. All music at half prices.

JERUSALEM THE GOLDEN, the celebrated Hymn, sung by Miss Dolby at the Festival of the Sons of the Clergy, and encored, Price 2s. net. Cramer and Co., 214, Regent-street, on receipt of stamps to the amount. Catalogues sent gratis.

"OH MAY YOU BOTH BE HAPPY." Song. By CLARIBEL. Price 2s. net. Post-free for 24 stamps. To be had of CLARIBEL COCK, HUTCHINGS, and Co., Isle Leader and Cock, 63, New Bond-street.

ALBERT EDWARD and ALEXANDRA WALTZES. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s. net. Also performed by "the GUARDS" Bands on March 30th. Pianoforte Solo, 4s., with Portraits. Duet, 4s. Septet, 2s. 6d. Military Band, 3s. HUTCHINGS and Co. (late Leader and Cock), 63, New Bond-street.

ETTE VALSES. By G. RENNIE BAKER. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s. net.
ROBERT W. OLLIVIER, 70, Old Bond-street.

HEMINGWAY'S PRINCESS OF WALES QUADRILLE (Illustrated). Originally performed with full length Portrait in Colours.—JEWELL and Co., 104, Great Russell-street, W.C., and all Musicsellers.—Small-sized Portrait, 2s.

LONG MAY OUR ALBERT LIVE. No. 5, GEMS OF HARMONY. Price One Penny. "God bless the Queen and her Consort long may they live" is the universal prayer for the spring-time of our Prince.—No. 5, "God-guide, good rest."—KENT and Co., 23, Paternoster-row.

OETZMANN and PLUMB'S PIANOFORTES, with all the recent improvements, are strongly and useful Pianos, suitable for all climates, and in great variety.
27, Baker-street, Portman-square.

OETZMANN and PLUMB'S PIANOFORTES, with trichord and check action, are manufactured on the best touch, and throughout by our own workmen, in our manufactory. The trade supplied. Lists of prices and terms may be had in the United Kingdom and the Colonies.—181, Regent-street.

OETZMANN and PLUMB have always on hand a large assortment of Pianofortes, by all the great makers, for SALE or HIRE.—181, Regent-street.

DEBTS and DEEDS PRIZE MEDAL.—Brass Bands, Instrumentalists, and Amateurs, send 24 stamps for Catalogue of Second-hand Instruments, Silver and Plated Presentation Bugles, Illustrated Lists post-free.

BUTLER'S BRASS-BAND INSTRUMENTS, Drums, Cymbals, Concert Trombone, Drums, Fifes, &c., are all manufactured on the premises, and sold at prices much below those of any other English house. A written guarantee given with every instrument.—Manufactory, Great-street, Soho, London. Prices and drawings post-free.

JONES'S £2 2s. ENGLISH CONCERTINA, of mahogany, 48 keys, rosewood ends, rosewood, in mahogany box, £3 3s. Other qualities to £10. Catalogues gratis. Jones and Son, 9, Ordnance-road, S.W., and Crystal Palace, S.E.

MUSICAL BOX DÉPÔT for the Sale of ENGLISH celebrated Musical Instruments is removed from No. 56 to 11 and 12, Cornhill, London. Lists of tunes and price gratis and postage-free.

GREAT SALE OF SPRING SILKS, &c., at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free. Address to King and Co., Regent-street, London.

SILKS, £1 1s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW STRIPED SILKS, £1 5s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW CHECKED SILKS, £1 10s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW CHECKED SILKS, £1 15s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW CLOTH SILKS, £1 19s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW JASPER SILKS, £2 10s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW MOIRE ANTIQUE SILKS, £17s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW POMPADOUR SILKS, £5 5s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

BLACK SILKS, £1 a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

BLACK DUCAPE SILKS, at £1 15s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

BLACK MOIRE SILKS, at £2 2s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free. Address to King and Co., Regent-street, London.

UNINFLAMMABLE SILK DRESSES. 12 yards for 18s. 6d., or 1s. 6½d. per yard, all colours. Warranted all pure silk. Patterns free.—KING and CO., 243, Regent-street.

100 PIECES of FANCY SILKS, POST-FREE. All the New Coloured Silks for Spring, plain and figured, from 1 guinea the Dress.
FIFTY PATTERNS BLACK SILKS, post-free, from 1 guinea the Dress. "MANTLES, COSTUMES, and SUITS.
At NICHOLSONS', 50 to 52, St. Paul's churchyard.

1000 HANDKERCHIEFS, at 2s. per doz. Sample Handkerchief sent on receipt of 2s. 2d. stamps. Sample Hosiery sent on receipt of 1s. 6d. stamps. Sample Hosiery sent on receipt of 1s. 6d. stamps. Sample Hosiery sent on receipt of 1s. 6

NEW MUSIC.

THE PRINCESS OF WALES. A Fantasia on Danish Melodies for the Pianoforte. By KUHE. Price 3s. Illustrated with a new Photograph of her Royal Highness the Princess Alexandra. 24 stamps.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE PRINCE OF WALES: a Fantasia on the Welsh National Melodies for the Pianoforte, by BENEDICT; performed by Miss Arabella Goddard at the National Harp Concerts. Price 3s. Illustrated with a Photograph of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, taken at Cairo. 24 stamps.—CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

ALBERT LINDAHL'S WEDDING WALTZES. Just published, with a full-length Portrait, beautifully executed in colours, of her Royal Highness the Princess Alexandra. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE PRINCESS ALICE WALTZES, with full-length Portrait, in colours, of her Royal Highness. By C. BROWNE. Price 4s. net. Just published.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' COMPLETE TUTOR for the PIANOFORTE. The best, the newest, and most elementary Instruction Books, containing elementary instructions, scales, exercises, and a great variety of the most popular themes as progressive lessons. Price 4s. each book, or the complete work in 2 vols. 10s. Also Brinley Richards' Popular Pieces will be sent on application to
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' JUANITA. This popular Song arranged as a very pleasing drawing-room Pianoforte piece. Price 3s. Also as a Duet, 4s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' MARAQUITA. "This popular Ballad arranged as an easy and effective drawing-room Pianoforte piece. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' GOD SAVE THE QUEEN. As a drawing-room piece, we are pleased to think "God bless the Queen" one of Mr. Richards' most striking achievements.—Vide Musical World.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

Just published,
KUHE'S NATIONAL MELODIES FORTHE PIANOFORTE.
No. 1. "The March of the Men of Harlech." Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S SEMIRAMIDE. Grand Fantasia for the piano from Rossini's favourite Opera, for the Pianoforte, by this popular composer. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S MASSANIELLO.—Just published, a Grand Fantasia for the Pianoforte, on Airs from this charming Opera. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

DALBERT'S PRINCE OF WALES'S GALOP. A new Edition. Beautifully Illustrated with a Portrait in Colours of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales by BRANDARD. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

DALBERT'S WEDDING GALOPADRILLES on the CHEERY MINSTRELS' MELODIES. 10th Edition of this very popular Work. Price 4s., Duet, 4s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

DALBERT'S SOLDIER'S POLKA. A new Edition of this splendid Polka is just published, with a Portrait of his Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge by BRANDARD, in Colours. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

DALBERT'S FEATHER AND MAY QUEEN WALTZ. Founded on the favourite Song of "Kathleen Mavourneen." Illustrated with a Portrait in Colours. Beautifully Illustrated. 4s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

DALBERT'S WEST-END POLKA. A new Edition of this charming Polka, splendidly Illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD. Price 3s., post-free.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

ALBERT LINDAHL'S New Piece. A MIDNIGHT SONG. Poesie Fugitives for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NAVA'S DANNIN NATIONAL SONG and HYMN. Arranged for the Pianoforte, price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

C. H. OSBORNE'S POPULAR AIRS, arranged for the Pianoforte.
Infinity is my darling. 3s.
Ye banks and braes. 3s.
Ye gentle gales. 3s.
Bella, Adair. 3s.
Cranin' thaw thy cye. 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE ANGEL'S HARP, by THEODORE THREELL, a New Pianoforte Piece, price 3s. 6d., that has been "received with unanimous applause, and pronounced the most charming piece ever written for the instrument."—Morning Post. Also, "Threell's Sparkling Bo-cuppa." Morceau de Salon. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

TREKELL'S LA TRIÈRE D'UNE MÈRE. Reverie pour Piano. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

TREKELL'S LA VIVANDIÈRE. Impromptu Militaire pour Piano. Price 3s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE OF VOCAL and PIANOFORTE MUSIC in BRILLIANT NUMBERS. Post-free, 2s. 2d.; or three for 5s. 4d.
No. 45. Brinley Richards, arranged for the Pianoforte (just published).
No. 44. Irish Melodies, arranged for the Pianoforte, in
No. 43. Four Books, each, arranged for the Pianoforte, in
No. 42. Sacred Music, arranged for the Pianoforte, in
No. 41. Vocal Duets by D'Albert and other eminent Composers, in
No. 40. Vocal Duets, Standard Song-Book, a new Selection, in
No. 39. A Pianoforte Duets-book for the Pianoforte, in
No. 38. Concert Dances, Mazurkas, Polkas, Galops, &c., for Pianoforte, in
No. 37. Christy and Buckley Minstrel Airs for Pianoforte (without Words), in
No. 36. Christy and Buckley Minstrel Songs Second Series, in
No. 35. The Vocal Album of Ireland, in
No. 34. The Vocal Album, in
No. 33. Beethoven's Sonatas, edited by Charles Halle (No. 6), in
No. 32. Beethoven Sonatas, edited by Charles Halle (No. 5), in
No. 31. Beethoven's Sonatas, edited by Charles Halle (No. 4), in
No. 30. Beethoven's Sonatas, edited by Charles Halle (No. 3), in
No. 29. Beethoven's Sonatas, edited by Charles Halle (No. 2), in
No. 27. Five Sacred Quartette, as Duets, by Charles D'Albert, in
No. 26. Twenty-four Sacred Songs, by D'ALBERT, in
No. 25. Nine Books most Popular Songs, in
No. 24. Twenty-one Christy and Buckley Minstrel Songs, in
No. 23. Twenty-one favourite Pianoforte Pieces, in
No. 22. Twenty-one Christy and Buckley Minstrel Melodies, in
No. 21. Nine Pianoforte Pieces by Arthur and Charles Lee, in
No. 20. Beethoven's Sonatas, edited by Charles Halle (No. 1), in
No. 19. Twenty-four Sacred Songs, by the Author of "Hallowed Ground," in
No. 18. Twenty-four Vocal and Instrumental Duets, in
No. 17. Nine Pianoforte Pieces by Osborne and Lindahl, in
No. 16. Twenty-four Duets, for Soprano and Contralto Voices, in
No. 15. Eighteen of Mozart's Irish Melodies, in
No. 14. Twenty-four Sacred Songs, by Clara Anne Severn Worrell, in
No. 13. Twenty-four Duets, Soprano and Contralto Voices, in
No. 12. Beethoven's Sonatas, edited by Charles Halle (No. 1), in
No. 11. Nine Pianoforte Pieces by Wallace, in
No. 10. Nine Pianoforte Pieces by Brinley Richards, in
No. 9. Twenty-four Songs, by Miss Mary Mark, in
No. 8. Forty Duets, by Charles and Frederick Keeling, &c., in
No. 7. Ten Solos of Quadrilles by Charles D'Albert, &c., complete, in
No. 6. Twenty Songs by Rimbult, in
No. 5. Twelve Sacred Songs by Popular Composers, in
No. 4. Twelve Duets for Soprano and Contralto and English Words, in
No. 3. Twenty-four Waltzes, in
No. 2. Ten Songs by the Hon. Mrs. Norton, in
No. 1. Twenty-four Songs by M. W. Balfe, in N.B. All the Songs have a Pianoforte Accompaniment.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

WANDERINGS AT MORN. By J. VON JODE. A charming solo, replete with melody and effect, intended as the reply to "Warblings at Eve," and within the reach of ordinary performers. Price 3s.—D'ALCORN, 8, Saithhorn-place, W.

ANGELS LISTEN WHEN SHE SPEAKS. Words by J. R. CARPENTER, and Music by E. L. HIME. This is a most charming Ballad, full of deep pathos and melancholy, perfectly enchanting. Price 3s. 6d.—D'ALCORN, 8, Saithhorn-place, W.

LOVE'S WHISPER WALTZ. By R. F. HARVEY. Composed expressly for the Prince of Wales's Royal Wedding Ball. Superbly Illustrated. Price 4s.
D'ALCORN, 8, Saithhorn-place, W.

NEW MUSIC.

BOOSEY'S MUSICAL LIBRARY.—Every Subscriber at Two Guineas receives a splendid Guinea Volume of Illustrated Music, and has the use of Twelve pieces of music in town and twenty pieces in the country. Subscribers at One Guinea have the use of Half pieces. Full particulars from 28, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.
ROSSINI'S STABAT MATER, arranged for the Pianoforte, in a complete form, by Henry Smart. Price 3s., music size. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.
MOZART'S 12TH MASS, arranged for the Pianoforte by Henry Smart, in a complete form. Price 3s., music size. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.
14 SACRED SONGS in BOOSEY'S MUSICAL CABINET. For the Pianoforte alone, with accompaniments. This beautiful collection by Purcell, Mozart, Rossini, Beethoven, &c., includes the Procession Music, "Jerusalem the Golden." Price One Shilling. Published this day.

MUSIC FOR LENT.
20 SACRED COMPOSITIONS FOR THE PIANOFORTE, by the greatest Masters, in BOOSEY'S MUSICAL CABINET, No. 79, price One Shilling.

MUSIC FOR LENT.
BOOSEY'S 50 SHORT VOLUNTARIES FOR THE HARMONIUM, arranged by Snetzler from the Scores of Haydn, Mozart, Mendelssohn, Beethoven, Handel, Romanes, Glück, Stroll, Gyrowetz, Wolf, Calcara, Clasqui, Badiali, &c. Price 5s. 6d. in cloth.

MUSIC FOR LENT.
BOOSEY'S 250 CHANTS FOR THE VOICE, for PIANOFORTE or HARMONIUM, price 1s.; in cloth 2s. The finest collection ever published. Also Boosey's 50 Hymn and Hymn Tunes 6d.

MUSIC FOR LENT.
THE HARMONIUM MUSEUM, Part I., price 3s., contains Thirty beautiful Sacred Compositions by the most celebrated Masters, and the Accompaniment by Snetzler. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.
BRINLEY RICHARDS' PORTUGUESE HYMN, an arrangement for the pianoforte of "Adeste Fideles" and especially suited for Lenten Music. Price 3s. Just published. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

NORDMANN'S SICILIAN MARINERS' HYMN, as a Piece for the Pianoforte. Also, by the same Composer, "Adeste Fideles" and "Stabat Mater." Price 3s. each.—BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.
HENRY SMART'S 50 PRELUDES and INTERLUDES for the Organ, in all the Keys. An entirely new and original work. "Masterly, pleasing, and well varied."—Athenæum.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

FLOATING LEAVES. A plaintive and romantic Song. By HENRY SMART, Author of "The Lady of the Lea." Price 3s. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

VIRGINIA GABRIEL.
DREAM, DEAR DREAM. A very beautiful Cradle Song for contralto and piano-soprano voices. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

CLARIBEL.
THROUGH THE JASMINE, New Song, by CLARIBEL, Author of "Ever and Only You." Price 3s. Published this day by BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

MISS GODDARD'S New Fantasia, CAMILLA, Fantasia on the Popular Song, "Beautiful morning dawns to be." Price "Calabonia," and "Albion," by the same Composer, Price 3s. Published by BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

24 OF SIR HENRY BISHOP'S GLEES in Vocal Score, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, price One Penny each, or in 2 parts, 2d. each. Also in 4 parts, 4d. each. Beautifully printed on excellent paper. Postage of 5 numbers, 1d.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

20 NEW CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS' SONGS in BOOSEY'S MUSICAL CABINET, No. 75. Price One Shilling. Published this day. The most popular and favourite of the most successful and new being sung by the various troupes of Christy's Minstrels.

2 NEW NUMBERS of BOOSEY'S CABINET are published THIS DAY. No. 74 contains 14 Sacred Songs and No. 75 contains 20 New Christy's Minstrels' Songs. Price 1s. each.

THALBERG'S ART OF SINGING APPLIED TO THE PIANO. Cheap Edition of the Six Favourite Compositions on Airs from Rossini's "Moses in Egypt," in which the Composer has made use of the Pianoforte Pedals. This invaluable Work should be in the hands of all pianists.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

THE POLISH PATRIOTIC HYMN, 82 sung by the Insurgents in Poland. Now first published in England. Arranged for the Pianoforte. Post-free, 18 stamps. This is the only authentic version of the Polish National Song.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

Price One Penny.
THE DANISH NATIONAL HYMN, with English and German Words, as sung at Alexandra's Marriage. The Danish National Hymn, arranged for Pianoforte solo, in the Weekly Part of BOOSEY'S MUSICAL CABINET, No. 76.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

NOTICE.—HALF-PRICE.—All Music, and the best Editions, at half the published price, sent post-free for postage stamps one-third value.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street, W.

The Latest Evolument.
COOTE'S FIVE FAVOURITES. Illustrated. Price 4s., Solo or Duet. One of this Composer's happiest ideas; sparkling and charming.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-st.

The best Set of Lancers are
COOTE'S CURE LANCERS. Price 4s.; Illustrated. Introducing the Popular Song, "My Pretty Page." Early in the Morning." "The Cure," and other popular Airs. A real pretty set. No fatigue. Illustrated by Brandard.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

COOTE'S NEW YORK QUADRILLES on the Bobbin Girl and Wait Melodies, are now sequel. Price 4s. Solo or Duet; Septet, 5s. 6d.; Full Band, 5s.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

Introducing the Danish National Air.
COOTE'S ALEXANDRA WALTZES. Price 4s., Solo or Duet. Illustrated with Coloured Portraits of Princess Alexandra and Prince of Wales. Very Pretty Waltz.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

IMMENSE SUCCESS OF
COOTE'S DIAMOND GALOP. Price 3s. Always rehearsed.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

COOTE'S VILLAGE-BELLS POLKA, price 3s.; one of the very best published, and well suited in popularity the celebrated Polka by the same Composer.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

Continued Success.
TINNEY'S SONNAMBULA IN WOOD VALSE. Price 4s., Solo or Duet. Performed by all the Bands in the United Kingdom.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

BUCKLEY'S BEAUTIFUL SONG,
COME WHERE THE MOONBEAMS LINGER. Price 3s. 6d. The melody is simple and beautiful, and bids fair to rival in popularity the pretty Song, "Lead by lead the nose fall." Price 3s. 6d.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

NEW BALLAD.
SIGHING FOR THEE, by F. BUCKLEY, price 3s. 6d., is sending a fierce.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

NEW MUSIC.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD'S MUSIC CIRCULATING LIBRARY for Town and Country. Terms—Two, Three, and Four Guineas per Annum.
201, Regent-street.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD undertake the Publication of Music for the Author.
201, Regent-street.

HALF PRICE.—All full-priced Music sent post-free for half the published price.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

DREAM OF ST. JEROME. Price 2s. 6d. Illustrated with Portrait of Mdlle. Piccolomini, from the oil picture sent to the palace, and played at Beethoven's "Dream of St. Jerome," which always Charms the Audience, as last Thursday it was a request of Tamagno in music.—Gazetteer of Philip, by W. M. Thackeray.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' BISHOP'S MELODIES.
No. 1. "Mynheer Van Dunck."
No. 2. "Bid me discourse."
No. 3. "Bill me, my heart."
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' DANISH NATIONAL AIR. 3s. 6d.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

ROSSINI'S CUJUS ANIMAM, most effectively arranged for the Pianoforte by S. RICHARDS. 3s.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

W GANZ.—Souvenir de Wrest Mazurka. 3s.
" Tyrolienne. " " 3s.
" Les brillantes " " 3s.
The above are Mr. Ganz's best pieces.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

WALTER MACFARREN'S NEW SONGS.
"The Fairy Boat" " Barcarolle " 3s.
"Dreaming " " Serenade " 3s.
"Lilies " " Valse Elégante " 4s.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

STEPHEN HELLER.
"Nocturne" (Op. 102) " " 3s. 6d.
"Valse Brillante" (Op. 103) " " 4s.
"The above pieces are marked by the most original pianoforte composer of the day, and among his happiest ones. The Nocturne is full of poetry and feeling, and the Valse Brillante will attract by the strength and grandeur of the principal subject and the delicacy of the second and contrasting."—Athenæum, Jan. 31, 1863.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

STEPHEN HELLER DEUX ROMANCES SANS PAROLES, Nos. 1 and 2. Nocturne, 3s. 6d. each. Two most elegant Morceaux de Salon.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

ARTHUR A. SULLIVAN—"THOUGHTS," 3s. each.
No. 1, "A Thought from Gratz."
No. 2, "Allegro Giocoso."
"Mr. Sullivan's 'Thoughts' are pleasing, and devises and defters, justifying the favourable opinion we pronounce on his Mr. Tampon' music."—Athenæum, Aug. 30, 1862.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

NEW SONG.
VIRGINIA GABRIEL'S NEWEST BALLAD, THE SHADOW OF LOVE.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

HERRICK'S LITANY, "Sweet Spirit, comfort me." Sung by Mr. Sims Reeves. Composed by Hatton. Song by Miss Dolby.
"Mr. Hatton has succeeded in a setting by Mr. Brinley Richards of Sir Herrick's 'Litanie,' the best music to those fine words which we have heard for many years."
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

HAGAR. Sacred Song. By RÉNÉ FAVARGER. 3s. One of the best Sacred Songs lately published.—Vide Musical World, Feb. 14, 1863.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

THE PURE IN HEART SHALL MEET AGAIN. HENRY SMART'S New Song. 3s. 6d.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

PAQUITA. Ballad. By H. SMART. 2s. 6d. Sung by Miss Dolby.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

WHEN FIRST THE BELLS. GEORGE LINLEY'S charming Song. Sung with great applause by the Composer.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

HENRY SMART'S NEW SONGS for CONTRALTO. 3s. 6d. each.
"Prize song" (Mrs. Sidney Bancroft).
"Prize song."
"Bright be her dreams."
"Sing on, sweet bird."
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

ADRITS New Song, COLLI NATIVI. 3s. Sung by Signor Gardoni, Mr. Sims Reeves, and Mr. Aynsley Cook. Arditi speaks in beauty of melody and effect his celebrated "Bacio." CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

A. H. NELLE NOTTI LIMPIDE. Melodia. By F. LABLACHE. 3s. 6d. Admirably written for the Voice, and well suited for Concert purposes.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

G. GRETTON'S PIANOFORTE WORKS, CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
1. Fantasia, in "Captain Pothlebeau, in "Dorcas, Fugue, &c., &c.
2. Fantasia, in "Lucrezia Borgia," Fugue, &c.

ENGLAND AND DENMARK. Maurer's Ode to the Sea. C. M. OLIVER. Price 4s. Beautifully Illustrated with Portraits of Princess Alexandra and Prince of Wales.
NEW AND EXQUISITE MORCEAU.
KUHE'S SILVER MOONBEAMS. Price 3s. Illustrated. Sung by this celebrated Composer.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S AULD LANG SYNE, price 3s. Illustrated with Portrait of Mdlle. PICCOLOMINI, as HAYNY VIGLETS, and OH! IF I HAD SOME ONE TO LOVE ME, price 3s. Illustrated with Portrait of Mdlle. Piccolomini.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

TWILIGHT REVERIE. Romance for the Piano. By C. M. E. OLIVER. Price 4s. Also, THE HOME OF THE MERMAID. Price 4s.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

COMIC SONGS of the DAY.
"Any thing to please my family's song). 2s. 6d.
"Why don't I change my name?" " 2s. 6d.
"Mr. Gubbins's Dream" " 2s. 6d.
"He doesn't like Spring" " 2s. 6d.
"Aunt Sally" (Mrs. Brian's Song) " 2s. 6d.
"Three Jolly Sailors" " 2s. 6d.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD'S PIANOFORTE GALLERY, 207 and 209, Regent-street.
The largest in Europe.
Every Instrument may be hired, or let on hire, at least equal to the description given of it. Inferior Instruments are carefully excluded from this Gallery.
Pianofortes by the most eminent English, Continental, and American Manufacturers, for Sale or Hire.

EASY TERMS OF PURCHASE.—CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD make special arrangements with those desirous to PAY FOR a PIANOFORTE by INSTALMENTS. Terms may be known on application at the Gallery—207 and 209, Regent-street.

THE DRAWING-ROOM COTTAGE CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD manufacture a Cottage Piano of the medium size, and of the very best description. The tone is full, pure, and vocal. The touch is agreeable, rapid, and effective. This beautiful instrument has been produced with an eye more to elegance of design, and of sound, and general adaptability which bargained for the Drawing-room Pianoforte. To better Pianoforte of this class can possibly be made. Two guineas per month; 1 warrant, 61 guineas.—201 and 209, Regent-street.

JOHN BROADWOOD and SON'S NEW SEMI-GRAND, with three strings in the treble. CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD have several of these admirable new Pianofortes. They are an immense advance on the old Semi-grands. The tone is full, sympathetic, and massive in quality. Price 100 guineas. 207 and 209, Regent-street.

ERARD'S NEW BOUDOIR GRAND PIANOFORTE.—Messrs. Erard have manufactured this new Instrument with a view of providing a first-class Grand Pianoforte of a size convenient for and more moderate price.
The Boudoir Grand is not a reduction of the Concert, only to be had of Messrs. Erard, but is entirely new, and has been built for that purpose. To be seen at their Gallery, Nos. 207 and 209, Regent-street.

THE ENGLISH PIANETTE, 22 Guineas, CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD'S Pianette is a capital small instrument. It has all the requisites of a good practising Pianoforte—touch, tone, and durability. The touch is elastic, and the tone full and sing. The fingers of the player will be strengthened much more by this than by the use of many of the Pianettes which are sold. The case is in the best rosewood, and the workmanship is eminent in every respect.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

Purchasers are particularly requested to observe that this instrument has not the common or single action, but the double or check action. Price 22 guineas.—CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street. 201 to 209, Regent-street.

REPAIRING PIANOFORTES.—CRAMER and CO. give great attention to this department of the business, and Pianofortes of every description may be repaired. Every care is taken to move defective or worn mechanism.

TUNE YOUR PIANOFORTES by the CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD PIANOFORTE TUNER, who visits all respectable TOWNS as far out as 100 miles from London. Public or regular engagements undertaken.

HIRE of PIANOFORTES. — CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD HIRE PIANOFORTES by the Year, Week, or Month, and take Yearly Contracts on very reasonable terms.

DEBAIN'S HARMONIUMS. — CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD are Sole Agents for this Instrument.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN PIANINO (the only Pianino to which the Prize Medal was awarded).—A very small Cottage Pianoforte, with a fine, full, and sympathetic tone, and much power for its size. Suitable for a small room, or for a bedroom. Warranted to keep in tune, and to be the best and cheapest Pianoforte of its size ever made. Price 25 guineas. Drawings forwarded.
Also, in mahogany, rosewood, or walnut, 35 and 36 guineas. A great variety now at 45.
Chappell and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ENGLISH MODEL PIANOFORTE, price 50 guineas, is considered by the first English tone of the Broadwood or Collard quality, the English touch of Collard, and to combine the most perfect check action, at a moderate price. The action is of the most simple description as to the number of parts, and is therefore not liable to get out of order. It is very strong, and will stand any climate. It has a great variety of the tones. In elegant rosewood case, with full fret, similar to very best Cottage Pianofortes, 50 guineas; in walnut, 50 guineas; in walnut, 45 guineas.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN MODEL PIANOFORTE, price 50 guineas in rosewood; or in walnut, 45 guineas. This Pianoforte is of the same size as the English Model, but has a different action, and is made on the principle which ensures to endure the greatest amount of wear, and to stand perfectly in tune. The touch is very light and elastic. The quality of the tone is round, full, and rich; and the power equal to that of a Richard Cobbett Cottage. The case is elegant, and the workmanship of the best description. The entire Pianoforte is manufactured in the most complete manner by machinery, and all the parts are made to gauge, so that any part of one instrument will serve for the same part in any other instrument of the same size and description.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BROADWOOD, COLLARD, and ERARD, and the best manufacturers of Pianofortes at the newest kinds by these celebrated makers, may be tried side by side at CHAPPELL'S, 50, New Bond-street, where Pianofortes by all the best makers may be obtained on the Three Years' System.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

ERARD'S NEW BOUDOIR GRAND PIANOFORTES, at 120 guineas, having been now brought to perfection, CHAPPELL and Co. have a few for SALE.
CHAPPELL and Co.'S, 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES, from Eighteen Guineas to Two Hundred Guineas. SECONDHAND PIANOFORTE for Sale by BROADWOOD, COLLARD, ERARD, CHAPPELL, and other Makers. Pianofortes of almost every description.—Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

PIANOFORTES AT CHAPPELL'S.—The largest Stock in London, by Broadwood, Collard, Erard, &c., Sale or Hire, 50, New Bond-street.

ALEXANDRE'S DRAWING-ROOM MODEL HARMONIUM, the best that can be made, price 60 guineas; other Harmoniums, from 15 guineas. Illustrated Catalogues of Pianofortes and Harmoniums upon application to CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

SIX-GUINEA HARMONIUM by ALEXANDRE, with two octaves and pedals, to be had of CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street. This Harmonium is of the same description as the more costly instruments, but the tone is not quite so full, and the case is not so handsome. A large assortment of the Harmoniums of this class always on view at CHAPPELL'S, 50, New Bond-street.

THE SICILIANA FLUTE.—Old System of Flageolet, with important improvements.—These celebrated Instruments are now manufactured by Rudall, Rose, and Carte, from 4 to 18 guineas, by F. ARTHUR CHAPPELL, 9814, Regent-street, from whom Prospectuses may be had.

ANTOINE COURTOIS' CORNETS-à-PISTONS.—These celebrated Instruments, the favourite of musicians in the kingdom, are made solely for S. ARTHUR CHAPPELL, 9814, Regent-street, from whom Prospectuses and drawings may be obtained.

BOOSEY'S MINIATURE PIANOFORTE is made in Rosewood or Mahogany, is suitable for the Drawing-room, study, or Schoolroom, and has the full compass.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BOOSEY'S MINIATURE PIANOFORTE possesses every requisite for the Drawing-room, and is quite unrivalled as combining cheapness and an excellent quality of tone.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BOOSEY'S MINIATURE PIANOFORTE is made in the very best manner, and, from the strength and solidity of its construction, will stand any climate. Price 20 guineas.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BOOSEY'S MINIATURE PIANOFORTE. An extensive stock may be seen at Boosey and Sons', 24, Holles-street, where all instructions may be had gratis.

EVANS' ENGLISH HARMONIUMS gained the Prize Medal at the International Exhibition.
EVANS' COTTAGE HARMONIUMS, 24, Holles-street.

EVANS' COTTAGE HARMONIUMS at 9 guineas, and School Harmoniums at 12 guineas.
EVANS' ENGLISH HARMONIUMS, 24, Holles-street.

EVANS' ENGLISH HARMONIUMS. At the Exhibition of 1862 they were pronounced by Europe and made to every sensible variety. Prizes from 6 to 140gs. Lists free.—EVANS and CHING, 24, Holles-street, the only manufactures.—BOOSEY and CHING, 24, Holles-street, London.

CASE'S ENGLISH HARMONIUMS.—These Instruments are unrivalled, which still maintain their unrivalled reputation, and are the only Harmoniums which will stand any climate in tone than any other Concertina.
BOOSEY and CHING, Manufacturers, 24, Holles-street.

PRATTEN'S SEVEN-GUINEA PERFECTED CYLINDER FLUTE, old system of fingering. This Instrument, the result of many years' experiments, possesses all the equal advantages of the cylinder flute on Boehm's principle, and is in every respect a perfect instrument, and the cost is equal to that of a good flute. In addition to which, through Mr. Pratten's ingenious improvements in its construction, the manufacturers are enabled to produce this instrument at one third of the expense of any cylinder flute hitherto sold.
Every intended prospectus may be had on application to the manufacturers, BOOSEY and SONS, 24, Holles-street.

T. BESSON'S NEW CHALLENGE CORNETS. — Manufactory, 198, Euston-road, Twenty-four medals awarded for these celebrated instruments, which are adopted by the first artists and amateurs in the world.

THE CIVIL WAR IN AMERICA: UNSUCCESSFUL ATTEMPT OF THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC TO CROSS THE RAPPAHANNOCK ON THE 20TH OF JANUARY LAST.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

ACCIDENT ON THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY BETWEEN ARMOODPORE AND RAMPORE HANT.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

ILLUSTRATIONS OF THE WAR IN AMERICA.

CHARLESTON HARBOUR.

THE war which has raged so long and fiercely throughout the States began, as our readers are aware, by the bombardment, just two years ago, of Fort Sumter in Charleston Harbour, South Carolina—a bloodless engagement, little indicative of the seas of blood which were and it is to be feared, still are to be shed. Public attention has been again directed in a special manner to Charleston on account of the recent daring attack of Confederate iron-clads on the Federal blockade; and the following description of the harbour, and by reason also of the attach recently taken inside the harbour by our Special Artist, and forwarded to England by one of the many vessels which are continually breaking the blockade. We remark that the sketches were taken from the pencil of the Special Artist in the Southern camp which have from time to time fallen into the hands of the Federals on the New York illustrated journals, and he has therefore naturally arisen—might they not as well have been handed over to their owners for publication?

Charleston is built on a low point of land between the Rivers Ashley and Cooper, which unite immediately with the ocean at Sullivan's convenient harbour communicating with the ocean at Sullivan's Island, about seven miles from the city. The main entrance to the harbour is divided by Fort Sumter, founded upon an artificial island, while on the right hand is Sullivan's Island, on the left Morris Island, and beyond Fort Sumter, midway to the city of Charleston, is Fort Pinckney. A vessel has going to Fort Sumter would have to run the gauntlet of a double fire. Fort Sumter is a modern truncated pentagonal fort, built of brick and three-quarters from the city of Charleston. The walls are of solid brick and concrete masonry, built of Carolina stone. They are 50 ft. high, and 8 ft. 6 in. thick at the base, and taper as they ascend to the top, where they are 12 ft. thick. They are pierced for three tiers of guns on the north, east, and west sides. It is designed for one hundred and forty guns of ordinary calibre, and for the most part casemate bombproof casemates; the upper tier is open, or en barbette. Fort Moultrie is distant from Sumter a mile and a half. It is entirely open, and has a high sand parapet, and is armed with seven heavy guns and several mortars. The walls are of brick, and present a solid mass of about 15 ft. in thickness. The Half-Battery Point point of land is to Fort Sumter, being only 1150 yards distant. The iron battery here erected is made of railroad-iron. The plates are laid on the ground, so that each one overlaps part of the plate next to it, as in the case of slates. Fort Johnson is a series of batteries protected by an earthen parapet, and are armed with mortar and sand-guns. They are one sandwarks, and are armed with mortar and sand-guns. They are one mile and a quarter from Fort Sumter. Castle Pinckney is situated on the southern extremity of Shute's Folly Island, about 1½ miles from Sumter, and is the city. It is about three miles from Sumter, and is the north-west. It has two rows of guns, the lower bombproof casemates, the upper en barbette. The height of the walls is 30 ft., and the thickness 32 ft. The armament is twenty-five guns. Batteries were thrown upon Morris Island at the beginning of the war, commanding the entrance to Charleston Harbour. Cummings Point is on Morris Island, and faces the sea. It consequently commands the entrance to the harbour. There is a depth of water at low tide of 18 feet.

These particulars of Charleston Harbour are necessarily exceedingly brief, and must be taken with much caution, as they were hastily collected at the outset of the war, since which time, of course, the defences named have been greatly strengthened and many others provided, including these gigantic iron-clad batteries concerning which bably shall. Considering these points, the Confederate Government, it would have been of deep interest, our Artist, "incommunicable ell," preserves a profound silence, on the plea—a well-known Yankee—reserves a profound silence, on the plea—a well-known Yankee—preserves a profound silence, on the plea—a well-known Yankee—preserves a profound silence, on the plea—a well-known Yankee—pre

OUR COLOURED SUPPLEMENT.

"TOO HOT."

THE more humble a painter's subject the wider his appeal, the larger his audience. Could Art can visit the lowliest home, the humblest cottage, with no loss of dignity or purity. Like Una, when unveiled it makes "a sunshine in a shady place." "To the poor the Gospel is preached," said One who passed among men as the poor carpenter's son. And so, how a benedicent mission, and consequently how much more with the joys and sorrows of humble life, chastening the one and softening the other. It no longer ministers only to the gratification of the rich and luxurious, it possesses a far more healthful influence among all the various strata of society. Scenes of peasantlife, with its cares or contentments, incidents of child-life interspersed with pains as well as pleasures, are now favourite themes with the painter. There, indeed, form the most novel and striking features of contemporary Art when compared with the Art of former days. And who is there insensible to the lessons of kindliness and brotherhood, sympathy and benevolence, which this single picture-page will teach? All who run may read."

The picture, by Mr. Collinson, of which we offer a chromotype, may be taken as a representative of a large class of popular works of art. In it we get a glimpse of the simple solace of honest labour: the innocent out-of-doors life of children: the pleasures of the humble home; those domestic so-called "trifles" which "make up the sum of human life;" the joys of the family circle that the poor share in at least as large a proportion as the rich. We will suppose that "grandfather" has had his share in his age with the hardships he has undergone in his daily toil of from his long rounds as keeper, for he may pass as such, to that refreshing meal, "the tea," almost universally unknown by the poor on the Continent. It is still afternoon, and his day's labour very likely over; but then he commenced soon after dawn—hours before we, in our "society," could "ring the bell," had risen. With what satisfaction he sat down, and with what zest he quaffs his "dish" of perhaps a weak decoction of common country tea! He is reminded by few who sip their draughts of delicate Russian in brilliantly-lighted drawing-rooms. And, although the old friend has no special cup for any stranger, to him, as to all of us, there is, in the words of the adage, "no place like home, be it ever so homely." To him, among its other attractions, is there not, in that dear little baby granddaughter, a link from the old heart years so fondly, expecting to take the customary place on his knee and to be thus indulged. Or can that be a daughter-in-law's little one there now, you say; and what a pleased and pleasing couple they make! The mother was probably among the first acquaintances of the life of each; for how true to nature is this peculiarly tender love and companionship of age and childhood! How pleasant must it be, as we go down the years and the dark "valley of the shadow" has to be left back, as it were, for a little while to the other side, where the sun smiles, and the birds and flowers bloom in a new life! Unless it would be hard to say which is the more playful of these two, with the standing of such a gulf of years between them. How often, think you, has the little joke of the too-hot tea been played off between those two children? The old man shares, perhaps, the weakness attributed to old ladies—a love for tea; but little Polly is quite unconscious of the saucer is solemnly held to her lips. Then come the pretended scalding and blowing, and laughing and blowing, and puffing, and begging for more milk, accompanied with infinite fun and coquetry—all the little comedy being most correctly repeated from day to day.

THE PEERS' LOBBY.

The Peers' lobby, like that of the Commons, is equilateral in plan, but the smaller of the two. It measures 38ft. square and 33ft. in height. As the chief approach for the Peers to their own House, it bears largely of the magnificent character of the House of Lords. Each side is divided into a wide central and two smaller compartments, the central compartments each given for stained glass, having carved crockets, spandrils, finials, and pinnacles. The spandrils and pinnacles contain the arms of different dignatries or Royal lines that have swayed the English sceptre—the Saxon, Plantagenet, Tudor, Stuart, and Hanoverian. Below each compartment is a small panel quatrefoiled, and bearing on its centre a shield, on which one of the initials S. R. P. C. S. is painted, corresponding with the initials above. The north doorway (within the arch which gives the "point of station" of our heraldry) opens into the long corridor leading from the Victoria central hall, to the House of Commons, whilst the western opens into the Peers' library, and the eastern into the refreshment-rooms, which consist of a dining and tea room. Each, west, and east, of the entrances correspond in general character with the south, but are of much plainer design. The roof only extends over the lobby, which opens into the House of Lord's has panels embellished, like the other three, with the Royal arms, but the shields are far more elaborate and richly decorative. The arch is deeply moulded, and enriched in front with tracery, containing at intervals Tudor roses, royally crowned, boldly carved, and in alto-relievo. In the recessed panel over each within its mouldings are oak-leaves gilded; and the space above is divided into compartments, each containing the Royal arms of England, with roses, thistles, and shamrocks, every portion being properly coloured and gilded. The massive brass gates beneath, weighing 13 tons, are fine specimens (by Skidmore) of intricate metal-work, and are worthy of comparison with the fifteenth-century gates of the tomb of Henry VII. Westminster Abbey. The gold-pruned panels and glass in the divisions forming the angles of the lobby are the work of the most ancient families of the aristocracy. A broad band, serving as the base to the whole sculpture, and on English characters the legend "Domine salvam fac Reginam" (beneath it an elegant conopied canopy), bearing the royal shields, with the initials "V.R.," surmount the piers, from which spring the ribs of the ceiling. The ceiling, which is divided into elaborately-painted panelling, is only a "show ceiling," concealing the substantial roof, which, also is fireproof, being of iron beams and brickwork. The flooring is formed of Derbyshire marble, which take a polish like jasper; of Minton's encaustic tiles, with the Royal arms and the motto of "Dieu et mon droit," and of, in the centre, enamel inlaid with brass. At the corners of the lobby are very handsome brass coal-boxes for gaslights.

The absurdity of the counterfeit Tudor-Gothic of this building is evident even in this handsome but gloomy lobby. The frequent recurrence of the Tudor rose is an ominous sign of the want of true device. There is an endless repetition of that panelling which passed for ornament when stone could had been substituted for wood, and the more artistic kinds of carving. Moreover, the panelling is misapplied. The panels were plainly intended to lighten loads, not weaken their supports—not to be mere buttresses. In fact, fritter stands for richness, repetition for variety.

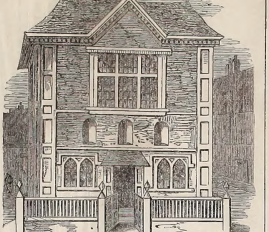
The Queen has approved of Don Miguel Jordan y Llorens as Consul at Liverpool for the Queen of Spain.

The total receipts of the Royal Humane Society for the past year were £2,000, and the expenditure was £2,110. In 1867 medals have been awarded by the society in the following cases:—Mr. Giles, fourth officer of the steamship Bengal, for saving a fellow-seaman from drowning from that vessel by springing after him while at sea, between Calcutta and Madras, on the 24th of January, 1867; Lieutenant F. T. Hamilton, of Her Majesty's ship Eclipse, for a like attempt, though unsuccessful; George Brooks and Thomas Lane, Gravesend boatmen, for similar circumstances; Robert Gibson Malone, who succeeded in saving a man while serving in the Atlantic; Mr. Hall, of Liverpool, and seven others known to about to be known to the society as "Dunn had also received a bronze medal from the society in 1865. James Cunningham, the boatman who died in rescuing one of the persons from the wreck, and the latter for saving the crew and passengers, fifty-two in number, of the steam-ship Canadian, whilst dangerously surrounded by the ice-floes of Newfoundland. As regards the bathers in the Serpentine during the past season, they were estimated at 174,637; there were forty-three cases reported that in nine cases these attempts had been successful. The starters twenty-two broke through the ice, but were saved by the keepers.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS

COLUMN FOR THE CURIOUS.

HICKS'S HALL.



Now that the steam-horse threatens to undermine and override our great city, a four-horse coach has almost become a phenomenon, or nearly as great a rarity as the tigri salivarii in Cannon-street called "the London stone." Camden believed this relic to be part of the great central milestone from which the British high roads radiated and the distances from them were reckoned. When the practice was discontinued we leave the British itineraries' or roadbooks to settle. It is better known that in later times their measurements were made from the verge of London in various directions; thus, perchance, a few of the milestone on the great north road may to this day proclaim their distances "from the spot where Hicks's Hall formerly stood," thus being the northern starting-point. Many a traveller has, doubtless, wondered why Hicks's Hall should have been fixed on, who Hicks was, and why his name should be entitled to this distinction. The old Roman road-stations were named after Emperors; but Hicks has nothing of Imperial dignity to warrant the adoption. Many years ago Mr. Charles Knight wrote a very pleasant paper upon the "special sessions" so to the inhabitants of Hicks's Hall, memorable on of Swift's Mrs. Harris of other days. The humour of Mr. Knight's paper is now past and gone, and may be enjoyed by reading his contribution, "Suburban Milestones" in London, vol. i. He has there described the locus in quo of Hicks's Hall, but has not illustrated this architectural relic to posterity, which we are now enabled to do from a print of some rarity in a private collection. There can be no doubt as to the identity of Hicks's Hall. It was built a hundred and fifty years since, the year in which the New River was brought into London. The town-crier then attended by the side of the Priory of St. John of Jerusalem (of which the gate remains) to the Sessions House, Clerkenwell and Hicks's-green, which opened into fields. The builder was Sir Baptist Hicks, of Kensington, a silkmercer, of Chesapide, who grew rich by supplying the Court with silks and mercery during long reign of King James, the "wisest fool in nobility and gentry." He was knighted in 1603, but still continued to keep his shop, contrary to the practice of the Aldermen Knights of that time. He presented the county with this hall, which stood in the middle of the highway, at a short distance eastward from the end of St. John's-street, which he says it cost about £500, or thereabouts;" elsewhere he states £600. Howes, Ed., 1631, thus describes the building and the naming of it:—

> Sir Baptist Hicks, Knight, one of the justices of the county, builded a very stately Session House of brick and stone, with all offices thereunto belonging, at his own proper charge, and finished the same the 11th of January, 1612, yere, 1612, by which time this house was fully finished, there assembled twenty-six justices of the county, being the first day of their meeting in that place, when they were all feasted by Sir Baptist Hicks, and then they all, with one accord, gave it a proper name, and called it Hicks's Hall, after the name of the founder, who then freely gave the same house to them and their successors for ever. Until this time the Justices of Middlesex had their usual meeting in a common inn, called the Castle (near Smithfield Bars).

However, Hicks's Hall had other celebrity besides its milestone distinction. It occurs in "Hudibras," part iii., canto 3 :—

> And old droll set who trod the clock
> At Hicks's Hall, and Sessions Hall.
> At Westminster and Hicks's Hall.

In Hicks's Hall William Lord Russell, the patriot, was condemned to death by Jeffreys, high treasurer, July 13, 1683; he had been tried at the Old Bailey on the previous day. In Hicks's Hall, too, Count Koningsmarck, the murderer, though not actual assassin of Mr. Thynne, was acquitted. And, in March, 1765, a bill of indictment was found at the Sessions at Hicks's Hall against the Count de Guerohy for the absurd charge of murdering a servant girl, Mary O'Dea.

The Sessions were held here until late in the last century, and the erection of the present Sessions-house on Clerkenwell-green completed, in 1782; long after which, however, this old hall remained, "a ruin in all." The architect, Rogers, removed here from the old hall a fine Jacobean chimney-piece, which, with the arms and monument of Sir Baptist Hicks, believed to have been never engraved: it hung in the dining-room at the first Sessions House.

The old Hall, becoming ruinous and much impeding the thoroughfare, was taken down to make the milestone puzzle.

Sir Baptist Hicks, in the same year that he built his patronymic hall, also erected Campden House, at Kensington, which he named from his title as a knight of the bath, in the passage, 1628. Campden House was, on the 23rd of March, 1862, almost entirely destroyed by fire; a modern mansion of the Jacobean, its founder, the several tenants, and the conflagration by which it was destroyed, Blackwood walls, will be found in Chambers's "Book of Days," part vii.

GROWTH OF LONDON.—Our metropolis has progressed from a walled town, covering about 700 acres, with a population half-mercantile half-military, to a city of 3,000 acres, with a population, the majority being, as appears from an old proclamation, "heaped up together, and in a half rotation," to the modern city of our day, spreading over more than 120 square miles, and containing 2,000 miles of streets lined by 300,000 houses, with a population of 3,000,000, and an assessed annual rental of £35,000,000.—Alexander Pulling, Law Magazine, No. 28.

STRAWBERRIES.—In Sussex, formerly, when differences arose between man and wife, and the former was guilty of violence, it was customary to lay some straw and chaff before the door to symbolize the thrashing that had taken place within.—M. A. Lower, F.S.A.

THE QUEEN'S PRISON (formerly called the King's Bench), which is shortly to be taken down, was built in the year 1758, when the old King's Bench Prison, which was on the east side of the High-street, Southwark, near St. George's Church, became the county prison; and in 1811, after the building of Horsemonger-lane Gaol, the county magistrates sold it under the power of an Act of Parliament, and it became the Marshalsea Prison.—G. R. Corner, F.S.A.

HOLBORN.—The hotel-building mania promises to add greatly to our metropolitan charges. It is proposed to erect a large hotel upon the site of the George and Blue Boar, one of our oldest remaining inns, and associated with a great event in our history. Here was intercepted the letter of Charles I. by which Ireton discovered it to be the King's intention to destroy him, which discovery brought about Charles's execution.

THE TOMB OF SIR HANS SLOANE.—This picturesque memorial to a man of science and a public benefactor, in the burial-ground of St. Luke's Old Church, Chelsea, is in need of repair. The tomb abuts upon the highway, and cannot be out of mind. Eyebrach's marble altar-piece, also in the garden of the Apothecaries' Company, also at Chelsea, is seen by comparatively few persons; but the tomb in the churchyard, near the south-east angle, with its mystic egg and serpents, is almost as conspicuous as the "Sun Monster" of the ancients. We have said that Sir Hans Sloane was a public benefactor. When only twenty-two years old he presented some curiosities to the Royal Society, in whose chair he subsequently succeeded the illustrious Newton. Sloane also brought home from Jamaica, after fifteen months' sojourn there, 800 volumes of books, which, with other objects of natural history and various curiosities, formed the nucleus of his museum, upon which he spent a large sum of money. He was many years physician to Chirst's Hospital, always devoting his salary to charitable purposes. He was the first English physician created a Baronet, and he was president of the college sixteen years. He continued to exercise all his official duties until he was fourscore and upwards of 90 years old. His house was at Chelsea, where Edwards, the naturalist, took coffee with Sir Hans every Saturday evening, and carried him "the common news of the town." His museum, which cost him £50,000, Sloane bequeathed to the public, on condition of payment to his family of £20,000, which scarcely exceeded the intrinsic value of the gold and silver medals and the ores and precious stones in his collection, which, it need scarcely be added, formed the nucleus of the British Museum. To the Apothecaries' Company Sloane also presented the freehold of their "Physic Garden." The manor of Chelsea passed by marriage and bequest to Baron Cadogan, Earl of Cadogan, in whose hands its property remains. Here are instances of two public bodies and a noble family largely benefiting by the bounty of a well-earned wealthy man, yet his monument is verging on decay! Surely the trustees of the British Museum, or the representatives of the Society of the Apothecaries' Company, or the lord of the manor of Chelsea, will, separately or collectively, restore the monument of this munificent benefactor; or, should these neglect the duty, Sir Hans Sloane's memory to have prolonged his life by abstaining from wine and other stimulating liquors, and exemplified his principles by strict sobriety, temperance, and moderation are the best and most powerful preservatives that Nature has granted to mankind. The temperance societies should take up the restoration by way of gratitude to the memory of their most rational illustrators of the excellence of their objects. We have more than one medical man who has risen to eminence from a state of genius and virtue; and shall be happy to find the present appeal attended with a similar result.

NORTH AMERICAN LUMBER TRADE.

(Continued from No. 1187.)

THE rocky north shore of the St. Lawrence, in the neighbourhood of Quebec, is indented in a remarkable manner by small bays, called coves. It is in these coves that the lumber-merchants have made their depôts by becoming accustomed to the use of the rivers and timber having been felled and dragged from their birthplaces in the primeval forest to the nearest streams, they drive down them to the larger rivers and formed into cribs, and those again are then taken to pieces and re-rafted again and again, and having escaped all the rushes consequent to those dangerous descents, at last safely find their way in one of these coves. Here the raft is taken to pieces and the timber deposited on board the ship that is to convey it to the old country.

The toil of the lumberman is now over and his year's labour brought to a close; the ropes, anchors, chains, boats, and other tackle necessary for navigating the rafts down the rivers are sent on board ship, as they will be required next season. The raftsman sticks to the raft until he gets his pay. Then, perhaps, he steps ashore and enjoys himself in his own particular fashion, entering deeply into those delights with which his "greatest earnings" had previously prepared for him.

The timber coves about Quebec are a most exceedingly picturesque place, the scenery of the St. Lawrence, in this locality, not being surpassed by any landscape scenery in the world. Both north and south the shores here rise in bold headlands; but on the Quebec side the scenery is particularly grand, consisting of a succession of perpendicular cliffs, several hundred feet in height, and terminating eastward in the magnificent headland called Cape Diamond, upon which stands the fortress of Quebec, the city covering the declivity that slopes down to the River St. Charles. Some of the coves have sloping backgrounds, which are covered with trees. These are less picturesque than those which are shown in our illustration, and it is one specially interesting to every English man, for it was on the shore of this quiet little bay that on a dark September night, in the year 1759, a boat-load of men, in very little army landed, climbed up the cliffs under cover of the thick wood, and suddenly stood before the astonished soldier of Montcalm upon the plains of Abraham, where they fought the battle that gave the Canadas to Great Britain. The English marks the spot where Wolfe fell, and the tourist, whether British or of any other nation, never fails to visit the spot as being one of the most interesting in the neighbourhood.

The city of Quebec is built chiefly on the high land, and is united with the lower town by a steep hill, on the face of which a portion of it called the Lower Town that is built on a narrow slip of land which runs round the base of the cliffs: this land is neither more nor less than a long mass of rock that has fallen from the cliffs. It is, however, a very valuable piece of land, for it is covered with wharves, quays, warehouses, and the shipping of the shipyards. Between the base of the cliff and these buildings and works there is often a long narrow street, several miles in length, for it is continued beyond the town and round the bend or curve, which is all it is separated, where there are no buildings, by a high wooden fence. A turn of this street is shown on the left hand in our first engraving. A ride from the foot of Mountain-street (which is the steep hillside entrance to the Upper Town) to the river's edge round the timber coves to Cape Rouge, is one of the most interesting in the locality. Timber is everywhere; the houses are built of it, the roads are planked with it, the river is full of it, numerous ships are being built with it, and countless others are being forged with it; for not only are they constructed principally of it, but it is piled on their decks: some of these lie in the coves and receive it through apertures made on purpose in their sides, counters—these lie out in the river and receive innumerable deals from lighters, whilst many there off piled upon their decks in immense stacks. The houses in the curious street which runs round the St. Lawrence Suburbs of wood: many have balconies and projecting gangways to the upper rooms, as they are in fine weather always open.

The characteristics of their inhabitants will be found to be as curious as the locality, which, it is like a street in Constantinople, peopled with sailors of all nations, women of every age, class, and colour—the ebony negress, the tawny squaw, and the fair fresh-coloured Canadienne, red Indians and half-breeds, Yankee pedlars, and Yankee colonel keepers, with Scotch and Irish emigrants, complete the motley population. This "street" of Quebec cannot be considered exactly a nice place; but the tourist will find in it much that is peculiar and curious, and at the same time picturesque, will find it in most abundance.

Amongst the huge logs of timber and dissevered rafts that fill up every piece of quiet and slack water in the neighbourhood of Quebec will often be found a small curious light boat: this is the birch-bark canoe of the North American Indian, one of the prettiest and cleverest pieces of primitive naval architecture to be found in the world. our Artist has shown one upon the raft in the illustration of the timber cove at Quebec. Three ingenious craft are built by the Indians, and were found, made precisely of the same shape and in the same manner, by Jacques Cartier when he first ascended the St. Lawrence, 328 years ago, in search of a north-west passage to China. The frame of this canoe is formed of white cedar or other wood, and covered with the bark of the birch-tree: it is sewn without nails or any metal fastenings of any kind, the parts being sewed or laced together. The joints of the back are made watertight by paying them over with thick gum; they are made of a variety of shapes, and are occasionally decorated with ornamental designs in colours. They are exceedingly strong, though so light that a man can carry easily one large enough to hold several persons. They are used by the lumbermen to a great extent, both in navigating their rafts and carrying on their business in the wilderness. The Hudson's Bay Company use them for carrying their goods from La Chine to their depôts at the forts and posts in the most distant part of North America. Canoes of this kind are made large enough to carry five or six tons.

THE CANADIAN LUMBER TRADE: TIMBER COVES AT QUEBEC.—FROM A SKETCH BY G. H. ANDREWS.

We have hitherto spoken of the lumber trade as carried on in Canada; but our readers must not suppose that this trade is peculiar to that colony. It is too much the practice of writers in the public journals and others, in discussing questions concerning our North American colonies, to mention Canada only, as though that was the only colony of importance belonging to the British Crown in North America, and ignoring the existence altogether of the magnificent colony of New Brunswick, which adjoins it, and which in many respects is a superior country to Lower Canada; so, as regards the lumber trade, Canadian timber is always spoken of, although an immense amount is shipped from all the ports of the former colony.

St. John, the commercial capital of New Brunswick, is a magnificent harbour, situated in the upper part of the Bay of Fundy, at the point where the River St. John pours its waters into that arm of the Atlantic. It is one of the most flourishing towns in the British possessions in North America. The harbour, which could accommodate the British fleet, if necessary, is always crowded with shipping which carry the staple produce of the country to every part of the world; its shores are covered with slips, from which immense numbers of ships are annually launched. The city is in a most flourishing state and very extensive, although so few years have elapsed since the founders of it landed where the wood-quay is now situated, and which was then the wilderness.

Fredericton, the political capital of the province, is about ninety miles higher up the River St. John. It is a beautiful town, and in its general appearance, with its cathedral and richly-wooded suburbs, more resembles an English town than any place on the North American continent. Between St. John and Fredericton the scenery of the river is exactly like that of the River Thames between Windsor and Kingston, except that the St. John is a much larger river than the Thames; but it flows through the same rich meadows (in New Brunswick called interval land), and is bounded in the same manner with bold uplands. We know of no country where an Englishman can feel so much at home as in the lower valley of the St. John. The river between these points is full of bustle and animation; numerous steam-vessels are constantly seen making their passages up or down the stream, as well as scores of smart little schooners of a class peculiar to the River St. John. These are chiefly employed in carrying the sawn lumber from the various mills situated on the higher parts of the river and on its tributaries down to St. John, to be there shipped to Europe and elsewhere; and, as on the St. Lawrence, the broad raft is constantly met with slowly sweeping down to the great harbour.

THE CITADEL. THE DITCH. PALACE OF THE LORD HIGH COMMISSIONER. PALACE OF THE GREEK ARCHBISHOP.

VIEW OF THE TOWN AND CITADEL OF CORFU, FROM THE ANCHORAGE.

THE CITADEL. THE DITCH. PALACE OF THE LORD HIGH COMMISSIONER. THE CATHEDRAL. FORT NEUF.

GENERAL VIEW OF CORFU.—SEE PAGE 225.

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

THE country is to save more than a million sterling this year by the reduction in the Naval Estimates; considerable retrenchment is talked of in the Army; the appropriation for the appanage of the Prince of Wales has surprised every one by its moderation, and yet people are grumbling. At what? Well, first, because Englishmen have an inveterate habit of murmuring at everything; and, next, because they are not called upon to pay more. Astute members of her Majesty's Opposition, at a loss "where to have" the Chancellor of the Exchequer, are crying out that if we diminish our Army and Navy, and their contingent expenses, the crisis may soon arrive when we may find both men and material lacking. To call, on the morrow of a proximate invasion on the part of the gallant nation who are—little interested in jealousies apart—our best friends, and whose sovereign is our most steadfast ally, has been trotted out this very week in Parliament. As for the Prince's income, political consequents of its standing, financiers who have been in the habit of flints and scraping cheese-rinds for unnumbered years, whisper disparagingly of the "pin-money," and say that even as the right to dock his Royal Highness's allowance because the prudence and sagacity of his august father has gathered a splendid nestegg of accumulations from the Duchy of Cornwall revenues for him; and the most saturnine Democrats, who have been in the habit of declaring that their hearts were tired, shook the head pungently and "the barbaric pomp" of Royalty, are fain to admit that the nation would cheerfully have voted an extra twenty-five or thirty thousand a year towards the maintenance of the state and splendour of the Eldest Son and their Adopted Daughter of England. To be tried, in that, by John Bull or hit him with you can never satisfy him. If you reform his calendar he cries out, "Give us back our eleven days!" if you strike off his fetters he bemoans the loss of his chains; and if we firmly believe that any comprehensive scheme for paying off the National Debt would produce universal murmurs, we will not essay the doctrine. The petty larcener who once brought an action against the Sheriff and recovered damages because he had not been whipped, in pursuance of his sentence and punished by the stocks, was but a fair image of a free-born and grumbling Englishman.

Day after day an article appears in the Times filled with advertisements from ingenious speculators who have window-frontage to let in the principal thoroughfares whence a view of the Royal procession on the eventful morning can be procured. From thirty to fifty guineas, "with attendance, if required," are freely asked, and as freely given, as I first found out to my cost a few years ago. No doubt not that, on the eve of the festival, heavy rents will be demanded for standing-room on the tiles and scarcely room for the chimney-pots. The hot forces of seat-letting we remember was when the visitor of Wakefield was borne to his tomb in St. Paul's. One ingenious person, thinking that a speech from the window would not be complete without refreshments, supplemented his advertisement that he had a second-floor front to let with the offer that he was prepared to supply "The Duke of Wellington's funeral cake" wholesale and retail; and another announced that he was willing to place his entire house at the disposal of gentry requiring a disposition of members of the clergy "on condition that they appeared in their surplices."

It appears that the Lord Mayor and Corporation of London, puissant as they may be in Guildhall, Parliament Hall and Mansion House, are by no means of all these own way in the Borough when the "Fair Maid of Denmark" arrives. The High Bailiff of Southwark claims to receive the Princess at the Bricklayers' Arms; but we trust that no such compromise has been, ere this, effected, by means of which both the Lord Mayor's state and the High Bailiff's will be left in the unpleasant limbo of the Old Kent-road. A cavalcade of five hundred mounted inhabitants of Southwark, with white rosettes and scarves, is understood to be in course of formation. Again, it looks like the Corporation of Westminster are to put in an appearance; and the Court of Burgesses, of whom few people have ever heard until this day, are to receive from the Royal pair through the precincts ruled by the Westminsterian gridiron. As regards the parish in which the office of the LITERATURE OF NEWS is situated, we can tell the churchwardens have determined on filling the area of St. Clement's churchyard with mourners and on placing a row of private carriages from the weather, to be let at ten shillings each, and the profits of which are to be given to local charities.

The recent painful case of "Hall v. Semple," arising from the indiscretion of a week-minded physician, who granted a certificate at the instance of a husband, woman, by name of which he knew to be a respectable tradesman, was consigned to a lunatic asylum, has been brought under the attention of the Lunacy Board, and the gentleman, when interpellated by Mr. Butt, did not see any reason for altering the existing legal provisions in cases of insanity. It is true that the visits of Commissioners in Lunacy to our madhouses are a sure guard against prolonged false imprisonment; and the Home Secretary, while admitting that the law needed amending in the "Hall v. Semple" affair, stated that circulars had been sent round to the keepers of lunatic asylums to prevent the visitors being destroyed by a fit, who, we may ask, is to restrain the occasional fatality of medical men, and what course is open for guarding against the indiscriminate signature of lunacy certificates at the holding of unrecognised and meditative people who are themselves more than half crazy?

The Earl of Shaftesbury has introduced the English ticket-of-leave system into his dominions; and his Majesty is consequently liable to be sneered at as one of the "weak-minded humanitarians," to whose school we are known to belong, because we believe, right now to suggestions, in the curability of crime; and because we should be ashamed of our country if we despaired of mending the worst of criminals, so long even what are flippantly and cruelly termed "hardened criminals." What is a "hardened criminal?" At what age, practically, is the reform of the cat-o'-nine-tails and the drag-chain, does he become hardened? We took the trouble, lately, to toil through a whole week's reports of the trials and the cases at the various criminal courts of the metropolis. The oft-convicted thieves, the garrotters, the felonious assault committed on females between the ages of eighteen and twenty-five, not one of them was ever thrashed. And it is for the crimes committed by lads and young men that the "practical" gentlemen prescribe an irrevocable sentence of life-long servitude, flogging, and bread and water. We grant the existence of many "hardened" young ruffians; but who "hardened" them? Is it not the fact that the preliminary process commence? "There goes my other and unfortunate self," the good French Bishop was used to say whenever he met a criminal on his way to execution. There may come a day when the most respectable and "practical" man in the empire may discover with horror and with anguish that he has been throughout their consequent responsible and "practical" lives the most "hardened" of criminals.

The gallant Duke of Marlborough has said to be dealing at Ilsly, and the Gioveli Grasso of this year to have been a very dull one. In Venice the people persistently decline enjoying themselves under any pretext whatever, and the only masks to be seen in the Piazza San Marco or at the Fenice balls are the stipendiaries of the Austrian police. The Archbishop of York, we will, has delivered a charge, discourse so sweetly with "the hair of the horse drawn across the intestines of the cat," has become a dead letter, albeit there are plenty of exiled Kings—"Monarchs retired from business," as witty Dr. Doran calls them—to furnish the guests at such another supper as Voltaire, with inimitable humour, has described at Ferney.

At Rome, likewise, the public obstinately refuse to be merry at the bidding of the Papal Government, and the only "Ecco mascherato" sounds faint and lugubrious. At Turin it has required all the efforts of Prince Baldassare Odescalchi and the Turinese Jockey Club to keep the rejoicings of Shrove Tuesday alive; only, at Milan, where the Austrians have an extra or "big" carnival—a carnevalone granted to them by special dispensation from their patron St. Ambrose—it is to be crescendi and the confetti been flying with the old violence and the old good humour.

En resumée, Paris has been delirious with merry making during the carnival. Seldom have the Opera masquerades been so well attended, and never within the memory of the oldest butterfly have such splendid fancy balls been seen. The Emperor and Empress gave the cue, and all the magnificence of the empire have followed suit with bals parés et travestis. The "Bee Quadrille" and the "Butterfly Quadrille" will be long remembered; but the heroine à la mode has been Mademoiselle Castiglione, as Salammbo, with bare arms, sandalled feet, looped-up drapery, and hair given to all the winds, and a negro attendant holding an antique parasol over her head.

FINE ARTS.

The exterior of St. Paul's, confined as is the view by the surrounding houses, is yet, as every traveller knows, grander in its proportions, more beautiful in its symmetry, than St. Peter's at Rome. The contrast between the interior of our metropolitan cathedral and that of the Roman basilica is, however, in point of beauty reflected almost as great as can possibly be. The one is gorgeous with colours, glinting, mosaic, and variegated marbles; the other all cold, bare, and desolate, like the French Pantheon. It was not the wish of Sir Christopher Wren that this contrast should exist. The great architect recorded his express desire that St. Paul's should be "filled with rich and durable mosaics." Nevertheless, with the exception of Sir James Thornhill's muchlastic cubicets in the dome, repainted in monochrome by Mr. Parris, the building has remained to our time as the architect left it. Not so the choir. This was made by Sir Joshua Reynolds and several contemporary artists to paint a series of decorative pictures in the cathedral gratuitously was declined as "Popish"; but the late young, heretofore Protestant empire, even in Scotland, has concluded that there is no more sin in decorating our churches than in hanging florid stained-glass windows therein. Hence, as a consequence of this change the decoration of St. Paul's has been discussed from time to time. But the first actual step has been to let F. C. Penrose, the present able and distinguished cathedral surveyor. Some time since we announced that efforts were being made to decorate the choir of the cathedral with pictures. Four artists—two sculptors and two painters—have been invited to make designs, in limine experimenti, representing the Transfiguration. We could have wished an open competition in this national undertaking; but, the necessity of selection being admitted, artists presumably better qualified for the task could hardly be found than those. They are Mr. Stevens, the successful competitor for the Wellington monument; Mr. Woolner, the painter of the pence in Alexander's Inn; Mr. Leighton, a most accomplished painter, whose works have always had a decorative character; and Mr. Watts Phillips, a designer of splendidly decorative keeling, and who is also recommended by his incised marble works, examples of which were in the International Exhibition. The first-named artist, Mr. Stevens, has declined the invitation; but the other three gentlemen have sent in their designs, which are now on view in the cathedral. Before, however, the committee come to a decision upon their respective merits the designs will be executed in mosaic to scale in a small model of the apse. The decision will then be arrived at, which will result in a very just and necessary precaution in respect to a mode of decoration perfectly novel in this country; but in connection with which drawings would convince any person the least conversant with the requirements of such designs that it would be mere waste to execute a model of any but Mr. Stevens's drawings, so immeasurably are they superior to the rest. This is a fitting occasion to remind the public that, although the funds for the decorations are raised, even the proposed initiatory decoration cannot be effected.

A new fresco, "Raising House Defended by the Cavaliers," by Mr. O. W. Grant, R.A., has just been placed in the Royal Corridor of the new Palace, Westminster. It is one of the able artist's most finished and effective works. We shall take a future opportunity of describing it with a fulness of which our present space does not admit.

The Photographic Exhibition closes to-day. The society gave brilliant entertainments, on the 19th inst., in the conversazione, containing the exhibition; and at the last meeting—it having been determined to offer prize-medals for the best contributions—the following awards were announced:—For portraits, Mr. Mayall; for landscapes, Mr. Bedford; for instantaneous photographs, Lieut.-Col. Stuart Wortley; for copying, Mr. J. Watkins. (The latter child work we have engraved); for copies of pictures or reproductions, Mr. Thurston Thompson; for best amateur contributions, not instantaneous, Viscountess Hawarden.

The poor accommodation afforded sculptors for the exhibition of their works in this country when compared with other countries has been duly felt. The Royal Academy, the South Kensington Museum, and small spaces in the British Institution and Suffolk-street Galleries, would be the only places which could at present be named to comprise the whole of their accommodation. The Royal Academy, which should be the first to remedy the inadequate space given at its art, has always treated sculpture with peculiar discourtesy. An attempt was, it is true, made to improve the Hades to which sculptors were condemned by the Trafalgar-square Act, when the new Royal Academy was taken has only been to make darkness more visible; the cellars have been lighted and windows have been opened to lights; to take away all repose in the background. The time has certainly come for the sculptors to assert their independence; for, contrary to the opinion of the Royal Academy, sculpture progress in public favour of late years in Great Britain. We were accordingly glad surprised to hear that the Society of Sculptors of England was formed in July, 1862, for promoting exhibitions of sculpture, and generally uniting and encouraging the art. Communications from the sculptors on contribute to its first exhibition, which is announced to open in April, in conjunction with the architectural exhibition at 9, Conduit-street, Hanover-square, arrangements having been made therefor with the Architectural Union Company. Subscriptions are received by Mr. Bonomy, the hon. sec., at 9, Conduit-street, from those who desire to receive copies of the society's publications. There is great prosperity in having a display of architectural designs and sculpture together, for what much can be more appropriate than sculpture? Should the protected exhibition receives the support it seems to deserve from the profession and the public, it cannot fail in being highly beneficial to all.

Mr. Leonard Wyon is engraving a medal to be struck in commemoration of the marriage of the Prince of Wales with the Princess of Denmark. The medal will be in gold, silver, and bronze.

Mr. J. Steele, R.S.A., has just completed a statue of the Marquis of Dalhousie for the Dalhousie Institute, Calcutta, and it is to be shipped immediately.

It has been stated by some of our contemporaries that the artists contributing to the Liverpool Society of Painters intend at present to discontinue their annual exhibition, after it has existed for four years, and has proved successful. We are glad to hear that had been formed it was set aside by a number of friends of the Academy coming forward with sufficient subscriptions to enable it to determine upon holding an exhibition this year. We offer the hope that the Liverpool Academy has rendered good service to art; but of late years it has become a mere clique, comprising only a few of Raphaelite cliques, a degree of hostility which has developed itself in a more successful rival Liverpool Society which now presses it so hard.

Mr. Samuel Highley, whose lecture on photography and the picture was published in our columns some time since, has established his apparatus at the Burlington Gallery, 191, Piccadilly, where he exhibits a variety of objects illustrative of science and art, exhibitions of which he intends to make periodical.

A movement is on foot to erect a statue to the memory of James, seventh Earl of Derby, who was decapitated at Bolton-le-Moors, in Lancashire, in October, 1651, and on the spot in the town the statue will be placed. Mr. Calder Marshall, R.A., is preparing the model.

The large stained-glass window, by Messrs. Hughes and Ward, which was in the International Exhibition, has just been set up in St. Anne's Church, Soho.

The statue of George II., formerly in the centre of Leicester-square, which was reported to have been unfortu destroyed when Mr. Wyld's globe was erected, has—now that the great globe and all which it inherited has dissolved—been again put together and set up. This equestrian statue is one of those copious old leaden works once so popular in England. A portion of its lead was, if we remember rightly, actually stolen by workmen.

The sugar crop at Mauritius is the largest ever known. Nearly 10,000 immigrants arrived in the islands last year. The French, India, and China Mail Steam-packet Company are about to establish a branch line between Mauritius, Reunion, and Aden. The export of sugar from Mauritius 1 Australia steadily increases.

OBITUARY OF EMINENT PERSONS.

THE EARL OF COTTENHAM.

The Right Hon. Sir Charles Christopher Pepys, second Earl and Baron Cottenham, of Cottenham, in the county of Cambridge, Viscount Crowhurst, of Crowhurst, in Surrey, and a Baronet, was the eldest son of the distinguished Lawyer Sir Charles Christopher, the first Earl, Lord Chancellor of England, by his wife, Caroline Elizabeth, daughter of Sir William Weller Pepys, Master in Chancery, and niece of Edward, second and last Earl Digby. He was born on 14th of April, 1814, and succeeded to the title and estates on the death of his father, Lord Chancellor Cottenham, on 29th of May, 1851. His Lordship died on the 19th inst., and is succeeded by his next brother, William John, now third Earl of Cottenham, who was born in 1815.

LORD REAY.

The Right Hon. Sir Alexander Mackay, eighth Baron Reay, of Reay, in the county of Caithness, in the peerage of Scotland, and a Baronet of Nova Scotia, was the third son of the late Rev. George Mackay, of Sidley, M.P. for Sudbury, in Suffolk, and Master of the Mint in Southampton, and the Hon. Ann Sutherland, daughter of Lord Duffus, a peerage that became extinct on the decease of the grandson of George, Lord Baron Mackay, who fell in battle in the time of the Revolution and under the first George, whom he accompanied to Scotland, raising his vassals in Sutherland in 1719 and 1745. The grandfather of the late Lord Reay, who succeeded as eighth Baron Reay on the death of his brother Eric, the seventh Baron, in 1847, was born on the 1st of April, 1801, Marion, daughter of George Gall, Military Secretary to Warren Hastings, and widow of David Ross, Esq., of Calcutta, and died on the 27th of May, 1862. He served in the Bengal Army, and was for some time Collector at Cawnpore, and left a widow and one son, his successor, and three daughters, two of whom are married—to Sequin Jones, Esq., and to Charles Arthur Elliot, Esq., Bengal Civil Service, son of John Dennys Elliot, Esq., of Madras. Lord Reay served in the 92nd and 93rd Highlanders, and was present at the battle of Waterloo. He married on the 27th of August, 1839, Jane Eliza, only child of Sir Hugh Munro, Bart., of Foulis, and has issue one son, his successor, and three daughters, two of whom are married—to Sequin Jones, Esq., and to Charles Arthur Elliot, Esq. Lord Reay was a Deputy-Lieutenant and Justice of the Peace for the county of Sutherland, and a Representative Peer for Scotland since the year 1857. He was a Knight of the Thistle, and a Knight Grand Cross of the Order of the Netherlands. He was succeeded in his title and estates on the death of his brother Eric, the seventh Baron, in 1847, by his eldest son, Alexander Mackay, the subject of this notice, who was born in 1814, and succeeded as eighth Baron Reay on the death of his brother Eric, the seventh Baron, in 1847. He married on the 1st of April, 1839

THE FARM

THE poetry and the reality of country life, as read through the Farmers' Calendar and the Mark Lane Express, differ very widely. Says the former, treating in advance of the opening of the present week, "The lesser periwinkle flowers," and "the ringdove coos:" says the latter, on behalf of London, "The demand for all kinds of English veal is in a sluggish state;" "not enough of new milk-butter has yet come here to fix a value to it;" "old stocks of potatoes are almost unsaleable at any price;" "generally speaking, the demand for meat rules inactive, and prices are fairly supported;" and "the sale of English wheat has been confined to the best samples, at a concession of 2s. per qr. from the rates of the day se'nnight." What with the continued wet weather, and its effect upon sunshine and farming operations, the farmers are having a very hard fight for it; and, the same paper observes, "those who were lucky enough to have good crops of malting barley, and got in supplied with enough on good terms, have fared well."

The opponents of the malt tax held a meeting last week, with Viscount Ebrington in the chair, and three editors of the farming line among them. The speeches, as a whole, were much in advance of what had been delivered at the Farmers' Club, and the line of action far more clearly defined. The drunkenness of the present day was attributed not so much to the quantity of beer drunk as to the infusion of drugs into it—a fact which Utopian farmers would remember when the pot of beer would be laid, to 2d. cheaper, sobriety greater, and the beer brewing and drinking done with the wife and children at home. "The great triple event," to use the language of the Turf, "is not likely to come off." If Ministers are not so quickly now, when beer is dear and bad, they will certainly get drunk quite surely and, to use their own expression, "more comfortably" when it is cheap and full of body, and would be none the worse governed. If, however, any one can understand the new ethics of sobriety which have been propounded at these meetings he is a wise and a happy man. The chairman sketched the real point on which they might storm Downing-street to some purpose now that the foolish "all or none" doctrines are discarded. A speaking for Lincolnshire laid stress on the advantages of malt feeding (which, however, require to be much more extensively practised by other men of high authority before there is a really good case for "the House") his Lordship observed:—"I hear that when malt is exported to other countries a drawback is allowed upon it. Now, it seems to me that that is a direct putting of capital into the pockets of the French farmer at the expense of the English farmer; for, whereas the French farmer can obtain his malt at a price much lower than the English farmer can obtain it, and use it in fattening his cattle, he is induced to prevent him from sending his cattle so fattened to the English market to compete with the cattle of the English farmer, who has to contend with the disadvantage of the malt duty on malt. It appears to me, I say, that that is a direct tax in favour of the French farmer, as against the English farmer. On that ground I would recommend the grazing farmers of this country to bear in mind the opinion of the Chancellor of the Exchequer that, if malt could be shown to be advantageous as feeding cattle, that would be a sound argument in favour of a reduction, if not the abolition, of the malt duty. That the right hon. gentleman admitted in the course of a debate which was raised by Mr. Bill in the House of Commons."

The committee appointed to carry out the Booth memorial have brought their labours to a most successful issue. About £200 of the fund was devoted to a very beautiful stained-window in Catterick Church to the memory of the late Mr. John Booth, and the surplus (£70) to a silver tea service of five pieces, which was presented to his eldest son, Captain Thomas Booth, at a public dinner. The Hon. W. E. Duncombe, M.P., was in the chair, and Mr. Wetherell and Mr. Outhwaite, were the vice presidents; and, but for the meeting of Parliament, the attendance would have been much larger. We trust that the Bates' men will take example by the energy which has been just shown, that they will no longer allow the grave of the great rival of the Messrs. Booth in their fields of peaceful warfare, to be without a stone to mark it, "near the calf-house wall" in the churchyard at Kirklevington.

Among the most remarkable cases in the Veterinarian for the present month is one communicated by Professor Varnell and Mr. Woodger, of Paddington, respecting the presence of a hydatid in the heart of a horse, which the editors, Messrs. Morton and Simonds, consider to be the first really authenticated instance of the kind. "This unfortunate," they observe, "will be more remarkable when we consider the frequency with which sheep are attacked with the hydatids; it not being very unusual for a dozen or more to be thus diseased at the time of even a healthy year. The death of so many periscribiis, produced by swallowing a large-sized sewing-needle with its food, is also recorded; and a still more curious case of a man, to which some one had, it is thought, maliciously given a large quantity of fish-hooks and needles. The latter had found their way into every portion of the body except the heart, and finally perforated it, and it was not until one of them pierced the outer skin that the veterinary surgeon could be sure of the cause of the disease. Such "facts and observations" which form a valuable portion of the numbers, we find that the sheep rot, which has been so prevalent in Scotland and the north of England, has carried off a considerable part of the Cheviot sewes, and that several farmers on the grass-lands round the metropolis have also been heavy losers in sheep.

The cattle plague, or Rinder pest, has been making great ravages in Moravia, Austria and Bohemia; and in 1866 seventy-four Hungary, out of 104,000 head of cattle, nearly 18,000 have died. Veterinary surgeons and cruisers have lately met at Leipzic to consult respecting the best means of pleuro-pneumonia among horned cattle; and Professor Haubner, a Saxon professor, gave it as his experience that the disease carries off 20 to 30 per cent of the cattle attacked by it; but that where inoculation is practised the mortality is reduced to 10, and sometimes falls below 7 per cent. He is also mentioned as an experiment "which may have a most important bearing on restorative surgery," that the profession have made artificial Siamese twins of a pair of white Albino rats at Strasburg, and that it was proved that in a very short period an intimate vascular union had taken place between the pair, although an attempt to separate them through the mouth of one did not succeed. The obituary records the death of Mr. W. B. of Bristol, at an advanced age. Early in life he had won in an action brought against him for improperly bleeding with a lancet, and ever after veterinary jurisprudence was his delight, and he attended and was a witness at many a trial and leer. He had been in practice for nearly half a century.

Bell's Messenger, in commenting upon the spring bull and cow winners (as placed by the judges) at the Royal Agricultural Society. The Duke of Northumberland, Cleveland Lad, the Oxford premium cow and Gainsborough premium Booth Duke of Oxford, Duchesses 57th represent Bates; and the Booth honours, which begin with Brandon, Warrington, in 1841, were represented last March in Wetherby, in the following year; Barthday, 1844; Ladythorn, 1845 (exhibited by the Bishops, M.P.); Hope, 1846; Cherry Blossom, 1847; Charity, 1849; Booth Bouchaman, 1850; Hubback, 1851; Grand Duke, her son, Windsor, and Bridesmaid, 1855; Nectarine Blossom, 1858; and Queen of Beauty, 1859. Colonel Towneley's Red Rose and Lady Butterfly, 1852; and he follows it up with Beauty (whom the writer of the paper considers "a pure bred cow"), Master Butterfly, Roan Duchess 2nd, Victoria, and Royal Butterfly. Three times has one of the double honours fallen to the same owner—viz., to Mr. Bates, at Oxford, to Mr. Richard Booth, at Carlisle, and to Colonel Towneley, at Chelmsford. Only twice in the history of Royal shows has the premier ball succeeded to his father's honours—viz., Mr. Farmer to Sir Thomas Fairfax and Skyrocket to Fitz Duke of Oxford. Butterfly and Master Butterfly were own brothers, and from the latter, of the twin produce Nockton and Penciful, sprang Buckingham, the sire of Cherry Blossom, Charity, Isabella Buckingham, and Flos Blossom. Frederic also achieves the feat of being the sire of both the first prize bull and cow in the same year. Of the fourteen Booth winners in the twenty-four years, four were bred by Mr. John Booth, nine by Mr. Richard Booth, and one by Mr. Bannerman, of Chorley; and Queen of the Ocean at Royal ball was bred by Mr. Bates, the last Royal cow by Mr. Booth. The Alpha and Omega are Bates and Booth." Now that so good an example has been set them, will not some Hereford and Devon man step forward and give us a similar honour list for the white faces and the "red and all reds?"

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

SECRETARY.—The committee of gentlemen who undertook the management of the late Three Counties Chess Congress, and to whom the prizes was not a personal body, and has long been effectly defunct. The chamber of which you speak has no claim, therefore, to be considered as official or authoritative.

HERMES.—The problem in question is not by D'Orville: it is a composition of the Rev. W. Wolston.

T. KING, T. J. JUKES.—The problems are now under examination.

A SUBSCRIBER, Wolverhampton.—Hoyle is an authority on chess; and his declaration that "a player giving 'stalemate'" loses the game is accepted in England as a rule.

J. Y., Chesa.—They shall have immediate attention.

W. H. K.—Correct solutions received.

PHILO-CHESS.—The new "Code of Laws of Chess, as Edited by Le Comte de Bastard, can no doubt be got through any foreign bookseller.

F. P. M., Hastings, Devon, West.—The problem played by telegraph between the clubs of Hamilton and St. Catherines shall be reported on very shortly.

E. Lange.—Your solution of problem No. 891 is right.

H.—Judge Wilkins's fairy problem, "A Game of Chess," is by G. KEAh (sic); 1. B to g5 (ch); 2. B to Q R 6th; and 3. B to Q Kt 5th, becoming a Bishop. Where queens are all compulsory, mate may take Bishops at the option of the player.

F.R.S.—The chief chess periodicals are the Schachzeitung, published in Leipsic; Le Nouvelle Palamède, published in Paris; Illustrirte Zeitung, published in Hamburg; and El Ajedrez, published in Madrid.

SOLUTION OF PROBLEM No. 891 by Messrs. T. W., W. P., Dr. Ben and Co., Carolina, R. S., Jas. Burney, C. Oswald, Rev. W. Wolston, Capt. Jaffray, Rev. J. Owen, Rev. J. Reid, D. Tytler, R. V., 1860, Frederick, Larry, Query, T. C. S., Percy, Iota, M. S., Rev. G'Sham, B. L., Shrimpton, H. J., Lady, Cervena, Rev. J. Bell, Rev. J. C. M., Dr. Bernard, F. F., J. R. S., R. G. L., Canada, S. E. M., Q. E. D., and Indicus are correct. All others are wrong.

SOLUTION OF PROBLEM No. 891.

WHITE.	BLACK.	WHITE.
1. Kt takes R (dis.	Kt takes B or (a)	4. Q mates.
ch)
2. Q to Q R5 3rd	K takes B	P to Q Kt 4th
3. P to Q B 3rd, then	P to Kt 5th (ch)	K takes P mate.
3. P checks	Any move	P to Q Kt 4th (ch) and 5. Q mates.

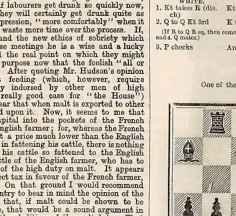
(a) If K takes B, then 2. P to Q B 6th (ch), K to Kt 5th, and 3. Q mates.

PROBLEM No. 892.

By Mr. Wolston.

One of the Prize Problems in the late Competition.

BLACK.



WHITE.

White to play, and give mate in four moves.

CHESS IN PARIS.

An entertaining Game between Mr. ANDERSSEN and Mr. DE RIVIERE.

(Scotch Gambit.)

BLACK (Mr. DE R.)	WHITE (Mr. A.)	BLACK (Mr. DE R.)	WHITE (Mr. A.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th	20. P to K 5th	K R to K Kt 3rd
2. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd	21. K R to K sq	P to Q R 3rd
3. P to Q 4th	P to K B 4th	22. K R to K 4th	Q to Q Kt 2nd
4. P takes P	P to K B 5th	23. P to Q B 4th	Kt to K 3rd
5. Kt to Q B 3rd	Kt to K B 3rd	24. P takes P	P takes P
6. B to Q Kt 5th	B to K 2nd	25. P to K B 5th	Kt to Q 2nd
7. P to K 5th	Kt to Q 5th	26. P to K 6th	Q R to Q B sq
8. B to Q B 4th	P to Q Kt 4th	27. P to K B 6th	Q R to Q B 5th
9. P takes Kt	P takes B	28. Q to Q B 4th	Kt to K 4th
10. Q takes B	P takes P	(An ill-considered step. His better plan would seem to play Kt to Q B 6th for the purpose of preventing what Mr. A. did, and then take Kt.)
11. Q to Q 5th	P to Q B 3rd	29. Kt takes B	Q R to Q sq
12. Q takes Q P (ch)	K to Q sq	30. Q to Q 3rd	Q R to Q 2nd
13. Q to Q 5th	P to Q Kt 3rd	31. Q to Q 4th	Q R to Q B 2nd
14. Q to Q 3rd	P to Q R 3rd	32. Kt takes Kt	P takes Kt
15. Kt to Q B 3rd	P to Q Kt 4th	33. Kt takes B	P to Q Kt 4th
16. Q to Q 2nd	P to Q R 4th	(Had he taken the Kt, Black could have destroyed the game.)
17. Kt to Q 5th	P to Q Kt 5th	34. Kt to K B 6th
18. Kt to Q B 4th	P to Q R 5th	(A fortunate end of the terrible blow pending.)
19. Kt to Q B 3rd	P to Q Kt 6th	34.	P to Q 5th
14.	Q takes Q	(After this Black's game is irretrievable; for if he takes the Kt he is mated by playing Kt to K 3rd (ch). White attacks Kt.)
15. Kt to Q B P (ch)	K to Q 2nd	35. Q to Q 3rd	Q R to Q 2nd
16. Kt takes Q	Q R takes Kt	36. Q to Q 4th	Q R to Q 3rd
17. Q R to Q sq	Q R to K B sq	37. Q to Q 3rd	Q R to Q 2nd
18. K R to K sq	K R to K 2nd	38. K to K 2nd	P takes P (ch)
19. P to Q B 3rd	K to Q B sq	39. Q to Q 4th	Q R to K 6th (ch)
20. P to Q 5th	K to Q Kt sq
21. P to Q Kt 3rd	Kt to Q sq	And Black resigns.
22. P to Q Kt 4th	Kt to Q 2nd

THE PROPOSED NEW CODE OF CHESS LAWS.

The following resolutions on the recently-proposed changes in the laws of the game were passed at a meeting of the members of the Committee of the Newcastle-on-Tyne Chess Club:—

1. That in the opinion of this club no necessity exists for the institution of a new code of laws for the regulation of the game of chess in the British Islands, inasmuch as the existing code of laws, with the exception of Article 12, in practice been found to meet all the rational requirements of British chess players.

2. That, entertaining a strong opinion of the advantages which would accrue to the game of chess by the establishment of a code of laws such as would receive the sanction of all chessplayers throughout the world, and willing to lend its aid to so desirable an object, this committee, with the proper view arrives, this club deems it prudent, in the present position of affairs, to abstain from the task of British chess in their existing form rather than to introduce into them arbitrary innovations which must make them still further divergent from the rest of the chess world, and thus enhance the difficulties that lie in the way of the establishment of a universal code.

3. That, in the opinion of this club, the last clause in Rule 12 of the new and revised code, which proposes to give to a player on pushing a pawn to the eighth square the option of deciding that such pawn shall remain a pawn to the end of the game, is not framed in accordance with the principles of chess, and that its reception into the code of laws would be not only dangerous here, after as affording a precedent for the introduction of arbitrary changes into the mode of chess play, but would go far to depreciate the worth of much of the chess literature of the past.

4. That, inasmuch as the new and revised code contravenes the spirit and aim of the foregoing resolutions, this meeting declines to adopt it as the rule of play to be observed in the Newcastle-on-Tyne Chess Club.

5. That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the committee of the British Chess Association.

ROYAL INSTITUTION LECTURES.

PROFESSOR FRANKLAND, in his 4th lecture, on Thursday, the 19th inst., resumed the consideration of the Relations of Light to Chemical Affinity. He examined the popular statements respecting the delicious phenomenon termed white-lap, showing that it cannot be referred to natural issues of spontaneously inflammable gases. Of these he exhibited the three known in complete, imperfected hydrogen, silicon of hydrogen, and sir-methyle of boron—adding that the last dreadful combustible that has been made, in nature in such a manner as to account for the phenomenon in question. It cannot be due to light of any kind, as physical phosphorescence, which are too feeble and of too short duration. Divested of its imaginary attributes (such as corrusting on the Spectroscope), &c., the residue of the subject may be referred to the law that bands gas (light carbureted hydrogen), which, being ignited either accidentally or intentionally, continues to burn with a luminous intensity at all times, even in daylight. Examples of this occur on the shores of the Caspian, in Burmah, and in Mexico. Mr. Mose von Pettenkofer Pettenkofen then proceeded to give examples of the action of light in effecting chemical combination and decomposition, which may be grouped under the two heads of bases. Chemical progress in collodion balloon were conducted with explosion by the light of the sun. Organic life depends upon the decomposition of carbonic acid and water by the action of light; and starch is one of the products which result from this decomposition. Chlorophyll, or leaf-green, is the substance active in producing chemical effects. In the absence of chlorophyll light can sometimes, but not always, be replaced by heat. The lecture concluded with illustrations of the decomposition of the chlorides, iodides, and bromides of silver by light. On these are based all the processes of photography, examples of which were given.

THE REV. GEORGE WILLIAMS, of Queen's College, Cambridge, gave the Friday evening discourse on the 20th inst., on "The Recent Explorations in Jerusalem," assisted by M. Ferguson, who, in the opinion of the lecturer, that the Mosque of Omar, termed the "Dome of the Rock," is the site of the Temple of Solomon. The Rev. G. Williams then discussed the grounds of this opinion were set forth in a most interesting manner, and the lecturer dwelt on the results of scientific investigation, which gave evidence in existence of a system for the very copious water-supply and drainage which must have been an indispensable requisite for the numerous sacrificial offerings made by the Jews daily. In confirmation of the existence of these vast cisterns were exhibited a number of beautiful drawings, such as those. The latter part of the lecture was devoted to a consideration of the site of the Holy Sepulchre, which, the lecturer's opinion, contradicted by Herod to preserve the Jews, so distasteful to his governance. The lecture was illustrated by Dr. Henry Bence Jones, in a very able manner.

PROFESSOR MAX MÜLLER, of Oxford, commenced a second series of lectures on the Science of Language, on Saturday last, the 21st inst. In referring to the course which he gave in 1861, he spoke as for the purpose which he claimed that language was one of the physical sciences, and, as a special example, quoted the great work of Bopp, in developing and translating the accidental comparative vocabularies of Babylon and Nineveh, through the laborious phonetic indications of Grotefend, Rawlinson, and others, since which the languages were believed to be merely consonantal. The science of language must be treated in connection with geology and astronomy, as a branch of natural science, and many of its leading principles are still the subject of controversy. A hypothesis of some sort we should be received with the same kind as the theories respectfully considered in relation to language. For instance one solution of problem that all languages owe their origin to Polynesia; another ascribes it to the language of the Kaffirs. In his first discourse Professor Müller dwelt on the proper limits of the science, which he characterised as the empirical and classificatory stage of the science, on the classification and comparison of facts, and on comparative grammar. In his second lecture he proposes, firstly, to treat of what he terms the outside or body of language—sounds, roots, and stems; secondly, to consider the inside or soul of language, as a vehicle of thought; Greek, Latin, German, and French, with their cognate dialects, together with the indispensable Sanscrit, will be the language which he will chiefly have to refer to.

On Friday evening, March 6, Professor W. Allen Miller will lecture "On the most Recent Spectroscopic Researches."

On Saturday, March 7, there will be no lecture, in consequence of the procession of the Prince of Wales and Princess of Denmark through the City, &c.

The Chicago Tribune says that the total number of hogs received in that city since Oct. 1—the commencement of the packing season—amounts to 1,106,110, and that these, stretched out in one line, would reach a trifle over 1200 miles.

A curious artifice was adopted by the anti-Carrivallates at Rome to render the numbers of the Carnival ball as large as possible. A hole in the upper boxes and showered down thence a quantity of sneezing-powder, which set the whole company of dominoes and costumes into violent fits of nasal convulsions, and obliged them to abandon the theatre.

CORFU.

THE Ionian Islands, whose cession to Greece has been the occasion of late, consist of Corfu, Cephalonia, Zante, Santa Maura, Ithaca, Cerigo, Paxo, and a number of others of less importance. In ancient times they were ruled by Athens, Sparta, Rome, Naples, and various local governments. Eventually they fell, with Greece herself, under the power of Turkey, the last Mussulman empire, when, after many troubles at the hands of both Mohammedans and Christians, they submitted to the rule of Venice, Corfu leading the way in 1386. Again they were brought to foreign oppression and systematic plunder till the fall of Venice in 1797, when they were ceded by treaty to France. In 1799 they were taken from her in short time, being driven out in their turn by the combined Powers of Russia and Turkey. The capture of these islands created the Septinsular Republic, under the protection of the Ottoman Porte. Two years later saw a state of things prevailing so little short of anarchy that the allied powers established a protectorate over the interior. This he did, for a while; but in 1807 the Treaty of Tilsit transferred the islands to France, which held them, save during the English occupation in 1809 and 1810, except Paxo and Corfu. In 1814 Paxo fell into our hands. And Corfu was given over to us by the Royal family of France immediately after the fall of Napoleon. Six of the islands we won by force of arms: and Corfu, the seventh and strongest, was ceded to us in favour of Great Britain by the treaty at Paris signed a treaty by which the Ionian Islands, already a British possession, were formed into an independent state under exclusive protection of the British Crown. Since then they have been governed by a Lord High Commissioner, appointed by and representing the Sovereign of Great Britain, with a Senate and Assembly. Recent proceedings are subject to the regulation and the veto of the Lord High Commissioner.

In the islands themselves the intentions of the British Government concerning them has been much discussed. Ostensibly the general feeling was in favour of annexation. In 1815, Lord Guilford, in his privately, it is believed to be opposed to it, except with a party of younger men, who have adopted the views of the late Lord Byron of getting places in this or any other change of government. What will be the future prosperity of the islands, and especially of Corfu, if British protection be withdrawn, it is not difficult to foretell.

Corfu is situated at the entrance of the Gulf of Venice, on the coast of South Albania, from which it is separated by a channel varying from two to six miles in width. It is forty miles long, with a breadth varying from a mile and a half to seven. The town of Corfu is situated on the east coast, and built in the form of an amphitheatre. It is extremely strong, being defended by a detached citadel, two forts, and a castle on the hill of San Salvatore, a rather small, but the road is capacious and secure. In front of Corfu, at the distance of a mile and a half, lies the little island of Vido, upon which is one of the above forts, and where the lazaretto is kept. It is protected by a triple range of batteries, and forms a strong outwork to the fortifications of the harbour. The population is 16,000. Corfu is the seat of the Parliamentary Senate and the residence of the Lord High Commissioner.

Our Views of Corfu are from d awings by Dr. Charles A. Lees and the Rev. J. Calvley Hordern, Chaplain of H.M.S. Edgar.

STATUE OF LORD COCKBURN.

THE statue to the late Lord Cockburn, the eminent Scotch barrister and Judge, which we have engraved, has just been placed in the great hall of the Parliament House, Edinburgh. It is a full-length life-size figure, in the robe of Solicitor-General, executed in Carrara marble. The attitude is easy and graceful, preserving the unaffected dignity of the personage commemorated. All our Scotch contemporaries unite in praising the felicity of the expression and the fidelity of the likeness. It is placed close to one of the most startlingly lifelike and vigorously executed works of Rouhilliac—his statue of President Forbes; and it is no small praise to say that it will sustains the comparison. It is, however, so to speak, a comparison of contrast, not of analogy; the repose of the one and the vivacity of the other being mutually helpful. The statue is erected by subscription, and the sculptor is Mr. William Brodie, R.S.A., whose statue of "Memory" (purchased by that most munificent patron of modern sculptors and painters, the late Marquis of Lansdowne) we engraved from the International Exhibition. The old Parliament House of Scotland, which has been since the Union an adjunct to the Law Courts, has now a series of seven statues, those of Lord Jeffrey and Lord President Boyle, by Mr. Steele, R.S.A., being, with the present work, the latest additions.

Although comparatively little known in South Britain, Cockburn's name is familiar to every Scotchman. He was throughout his long life closely associated with Francis Jeffrey, especially in the institution of the Edinburgh Review, and still more identified with the early movements in Scotland for political reform. He was born in 1779 and called to the Scottish Bar in 1800. He represented an ancient Scottish family which has produced many distinguished members. His family connections belonged to the Tory school; but, although the Scotch patronage of the Crown was for many years dispensed by his relative Lord Melville, Cockburn in early life adopted Liberal opinions. In 1830, when Jeffrey became Lord Advocate on the Whigs coming into office, Cockburn was appointed Solicitor-General of Scotland, and held that office till his elevation to the Bench in 1834. Long, however, before his first high legal appointment he had risen to considerable eminence in his profession, and was particularly distinguished for the ability of his advocacy as a pleader and the display of forensic eloquence are regarded as among the most striking and permanent ever heard at the Scotch Bar. Among other important cases in which he was engaged may be mentioned that of the Queensberry title, in which considerable property was at stake. He had also brought himself into notice by gratuitously defending the prisoners charged with treason at Stirling, Glasgow, and other Scotch towns, in the year 1818. He displayed a signal proof of his ability as an advocate when engaged to defend Mrs. McDougall, who was tried at Edinburgh for complicity with Burke and Hare, and for whom he obtained an acquittal. During the earlier part of his legal career the arguments of council were delivered partly in writing, and partly viva voce (as is the case now in the House of Lords). The drawing up of those arguments frequently involved points of the greatest nicety, and several prepared by Cockburn attracted much notice from the Bench; and, even as a young man, his papers on feudal law had met with general approval. Such talents could not long fail of winning a more permanent reward than the solicitor-generalship. Accordingly, in 1834, he was promoted to the Scottish Bench as one of the Lords of Session, to which, three years later, was added the further appointment of a Lord Commissioner of Justiciary. Upon the Bench Lord Cockburn was hardly surpassed in his clear enunciation of law and in his charges to the jury. He was distinguished by a skilful detection of whatever was false in principle or in evidence, as well as by the breadth and grasp of his legal judgments, which were seldom reversed on appeal. He was an early contributor to the pages of the Edinburgh Review; and it is said that one of his articles was mainly instrumental in causing a reform in the method by which Scotch juries had been previously chosen. As the biographer of Jeffrey, whom he survived four years, he produced one of the most interesting books in Scottish literature. As a friend he was hardly less beloved than as a relative; but it was as a patriotic and kindhearted Scotchman and citizen, ever seeking to benefit his country and countrymen, that his memory is so widely cherished and revered in the north. He died in April, 1854, while on circuit at Ayr, after a few days' illness, and left a large family by his widow, who is sister of the wives of the late Scotch Judges, Lords Fullerton and Dundrennan.

STATUE OF THE LATE LORD COCKBURN, BY W. BRODIE, R.S.A., RECENTLY PLACED IN THE PARLIAMENT HOUSE, EDINBURGH.

PARIS FASHIONS FOR MARCH.

WITH a Royal marriage on the eve of celebration, and with the prospect of unparalleled rejoicings throughout the length and breadth of the British empire, we shall no doubt be thanked for providing in our guise for the occasion by contributing "one more" ball dress to the great sum total of those already published in this Journal. Rumours of balls innumerable in honour of our Prince's nuptials have reached us from many quarters; so that our young—ay, and old—folk will certainly enjoy the rare opportunity of dancing for joy at this princely wedding, hallowed, as it will be, by the rare qualities of purity, youth, honour, love, and esteem, and hailed with the cordial satisfaction of an entire nation invoking the Divine blessing on the union of the happy pair. To render the ball dress in our Illustration more particularly appropriate for the bals de noces of England's future Sovereign, orange-flowers might be adopted in the place of those depicted in our Illustration.

Having thus acquitted ourselves of an exceptional though agreeable duty, we will pass on to our ordinary subject-matter. Nearly all ladies are becoming and look well in toilette de bal; but so much cannot be said of simple dress to which natural distinction and grace, personal to the individual, impart an inimitable stamp, even thereby adorning the liberally unadorned. In keeping with this remark, we may observe that walking dress, or morning dress, is more than ever simple and without effect; and in the street a lady ought to appear as if were incognito, or at least to be so dressed as to avoid the reproach of wishing to be remarked by her toilet. The first figure of our Engraving is an illustration of this modest simplicity, in relation to which we have to announce, as a piece of welcome information, that the training fashion, for ceremonial occasions, have been altogether abandoned, and fairly driven out of the fashion by those terrible shafts of ridicule to which French people of all classes are so peculiarly sensitive. The mode of wearing the dress drawn up (imitated, if we are not mistaken, from the English) is now becoming very general in Paris; for the coup americain has proved to be the only substructure capable of supporting the drawn-up skirt gracefully and without leaving any disagreeable mark upon the stuff.

This year cloth paletots are so much à la mode that they are worn either for a visit or for an ordinary promenade, varying only slightly in form and ornament, according to the importance of the occasion: the paletot with three seams in the back, ornamented with passementerie, is that usually adopted for the finest descriptions; occasionally a narrow band of astracan is sewn over three seams, which gives a rich effect to the garment. The most fashionable colours for such paletots are fawn and bleu de Mexique.

A total absence of exaggeration in the form and decoration of chapeaux by the ladies who govern the French taste in such matters is all we have to mention for the moment on the inexhaustible subject of bonnets.

THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

No. 1. Walking Dress.—Black poplin robe, drawn up by interior laces over a coloured jupon with cloth band. Blue cloth three-seamed paletot, trimmed on the sleeve with an ornament in passementerie of the same colour. Black velvet bonnet, ornamented on the top with a liberal profusion of feathers, in the midst of which appear two blue flowers. A small muff, gants de Suède, black kid boots with high red heels, and violet shades, complete this toilet.

Fig. 2. Ball Dress.—Robe of white satin, with two very deep lace flounces on the skirt: the bottom of the dress and the top of each flounce are trimmed with a narrow silk ruching. The corsage is round-waisted, and provided with a bertha (of the same material as the dress) also trimmed with lace. The puff-sleeves are in tulle. A bouquet of light blue flowers, from which descends on one side a similar coloured floral train, imparts an additional grace to this charming ball costume. The headdress, in the form of a diadem, is composed of blue velvet, pearls, and a small white feather. Pearl necklace.

Fig. 3. Evening Dress.—Black moire antique robe, having round the edge of the skirt a narrow fluting of the same stuff: the peculiarly elegant trimming on the skirt, the plastron of the corsage, and the cuffs and jockeys of the sleeves consist of white satin ribbon covered with black passementerie, and produce an excellent effect. The top of the corsage is ornamented with a large blonde bow, provided with two short but wide ends edged with lace, now very much worn in Paris. The coiffure is composed of black lace and a tuft of roses and rose-leaves forming a diadem.

Our Millinery Illustration represents the latest style of habit-shirt with upright collar, complicated by another example of the large bow and ends just alluded to, and known by the fair Parisienne by the high-sounding title of the Cravate Cocodès. Both the collar and the cravat are ornamented with embroidery and Valenciennes lace.

PARIS FASHIONS FOR MARCH.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1863.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS

No. 1192.—VOL. XLII. SATURDAY, MARCH 7, 1863. WITH A SUPPLEMENT, FIVEPENCE

TUESDAY, THE TENTH OF MARCH.

THE wedding day of their Royal Highnesses the Prince of Wales and Princess Alexandra of Denmark bids fair to be celebrated throughout the whole country with a zeal and abandon which demonstrate the hearty loyalty of the people. There is this striking characteristic about the preparations being everywhere made in honour of the event—the holiday has not been "made to order." It is not to be, as it would have been in most Continental States, an affair got up at the expense of the Government and managed by the police. The contribution of our Administration to the pleasures of the day, excepting, of course, the pageant and ceremony at Windsor Castle, will probably be limited to a display of flags on State buildings, and the expenditure of just that quantity of gunpowder which may be required for the firing of Royal salutes; to those of the night it will be restricted to an illumination of the public offices. Even the constitution of the day as a legal dies non in regard to commercial transactions was rather forced upon the Government by the strength of public feeling than spontaneously undertaken on their official responsibility. We do not regret this. We are glad that, however foreigners may be provoked to laughter by some of the odd and grotesque, and withal rather slow ways in which the national fête will be kept, the observance of the day will be national in the most genuine sense of the word. It will be everywhere the outcome of real interest in the event. It will be a true measure of the people's affectionate attachment to the Throne; and, if it do not produce much to awaken men's sense of wonder or to gratify their taste for show, or even to excite and sustain their gaiety of spirit, it will serve to bring out into more conspicuous relief the universality and depth of that sentiment of loyalty which, in no country, perhaps, under Heaven, is at once so pure, so true, and so ardent.

It must be confessed that, as a nation, we are not au fait in the celebration of the very few public holidays which fall to our lot. One reason for it, perhaps, is that they are so few. Amusement, other than that which can be found within the domestic circle, plays no very important part in the average life of Englishmen, and hence it fails to evoke that constructive genius which can alone make it attractive for its own sake. Our damp and variable climate discourages it. Our habitual reserve is unfavourable to it. The strict graduation of our society almost precludes it. The sober form of our religion is hostile to it. We have energy enough and to spare, but we are not remarkable for vivacity. The abundance of the former qualifies us well for business; the absence of the latter disqualifies us for holidays. Accordingly, when they come, which, as we have already intimated, is but seldom, we are at a loss how to turn them to good account. The inventive ingenuity of our mechanical and artistic fellow-countrymen has never exercised itself in that line of light labour. We inherit no stock of traditional machinery for clothing with forms of beauty or magnificence our popular rejoicings—no well-stocked repertory of devices for giving orderly and symmetrical arrangement to the hilarities of the multitude—no choice of sports and pastimes, especially at this season of the year, in which promiscuous classes can look forward to take a few hours' absorbing interest. We are not "to the manner born," and certainly we have not acquired it by frequency of experiment. Well, we cannot affect to deplore this as though it were a matter of serious moment. It is only on one day in a thousand, perhaps, that we are made sensible of our deficiency in this respect; and during the remaining nine hundred and ninety-nine the causes to which that deficiency may be mainly attributed are in full operation to compensate us for our loss. Still, it is not to be denied that on that red-letter day our inaptitude is a great drawback to enjoyment, and sometimes pricks us into drawing comparisons between ourselves and some other nations, the reverse of complimentary to our insular character and habits.

To some extent, no doubt, this barrenness of our public wit will impart an aspect of heaviness to the fête of Tuesday next, likely enough to be misinterpreted by those who do not know us. Civic processions, at any rate as we commonly manage them, cathedral services, volunteer reviews, feasts for the poor, assemblages of old women to tea and of school-children to hurrah, sing, and eat buns; illuminations at night, with here and there a supplement of bonfires and pyrotechnics, can only be resorted to in towns of some considerable population, whereas every village and hamlet ought to be provided with festivities in which all the inhabitants might gaily mingle as one family. Many of the latter, we fear, will offer nothing attractive but the public-house and the beershop, for the only form of recreation which our peasantry have been taught, or rather have been left, to appreciate is that of boozing. It is a pity—nay, more—it is a reproach that it should be so. There are few parishes, even in the most purely agricultural districts, but can boast of some ancient or modern institution, with a little exercise of skill and organisation, and under the kindly superintendence of the land proprietors, musical bands might not be trained so far as to reach a decent level of proficiency; and we are disposed to believe that outdoor dancing might, during the summer months, afford a little careful regulation, a much more innocent and pure, and a more elevating pastime in our villages than the brutalising ones which seem to be the Hobson's choice of our field labourers. Such modes of enjoying a national holiday in secluded rural places cannot be extemporised, and therefore are not likely to be thought of, or, if thought of, practised, on Tuesday next. But it would be quite a mistake to infer, from our awkwardness as a people in giving social or public expression to our common gladness, that no such emotion is felt. The truth is that the interest excited by the Prince's marriage penetrates into every district and pervades all classes. This generation has known but one occasion worthy of being adduced as a parallel to the present one—namely, the wedding of her Most Gracious Majesty and the lamented Prince Albert; and certainly the results of that union have not in any degree conduced to make Englishmen look back with regret on the joy they then displayed.

THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES PRINCE CHRISTIAN AND PRINCESS LOUISA OF DENMARK, THE PARENTS OF PRINCESS ALEXANDRA.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 257.

Nor can it be justly said that the affectionate interest taken by the British public in the marriage of the Royal pair is, in any sense, a factitious one. With us the family hearth is among our most sacred and cherished possessions. We are interested sympathies range themselves around it, and naturally hail with a welcome whatever may serve to lend it additional security and sanctity. We not only like to see the same feeling in the Royal palace, but we instinctively associate the culture of the domestic virtues and pleasures there with an increased protection everywhere against the profanation of them. It cannot escape us that every violation of the chastities of home-life vitiates to a certain extent the moral atmosphere which our families are compelled to breathe; and the more exalted the station of society in which the evil occurs, the apprehension the wider is the circuit over which the deadly miasma spreads its deteriorating infection. Wherever a laxity of manners is tolerated by Royalty there is sure to be "a down-rush," as Captain Fitzroy would call it, of influences calculated to enervate the general tone of domestic purity. The present generation of Englishmen and Englishwomen has been singularly favoured in this particular—while those who are passing off the stage can contrast the last thirty years with the preceding twenty, and thereby measure more accurately than most the immense advantage which, owing to the benign example of Queen Victoria, the homes of England have enjoyed during her reign. Therefore, we naturally take a sort of personal interest in the early marriage of the Prince of Wales, the Heir Apparent of the British Crown. We believe that wedded life, the realisation of true love, will very soon surround him and his Court with that halo of purity which forbids the approach of temptation; and the fact that he is to become the husband of a bride of his own choice, worthy of the distinction by her endowments and accomplishments, will give an impulse of gaiety and gratitude to the hearts of all the Queen's subjects on the Royal wedding day.

But we also take a patriotic interest in the event. We love our Constitutional Monarchy, not merely with traditional affection, but with the veneration which is born of satisfied judgment. Other forms of government may better suit nations of other temperaments, tastes, habits, associations, or circumstances; but for us, we have become convinced by experience that none is so suitable as that which we actually possess. The stability of the Throne is no less necessary to our national peace and prosperity than the privileges of Parliament; and in a settled succession for, it is to be hoped, a century to come we think we have a pledge of internal harmony and of political progress. We know that the Prince of Wales has been most assiduously trained in the principles and spirit of our Constitution, and that he has had the advantage of observing, from childhood upwards, an impressive example of the faithful duty which they have been adhered to, and the reward of devoted attachment which it has won from the people. We are thankful to witness a probability that a course so beneficial to the country is about to be repeated, and that our children and our children's children will know by experience the numberless advantages connected with the security and perpetuation of a Constitutional Throne. This increases the interest with which we all look forward to the 10th of March.

And then, though last not least, our gracious Queen has an all but unlimited command of our sympathies. We cherish the hope that the Prince's wedding will do much to dissolve and disperse the cloud of sorrow in which the spirit of the widowed Victoria has, for the last fifteen months, been shrouded; and that she may be blessed with a long interval of serenity and domestic satisfaction. Deep as has been the wound inflicted on her thoroughly womanly heart by the loss of her Consort, Time, whose soothing influence seldom fails, and the growth of new family interests will succeed, we trust, in healing it, even though the scar may never be effaced. The earnest desire of her people that the wedding day of the Prince of Wales may have the effect of turning the regard of her Majesty from the irrevocable past to the brightening future has not a little to do with the joy with which they are preparing to celebrate it. God grant that the desire may be fulfilled!

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL INTELLIGENCE.

FRANCE.

Don Xavier de Isturitz, the new Spanish Ambassador to France, has been received by the Emperor. Highly complimentary words passed on both sides. In reply to the Ambassador, who said it would be his mission to strengthen the ties which unite the two countries, the Emperor said he entertained sincere wishes for the happiness of the Queen and the greatness of Spain, and should always be happy to maintain friendly relations with the Government and Queen.

The Emperor is said to have decided as to the purpose to which the ground inside the military zone round Paris is to be applied. The intention is to erect upon that space a vast boulevard, fifty metres wide, forming an external circle around the capital.

Several medical students are leaving Paris in order to attend upon the wounded patriots in Poland. The brother of Langiewicz has just left the Prussian capital for Russian Poland.

The Prince de Broglie was admitted at the Académie yesterday week, a large assemblage of the literary and scientific world being present. The most remarkable circumstance that occurred was the interruption of M. St. Marc Girardin's address by loud and long applause in consequence of his allusion to some warm and powerful expressions in favour of the Polish patriots.

Count Walewski has bestowed a pension of 2000f. (£80) a year upon the once celebrated actor, Frederick Lemaître, on account of his "long and brilliant artistic career," which the Minister hopes "is not yet terminated."

According to Mexican advices brought from New York the reports are unfavourable to the French. "The Mexican correspondent says that Puebla is still, but remained off the bar in transports. The Mexicans occupied Tampico on the 22nd ult., and attacked the French, driving them out. The latter made another stand at Tuspan, and were forced. The French were driven from Fiscolalpan, fifty miles south-west from Vera Cruz, by the Mexicans, who have now command of the coast. It was reported that 1200 French, escorting a waggon-train, had been defeated at Elorgano, with a loss of 60 killed. Almonte had issued a proclamation, the title of Supreme Chief of the nation and put himself under French protection. The sickness among the troops continued."

SPAIN.

There has been a Ministerial crisis at Madrid, which, however, is at an end. The Queen having, it is said, refused to sign a decree for the dissolution of the Chambers, on Thursday evening Marshal O'Donnell and his colleagues tendered the resignation which was accepted. Marshal Narvaez then attempted to form a Ministry, without success. The Marquis Miraflores was next sent for, and with the formation of the new Ministry, but his endeavours ended also in failure. The Marquis Miraflores then tried the Duke of Rivas, and eventually the Duke of Valencia. The opening of the Cortes will take place on Monday next.

The Royal Queen of Spain have subscribed the sum of 10,000 reals to the fund for erecting a statue to Christopher Columbus. The total of the subscriptions is now 471 reals (£100).

ITALY.

The prolonged debate in the Italian Chamber of Deputies on the loan proposed by the Government was brought to a close last Saturday by the bill being carried by a majority of 204 votes to 44.

Cardinal Antonelli has tendered his resignation to the Pope. The chief cause assigned for this proceeding is the arrest, by order of the Roman Government, of the Chevalier Pantaleone, the Advocate, the Admiral, and confidential friend of the Cardinal, on a charge of being connected with the Roman Committee. Cardinal Antonelli de Mercede is thought to be the principal mover in the business, and is said to have undermined the influence of the Cardinal with the Pope.

PRUSSIA.

On Wednesday week the Crown Prince left Berlin by the Anhalt Railway, accompanied by his Adjutant, Captain von Lucadou, on the way to Carlsruhe, whence his Royal Highness continued his journey to Stuttgardt.

The Government has again received a signal defeat in the Chamber of Deputies. Herr von Sybel boldly condemned the conduct of the Court of Russia against the Poles. A long debate, during which the policy of the Government was violently attacked, was terminated last Saturday by a motion of Herr Overbeck and Carlowitz, recommending neutrality in the Polish question, and asking that both Russian subjects and foreigners should be allowed to depart upon entering Prussian territory, being adopted, with a slight modification of the wording, by 245 to 97 votes.

The Kreuz Zeitung published on Tuesday an article declaring that the conduct and language of the House of Deputies during the debate on Polish affairs "does not correspond with the loyalty which ment good grounds for considering whether it might not find in the prerogative of the Crown a suitable method of dealing with the refractory legislators.

In Wednesday's sitting of the Chamber of Deputies Herr von Sybel's motion that the obligation of military service should be so regulated that the yearly levy for the army should amount to 80,000 men; that the Landwehr should join the militia; and 20,000 the older men of the service. As regards the infantry, Herr von Sybel proposes that one-third should be drilled and trained for three years, after which they would be dismissed to form the military reserve. With respect to the cavalry bodies, it is proposed to reduce the term of active service should be two years and a half. Herr von Sybel's motion was supported by the Left, and a number of necessary to the army being discussed. It has been referred to the Military Committee of the House to be reported upon.

AUSTRIA.

Thursday week being the anniversary of the day on which the Austrian Constitution was granted, the "Te Deum" was sung in the cathedral.

The Lower Austrian Diet has declared that the introduction of trial by jury is highly desirable, "as jurymen are independent of the Government and are bound by the oath."

It is said that has been resolved that the Modenese corps shall be dissolved. The reduction of the army in Italy amounts to 20,000 men. Seven corps have been sent home to Galicia, as the Russians are in considerable force on the frontier.

The Galician Diet will again be prorogued from the 2nd to the 16th of March.

BAVARIA.

The Bavarian Diet was dissolved on Monday, as it was not considered likely that certain bills could be discussed before the expiration of the present session. Nevertheless, the King in his speech expressed his thanks to the representatives for the zeal they had displayed not only for the interests of Bavaria, but for those of Germany.

SAXONY.

Serfdom has been finally extinguished throughout the Russian empire—the period of transition having expired on Tuesday. The "Te Deum" was sung on Tuesday in all the churches of St. Petersburg, in commemoration of the day; and we are assured by official telegrams that perfect tranquility prevails, though it is admitted that alarming rumours are current.

A grand ball was given last week at the French Embassy at St. Petersburg in honour of the marriage of Princess Marie Mac-millanowna to Prince William of Baden. The Emperor and Empress were present, with all the Imperial family, and the other guests.

The Grand Duke Constantine has been appointed Commander-in-Chief of the troops in Poland. The Emperor is becoming impatient, even furious, at the delay in the suppression of the insurrection, and has issued an order commanding the suppression of the revolt at any price. General Mierolawski has issued an order, in which he informs his countrymen that the Provisional National Government had appointed him Commander-in-Chief of the insurrectionary forces. Mierolawski is a distinguished Pole, who was tried in Berlin in 1847 for complicity in the disturbances in Posen, and who subsequently took part in the Baden revolution. He has lately been living as an exile in Paris. It is said that when Mierolawski left Paris he shaved off his beard, dyed his hair, and assumed the character of a commercial traveller in the wine trade. He arrived on the 14th ult. at Berlin, and stopped there some hours. On the 16th he was at Inowrocslawo, and spent the evening there with several Prussian officers, whom he treated to champagne.

The war news is of a very contradictory character. We hear on one side of the increase of the rebellion, and a great victory of the gallant Langiewicz over the Russians at Malagoszcz. On the other side we learn that the same General was dreadfully beaten near Wolcassow, and his forces dispersed, the General himself flying from the field seriously wounded.

A letter from Warsaw gives the following account of the appearance of that city since the insurrection in Poland broke out:—

The cavalry occupy the squares, and the artillery is posted at the different outlets. The public gardens are closed and filled with soldiers. At eleven o'clock drums and trumpets are heard, and throughout the whole city there is quiet. Not a carriage is to be seen, not a horse (a horse is free to be used for relieving guard. When that is over the city again falls back into its usual quiet. At three, as at eleven o'clock, the same manœuvres are renewed, for about an hour, and the crowds pass and repass before the batteries and the lines of troops. At four o'clock everything is again quiet, and the persons in the street gradually disappear. At six some lamps are lighted, and here and there lights may be seen at the windows. At eight all are extinguished, and Warsaw is dark and a desert. At ten the drums and trumpets sound the signal for all to go to bed, and, should any one unfortunately happen to be out of doors before his home, happy if they can escape the guard. Cavalry and infantry patrol the streets, and woe be to the man who is found abroad. If a house be on fire, a person dying no one can dare go out to seek for assistance. If the sick die without medical help, that is their affair.

AMERICA.

By the arrival of the steamer Etna we have telegrams from New York to the morning of the 21st ult.

WAR NEWS.

There is nothing new from the army of the Potomac.

The Federal commanders of the various blockades at Charleston have forwarded a joint refutation of General Beauregard's report that the blockade was raised. They declare that they never quitted the blockading line usually occupied by them, and that no vessel of any description crossed the bar after the Confederate rame returned to Charleston. In addition to this, the alleged action of the foreign Consuls and the Commander of the British war steamer Petrel they say :—

If the statement from the papers, as now before us, has the sanction of the Commander of the Petrel and the foreign Consuls, we can only express our deep regret that officers can lend themselves to the grossest deception for the world for an unworthy object untruths patent to every officer of the squadron.

General Beauregard has issued a proclamation declaring that there were indications of an attack on Charleston and Savannah and urging non-combatants to retire. He also appeals to all able-bodied Georgians and Carolinians to hasten to the assistance of the people of the seapons. Fikes and sophes, he says, will exterminate their enemies, and spades and shovels protect their homes.

General Hunter has assumed the command of the forces lately arrived at Hilton Head from Beaufort, South Carolina, and General Foster had returned to Newbern.

The Governor of Virginia has addressed a letter to President Lincoln, informing him he would unhesitatingly retaliate for any improper treatment of citizens or soldiers of Virginia.

The Federal turreted gun-boat Indianola has run the Vicksburg blockade of the Mississippi in safety.

The entire Federal fleet was in front of Vicksburg with all the mortar-boats in position for the bombardment. The Mississippi overflowed its banks on the Louisiana side, the town of De Soto, opposite Vicksburg, has been submerged, and it is expected the whole peninsula will soon be under water.

Another Federal expedition has left New Orleans for Bayou Teche. It is denied that Port Hudson has been evacuated from Baton Rouge.

The Confederate General Hindman's army in Tennessee is said to be demoralised. Three hundred of the troops were frozen to death in marching from Van Buren, in Arkansas.

The Confederate steamer Oreto is blockaded in King ston, Jamaica, by two Federal vessels.

There has been a collision between a negro regiment and a portion of a Maine regiment on Hilton Head Island. The negroes are said to have fired on the Maine regiment, killing six.

WASHINGTON.

The Senate has refused to pass the bill for enlisting 300,000 negroes. A bill establishing a national system of banking, based on Federal securities, has passed the House of Representatives, and awaits President Lincoln's signature to become law.

The Senate has passed a bill authorising the President, in all domestic and foreign wars, to issue letters of marque. The authority conferred by the bill is limited to three years. A proposal to grant this authority for the suppression of the rebellion only was voted down.

The Senate has also passed a Conscription Bill, rendering all males, and those who have declared their intention to become citizens, between the ages of twenty and forty-five years, liable to perform military duty when called out by the President. Persons enrolled are subject for two years to be called into service to serve for three years, or during the war. Those who join the army as the raised volunteers, advance pay and bounty included. The President can designate at any time, with due notice to drafted men, who the substitutes may be furnished, or commutation made. A motion to exempt clergymen from the conscription was voted down.

The Supreme Court at Washington is engaged in hearing appeals from the district Courts relating to the capture of vessels condemned for trying to run the blockade. The appellants are chiefly British shipowners.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Louisiana planters have accordingly General Banks's proposal that negroes who shall return to the plantations and work during the period of one month, shall be guaranteed by the planters, all negroes refusing these terms will be employed on public works.

The public are exceedingly mistrustful of the Emperor of the French, and think that the recent escape of Mr. Seward's last epistle he will recognise the independence of the Confederate States. In this connection, the news that the new Conscription in Poland is welcomed, not because it holds out a prospect of the reconstitution of Polish nationality, but because it promises to enticul Russians to and divert the Emperor's attention and resources from American and Mexican affairs.

The news of the secession meeting in Exeter Hall had reached New York, and had fallen flat on the ear of all except the Abolitionists.

The Democratic members of the next Congress have been invited to meet in New York on the 9th of March.

The resolution calling a State convention at Louisville, Kentucky, has been defeated in the Senate of the Illinois Legislature.

The State Convention at Frankfort, Kentucky, which delegates from forty-five counties were present, has been broken up by the military authorities, on the ground that the members, though calling themselves Democrats, were secessionists.

General Butler had been honoured with a public reception in Baltimore.

CHINA.

We have news from Shanghai to Jan. 26. Mr. Holland has been appointed to the command of the late General Ward's contingent. The French contingent has been defeated at Chow-sing, near Ningpo. Lebrethon, the commander, was killed. The treaty of commerce between Prussia and China has been ratified by the Emperor. It is stated to be the intention of the Chinese Government to issue medals to all the officers who have served in the Tse-ping campaigns.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.—The mail steam-ship Dane, which sailed from Table Bay on the 21st of January, arrived in Plymouth last Saturday afternoon. Our correspondent has written out to say that British Caffraria may be annexed, with the consent of the old colony. The Civil List for the year 1863 is £70,000. The Customs' revenue for 1861 was £285,000. The expected increase for 1862 was £15,000, instead of which there is a decrease of £16,000. In consequence of railroads, and those under Colonial Government, there are no new projects or surveys. Smallpox has been virulent; construction are not progressing very rapidly. Smallpox has been virulent and very fatal about Mosslakatse's country. It has nearly destroyed the tribe of the Bonaapwakaze, among whom the dead were so numerous that they were abandoned to the hyænas, who stole and devoured the living children of the survivors. The agriculture of the colony is advancing. Over vast tracts of the Karroo dams have been excavated. Scarcely a vessel arrives at Table Bay which does not bring over her improved breeds of sheep, cattle, and horses, and choice specimens of agricultural machinery.

LATEST NEWS.

ARRIVAL OF PRINCESS ALEXANDRA.

The following telegram was received through Mr. Reuter's office yesterday (Friday) :—

MARGATE, Friday Morning.—The Royal squadron, with Princess Alexandra on board, anchored off Margate last night, at eleven o'clock, and will remain here until about three p.m. this day (Friday). It will then proceed to the Nore and remain there all night. All well.

THE ROYAL MARRIAGE.

THE JOURNEY OF PRINCESS ALEXANDRA.

THE departure of Princess Alexandra from Copenhagen took place on Thursday week. All the houses from the Royal Palace to the railway-station were adorned with garlands and hangings, and displayed with Danish and Scandinavian flags. Immense crowds thronged the streets through which her Royal Highness had to pass. The Princess left the Royal Palace at nine o'clock, and reached the railway station at four p.m. Her Royal Highness, with her parents and her eldest brother, occupied an open carriage, and were escorted by the Hussars of the Guard. Guardsities of flowers were thrown from the windows of the houses along the route. A guard of honour was stationed at the railway terminus, which was splendidly decorated. All the Ministers and high functionaries, the municipal authorities, and the clergy of Copenhagen were assembled at the station. The Chief President of Copenhagen delivered a farewell address, for which Prince Christian, the father of the Princess, returned thanks. The Royal Equipages of departure from Copenhagen took place at 4.30 p.m. At all the railway stations en route from the capital to Korsor the authorities pressed in large numbers to welcome her Royal Highness. At Roskilde the militia turned out, and at Ringsted a regiment of dragoons was paraded. The Princess arrived at the latter terminus at 6.30 p.m. Horsholm, when the town was splendidly illuminated, and a display of fireworks took place. The Mayor delivered a congratulatory address to the Princess. The Archbishop of Seeland delivered a speech in which he eulogised the Prince of Wales.

Her Royal Highness left Ramle early on Friday in the Royal steam-ship Slesvig, and arrived at Kiel at a quarter-past four in the afternoon. A slight derangement of the machinery of the Slesvig caused some delay on the passage from Korsor to Kiel. Hence, after a stay of two hours, the Royal party continued their journey to Hamburg, where they arrived at nine o'clock on Friday evening: and took up their quarters at the Hôtel de l'Europe. The Royal party was received at the Altona station by Mr. Ward, her Majesty's Agent d'Affaires, and by the local authorities, and proceeded under an escort of cavalry through the streets of Altona and Hamburg, which were brilliantly illuminated, to the hotel. The streets were so thickly lined with spectators, who applauded enthusiastically, that it was a matter of considerable difficulty to make progress to advance, and a very large concourse of people assembled before the hotel, vociferously cheering and calling for the Princess, until her Royal Highness eventually gratified them by appearing at the window. On Saturday morning, at ten o'clock, the Royal party left Hanover, by the Hamburg and Bremen line. In the afternoon they reached Hanover, where they were the guests of the King for the night. A special train on Sunday conveyed the Royal party to Minden, from where they arrived at 9.15 p.m., and alighted at the Hotel Bellevue, in Deutz, for the night. The Crown Prince of Prussia and the Princess of Hesse arrived in the city by the same train. On Monday morning, at ten o'clock, the party left Cologne, the British Consul and members of English residents in the town and the Rhine provinces being present at the station. Her Royal Highness was greeted with repeated hurrahs, and was presented with a bouquet by an English lady. Exessile was reached about four o'clock in the afternoon. Here her Royal Highness was received with great cere-mony by Count Frederick Frijsenborg, Chief Master of Ceremonies, Master of Bussels, and the English and Danish Ambassadors, and the Royal party and suite were conveyed by the Rhine in a small squadron, had been ordered round to Flushing. With the Victoria and Albert there was to be an escort, formed by the Victoria and Albert, Leonidas, Scourge, and the Revenge line-of-battle ship. Beyond the service honours of manned yards and salutes due to all members of Royal families, including an English squadron, there will be no formalities at the embarkation. During Friday evening the Royal yacht, accompanied on each side by the vessels of the escort, should steam across Channel so as to reach the Nore early the same night, when all the vessels would anchor. Here also was to be anchored a portion of the Channel Squadron, under Admiral Dacres, in the usual port force, which would dress ships, man yards, and salute, to give effect to the departure of the Royal yacht for Gravesend early on the morning of Saturday.

The Royal rules and suite are expected to leave London from the Brickayers' Arms station at such a time as to be ready to go on board the Royal yacht immediately upon the arrival of the Princess. The most complete arrangement were made by Mr. Scott Russell, C.B., for the proper reception at the Gravesend station and the transit to London. There was to consist of one Royal carriage and four State saloon carriages for the suite.

RECEPTION OF THE PRINCESS IN THE METROPOLIS.

The Brickayers' Arms station is decorated with shields of banners, and the ground filled in with banks of flowers and whole avenues of shrubs. The outer entrance to the station is surmounted by a grand triumphal arch.

On emerging from the Brickayers' Arms station, the Prince and Princess, with the guest of the Royal party, occupied the first carriages and attended by an escort of the Life Guards, are to be conducted to the foot of London Bridge by the High Bailiff of Southwark, accompanied by the two members for the borough (Mr. Locke and Mr. Layard); Lord Lovelace (the Lord Lieutenant of Surrey), with the High Sheriff and the four Commissioners appointed for the county (Mr. Alcock, Mr. Locke King, Mr. Briscoe, and Mr. George Cubitt); and by the Lord Mayor, Sheriffs, and Aldermen of Middlesex; the whole paraeant up to that point being composed probably of not more than a dozen carriages.

At the south side of London Bridge, where the civic jurisdiction begins, the cavalcade receives an enormous accession, and in its passage thence to the Mansion House, the spectacle will be, perhaps, perhaps be more interesting as a spectacle than in any other part of the route. On London Bridge the Lord Mayor, accompanied by the rest of the Corporation, with the Court of Lieutenancy and the governing bodies of the principal livery companies, numbering upwards of 300 persons in all, would be waiting to conduct the Princess through the City, and, the Lord Mayor and Sheriffs taking the places assigned them there, the cortège then proceeds on its way to Temple Bar, by way of King William-street, the Mansion House, and Cheapside, thence crossing the south side of St. Paul's Cathedral, and onward by Ludgate-hill and Fleet-street to Temple-bar.

At this point the civic authorities resign the post of honour to the Duke of Cambridge, as Lord High Steward of her Majesty's Household, who, with the Dean and Chapter, the High Bailiff, the members of the Ancient Court of Burgesses, and other representative bodies of the citizens, conduct their Royal Highnesses to the entrance to Hyde Park, by way of Pall-mall, St. James's-street, and Piccadilly, the Corporation of London, headed by the Lord Mayor, with the Court of Lieutenancy bringing up the rear. It is understood that none but the Royal carriages are to enter the long quadrangle in which the volunteers will be drawn up in the Park. The corps, formed in two lines, face inwards, each line four deep and forty paces apart, to allow room for the Staff of the Brigade and the divisional Generals in front. These double lines extend across the open ground from the back of the Achilles statue to the Marble Arch. The Royal carriages simply pass along between the lines, receiving a Royal salute, and, issuing forth at the Marble Arch, will be followed by the rest of the cavalcade towards Paddington.

PROGRESS TO WINDSOR.

The train which will convey the Prince of Wales and his bride-elect will stop at Slough, and the party will drive through triumphal arches, &c., to Eton. The Eton boys will there be mustered in front of their field school, and the welcome they will give to the Princess may be imagined. Beyond the college another arch is reared, and the metropolis, or rather of fashioned nation, is entered. When Windsor is reached, another arch spans the roadway alike tasteful in design and splendid in decoration. Beyond this the long main street of the castle is not far, but it is likely to be made very gay with its many decorations. The procession is to enter the castle through Henry VIII.'s Gate.

THE TIMES ATTONTED FOR THE ROYAL PROCESSION PASSING THE PRINCIPAL POINTS FROM GRAVESEND TO WINDSOR.

As some uncertainty appears to exist with regard to the time at which the great cavalcade of Saturday (to-day) may be expected to reach the metropolis, our readers will be glad to be informed of the hours officially fixed for the arrival at, and departure from, the chief points through which the procession will pass. The Royal yacht is expected to reach the Gravesend Terrace Pier at 11 o'clock on Saturday. The Prince of Wales leaves London, from the Brickayers' Arms station, at half-past nine, and has now at to be enabled to go on board the vessel as nearly as possible at half-past 11. The Prince and Princess will land on the pier a quarter past 12. The presentation of the chief members of the Gravesend Corporation, with their address and the gift presented by the inhabitants, will not occupy more than about ten minutes, and twenty-five minutes is allowed to traverse the distance between the pier and the railway-station, where the Royal train is to start from Gravesend at a quarter before 1. It is timed so as to pass through the principal stations at a rate of about forty miles an hour, or rather more, but the time for the whole journey will not exceed forty minutes. It will arrive, therefore, at the Bricklayers' Arms station between 25 and 30 minutes past 1. The Royal party will at once at this station the chief authorities of the county of Surrey and borough of Southwark will be presented, together with the Directors of the London and Brighton Railway Company of London. The members of the Royal families will partake of a slight luncheon in the reception-room, and will not leave the station before 2 o'clock, or at most five minutes to 2. The time expected to be occupied by the procession passing from the Bricklayers' Arms station to Temple Bar, a distance of about four miles, through which a carriage-horse ordinarily walks, is a little over two hours, and upon these data the Royal train has been ordered to be at Paddington at 4 o'clock. It is expected that by that time the cattle delays certain to arise on such an occasion, the train is not expected to arrive at Paddington before half-past 4, or as soon as possible as 5 o'clock, so as to bring the Princess into Windsor just before dusk, at 6. The procession will reach Southwark Bridge at about a quarter past 2, to reach Temple Bar at about 20 minutes or a quarter to 3, to enter the park at about half-past 3, to pass the Marble Arch at a little after 4, and to reach the Paddington station by at latest 20 minutes past 4. All the streets from London Bridge to Temple Bar, through which the procession will pass are to be closed against vehicles of every description as early as 10 in the morning, except those connected with the procession, which will be allowed to pass up to 11 o'clock. The streets west of Temple Bar are not to be shut before 12, or even later in the neighbourhood of the Edgware-road.

DECORATIONS IN THE METROPOLIS.

Great preparations are being made in the metropolis, the City, and Westminster for Saturday (to-day) and Tuesday next. The decorations of the City will commence at the south end of London Bridge, from which point the line will be ornamented from the south to the north with portraits of the Kings of Denmark from the earliest period to the present time, and of the Princess. Between the royal personal standards, surmounted with ravens and elephants. Between the standards are to be placed shields bearing the Royal arms of the towns will arise. At the south and north approaches of the bridge will be erected pedestals, on which will be placed statues of fame, surmounted by the Danish and English flags. The bridge will be covered throughout with crimson cloth; from the capitals will be suspended wide festoons of the Danish and English flags. At the north end of the bridge will be erected a triumphal arch, on the south side of which will be placed the statue of Britannia, surrounded by carriages and flags, and the shields of England and Denmark. Right and left, and over the footway, will be medallions in relief of the Prince and Princess, together with the monograms of the Princess. Arches are draped with crimson cloth; from the capitals will be suspended sags of flowers, from which will spring the flags of the Princess and Prince of Wales. On the shafts of the columns will be fixed medallions of the Prince and Princess in relief, surrounded with wreaths of the choicest flowers. Over the centre arch, which will be of the Corinthian order, and in a projecting gallery, will be seats for ladies and gentlemen, in the front of which will be placed the Lord Mayor's carriage, in which ladies, who, on the approach of Princess Alexandra, will descend from the portico to the Princess and present to her Royal Highness a bouquet. Provision has also been made for building out the gallery from the arch on the balustrade at the summit of the building will be affixed tripods, with flaming gas-lights.

In St. Paul's churchyard accomodation for some 10,000 persons will be afforded. The view the procession, as it passes through Cheapside, is ornamented with a bold cornice with Roman tabs, and every sight feet apart will appear flags and banners of the country and appropriate devices. The entrance to Ludgate-hill will present the front-ways will be fixed angels, holding sags of orange-blossoms, above which will be a bright, and the whole will be surmounted by the monogram of the Princess.

The front of Guildhall will on the evening of the marriage be brilliantly illuminated with gas jets throughout, and a device of the Prince and Princess, with their initials, in gas jets.

In the centre of Temple Bar will be a medallion of the Prince and Princess, surmounted with flags, in the centre of which will be placed, suitably surmounted with the statue of Hymen. On each corner of the Bar will be tripods, emitting incense. The entire cornice of the pediment will be covered with emblematical devices, and the footways will be fixed angels, holding sags of orange-blooms, above which will be a bright, and the whole surmounted by the monogram of the Princess.

The Mansion-house will be decorated with flags and banners and illuminated on the night of the wedding by an electric light.

There will be an elaborate illuminated design at Somerset House; the whole elevation of the building facing the Strand, from Temple Bar to Horse Guards, Admiralty, and Treasury will also be illuminated; and the elaborate design at the Somerset House alone will cost the Board of Westminster. The clubhouses, Royal tradesmen, &c., will likewise illuminate.

THE ARRANGEMENTS AT WINDSOR FOR THE MARRIAGE.

The preparations for the Royal wedding are going forward with all activity at Windsor, both within the precincts of the castle and in the town. The state apartments in the castle itself are now all but ready, and are now nearly all completed as far as regards the accomodation for the wedding party. The entire nave of the chapel is now boarded over, covered with scarlet, cast quite a rosy hue over the nave. These seats are arranged in blocks, spreading backward into the aisles and tapering to a narrow frontage between the colonnade of the nave, so as to allow of Yeomen of the Guard being stationed in front of each column. The whole of the floor of the nave is to be covered with a carpet specially made for this occasion with an embroidered border having the Prince's coronet and the monograms of the Prince and Princess entwined. The carved oak panelling in front of the Royal pew over the Communion-table has been quite removed down to within a few inches of the floor of the pew itself, so that her Majesty will not only see the ceremony from this spot, but be as plainly seen herself as if she sat on the raised dais. In fact, her Majesty attending of the ceremony privately only means that she does not take part in the procession nor attend in Royal state.

THE ROYAL BRIDESMAIDS.

Several inaccurate lists of the ladies selected as bridemaids to Princess Alexandra have appeared in some of our contemporaries, and the number has also been exaggerated. The following will, however, be found to be an accurate enumeration of the ladies on whom the honour has been conferred :—1. Lady Victoria Scott, daughter of the Duke of Buccleuch. 2. Lady Victoria Howard, daughter of the Earl of Suffolk. 3. Lady Agnata Yorke, daughter of the Earl of Hardwicke. 4. Lady Adeline Yelverley, daughter of Earl Cowley. 5. Lady Diana Beauclerk, daughter of the Duke of St. Albans. 6. Lady Georgiana Hamilton, daughter of the Marquis of Abercorn. 7. Lady Emma Bruce, daughter of the Earl of Elgin. 8. Lady Eleanor Bruce, daughter of the Earl of Listowel. All their dresses will be of white tulle, trimmed with pink roses and heather.

FESTIVITIES THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY.

Great preparations are being made all over the country to celebrate the royal wedding on the 10th instant. It is to be observed not as a general holiday. At Beaucr-hill, Malvern, there will be a great procession and banket. At Aberdeen the sea-cats, pupils, boys, town, and western façade of the church of St. Philip, which stands on the highest ground in the borough, will be illuminated. It carried out fully there will be 10,000 lights. Thousands of the working-class school children will be entertained. There is also to be a grand display of fireworks and a masonic ball. At Bath there will be a procession of Sunday-scholars, at which it is expected fully 16,000 children will attend, the presentation of medals to the children, a public dinner, a couple of free concerts, and a display of fireworks. At Cheltenham there will be a public procession and a treat to the poor and school children to be entertained. The illuminations will be on a grand scale. At Derby there is to be a procession and a display of fireworks on a grand scale. There is to be a grand volunteer review of Edinburgh. The castle batteries and the gardens in the valley between the old and new town will be lit with pallels, the backs of the tall houses of the old town facing Princes-street will also be candle illumination, and the line of Princes-street will exhibit a splendid variety of candle-power made of St. Giles with the addition of a coloured illumination, and the Gothic pyramid of the Scott monument will be set off in white light. The Nelson-hill, from which the fireworks will be discharged, will be effectively lit up; and Arthur's Seat, Salisbury Crags, and some of the more distant hills will glow with the Royal monogram in light. The Lord Chester programme will embrace a public breakfast or dinner, a dinner to the poor in their own houses, a review of the troops and volunteers, and illuminations, a torchlight procession, and a ball in the evening; that of Gloucester a review of the volunteers, a dinner to the poor in the Corn Exchange, and public tea to the old women. The school children are to be paraded (over 4000 in number) at Plymouth, and entertained in the Royal Dockyard private schoolrooms. At Ipswich a dinner is to be given to about 2000 aged poor people, and 5000 school children are to be treated with tea, and fireworks are to be let off in the evening. The number of school children to be entertained approaches 15,000. The sum of £600 was the Tuesday evening by the finance committee of the Corporation of Nottingham have decided to give a treat to all the Sunday-school scholars of that borough on the day of the marriage of the Prince of Wales. The returns of the children have been made at 15,000, and it has been agreed on to allow them fourpence each, making an aggregate cost of £250. Illuminations are also to take place in the evening, and to a great extent fireworks, and ample provision seems to have been generally made for giving treats to the poor and Sunday-school children.

WEDDING GIFTS.

The Prince of Wales will present to the Princess a magnificent necklace and brooch (by Messrs. Garrard) as a wedding gift. The necklace, a splendid triumph of the diamond-setter's art, is composed of eight clusters of very large pendants surrounding emeralds. The centre clusters are composed of three very fine pearl-shaped pearl drops, the other clusters of two each. Amongst the jewels ordered by the Prince of Wales. Garrard for Princess Alexandra is a keeper for her wedding-ring, on which are her initials engraved, the word "Bertie," which is the familiar name of his Royal Highness in the Royal circle. The ring is made in the shape of a serpent, the ruby, a turquoise, a jacinth, and a second emerald to complete the six letters of the name. Messrs. Garrard are also making two other presents for the Princess of Wales, one a gold dressing-case consisting of a most costly suite of opals and diamonds, as valuable and rare as those presented by the Prince of Wales previous to the Princess Royal, and similar in form to the suite designed for Princess Alice by the Prince Consort. The second is another present from the Prince of Wales. It is a brilliant fitting-case, to be carried for the bridesmaids eight lockets have been made. These are of coral and diamond, to match the set of coral and white which is worn of Denmark. In the centre of each is a cipher in crystal, forming the letters A. E. A., after a drawing by Princess Alice. Over the A is made themselves presents to her Royal Highness a splendid diamond and enamel bracelet. This is made in eight compartments, in each of which is the miniature portrait of one of the young ladies with her initials beneath in diamonds.

On Wednesday the Committee of Management appointed by the Corporation of the city of London to fix on the most appropriate mode of presenting Princess Alexandra with a gift of the value of £10,000 came a diamond necklace, which Messrs. Garrard.

In several parts of the country presents are being prepared. The Isle of Wight has subscribed £1000 for a fat-stock prize; Southampton will present the bride with a carriage; and Paisley is manufacturing a shawl. The town of Liverpool has decided to present the Princess with a diamond cross value £800. The bouquet-holder in which the bouquet will be presented to Princess Alexandra at the altar is described in England. The lady of the Mayor of Gravesend, resembles a cornucopia, and is so arranged that by touching a spring the contents are contrived it to scatter in an upright position. The ornamentation consists of the arms of England and Denmark, surmounted by Prince of Wales's feathers issuing from a coronet of precious stones. The whole frame is represented the motto of the Corporation of Gravesend. The gold work of the ornamentation is enriched with pink coral and pearls, being the national colours of Denmark.

PHOTOGRAPHS OF THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS.

At a moment when a peculiar interest in the personal appearance of the Heir Apparent and his future bride-elect is universally felt, and at a moment when hundreds of thousands will be on the very tiptoe of expectation to catch the first glimpse of their features, one of the real pleasures we can call attention to a series of photographic cartes-de-visite portraits of their Royal Highnesses that are evidently of the highest order of excellence, combining artistic with photographic art. We allude to a series of photographs from negatives taken from life by H. E. Mayall, of Regent-street, and published by Messrs. Marion and Co., of Soho-square. There are so many accidents beyond the photographer's control, so much of the element of chance in photography, that it is not to be wondered at we can feel entirely satisfied with the result, even when the unthinking camera is set to work "on the instantaneous principle," and in public places. Mr. Mayall has not only been more successful than in anything he had previously produced, but has immeasurably surpassed the efforts of the carte-de-visite portraits of the Prince and Princess—taken by foreign photographers, and some of them from unauthentic drawings and pictures—that have been in the shop windows. These cartes represent the Prince and Princess in many attitudes, sitting and standing, the face full, three-quarters, and in profile, erect and upwards and downwards. It is no flattery to say that we have seen no "subject" pass the severe test of photography so triumphantly as Princess Alexandra. Her face is one of the classic proportions of the features secure a sculpturesque and almost ideal harmony; in keeping with this is the grace and ayeamble dignity; and yet—for it is rarely found with such symmetry—the expression varies from thoughtful reverie to the most frank and sympathetic animation. The portraits of the Prince are no less admirable. We trace in the varied pose and inclination of the head, more distinctly than we have ever discovered before, the strong resemblance both to her Majesty and his lamented father. We have only to add that the accessories are real objects, and not the very objectionable painted backgrounds so commonly introduced, and that their composition reflects the greatest credit upon the artistic skill of the photographer.

THE RESIDENCE OF PRINCE CHRISTIAN OF DENMARK AT COPENHAGEN, THE BIRTHPLACE OF PRINCESS ALEXANDRA.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 207.

FREDERICKSBORG CASTLE, THE RESIDENCE OF THE KING OF DENMARK.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 207.

BERNSTORF PALACE, THE COUNTRY RESIDENCE OF PRINCE CHRISTIAN OF DENMARK.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 253.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING MARCH 14.

SUNDAY, March 8.—Third Sunday in Lent. The British Expedition, under Abercromby, land in Egypt and defeat the French near Alexdria, 1801.
MONDAY, 9.—Murder of David Rizzio, secretary to Mary Queen of Scots, in her presence, 1566. Reduction of Carthagena by Admiral Vernon, 1741.
TUESDAY, 10.—Death of Sir Hugh Myddelton, 1626.
WEDNESDAY, 11.—Publication of the Daily Courant, the first real "daily" newspaper, 1702. Napoleon I. married to Maria Louisa, Archduchess of Austria, 1810.
THURSDAY, 12.—St. George the Great, Bishop of Rome and Confessor, died, 604. Coronation of Queen Judith. Moon's last quarter, 6h. 55m. p.m.
FRIDAY, 13.—Battle of Zurnac; the Duke of Anjou (afterwards Henry III.) defeated the Huguenots under the Prince of Condé, who was mortally wounded after the battle, 1569. The planet Vesta (first called Georgium Sidus) discovered by William Herschel, 1781.
SATURDAY, 14.—Battle of Montlhéry, where the Cruel, King of Castile, defeated and afterwards slain by his brother, Henry of Trastamare, 1369. Admiral John Byng shot to death at the Lesgrove army at Port Mahon, 1756. Admiral John Byng shot for an alleged neglect of duty, 1757. Denmark abolishes the Sound Dues for a consideration, 1857.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON-BRIDGE,
FOR THE WEEK ENDING MARCH 14, 1863.

Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
h. m.	h. m.	h. m.	h. m.	h. m.	h. m.	h. m.
0 44	1 12	1 42	2 14	2 48	3 26	4 10
5	5	6	7	8	9	10
4 56	5 24	5 54	6 26	7 0	7 38	8 22

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE ROYAL OBSERVATORY OF THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION.
Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 0′ 15″ W.; Height above Sea, 24 feet.

DAY	DAILY MEANS OF							THERMOMETER.			WIND.		RAIN in 24 hours.
	Barometer reduced to 32° Fah.	Dew Point.	Humidity.	Ozone.	Solar Radiation.	Terrestrial Radiation.	Cloud.	Greatest.	Least.	Mean.	Greatest Direction.	Movement in 24 hours.
	Inches.	Deg.	Deg.	Scale of 15.	Deg.	Deg.	Scale of 10.	Deg.	Deg.	Deg.		Miles.	In.
18	29·636	26·6	83	5·10	124·4	49·0		37°.	33°.	33°.	SW.	138	0·05
19	29·736	25·6	82	7·1	40·2	20·0		38°.	32°.	35°.	SW.	209	0·00
20	29·716	29·6	73	7·3	40·2	19·0		42°.	32°.	37°.	SW.	209	0·00
21	29·716	37·2	72	6·3	39·2	19·0		47°.	32°.	39°.	SW.	227	0·00
22	29·716	37·2	72	6·3	39·2	19·0		47°.	32°.	39°.	SW.	227	0·00
23	29·763	40·4	80·5	7·0	41·9	15·5		52°.	32°.	42°.	S.W.	336	0·10
24	29·781	42·6	82·1	7·0	42·6	16·2		53°.	32°.	42°.	S.W.	239	0·00

Our figures are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at half-past nine a.m.:—

Extremes for twelve months ... 29·926 | 29·181 | 30·076 | 29·374 | 29·825 | 29·214 | 29·239.
Temperature of Air ... ... 49°. | 40°. | 50°. | 39°. | 45°. | 41°. | 47°.
Temperature of Evaporation ... 46°. | 40°. | 49°. | 37°. | 44°. | 40°. | 45°.
Direction of Wind ... ... W. | W. | W. | W. | W. | W. | SW.

ROYAL ENGLISH OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.—Under the management of the LOUISA PYNE and HARRISON.—This (Saturday) evening, the last night of the Season.—On Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Saturday will be repeated BALFE'S popular opera, THE ROSE OF CASTILLE. Mr. Harrison as DON ALPHONSO. Miss Louisa Pyne as ISABELLA. Royal Amphitheatre, Richmond Bridge.—Under the management of Mr. Batty. This (Saturday) evening, in connection with the SPLENDID OPENING of the Grand Pantomime, terminating with the Transformation Scene, the Proscenium will be decorated in honour of the Nuptials of the Prince and Princess of Wales and H.R.H. the Princess Alexandra, as Allegorical Groups, combined PEACE & PLENTY, with the Imperial Arms.

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA, COVENT-GARDEN.—Mr. BALLANCE'S BEAUTY AND THE BEAST, will take place on Tuesday Morning, March 10.

ROYAL ENGLISH OPERA, COVENT-GARDEN.—Mr. and Mrs. ALFRED MELLON respectfully announce that the Farewell Benefit of Miss Louisa Pyne will take place on MONDAY, MARCH 16, when will be performed BALFE'S OPERA OF MAIDA, with new and magnificent scenery, dresses, and decorations. The Farewell Engagement of the Syrstevarij and Pictorial Effects in BONNIE DUNDEE. Mr. Harrison, Mr. Weiss, Mr. Aynsley Cook, Mr. Henry Corri, Mr. Terrott, Mr. Wallworth, Mr. Lyall, Mr. Rouse, and Mr. Chas. Lyall. Miss Louisa Pyne as MAIDA. Conductor—Mr. Alfred Mellon. On MONDAY, MARCH 9, and during the Week, will be performed the new and original historical and legendary romantic and spectacular drama, entitled BONNIE DUNDEE, or, The Cavaliers of Edinburgh. In Three Acts, entitled BONNIE DUNDEE; or, The Gathering of the Clans. The Music by Mr. Alfred Mellon. The Scenery by Mr. Gordon and Assistants. The Dresses by Mr. Tout and Mrs. Nelson Lee. The Machinery by Mr. Hemsworth. The Properties by Mr. Cuthbert. The Dances arranged by Mr. Weippert. The Combats by Mr. Wallworth. Mr. Terrott, Mr. Wallworth, Mr. Lyall, Mr. Rouse, and Mr. Chas. Lyall. Miss Louisa Pyne as MAIDA. Miss Rose Leclercq as MARGARET. Miss Marriage, Miss Jones, Miss Rose Leclercq, Miss Phillips, Miss Lyall, Miss Poole, Miss Rose Hersee, Miss Elvira Schiever, Miss Isabel Harrington, Mdlle. Georgi, Miss Lucy Escott, Miss Emma Heywood, Miss Julia Harrington, Miss Lyall, Miss Poole, and Miss Rose Hersee. Mr. Henry Corri has the honour to announce that he has succeeded in engaging the celebrated Highland Pipers, Messrs. Allan, Fraser, and Allan. Violin, M. Sainton. Conductor—Mr. Howard Glover, Mr. Weiss, and Mr. Alfred Mellon. A special selection of Scottish Melodies will be performed. Doors will be opened on this occasion for the first time in England. "Dunrosnick; Dunrosnick! battles Lyall! Dunrosnick! battles Lyall!" Stalls, 5s.; Dress Circle, 4s.; Upper Circle, 3s.; Pit, 2s.; and 2 Private Boxes, Stalls 5s.; Dress Circle, 4s.; Upper Circle, 3s.; Pit, 2s.; Lower Gallery, 1s.; Upper Gallery, 6d. Box Office open from Ten till Five daily.

POLYTECHNIC.—BURNING to DEATH and SAVING from DEATH; new Lecture by Professor Pepper on Monday and Friday Morning and Evening, at half-past 1 and 7.15. This lecture will be preceded by the Ghost Scene from the "Foreign Lecture." N.B. The "Screw Steamer" every day this week except Saturday.

A MORNING IN MEXICO—A Magnificent Exhibition of Genuine Scenery, illustrative of Life, Manners, Customs, and Costumes in Mexico, open Daily, from Ten to Five.—Lecture, by Mr. Bennett, Illustrated, Oxford-street, Admission Free, with Descriptive Catalogue, 2s. 6d. Visitors under Fifteen, 1s.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—WET OR DRY.—The Wedding FETES at the Crystal Palace will be of the most varied and attractive character. The Palace, scrubbed with garlands and white roses, ornamented with flags of all nations, each column relieved by large silver Prince of Wales's feathers and bridal knots, aided by an enormous collection of natural flowers, will present a scene of unusual gaiety. The Great Fountains will be in full play, and Paxton, the celebrated purveyor of decorations for the Prince of Wales's grand entrance, will supervise all previous efforts. An appropriate inscription in silvered glass, by Messrs. Copeland, of Stoke-upon-Trent, will surround the Great Transept. The whole of the Palace than decorated must be seen to be believed, albeit as it will be by the Royal Personages and Guests invited to the Marriage Banquet, on March 10, 1863.

SATURDAY, being a general holiday, an Afternoon and Evening Fête, commencing at Two o'clock, will be held up at which the Fountains will play, and the usual Band to be engaged. One Shilling.

MONDAY, March 9, from Ten till Seven. Lighted at dusk. For families and children this day will afford good opportunity for quietly enjoying the Palace under its present attractive aspect. Half-a-Crown.

TUESDAY, March 10, the Palace will also present a brilliant, open from Nine in the Morning until Eight in the Evening. At Twelve o'clock appropriate Music in the Great Transept, by the Band of the Royal Horse Guards, and the Choir of the Chapel Royal, St. James's, will be performed. The Band has been put into court dress, and the Choir will sing the National Anthem, and several Anthems. At Half-past Three grand performance in Centre Transept of Music, composed expressly for the Royal Wedding, by Mr. Costa, and entitled "Festival Cantata," will comprise the following: new Pieces, composed expressly for the occasion:—Overture, Recitative, Chorus, Air, Duet, Chorus, Air, Chorus, Air, Chorus, Air

THE UNION BANK OF LONDON AND FRANCE (Limited). Capital, One Million, in 10,000 Shares of £100 each (with power to increase). First Issue, £500,000.
Deposits, £1,000,000.
83, King William-street, E.C. London.
6, Boulevard des Capucines (facing the Rue de la Paix), Paris.
Current accounts opened with parties properly introduced, who will have the privilege of drawing cheques upon the Bank, payable in London or Paris, against funds previously placed to their credit in either capital.
Interest will be allowed on sums of £100 and upwards, until withdrawn, at the following rates:—
Persons having current accounts can transfer any portion of their credit balance to deposit account, and any portion, at the whole of either, to Paris or London, as well.
The Bank will purchase and sell exchange, and grant letters of credit and circular notes, for the use of travellers.
The Bank will further execute orders of interest on foreign stocks, transact stock and share business and securities generally, between England, France, and the Continent; undertake orders for gold and silver bullion, purchase foreign money, &c., and transact generally all kinds of banking and exchange business.
By order of the Board,
ERNEST SEYD, } Managers.
ERNEST SEYD, }

NEW ZEALAND REMITTANCES.—The BANK of NEW ZEALAND (incorporated by Act of General Assembly), Capital, £500,000, grants LETTERS OF CREDIT, and undertakes every description of BANKING BUSINESS, throughout the Colony.
Terms and particulars on application at the London office,
65, Old Broad-street, London, E.C. F. LARKWORTHY, Managing Director.

LONDON, BRIGHTON, and SOUTH-COAST RAILWAY.
The NEW LONDON EXTENSION LINE is NOW OPEN, Trains run from Victoria, Pimlico, and other stations, by Battersea-rise and Clapham Junction, to Balham, St. Leonard's, Haydon's-road, and from Chalice, Battersea, and Clapham Junction, to Streatham, St. Leonard's, Haydon's-road, Brighton, Worthing, and the other stations on the Main and Subaltern Line of the Brighton Railway.

HOSPITAL FOR CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST, Brompton, S.W.—Supported by voluntary contributions. Liberal and conscientious support is required to meet the current expenses of this charity.
PHILIP ROSE, Hon. Sec. | HENRY DOBBY, Sec.

ACCIDENTS by Road, River, or Railway, in the Field, the Street, or at Home, may be provided against by taking a policy of the RAILWAY PASSENGERS ASSURANCE COMPANY, which has been incorporated by Special Act of Parliament. £1,150,000 have been paid as compensation for accidents. Apply at the Company's Offices, 3, Old Broad-street, London, E.C., or at the local office, 64, Cornhill, Lombard-st.

MR. W. A. OAKLEY'S REGISTERS comprise Landed and Residential Properties on the London and North-Western, London and Croydon, Brent and Metropolitan Districts, London and Blackwall, Great Eastern, Home Counties, South-Western, Northern and Eastern, and Great Northern Railways. Printed List post-free.—4, Copthall-court, Throgmorton-street.

CHUBBS' FIREPROOF SAFES, with their Drillproof and Pyrodev-proof Locks; Cash and Deed Boxes, Detector Locks, Street-door Latches, Illuminated Numbers for Doors, and Complete Fittings for Safe Rooms.—Manufactory, 57, St. Paul's-churchyard, E.C.

GARDNERS' LAMPS are the BEST.—The largest, most scientific, and cheapest assortment in the Kingdom. Palmer Duplex Lamps, from 1s. 6d. each. Moderator Lamps, from 10s. 6d. Colza Oil, 3s. per gallon. Sperm Oil, 6s. per gallon (by appointment to the Queen), established 150 years, 61, Strand, Charing-cross, W.C. (opposite Northumberland House).

OSLER'S GLASS CHANDELIERS, WALL LIGHTS, and other Metallic Ornaments, for Use and Decoration.
Glass Dinner Services for 12 persons, from £7 10s.
Glass Dessert Services for 12 persons, from £3 3s.
All at Wright and Mansfield's, 134, New Bond-street.
Ornamental Glass for Home and Foreign, suitable for presents.
Moss, Engravers, and Furnishing Orders promptly executed.
London—Showrooms, 45, Oxford-street, W.
Birmingham—Manufactory and Showrooms, Broad-street. Established 1807.

CHANDELIERS FOR DINING-ROOM and LIBRARY, Candelabra, Moderator Lamps, in Bronze, Ormoulu, China, and Glass. Statuettes in Parian, Terra, and other ornaments.—OSLER'S, 45, Oxford-street, W.

FURNISH YOUR HOUSE with the Best Articles at DEANE'S Ironmongery and Furnishing Warehouses. Established A.D. 1700. A Priced Furnishing List, free by post. Orders by letter carefully executed.—Deane, Dray, and Co., London-bridge.

PICTURE FRAMES, Best and Cheapest in London.—GILT Frame, Glass and Back, for the Coloured Picture given with this Paper, for 2s. Drawing-room Gilt Frames, 4s. 6d. to 40s. Every other description.

THE RECTOR of a small Country Parish, in a healthy and beautiful situation in the Midland Counties, who has already two Pupils highly recommended, would WITH GIVE or TWO more as Resident Pupils. The Rectory House is roomy, and the parochial duty so light that the Pupils would have unlimited time and attention. The highest references and satisfaction will be given.
Address, Rev. A. B. C., Astley de la Zouch.

EDUCATION, Ealing, first Station on Great Western Railway.—Establishment for Gentlemen's Sons at 20 Guineas per Quarter. Every comfort, elegantly situated, healthy, unexceptionable.—Address, "Schools," Mr. Cook's, 313, New Oxford-street.

EDUCATION (Superior) IN GERMANY.—A Protestant Lady has a Vacancy for Two Young Ladies as Boarders. Terms, £40 each per annum. For particulars and references, address to Mrs. Wilson, 3, Bedford-row, Holborn.

NAVAL CADETS, MARINE CADETS, &c.—Education in connection with the Royal Naval Establishments.
EASTMAN'S Royal Naval Establishment, Eastern Parade, Southsea.

SUPERIOR EDUCATION in a Select Establishment, conducted by a Clergyman's Widow, west of London. References of the highest order. Address Mrs. A., 3, Cleveland-terrace and Co., 12, Queen's-road, Bayswater.

FOR FAMILIES OF LIMITED INCOME.—A first-class Education at Thirty Guineas. No extras of any kind. For the Sons of Gentlemen only. Address Alpha, Mr. Wilson, 34, Friar-street, Great reduction for Vacancies.

MARRIAGE OF THE PRINCE OF WALES AND PRINCESS ALEXANDRA.

Arrangements have been made by the Proprietors of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS to illustrate the MARRIAGE OF THE PRINCE OF WALES AND PRINCESS ALEXANDRA in a manner befitting its importance. A Series of WEDDING NUMBERS will be issued, containing Illustrations of all the remarkable incidents in connection with the Departure of Princess Alexandra from Copenhagen, her Journey on the Continent, her Arrival in England, and her Triumphal Progress through London. The Marriage Ceremony at Windsor, on Tuesday, the 10th inst., will also be profusely illustrated.

The ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS of Saturday next, March 14, will consist of Two WHOLE SHEETS price Fivepence; Stamped, Sixpence.

A DOUBLE NUMBER of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS, comprising THREE WHOLE SHEETS, will be issued on March 21, price Tenpence; Stamped, One Shilling.

Office—198, Strand.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, MARCH 7, 1863.

No thoughtful person, whatever may be his theological views, can refuse grave attention to the very strange occurrences which mark this period of the history of the Church of England. At this moment we are called upon to notice a series of events which, if not technically connected, seem to denote a common origin, and which demand from the authorities of the Church the most heedful action or the wisest inaction. And, as we will pay no class of readers the ill compliment of supposing them too frivolous to be uninterested in matters which myriads of the best persons in the nation deem more important than political or social problems, we abstain from any apologetic introduction to a few remarks upon the theological demonstrations of the day.

Scarcely has a species of adjudication upon the position of two of the seven Essayists taken place, and while a supreme decision of the case is still to come, than clerical action of another kind is attempted in reference to Mr Jowett. And this again being temporarily baffled by the refusal of a local Judge to deal with such a question, we find nearly the whole of the Episcopal Bench uniting in a course which is, doubtless, defensible upon very strong grounds indeed, but which is challenged upon grounds which calm persons may think equally strong. A Bishop of the Church issues a work, which is designed to place the faith of the nation upon another base than that which has hitherto been regarded as its foundation; and most of the Bishops, creating a new precedent for the occasion, unite to ask him to declare himself guilty of that which their act would seem to imply themselves unable to punish. Now, looking at these events in what light we may, it is clear that they indicate a remarkable agitation in the theological world. Nor are such symptoms to be disposed of lightly, or by dogmatism. We, at least, have no intention of attempting to dispose of them by any approach to a final declaration, and we shall have discharged the immediate duty before us in bringing the following considerations under the notice of our readers.

We may assume that no candid mind will refuse to subordinate all other questions connected with these incidents to one—namely, the question how the interests of the Church of England—interests which for the purposes of argument we will take to be those of religion—can be best served under existing circumstances. And we may assume, also, that those who, resting their convictions upon higher or lower grounds, believe the Church of England to be a depository of truth and an invaluable agent for the teaching and civilising of the people. Such persons will at once dismiss from their minds any desire for sectional triumph, and will wish to see the course taken as seems least likely to injure the indubitable popularity of the Church. Now, there is a popularity easily attainable by negative policy and gracious language; and there is a better kind of popularity, which is gained only by institutions believed to be founded in truth and administered with justice during long years ago or more, supposing such agitation as that we now witness had been possible, it would have been dealt with in the very easiest manner—it would simply have been let alone. The Hierarchy would have ordered the objectionable books from the publishers, and Parliament would have declared that what men did not apply their talents better, and would have gone to the Levée. This method, which has not even the merit of an anodyne, is manifestly impossible now. The laity is too much interested in the Church to allow its heads to neglect it. It could not be done, and we feel that it should not be ignored. And this fact should be taken into consideration when the last aggregate act of the Bishops is criticised. Let us remember that it was absolutely necessary for them to show that they were aware of what Bishop Colenso was doing.

Perhaps, if we had a Bishop Butler on the Bench, it would not be easy to imagine a more desirable thing than that the demonstrations of the various assailants of orthodoxy should call up such a man, to put forth at once all his logic and all her energy, not to answer every disputant in detail, but to put in the hands of readers of average ability a work to enable the reader himself to deal with all assailants, be they who they might. But it is certain, and we say it without the slightest disrespect to the many admirable men who adorn the Episcopal Bench by their virtues, that the times have not yet called forth a Butler, including within the term the mind to be known. "Bishops should write," said George III.; but it is not necessarily given even to Bishops to write so as to ensure readers. The doubters, of high or low rank, in the Church have not yet been met in controversy, according to the judgment of the laity; and that the Bishops do not deem the case ripe for and trodden down may be assumed from its being held necessary by the representatives of its three great sections to take ulterior proceedings, judicial and extrajudicial. The enemy is still thought to hold the field, and he has to be dislodged. No just opponent will blame the Bishops for not doing what is unaccomplished, and desire to complete it. The question is only as to the wisdom of the means.

If the attempt at controversial remedy excited little interest with the public, the opposite effect was produced the moment that which may be termed practical warfare came into play. The proceedings before Sir S. Lushington were narrowly watched, the Judge's semi-contemptuous treatment of the first shapeless mass of charges was observed, and his subsequent judgment, which was none the less wise that it satisfied neither party, was registered in the mind of the reader. The late attempt to deal with a question of "heresy" before a small debts court was instantly noted, and those who can read the thermometer of public interest knew how it stood when the widest publicity to the outdoor fighting of the leading theological champions was given, and even the sturdy enemy of nicotian recreation was permitted to offer an unequal battle. Every line in the manifesto of the Bishops has been carefully studied in our English households; and decided, if not well-weighed, opinions have been advanced as to the right even of Bishops to call on a man to convict himself by those who have also been unhesitating in their declaration that Dr. Tait and Dr. Colenso cannot both be Bishops of the same Church. There is no lack of interest about the question now; and every movement, down to Dr. Hampden's coming forth with his regret that the thunder was not louder, is eagerly noted. The more reason to beware of false moves.

The case, therefore, stands thus:—The Church is disturbed, and there exists, as it would appear, no controversial power sufficient to allay the disturbances. Other means have been resorted to, and the point to be ascertained is, whether such means, however they may reveal the resources of the law or the tact of those who set it in motion, will satisfy the minds of the people of England. We have said that we abstain from venturing a final answer upon a question that does not seem to us to have approached the place at which finality in decision is possible; but we will add that we think it quite possible for the heads of the Church to obtain a very desirable result by action, but certainly not by any action of the kind that has been already witnessed, and assuredly not by any means opposed to national feeling. For the good safety of the Church of England lies in this—that we are Englishmen as well as Churchmen.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

It has been officially announced that the British Museum will be closed to the public on Saturday (to-day), and also on Tuesday next.

An infant has been suffocated at Greenwich from a feather of the pillow getting into its mouth whilst asleep.

The Jews' Hospital, Lower Norwood, has been opened in the presence of a large number of ladies and gentlemen interested in the welfare of the institution.

It has been determined that the Oxford and Cambridge boatrace shall be rowed on Saturday, April 4. The crews have been invited to dine afterwards with the Thames Subscription Club.

Mr. Charles Dickens has consented to preside at the annual festival in support of the funds of the Hospital for Sick Children, Great Ormond-street, to be held on May 6, at the Freemasons' Hall.

At the meeting of the Board of Commissioners of Sewers, on Tuesday, Dr. Letheby reported that the officers had seized and condemned 9480 lbs. of meat as unfit for human food.

The opening of the West London Extension Railway to the public, at Kensington, took place on Monday. By this line direct communication is provided between Hammersmith, Fulham and the northern districts of the metropolis.

A collision occurred yesterday week close to the Farringdon-street terminus of the Metropolitan Railway to the 7 p.m. down train, owing to the pointsman turning it on to the up line by mistake, when it met with another train. Fortunately the speed at the time of the brains leaving and nearing the station, the contact was not very violent nor the consequences very serious. Several persons were shaken, four of them rather severely.

The twenty-second annual ball in aid of the funds of the French Benevolent Society was given at Willis's Rooms on Monday evening, and was unusually well attended. The Duke d'Aumale was present. Count Marie Amelie having forwarded a handsome donation, and Mr. Arnold's pearly, a lottery took place for it during the evening, and for numerous other articles of interest value, sent by friends of the institution, by which materially considerable amount was realised.

Last week the births of 2240 children—1163 boys and 1077 girls—were registered in London. In the ten corresponding weeks of the years 1853-62 the average number (corrected) was 2000.——The number of deaths registered in London during the week was 1511. The average of the ten corresponding weeks of the ten years 1853-62 is, with a correction for increase of population, 1418. Of the deaths, 1 centenarian died in the 101st year of whom was a widow, aged ninety-eight years.

At the general meeting of the Printers' Pension Society, on Monday, eight pensioners were elected, making seventy-six now on the funds. Mr. William Spottiswoode presided. During the interval between the resignation, on account of declining health, of Mr. Hodson, who had been secretary to the society for twenty-five years, and the present election was passed accepting his resignation; and Mr. Hodson, jun. (who had performed the duties of secretary), was elected secretary pro tem.

On Monday the 148th anniversary of the Most Honourable and Loyal Society of Ancient Britons was celebrated in the Freemasons' Tavern—Lord Kenyon in the chair. In proposing the toast of the evening, the chairman mentioned that 2274 boys had been admitted into the schools and wholly maintained; whilst 2264 girls (of whom 597 have gone to their reward) had been similarly provided for. An eloquent appeal to the charity of the Welshmen present was responded to by a handsome subscription list.

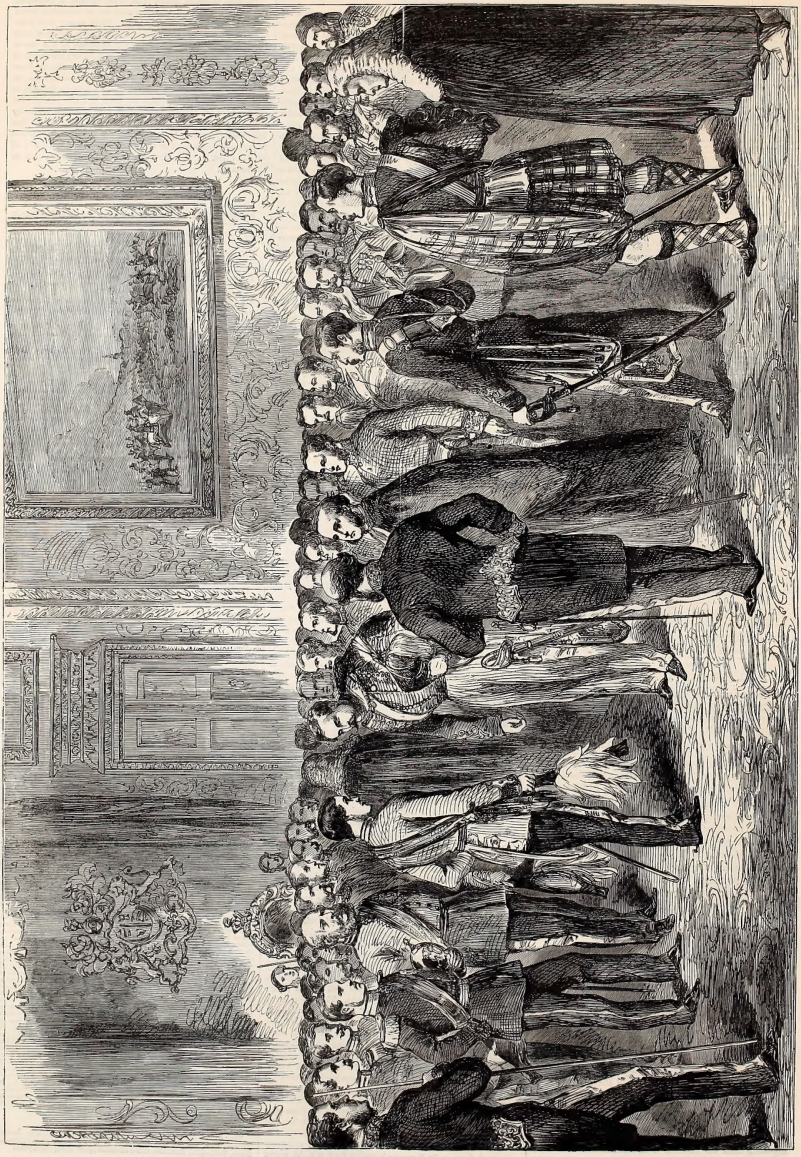
An important meeting of merchants and others interested in the tea trade was held at the Commercial Sale Rooms, Mincing-lane, yesterday, to take some steps to obtain a reduction of the duty on tea. Several weeks to take some steps to obtain a reduction of the duty on tea. Several weeks ago a meeting of the Tea Committee of the London Chamber of Commerce, embodied in a memorial to be presented to the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The annual meeting of the Metropolitan Rifle Association was held on Wednesday. The Duke of Cumbridge, president of the society, was in the chair; and before any other business was done his Royal Highness was unanimously requested to continue in the presidency for another year, which he agreed to do. There is a balance of the society's funds to the extent of upwards of £1000, but his Royal Highness complained that the association was not supported to the extent which its merits entitled it to receive. Some discussion took place on the use of the Enfield rifle at competitions, and the meeting for the present day's business was adjourned to the 6th of July.

The boys of the various ragged school shoeblack societies were assembled yesterday week for their winter festival at Freemasons' Hall—the Earl of Shaftesbury presiding. The different colours adopted by the boys gave a gay appearance to the hall, which was well filled with supporters of the various societies. After the boys had been entertained with tea and cake the meeting was addressed by the Earl of Shaftesbury, Lord Charles Russell, the Rev. Sydney Turquand, and Mr. Locke. The boys were given as prizes to the most deserving boys. It was stated that the shoeblack society at present has the management of 300 shoeblack societies in 373, and their total earnings during the past year amounted to £6222.

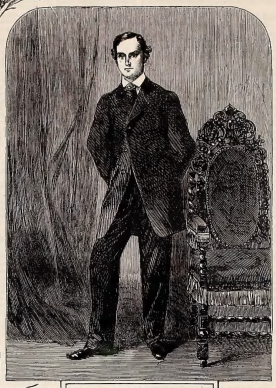
At a meeting of the Royal National Life-boat Institution, held on Thursday, the silver medal of the institution was voted to Mr. David Williams, coxswain of the life-boat at Aberdovey, in recognition of his gallant services in putting off in a fearful sea in the institution's life-boat stationed at that place on the 8th ult., with the view of rescuing the crew of the brig Friends, of Newport, which had stranded on Aberdovey Bar. A similar medal was also voted to Mr. Isaac Jones, aged 64 life, for also greatly to pay the expenses of the institution's life-boat at Troghelu, for saving, in a heavy sea on the 8th ult., with the crew of the same brig, Mary Jones, jun., and William Evans, and also £6 to three other men, in acknowledgment of their valuable aid and perseverance on the night of the 10th of January in assisting to rescue the crew and passengers of the American ship John E. Elliott, of New York, which, during a terrific squall, accompanied with thunder and lightning, was stranded in Liverpool Bay. Various other rewards were also voted to the crews of other boats for their laudable exertions in saving life on different parts of the coasts of the United Kingdom. It was reported that the life-boats of the institution in some of the principal ports would form part of the procession on the wedding day of the Prince of Wales. The Trinity Harbour Trustees, like those of nearly every port in the kingdom, had decided on placing their life-boat under the management of the institution. The remaining sum of £189, had been received by the institution from the executors of the late Mr. T. Robinson, commercial traveller, Manchester. The proceeds presented their cordial thanks, inscribed on vellum, to Admiral Yelverton, C.B., in acknowledgment of the important services he had rendered to the institution while Commodore Comptroller-General of her Majesty's Coastguard. Payments, amounting to upwards of £500, having been made on various life-boat establishments, the proceedings closed.

The death of Inspector-General of Army Hospitals, James Borland, M.D., has just been announced as having occurred at Brigham House, Teddington, Middlesex, at the advanced age of eighty-eight years.



HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES HOLDING HIS FIRST LEVÉE.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 253.

PRINCESS DAGMAR.



PRINCE FREDERIK.

PRINCE·WALDEMAR.

PRINCESS·THYRA.

PRINCE·WILHELM.

THE BROTHERS, AND SISTERS, OF PRINCESS ALEXANDRA.

THE COURT.

The Queen continues in good health, and it is hoped her Majesty will be able to go through the exertions of the coming week without undue suffering.

On Sunday the Queen, with the Prince of Wales, the Crown Princess of Prussia (Princess Royal), Prince and Princess Louis of Hesse, Princess Helena, Princess Louisa, Prince Arthur, and Prince Leopold, and the ladies and gentlemen of the Court attended Divine service in the private chapel. The Rev. Canon Duckworth preached the sermon.

On Monday the Queen, accompanied by Princess Louis of Hesse, walked and drove in the Lowther Arms. Her Majesty drove out with the Crown Princess of Prussia in the afternoon.

On Tuesday the Crown Prince of Prussia, attended by Colonel Von Obernitz, Captain Von Lucadou, and Lord Alfred Paget, arrived at the Castle at a quarter before eight o'clock. The Prince of Wales, attended by Lieutenant-Colonel Keppel, went out hunting with the staghounds in the Windsor Forest, and returned to the Castle on horseback before the Crown Prince and Princess of Prussia rode on horseback.

On Wednesday the Queen and the Crown Prince and Princess of Prussia went to London and honoured Baron Marochetti, Mr. Theed, and Mr. Noble with visits at their studios. In the afternoon the Crown Prince Consort which are now being executed. The Crown Prince and Princess went afterwards to Buckingham Palace.

Lord Lucas has succeeded Lord Methuen as Lord in Waiting.

Major-General F. Seymour and Lieutenant-Colonel Hon. D. De Ros have succeeded Lord Alfred Paget and Lieutenant-Colonel Du Plat as Equeries in Waiting. Lieutenant-Colonel Keppel has succeeded Major Teesdale as Equerry in Waiting.

THE DRAWINGROOM.

The Crown Princess of Prussia (Princess Royal of Great Britain and Ireland), by command of the Queen, held a Drawingroom on behalf of her Majesty on Saturday last in St. James's Palace.

Two hundred and fifty ladies had the honour of being presented to her Royal Highness, the presentations, by her Majesty's pleasure, being considered as equivalent to presentations at Court. In addition to the presentations, about 500 ladies attended the reception.

The Crown Princess, accompanied by Princess Louis of Hesse, left Buckingham Palace at two o'clock, and was received at St. James's Palace by the Great Officers of State, who conducted their Royal Highnesses to the Royal closet.

The Prince of Wales arrived, attended by the Earl of Mount-Edgcumbe, Lord in Waiting; the Hon. Robert Henry Meade, Groom in Waiting; and Major Teesdale, Equerry in Waiting.

The Duke of Cambridge, attended by the Hon. James Macdonald; Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, Prince Frederick of Holstein, and Maharajah Dhuleep Singh, attended by Colonel Oliphant, were present.

His Royal Highness Prince Louis of Hesse arrived from Buckingham Palace, attended by Baron Westerweller.

The Crown Princess of Prussia entered the throne-room, accompanied by the Prince of Wales, Princess Helena, the Duke of Cambridge, Prince Louis of Hesse, Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, the Prince of Holstein, and Maharajah Dhuleep Singh, in attendance were the Duchess of Wellington, Mistress of the Robes; the Countess of Rosslyn (in waiting), the Hon. Mrs. Cavendish, Lady Churchill and the Marchioness of Ely, Ladies of the Bedchamber; and the other Lords and Ladies of the Court.

The Lord Chancellor was first introduced, the Foreign Ambassadors and Ministers being received in the order of their diplomatic precedence.

The Diplomatic Corps having paid their respects, the ladies present at the Drawingroom were introduced, and were announced to her Royal Highness by the Lord Chamberlain.

The following were among the more noticeable presentations to the Crown Princess:—

The Duchess of Buckingham and Chandos, by Lady Anna Gore Langton.

Viscountess Clifden, on her marriage, by Lady Bagot.

Viscountess Hawarden, on her marriage, by Countess Amherst.

Lady Braybrooke, on succeeding to the Barony, by Viscountess Newport.

Lady John Manners, on her marriage, by Lady Bagot.

Lady Pelham, on her marriage, by the Countess of Gainsborough.

Lady Victoria Pelham, by her mother, the Countess of Yarborough.

Lady Victoria A. Scott, by the Countess of Dunlo.

Lady Alice Moreton, by the Countess of Dunlo.

Lady Mary Bertie, by her mother, Countess Strathmore.

Lady Mary Wentworth Fitzwilliam, by her mother, Countess Fitzwilliam.

Lady Christian Abercromby, by the Countess of Airlie.

Lady Adela Hare and Lady Eleanor Hare, by Lady Proby.

Lady Julia Cuffe, by the Countess of Desart.

Lady Harriet Grimston, by her mother, Lady Verulam.

Hon. Rosalind Parker, by her mother, Lady Stanley of Alderley.

The Lady Mayoress, by Viscountess Palmerston.

Miss Ada Milbanke, by her mother, Mrs. Frederick Milbank.

The costumes worn on this occasion were especially remarkable for their elegance and beauty. The dresses of the Duchess of Wellington and Viscountess Palmerston, although necessarily, from their official relation to the Court, in mourning, exhibit general observation from their magnificence.

THE CROWN PRINCE OF PRUSSIA.

The Crown Prince of Prussia arrived at Windsor Castle at a quarter before eight o'clock on Tuesday evening, after a rapid journey. The Crown Prince embarked at Ostend in her Majesty's steam-yacht the Vivid at two o'clock on Tuesday morning, and, after a very favourable passage, ran into Dover at four o'clock. Lord Alfred Paget was in attendance to meet his Royal Highness, who proceeded to Birmingham, and to Warden Hotel, and thence to the railway-station, where a saloon carriage was attached to the ordinary up-mail, by which the Prince arrived at London Bridge. Mr. Elverall, general manager of the South-Eastern Railway, was in attendance, and, the arrival of the Crown Prince having been telegraphed to London, one of the Queen's carriages and Her Majesty's Highness at London Bridge, from whence the Prince proceeded to the Waterloo station, where a special train was in readiness to carry his Royal Highness to Windsor. The Prince was looking exceedingly well.

PRINCE ALFRED.

The health of his Royal Highness Prince Alfred is steadily improving. The Prince has entirely left him, and he is allowed to take substantial meals.

Their Royal Highnesses the Prince of Wales and Prince Louis of Hesse honoured the performance at the Lyceum Theatre with their presence on Saturday evening, returning to Windsor at midnight.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales honoured Mr. Watson with a sitting on Monday last at his studio in Saville-row.

Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Cambridge, who has been labouring under a slight cold, has quite recovered.

Her Royal Highness the Crown Princess of Prussia honoured Miss Dunn's studio with a visit on Wednesday last, and inspected Baron de Triqueti's works.

Countess Spencer has issued cards for an assembly on the 10th proximo.

Viscountess Palmerston had an assembly on Saturday evening at Cambridge House.

Lady Westbury has been confined to her residence in Upper Hyde Park-gardens for some days past by serious indisposition.

The Right Hon. the Speaker will hold his first Parliamentary Levée on Wednesday next, at ten o'clock p.m.

The Prince of Orange is betrothed to Princess Marie, daughter of Prince Frederick of the Netherlands, uncle of the King of Holland.

At the Metropolitan Board of Works on Wednesday a motion was carried to form a park of about 190 acres for the recreation of the inhabitants of Finsbury, the chairman giving his casting vote in favour of the park.

A banquet was given by the United Service Club on Wednesday to Rear-Admiral Sir James Hope, K.C.B., late Commander-in-Chief on the East India and China stations, on his return from China, and in compliment to his eminent services while in the Crimean waters. The Duke of Cambridge presided, Admiral Sir James Hope on the right and Viscount Palmerston on the left, supporting his Royal Highness.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—MONDAY.

The House was visited by the Prince of Wales. His Royal Highness took his seat on the cross benches.

The bill granting annuities to the Prince of Wales and his future Consort passed through the House.

The Gardens in Towns Improvement Bill was read a third time and passed.

The Treasurer of Lord Ireland Bill, which had come from the Commons, and the object of which is to enable landowners in Ireland to raise money for draining purposes under a charge upon the Treasurer's administrators, was read a second time and referred to a Select Committee.

The Naval Coast Volunteers (Ireland) Amendment Bill, its object being to enable the Naval Reserve to be sent further than 200 miles from the United Kingdom if it be necessary, was read a second time.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY.

Mr. Cobden gave notice that, on the order of the day for going into Committee on the Navy Estimates, he should call attention to the present condition of naval affairs by the Board of Admiralty.

The Births and Deaths Registration (Ireland) Bill as amended was considered.

After a long discussion the Tobacco Duties Bill was read a second time, on the understanding that the Chancellor of the Exchequer will, in Committee, propose several alterations in its provisions.

The House went into Committee on the Corrupt Practices at Elections Bill, the second clause of which—providing for the disfranchisement of attorneys and others acting for candidates—was struck out by a majority of 110 to 104.

Mr. Layard, in reply to a question from Mr. Colel, said the Government had had their attention directed to more than one vessel alleged to be in course of preparation in English shipbuilding yards for the service of the Confederate States, but at the present time no evidence had been furnished which could justify the authorities in proceeding to extreme measures. The hon. gentleman added, however, that strict order had been given to watch very closely any vessels supposed to be fitting out for the Southern navy.

The Union Relief Aid Act Continuation Bill passed through Committee.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—TUESDAY.

The Prince and Princess of Wales's Annuities Bill was read a third time and passed; the Bills of Exchange and Notes (Metropolis) Bill was read a second time; and the Civil Bill Courts Conveyance Act Amendment Bill passed through Committee. The standing orders were suspended to allow of the passing of the last bill on the same day.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—TUESDAY.

The Prince and Princess of Wales's Annuities Bill was brought from the House of Lords by Mr. Ewart, and read a first time. The Queen's Message was read, recommending an annuity of £10,000 to the Prince and Princess. Mr. Gladstone moved the second reading of the bill, and, after a few words from Mr. Bowyer, it was agreed to. Mr. Gregory moved the second reading of the bill, and, after a few words from Mr. Bowyer, it was agreed to. Mr. Gregory moved that the Queen's Message be taken into consideration on Thursday next, and, after a few words from Mr. Gibson and Mr. Gladstone, it was agreed to. Mr. Gregory moved that the House resolve itself into Committee on the bill on Thursday next, and, after a few words from Mr. Gladstone, it was agreed to. Mr. Gregory moved that the bill be read a third time that day

THE FARM.

THE monthly meeting of the Royal Agricultural Society was held on Wednesday, and the places eligible to send in a claim for the meeting in '64 underwent a preliminary discussion. It is generally thought that Newcastle, which was visited in 1846, will fight hard for the honour; but it is not improbable that Darlington will put in a strong claim, as being the very home of the shorthorn, and in some ways well adapted for the purpose. It would seem strange to pass over the "little beef and cream county." Mr. Cantrell has been appointed the steward of fodder for Worcester, a new office of no small responsibility; as during the nine fine days at Battersea the straw, hay, tares, and clover for the cattle cost the society about £200! The waste must have been fearful; and the hay, as we can testify, was carried away in the most barefaced style. A hundred horse-loads, at £4 each, of an improved construction, have been ordered for Worcester.

The Agricultural Hall Company held their meeting on Wednesday, and declared a dividend of ten per cent less income tax. The hall, which, although not built with any reference to music, has proved most satisfactory to the band-master, will be devoted for a large ball for volunteers, &c., on "The Wedding Night." The arrangements for the great show of fatstocks and other dogs, in the week between Christmas and Xmas, will be given to the public early in April, and some of the first masters of hounds have determined to make entries.

The Smithfield Club have had a special spring council meeting, which is to be repeated annually on the Tuesday before the March council meeting of the Royal Agricultural. Two stewards were appointed for implements, and a salary was voted for an assistant secretary. The head prize for the best fatstock or lot of steers raised to £30, and another ox or steer class was granted to the Sussex breeds, as an acknowledgment of the strength in which this breed came up to Islington last Christmas. A motion for younger classes in shorthorns, Devons, and Herefords was also lost. It will only would the candidates have been open to the criticism of being neither beef nor veal, but the arguments of the promoters that they might be purchased in a fit state for the butcher's meat was met with the reply that it was not desirable that feeders should shoot their hairs at a time when the sight of a very good young beast would infallibly thin the ranks for the next year.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

LINCOLN never had a better meeting, and there was no condition like Maurice's, who was well served in both his races. Achille's par. formance boded bad things for the Liverpool Steeplechase, but it is stated that his owner will not hedge a penny. Two of Lord Stamford's colts, one of them "little picture," the property of the Royal sale, ran first and second in a race; and a most elegant and muscular little mare, Vatbond, only measuring 14 h. 2 in. or perhaps 6h., and carrying 12st. 13 lb., out down the three hundred pound Rook the favourite and the rest of the Hunt Stakes handicap in great style. She is dark chestnut by Mr. Pinhey Smith's celebrated horse Augur from a favourite pony of Lord Zetland's. Her owner rode her herself, subsequently sold her to Holmes at Beverley for £200. The trainers did not support Nottingham with their favourites at Bevelyer, two, indeed, were not even left running, came home a very easy winner for the Spring Handicap; but four years and 4 lb. to an aged horse, Lounter, proved too strong a load for the best. Saxilby, Lord Derby's second, was over all the rags for the Liverpool Steeplechase, which stands for Wednesday and has already had quite its full share of the wonted amount of cabbing and mystification. The Dane was second to Jealousy for this race in '61, beating a magnificent field, and was scratched last year a week before the start. Mr. Mangham's name, mouth, and was not persevered with; and now he meets Ebchester and Lord Clifden on 10 lb. better terms. Ebchester was both Tuesday and Wednesday, and the national holiday will bring a wonderful concourse of people to Aintree. Mr. Payne's Cap and Bells, by Cotherstone out of Miss Agnes, and Mr. Ridsdale's Lord Clifden, by Newminster out of Mincemeat, are the selections from Colonel Townley's stud in Kettlebeers; and Mr. Ten Broeck's eight racers produced the friend to whom they were left in his last illness 855 gs.

Very prompt action was taken lately against a fox-destroying keeper in the Puckeridge country, and it is said that the East Dereham fox-destroying case has been probed to the bottom, and that the members of the West Norfolk Hunt are satisfied that there will not be a recurrence of it. All packs seem to be doing pretty well, and the Hambledon "gentlemen" have raced into their "winter" quarters often beaten them before, and died gallantly in the open, after 1h. 10m. without a misfortune of a check. The North Staffordshire have given

THE PALACE OF CHRISTIANSBORG, COPENHAGEN.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 236.

Tunstall, Burslem, Hanley, and Etruria, formed at Hanley, at the head of which was Colonel Hogg, chief constable of the county, and consisted of the rifle volunteer corps of those towns, the representative bodies, clergy, magistrates, committee, sculptor, manufacturers, tradesmen, and workpeople; these occupied the north side of the square; the procession from the south, representing Longton, Fenton, Stoke, and Newcastle, proceeded in similar order and occupied the south side of the square. The Etruria 1st Staffordshire Artillery Volunteer Corps passed through the square, with a 24-pounder gun, drawn by six horses, and took up a position in rear of the square on the east. The Earl of Harrowby, delivered the inaugural address, and in reviewing the career of Wedgwood referred in terms of high eulogy to his genius, his taste, his sagacity, his industry, and his perseverance; and pointed out how he subsidised the talents of the rising artists of his day, who produced for him designs in shape the most classic and in form almost faultless, thereby raising manufactures of the Potteries to a position which commanded the admiration of the world. The address was loudly cheered. When the noble Earl proceeded to unveil the statue a salute of artillery followed, the rifles presented arms, the bands played the National Anthem, and the ceremony closed with a feu-de-joie. Luncheon was served in the Townhall at half-past one, presided over by the Earl of Harrowby, at which there was a large attendance. Various toasts were given and speeches made, including addresses from Mr. Beresford Hope, Alderman Copeland, Mr. Brown Westhead, M.P., and Mr. Francis Wedgwood, grandson of Josiah Wedgwood, in whose honour the statue had been inaugurated.

An Engraving of the Wedgwood Statue appeared in volume 40 of this Journal, at page 666.

ARRIVAL OF ANOTHER "RELIEF-SHIP" FROM AMERICA.

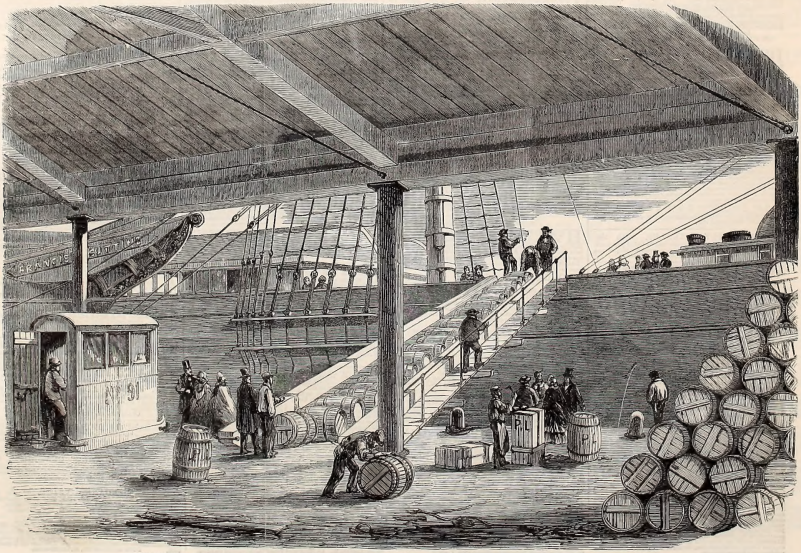
On the evening of Sunday week the American barque Achilles, under the command of Captain Gallagher, arrived in the Mersey from Philadelphia, with upwards of 3000 barrels of flour for the relief of the distressed operatives in Lancashire. The Achilles having been sighted off the port during the afternoon, the steam-tug Phœnix, belonging to the New Steam-Tug Company (Limited), went out and met her some distance outside the harbour. The Achilles was at once taken in tow and brought into the river, and anchored between the Prince's Landing Stage and Seacombe, in exactly the same position as that occupied by the George Griswold when that vessel anchored in the Mersey. The port pilotage and dock dues in this, as in the case of the George Griswold, were remitted, and the New Steam-Tug Company towed up the ship free of charge. On Monday morning, as soon as it became known that the Achilles was in the river, immense numbers of people visited the Prince's Landing Stage and the piers to have a look at the third of the American relief-ships. The Achilles was easily distinguished by the English ensign at the fore, her house-flag at the main, and the national emblem of the United States at the mizen. At high water the Achilles was taken in tow by the Phœnix, and docked in the Waterloo Dock, where she will at once commence to discharge her cargo. There are now three vessels in Liverpool that have brought relief from the United States to the suffering poor in Lancashire—viz., The Hope, George Griswold, and Achilles.

On Thursday week the Mayor of Liverpool (Mr. R. C. Gardner) entertained the captains of the relief-ships to a grand banquet in the Townhall. Amongst the gentlemen present were Sir William Brown, Bart., High Sheriff of Lancashire; the Mayor of Manchester, and Captain Inglefield, R.N., C.B. The speeches were chiefly expressive of the gratitude felt by Lancashire for the noble donations of the people of the Northern States, and hopes were expressed for a speedy termination of the war and the further enlargement of the bonds of amity and good will between the New and Old Worlds.

AMALIENBORG SQUARE, COPENHAGEN.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 236.

UNVEILING THE STATUE OF JOSIAH WEDGWOOD, "THE FATHER OF THE POTTERIES," AT STOKE-ON-TRENT.—SEE PAGE 247.

We give an Engraving (from a sketch by Mr. William Woods, of Everton, Liverpool) of the George Griswold discharging her freight, consisting of 200 boxes of bacon, 50 barrels of pork, 600 bushels of corn, 500 barrels and boxes of bread, a quantity of rice, and 13,236 barrels of flour, sent from New York for the distressed Lancashire operatives. The pettiest details in connection with a vessel on such an errand are of interest, and invested with a dignity which the doings of no mere trading-ship, were she laden with gold and precious stones instead of with bread and pork, could command.



THE GEORGE GRISWOLD IN DOCK AT LIVERPOOL LANDING HER PROVISIONS FOR THE DISTRESSED OPERATIVES IN THE NORTH.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.*

BIRTHS.

On the 4th inst., at Stoke, Devonport, the wife of Lieutenant Stanley Clarke, R.N., of H.M.S. Royal Adelaide, of a son.

On the 26th ult., at Dublin, the wife of Wm. Holmes, Esq., Assistant-Surgeon, Staff, of a daughter.

On the 22nd ult., at Springfield House, near Nuneaton, the wife of Jamme Darlington, Esq., of a son.

DEATHS.

On the 10th ult., at Lisbon, Isabel Maria, the beloved daughter of William Smith, Esq., late Britannic Majesty's Consul, aged 18.

On the 9th ult., at Upton Park, Slough, Thomas Rawdon Ward, Esq., in the 76th year of his age.

PRINCESS ALEXANDRA and the PRINCE of WALES.—THE NEW CARTES, by Disdéri, Regent-street, are pronounced by the Queen and Royal Family to be the most perfect of resemblance.—MISCHI and BAZIN, 112, Regent-street, London.

PHOTOGRAPHIC ALBUMS, from 2s. 6d. to 2l. 2s. each.—All the newest patterns.—MISCHI and BAZIN, 112, Regent-street, London.

CARTES DE VISITE. Every Copy Published, at MISCHI and BAZINS, 112, Regent-street, London. Catalogues of names free on application.

1197 PHOTOGRAPHS, after 188 Masters (Landseer, Ward, Turner, Sir Joshua, Gainsborough, Hogarth, &c.), 10s. 6d. each; also, ALBUMS, MOUNTBOARD, CARTES VISITE, and PORTABLE ARTISTIC SUNDRIES. Catalogues, free for stamp.—J. S. BELL, 5, Portsmouth-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields.

PHOTOGRAPHIC ALBUMS.—A choice of 1000 from 2s. 6d. to 2l. 2s. kept variety very elegantly mounted, handsomely bound, and highly recommended by the Public. The public supplied at wholesale prices. PARKINS and GOTTO, 24, Oxford-street, London.

CARTE DE VISITE PORTRAIT ALBUMS, 12 varieties in Morocco, bound to contain from 12 to 1000 two-inch slip chaps. 5s. each; very elegant, 10s. 6d., 15s., 20s., 30s. 50 Portraits, 2s. 6d.; very elegant, 5s. 6d. Catalogues, two stamps. Also, ALBUMS, MOUNTBOARD, CARTES VISITE, and PORTABLE ARTISTIC SUNDRIES. Catalogues, two stamps.—J. S. BELL, 5, Portsmouth-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields.

HAIR JEWELLERY.—ARTIST in HAIR.—DEWDNEY begs to inform Ladies or Gentlemen that he has REMOVED from Coventry-street to 25, Leicester-square (late Chalon, Barry, and Saul), where, from his long experience, he can execute in the most elegant manner, and at about one-half the usual charge. A beautiful selection of specimens has been recently added to the stock. An illustrated book sent post-free.—Dewdney, 175, Fenchurch-street, London.

GOLD CHAINS and FINE GOLD JEWELLERY, a very elegant STOCK of GOLD CHAINS, 16s. to 85gs.; Gentlemen's Albert Chains, 21s. to 10gs.; Gold Brooches, 10s. to 10gs.; Gold Bracelets, 5s. to 25l.; Wedding and Keeper Rings, 2s. 6d. to 10gs.; Gold Sleeve Buttons, 10s. 6d. to 3gs.; Gold Lockets, 10s. 6d. to 10gs.; Gold Rings, 2s. 6d. to 10gs. per pair. Old Gold taken in exchange.—THOMAS HARVEY, Goldsmith, 148, Regent-street, W. Jewellery repaired and Diamonds reset.

WATCHES, Timepieces, and Clocks. Second-hand LEVERS, jewelled in four holes, 3l. 15s. to 4l. 15s.; silver movements, 2l. 5s. to 2l. 15s.; eight-day Timepieces, 1l. 15s. to 2l. 10s.; Clocks, 1l. 5s. to 2l. 10s. Every article warranted.—FREDERICK F. WORTHINGTON, 3, Hanover-street, Hanover-square (3 doors from Regent-street). Established 1837. A Good List of prices by Old Watches, Gold Chains, Jewellery, Clocks, &c., purchased or taken in exchange. Merchants and Captains supplied on liberal terms. Country orders carefully executed.

THE PRETTIEST GIFT FOR A LADY is one of JONES'S LEVER WATCHES, at 4l 11s.; for a Gentleman, at 5l. 5s. Invented at the Exhibition for the purpose of production. Manufactory, 338, Strand, opposite Somerset House.

WATCHES.—A. B. SAVORY and SONS, 24, Cornhill, and 14, Regent-street, respectfully call the Public to the Bankl First-class Patent Detached Lever Watches, with the last improvements, combining extreme power, in exceeding going whilst being wound, with accuracy of performance.

PRICES OF SILVER WATCHES.

Patent Lever Watches, with gold dial, jewelled in four holes ... 3l 15s 0d
Ditto, jewelled in four holes and capped 4 6 0
Ditto, the finest quality, jewelled in six holes 5 5 0
GOLD WATCHES—SIDE FOR LADIES.
Patent Lever Watches, with gold dial, jewelled 11 11 0
Ditto, with richly-carved case 12 12 0
Ditto, the finest quality, jewelled in four holes 14 14 0
GENTLEMEN'S SIZE.
Patent Lever Watches, jewelled, enamel dial and seconds ... 10 10 0
Ditto, in hunting-cases, capped 12 12 0
Ditto, jewelled in six holes, and gold balance 17 17 0

List of prices, with remarks on watches gratis and post-free.

PERRY'S WATCHES.—Perfection of mechanism.—Morning Post. Watches of all descriptions, finished by hand, strong horizontal, vertical, lever, half-chronometer, quarter repeaters, independent centre seconds, keyless, split seconds, and every description of watch, from the highest to the lowest quality of which the art is at present capable. By means of machinery, combined with the most perfect system of division of labour, we are enabled to manufacture without variation to any time-keeping. Perry's New Illustrated Pamphlet contains a numerous designs and full price-list, with an interesting account of watchmaking, and is sent post-free for 2 stamps to any part of the world.—PERRY and CO., 37, Ludgate-hill, London. Established 1749. 37, Ludgate-hill, London. Established 1749.

BENSON'S CLOCKS.—J. W. Benson, maker of the Great Clock for the Exhibition, and of the Clock-tower Dial by which the Derby of 1862 was timed, has just completed extensive workshops and specially arranged his whole establishment for the exhibition of all kinds of clocks suitable for the church, tower, hall, counting-house, and railway station. Also a large assortment of Benson's Watches, manufactured from high-art designs of well-known artist, and suitable for the drawing-room, library, &c., in ormolu, buhl, marble, carved oak, carved ebony, and other rich cases. Benson's Illustrated Pamphlet on clocks contains a short history of clocks and watches, with numerous engravings of the most remarkable, and a description of the various kinds now in use, sent free by post on receipt of two stamps.—J. W. Benson's Steam Establishment, 62, 47, and 63, Cornhill. All letters to be addressed to the Steam Establishment, 62 and 34, Ludgate-hill, London. Established 1749.

WALKER'S NEEDLES, with the Corrugated Eye, for Lock-stitch Machines, to suit any machine, by the dozen or single needle. Warranted to work free as 24 post-free. Cards Work, Alsatian, and 47, Cornhill, and 22, Regent-street.

WHITE and SOUND TEETH are indispensable to a perfect mastication, and to health and longevity, by the proper assimilation of food.

ROWLAND'S ODONTO, OR PEARL DENTIFRICE, preserves and imparts a pearl-like whiteness to the Teeth, strengthens the Gums, and gives a healthy action to the Mucous Membrane of the adjacent parts. Price 2s. 9d. per box. Sold by all Chemists and 20, Hatton-garden; and by Chemists and Perfumers.

Beware of worthless IMITATIONS.

FELIX SULTANA'S CASSOLETTE—an exquisite and mystical Perfume for the Pocket, 1s. post-free. FELIX SULTANA'S CRYSTALLIZED GOLDEN LOCKET, with mesmerizing cure-all delightful fragrance, 2s. post-free. The rose and violet, 1s. each post-free.—Felix Sultana, 2, Vere-street, W.

Felix Sultana, 2, Vere-street, W., Perfumer, 24, Conduit-street.

ORANGE BLOSSOM.—The PERFUME of the SEASON. Three bottles, packed in case, sent free to any railway station for 3s. 6d.
FELIX SULTANA, Royal Perfumer, 23, Poultry, City, London.

COLD CREAM OF ROSES.—PIESSE and LUBIN have great pleasure in announcing that the above can, from daily experience, be recommended with the greatest confidence, first, as a most delightful and refreshing toilet cream soap, free from alkali, in which the finest natural fragrance and perfumes are combined. Be sure to ask for PIESSE and LUBIN'S Cold Cream of Roses, as there are numerous spurious imitations to prevent disappointment. Laboratory at Rowers, 2, New Bond-street, London.

EMBLEMATIC ORANGE FLOWER.—The Language of Flowers, post-paid, 2stamps. The Queen was presented with bunch entwined with saffron and Hymettus, the sacred flowers of Athens, with which an orange mantle. Orange also symbolizing her power and durability of Hymen. The young Princess of Wales received a bunch of orange flowers, with a true lover's knot, an entanglement well, called the Gordians, being the colour of flame. The cash of fidelity could not be taken unless the band was severed with the fluttering of orange veil. How beautifully, by its fragrance, flowers express thoughts which symbolically perfume the heart. During the late Royal visit to Ireland, the Prince of Wales's flower was so much in vogue that the cultivation of Louis XIV's orange-trees was a source of considerable expense, for the rose King of Ireland was the favourite flower in search of an auriferous. Great orange Flower Water, 2s. 6d. and 5s. per bottle. Orange Flower Soap, 1s. per tablet. Orange Flower Cream, 2s. per box. ELLEDGE'S, which no doubt will be in extraordinary demand, for once the Ladies will discard their favourite Frangipanni, and become enslaved with Orange-blossom.

NEW BOOKS.

NEW NOVELS.
Mrs. Gaskell's New Novel, now ready,
In three volumes, post 8vo.

SYLVIA'S LOVERS. By Mrs. GASKELL, Author of "Mary Barton," "Wives and Daughters," "Mary Barton," &c.

"ENTANGLEMENTS. By the Author of "Mr. Arle," "Cecil," "Friend and Foe," &c.

NORMANTON. By A. J. BARROWCLIFFE, Author of "Ascendency," "Fred Boyle," &c.

WINIFRED'S WOOING. By GEORGIANA M. CRAIK, Author of "Riverston," "Lost and Won," &c.

SMITH, ELDER, and Co., 65, Cornhill.

Just published, strong, price 3s. 6d., cloth,

LITTLE BY LITTLE; a Series of Graduated Lessons in the Art of Reading Music. By the Author of "Conversations on Harmony."

LAMPETT and FARLEY, Corner of St. Paul's-churchyard.

THE BOYS' OWN TOYMAKER. By E. LANDELLS. Sixth Edition, with 200 Engravings. Price 3s. 6d., cloth.

GIRLS' OWN TOYMAKER (The). Third Edition with 200 Engravings. Price 3s. 6d.

Perfect treasures to all who have children to be instructed and amused.

GRIFFITH and FARRAN, Corner of St. Paul's-churchyard.

CAT AND DOG; or, Puss and the Captain. Illustrated by H. Weir. Seventh Edition. 2s. 6d. cloth; gilt edges, 3s.

FRUITS OF ENTERPRISE, exhibited in the Travels of Belzoni in Egypt and Nubia. By Bernard Gilpin. Price 3s. cloth.

GRIFFITH and FARRAN, Corner of St. Paul's-churchyard.

This day is published,

NUPTIAL SECRETS; or, THE MARRIAGE of his Royal Highness THE PRINCE OF WALES. By W. HUMPHREY, Esq., Q.C.

Author of "Law of the Scottish Courts," &c. Price One Shilling.
WILLIAM BLACKWOOD and SONS, Edinburgh and London.

Just published,

In one vol., demy 8vo, cloth, price 18s.,

A MEMOIR OF JOHN BEWICK, A written by himself, Embellished by numerous Woodcuts and Tinyette Designs, and a Portrait of the Author, Etched by T. Bewick. British Fishes, and never before published. Also, "Bewick's History of Quadrupeds," 8vo, cloth, price 12s. London: Longman and Co., and Longman, Green, Longman, and Roberts.

Illustrated, cloth, price 1s.,

THE PRINCE CONSORT: his Life and Character. By the Author of "Men of the Time."

"We cordially recommend this simple, touching, and eloquent biographical sketch of the late lamented Prince Consort of Prince and of men. It is written in a manly Christian spirit. . . . We will not say more than that it is a model biography, and all who have had their public and private lives misrepresented will feel grateful."—Weekly Times.—London: S. W. PARTRIDGE, 9, Paternoster-row.

HERALDRY—Historical and Popular, by JOHN E. CUSSANS. Illustrated by 200 Engravings on Wood. London: WINSOR and NEWTON; and all Booksellers. Artists' Colourmen, &c.

Price 1s.; as an Album, 2s. 6d.,

HAND CATALOGUE of POSTAGE-STAMPS. By OBAT, of the British Museum.
London: W. S. Johnson, 49, Fleet-street.

Fcap 8vo, price 5s. 6d.,

HORSE WARBARRY. A Plain and Comprehensive Treatise on the Art of Horsemanship, showing which are essential, and which are unimportant. By F. BOWEN, Jun.
London: HARDWICKE, Piccadilly.

JOHN MARCH'S LEGACY. A New Novel, by the Author of "Aimee Black," commenced in the December Number of ONCE A WEEK MAGAZINE. Price One Shilling Monthly.—Office: 122, Fleet-street, London.

THE TRIALS OF THE TREDGOLDS. A New Story by the Author of "Ravenshoe," commenced in TEMPLE BAR MAGAZINE for February now ready. Price One Shilling Monthly.—Office: 215, Piccadilly.

This day, price 2s., ornamental boards,

THE ADVENTURERS. By GUSTAVE AIMARD. A Tale of the Prairies. "Mr. Aimard is unsurpassed in intensity of interest.—London: WARD and LOCK.

DECALCOMANIE, the New Art of Transferring Pictures (PATENTED). Instructions, post-free, 7 stamps. CLAUDET'S PHOTO-ENAMEL. Instructions, post-free, 7 stamps.—T. BERNARD, 29, Cornwall-ter-terrace, London, W.

GARDEN MANAGEMENT and ECONOMY. Now ready, in 1 vol. 8vo, cloth, price 12s. 6d., the Building and Fleitcroft Colonial Edition. Every Saturday, 1d.; Monthly, 5d.
London: S. O. BEETON, 18, Bouverie-street, E.C.

SPIRIT PHOTOGRAPHS.—Three Specimens, in which the Spirits of Deceased Relatives appear with the Sitters, sent post-free for 13 stamps.—Address, "Spiritual Magazine" for January and February, price 6d. each.
E. CLARKE, 13, Paternoster-row, E.C.

Eighteenth Edition, 8vo, cloth, 18s., post-free.

HOMŒOPATHIC DOMESTIC MEDICINE. By J. LAURIE, M.D. Containing plain and concise directions for indications for its exhibition and the dose to be administered. Comprising the Author's Treatment of Cholera, Fevers, Inflammations, Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, &c. Just published, an Epitome of the above work, price 1s., post-free, 13 stamps. Also, Dr. Laurie's Pocket Medicine Chest, with Book complete, 2l. 2s.
LEATH and ROSS, 9, Vere-st., Oxford-st., and 5, St. Paul's-ch.-yard.

Sixty-first Edition, bound, price 1s., post-free,

HOMŒOPATHY: Its Principles and Cure. A GUIDE; containing Plain Directions for the Domestic Treatment of Ordinary Ailments, with Characteristics of the Principal Remedies.
LEATH and ROSS, 9, St. Paul's-ch.-yard, and 9, Vere-st., Oxford-st.

Second Edition, price 5s., post-free,

HOMŒOPATHIC TREATMENT OF INDIGESTION, Constipation, and Piles. By W. MORGAN, M.D., Physician to the Hahnemann Hospital. Also, by the same Author, Plain Directions, Rules for Diet, Recipes for Delicacies which may be taken during the various stages of Disease, price 1s., post-free, 13 stamps.
LEATH and ROSS, 9, St. Paul's-ch.-yard, and 9, Vere-st., Oxford-st.

HOMŒOPATHIC BOOKS published by JAMES EPPS,
Seventh Edition, 12mo, 6s. cloth,

HANDBOOK OF HOMŒOPATHIC PRACTICE. By WALTER K. KELLY, M.D. Rules are supplied in this book, in a very compact and popular manner, for the treatment of all general diseases, and the remedies are selected with the greatest skill from those applicable to each case as seen at a glance.

Fifth Edition, 12mo, 6s. cloth,

DOMESTIC HOMŒOPATHY; or, the Family Physician and Nursery Guide. By post 12 stamps.

TWENTY-FOUR HOMŒOPATHIC REMEDIES FOR COMMON COMPLAINTS.

This compactly arranged Guide can be had locked in neat morocco pocket-case, containing the twenty-four, 21s.

THE DISEASES OF WOMEN. By Drs. WILLIAMSON and EPPS. In 8vo. 12s. cloth. This work, which has been dedicated to Women, is devoted at all familiarity, and prescribes the remedies and diet in each case. It is a complete, full manual in a most weapon, or monthly of fifty pages sixpence.

THE CONSTITUTION OF MAN CONSIDERED WITH reference to the Conception. By RICHARD EPPS, Surgeon. A popular exposition of the Physiology of Generation, in which the functions are successfully prescribed, and displaying the symptoms that specially accompany the various diseases.

JAMES EPPS, Homœopathic Chemist, 170, Piccadilly: 112, Great Russell-street, and 48, Threadneedle-street, London.

50,000 BIBLES, Prayer-books, and Church Services, Bible Dictionaries, Concordances, Books of Authors on Sale, in every variety of binding, at JOHN FIELD'S Bible Warehouse, 3, Paternoster-row, London.

FIELD'S GUINEA FAMILY BIBLE, large type, with Reference, fine Steel Plates, and best binding—a handsome volume. Price Fifteen Shillings. Bible, Reference, and 52 Wonderful Illustrations, in a beautiful binding, gilt. The readers of this Bible will find a Concordance, Dictionary, and Index from John Field's Great Bible Warehouse, 3, Paternoster-row.

Price 1s.; per post, 1s. 3d.; or abridged copy, 3 stamps,

MILES ON ARTIFICIAL TEETH, as best adapted for Mastication, Speech, Appearance, and on Sucking Teeth. To be had of the Author, EDWARD MILES, Surgeon Dentist, 18, Liverpool-street, Bishopsgate-street, City, London.

NEW BOOKS.

Dedicated by permission to her Royal Highness the Princess Louis of Hesse.

THE BENEFITS OF THE LANCASHIRE FUND. This day, price 2s., handsomely printed and bound, JESSY'S WEDDING-RING, and other Poems. By A LADY.

London: HALL and CO., 25, Paternoster-row. Sold by C. and B. Haigh, 55, High-street, Bideford, North Devon.

Now ready, New Edition for 1863, with the new Baronets, &c.,

CLARK'S PEERAGE, BARONETAGE, KNIGHTAGE, &c., for 1863 (Twenty-third Year), containing the new Peers, Baronets, Knights, Bishops, Privy Councillors, Judges, &c., corrected throughout on the highest authority.

HARRISON and CO., 59, Pall-mall, Publishers to the Queen.

Next Week will be issued, in 2 vols. 8vo, with chromo-lithographic illustrations,

THE POLAR CAPTIVITY; an Account of the Present Position and Prospects of the Polar Regions. By Dr. HENRY KANE, Author of "Explorations of Arctic Regions," &c. By H. SUTHERLAND EDWARDS.
London: SAMPSON LOW, MARSTON, LOW, and SEARLE, 169, Fleet-street, E.C.

Now ready, crown 8vo, price 8s.,

ILLUSTRATIONS OF THE BEAUTIES OF ORTHOGRAPHY, SECRET AND HISTORY OF ORTHOGRAPHICAL DEVIATIONS and Explanatory. By the Author of "The Rambles of a Rhymer."

"This is a work of considerable merit, in which the author, after several graceful poetic descriptions of the scenery in the tropics, and of the manners and customs of the natives, has added to a large portion of the work a valuable account of the natural history of the islands of the Western Archipelago and Spanish Main. . . . The author has evidently been a careful observer, and has written with a graceful pen; and we may fairly congratulate the author upon the successful manner in which he has performed a task which will be found a valuable aid for the subsequent voyage of the intelligent traveller."—Morning Post.

"He has happily selected a poetical sentiment with much fitness."—Daily News.

"The volume is adorned with a striking portrait of Columbus."—Illustrated News.—London: ROBERT HARDWICKE, 192, Piccadilly.

COMPANION TO THE BALLROOM; or, Hints to Ladies and Gentlemen on the Art of Dancing. By Miss LEONORA GERAY, containing a clear Description of the Modern Dances, with Illustrations.

"Miss Geray, Mr. BUTCHELL, Royal Library, 20, Old Bond-street; and at her residence, 3, Lisle-street, Leicester-square. Price 1s., post-free, 13 stamps.

THE LITTLE MODELLER; How to make a Cardboard Railway. 40 Coloured Engravings. Post-free, 2 stamps.

HOW TO MAKE A MODEL VILLAGE. 48 Coloured Engravings. Post-free, 2 stamps.—London: ROUTLEDGE, WARNE, and ROUTLEDGE, 32, Ludgate-hill, and 56, New Bridge-street.

NEW MONTHLY JOURNAL. Price 6d. This day is published No. I., price 6d., of the WORK OF THE CHRISTIAN CENTURY: a Church Journal. Edited by STEPHEN H. TYNG, D.D., assisted by numerous Clergymen and Laymen of various denominations.

"Its aim is to be a Church paper, and not a political one, or one devoted to the support of any party. . . . We cannot pass over Mr. Stephen Tyng's name without a word. He is a man of apostolic simplicity and manly earnestness."—The Standard, Feb. 27.

"The Christian Century" is the name of a new weekly publication, which has been started in the City of Kinken, and is now published at No. 54, Fulton-street, New York. . . . A special word of greeting to Mr. Stephen Tyng, the Editor, whose name is a household word in the Episcopal Church."—The Tablet, Feb. 28.

THE NEW EDITION ALBUM for 1863, a Superb Musical Gift, Price 21s., Illustrated.

MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS PUBLISHED for Authors by ROBERT COCKS and CO.

ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S PIANOFORTES, in Walnut or Rosewood Cases, with Trichord and Overstrung Grand Actions, Iron Bridges, Trichord Treble, Check Action, Metallic Tuning Pins, Sostenuto, Manover-stop, &c.

Sixteen Guineas.

Agents for India: Messrs. ROBERTSON and Co., Music Publishers, Calcutta. Messrs. WILLIAMS and NORGATE, Edinburgh. Mr. Ku Lee, Bookseller to the Viceroy and Governor-General of India.

HENRY FARMER'S VIOLIN SOLO with Accompaniments for Pianoforte
No. 1. Home, Sweet Home ... ... 3s.
2. Last Rose of Summer, ... 3s.
3. Auld Lang Syne ... ... 3s.
Price 3s. each.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 123, Chepside.

HENRY FARMER'S GEORGIANA VALSE. Price 4s. each, Solo and Duet.
Price 4s. each, Solo and Duet.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 123, Chepside.

HENRY FARMER'S NEW PIANOFORTE TUTOR. Price 4s. "This is decidedly the most useful and best instruction book that has come under our notice."—Musical Review.—London: J. WILLIAMS, 123, Holborn-bars.

HENRY FARMER.—PROSERPINE WALTZ. Played at Cremorne in October by Coote. Price 4s.; Duet, 6s.—London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S CHRISTMAS QUADRILLES. Price, Solo, 3s.; Duet, 4s.; Septet, 3s. 6d.; Orchestra, 5s. Beautifully Illustrated. Each Quadrille has a most unrivalled popularity.—JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Holborn-bars.

THE ORIGINAL LANCERS. Arranged by HARRY FARMER. Price 4s. each, Solo and Duet.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S ALEXANDRA LANCERS. Price 4s. each, Solo and Duet.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S ALBERT EDWARD QUADRILLES. Price 4s. each, Solo and Duet.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S PRINCE OF WALES' QUADRILLES. Price 4s.; Duet, 4s.; Orchestra, 5s.
JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

BRIGHTEST HOPE OF ENGLAND'S HEART.—New Song composed in honour of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales by W. WEST. Price 4s.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 123, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

FLEURETTES MUSICALES.
Twelve Favourite Pieces by F. T. STONE.
1. The Maiden's Prayer. 2. Home, Sweet Home.
3. Last Rose of Summer. 4. Auld Lang Syne.
5. Marilly, marilly, over the Snow. 6. Wer ein pin nun ei mein
7. Sweet Dreams. 8. Come, let us be merry and jolly
9. Rosalie, the Prairie Flower 10. Robin Adair
11. Nelly Gray 12. Hunting Song
Price 4s. each.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside.

THE MUSICAL SUCCESS OF THE SEASON.
HEMINGWAY'S PRINCE OF WALES QUADRILLE. Price 4s. Beautifully Illustrated with Portrait in Colours.—HEMINGWAY and SON, 9, Wardour-street, W.

PEARSON'S MUSIC.—Royal Bridal Galop, with Portraits of the Bride and Bridegroom, 3s. Floral Fancies, Illustrated, 3s. Bridal Reminiscences, 3s. Bridal Reminiscences, Illustrated, 3s. Bridal Waltzes, Illustrated by Brandard, 3s. Bridal Quadrilles, Illustrated by Brandard, 3s. Bridal Polka, 3s. 6d. 104, Great Russell-street, W.C. All Music half price and post-free.

ETTIE VALSES, By G. RENNIE HARRISON. Illustrated in Colours by ROBERT W. OLLIVIER, 19, Old Bond-street.

THE SPINNING-WHEEL (copyright), as sung by Mr. Sims Reeves, Mr. Santley, and Mr. Swift. Every Edition of the Scotch Songs. Free by post for twenty stamps.
Catalogues of Scotch Songs, Dances, and Bagpipe Music free.

THE BRIDE ELECT. WELCOME TO ENGLAND. Song. By CHARLES JEFFERYS and HERBERT GLOVER. Illustrated in Colours by ROBERT W. OLLIVIER, Queen Victoria-street, E.C.
CHARLES JEFFERYS, Solo-square, W.

THE SLEEP OF SORROW AND THE MAN OF SORROWS. Sacred Song. Words by Stephen Glover. Illustrated with a representation of Mount Calvary, and the Crucifixion. Price 4s. Also, the Sacred Song, Jesus sought and found, and Jesus found and sought. Each, Music-size, 4s. Post-free for 18 stamps.—CHARLES JEFFERYS, 21, Soho-square.

THE BRIDAL ALBUM, containing the Bridal Song, Bridal Waltz, Bridal Polka, and the "Honeymoon" Galop. Full music size, and printed from engraved plates, with three elegant illustrations. Price 4s. 6d. stamps.
CHARLES JEFFERYS, 21, Soho-square.

ENGLAND'S HOPE AND PRIDE; a Patriotic Song and Princess Polka. Arranged for Piano by CHARLES JEFFERYS. Illustrated in Colours from other Photos of the Bride and Her Royal Consort. Price 4s. each.

THE ANGLO-DANISH QUADRILLE, by E. L. BIME, price 4s., sent at half price. Most of the quadrilles made perform this favourite valse: it is graceful and elegant, cannot fail to please.—DUFF and HODGSON, 20, Oxford-street.

NEW SONGS.—"GENTLE BESSIE" and "BIRD OF THE WILDERNESS." New Songs by BLAND, composed for and sung by Mr. Sims Reeves. Mr. Kennedy is singing "Bird of the Wilderness" in Scotland. Post-free for 18 stamps.—DUFF and HODGSON, 20, Oxford-street.

NEW MUSIC.

ROBERT COCKS AND CO.'S LIST OF NEW MUSICAL PUBLICATIONS.
HAIL! BLESS THE PRINCE OF WALES. By BRINLEY RICHARDS. Sung with Chorus all the Evening by George Lake, Esq., at the Concert of the Duke of Cambridge. Mr. Sims Reeves, at the Concert of the St. George's Rifles, and at the Evening Concert at Mr. Beresford's Assembly Concert, and by Mr. Henry Farmer at the St. James's Hall; at the Festivals of St. David's Day, at Freemasons' Hall, and at the Cambrian Concert, respectively, by Mr. Brinley Richards, Mr. Lewis Thomas, Vocal Associations, the St. George's Choir, accompanied by the Band of the Grenadier Guards, at the Duke of Cambridge's Levée. Each, 4s. 6d.

NB. ON THE PRINCE'S WEDDING DAY "God bless the Prince of Wales" will be sung by the Choir of the Chapel Royal, St. James's, the Choir of Westminster Abbey, the Choristers of the National and other Schools throughout England and Wales, and by upwards of 1000 school children at Windsor, who will perform the National Anthem and the song twice and post-free. Applications are requested to insure a seat.

ALL BLESS THE PRINCE OF WALES. By CHARLES JEFFERYS. With a four-part Song, with accompaniment ad lib. for Piano. 2s.

ALL BLESS THE PRINCE OF WALES. Arranged for Piano. By Brinley Richards. 3s.

THE BRIDE ELECT. PRINCE OF WALES. Piano Duet. By Brinley Richards. 4s. each.

THE ALBERT EDWARD MARCH. For Piano. By Brinley Richards. 3s. each.

THE ALBERT EDWARD MARCH. Arranged for Military Band. By C. Godfrey, Bandmaster Coldstream Guards. 4s. each.

THE ALEXANDRA MARCH (Quick). For Piano. By Carl Faust. With very fine Portrait of her Royal Highness. 4s. each.

THE ALEXANDRA POLKA. For Piano. By A. Wrighton. 4s. each.

THE FAIR DANE WALTZ. By Alphonse Leduc. 4s.

THE FAIR DANE QUADRILLE. By Alphonse Leduc. 4s.

THE ALEXANDRA GALOP. For Piano. By CHARLES MACKNIGHT. Composed by her late Royal Highness the DUCHESS of KENT. 4s. each.

THE BRIDAL WALTZ. By HENRY GERMAN. With Chromo Cover (3d Edition). Words by W. H. Bellamy. Music by C. W. Martin. 3s.

THE BRIDAL QUADRILLE. By HENRY GERMAN. With Chromo Cover (3d Edition). Words by W. H. Bellamy. 4s. and 24s. Wood Portraits. Two books. 4s. each.

BRINLEY RICHARDS'S SHILLING BOOK OF WALTZES. For Piano. Twenty books, 2s. each; or, in one elegant vol., bound, 21s.

BRINLEY RICHARDS'S SHILLING BOOK OF QUADRILLES. For Piano. Twenty books, 2s. each; or, in one elegant vol., bound, 21s.

Demanded. 2s. 6d. "We cannot pass over Mr. Brinley Richards's pleasing and tasteful Waltzes, and his admirable Quadrilles, and the marches known which follow."—The Standard, Feb. 27.

THE ROYAL WEDDING MARCH. By W. Kitchen. For Piano, 3s.; Full Orchestra, 5s.; Military Band, 4s.; Septet, 3s. 6d.

THE ROYAL WEDDING MARCH. By Miss Lindsay. For Piano, 3s. each. A special word of praise of Mr. Sims Reeves's singing of "Home, Sweet Home," at the Concert of the Duke of Cambridge, Feb. 27.

THE ROYAL WEDDING ALBUM for 1863, a Superb Musical Gift, Price 21s., Illustrated.

MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS PUBLISHED for Authors by ROBERT COCKS and CO.

ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S PIANOFORTES, in Walnut or Rosewood Cases, with Trichord and Overstrung Grand Actions, Iron Bridges, Trichord Treble, Check Action, Metallic Tuning Pins, Sostenuto, Manover-stop, &c.

Sixteen Guineas.

Agents for India: Messrs. ROBERTSON and Co., Music Publishers, Calcutta. Messrs. WILLIAMS and NORGATE, Edinburgh. Mr. Ku Lee, Bookseller to the Viceroy and Governor-General of India.

HENRY FARMER'S VIOLIN SOLO with Accompaniments for Pianoforte
No. 1. Home, Sweet Home ... ... 3s.
2. Last Rose of Summer, ... 3s.
3. Auld Lang Syne ... ... 3s.
Price 3s. each.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 123, Chepside.

HENRY FARMER'S GEORGIANA VALSE. Price 4s. each, Solo and Duet.
Price 4s. each, Solo and Duet.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 123, Chepside.

HENRY FARMER'S NEW PIANOFORTE TUTOR. Price 4s. "This is decidedly the most useful and best instruction book that has come under our notice."—Musical Review.—London: J. WILLIAMS, 123, Holborn-bars.

HENRY FARMER.—PROSERPINE WALTZ. Played at Cremorne in October by Coote. Price 4s.; Duet, 6s.—London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S CHRISTMAS QUADRILLES. Price, Solo, 3s.; Duet, 4s.; Septet, 3s. 6d.; Orchestra, 5s. Beautifully Illustrated. Each Quadrille has a most unrivalled popularity.—JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Holborn-bars.

THE ORIGINAL LANCERS. Arranged by HARRY FARMER. Price 4s. each, Solo and Duet.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S ALEXANDRA LANCERS. Price 4s. each, Solo and Duet.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S ALBERT EDWARD QUADRILLES. Price 4s. each, Solo and Duet.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S PRINCE OF WALES' QUADRILLES. Price 4s.; Duet, 4s.; Orchestra, 5s.
JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

BRIGHTEST HOPE OF ENGLAND'S HEART.—New Song composed in honour of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales by W. WEST. Price 4s.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 123, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

FLEURETTES MUSICALES.
Twelve Favourite Pieces by F. T. STONE.
1. The Maiden's Prayer. 2. Home, Sweet Home.
3. Last Rose of Summer. 4. Auld Lang Syne.
5. Marilly, marilly, over the Snow. 6. Wer ein pin nun ei mein
7. Sweet Dreams. 8. Come, let us be merry and jolly
9. Rosalie, the Prairie Flower 10. Robin Adair
11. Nelly Gray 12. Hunting Song
Price 4s. each.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside.

THE MUSICAL SUCCESS OF THE SEASON.
HEMINGWAY'S PRINCE OF WALES QUADRILLE. Price 4s. Beautifully Illustrated with Portrait in Colours.—HEMINGWAY and SON, 9, Wardour-street, W.

PEARSON'S MUSIC.—Royal Bridal Galop, with Portraits of the Bride and Bridegroom, 3s. Floral Fancies, Illustrated, 3s. Bridal Reminiscences, 3s. Bridal Reminiscences, Illustrated, 3s. Bridal Waltzes, Illustrated by Brandard, 3s. Bridal Quadrilles, Illustrated by Brandard, 3s. Bridal Polka, 3s. 6d. 104, Great Russell-street, W.C. All Music half price and post-free.

ETTIE VALSES, By G. RENNIE HARRISON. Illustrated in Colours by ROBERT W. OLLIVIER, 19, Old Bond-street.

THE SPINNING-WHEEL (copyright), as sung by Mr. Sims Reeves, Mr. Santley, and Mr. Swift. Every Edition of the Scotch Songs. Free by post for twenty stamps.
Catalogues of Scotch Songs, Dances, and Bagpipe Music free.

THE BRIDE ELECT. WELCOME TO ENGLAND. Song. By CHARLES JEFFERYS and HERBERT GLOVER. Illustrated in Colours by ROBERT W. OLLIVIER, Queen Victoria-street, E.C.
CHARLES JEFFERYS, Solo-square, W.

THE SLEEP OF SORROW AND THE MAN OF SORROWS. Sacred Song. Words by Stephen Glover. Illustrated with a representation of Mount Calvary, and the Crucifixion. Price 4s. Also, the Sacred Song, Jesus sought and found, and Jesus found and sought. Each, Music-size, 4s. Post-free for 18 stamps.—CHARLES JEFFERYS, 21, Soho-square.

THE BRIDAL ALBUM, containing the Bridal Song, Bridal Waltz, Bridal Polka, and the "Honeymoon" Galop. Full music size, and printed from engraved plates, with three elegant illustrations. Price 4s. 6d. stamps

NEW MUSIC.

WANDERINGS AT MORN. By J. von JOEL. A charming solo, replete with melody and effect. Intended as the companion to "Wanderings at Eve," and within the reach of ordinary performers. Price 3s. 6d.—ADDISON, 210, Regent-street, W.

ANGELS LISTEN WHEN SHE SPEAKS. Words by J. R. CARPENTER, and Music by R. L. HINE. This is a most fascinating ballad, full of deep pathos and sublimity; perfectly enchanting. Price 3s. 6d.—FALCONER, 6, Saint-Mary-axe, W.

LOVE'S WHISPER WALTZ. By R. F. HARVEY. Composed expressly for the Prince of Wales' Royal Wedding Ball. Splendidly illustrated. Price 4s. FALCONER, 6, Saint-Mary-axe, W.

LANGTON WILLIAMS' MOST ADMIRED SONGS.

I'VE ALWAYS A WELCOME FOR THEE, 12th Edition. One of the sweetest of the day. Price 3s. 6d.

THE SPIRIT OF SPRING. Just published. Sung by Mdlle. PETTE. Price 3s. 6d.

THE CHILD'S PRAYER. Just published. Sung by Mr. Sims Reeves. Price 3s. 6d.

FAILLIE, THEY DEEM THEE NOT FORGOTTEN NOW. Sung by Miss Poole. Price 3s. 6d.

"Oh, could that my heart." Just published. Sung by Miss Rosalind Gilchrist. Price 3s. 6d.

THE TWO LETTERS. Just published. Price 3s. 6d.

Post-free for stamps. All New Music half-price.

W. WILLIAMS and CO., 221 Tottenham-court-road.

THE ADVENTURES OF NANTES. Libretto by J. V. BRIDGEMAN. Music by M. W. BALFE.

"A story so lovely, by lovely hands planned." Sung by Mr. Sandby.

"Oh, could that my heart." Sung by Mr. H. Wilson.

"There's one who ne'er can rest, in love, or." Sung by Miss Rose Hersee.

"O love, heart's fire, a real love live." Sung by Mr. Wilbye Cooper.

"Oh, could that my heart." Sung by Miss Louisa Pyne. Price 3s. 6d.

Pianoforte Arrangements by Benedict, Rosier, Rimmer, Glover, Eyken, Galloway, and Richardson. Price 4s. each.

ADDISON and LUCAS, 210, Regent-street, London.

THE CORONATION MARCH AND HYMN, THE PRINCE OF OUR REALM LAND. By CHARLES LINLEY. Sung by Mr. Sandford Cleaver. Pianoforte Duet by Brinley Richards. Price 3s. 6d.—ADDISON and LUCAS, 210, Regent-street.

THE MOST POPULAR SACRED SONG, SUNDAY. PEARL OF PAIN. By W. WEST. Post-free for 18 stamps; or post-free for Two Voices for 24 stamps.

"Sunday." By E. WILLIAMS, 11, Paternoster-row.

LAST NEW DANCE MUSIC.—With Illustrated Titles. Post-free for half the published price.

THE COPENHAGEN WALTZ. Performed at the Princess Alexandra's Wedding Ball. Illustrated with Portraits. Price 24 stamps.

THE PRINCE OF WALES' GALOP. A CHILD DRESSED IN BLUE FOLLY. Price 24 stamps each.

E. WILLIAMS, 11, Paternoster-row.

THOSE EVENING BELLS.—Just published, a new arrangement of this beautiful melody. By BERNARD RICHARDS. Price 3s.; Duet, 4s. A. HAMMOND and CO. (late J. Williams), 24, Seymour-street, Euston-square.

G. GRETTON'S PIANOFORTE WORKS, 4s.; Reds and Blues, 3s.; Der Heerm-tanz, 4s.; The Watchtower, 4s.; Les Cloches de Corneville, 4s.; Le Carillon, 4s., &c. CHAPPELL, BRAGE, and WOOD, 50, Regent-street.

DISTIN and CO.'S PRIZE MEDAL.—Brass Instruments, manufactured on the Improved Principles of Adolphe Sax, and Patented by Distin. Every Instrument Lacquered. Silver and Electro-plated. Illustrated Lists post-free.

MUSICAL-BOX DEPÔTS, 56, Cheapside, and 18, Regent-street. Handel Largo, Mozart Twelfth Mass 21 per air. Beethoven 18s. to 42s. Cabinets of every size and price. Catalogues post-free on application to WALLIS and CO., as above.

BUTLER'S BRASS-BAND INSTRUMENTS, Cornets, Saxhorns, Circular Vibrating Horns, Trums, Flutes, &c., are all constructed on the improved system, and sold at much below those of any other English house. A written guarantee with every instrument. Illustrated Catalogues, Gratis and Post-free. 34, Charing-cross, near Nelson's Statue.

HOME AMUSEMENTS.—BAGATELLE BOARDS of the best make, Price 10s. 6d. complete. Ditto, Inlaid and Polished, and Ivory Balls, 21s. complete. Lists post-free on application.—ASSER and SHERWIN, 81, Strand, W.C., Billiard Makers.

EAU-DE-VIE.—This Pure PALE BRANDY, 16 years old, is recommended by eminent Importers of Cognac, in French bottles, 20s. per doz.; in a case for the country, 20s. Carriage paid. Terms.—HENRY BRETT and CO., 20, Mincing-lane, Fenchurch-street, London, E.C.; and 36, Regent-street, S.W. New Cavendish-street, corner of Wigmore-street.

EPPS'S COCOA, 4d., 8d., 1s., and 1s. 6d., in labelled packets.

JAMES EPPS and CO., Homœopathic Chemists, 170, New Bond-street, London.

KEEN'S GENUINE MUSTARD, made with the greatest care from the finest Durham seed. The distinguished superiority of a mustary for purity and strength, has received the Royal Warrant for the public supply of HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN. FIRST MANUFACTURED, 1742.

Sold by most Grocers and Oilmen in London, and in 1 lb., 2 lb., and 4 lb. canisters.

KEEN, ROBINSON, BELLVILLE, and CO., Garlick-hill, London.

KINGSFORD'S OSWEGO PREPARED CORN, Puddings, Custards, Blancmange, &c. The original and genuine American preparation of Indian corn. Sold everywhere.

No other article in America or England has the right to the title of "Original."

HORNIMAN'S PURE TEA, "always good and uniform," imported and not covered with powdered colour to hide the bad quality. Sold in packets only, by agents in every town.

GLENFIELD PATENT STARCH, awarded the Prize Medal, 1862, "for the unrivalled Starch," USED IN THE ROYAL LAUNDRY, and pronounced by her Majesty's Laundress to be "the Best Starch I have ever used." HER MAJESTY'S LAUNDRESS. Sold by all Grocers, Oilmen, and Chandlers. THE BEST SILK HAS FRIED; and the most careful, by means of the most eminent CONFIDENCE IN THE QUALITY. WORTHLEY, SON and CO., Liverpool and London.

JUDSON'S SIMPLE DYES FOR LADIES, 6d. per bottle. Any one can use them. Ten brilliant colours 12 Stamps. Judson, 33, Southampton-street, Strand.

NO MORE ERUPTIONS ON THE SKIN. MOLLARD'S PERFUMED TOILET SULPHUR SOAP and CREAM eradicate every impurity and unpleasant smell, are sovereign remedies for all cutaneous eruptions, rheumatism, pains in the joints, &c. The Cream produces a delightful softness and renewed freshness of the skin. Recommended by the most eminent physicians. Pamphlets and testimonials sent on application. Soap, 2s. 6d.; Cream, 3s. 6d. Sold by all Perfumers, and at the Establishment, 23, Old Bond-street, W. Manufactory, 37, Oxford-street; 2, Vigo-street, Regent-street; and 2, Burlington-arcade, W.

STEO-EIDON.—PATENT, No. 660, for the most effective protective poison tasteless, odorless MURAL, and FLEXIBLE COMPOSITION, without pulleys, springs, or wires, and without the inconvenience of machinery. Sold by the Patentees, 3, Hanover-square, and 33, Cornhill; and 24, Hatton-garden, E.C. Henley-street, Liverpool-road, and 34, Lothbury-hill, Liverpool. Sold by all Ironmongers. Our talking puppets from empty patterns.

"Practical Treatise on the Teeth," gratis.

CURE THAT WEEK OF A YEARS' ASTHMA, BY DR. LOCOCK'S PULMONIC WAFERS. From Mr. T. Wells, Wholesale Druggist, Hadley, March 3, 1863: being disturbed by her cough and unable to sleep the whole of the night without relief, she took one of Dr. Locock's Pulmonic Wafers, and found herself so much relieved that she has not been able to keep more than a very short time. Dr. Locock's Wafers have been for the last fourteen years Sold at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 4s. 6d. per box, by all druggists.

DINNEFORD'S FLUID MAGNESIA is an excellent remedy for Acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Sick-headache, Gout, and Indigestion, and as a mild aperient for Children and Invalids. It is the only preparation of Magnesia which does not gritate the coats of the stomach, and is universally recommended by the faculty as the most effectual solvent for Gravel and Stone in the bladder. Sold by all Chemists, 172, New Bond-street, London; and all Chemists.

PLATE.—A. B. SAVORY and SONS, Manufacturing Silversmiths, 11 and 12, Cornhill, London, (opposite the Bank). The best wrought SILVER SPOONS and FORKS, Fiddle Pattern. Thread. King's. Lily. Old Engl. Double Thread. Many other patterns recently finished, plain or highly ornamented.

	£ s. d.		£ s. d.
Fiddle Pattern. Os.	0 4 6	Queen's Pattern. Os.	0 5 6
12 Table Spoons	2 0 0	12 Table Spoons	2 12 0
12 Dessert Ditto	1 7 6	12 Dessert Ditto	1 15 0
12 Tea Ditto	0 18 0	12 Tea Ditto	1 4 0
12 Dessert Forks	1 10 0	12 Dessert Forks	2 0 0
2 Gravy Spoons	0 9 0	2 Gravy Spoons	0 12 0
1 Soup Ditto	0 7 0	1 Soup Ditto	0 11 0
4 Sauce Ditto	0 8 0	4 Sauce Ditto	0 16 0
6 Egg Spoons	0 6 0	6 Egg Spoons	0 12 0
1 Mustard Spoon	0 0 6	1 Mustard Spoon	0 1 0
12 Tea Spoons	0 12 0	12 Tea Spoons	0 18 0
1 Pair Sugar Tongs	0 2 6	1 Pair Sugar Tongs	0 3 6

A pamphlet is published, with 850 Engravings, as a guide to the Purchaser of Plate, Cutlery, Stoves, Fenders, Lamps, Baths, Bedsteads, Tables, Desks, tea and coffee urns, and table glass, with price lists of ornamental plate for private use or presentation; also, of the Stock of Messrs. Elkington, containing a large variety of watches, clocks, and jewellery. Gratis on application, and post-free to any part of the United Kingdom.

The Stock and Show-rooms, 11 and 12, Cornhill, with large Illustrographic Engravings of plate kept ready for presentation.

NOS. 77 and 78, OXFORD-STREET. MAPPIN and COMPANY'S DRESSING-CASES, TRAVELLING-BAGS fitted with their unrivalled cutlery and every article of luxury and convenience of the first quality.

Dress and Travelling Bags.

	Leather	Enamel	Morocco	Wide
Ladies' Travelling-bag	£ 1 5 0	£ 1 10 0	£ 1 15 0	£ 2 0 0
Ditto, with writing materials	2 13 0	3 3 0	3 10 0	4 0 0
Gentleman's Travelling-bag	3 10 0	3 15 0	3 18 0	4 15 0
Ditto, with writing materials	4 5 0	4 10 0	5 0 0	7 10 0

Every article of the best manufacture, replaceable by quality and pattern.

Ladies' Wood Dressing-case, with 11 fine cut bottles ... £ 2 10 0 | £ 4 0 0 | £ 6 10 0
Gentlemen's Ditto, with 10 fine cut bottles ... 2 10 0 | 4 0 0 | 6 10 0
Leather Ditto ... 0 10 6 | 0 18 0 | 1 5 0 | 1 16 0

Both in quality, and workmanship, the most completely fitted ... 0 14 6 | 1 10 0 | 2 0 0 | 2 13 0

Repairs and Carriage Paid to any part of the Country.

Each article bears the Maker's name, and is to be had in the best manner with Cutlery, &c., and are undoubtedly the most complete Dressing-case and Travelling-bag Warehouse in the Kingdom. The Stock numbers the Numbers of the Right Honourable 77 and 78, Oxford-street, corner of Wrinsley-street

Manufactory, Queen's Cutlery Works, Sheffield, and Regent-street, London.

CAUTION.

MAPPIN AND COMPANY

Have no connection by trade or name with any House in Sheffield, and the Public for the daily-increasing support they have received since the opening of their Establishment, 77 and 78, OXFORD-STREET, end to respectfully request that every parcel sent to them by post may be addressed

Nos. 77 and 78, Oxford-street

as several mistakes have occurred of late, many parcels, intended for them, having been delivered by mistake at other numbers in consequence of a small shop, exhibiting their premises, having been opened in Oxford-street from similar business, by a builder from the Strand.

Please observe carefully the address,

77 and 78, Oxford-street.

MILITARY CANTEENS for Officers, £10 each, Oak Cases, containing the following:—

FULL-SIZED SPOONS AND FORKS, Brought forward ... £5 15 8

	£ s. d.		£ s. d.
6 Table spoons	0 15 0	1 Cruet frame	0 7 6
6 Table forks	0 15 0	1 Pair sugar tongs	0 3 6
6 Dessert spoons	0 12 0	1 Pair fish carvers	0 7 6
6 Dessert forks	0 12 0	1 Marrow scoop	0 2 6
6 Tea spoons	0 8 0	6 Table knives	0 11 0
1 Gravy spoon	0 5 0	6 Dessert knives	0 9 0
1 Soup ditto	0 7 0	1 Pair of meat carvers	0 7 6
1 Pair fish carvers	0 7 6	1 Steel for ditto	0 2 6
1 Mustard spoon	0 1 0	1 Pair game carvers	0 5 0
1 Mustard spoon	0 1 0	Oak chest ...	1 14 0
Carried forward ...	£5 15 8	Complete ...	£10 0 0

MAPPIN BROTHERS, Manufacturers to the Queen and Prince, 222, Regent-street; and 67 and 68, King William-street, London-bridge. Queen's Cutlery Works, Sheffield. Manufactory, Queen's Plate and Cutlery Works, Sheffield.

ORNAMENTS for the MANTELPIECE, &c. Large and choice selection, including among other articles, Groups of Statuary Marble, Parian, and Ormolu; Vases of Foreign and Porcelain Bronze, marble, and gilt—not-shire Bronze—Lustres, Candelabra, Clocks, Timepieces, Candlesticks, &c.

ALFRED B. FRANCE, 23, Lodgate-hill, E.C. Established 1820.

J. MAPLE and CO.'S BEDSTEADS, in Iron and Brass, Cots, Sofas, fitted with Furniture and Bedding complete. Full-size Iron Bedsteads, 12s. 6d.

J. MAPLE and CO.'S FIRST-CLASS FURNITURE.

The Furgeon Chair ... ... 3l guineas.
The Prince of Wales Couch ... ... 8l guineas.
The Chesterfield ... ... 8l guineas.
The Eugénie Easy Chair ... ... 25s.
The Prince of Wales Easy Chair ... ... 25s.
Extension, 145, Tottenham-court-road.

J. MAPLE and CO.'S NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE, containing Fifty Engravings of artistic designs, Twenty Coloured Panels, and a Sheet of any class, post-free. This is the largest and most complete Catalogue of Furniture ever published, and is free to all Purchasers.

J. MAPLE and CO. for CARPETS. Magnificent Brussels, at ... ... 2s. 6d. per yard.
Choice Pile Velvets, at ... ... 3s. 6d. per yard.
Axminster Carpets, at ... ... 3s. 6d. ,,
Extension, 145, Tottenham-court-road.

LE SOMMIER ÉLASTIQUE PORTATIF, the most luxurious and healthful Bed in existence, and the usual Spring Mattress is too heavy, and cumbersome for the Bedroom. The Sommier Élastique Portatif is portable, and can be carried about in the hand, requires no fixing, and is therefore light and portable: it is also cheap and durable. Prospectuses and Testimonials sent free by post. Manufactory and Warehouse, 3, Crown-court, Soho-square.

BEAL and SON'S ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE, containing Engravings and Prices of their Stock of 150 different Bedsteads, Bedding, and Bedroom Furniture, sent free by post.—Beal and Son, Tottenham-court-road, and Mortimer-street.

FURNITURE CARRIAGE-FREE to any Part of the Kingdom.

Drawing-room Suites, complete £20 0 0
Dining-room Suites, complete 20 0 0
Handsome Bedsteads 5 5 0

P. and S. BEYFUS, 116, OXFORD-STREET.

Illustrated Catalogues gratis and post-free on application.

TO CONNOISSEURS of ANTIQUE FURNITURE.—A beautiful SUITE of GOTHIC DINING-ROOM FURNITURE, in Oak, of the richest and most decidedly new sorts. Consists of 12 high-backed chairs and a couch, in the finest hide leather, with a massive sideboard, fitted with every requisite, with plate warmer, and a superb sideboard fairly carved in relief. For sale, the whole of the above, at 50 GUINEAS, the cost of the leather chairs, &c., alone. 34, Bernard-street, Russell-square.

SUPERIOR OAK DINING-ROOM SUITE of FURNITURE, consisting of ten massive chairs, with spring seats, upholstered in the best hide leather, a massive sideboard, with large plate glass back, a set of circular telescope dining-tables; the whole of the above of the best workmanship and solid leather hide; a handsome Turkey carpet, and fender and fire-irons, complete, in the finest style of modern taste, and will be sold for nearly half its value. Apply at 34, Bernard-street, Russell-square, W.C.

FURNITURE.—A rare opportunity now offers for choosing DRAWING-ROOM FURNITURE, in consequence of the Proprietor's declining business. The fashionable designs and quality, at an extremely low price. The drawing-room suites are covered with rich green and gold silk damask, and are elegantly chased and richly carved, and are unique. Also, a handsome walnut-tree suite, in rich brocatelle, a sofa, table, and fancy chairs, beautiful chiffonier cabinet, three costly occasional chairs, and a variety of other articles. Interior prices for this beautiful suite, 45 guineas. The dining-room is in mahogany, covered in morocco, and consists of a sideboard, telescope dining-table, set, 20 chairs, handsome couch, 3 arms, a sofa, table, and fancy chairs, beautiful chiffonier cabinet, three costly occasional chairs, and a variety of other articles. Interior prices for this beautiful suite, 45 guineas. The dining-room is in mahogany, covered in morocco, and consists of a sideboard, telescope dining-table, set, 20 chairs, handsome couch, 3 arms, a sofa, table, and fancy chairs, beautiful chiffonier cabinet, three costly occasional chairs, and a variety of other articles. Interior prices for this beautiful suite, 45 guineas. These and various other suites, in mahogany, oak, and walnut-tree, are now on view at 34, Bernard-street, Russell-square, W.C., and 3, Crown-court, Soho-square, W. Catalogues, containing 300 Designs, gratis. Country orders carriage-free.

BEAUTIFUL FOR EVER.—MADAME RACHEL on Fossile Ores and Beauty. A book of beauty. Just published. 29 Sc bed at Mdme. Rachel's 47a, New Bond-street. Price 5s. 6d.

GREAT SALE OF NEW SPRING SILKS, &c., at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free to all parts of the world. Address to King and Co., Regent-street, London.

NEWEST SPRING SILKS at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. From 1½ to 2½ yards the Full Dress. Patterns sent post-free.

NEWEST BLACK SILKS at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.

NEWEST WEDDING SILKS at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. From 2½ to 3½ yards the Full Dress. A Pattern sent post-free.

NEW STRIPE PETTICOATS, 4s. 6d. each, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW STRIPE CAMBRICS, 5s. 6d. Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW JACCONET MUSLINS, 5s. 6d. Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW PRINTED MUSLINS, 7s. 6d. Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW SPRING LLAMAS, 7s. 6d. Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW SPRING MOHAIRS, 7s. 6d. Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW SPRING POPLIN DE LAINES, 15s. Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW SPRING POPLINS, £2 2s. Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free. Address to King and Co., Regent-street, London.

MARRIAGE TROUSSEAUX and INDIA OUTFITS.—The Proprietor of a Warehouse will direct an inspection of their extensive and extensively STOCK, now being in the sale of Wearing Apparel and Household Linen for which their house has been noted for upwards of 70 years. Cheltenham and Regent-street, London, W.

SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE. New Spring Silks, 17s. 6d. the dress. New Coloured Silks, 21s. the dress. Full Dress Silks, 2 yards wide, 21s. the dress. JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.

LINENDRAPERS TO THE QUEEN BY APPOINTMENT.

LADIES' WEDDING OUTFITS Are Economically Completed by Descriptive Lists, with prices, sent free by post. CAFFYN and SON, 26, Aldermanbury, and 133, Regent-street, London, E.C.

LINENDRAPERS TO HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.

COMPLETE SETS OF BABY-LINEN, Shown in Great Variety, Consisting of Robes, Caps, Flannels, Shawls, and Baskets. UNDERCLOTHING, for MOTHERS and CHILDREN, in Sets or Separately. Descriptive Lists sent free by post.

LINENDRAPERS TO HER QUEEN BY APPOINTMENT. Established in 1778.

BABIES' BASSINETS Trimmed and Furnished ready for use, and packed free of carriage. BABIES' BASKETS. Descriptive Lists sent free by post. CAFFYN and SON, 26, Aldermanbury, and 133, Regent-street, London, E.C. Descriptive Lists, with prices, sent free by post.

ORCHARD and CO., Argyll House, 245, Regent-street, W., Sole Agents in this Country for the Celebrated Kid Gloves of Jouvin and Fils, of Paris. The Family Kid Gloves are now on Sale which were shown at the International Exhibition, and have been carefully made from carefully selected skins, and are sold at the following prices:—

	s.	d.
FRENCH KID GLOVES,	1	6
FRENCH KID GLOVES, quality as exhibited in the International Exhibition, 1862	2	0
Ditto, quality as 11s. 6d. in the Exhibition	2	6
Ditto, quality as 12s. 6d. in the Exhibition, Jouvin's Masterpiece, and all the best makes.	3	0
FRENCH KID GLOVES, from 3s. 6d. to 5s. 6d. per pair, both sewing.

Sample pairs forwarded by post.

84, 86, 88, 92, and 94, Caledonian-road, and 3, Wells-street.

MARRIAGE OF THE PRINCE OF WALES. COURT TRAINS &c. ALFRED CLARK and CO. are showing an extensive Collection of superb new Silks, Moire Antiques, Glacés, Poult de Soies, Velvets, Fancy Poultes (many exclusively manufactured for them), Satin Cloths, Court and Dinner Dresses, at prices from 2 guineas to 10 guineas.

Patterns free. Address 134, 135, 136, and 137, Regent-street, W.

BLACK SILKS.—Rich Glacés, 2½ yards wide, 65s. per dress, post-free, quality as exhibited at the late International Exhibition. Rich Moire Antiques, 2½ yards wide, 65s. per dress, post-free, quality as exhibited at the late International Exhibition. Rich Glacés

NEW MUSIC.

WEDDING MUSIC.

ALBERT LINDAHL'S WEDDING WALTZES. Just published, with a full-length Portrait, beautifully printed in colours, of her Royal Highness the Princess Alexandra. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

ALBERT'S WEDDING QUADRILLES on the HISTORY MISTLETOE MELODIES. 100th Edition of this very popular set. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

DENMARK QUADRILLE. Composed expressly on Danish National Melodies, By D. GODFREY, R.M. Grenadier Guards. Illustrated with a Photograph of H.R.H. the Princess of Wales. Price 4s.
N.B. The Quadrille will be performed by the Bands of the Guards on March 10.

KUHE'S ROYAL WEDDING MARCH, for the Pianoforte, splendidly illustrated in Colours. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

GOODBAN'S WEDDING BELLS, for the Pianoforte, beautifully illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE PRINCESS OF WALES. A Fantasia on Danish Melodies for the Pianoforte. By KUHE. Price 4s. Illustrated with a new Photograph of her Royal Highness the Princess Alexandra, by Hering.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE PRINCE OF WALES: a Fantasia on Welsh National Melodies for the Pianoforte, by BENEDICT, performed by Miss Arabella Goddard at the National Harp Concert. Price 3s. Illustrated with a Photograph of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales by John and Charles Watkins, of Parliament-street.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street, Publishers to the Queen.

DALBERT'S PRINCE OF WALES'S GALOP. A new Edition, beautifully illustrated with a Portrait of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales by BAXTER. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE PRINCESS ALICE WALTZES, with full-length Portrait, in colours, of her Royal Highness. By J. BROWNE, Author of the Agnes Polka, &c. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

DALBERT'S SOLDIERS' POLKA. A new Edition of this splendid Polka is now published, with a Portrait of her Royal Highness the Princess Louise of Cambridge by HERMANN HANFSTAENGL. Price 3s. Post free, 18 stamps.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

DALBERT'S KATHLEEN MAVOURNEEN WALTZ, Founded on the favourite Song of "Kathleen Mavourneen." Illustrated with a Portrait of the composer. 4s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

DALBERT'S WEST-END POLKA, and NEW SERIES of Dancing Polkas, splendidly illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD. Price 3s. post-free.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

C. H. OSBORNE'S POPULAR AIRS, arranged for the Pianoforte.
Rose Polka. 3s.
Rose Mazurka. 3s.
Rose Redowa. 3s.
Rose Valse. 3s.
Comin' thro' the Rye. 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' COMPLETE EDITION of his Pianoforte Works. The best, the newest, and largest of all Instruction Books, containing elementary instructions, scales, exercises, and a selection of the most popular pieces in progressive lessons. Sixty pages, full music size, price 2s., post-free. "Mr. Brinley Richards' Popular Pieces will be sent on application."
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' JUANITA. This popular Song arranged as a very pleasing drawing-room Pianoforte piece. Price 3s. Also as a Duet, 5s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' MARAQUITA. This popular Song arranged as an easy and effective drawing-room Pianoforte piece. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' GOD SAVE THE QUEEN. "As a drawing-room piece, we are disposed to think 'God Save the Queen' has found its most striking achievement here."—Vide Press.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S NATIONAL MELODIES FOR THE PIANOFORTE.
No. 1. "The March of the Men of Harlech." Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S SEMIRAMIDE. Grand Fantasia on Airs from Rossini's favourite Opera, for the Pianoforte, by the composer of the Beatrice di Tenda.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S MASSANIELLO.—Just published, a Grand Fantasia for the Pianoforte on Airs from this charming Opera. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE ANGEL'S HARP, by THEODORE TREKELL, a New Pianoforte Piece, price 3s. 6d., that will be found worthy the popularity. "The most effective drawing-room piece we have seen."—Herald. Also, "Trekell's Sparkling Bandinas." Moreau de Jalon. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

TREKELL'S LA PRIÈRE D'UNE MÈRE. Recently post Free. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

TREKELL'S LA VIVANDIÈRE. Impromptu Recently post Free. Price 3s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

ALBERT LINDAHL'S New Piece, LA MISERICORDE. Pronounced Popular for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NAVA'S DANISH NATIONAL SONG and DANCE for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NUPTIAL MUSIC and WEDDING MARCH, Composed for the Marriage of the Crown Princess of Prussia, by CHARLES GOUNOD, Conductor of H.R.H. Prince Albert's Concerts. Expeditioner to the King of Denmark. Fiancé for the Pianoforte for the Organ, by G. B. LAMPE, price 4s.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

MDME. OURY'S DANISH HYMN. The most successful arrangement for the Piano of this popular Air. Price 3s.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

H. W. GOODBAN'S PRINCE OF WALES'S BRIDAL MARCH. A very effective and not difficult Marches for the Pianoforte. Illustrated. Price 3s.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

DENMARK.—H.R.H. the PRINCESS OF WALES'S NATIONAL MELODIES, for the Pianoforte, by CHARLES COTE. Illustrated with a Portrait of the Princess Alexandra. Price 3s.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE GALOP OF THE SEASON.—THE GALOP DES FAMILLES ROYALES. With a fine Portrait of the Princess Alexandra. Price 3s.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE NEW AND POPULAR VALSE—DE QUADRILLES DES FRANCES. As played by all the Bands. With Portraits of the Emperor and Empress. Price 4s.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

ALBERT EDWARD and ALEXANDRA WEDDING MARCH.—Composed by JULES BENEDICT, as performed by "the GUARDS." Duets on March 10th. Pianoforte Solo, 4s., with a beautifully illustrated Title. LAMBORN COCK, HUTCHINGS and CO. (late Lamborn Cock), 63, New Bond-street.

"OH MAY YOU BOTH BE HAPPY." Song. By HERBERT SMITER, with Illustrated Title. Price 2s. 6d. LAMBORN COCK, HUTCHINGS, and Co., late Lamborn Cock, 63, New Bond-street.

NEW MUSIC.

BOOSEY'S MUSICAL LIBRARY.—Every Subscriber at Two Guineas receives a splendid Guinea Volume of Miscellaneous Music, and has the privilege of lending the town and country pieces in its course. Subscribers at One Guinea have the use of four pieces. Full particulars from 28, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

ROSSINI'S STABAT MATER, arranged for the Pianoforte Solo, Complete from the Stamp Sheet. Price 2s., nuisc size. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

MOZART'S 12TH MASS, arranged for the Pianoforte by Henry Smart, in a complete form. Price 2s., music size. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

14 SACRED SONGS (2 in BOOSEY'S MUSICAL LIBRARY) by Mozart, with Pianoforte Accompaniments. The beautiful Duet for Soprano and Contralto, "Ave Verum," is published under the favourite Song, "Jerusalem the Golden." Price One Guinea. BOOSEY and SONS.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

20 SACRED COMPOSITIONS FOR THE PIANOFORTE, by the greatest Masters, in BOOSEY'S MUSICAL CABINET, No. 72, price One Shilling.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

BOOSEY'S SHORT VOLUNTARIES FOR THE HARMONIUM, arranged by Novello from the works of Handel, Mozart, Beethoven, Haydn, Spohr, Weber, Hesse, Neumann, Gluck, Rinck, Girnus, Wolf, Calcken, Clasgi, Bennett, &c. Price 1s. each.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

BOOSEY'S 24 CHANTS FOR THE VOICE, PIANOFORTE, HARMONIUM, OR ORGAN, price 1s. 6d. Contains 24 Chants, harmonised and published. Also BOOSEY'S Psalm and Hymn Tunes, 6d.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

THE HARMONIUM MUSEUM, Part I., price 2s., contains Thirty beautiful Sacred Compositions by all the greatest Masters, arranged for the Harmonium by Burdwood. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' PORTUGUESE HYMN, "Adeste Fideles," and original Hymn, "Adeste Fideles," and companion to the "Vesper Hymn." Price 3s. Just published. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

NORDMANN'S SICILIAN MARINERS' HYMN. Arranged for the Pianoforte. Also, by the same Composer, "The Advent Hymn" and "Adeste Fideles." Price 3s. each. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

HENRY SMART'S 20 PRELUDES and INTERLUDES for the Organ. Price 2s. 6d. in cloth. An Analysis and Specimen Pages, with Opinions of the Press, free on application.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

HENRY SMART.

FLOATING LEAF, a plaintive and effective Song. By HENRY SMART, Author of "The Lady of the Lea." Price 2s. 6d. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

VIRGINIA GABRIEL.

DREAM, BABY, DREAM. A very beautiful Cradle Song. Price 2s. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

CLARIBEL.

THROUGH THE JASMINE, New Song, by CLARIBEL, Author of "Five Chick in the Morning." Price 2s. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

MISS GODDARD'S New Fantasia, CAMBELA, Festonia on Welsh Airs by Benedict, companion to the "Prince of Wales," by the same Composer. Price 4s. Published this day by BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

24 OF SIR HENRY BISHOP'S GLEES for Three Voices, PUBLISHED EXCLUSIVELY IN BOOSEY'S MUSICAL CABINET. Now ready, Part I., for Soprano, Contralto, and Tenor, price 1s. Part II., for Two Sopranos and Contralto, price 1s. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

20 NEW CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS' SONGS in BOOSEY'S MUSICAL CABINET, No. 70. Price One Shilling, complete. Also, in BOOSEY'S MUSICAL LIBRARY, the most popular songs now being sung by the various troupes of Christy's Minstrels.

9 NEW NUMBERS of BOOSEY'S CABINET published THIS DAY. No. 74 contains 14 beautiful Sacred Songs, by Mozart, Beethoven, Haydn, Spohr, Weber, &c., price 1s. in cloth.

THALBERG'S ART OF SINGING APPLIED TO THE PIANO. Chs. Edition of the Six Celebrated Studies published by Op. 70, with Portrait and Memoir, an Introduction on the Art of Performing, by THALBERG. This invaluable Work should be in the hands of every Pianist.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

THE POLISH PATRIOTIC HYMN, as sung by Madame Parepa, Price 2s. Also, by the same Composer, THE NATIONAL POLISH DANCE, Price 2s. Both Enchant. Arranged for the Pianoforte. Post-free, 2 stamps. This is the only authentic Polish Dance. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

Price One Penny.

THE DANISH NATIONAL HYMN, with the FAVOURITE MELODY, "KONG CHRISTIAN," &c. "The Danish National Hymn," arranged for Pianoforte solo, in the WEEKLY PENNY, No. 4, Portrait 71, price One Penny.
13, Bouverie-buildings, Fleet.

PENNY EDITION of the MESSIAH. On Wednesday next will be published, price One Penny, Part 37 of "The Messiah," in Vocal Score, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. Part 37 contains "Hallelujah," "Worthy is the Lamb," &c.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

WELCOME TO THE PRINCESS ALEXANDRA. Song, with Chorus. Written and composed expressly for the occasion of the Royal Wedding. 2s. 6d.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

KUHE'S "BRIDE OF VICTORIA."

Two new grand brilliant Fantasias on the national airs of England, "God save the Queen," and "Rule Britannia." The best and most successful pieces by this popular Composer. Price 4s. each.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

SYDNEY SMITH'S LA HARPE ÉOLIENNE. Played by the Composer at his pianoforte recitals at the Crystal Palace and elsewhere with unparalleled success. Price 3s.
ADDISON and PARRY, 16, Hanover-square.

SYDNEY SMITH'S LE JET D'EAU, played by the Composer at the Crystal Palace with unbounded success. One of the most effective pieces of the day. Price 3s.
ADDISON and PARRY, 16, Hanover-square.

SYDNEY SMITH'S FAIRY WHISPERS. Played by the Composer at the Crystal Palace. A remarkably finished, pleasing, elegant, and effective piece. Price 3s.
ADDISON and PARRY, 16, Hanover-square.

SYDNEY SMITH'S MORNING PRAYER AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE. A most charming composition, rich in beautiful and luscious melody. Price 3s. ADDISON and PARRY, 16, Hanover-square.

SYDNEY SMITH'S GAITÉ DE CŒUR. Grand brilliant Waltz. The last new piece by this universally popular composer. "Elegant and melodious."—Vide Press.
ADDISON and PARRY, 16, Hanover-square.

SYDNEY SMITH'S PIANOFORTE MUSIC is published by ADDISON and PARRY, 16, Hanover-square, London, and may be had of every Musicseller in Great Britain and Ireland, India, and the Colonies.

CINQ, BIRDIE, SINQ. GANZ'S popular Song, sung by Mdlle. Parepa at the Crystal Palace and other concerts with unparalleled success. Price 2s.
ADDISON and PARRY, 16, Hanover-square.

STAMP GALOP, by ARTHUR OLEARY. This most successful Galop of the season is always encored. The critique is embellished with postage-stamps of all nations. Beautifully printed in colours. Post free for twelve stamps.—Rivers and Co., 67, Regent-street, London.

NEW MUSIC.

THE PRINCE OF WALES'S WEDDING MARCH, composed by Special Permission to his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales.

THE PROCESSION MARCH, By ARTHUR S. SULLIVAN. Arranged for the Pianoforte. 3s. To be performed on the 10th inst. by the principal Military and Orchestral Bands throughout the country.

THE PRINCESS OF WALES'S MARCH (on Danish airs). By CHARLES COOTE. Price 3s. Illustrated with Portrait. To be performed by the Bands on the occasion of the progress of the Procession through London.

THE BRIDE OF THE NORTH. Song. Poetry by HENRY F. CHORLEY; music by ARTHUR S. SULLIVAN. 2s. 6d.

THE WEDDING RING. Song. Poetry by W. W. H. BELLAMY; Music by J. L. HATTON. 3s. Sung by Mr. Henry Haigh.

THE WEDDING; Descriptive Fantasia for the Pianoforte. By J. L. HATTON. 4s.

THE WEDDING RING. Waltz. By LOUIS JULLIEN. 4s. The titles have been brilliantly illustrated by the best lithographic artists. The accompaniments are set in an elegant Portfolio, price Half-a-Guinea.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

HER PATHWAY STREW WITH FLOWERS. Song. Poetry by RICHARD SAUNDERS; Music by C. WINN. 2s. 6d.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

HONOUR, RICHES, MARRIAGE BLESSING. Vocal Duet. By ARTHUR S. SULLIVAN. 2s. 6d. CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

T. W. NAUMANN'S "DANIA," on Popular Danish Airs. 4s.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' DANISH MARCH. 3s.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

WHEN FIRST THE BELLS. GEORGE LINLEY'S New Song. 2s. Sung with great applause by the Composer.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

NOTICE.—HALF-PRICE.—All Music, and the best Editions, at half the published price, must post-free on receipt of stamps or P.O.O. for half the amount.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street, W.

COOTE'S FAIRY VISIONS. Illustrated. Price 4s., Solo or Duet. One of this Composer's happiest ideas, exhibiting real musical talent. CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD.

The best list of Louers are

COOTE'S CURE LANCERS. Price 4s. COOTE'S CURE QUADRILLES. "So Pretty Each," "So Early in the Morning," "The Cure," and other popular Airs. A real Cure for the Blues. Illustrated with Portrait of Coote. Price 4s. each. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

COOTE'S NEW YORK QUADRILLES on the Banjoy Serenaders' Melodies. The best set ever composed. Price 4s., Solo or Duet. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

Introducing the Danish National Air.

COOTE'S PRINCESS ALEXANDRA VALSES. Price 4s. Illustrated with a splendid Portrait in Colours, engraved expressly for H.R.H. by Price of Wales.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

COOTE'S DOMINO GALOP, Price 3s. Always rehearsed.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

COOTE'S VILLAGE-BELLS POLKA, price 3s.; one of the very best published, and will excel in popularity the celebrated Bluebell Polka. Composed by
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

TINNEY'S SONGS OF THE WOOD VALSH. Price 4s., Solo or Duet. Performed by all the Bands in the United Kingdom. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

BUCKLEY'S BEAUTIFUL SONG,
COME WITH ME, MOONBEAMS LINGER. Price 2s. 6d. The melody is simple and beautiful and will take its place with "Robin Adair," "Lord by last the rose fail." Price 2s. 6d.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

NEW BALLAD.

SIGHING FOR THEE, by F. BUCKLEY. Price 2s. 6d.
HOPWOOD and CREW 42, New Bond-street.

ENGLAND AND DENMARK. Mazurka Duet. By C. COOTE. Illustrated with Portraits of the Princess of Wales and the Princess Alexandra.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

NEW AND EXQUISITE MOSCHAU.

KUHE'S SILVER MOONBEAMS. Price 4s. 6d. The favourite piece by the celebrated Composer.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S GOLD LANG SYNE, price 3s. Also, by the same Composer, TO CHOOSE TO BE A DAISY, price 3s. 6d. and KUHE'S SWEET TO-DAY LOVE MAY PALL, price 3s. 6d. each.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

TWILIGHT REVERIE. Romance for the Pianoforte. By CHARLES COOTE.
THE RUBELLINDA MAZURKA. Price 4s.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

COMIC SONGS of the DAY.
"Away down Rotherham Hill" (Tich Hadley's song) 2s. 6d.
"Why don't Johnson advertise?" (Ditto) .. .. 2s. 6d.
"Maude Ray or Rosy Blackberry Song" .. .. 2s. 6d.
"Ah! Mr. Brown, you don't know me" .. .. 2s. 6d.
"And Lady Clara Vere de Vere" .. .. 2s. 6d.
"Grumpy Sam" (Cain Hadley's Song) .. .. 2s. 6d.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

CHAPPELL'S NEW TWENTY-GUINEA PIANOFORTE, with check action, in French mahogany case, and fine tone, possessing great power and purity of tone, perfection as a foreign factory, expressly built with the view of meeting the requirements of those who have been accustomed to the full, rich, and sympathetic tone of the cottage piano, in such a handy and durable wood; and in all respects a nice piece of furniture as well as a good musical instrument. Chappell and Co. strongly recommend this Pianoforte as superior in all respects to any Pianoforte that can be purchased for the money, and they have no hesitation in saying that it is the best pianoforte ever yet produced at the price. Will be found inestimable; and the price is so low as only to be obtainable by the great facilities which Chappell and Co. possess for the publication of pianos.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN PIANINO

This new Pianino to which the Prize Medal was awarded in 1862, is the very perfection of a small Pianoforte, possessing a most perfect check action, and every improvement that has ever been introduced in pianoforte construction. Warranted to keep in tune, and to be the best and cheapest Pianoforte ever made at the price. Will suit the largest music-room.

Also, in mahogany, rosewood, or walnut, 33 and 36 guineas. A great variety may be seen at
Chappell and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ENGLISH MODEL COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, possessing the pure English tone of the Broadwood or Collard quality, the English check action, and all the latest improvements, and is unsurpassed for its musical qualities, and is the same magic construction as the above costlier, and therefore especially adapted to the country and to those who require a Pianoforte remarkable for many of the tuners. In elegant rosewood case, with full iron, similar in every respect to those supplied to the Royal Family, 35 guineas; in walnut, 40 guineas.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN MODEL PIANOFORTE, price 60 guineas in rosewood, or in walnut, 65 guineas. This Instrument has Three Strings and the fullest great compass of Seven Octaves. It is strengthened by every possible means to endure the greatest amount of wear, and to stand perfectly in tune in every climate. Chappell and Co. have found that the tone is sound, full, and rich; and the power equal to that of a Broadwood Grand. The touch is elastic, and the repetition very rapid. No Pianoforte, in all respects comparable, has hitherto been made in England at the same price. Every Instrument will be warranted, and all damage repaired within three years from purchase.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BROADWOOD, COLLARD, and ERARD. The best Pianofortes of every description, including all the newest improvements, may be obtained only by total sale or hire, with option of purchase; at the new Showrooms of CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

ERARD'S NEW BOUDOIR GRAND PIANOFORTES, at 130 guineas, having been now brought to perfection, can be hired, with the option of purchase, at CHAPPELL and CO.'S, 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES, CHAPPELL and CO. have a few Second-hand PIANOFORTES for sale, by BROADWOOD, COLLARD, ERARD, and other eminent makers, in handsome rosewood cases.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

PIANOFORTES at CHAPPELL'S.—The largest Stock in London, by Broadwood, Collard, Erard, &c. for Sale or Hire, on the Three Years' System.

ALEXANDRE'S DRAWING-ROOM MODEL HARMONIUM, the best that can be made, price 60 guineas (fifteen stops). Also, the Model Concert Harmoniums of Pianofortes and Harmoniums upon application to
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

SIX-GUINEA HARMONIUM by ALEXANDER, with five octaves, two footboards, and in oak case. These instruments are the best adapted to all other cheap harmoniums yet produced.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND HARMONIUMS, by ALEXANDER, nearly (if not quite) as good as new, at greatly-reduced prices, at CHAPPELL'S, 50, New Bond-street.

ALEXANDRE'S PRIZE EXHIBITION MODEL HARMONIUMS, for the Cottage, with seven of vibrators, and Vanessa swell, worked by the foot of the right knee, in oak case, 25 guineas. A large variety may be always seen at CHAPPELL and CO.'S, 50, New Bond-street.

THE SICCAMA FLUTE.—Old System of Boehm. Improved and perfected. Sound and musical instruments are now solely manufactured, at prices varying from 5 to 25 guineas, by RUDALL, ROSE, and CARTE, 20, Charing-cross, from whom detailed prospectuses may be had.

ANTOINE COURTOIS' CORNETS-à-PISTONS.—These celebrated instruments, used by every performer of eminence in the kingdom, are manufactured at CHAPPELL, No. 214, Regent-street, from whom price-lists and every further information may be had.

CASE'S ENGLISH CONCERTINAS.—These C well-known instruments, which still maintain their unrivalled superiority, possessing the full, rich, and pure tone of a harmonium, and unique in tone than any other Concertinas.
BOOSEY and SONS, 24, Holles-street, Manufacturers, 24, Holles-street.

EVANS' ENGLISH HARMONIUMS at 8 guineas and upwards. Lists free.
BOOSEY and CHING, 24, Holles-street, London.

EVANS' COTTAGE HARMONIUMS at 20 guineas and upwards.
BOOSEY and CHING, 24, Holles-street, London.

EVANS' ENGLISH HARMONIUMS, 12 to Guineas, are the best yet produced. Lists free on application, and made in every possible variety. Prices from 6 to 140gs. Illustrated Prospectuses to be had on application to the manufacturers.—BOOSEY and CHING, 24, Holles-street, London.

PRATTEN'S SEVEN-GUINEA HARMONIUM, with Two Rows of Vibrators. Possessing This Instrument, the result of many years' experience, possesses all the qualities of tone adapted for the production of the best effects of a full band, and is unsurpassed by any other Harmonium, in addition to which, through Mr. Pratten's ingenious improvements, the Vibrators can be used with the utmost facility, rendering this instrument as one third of the expense of any cylinder Sum Harmonium.
An illustrated circular may be had on application to the manufacturers, BOOSEY and SONS, 24, Holles-street.

BOOSEY'S "MINIATURE" PIANOFORTE, 18 guineas. Possessing the full, rich, and pure tone of a cottage piano, and possesses great brilliancy, as well as power. Suitable for the drawing-room, library, study, or schoolroom, and forms an elegant and ornamental piece of furniture. Lists free on application to BOOSEY and SONS, 24, Holles-street, London.

BOOSEY'S MINIATURE PIANOFORTE. In Rosewood, with Two Rows of Vibrators. The best production of Pianoforte manufactured by Boosey and Sons, which combines quality and quantity of tone, and is peculiarly adapted for even extensive drawing-room accompaniments. Surprise is invariably expressed by those who hear this instrument for the first time, that so small a piano can produce so much power. Price 25 guineas, in a handsome Rosewood case, with Two Rows of Vibrators, sufficiently powerful enough to fill the largest drawing-room; and the whole mechanism of the instrument is made in the most firm and durable. The case, so small a price, has ever before been presented to the public.—Vide Press Opinions, free by post.
BOOSEY and SONS, 24, Holles-street, London.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD'S PIANOFORTE GALLERY, 201, Regent-street. The largest in Europe.
Every Instrument is warranted, and may be had on the description given of it. Interior Instruments are carefully selected from the stock.
Pianofortes by all the eminent English, Continental, and American Manufacturers, for Sale or Hire.

THE DRAWING-ROOM COTTAGE, 25 guineas, CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD'S, is the best form of the medium size, and of the very best description. The tone is full, pure, and rich, the touch perfect, and the check action, which is enough to fill the largest drawing-room; and the whole mechanism of the instrument is made in the most firm and durable. The case, so small a price, has ever before been presented to the public.—Vide Press Opinions, free by post.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD'S, 201, Regent-street.

THE ENGLISH PIANETTE, 22 Guineas, CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD manufacture this capital small Instrument, for Sale or Hire, on the Three Years' System. The check action, and touch, upwards, tone. The case is of polished oak, and the full trichord treble. The Pianette is recommended as highly by the Profession as by the Public, and has attained the best position in the key and worn in the harness. In rosewood, 25 guineas; in walnut, 27 guineas.
Purchasers are particularly requested to observe that this instrument can be obtained only at CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD'S, and that no pianettes of this kind are put Coarse and Co. are the only manufacturers of it in England.

INDIAN PIANOFORTE.—CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD'S Pianoforte for hot climates is a COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, in solid mahogany, with metallic plates, trichord throughout, and every possible precaution taken to protect the instrument from the influence of the climate. The mechanism of the instrument as well as the case has been secured by Patent. Price 35 guineas. Many of these pianofortes have been honoured upon the manufacture, and they have obtained the highest testimonials from the nobility and gentry of those and other countries.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street, London.

CRAMER'S HARMONIUMS, Harmonicords, Harmonion, &c. Manufactured by DEBAIN.

CRAMER'S CHINESE CHIMES, with two rows of keys, as manufactured by M. Debain, the Inventor of the Harmonium, and possessing all the qualities of that instrument, either as regards solidity of workmanship or extreme beauty of tone, and the power of playing Polkas, Waltzes, &c. as any ordinary size grocer piano forte. Prices in Oak or Rosewood Cases, 1 octave and 13 notes, 10 guineas; 21 do., 12 guineas; 22 do., 14 guineas.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street, London.

HARMONIUM PEDALIER FITTED FOR THE PEDALS. Invented by the Inventor of the Harmonium, has recently constructed a set of Pedals, producing a quality of tone superior to Mendelssohn Pedal Piano's, and is ultimately adapted for the practice of Fugues as well as general purposes. Price 10 guineas. Also, Harmoniums, 2 rows of keys, 13 stops, 16 ft. and 8 ft. tone, 25 guineas; 3 rows of keys, 20 stops, 16 ft. and 8 ft. and double bass, 16 ft. and 8 ft. and double bass, 32 feet C; price 37 Guineas.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street, London.

THE CHEAPEST HARMONIUM is DEBAIN'S beautiful Small Instrument in a Polished Oak Case, 10 guineas. Admirable tone, combined with the very best workmanship.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street, London.

E. BESSON'S NEW CHALLENGE CORNETS, with Rotary Valves. Twenty-three years' experience has enabled the manufacturer to produce Instruments of the highest excellence, which are adopted by the first artists and musicians in the world.

THE SCREW STEAM-VESSEL JOHN BRIGHT.

OUR Engraving represents the John Bright, the second of two screw steam-vessels built by Messrs. C. J. Mare and Co., of Millwall (whose extensive ship-building and iron-manufacturing premises are now carried on by the "Millwall Ironworks and Ship-building Company, Limited"), for the "China Mercantile Steam Navigation Company."

The John Bright and her sister vessel, the Indore, were designed by Mr. Charles F. Horwood, M.I.N.A., and are of the following principal dimensions—viz.:—Length between perpendiculars, 250ft.; breadth, 31ft. 1½in.; depth, 22ft. 6in.; tonnage, builders' measurement, 1192tons, and fitted with engines of 250-horse power.

The John Bright left Gravesend on the 22nd of August last, and arrived at Madeira on the 29th. After remaining at that place twenty-four hours for coaling, &c., she proceeded on her voyage, and arrived at Table Bay on the 25th of September, where she was detained for seven days by adverse gales. She left Table Bay on the 2nd of October, and arrived at Bombay on the 27th of October, having made the voyage from Gravesend to Bombay in fifty-eight clear days, having been seven days under sail only. This is, we believe, the shortest passage on record.

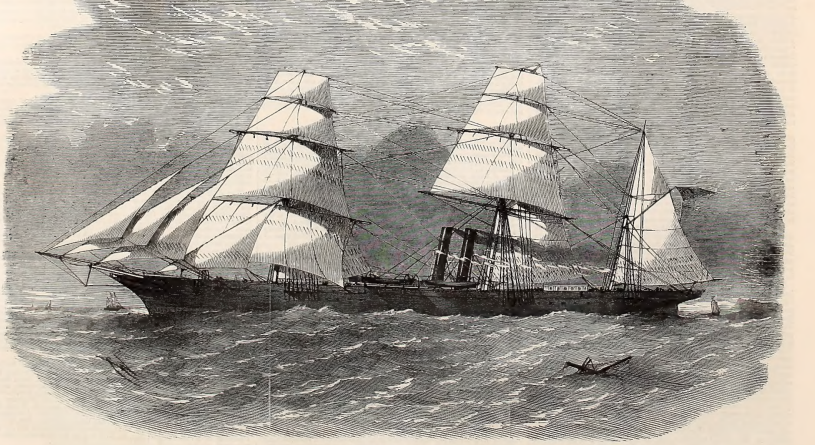
We find, from the overland Singapore and Hong-Kong papers, that the John Bright has maintained her character for speed on her first voyage to Hong-Kong, notwithstanding she has not been in dry dock since she was launched from Millwall, and had to contend against the heavy monsoons. She left Bombay on Nov. 16, and reached Singapore on the morning of the 28th, leaving on Dec. 2, and arriving on the 11th.

It was the express desire of a large number of the natives of Bombay, who are interested in this vessel, that she should be called the John Bright, as a token of their gratitude and high esteem for his disinterested efforts on behalf of India and China.

The China Mercantile Steam Navigation Company may congratulate themselves on having obtained, through their agents, Messrs. Dadabhai, Naroji, and Co., of Great St. Helen's, Parsee merchants, such successful vessels. They were built, under Lloyd's surveyors, to class A 1 nine years, under the immediate superintendence of Ardeshir Ockurjee, Esq., engineer. They are fitted with all the latest improvements, including Robinson's patent ventilating bulkheads, which are admirably adapted for hot climates. The China Mercantile Steam Navigation Company is composed entirely of natives of India; and, being so far successful in obtaining suitable vessels, they will, no doubt, enlarge their sphere of action.

We always hail such instances of native enterprise, and if every encouragement is afforded to a judicious combination of such promising native element with English enterprise and capital, the vast resources of our Indian empire will not have to remain long undeveloped.

THE LATE MR. DANIEL WHITTLE HARVEY, COMMISSIONER OF THE CITY POLICE.—SEE NEXT PAGE.



THE CHINA MERCANTILE STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY'S SCREW STEAM-VESSEL JOHN BRIGHT.

THE LEVÉE.

HIS Royal Highness the Prince of Wales held a Levée on behalf of her Majesty on Wednesday week, in St. James's Palace. The Prince left Buckingham Palace at half-past one o'clock, and in his progress through the Park was received with marked enthusiasm by an immense crowd of spectators. The Court was numerously attended. The whole of the Diplomatic Corps (with the exception of the Belgian Minister, prevented by indisposition), with the Secretaries and Attachés of their respective Legations, were present. The leading gentlemen had the honour of being presented to his Royal Highness, the presentations by her Majesty's pleasure being considered as equivalent to presentations to the Queen. The Levée was also attended by about 1700 of the nobility and gentry. The Prince of Wales was attended by a brilliant Court, comprising the Ministers of the Crown, the great Officers of State, and the principal Officers of the Household of her Majesty and his Royal Highness. The Royal Body Guard of her Majesty's Hon. Corps of Gentlemen-at-Arms was on duty in the State saloons, under the command of the Lieutenant. Captain Philips, the sub-officer, was on duty with the corps. The Yeomanry of the Guard were commanded by Captain Parker Rickford, the Exon in Waiting. His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge (attended by the Hon. James Macdonald), his Royal Highness Prince Louis of Hesse (attended by Baron Westerweller), his Serene Highness Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, his Highness Dhuleep Singh, and Count Gleichen were present. Ambassadors and great officers of State, having the privilege of the entrée, passed into the reception-rooms at one o'clock, and for two hours subsequently there was a continuous succession of arrivals until all the saloons and the approaches thereto were densely crowded by a brilliant company. At three o'clock the crush at the entrance was so great that orders were issued not to allow any more carriages to enter the palace quadrangle. The rank at this time extended up St. James's-street and Albemarle-street, far into New Bond-street. It was nearly four o'clock when carriages ceased to set down company; and the evening had closed in before the later arrivals had taken their departure. The Prince of Wales returned to Buckingham Palace at five o'clock, again receiving the acclamations of a great concourse of spectators on his way through the park.

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

EARS our next "Echoes" see the light the Great Event for which we have been so long waiting, and to give brilliance to which such enormous preparations have been made, will have had a triumphant consummation. The Royal entry into the ancient and loyal metropolis of Britain and the Royal marriage will have become things of the past, but to be dwelt upon with enduring memories of pride and delight. May it be our lot to chronicle a festival the like of which this generation has never seen, and will scarcely be permitted to witness a second time; to record the progress of a pageant which shall have passed off without a flaw or a shortcoming; to narrate the proceedings of two glorious days, which foreigners may look upon with amazement, and, if without envy, at least without hope of rivalling in intensity of loyal enthusiasm!

When these lines came to daily memory and was duly shown the lions of London he was asked which spectacle among the many he had seen at Temple Bar; but with his pre-grandeur of its novelty, could forecast upon had struck him, by its grandeur of its novelty, could forecast upon had struck him, by its grandeur of its novelty, could forecast upon had struck him, by its

SKETCHES IN PARLIAMENT.

ONCE in a way a particular Parliament has acquired, owing to some peculiarity, a distinctive appellation, such as the Long Parliament, the Rump Parliament, and so on. The way in which the present assembly of that name carries on entitles it to be called the Talking Parliament. If politeness may be defined to be a considerate reference to the mutual feelings and wishes of persons who happen to come in contact, our Legislature is eminently possessed of that quality. Anything, from a Royal marriage down to a catarrhal influence on an individual, suffices to postpone proceedings with business, or even initiating measures. If one were inclined to treat this matter with the severity which ought to belong to a so-called guide of public opinion, it might be said that Parliament has fallen under the influence of personal compromise. If anybody happens to get up a motion on a bill which does not suit Ministers, and more or less of the House, or rumours in the coming discussion, immediately after the first broadside has been discharged up gets a Premier, or Home Secretary, or Attorney-General, generally or weekly, or weakly, as the case may be, shows how impossible it is, consistently with the pleasant relations existing between all sections of the House, to consent to exactly that thing but, as nobody in this happy Parliamentary state ought, if it is to be avoided, to be quite unprejudged, an offer is made to postpone also which is just coloured with the subject-matter in question. Joyfully accepting the compromise, movers and seconders dine peacefully and reasonably the period of vibrating for a long night between those hopes and fears about their motions which they mistake for a deep sense of reality; which they court.

As politeness is the standing order of the day within the House of Commons, it is not unreasonable that assembly to require that nobody should be rude to any of its members. There have been times when the word "privilege" was resonant with danger, and a poncant order on his knees at the bar of the House was by no means in a joosse position. Truth to say, in the latest instance of this sort of thing the lubricous point of view seemed to be that which was taken. No one, of course, will venture to say that Sir Frederick Smith, who has held Mr. Reed's reply to his motion before the House and moved that he be called on to answer for it, simulated the indignation which he displayed. But when the awful moment of "coming to the bar" took place there was more than mere laughter than solemnity prevailed. Doubtless, there is a trempting of nihility when the Speaker, with the solemnity of the office of the door of the house by the Serjeant-at-Arms, more sedulous of keeping the mace within his grasp than of the whereabouts of his private. Then there is the stately out of the House, and not which represents the awful "bar" between which and the door there is no brief is space that is difficult for the appellant to traverse. It is not fabulous to get through the three bows which are the prescriptive right of the House with a nearsighted assurance, because it is just after it is drawn out, stumbles over it every one laughs, and the character of the scene changes at once. Mr. Reed made his apology decidedly full, and, in fact, rather overdid the contrition of manner which is demanded of persons in his situation. He got cheered in a way that was by no refinement less than unmistakable. Then, as everybody was probably grateful to him for having given the House that which is at last out and not wanting to make any more speech, though this time it was administered in the mildest form. However, a rubber pronounced titillation has been unexpectedly bestowed on a House which has had the old custom of bringing culprits from from the House of Lords by the hands of two grave, bewigged, and begowned officials, the Chancery Now, however, that these two Houses are made in a very stuithy way. The Clerk of the Upper House pops into the door of the Commons, and, if the coast is clear, creeps in and bows forlornly to one of the Clerk Assistants at the table, who sidles down to the corner where the other is standing, whispers his page from him, and, with a glance of expressive confidence in each other they separate, and the mission of both is at an end. It seems that it is a question with the Lords of the House, two figures who, by their garments, should have been women, but who, by their sex, were supposed to be Lord Chancery's Judges. It was, of course, intended that the bringing up of the Prince of Wales to the Bar, which was the object of the presentation of the illustrious, should be solemn and effective. Unfortunately, one of the learned Judges was short and stout, the other tall and lean, the latter being particularly nearsighted, while both were in a room together. Accordingly, they shambled up to the table amidst loud cries of "Bow!" — the short one bowing and the tall one not; and the square and taller hesitated and stared about him like a startled giraffe, and turned about and about, and was outstripped by his sturdier and better-sorted brother, while subsequently he laughed at first from all quarters of an involuntarily amused House—a result inevitable from a mistake so absurd for evidently, from their appointment qualifications akin to those of a dancing-master. Perhaps the best way of sending peace between the two Houses nowadays would be by pneumatic dispatch.

After the above statements, which bend rather to put the House in a degree of good humour, it is but common justice to say that in one special and most important instance it has vindicated its claim to its title of the first deliberative assembly in the world. It has taken on the affairs of Poland, for the most part, the tone which was insensibly adopted was every way worthy of the occasion and the place in which the discussion took place. In fact Ministers introduced, and Mr. Hennessy was not only able and tactical in the marshalling of his facts and arguments, but he rarely rose into dignity in the manner of treating the subject. There are many persons who have believed that the Polish question was effervescing, and nothing more, but this time he has shown that volatility is quite consistent with sound body and strength, and that his fault of youthfulness is fast becoming cured. It is pleasant to see how much we talkers like Mr. Monckton Milnes and Lord Fermoy, such a cynical protector against the extravagant principles and unpractical except abstract Toryism as Lord Robert Cecil, were roused out of their respective moods into expressions of sympathy. Mr. Serjeant Fitzgerald waxed eloquent, and his earnestness was so genuine that it was more believed in, though it is hardly possible that it could have been more true. Mr. Roebuck, Mr. Shaftesbury, and others were more stilted than usual, because that is the way in which, despite of himself, his rhetorical flow is apt. Nothing could have been more tactical and more befitting the position he occupies than the speech of Lord Palmerston. He fulfilled all the requirements of statesmanship, while it was redolent of the sympathetic feeling which pervades the nation, and from which the nation expects the Prime Minister not to be exempt. It would have been well if the debate had closed with him, for it is, unhappily, the fact that the address of Mr. Disraeli was a blot upon the whole. It was by a disclaimer of sympathy with the Poles as a people, and he carped at their desire for nationality as if to be fought for they did not deserve to possess it; while the extent to which he seemed to charge the Emperor Napoleon and that put one in mind of the old lady in Martinique, who professed to rule her slaves by a system of rewards and punishments, "as the slaves behaved ill they were flogged—that was the punishment; when they behaved well they were flogged—that was the reward. When he ceased there was a palpable chill on the enthusiasm which had previously prevailed; so much so, that Sir Robert Clifton, in his rugged way, demanded cheers for more Speeches than one, and Mr. Bernal and Mr. Wyld was able to get in a word or two which seemed expressive of love with that there should be a representative map of Europe, which came very naturally from him.

The adjournment for the Easter sittings of the House of Commons has fallen into the hands of two members—to wit, Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Hennessy. The Chancellor of the Exchequer, with his usual imaginative ardour, places his measures on the paper on all nights and in all places; and, if it were not that we have every assurance of his conscientiousness, we should be inclined to suspect him of designs to slip them through at unexpected moments. But, even if this were the case, which we most religiously disbelieve, he would fail; for there is a most careful watch kept over him by one or two gentlemen who are nothing if not financial. He very nearly missed his hip with his Tobacco Duties Bill; and it was only by adopting the system of compromise above alluded to, and of which he is increasingly a master, that he succeeded in getting to weather the stage of second reading. Sir Henry Willoughby is vigilant, and Sir Stafford Northcote has acquired a forty-statue power of keeping constantly in one position just in front of Mr. Gladstone, who is thus in constant Parliamentary custody. It may have been only a coincidence; but, curiously enough, during a debate the other evening on tobacco, and notably, and with a certain obsequiousness, while Sir Stafford Northcote was speaking, a gentleman in the gallery yielded to some narcotic influence, and fell into so deep a sleep that he descended the lips of the gallery in front, and had to endure all the efforts of doorkeepers and messengers to rouse him, and, as we believe, passed the evening in a state which was nearly allied to that of the Rip Van Winkle. But a new member for Cambridge was speaking—he made his début this week—this somnolent individual must surely have been roused, for the nascent representative seemed determined to take the House by storm, and to be fulfilling a pledge which he rare to his electors that his voice should be heard in the Legislature. When people interested inspect beforehand the business of any evening, it is a common query. "Has Mr. Hennessy anything?" and the inference is well understood—namely, that if the sitting can be prolonged to between one and two o'clock in the morning it will be done.

It was a great compliment to Lord Strathcden that the Prince of Wales should have come down to the House of Peers for the first time on the day that he took his seat on the woolsack. The Lord had a motion on the paper. Why did not the speech come off? No one seemed to know; and certainly his Royal Highness missed a very remarkable specimen of Parliamentary eloquence.

MUSIC.

THE musical occurrences of the past week have been few. The English Opera season at COVENT GARDEN is about to terminate, and no fresh novelties are announced, unless we except the production of cantata on the subject of the Royal nuptials by Mr. Macfarren—which is in preparation. The date on which Mr. Gye will open the doors of the theatre under the Royal Italian Opera is not yet announced. It is said that he has engaged a tenor, Signor Brignoli, who has been singing in the United States; and Mdlle. Titiens, who is in treaty with Mdlle. Lucca, a soprano, who is in great vogue in the capital of Austria—Vienna. Her name we believe is Pauline, and the principal stars of last season; and Adelina Patti, there is little doubt, will continue to be the chief attraction of the season. Her Majesty's Theatre, it is announced, will open on the 14th inst., and, it is announced, will open on the 11th of April with the "Concierto," in which, Mdlle. Piccolomini, Mdlle. Marai, and Signor Gardoni will return; and Mdlle. Kellog, the American soprano, who was to have made her début at this theatre last year, is positively to appear in the course of this season.

An interesting performance of WELSH NATIONAL MUSIC was given on Monday's Exhibition Day (the last day but one at St. David's Day), under the auspices of Mr. John Thomas, whose great talents are devoted with patriotic zeal to the advancement of the music of his native land. The Welsh Choral Association, one of the very excellent Welsh concerts got up by Mr. Thomas last season. It consisted of about 200 voices, and sang Welsh part-songs, a Welsh sung by solo voices and others performed as choruses, and accompanied by a band of harps. The harps were sung by Miss Wynne, Miss Jones, and Mr. Aweu; the choruses were sustained by Mr. Leslie's choir, strengthened by voices from the Royal Academy of Music; and the band of the Royal Italian Opera, and the most eminent Welsh singers, including Mr. Thomas himself, Mr. Balsir Chatter, Mr. Wright, and Mr. Lewis. The concert was conducted after the style of a Welsh Eisteddfod, and received with the warmest expressions of pleasure by a large audience, among whom were, of course, many compatriots of the Principality.

The POPULAR CONCERT of Monday last was remarkable chiefly for the revival of the last quartet of Beethoven; one of those compositions which, as we have said before, are the delight of a few and the bugbear of the many. Their merits form a quæstio vexata, undecided to this day, and on which we have no intention to enter. We shall merely remark that these pieces of a marvellous genius are not to be judged hastily; that they are seldomer performed now than they were thirty years ago; and that, though the quartet played on Monday was admirably executed, yet the applause with which it was received was probably due to the great master's memory than a hearty expression of genuine admiration. The other instrumental pieces were a trio in E major, for pianoforte sonata in E minor, op. 70, magnificently performed by Arabella Goddard, Mr. Sims Reeves, and Signor Piatti, and which was received in the same manner as the quartet. The concert was conducted by the doors, and the principal performances were warmly applauded.

The services of Mdlle. Titiens and Mr. Sims Reeves have been secured for the next performance, on the 16th inst., when the choral society will shortly proceed vigorously with their rehearsals, and the committee will hold a meeting in the course of the month for the consideration of future arrangements.

THE THEATRES.

ST. JAMES'S.—On Saturday a new drama, founded on Miss Braddon's novel of "Lady Audley's Secret," was produced. It has been skilfully arranged by Mr. Gower, and has been received with more than usual success. The reputation of the novel may account for the interest which was manifested in the first night of the production of the drama and the merit of the acting. Miss Herbert, as the guilty Lady Audley, has a character which, under peculiar and unusual circumstances, and therefore impelled by both external and internal motives, had a character to impersonate which combined in its development the most powerful dramatic art, and drew powerfully on all the resources of the artist. This excellent actress appeared to more advantage than usual, and made a profound impression on the house. The story, though borrowed from a novel, is excellently constructed in the drama, and is developed in the two acts. The first brings George Talboys and Robert Audley together, the former having visited his friend's chambers on his return from Australia; and, while the latter is absent on business and expresses his wish to marry his wife Helen, he eye sights on the obituary column of a journal, and there discovers the death of his friend's wife. We are next introduced to Audley Court, and, from a conversation between Luke Marks and Phoebe, become soon acquainted with the lady of Sir Michael Audley is one and the same with Helen Talboys, who, having deserted her child, has proved to be living, and a bigamist. The next scene places the fact beyond doubt, when her husband is introduced to Audley Court, and she is brought face to face with him. A powerful scene of recriminations must now take place between George and his wife; and Robert Audley confesses that he shall fall into the ancient well there. But she is unaware that she has been overheard by Luke, who is concealed by a tree near the window. In the second act the interest increases and accumulates. The mysterious disappearance of his friend has continued for a twelvemonth to perplex the mind of Robert Audley, and converted him from a gay-hearted, luxurious law-student into a serious and grave-thinking man. At length he confronts Lady Audley and gives expression to his suspicions. The lady is bold and defiant, and calls in the aid of Sir Michael, who compels his nephew to retract. He takes refuge in the village inn, which Lady Audley frequents, but not for to, that he may help destroy. Fortunately, however, he escapes; but poor Luke, drunk and helpless, suffers severely. He lives long enough to be brought into the lady's presence and to denounce her as the murderess of her first husband. Still she is defiant; but shortly after her husband, who had been preserved by Mark, enters. Lady Audley, confounded by his presence, lets go the last hold she has on reason; her countenance becomes a blank, expression has departed with intelligence, and she falls, a helpless lunatic, at the feet of the man she has wronged. In all this there are great opportunities for a competent actress. It is highly to the credit of Miss Herbert that she so far availed herself of them as to make a decidedly strong impression on the audience.

STRAND.—"My Preserver" is the title of a new piece, by Mr. H. T. Craven, produced on Monday. It is in one act, and is apparently designed to afford a vehicle for the action that has already led her preserver. Two persons are partially entitled to the character according to the playbill—namely, Mr. Humphrys (Mr. Farnelle), and the other a literary aspirant "out of suits with fortune" (Mr. William Bury (Mr. Belford). The former has pulled Miss Estelle Fratwiser (Miss Augusta Thomson) out of the river, but the latter has borne the lady to her dwelling-place. Thinking that Bury had saved her, the latter proposes to marry her "preserver," but repents of her rash pledge when she learns that Bilberry is the individual. Bilberry is already in love with Dolly (Miss C. Saunders), but follows the instinct of interest and accepts the lady's offer. Bury, however, understands human nature, and makes love to Dolly. Whereupon Bilberry gives way to jealousy, and is made aware of the real state of his own feelings. To surrender Estelle to his more prepossessing rival is then a matter of course. The lady, too, is enabled to interpret her oath in favour of the latter on learning from the doctor that Bury had, after her recovery, prescribed a hot-bath, to which her intimate recovery was certainly due.

PRINCESS'.—Miss Constance Aylmer, having recovered from her indisposition, has reappeared as Marsha Gibbs in "All that Glitters is not Gold."

OLYMPIC.—"A Husband to Order" has been revived at this theatre, and, with a new cast, is now so well acted that it promises to prove attractive.

THE STANDARD THEATRE and the CITY OF LONDON were the scene of generous entertainments on Saturday. At the former Mr. Creswick appeared in a new play by Mr. J. P. Wooler, entitled "The Minister of Spain; or, the Flower of Seville," originally produced at the Surrey, in which the part of Don Felix Mendez was sustained; and at the latter Mr. James Anderson supported the part of Claude Melnotte, in which he made his début at Sutton's play of Lyons Lyons. Both were warmly received, and commanded good houses.

BUFFORD'S PANORAMA.—The sightseers of London will learn with regret that the season of the last season of the exhibition of those panoramas which for seventy years the late Mr. Burford had been in the habit of presenting to the public annually. They were among the most interesting and instructive sights of the metropolis. On Saturday a private view of "Rome" was opened, and we were pleased to find that the old spirit is suffered to abide in it. It is the intention of the proprietors to exhibit in succession all the best panoramas of the metropolis, and those who had done so much to educate the popular taste and to inform the minds of the people by the actual representation of the objects of interest will find their cities and most noted places in the world. The public will do wisely to avail themselves of the present opportunity.

The French steam-corvette Brandon and English steamer Hornet are engaged in repairing the electric cable sunk between Port Johns and Algiers. Lighters accompany those vessels to receive the cable.

The Dictator, a steam-boat now building at New York to ply between that city and Albany, is constructed to carry 2500 passengers. She will be the largest river steam-boat now afloat.

Advices from Buenos Ayres state that the ex-King and Queen of Greece are about to fix their residence at the Royal Palace of London. From the restricted state of their resources they have, it is said, been induced to sell no less than 50,000 of their most valuable gems, which are of immense intrinsic worth.

Science, says the Dæmarck, has lately had a great loss, Professor Dr. P. Kierkegaard, the philologist and naturalist, is no more. He died suddenly on Sunday week, aged about sixty-five. He is best known in England by his learned labours on the history of the runes.

The American papers assert that a lady in Syracuse has been married to a soldier in a fort near Washington, the two being 400 miles apart, and the vows passed over the wires. It took two hours to do the work by code, and the telegram from the chaplain to the lady, announcing that the vows and the ceremony had been duly recorded, terminated the entry.

The Estimates for the Revenue Departments, effective and non-effective services, for the year ending March 31, 1864, were laid before the House on Monday in all to £4,720,641, which is a decrease on the previous year of £2,154. The total charge for effective services is £2,576,176, which gives £1,000 increase; and expenses, £744,134; Inland Revenue, salaries and expenses, £1,351,771; Post Office, salaries and expenses, £2,602,597; miscellaneous charges, &c., of revenue departments, £515,796. The Post Office vote is larger by £18,233 than that of last year; and the vote for Customs on the other hand is £1,000 less than last year. The Inland Revenue vote is less by £30,503, and that for superannuations by £29,616.

The population of Greece consists of a total of 1,096,510 souls, of whom 1,096,600 belong to the Greek Church, 9338 to other Christian forms of worship, and 572 to non-Christian religions. The number of families is 221,919, from which it follows that each one consists of 5·02 persons. The number of males and of females is nearly equal, 550,716 males, 545,794 females. Inhabitants to each house. To the above numbers must be added the band army of 14,000 men, and a floating population of 5000 souls, which is annually employed by the Greeks Vlaquis.

The old tune of "Nightingale Fund" is £4426. Two-thirds of this are spent in the maintenance and instruction in nursing of probationers at St. Thomas's Hospital. Fifteen others supported by the fund are engaged in public hospitals or infirmaries. The remaining third is spent at King's College Hospital, and at the Institution for the Care and Cure of Sick Gentlewomen, the want of whom is much felt in the villages of England. The trustees are Lord Monteagle, Mr. R. M. Milnes, Mr. J. R. Mill, Mr. Nightingale, Mr. E. Majoribanks, jun. The acting committee of the council consist of Sir Julius Benedict, M.D., Mr. Bracebridge, Mr. John Noel, Mr. William Rathbone, Mr. William Rowman, Mr. John Forbes Clark, and Mr. William Spottiswoode, F.R.S.

A WILL.—What a remarkable document is a will! It is the love of a man now dead, perhaps, for his kith and kin of a darkened room—for the vault, low and hoarse as an echo. It speaks, and people hearken; it commands, and people obey; it is supreme over all things here, and has power on earth can alter it. We expect to hear the voice calm, earnest, and speaking low judgment, and not the voice of a man who is dead. The head which it has gone with thinking—under the fresh mould; the hand which pens it has been turned thin and white, and perhaps worm-eaten. It is another world, but who, at such a moment, can write words of hate must have a black heart, but who wounds a dead man's heart must have no heart at all. There is some truth in the old ghost-cried; man can return after death; he does so in his will. He comes to us, speaks to us, warns us, counsels us, and we do good to others as a blighting specter, whose promised treasures turn to dust.—Once a Week.

PATTERN POST BETWEEN ENGLAND AND FRANCE.—The list of the articles of pattern post between England and France, which are already remembered by the public, and is necessary, therefore, to call special attention to the following articles which are admissible at the rate of 2d. per ounce. This rule excludes all articles of a saleable nature, wearing apparel, medicines, keys, and metal instruments of any kind. If the letter is either a money value or other, apart from its mere use as a pattern; nor must the quantity of any kind of article exceed the number which it would be usual to distribute as a sample, on the ground, an intrinsic value. Dad. The rule excludes all articles of a saleable nature, wearing apparel, medicines, keys, and metal instruments of any kind. If the letter is either a money value or other, apart from its mere use as a pattern; nor must the quantity of any kind of article exceed the number which it would be usual to distribute as a sample, on the ground, an intrinsic value. Dad. The contents of the mail-bags, or the person of any officer of the Post Office, or of course applicable to the pattern post; and anything of the kind which may be observed will be stopped, and not sent on to its destination. Gh. Articles such as the following have been noticed, and have been detained as unfit for the post, viz.:—Metal bows, porcelain and china, fruit, vegetables, bunches of flowers, cuttings of plants, spurs, knives, scissors, needles, pins, pieces of machinery, watch machinery, sharp-pointed instruments, samples of metals, samples of ores, samples in glass bottles, pieces of glass, nobs of various kinds, corpuscles, copper or steel coins, medals, and articles of various kinds.—By command of the Postmaster-General, RONLAND HILL, Secretary. General Post Office, Feb. 28.

DENMARK.
Danish Miles 60 to a degree.
French Miles 75 to a degree.
English Miles 69½ to a degree.
Railways completed.
&" in progress or intended.
SKAGERRACK
NORTH SEA
THE CATTEGAT
SWEDEN
Gothenburg
Jönköping
Wenersborg
Helsingborg
Landskrona
Malmöhus
Kiöge
Kiöge R.
Ystad
Simrishamn
Ronneby
Carlscrona
Calmar
Westervik
Norrköping
Linköping
Motala
Wadstena
Hasle
Hasle Bay
Rönne
Rönne Bay
Christiansöe
Christiansöe Bay
Bornholm
Ronne
Svaneke
Svaneke Bay
Gudhiem
Gudhiem Bay
Faxe
Faxe Bay
Stevns
Stevns Klint
Rödvig
Rödvig Bay
Korsör
Korsör Bay
Slagelse
Slagelse Bay
Nyborg
Nyborg Bay
Kiöge Bay
Helsingör
Helsingör Roads
Elsinore
Elsinore Roads
Copenhagen
Copenhagen Roads
Dragör
Dragör Roads
Saltholm
Saltholm Roads
Flakfort
Flakfort Roads
Middelfart
Middelfart Roads
Fredericia
Fredericia Roads
Veile
Veile Bay
Horsens
Horsens Bay
Aarhuus
Aarhuus Bay
Grenaa
Grenaa Roads
Ebeltoft
Ebeltoft Bay
Randers
Randers Fiord
Aalborg
Aalborg Roads
Hals
Hals Fiord
Nibe
Nibe Fiord
Hobro
Hobro Fiord
Mariager
Mariager Fiord
Nyköbing
Nyköbing Bay
Skive
Skive Fiord
Lemvig
Lemvig Roads
Thyborön
Thyborön Roads
Ringkiöbing
Ringkiöbing Fiord
Ringkiöbing Roads
Hvide Sande
Hvide Sande Roads
Ribe
Ribe Fiord
Ribe Roads
Tondern
Tondern Roads
Hoyer
Hoyer Roads
Apenrade
Apenrade Bay
Sonderburg
Sonderburg Bay
Nubjerg
Skagen
Skagen Roads
Hirtshals
Hirtshals Roads
Hanstholm
Hanstholm Roads
Thisted
Thisted Roads
Nissum Fiord
Nissum Roads
Lemvig
Lemvig Roads
Struer
Struer Roads
Viborg
Viborg Lake
Silkeborg
Silkeborg Lake
Ringkiöbing Fiord
Ringkiöbing Roads
Ringkiöbing
Ringkiöbing Lake
Ringkiöbing Roads
Ringkiöbing Fiord
Ringkiöbing Roads

Helgoland
Heligoland
Sylt
Amrum
Föhr
Nordstrand
Pellworm
Langeness
Hooge
Nordmarsch
Wiedingharde
Bredstedt
Husum
Tönning
Eiderstedt
Friedrichstadt
Garding
Tondern
Hadersleben
Apenrade
Sonderburg
Flensburg
Schleswig
Eckernförde
Rendsburg
Kiel
Kiel Canal
Neumünster
Itzehoe
Glückstadt
Wilster
Elmshorn
Altona
Hamburg
Harburg
Bergedorf
Ratzeburg
Lübeck
Travemünde
Neustadt
Oldenburg
Eutin
Plön
Segeberg
Bad Oldesloe
Reinbeck
Wandsbeck
Ahrensburg
Mölln
Lauenburg
Boitzenburg
Ludwigslust
Dömitz
Boizenburg
Hagenow
Schwerin
Wismar
Rostock
Warnemünde
Doberan
Grabow
Parchim
Plau
Güstrow
Malchin
Neubrandenburg
Demmin
Anklam
Usedom
Wollin
Stettin
Swinemünde
Pasewalk
Prenzlau
Templin
Angermünde
Eberswalde
Bernau
Berlin
Potsdam
Brandenburg
Rathenow
Nauen
Spandau
Charlottenburg
Zehlendorf
Teltow
Zossen
Jüterbog
Luckenwalde
Treuenbrietzen
Belzig
Wittenberg
Dessau
Bernburg
Köthen
Zerbst
Roßlau
Coswig
Wittenberge
Perleberg
Pritzwalk
Havelberg
Kyritz
Neuruppin
Gransee
Fürstenberg
Fürstenwalde
Frankfurt
Müncheberg
Seelow
Cüstrin
Landsberg
Soldin
Arnswalde
Pyritz
Stargard
Greifenhagen
Schivelbein
Dramburg
Neustettin
Rummelsburg
Stolp
Lauenburg
Bütow
Schlawe
Rügenwalde
Köslin
Kolberg
Treptow
Gollnow
Pasewalk
Ueckermünde
Stettiner Haff
Oderberg
Eberswalde
Bernau
Strausberg
Rüdersdorf
Fürstenwalde
Beeskow
Storkow
Lübben
Luckau
Calau
Senftenberg
Hoyerswerda
Bautzen
Görlitz
Lauban
Bunzlau
Sprottau
Sagan
Guben
Forst
Cottbus
Spremberg
Hoyerswerda
Kamenz
Pirna
Dresden
Meissen
Riesa
Torgau
Eilenburg
Delitzsch
Bitterfeld
Köthen
Zerbst
Jüterbog
Luckenwalde
Treuenbrietzen
Belzig
Wittenberg
Dessau
Bernburg
Aschersleben
Quedlinburg
Halberstadt
Wernigerode
Blankenburg
Thale
Harzgerode
Ballenstedt
Gernrode
Stolberg
Nordhausen
Sangerhausen
Eisleben
Mansfeld
Hettstedt
Sandersleben
Cöthen
Bernburg
Staßfurt
Schönebeck
Barby
Calbe
Gommern
Burg
Genthin
Jerichow
Tangermünde
Stendal
Osterburg
Seehausen
Gardelegen
Salzwedel
Arendsee
Osterburg
Perleberg
Pritzwalk
Wittenberge
Havelberg
Kyritz
Neuruppin
Gransee
Fürstenberg
Templin
Angermünde
Prenzlau
Pasewalk
Ueckermünde
Anklam
Usedom
Wollin
Swinemünde
Stettin

the walls were hung with rich Gobelin tapestry, the drawings of which were executed by the celebrated Dutch painter Charles von Mandern. The later Kings also frequently embellished the interior of the castle, as it was the custom for Danish Kings to be crowned in the chapel of the castle. In a cabinet richly ornamented with stucco there was a relic of Denmark's unhappy Queen, the English Princess Caroline Mathilde. On a pane of glass were these notable words scratched by her own hand, "Oh, keep me innocent; make others great!" Every story of the castle was hung with valuable portraits of foreign and native notables. Its glory, however, it now no more, as the castle was destroyed by fire during the night of the 17th of December, 1809. But the interior has been restored in its ancient pride by the voluntary subscriptions of the people.

BERNSTORFF PALACE, THE COUNTRY RESIDENCE OF PRINCE CHRISTIAN OF DENMARK.

Turn beautiful summer residence is situated as a convenient distance, a few English miles north of Copenhagen, in the midst of a park, amongst rich and well-cultivated fields, near the celebrated Sound. The palace, which is very plain in style, was built in 1762, by the Court architect, Jardin, for Count Johan Hartvig Ernst Bernstorf, by birth a German, who had received the naturalisation papers, with three villages, as a donation from the Crown. The state of agriculture was at the time much neglected, and the peasants poor, from cultivating their land in common, and being subject to heavy seigniorial duties. Count Bernstorf changed everything. He had the farms properly laid out, and sold them separately to the peasants, who have since become substantial and independent farmers. To show their gratitude, they erected a marble statue to Count Bernstorf during his lifetime. The palace and park were sold after his death, and became State property in the time of the late King, Christian VIII., who kept his Court there occasionally. During the reign of the present King the palace and the grounds have been exclusively occupied by his Royal Highness Prince Christian of Denmark. It was here the Royal Highness Princess Alexandra received, a few days before her departure from Copenhagen, a farewell entrance visit of the deputies of the peasants in the neighbourhood, by whom she is much beloved.

CHRISTIANSBORG CASTLE.

the King's palace, is situated near the spot where Absalon, in the year 1167, ran up a fortification, and where he had always been a castle, though in different forms, which, from the time of Christoph of Bavaria, has been the residence of the Danish Kings. It acquired its name from King Christian VI., who caused the old castle to be pulled down, and erected another in the years 1733-40, which was, however, destroyed by fire, with the exception of its side buildings, in the year 1794. The present edifice is a modern one, having been completed as recently as 1828. Even now many parts of the upper stories are still undecorated. The castle itself has four wings. The principal front faces the castle-square, and to the east end of this is a wing running west; and parallel to the principal façade is the fourth wing, the centre of which is interrupted but connected by a colonnade of thirty-two Doric pillars. The castle proper consists of 300 rooms. It is now, besides the King's rooms and apartments for his attendants and household, partly used for Government offices—amongst which is that of the Folkething and Landsthing (Danish Diet), Minister of Finance, Herald's Office, Hall of the Knights, records, large and splendid collection of paintings of different schools, open to the public, &c. The castle is likewise connected by a building used by the King with the castle chapel. The group of buildings comprising the Christiansborg and the castle are used as stables, coach-houses, theatre, and residence for many officials and servants. The principal entrance to the castle-square with a portal, over which are six Corinthian columns bearing a pediment. In this are placed Jupiter on Olympus, surrounded by the gods, executed in terra-cotta, after Thorwaldsen. In the niches on both sides of the door are four statues executed in bronze—Mercur, Minerva, Hercules, and Bellona—corresponding bas-reliefs over each. The first is the work of Thorwaldsen, and the rest are executed by the celebrated sculptor Bissen, after sketches by the same artist (Thorwaldsen). Over the rooms the Hall of the Knights is especially noticeable; it is 41 yards long by 15 yards broad and 14 yards high. In this there are 24 columns round, which rests on sixteen Corinthian columns, over which is Bissen's colossal frieze representing the triumph of Ceres and Bacchus. The floor is a parquet of oak and mahogany. The ceiling is divided in square pieces, with gilded ornaments. In the antechamber is Thorwaldsen's celebrated frieze, Alexander's triumphal entrance into Babylon, executed in marble—a copy of which, in plaster, was exhibited in the London Exhibition of 1851, and another in the International Exhibition, and will most likely be handed over to the South Kensington Museum as a gift from the Danish Government. Amongst other rooms worth notice are the Throne-room (the canopy of the throne supported by two caryatides by Thorwaldsen, and the paintings by Eberschlade), the room of the chamberlain attendants of the King, a room in Pompeian style, and the Council-chamber, the latter having its walls of indigenous wood, etched.

AMALIENBORG-GASSET, COPENHAGEN.

We have mentioned in another article that the parents of her Royal Highness Princess Alexandra were married on the 26th of May, 1842, at the Palace of Amalienborg, Copenhagen. The present magnificent of the beautiful Square of that name, the very centre of the business portion of Copenhagen. Four palaces, built in similar style, towards the middle of the last century, by the representatives of four noble families—Counts Schack, Dercentin, Levetzau, and Brockdorff—form that quarter of the city called Amalienborg-gasse. The beautiful equestrian statue, in bronze, in the middle of the square was erected by the grandfather of the Danish Company, in 1771, to the honour of the then King of Denmark, Frederick V., whom the statue represents. The palaces are painted in old stucco with Latin inscriptions. The palaces were bought in by the State before 1794; and when a great fire in that year consumed the King's palace of Christiansborg (situated in another part of Copenhagen), King Christian VII. ordered two of them to be fitted up for the King, and a commodious way built to connect them to connect them. His son, Frederick VI., retained them in use until his death, in 1839. They are, however, now used; the one, seen to the right, for the meetings of the Supreme Court of Appeal, and the other, not visible in the Engraving, for the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. The palace to the left is occupied by the truly pious and amiable Queen Dowager, Caroline Amelia; and the last, in front, is occupied by the grandparents of her Royal Highness Princess Alexandra; and it is there that her Royal Highness's parents were married.

The Queen has appointed Philip Allen, Esq., to be resident magistrate for the colony of Natal; and her Majesty has approved of Mr. Hingston Fisher as Counsel at Sydney for her Majesty's Colony of Victoria.

On the third anniversary of the separation of Queensland from New South Wales the Brisbane Courier stated that the population with which this new colony started in December, 1859, was but 23,000; at Michaelmas, 1863, the number was 42,000; and in December was not less than 50,000. The population has thus increased at the rate of 27 per cent.

The London Gazette of Tuesday contains a report from Lieut. Lefroy of his investigation of the Niger, on the coast of the Bight of Biafra. It is to the form of a diary, and narrates a voyage up that river, from Lagos Rabba, and thence to the camp of King Masaba. Lieut. Lefroy was accompanied with his vessel in company with Dr. Baikie; in this, however, he failed as that traveller had left Rabba before Mr. Lieut. Lefroy reached that town in the steamer to Lagos. He speaks highly of the charts of the Niger by Lieut. Glover, which made the pilot's duty superfluous.

The last mail from Alexandria brought the text of a curious document, being a formal declaration of war by the King of Abyssinia against Said Pacha, the late Viceroy of Egypt. His Abyssinian Majesty says:—"You do not make war like brave men; you hide yourselves behind walls; you kill your enemies with cannon; you have stole the open country with your spies; there, forsooth, to invest, by valour and courage decide the fate of battle. It was thus our ancestors used to fight." The document, which was written after Said Pacha's death, but whose receipt has not been several thousand Turkish Bashi-Bazouks with orders to repel King Theodore's force if they cross the frontier, but not to pursue them on the Abyssinian territory.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

W. R., Fort Glasgow.—The matter is explicable without attributing undue force to any of the pieces. Your solution is correct, and the problem is a fair one. The mistake was much strained, was shown about by some of the native players, and, as it was unexpressed, at at length got ascribed to one of them, and was used back here as an "Indian problem." Send the author another, but be sure, as you have no solution, it is accurately copied.

C. D., Bristol, did not receive a single correct solution of Problem No. 269, so you must not be surprised that it has baffled you. The composition by the same author in our present Number, though in fewer moves, is hardly less puzzling, and will be given up as hopeless by nine-tenths of those who attempt its solution.

J. F. V.—Nos. 1, 2, and 4 are correct, but too easy; No. 3 appears impracticable if Black play 1. K to Q B 4th, and 2. K to Q 5th.

L. C. of Carlisle.—In your first problem you have not seen the mate after 1. P takes B; in the second, we do not see how White can win if Black begins with 1. Q to Q B 8th.

SOLUTION OF PROBLEM NO. 292.

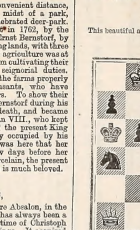
WHITE.	BLACK.	WHITE.	BLACK.
1. Kt to Q 8th	P takes Kt (best)	3. Kt to K 4th (ch)	K to K 6th
2. Kt to Q Kt 6th	P takes Q (best)	4. Kt takes Q P.	Mate.

PROBLEM No. 293.

By Mr. L. C. Campbell.

This beautiful and difficult stratagem was one of the prize compositions of the late tourney.

BLACK.



WHITE.

White, playing first, gives mate in three moves.

CHESS IN LONDON.

A Game played between Mr. Staunton and one of the finest English Players, (Count Gambit).

WHITE (Mr. S.)	BLACK (Mr.—)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd
3. B to Q B 4th	B to Q B 4th
4. P to Q Kt 4th	B takes Kt P
5. P to Q B 3rd	B to Q B 4th
6. Castles	B to Q Kt 3rd
7. P to Q 4th.	P takes P
8. Kt takes P	B takes Kt
9. P takes B	P takes P
10. P to K B 4th	Kt to K B 3rd
11. P to K 5th	P takes P
12. K B P takes P	Kt to Q 4th

(This stays Black from castling at the moment, and embarrasses him seriously all through the game. White might, however, have taken the P. Even with his Rook and have obtained an irresistible attack.)

WHITE (Amateur)	BLACK (Mr. S.)
13. B to K 3rd	B to K 3rd
14. Q to Q 3rd	Q Kt to K 2nd

(It would have been better for him, perhaps, to have played Q to Q 2nd, and then P to Q Kt 3rd. If Kt to Q Kt 5th at this point.)

15. Kt to Q 2nd	Castles
16. Kt to K 4th	P to K B 3rd
17. Kt to B 3rd	P takes Kt
18. Kt to K 6th (ch)	P takes Kt
19. B takes P	P to K B 3rd
20. Q to K Kt 3rd (ch)	K to R 2nd
21. P to K 6th	P to Q 4th
22. P takes Q	R takes Q
23. B to K 5th	R to K 2nd
24. Q R to K sq.	B to K 3rd
25. Q R to K 4th	B to K 4th

And Black resigns.

An instructive Game, in which Mr. Staunton gave the odds of Pawn and move to a Player who is not a Chess Amateur.

(Remove Black's K B Pawn from the Board.)

WHITE (Amateur)	BLACK (Mr. S.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. P to K B 4th	P takes P
3. K Kt to K B 3rd	P to K Kt 4th
4. P to K R 4th	P to K Kt 5th
5. Kt to K 5th	Kt to Q B 3rd
6. B to Q B 4th	P to Q 3rd
7. Kt takes Kt	P takes Kt
8. B to K 3rd	P to Q 4th
9. B takes P	B to K 3rd
10. Q to Q B 3rd	B takes Kt
11. P takes B	B to K Kt 5th
12. Kt takes R	B takes Kt
13. Q to K sq	B to K 5th

The game was prolonged for some time, and was ultimately won by Black.

A lively specimen of the "Evans," in which Mr. Staunton gave the odds of Kt (Q Kt 3rd) to the Amateur.

(Remove White's Q Kt Pawn from the Board.)

WHITE (Mr. S.)	BLACK (Amateur.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd
3. B to Q B 4th	B to Q B 4th
4. P to Q Kt 4th	B takes Kt P
5. P to Q B 3rd	B to Q B 4th
6. Castles	B to Q Kt 3rd
7. P to Q 4th	P to Q 4th
8. P to K 5th	P to Q Kt 4th
9. P takes P in pass	Q takes P (ch)
10. B to Q B 3rd	B to Q B 5th
11. P to K 6th	P takes P

(This, at first sight, looks like throwing away a Pawn; but it is sound, as will be seen presently.)

	K takes B
12. Kt to K Kt 5th (ch)	K to his sq

WHITE (Mr. S.)	BLACK (Amateur.)
13. Kt to Q 5th	Q to K R 3rd
14. Kt to K 4th	Q to Q 4th
15. B takes B	P takes B
16. P to Q 4th	Q takes P
17. P to Q 5th	Q to Q 4th
18. Q Kt to Q B 3rd	Q R to Q B sq
19. Q to K 2nd	Q to Q 3rd
20. Q R to Q sq	Q to Q 4th

(It is clear that he would have lost his Queen if he had taken the Bishop with Pawn.)

21.	K Kt to Kt sq.
22. B takes Q B	B to K 3rd
23. P to K 7th	Q R to Q B sq

(Very skilfully conceived.)

24.	B takes R
25. B takes K Kt P	B takes P
26. P takes K R P	K takes P
27. Q to K 4th (ch)	K to Q sq

And White, playing first, mates in four moves.

FINE ARTS.

ARCHITECTURAL PHOTOGRAPHIC ASSOCIATION.

We are glad to see that, although the Exhibition of the Architectural Photographic Association last year was not so successful as it deserved, the society is still labouring actively. It has lately issued to each guinea subscriber for 1862 an extremely fine series of ten photographs of the famous sculptures in the west front of Wells Cathedral, and one general view. This set is one of three taken by Messrs. Gundall and Downes; the remainder two (each containing twelve photographs) forming "extra parts." The whole, together with a large number of photographs by the same firm from various parts of this most interesting cathedral, comprising what is termed a "supernumerary publication," are to be sent at the office of the association, and at the Architectural Exhibition—both No. 9 Conduit-street. We may mention that subscribers have the rights to select from several numbers, two, at least, of which will consist of subjects each from the churches of the south of France—structures some of which have been comparatively and unfairly neglected by architectural students.

Photography has won its greatest triumphs in copying such subjects as the eleven more prominent sculptures of Wells. And in thus adapting within our portfolios in the studio and the library perfect facsimiles of the most remarkable works of sculpture and architecture it renders us, for obvious reasons, one of the most valuable of its many services. The sculpture of the cathedral of Wells claims, we think, a high rank among the early works of the same kind, the most complete and accurate illustration. In these vast works, containing upwards of six hundred figures, in addition to very high merit, distributed in nine tiers, we have the most complete cycle of sacred history—free, too, from the apocryphyal and legendary matter which often disfigures contemporaneous works both in painting, sculpture and art—anywhere to be found in sculpture. Rude in execution, disproportioned as the figures, with no pretensions to anatomical correctness, rendering each subject with the utmost naïveté, and occasionally with a close approach to caricature, these sculptures yet have a rare power of telling an intelligible story, and of being precursive in delineating the multifarious and opposite characters of the truly epical compositions that many an Italian artist may yet essay. We have the high authority of Flaxman that "in parts there is a beautiful simplicity, a masculine manner, and sometimes a great excelling more modern productions." There is little doubt that these were the works of native sculptors, although Italy is commonly reputed to be the fountain-head of all that is very remarkable. Says Flaxman, "that Wells Cathedral was finished in 1242, two years after the birth of Cimabue, the reformer of painting; and the same time was going on at the same time that Nicolo Pisano, the Italian restorer of sculpture, exercised the art in his own country; and it was finished forty-eight years before the Cathedral of Orvieto was begun, and it seems to be the earliest specimen of such magnificent and varied sculpture under in a series of sacred history that is to be found in Western Europe." With the present issue of photographs is published a description of these sculptures, written by Professor Mr. Cockerell's "Iconography of the West Front of Wells Cathedral; and we are glad to find that such a trustworthy authority upholds the opinion we have long entertained of the merit of these sculptures besides that adorned by Wells Cathedral, that there is the highest probability that the whole of the sculpture in the country of Wells erected as illustrious as that of any other of Western Europe. Ten of the photographs are taken from casts taken from the sculptures in high relief within quatrefoils, illustrative of subjects from the Old and New Testament, which form the third tier or zone of the sculptures. The most remarkable of these is the subject of Adam and Eve, "especially noticed in Flaxman's Lectures: "8. John the Evangelist," "Christ among the Doctors," "Christ among the Doctors," "The Last Supper," and "The Transfiguration" (?).

The most important work going forward in St. George's Chapel, Windsor (where the Prince of Wales is to be married), is the setting up of the new stained glass window, by no means the east window designed by West. The newly-wrought stonework, of fifteen lights in width and of proportionate height, is being filled with the new stained glass—which promises to be the best work by Messrs. Clayton and Bell—and will be dedicated, in the following inscription, to the memory of the late Prince Consort:—In honorem Dei et Beatæ Mariæ Virginis memoriam hanc fenestram Decanus et Canonici ecclesiæ metropolitanæ Carolopolitanæ, MDCCCLXIII." In the central positions of each tier are the Adoration of the Kings, the Resurrection, and the Glory of our Lord. In side lights, tier upon tier, are introduced the following selections of Scripture prophets, and worthies of the Old and New Testaments. In the lower tier Aaron, Jehoshaphat, Hezekiah, Josiah, Nicodemus, Joseph of Arimathea, and the Good Centurion. In the second tier are introduced the twenty-four Elders casting down their crowns before the throne of the Redeemer, symbolical of angels, cherubim, &c. At the base of the window, and in immediate connection with the inscriptions and armorial bearings of the Prince, is a tier of twenty-four figures representing, in each, a symbolical figure—portraiture being avoided—engaged in various acts of public and domestic worth. These subjects illustrate the Prince's interest in agriculture, science, learning, art, &c. The series comprising the central division of the window is as follows:—

The Wolsey Chapel, adjoining St. George's, is also to be converted into an Albert memorial. It is to be restored and decorated in a most sumptuous manner, as memorial to the Prince, at the cost of the Royal children. The firm already named is to design and prepare the whole of the ornate decorations, and the glass for the stained glass, which is to be placed in its numerous windows. The roof designs will be in mosaic, and their execution will be intrusted to Dr. Salviati, of Venice, who has exhibited specimens of the arts of the International building. The works are to be spread over a considerable period of time, and will cost, perhaps, £25,000, although the chapel is very small.

In our notice last week of the designs for the mosaics proposed to be placed in the south aisle of St. Paul's, we remarked that even those mosaics could not be executed without the aid of further subscriptions from the public, when so much more exciting relating to the decoration of this truly magnificent but illappreciated edifice. Since our notice a sudden and unexpected expense has been voted by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Works. Mr. Penrose, the surveyor to St. Paul's, wrote to the Times on the 2nd inst. intimating that the east window over the choir aisle of the cathedral would be drawn from the decoration fund—already too small—and hoping contributions would be forthcoming to meet the deficiency on account of the illumination. No doubt this appeal will meet with a liberal response, and we trust that, instead of impoverishing, it will have a supplement to the fund. Besides the great east window in the apse, Mr. Penrose has elsewhere announced that the Dean and Chapter desire to have a window over the north door of the choir aisle glass, and have conceded the window over the altar, the lower central window of the six, to the Drapers' Company, who have, in accordance with the cathedral surveyor, intrusted the preparation of the design to the celebrated Professor Schmor, of Munich, the glass to be executed in the Royal Bavarian Manufactory of Glass Conversion of St. Gall, the design for which is likewise being prepared by Professor Schmor, and to be executed at Munich.

A profusion of presents have been given to Princess Alexandra. Among the number, we may mention the following works of art:—From her Majesty the Queen Dowager and their Royal Highnesses the Hereditary Prince and Princess, a large painting by Schütz, representing a group of Princess Alexandra's brothers and sisters; from Baron Krieg-Hochen-Pinecke and his wife, Princess Augusta, a marble group—two children kissing each other—one of the finest works ever executed by Bissen, the great Danish sculptor; and from the capital a marble statue, "Hebe," also by Bissen. A group in marble, "Cupid and Psyche," executed by Bissen, has also been commissioned by Danish landowners from Jerichow, one of the most eminent Danish sculptors since Thorwaldsen, as a wedding gift

COLUMN FOR THE CURIOUS.

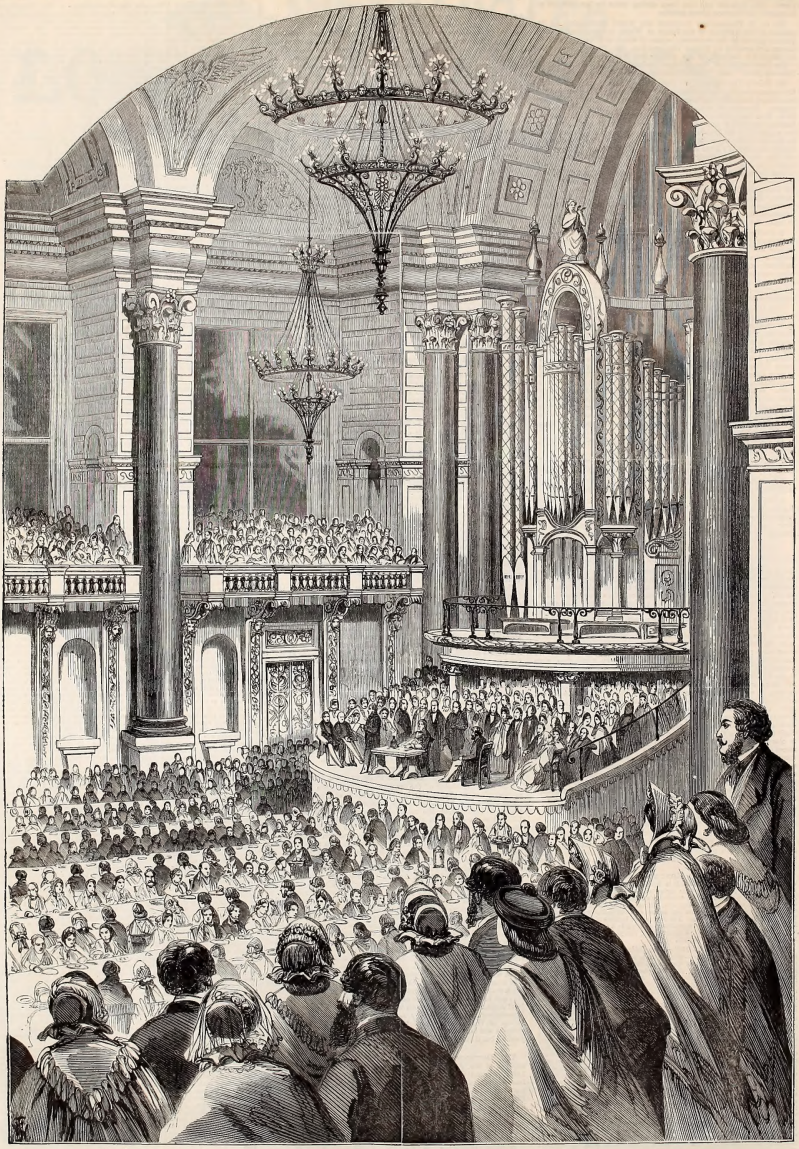
THE DANES IN LONDON.

AT a moment when public attention is naturally directed to the country of our future Princess of Wales it may be interesting to remind the reader that, besides Denmark-court, Denmark-street, and Copenhagen-street, indicative of the connection between England and Denmark in modern times, we possess numerous memorials of the earlier occupation of London by the Danes and Northmen. The most popular of these ancient ones is the legend of the church of St. Clement Danes, in the Strand, which, though not 150 years old, occupies a Danish site of eight centuries since. In some curious regulations for the prevention of fire in the metropolis, in the year 1189, we read of a great conflagration which "happened in the first year of King Stephen, (1135), when, by a fire which began at London Bridge, the church of St. Paul was burnt, and then that fire spread, consuming Aldwych and Lincoln's-inn-fields, as far as the Church of Clement Danes." Rowe's account is that the church was so called "because Harold, a Danish King, and other Danes who were slain in Edgar's sight o'clock p.m., a blow of gas evident enough to stop the pump, and lasting two minutes. Whether the explosion took place in the gas several times. He thinks that there is more gas blown off in winter than in summer, and that the testimony cannot be relied upon in regard to that effect.

ROYAL INSTITUTION LECTURES.

PROFESSOR MARSHALL'S sixth lecture on "Animal Mechanics," on Tuesday, the 24th ult., was devoted to an illustration of the principles of the mechanism of respiration, principally in man and the mammalia. In dilating the respiratory passages, the ribs, as in the lecturer's former experiments upon the admirable arrangement of the intercostal muscles which raise and depress the ribs; the little expenditure of force required for the production of inspiration, and the provision made for its increase when required; the elastic structure of the lungs, which contributes largely to the force of the diffusion of gases in the interchange of pure and foul air; the utilisation of the expired air in voice and speech, &c. The number of breaths in the average nineteen times per minute, and in one minute exert a force equal to fifteen pounds. The mechanism of the air-tubes employed in the production of the various kinds of the breathing organs in birds, reptiles, fishes, and in the lower animals. In the latter, these organs become modified in order to adapt them to exist in the water, till in the cephalopoda and proteus they are entirely wanting, the animals respiring through the general surface.

PROFESSOR FRANKLAND gave his sixth lecture "On Chemical Affinity" on Thursday, Feb. 26, when the determination of decomposition produced indirectly by light, as exhibited in the processes of photography, and showed by experiments that the chemical rays of light are not the rays of the maximum heat, the invisible non-luminiferous rays joining them. He next proceeded to exhibit, by means of the voltaic battery, the decomposition produced by electricity, the form sometimes taken by the molecular motion destroyed in chemical combination being that of electricity, and then the chemical decomposition produced by electric sparks (such as nitric acid, formed of the oxygen and nitrogen in the atmosphere by the electric spark), and the reverse process produced by the combination of oxygen and hydrogen) are the effect of the heat of those sparks, and, lastly, the decomposition produced by the electric spark of water and by the heat developed during those discharges; but, when a continuous electric current passes through a solution of water, decomposition is produced in the solute, till in the colderstria and proteros

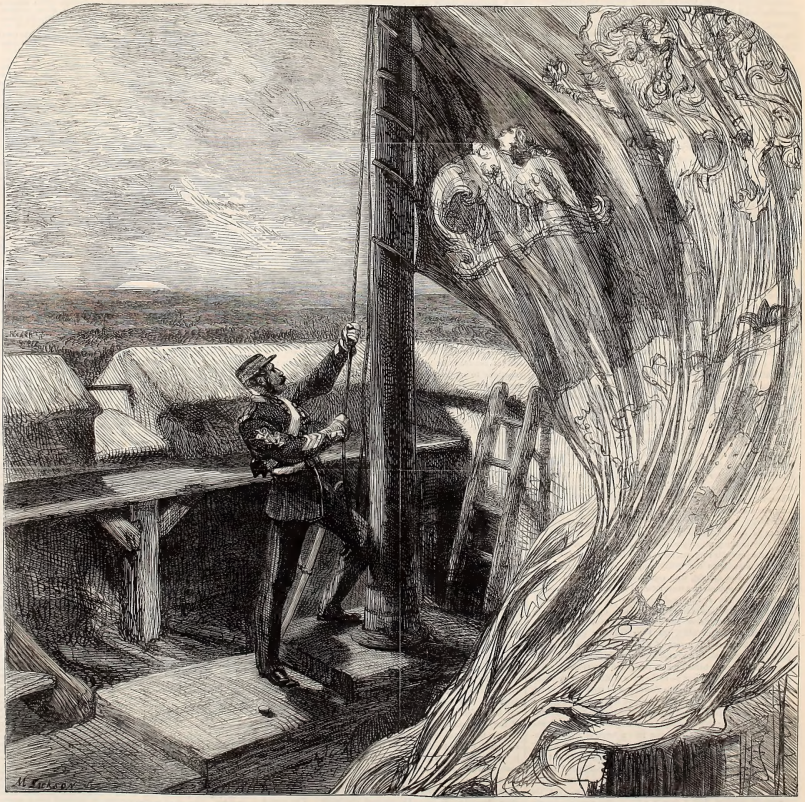


SOIRÉE OF THE LIVERPOOL CO-OPERATIVE PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION AT ST. GEORGE'S HALL.—SEE PRECEDING PAGE.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 98 Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, MARCH 7, 1863.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

No. 1193.—VOL. XLII. SATURDAY, MARCH 14, 1863. TWO SHEETS, FIVEPENCE



HOISTING THE ROYAL STANDARD AT WINDSOR CASTLE AT SUNRISE ON THE PRINCE OF WALES'S MARRIAGE-DAY.—SEE SUPPLEMENT.

MARRIAGE OF THE PRINCE OF WALES.

THE astonishing pageant which on Saturday last brought the population of London, literally by millions, into the streets, once more to testify their enthusiastic loyalty for their Queen, and their love for her Eldest Son and the fair young Daughter whom all Britain has adopted, has been followed by a Ceremonial more stately, more solemn, and more momentous. A triumphant end has crowned the work. Magnificent as were the preliminaries, their glories pale before the splendour of the climax. On the 7th of March the beauteous and graceful Star of the North could catch but a passing glimpse, in the midst of hurry and excitement, of the boisterous and tumultuous masses over whom her Consort will at some future day—may it be a long-distant one—be called to reign, of the garlanded houses of the chief city in the realm, and of the quaint and antiquated pomp of the municipality of London. But on Tuesday, the 10th, in a more circumscribed area, under more tranquil circumstances, and in the midst of a more exclusive entourage, she was enabled, as the foremost actress in a mighty scene, to contemplate the grandeur and gorgeousness of the Court of England—the most ancient, the most dignified, the most chivalrous in Europe. In the tremendous demonstrations of last Saturday—almost alarming in their intensity as they occasionally became—Princess Alexandra showed herself endowed with rare powers of nerve and endurance. On Tuesday emotions of a far different nature were called into play; softer sentiments prevailed; gentler feelings had the mastery. There was no roaring going around to stun her with rough though hearty acclamations. There was no need to carve a passage, so to speak, with the sabres of dragoons and the truncheons of constables, through dense and seething masses of pent-up humanity. The venerable chapel of St. George was girt about by barriers impassable to all but the thrice-distilled essence of the privileged classes. The line of procession was broad and open as the Sacred Way. The space before the altar was swept and garnished. The selected few to whom the high honour of witnessing the Royal nuptials had been conceded yielded to that stillness and stateliness of decorum which can only be enjoyed by those who have been bred in Courts and tutored from childhood in the traditional observances of a graceful and ceremonious etiquette—who are accustomed to be marshalled by chamberlains, and heralds, and trumpeters, and who are too well nurtured to give vent to their feelings in boisterous and violent applause. Yet, comparatively subdued and delicately refined as was the great solemnity of the 10th of March after the deafening and tempestuous welcome of the Royal party, it would be in the highest degree unjust to characterise it as either tame or uninteresting. Within an assembly limited to those very concentrated almost all that is representative of the glory, the grandeur, and the antiquity of England—all that can bring back the memory of the mighty past—all that can recall the noble deeds of our ancestors—all that can induce us with pride and gratification to acknowledge that the noblest part of the growth of the patrimain of old have come down to their descendants. The tremor and bashfulness of innocent youth, the nervous fluttering of a girlish heart, the sense of novelty, of strange faces, strange garments, and strange ceremonies, may have been for a moment, in the pure mind of Princess Alexandra, like fleecy cloudlets skimming across a summer sky; but in another instant she must have been reassured. She must have known that in the sumptuous and stately throng around her there was not one heart but throbbed with reverential affection for the Sovereign and the Prince to whom she is now united by indissoluble ties. From a hundred kind eyes she must have seen love, respect, admiration, encouragement, gleaming. She must have felt that she was there, as everywhere else, among friends; that not one spot in England, from the spangled dais of the cathedral chapel to the sanded floor of the peasant's hut, could be found from the highest to the lowest that would spurning an affectionate homage. She must, in her heart of hearts, have been convinced that she was already the darling of this great, strong, uncouth, but warm-hearted English people; that they cherished her as the apple of their eye; that they would lay down their lives for her as the adopted child of a heavenly, whose mild and beneficent rule, whose varied attainments, whose rare simplicity and meekness, whose exalted virtues, have long since endeared her to all classes of her subjects, although their loving-cup has been dashed with sadness at the remembrance of the heartrending bereavement over which the foremost lady in the great empire of Britain still mourns.

But the joy-bells ring out, clear and silver-voiced, and their clangour ascends to the Empyrean, mingled with countless exclamations of delight, with countless prayers for the future and lasting happiness of Albert Edward Prince of Wales and his young bride. In a thousand churches last Sabbath were devotional aspirations uttered to Him who disposes of Kings and Princes as of slaves and swineherds, to whom Babylon the Great is but a molehill, the Four Seas but puddles, and the Four Empires but grains of dust.—Who holds all man's pride, grandeur, valour, and ambition in the hollow of His hand, and with one gentle breath makes pomp and vanity curl up like a leaf of the sensitive plant;—to the King of Kings, before whom sceptre and crown must tumble down, and be made equal in the earth with the poor cropped scythe and spade, fervent orisons from myriads of hearts went forth for blessings to be vouchsafed to this union; for this marriage to be in spirit and in truth one of affection, to be ripened in time into a bond of mutual confidence and esteem. "God bless the Prince of Wales!" "God bless Princess Alexandra!" Inscriptions such as these have blazed in gas or scintillated in many-coloured lamps, or have been 'broidered on banners, or intertwined with festoons of flowers all over the land this fortnight past; but the blessings invoked find a deeper echo in the people's hearts. Those who care little for pageantry and raree shows—those who are poor, and sick, and unhappy—those who can never hope to bask in the sunshine of Alexandra's face—can still pray, and are still praying, for Heaven's blessings on her marriage—the blessing without which the bridal contract is void and the Office a mockery, the blessing in whose absence the orange-blossoms wither and the bride's veil turns to sable crape. That such a benison will be bestowed, and that the union of Albert Edward and Alexandra will be as peerless in bliss as in splendour, all Britons are glad to hope and to believe. So far as from human and therefore fallible propabilities we can prognosticate, the future career of the Prince and Princess of Wales seems fraught with every promise of joy and happiness. They commence their wedded life at an epoch unparalleled in our history for the active display of that attachment manifested by the people at large for the reigning dynasty. Whatever political differences may on other points divide the community, personal loyalty to the Sovereign and her family is neutral ground on which all parties can meet. In the gorgeous decoration and brilliant occupancy on Saturday of the palaces belonging to the two great political rivals, the Reform and the Carlton Clubs, an image may be traced of the unanimity of feeling which on one Imperial theme exists among politicians otherwise antagonistic. By this time the balconies and draperies both of the Tory and the Liberal Clubs have been torn to rags and tatters, and the members are discussing each others measures and combating each others principles with the old persistence and the old virulence; but on Saturday last Whigs and Tories, Doctrinaires and Ultramontanes, Conservatives and Radicals, were all of one mind. Loyalty transcended party. It swallowed them all as the serpent of Aaron did the rods and the rage of party; and quondam opponents vied with one another in preparing a brilliant and enthusiastic ovation for the bride of their future King. As it was in Fall-mall, so was it—so is it now—all over the land. On a hundred spires an independent and intelligent people may display their religion, but on every hearth, and in the old and cheerful rays fall with as much benignity on the humble fishing-smack as on the lordly ironclad.

It has not been always thus in England. There have been times—far removed from our own, thank Heaven!—when a gulf has separated Sovereign and Subject, when a chasm has existed that has widened every day and that has often threatened to become impassable. By kindly and judicious measures, by the change of rulers and the lapse of time, these cavernous abysses have been bridged over; and at the present happy conjuncture scarce a scar remains to show that they ever existed. No one thinks, nowadays, of a violently-strained prerogative; of encroachments on the subjects' liberties; of a Royal family who are exemplary, not from their virtuous but from their scandalous lives; of an aristocratic class who, by nature and by education, were taught to hate and despise their inferiors in rank. Those days are gone, and gone for ever, and gone by an irrevocable Past. The present is cheerful and honest. If our Court has been shrouded in seclusion it has not been the seclusion of a morose and morbid sensuality; if pompous pageants and glittering entertainments are few and far between, we are not grudged the expenditure and the exactions to support sinecurists in idleness, and parasites in corruption. The deep and universal loyalty which pervades the British Empire to its uttermost extremities, and which is ever ready to exhibit itself, spontaneous and unquenchable, may be held to be a boon to a more than counterbalance abatement, a caprice which has grown into a fashion, a monomania which is in vogue. But when—divested of its cheering, and bell-ringing, and banner-waving accessories—this universality of loyalty comes to be analysed and dissected, the most cynical philosopher must be constrained to admit the conclusion that the far deeper, that its foundations are far surer, that its magnitude is on a far vaster scale than on mere cursory examination they might feel disposed to admit. Loyalty in this country is a Great Fact; and, like all other facts, it is a resume of substantial and essential truths. We are not an imaginative people; we are not frivolous; we are not volatile; we are not mendacious; nor was it with sudden and unthinking rashness that we became fervently loyal, or that our loyalty gave signs of being a permanent institution and not a mere evanescent whim. We went, as we have always gone, upon Facts. At the distance of time it is easy to account for the unpopularity of many of our Sovereigns. We have the Facts before us. We know now that they were cruel, or wicked, or vicious rulers, and that the outward devotion of subservient courtiers surrounded them seldom went beyond mere hypocrisy and lip service; and we are equally enabled to call facts to justify us for the profound and devoted feeling of loyalty entertained by the people of England for their gracious Sovereign and her family. Those facts are plain and palpable; they shine forth in our Queen's own virtue, integrity, and benevolence; in the rectitude of her actions, in the kindness of her heart, in the example she has set, by her own domestic life, to the wives and mothers of England; in the pattern she has shown to foreign Courts in making her own the purest in Christendom. With truths undeniable as these to rest upon, Loyalty at once becomes easy of comprehension; nor are we, it is to be hoped, over sanguine in looking for the continuance and perpetuation of that loyal feeling towards the Heir Apparent to the Throne and his bride. The young Princess of Wales comes to us with all the credentials that youth, and beauty, and education can give. The Prince bears recommendations as weighty: the weightier, perhaps, that he has been amongst us from his infancy. Stalwart and gallant, travelled and accomplished, trained under the auspices of the tenderest of Mothers and the wisest, the best of Fathers, what can we—what should we—look forward to, in the union of the illustrious and amiable pair, but a Spring of love and gaiety, a Summer time of splendour and power, a Golden evening when lives spent in wisdom and goodness shall culminate in reverence and honour!

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

FRANCE.

The Emperor presided on Wednesday at a Council of the Ministers.

The bill relative to the supplementary credits for 1862 has been adopted in the Corps Législatif.

A decree of the Minister of War has just fixed the price of exonerations from military service for the conscripts of 1863 at 2300f. (£92), or 200f. less than it was for the year preceding.

Prince Teano, son of Queen Pomare, who arrived in France on board the Isis frigate, has taken up his residence in Paris to complete his education.

The railway between Dax and Pau has just been opened to the public, making the communication now complete between the latter place and Paris.

The different corps intended to form the camp at Châlons this year have received orders to send beforehand detachments of garde-cercasiders to sow with vegetables, at the right season, the gardens destined for each regiment, so as to produce all that may be required for the troops during their stay. The ground which has been already cleared and prepared by the troops who remained in the camp during the winter, is in the most favourable condition.

The General of the Carthusian Order, at the convent of the Grande-Chartreuse, has resigned his rank and withdrawn, in the character of a simple monk, to the establishment of the same order in Rome. A delegate, nominated by the Pope, administered the affairs of the convent until Father Suisson, Prior of Bonnerville, near Saxay, was elected by a general assembly as successor of Father Mesiere, the former Abbot, who had held office for thirty years.

SPAIN.

The new Cabinet is completed as follows:—Foreign Affairs, Marquis Miraflores; War, Marquis Havana; Finance, Senor Sierra; Justice, Senor Monares; Marine, Senor Mata-Aior; Public Works, Senor Lopez.

The Ministry has postponed the reopening of the Cortes to the 1st of April, with the intention of submitting the Budget in a modified form.

ITALY.

The Pope has refused to accept the resignation tendered by Cardinal Antonelli. The crisis caused by this act is considered to be the outbreak of a struggle for supremacy in the Papal councils between the Cardinal and Monsignore de Merode, one of whom, it seems likely, the Pope will have to sacrifice.

PRUSSIA.

One of the Berlin official organs, the Staats Anzeigers, condemns as a mischievous invention the statement that the initiative of the convention with Russia in Poland was due to the rising at Lublin, and to the Prussian Ministry, that they resolved to conclude it through fear of a revolution. The paper adds that Russia had requested a modification of the convention on perceiving the impression which it had produced in England and France.

The Grymnasium, or Prussian town Tremesenne, in the Grand Duchy of Posen, has been ordered to be closed by the Government in consequence of forty of the students having joined the Polish insurrection.

DENMARK.

The day of Princess Alexandra's marriage with the Prince of Wales was celebrated at Copenhagen with extraordinary festivity.

The King gave a dinner at the Castle of Christiansborg. Landgraf Guillaume, the grandfather of her Royal Highness, and all the Ministers, diplomatists, and high functionaries were present. The King proposed the health of the newly-married couple in an eloquent speech, and expressed warm wishes for their future happiness. During the banquet a telegram arrived from Princess Christian announcing the conclusion of the marriage ceremony at Windsor. The King, in reply, sent a message expressing his congratulation on the auspicious event.

A ball took place in the evening, when another telegram was received from Princess Christian and one from the Princess of Wales conveying their compliments to their Copenhagen friends.

Flags were hoisted during the day upon all public buildings and the majority of private houses. The ships in the harbour being similarly decorated. Military bands played during the evening in all the public squares. The streets of the city were brilliantly illuminated, and the poor were feasted.

Festivities took place in all the provincial towns during the day.

TURKEY.

Ismail Pacha left Constantinople on the 5th inst. to return to Egypt. The Sultan has received a deputation of Montenegrins in order to accede to the wishes of their nation.

Tuesday's Gazette contains a translation of an ordinance issued by the Sultan at Tuesday's Council of the Ministry of his intention of war into that empire, for reasons connected with its repose and security.

THE POLISH INSURRECTION.

The aspect of the struggle in Poland has undergone but little change. Russian telegrams claim important victories which prove to be but doubtful successes, and on the other hand the reports from Cracow and Lemberg stories of insurgent successes which turn out to be nothing but inventions. In the mountains of Cracow, as before it seem, upon the whole, to have had the advantage over Langiewicz. On the other hand, the latter seems to be in no hurry to bring on a war into that empire, for reasons connected with its repose and security.

THE POLISH INSURRECTION.

The aspect of the struggle in Poland has undergone but little change. Russian telegrams claim important victories which prove to be but doubtful successes, and on the other hand the reports from Cracow and Lemberg stories of insurgent successes which turn out to be nothing but inventions. In the mountains of Cracow, as before it seem, upon the whole, to have had the advantage over Langiewicz. On the other hand, the latter seems to be in no hurry to bring on a war into that empire, for reasons connected with its repose and security. Though his success may not have been great, he yet claims the attention of a very large Russian force. The substance seems to be that where the Russians have made a movement in force of the insurgents they have beaten them, but the fugitives gather again as if nothing had happened; and meanwhile, in the other parts of the Kingdom, the guerrilla bands carry on a warfare which is more predatory than anything else. The main point is that the insurrection holds its own, and that all the efforts of the Russians have not yet succeeded in clearing a single government.

By resolution of the Central National Committee, General Wysocki has been proclaimed Dictator of Poland. General Wysocki has hitherto appeared has military counsel who acts in direction of the civil administration has been entrusted to Pomkowo.

The following proclamation of General Langiewicz, which has produced a prodigious effect, has been published:—

Countrymen!—In the name of the Most High, the most patriotic son of Poland have entered upon the struggle caused by terrible misery and directed against the earnest enemies of liberty and civilization. Notwithstanding the extremely unfavourable circumstances in which the country is, and the increase of oppression, hastened the armed conflict, the struggle, commenced by us, has already for several days spread with strength, gain strength, and develops itself with energy. In presence of this war to the death, which the enemy, by his conduct, has compelled us to undertake, while I mark the progress of the enemy, Poland feels painfully the absence of a visible centre of power capable of directing the forces engaged in the struggle and of summoning new assistance to the field. Although the nation possesses many capable and worthy citizens than I, and although thoroughly conscious of the heavy duties of the office, and the weight of responsibility which it involves, the gravity and necessity of the moment have decided me, after consultation with the Provisional Government, to assume the supreme power of Dictator, which I shall surrender to the representatives of the nation as soon as the yoke of the Muscovite is shaken off. While retaining the immediate direction of military operations in my own hands, I recognise the necessity of establishing a civil Government, whose functions will be regulated by a special ordinance. Continuing the work of the Provisional Government, I confirm the principles of liberty and equality to all citizens, granting land to the peasants with indemnity to the proprietors. Poles of all provinces beneath the Muscovite yoke, I summon you to the struggle against the domination of Russian barbarism. The concord of all citizens, irrespective of difference of classes and religion, community of sacrifices and unity of strength will render our now scattered forces terrible to the enemy, and ensure the independence of our country. To arms for the liberty and independence of our fatherland! LAIN-HEWYK.

Private letters received from Warsaw state that all the independent members of the Council of State of Poland have sent in their resignations.

The General Correspondence of Vienna publishes a list of the Russian forces now in the kingdom of Poland, and in the old Polish provinces. The total number amounts to ten divisions, or 140,000 men, and a reinforcement of 10,000 men is shortly expected. Out of these forces the kingdom possesses 80,000, of whom 30,000 are encamped for the defence of Warsaw, and 25,000 for that of the fortified towns, leaving, therefore, only 25,000 men disposable for other services.

AMERICA.

By the arrival of the steamer City of Washington, we have telegrams from New York to the evening of the 28th ult.

WAR NEWS.

The Savannah Republican says that three steamers arrived at Charleston on the 25th ult. from Nassau. The steamer Douglas ran out the same night. Not a shot was fired at any of these vessels by the blockading squadron.

General Banks had been fired at by some unknown person in New Orleans, while passing out of his hotel to his carriage. The ball did not take effect. The firing occurred during the evening, and the author of the outrage could be found. Trouble continues to be experienced at New Orleans concerning the coloured troops. Several white officers have resigned, and one Brigadier-General has refused to march with the negroes.

The Federal ram Queen of the West, which lately ran the line of Confederate batteries on the Mississippi, has been captured by the Confederates on the Red River, with the aid of a treacherous pilot, who ran the vessel close to a Confederate battery. Her officers and crew except thirteen escaped. She had six guns and a quantity of stores on board.

Another bombardment of Vicksburg had taken place, without result. The Federals are propose to abandon the siege for other steps. It is reported that there is much suffering in Vicksburg, on account of the interruption of the river communication. Deserters report that the garrison would be compelled to evacuate the city if relief did not shortly arrive.

WASHINGTON.

Mr. Cameron has been forced to resign his position as American Minister to St. Petersburg.

The Conference Committee has reported, and the House of Representatives agreed to, the bill authorising the Secretary of the Treasury to borrow 300,000,000 dols. for the current year and 600,000,000 dols. for next year, both loans payable in any form, but not to exceed more than forty years in coin, and bearing six per cent interest annually, payable in coin. Of the 600,000,000 dols. to be borrowed next year 150 millions notes, the interest payable in lawful money; also, to issue 150,000,000 dols. of legal-tender notes, to be used solely for the redemption of Treasury notes when required. The bill also authorises a further issue of 50,000,000 dols. legaltender notes, in addition to the 450,000,000 dols. authorised in January. The rate of taxation of the bank circulation is not settled.

The House of Representatives has passed the Conscription Bill by a vote of 115 to 49. A call for troops under this Act is expectly shortly.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The fallen condition of the institution of slavery in the State of Maryland is evidenced by the following circumstance. The appraisers of the slaves belonging to the late Mr. Carroll, one of the largest slaveholders in Maryland, have made their returns to the Orphans' Court, assessing the value of 130 slaves at an average of only 5 dols. each. This, they say, was the highest price they could name after consulting with numerous slaveholders and dealers. One slavedealer told the appraisers he would not pay 500 dols. for the whole lot.

A collision has taken place between the inhabitants of Honey Valley, on the California and Nevada frontier, concerning a question of boundary. Both parties were fortifying themselves in log-huts, and receiving reinforcements.

A movement has been inaugurated among the mechanics of New York to petition the Legislature for co-operatives.

Gold is 71¼ per cent premium; silver, at 66.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

The annual meeting of the National Life-boat Institution will be held on Tuesday next, the 17th inst., at the London Tavern—Lord Lovaine, M.P., in the chair.

The retirement of Mr. Paynter, one of the magistrates of the Westminster Police Courts, is announced. The learned gentleman has been for twenty-two years the representative of the public.

It has been decided by Mr. Arnold, at the Westminster Police Court, that the owner of a hansom cab is not bound to carry luggage on the roof of his vehicle.

The nineteenth anniversary of the Medical Society of London was held on Saturday last at the Albion Tavern, when Dr. Conquest, F.R.C.S., surgeon to the Charing-cross Hospital, was announced as the patronee for the ensuing session.

About noon on Saturday, at the height of the excitement caused by the arrival of Princess Alexandra into London, a Greenwich and Woolwich steamer, the W. B. Kelk, was run down by a collier, while moving from her moorings in the river, upon something, and immediately began to fill. All passengers, however, were safely transferred, were taken up and off safely in boats, and shortly afterwards the water completely covered the deck of the vessel. She is now in dock.

Last week the births of 1632 children—957 boys and 675 girls—were registered in London. In the corresponding week of the years 1858-62 the average number (corrected) was 2075,—The total number of deaths in London was 1170. The average number of deaths for 7 weeks in ten years 1853-62 corresponding with last week is, with a correction for increase of population, 1456. Bodies four months unburied during the week-ending was recorded in the week—a female annualist, who died in Fearbrace-cottage, Hackney, on the 2nd inst., at the age of 99 years.

The annual meeting of the members of the Royal Literary Fund was held on Wednesday—the Bishop of Oxford in the chair. The report of the general committee was read, stated that during the past year £1000 had been granted in relief of fifty-four applicants, who were men of letters. The annual fund amounts to about £4,000, producing £700 per annum in interest. The Newton property stock amounts to £8,837, producing £321 per annum. The Queen's gift of the Newton property by Whitmingham amount to £300 per annum. The permanent fund was last year increased by £1,000 by a donation to the institute by the late Mr. Thomas Thompson. The annual income of the society for the year, including a balance of £388 brought forward from the previous year, £459 received with donations, and £1,000 the net proceeds of the annual dinner, amounted to £2,921, leaving in hand a balance of £1,000. Her Majesty's name was directed to be placed on the list of honour to the late Marquis of Lansdowne, and it was announced that the next president would take office at the next annual festival.

Lord Arthur Edwin Hill Trevor, M.P. for the county of Down, has been appointed chosen Grand Master of the Orange Society in the room of the late Viscount Dungannon.

A clipper schooner, named the Ksang-Soo, built for the Chinese Government, was launched yesterday week from the building-yard of Mr. Wilson, Limehouse. She is about 150 ft. in length and of 500 tons burden, and she will form one of the squadron of English-formed Chinese about to proceed to the China seas.

A meeting of the friends of the Rev. Dr. George Turner was held yesterday week, in the hall of the Religious Institution Rooms, Glasgow, for the purpose of presenting Dr. Turner, on the eve of his departure for the distant spheres of missionary labour in the South Seas, with a testimonial consisting of a purse, containing £700, and an elegant timepiece.

An explosion of gas occurred yesterday week in Coxlodge Colliery, near Newcastle-on-Tyne. The workings are very extensive, and thirty men and boys were working in the north-east division of the pit. Nine nineteen were killed instantaneously; the other eleven were got out alive. The sufferers are chiefly boys.

Early on Monday morning a firework factory at Plymouth blew up. The proprietress, a father and son, named Lowrance, were killed on the spot, and a woman and her three children, the family of one of the workmen of the name of Kellaway, were burnt to death, whilst of four men who made their escape from the windows two were seriously injured.

THE ILLUMINATIONS IN LONDON ON THE NIGHT OF THE ROYAL MARRIAGE.

LONDON'S festival in honour of the marriage of the Prince of Wales and princess Alexandra of Denmark closed on Tuesday night with a general illumination, creditable alike to the good taste and loyalty of the metropolis. There were numerous excellent displays of every variety of device, material, and design. Several, probably, was London illuminated as it was on Tuesday night. At an early hour the public thoroughfares and principal squares were lit, and the street lamps were not lighted till long after the usual time for extinguishing. The streets presented an appearance of unusual animation in many districts, seeking that the inhabitants would burn as little gas-a-piece as they could in order that there might be more to enjoy the illuminations which were to blaze on the outside of their houses. The temper of the vast crowds which poured through the principal streets to see the spectacle was excellent, as was also the patience of the miles of vanloads of spectators waiting in the streets for a chance to get into the Crystal Palace. The crowds which thronged the main avenues almost prevented individual locomotion, but the police were on the alert, and managed matters well. Westminster Bridge was closed at six o'clock, for fear it should break down. The parks were kept open all night, and were, if anything, more than usually gay and full of people. The streets were all clear to see. In some of the streets there were no carriages, but the pedestrians were numerous, and kept moving for an hour. We regret to have to add that there were numerous accidents, seven of the most serious kind.

Foremost in the illuminations of public buildings—and it is to these we are particularly indebted for the following descriptions—must be placed St. Paul's, where great efforts were made to illuminate the dome, but not with perfect success. On the top of the structure was placed a large crown, the base of the dome was surrounded by a ring of yellow lamps, and the base of the pilloreof the peristyle was encircled with regular lines of the same kind of lamps and lamps. The large were best from the Admiralty. The line-light was carried on to the top of the cupola, and ran round the base of the ball of the building, and it was also burnt at intervals at the top of the ball. Seen from a distance, the effect was fine, but when the dome was approached the policeman's lantern; and the streams of light thrown upon the building from the line-lights, rendered it difficult to discern the form of the structure with any precision. The Bank of England was a fine sight. The whole building, both front and rear, and the right was too foggy to distinguish the Royal Exchange, but the Mansion-house was a fine object. Between one and the line-light pierced the gloom that their connection with the building was obscure, and gave the effect of lamps hung in the atmosphere by wires. Even the most favourable effects of the line-light in bringing out the architectural proportions of the building were lost in the haze which hung like moonlight, or daybreak on a summer's morning.

The Bank was the only exhibition of the electric light from the top of the monument.

The principal sight in the City was, of course, that produced by the three great buildings which inclose the noble opening between Cheapside, Cornhill, and King William-street—namely, the Mansion-house, the Bank, and the Royal Exchange.

Along the eastern side of the top of the Mansion House tripods emitting volumes of flame were placed at intervals; and rows of gaslights followed the curves and parapets of the building, while the front was completely covered with five large gas stars, which illumined with great effect all the surrounding houses. The Bank was brilliantly illuminated, and presented a fine view from the capitals were sage of flowers. On the columns were fixed lozenge and in addition to these, the letters "A. and P." were placed on the top of the and surmounted by the Prince of Wales's plume. From the windows were placed candelabras, and the entrance was lighted by a large star, and immediately the Cross of Denmark and the Prince of Wales's feather.

The Royal Exchange, the Bank, brought out in bold relief on the top of the pediment—all in gas. The insignia of the Corporation, the City arms, and the motto "Domine dirige nos" were dressed in flags. The bourse was a large Prince of Wales's plume, with the initials "A." and "Alexandra" on each side of it. The Royal Arms, the Prince of Wales's plume, and rows of lights from flagstaff to flagstaff.

The Exchange was probably the exception the most tasteful and successful effort to be seen in London. Its pediment was traced with a line of light, and the columns were twined by thousands of gas-jets of various colours. The bold inscription, "The earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof," was seen on the occasion from fifty thousand spectators. Three varieties of lighting employed throughout were oil lamps, and nothing could be more effective than the latter. The plain, simple religious motto of the Royal Exchange.

The whole of the architectural outline of the Guildhall, including architectural features, the Gothic windows, and pinnacles, was traced in gas, and surmounted by tripods emitting incense. A Prince of Wales's feather, and motto, was also surmounted by tripods. The Royal Arms, surmounted from the top of the pediment—all in gas. The insignia of the Corporation, the City arms, and the motto "Domine dirige nos" were dressed in flags. A South entrance was a large Prince of Wales's plume, with the initials "A." and "Alexandra" on each side of it. The Royal Arms, the Prince of Wales's plume, and rows of lights from flagstaff to flagstaff.

The Bourse was probably the exception the most tasteful and successful effort to be seen in London. Its pediment was traced with a line of light, and the columns were twined by thousands of gas-jets of various colours. The bold inscription, "The earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof," was seen on the occasion from fifty thousand spectators. Three varieties of lighting employed throughout were oil lamps, and nothing could be more effective than the latter. The plain, simple religious motto of the Royal Exchange.

The whole of the architectural outline of the Guildhall, including architectural features, the Gothic windows, and pinnacles, was traced in gas, and surmounted by tripods emitting incense. A Prince of Wales's feather, and motto, was also surmounted by tripods. The Royal Arms, surmounted from the top of the pediment—all in gas. The insignia of the Corporation, the City arms, and the motto "Domine dirige nos" were dressed in flags. A South entrance was a large Prince of Wales's plume, with the initials "A." and "Alexandra" on each side of it. The Royal Arms, the Prince of Wales's plume, and rows of lights from flagstaff to flagstaff.

The front of the General Post Office, St. Martin's-le-Grand, display ed a novel feature, and one which was very successfully carried out.

A crown, from which branches of laurel radiated, and with a Brunswick star on each side, was placed in the centre of the pediment, and the whole lighted up the whole of its imposing façade.

Along the building were placed upwards of 130 tripods emitting flame were placed, illuminating the whole structure, and the triumphal arch at the north end of the building was also decorated with gas, the Prince of Wales's plume, and the initials "A." and "Alexandra" on each side of it.

Over the principal gateways of the Mint were two immense initial "A.s," the centre being surmounted by a large crown.

The Custom House and the East and West India Dock houses were decked with initials and devices in gas, and were brilliantly lighted.

Temple Bar, in addition to the magnificent decorations, was brilliantly illuminated throughout with gaslights, and the arms of the City and the figures holding lights.

The Horse Guards displayed a very handsome device. Over the gateway was "God Save the Queen" in large characters. Over the side entrance were the initials "A." and "P." in gas, with the Prince of Wales's plume. The centre is all by the motto of the college, "Sancti et fasciamur," all in gas.

The Duke of Wellington House represented the Prince of Wales's feathers in the centre of the building, a large letter "A." on each side, a row of gas jets and each window of the house was lighted with gas, and the whole formed a very correct.

There was an elaborate design at the National Gallery. In the centre was a transparency, representing two medallion portraits of the Prince and Princess, surmounted by a crown, and with wreaths of laurel. The whole of the jets ran along the frieze, inclosing a St. George's star in crystal glass. Three of the Admiralty arches were lighted up with gas, the centre one having "Welcome to the Prince and Princess of Wales!" "England's Hope!" On one side was the Prince of Wales's plume, with the initials "A." and "Alexandra," and a corresponding shield bore the arms of Denmark, with the Danneborg, Brunswick stars, and Prince of Wales's feathers. The two wings represented the Tudor and the prismatic effects which afforded, were most beautiful. The base, the supporting pillars, and the entablature of the centre arch of the Admiralty contained more than 3000 square feet of iron. Throughout the evening this building was surrounded by crowds, and the Duke of Wellington's statue was illuminated by means of the electric light, which was also at inter-vals played upon the Nelson Column.

The Pitmanchie light was exhibited from the Duke of York's Column.

As it is known that the Princess Alexandra is a skilful artist, in order to honour the occasion,

The Academy, also, were brilliantly lighted up. At the Danish Ambassador's, opposite the Marble Arch, the illumination consisted of transparencies placed along the front, and along the roof. In the centre was a profusion of gas, surmounted by the Prince's plume; in the centre of the transparency, "A." and "Alexandra," surmounted by the Danish Embassy, in Carlton House-gardens, presented a very elaborate device, in which the Danish colours were used along the front. The Danish Embassy at Albert Gate exhibited a very handsome Brunswick star, with the motto, "Ich Dien," and the Danneborg, with the motto, "Gud med os," on a scroll, bearing the motto "Ich Dien," scarcely intruding its own nationality on the occasion. The Russian Embassy, in Chesham-place, had a design much rather strongly of the national self-consciousness. It was a transparency, and there were the initials "A." and "P." in gas, with the Prince's plume, and thirteen stars emblematic of the thirteen original States, supported by the American eagle, with the motto, "E pluribus unum." The Turkish Embassy, in a place on each side, but over all again was suspended the flag of the United States.

Hyde Park entrance was lighted up by one hundred and fifty lamps round the Wellington statue.

There was a large transparency, with medallion portraits of the Prince and Princess, the Royal arms, and the Danneborg, surmounted by the Prince's plume. Upon each side was a magnificent star, 18ft. in diameter, inclosing the Star Cumberland.

The Treasury design was of a more complex character. The whole building was lined by rows of gas-jets, and in the centre of the front was a transparency. Prince's plume in crystals of coloured glass surmounted by a rising sun, with the Royal Arms underneath, surmounted by the letters "A." and "P." for Prince and Princess of Wales." Upon each side was a Brunswick star, with the motto, "Ich Dien," and the Danneborg, with the motto, "Gud med os," inclosed within a garter, and a Royal crown, all in crystals of coloured glass.

The Horse Guards displayed the initials "A. A." surmounted by a Prince's plume, the whole inclosed in a framework of lights running round the entire front of the building.

The War Office device in front was a semicircle, and was composed of coloured globes of ruby and white crystal glass, showing the colours of England and Denmark, under which was a Prince of Wales's plume, supported on each side of it by the letters "A." and Denmark, united by a lover's knot; on each side of the device placed in crystal letters the initials "A. A." surmounted by lamps. Above the latter, were placed in crystal letters the words "Long live the Prince and Princess," in crystal glass, the outer edge being finished with Brunswick; the base was formed by means of crystal lamps-pieces, and terminating at each corner with two prismatic baskets. On the summit of this very elegant device was placed a crystal vase, containing a bouquet of flowers illuminated in their natural colours.

The top of Victoria Tower was lighted up by two lamps, or large vases filled with oil; these were ranged in four rows, gradually rising, upon the roof of the tower, and at the foot of the central turret, others being placed in the smaller turrets springing from each corner of the tower. For a short time the result was striking; but the rain materially interfered with the experiment, the lights being gradually extinguished or deadened until there remained but little beyond a dull glare.

The theatres had their transparencies—crystal plumes of feathers, stars, and other devices.

Of the private efforts, successes and failures, it would be impossible to mention a tithe of those which should be considered worthy of notice. A few may be enumerated :—

The front of Aspley House was almost covered by a large and brilliant device in gas. Upon a platform in front of the house now being erected by Baron Rothschild, and which is a small but beautiful villa, in the Elizabethan House, the residence of the Dean of Canterbury, was a large and magnificent device in crystal glass, the Prince of Wales's feathers, and motto, and Lord Palmerston, was an elegant device in coloured lamps. The front of the residence of Mr. Lambert Conlan, at the corner of Stratton-street, was a blaze of light. One of the most striking of the private illuminations was that of Lord Lord Dudley's house, in Park-lane. Vandyke electric lights were ranged on the roof, and the long tunnels of light were flashed about in all directions over the crowd and the park. A great centre of attraction was the elaborate ornamentation of the front of the house of Mr. Poole, in Saville-row, tailor to the Prince of Wales. A row of lamps ran round the roof and the base of simple design and neatness also, which was hung over the shop of Messrs. Ath seen, the performers in the Bond-street. By means of electric light—and this is the only successful application of that agency recorded—it was contrived as that it should not only throw the shadow of the figure on the screen, but reproduce on the wall of the opposite house, which flickered and danced about like phantasmagoria. At the window-shutters of the office of the Art-Union a crowd note like that of a pengolow was cut, and within it was placed an exquisite bust and Lord Derby's house, in Park-lane, was splendid electric light was seen on the roof, and the long tunnels of light were flashed about in all directions over the crowd and the park. A great centre of attraction was the elaborate ornamentation of the front of the house of Mr. Poole, in Saville-row, tailor to the Prince of Wales. A row of lamps ran round the roof and the base of simple design and neatness also, which was hung over the shop of Messrs. Ath seen, the performers in the Bond-street. By means of electric light—and this is the only successful application of that agency recorded—it was contrived as that it should not only throw the shadow of the figure on the screen, but reproduce on the wall of the opposite house, which flickered and danced about like phantasmagoria. At the window-shutters of the office of the Art-Union a crowd note like that of a pengolow was cut, and within it was placed an exquisite bust and Lord Derby's house, in Park-lane. Vandyke electric lights were ranged on the roof, and the long tunnels of light were flashed about in all directions over the crowd and the park. A great centre of attraction was the elaborate ornamentation of the front of the house of Mr. Poole, in Saville-row, tailor to the Prince of Wales. A row of lamps ran round the roof and the base of simple design and neatness also, which was hung over the shop of Messrs. Ath seen, the performers in the Bond-street. By means of electric light—and this is the only successful application of that agency recorded—it was contrived as that it should not only throw the shadow of the figure on the screen, but reproduce on the wall of the opposite house, which flickered and danced about like phantasmagoria. At the window-shutters of the office of the Art-Union a crowd note like that of a pengolow was cut, and within it was placed an exquisite bust and Lord Derby's house, in Park-lane. Vandyke electric lights were ranged on the roof, and the long tunnels of light were flashed about in all directions over the crowd and the park. A great centre of attraction was the elaborate ornamentation of the front of the house of Mr. Poole, in Saville-row, tailor to the Prince of Wales. A row of lamps ran round the roof and the base of simple design and neatness also, which was hung over the shop of Messrs. Ath seen, the performers in the Bond-street. By means of electric light—and this is the only successful application of that agency recorded—it was contrived as that it should not only throw the shadow of the figure on the screen, but reproduce on the wall of the opposite house, which flickered and danced about like phantasmagoria. At the window-shutters of the office of the Art-Union a crowd note like that of a pengolow was cut, and within it was placed an exquisite bust and Lord Derby's house, in Park-lane. Vandyke electric lights were ranged on the roof, and the long tunnels of light were flashed about in all directions over the crowd and the park. A great centre of attraction was the elaborate ornamentation of the front of the house of Mr. Poole, in Saville-row, tailor to the Prince of Wales. A row of lamps ran round the roof and the base of simple design and neatness also, which was hung over the shop of Messrs. Ath seen, the performers in the Bond-street. By means of electric light—and this is the only successful application of that agency recorded—it was contrived as that it should not only throw the shadow of the figure on the screen, but reproduce on the wall of the opposite house, which flickered and danced about like phantasmagoria. At the window-shutters of the office of the Art-Union a crowd note like that of a pengolow was cut, and within it was placed an exquisite bust and

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will of Mrs. Jane Hawkins, of Great Marlborough-street, was proved in the London Court on the 24th ult., the personal property being sworn under £25,000. The will, which bears date the 8th of February, 1856, is entirely in the testatrix's own handwriting, and she appoints her husband, Mr. Hawkins, sole executor. To her eldest son, Francis Bloxsidge Hawkins, she bequeaths the sum of £4000, and also leaves to him the furniture, and a few half the books and pictures, bequeathing the other moiety, together with the residue of her property, to her husband.

The will of Richard Green, Esq., the eminent shipowner of Blackwall, and of Watmore, End, has just been proved in the London Court under £350,000 personalty; the executors nominated being Henry Green, Esq., his brother, Captain William Green, R.N., and Captain Edward Flight. The will was executed in 1849; and there are three codicils, dated 1855, 1861, and 1862, the testator died on the 12th ultimo at Watmore, Kensington Regent's Park, aged sixty. To his brother Henry, who was his partner, the testator has bequeathed all his stock property and ships, and the plant connected therewith, with some astringent conditions as to the continuance of the business of shipowners and shipbuilders, and to his nephews, Henry and Frederick, sons of Henry and Frederick, as may be arranged, should be taken into partnership. To each of his nephews, Richard, Arthur, Frederick, and William, legacies of £10,000 are bequeathed; to his sister Mrs. Hankey £8000, in the event of her being left a widow, legacies of £4000 to each of the children of the residue of his property, real and personal, after the payment of all legacies, endowments, and charitable bequests. To his executor Captain Flight there is a legacy of £1000, and to his other executor, Captain Flight, £500. The following are the charitable bequests:—The Dreadnought Seamen's Hospital, £2000; Hospital, £2000; Merchant Seamen's Orphan Asylum, £1000; Bow-lane Hospital, £1000; Poplar Hospital, £1000; Sailors' Home, £1000; with the building of that institution, founded by the testator, as well as a residence for the matron.

The will of Samson Ricardo, Esq., late M.P. for Windsor, of Grosvenor-place, and Tittess Park, Sunning-hill, Berks, was proved in London by the executors and trustees, Samson Ricardo Williams, Esq., the testator's brother-in-law, and Percy Ricardo and Albert Ricardo, Esqrs., the nephews, the testator having given direction in his will to add a fourth trustee, to be appointed by themselves. The personalty was sworn under £140,000. The will is entirely in the testator's own handwriting, and was executed on the 8th of June, 1860, the attesting witnesses being the Hon. W. H. Duncombe, M.P., and Sir E. B. Lytton, Bart., M.P. On Monday, who died in November last, attained the age of seventy. He was for some time M.P. for Portarlington, and M.P. for Windsor during the time that the late Prince Consort for Surrey and magistrate for that county. The will is of moderate length, and after liberally providing for the members of his family, bequeaths annuities and legacies being left to his brother, sister, nephews, nieces, and others, and also legacies to his servants and friends. The residue of his property between his three nephews, Frederick and Albert Ricardo, and Alfred Keyser, Esqrs.

A "simnel cake," weighing 70lb., has been forwarded from Bury to her Majesty, "as a tribute of affection and seemly loyalty."

The Baden Government has given the gambling-table bankers the necessary notice for their contract to cease in 1865.

The King of the Belgians has consented to act as arbitrator between the Spanish and Brazilian Governments in their dispute respecting the officers of the Forte.

A fire broke out in the night of the 8th in the large village of Mautern, near Donauwerth, in which seventy-one houses and stables were destroyed.

The Chicago Gazette mentions the fact that the engine of the train which conveyed Princess Alexandra of Denmark to the Prussian frontier bore the name of Princess Alexandra, and the name of Wellington.

The Graham's Town Journal speaks of a violent earthquake in the sea, off the mouth of the Keiskama. A dense body of smoke rose as from a crater, and the sea boiled up for some way over the spot immediately thrown some forty or fifty yards into the air, the water for the circumference of half a mile surrounding it appeared to be in a state of ebullition for some fifteen minutes, and gradually died away with a rumbling sound.

THE DRAWINGROOM HELD BY THE CROWN PRINCESS OF PRUSSIA.

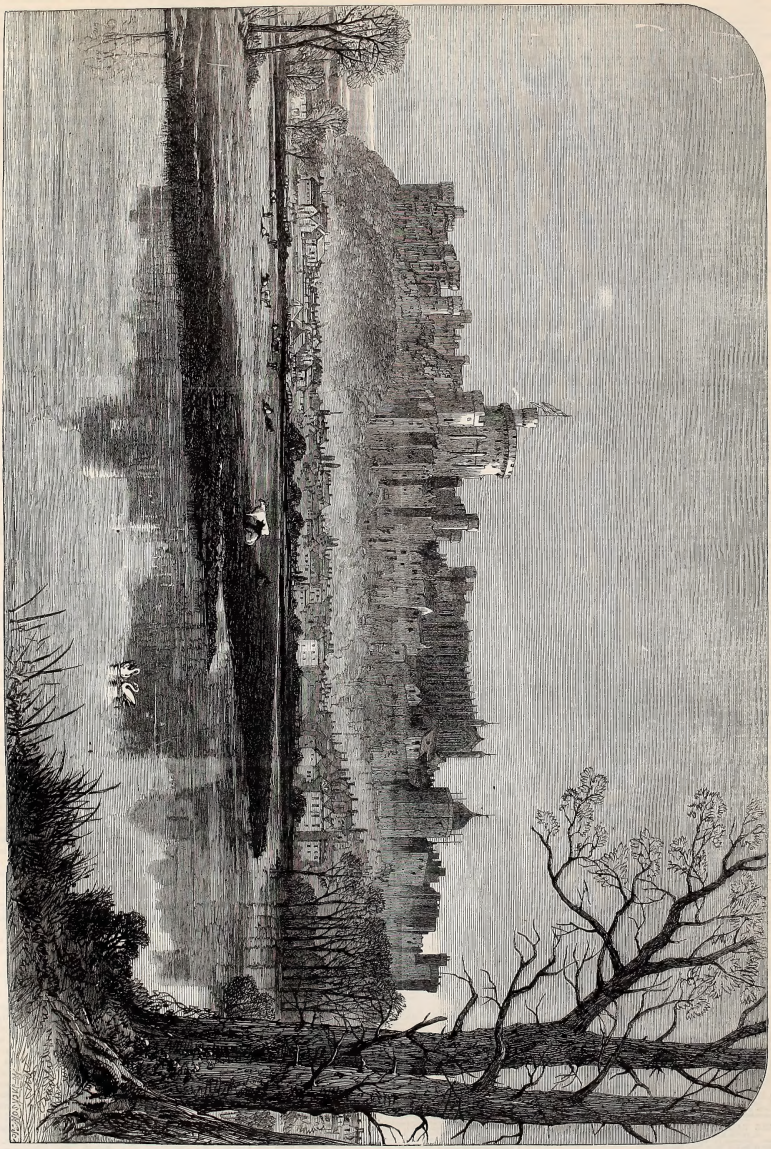
By command of the Queen, her Royal Highness the Crown Princess of Prussia (Princess Royal of England) held a Drawingroom on behalf of her Majesty, in St. James's Palace, on Thursday afternoon, the 26th ult.

Two hundred and fifty ladies had the honour of being presented to her Royal Highness—the presentations, by her Majesty's pleasure, being considered as equivalent to presentations to the Queen. In addition to the presentations, about 500 ladies attended the reception.

The Foreign Ambassadors and Ministers, with their wives and daughters, the Ladies in Waiting, Maids of Honour, and Women of the Bedchamber of the Queen's Household, the Ministers and Officers of State, and the principal officers of the Royal household, were also present at the Drawingroom.

The Crown Princess was accompanied by the Prince of Walas, Princess Helena, the Duke of Cambridge, Prince Louis of Hesse, Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, the Prince of Holstein, and the Maharajah Dhuleep Singh.

THE CROWN PRINCESS OF PRUSSIA (PRINCESS ROYAL OF GREAT BRITAIN) HOLDING A DRAWING-ROOM FOR HER MAJESTY AT ST. JAMES'S PALACE.—SEE PRECEDING PAGE.



WINDSOR.—SEE NEXT NUMBER.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING MARCH 21.

SUNDAY, March 15.—Fourth Sunday in Lent. Julius Cæsar assassinated, B.C. 44.

MONDAY, 16.—Battle of Boroughbridge: The Earl of Lancaster defeated by Edward II., and afterwards beheaded at Pontefract, 1322. Gustavus III., of Sweden, shot by Ankarström at a ball (he died on the 29th), 1792. The Imperial Prince Napoleon of France born, 1856.

TUESDAY, 17.—St. Patrick. The female superiority over Scotland pronounced by Edward III. by treaty, 1328; he creates his eldest son Edward (the Black Prince) Duke of Cornwall, 1337.

WEDNESDAY, 18.—King Edward the Martyr murdered, 979. Princess Louisa of England born, 1848. Unanimous vote of the inhabitants of Corsica for annexation to the kingdom of Italy, 1860.

THURSDAY, 19.—The first edition of the sun recorded, 721 B.C. (Ptolemy). Statute of Wales enacted, transferring "wholly and entirely the land of Wales" to the King's dominion," 1284. The first number of Johnson's Rambler published, 1750. New Moon, 3h. 37m. p.m.

FRIDAY, 20.—Battle of Sir Ewan Norton, 1261. Duke d'Enghien judicially murdered at Vincennes, 1804. Wellington defeats Scult at Tarbes, 1814.

SATURDAY, 21.—Benedict, Abbot, founder of Western Monachism, died, 543. Archbishop Cranmer burnt at Oxford, 1556. Battle of Alexandria: Sir Ralph Abercromby defeated the French, 1801. Full Moon.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON-BRIDGE,

FOR THE WEEK ENDING MARCH 21.

Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
M. h. m.	M. h. m.	M. h. m.	M. h. m.	M. h. m.	M. h. m.	M. h. m.
9 48	10 24	11 29	11 59	0 34	1 12	1 53

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

Lat. 51° 28′ 0″ N., Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W.; Height above Sea, 24 feet.

DAY	DAILY MEANS OF				THERMOMETER.		WIND.		RAIN
	Atmospheric Pressure.	Temperature.	Dew Point.	Humidity.	At 9 a.m. Reading.	At 3 p.m. Reading.	General Direction.	Movement in Miles per Hour.	Amount in Inches.
	Inches.	°	°		9-52	°			Inches
4	29·653	51·0	47·4	·71	4	57·0	S.	132	·000
5	29·491	49·4	41·9	·77	5	52·2	57·9	S. S.W.	153	·000
6	29·384	46·6	39·6	·77	6	42·9	53·9	S.W.	208	·000
7	29·514	41·1	37·3	·87	10	38·2	48·4	S.S.E.	271	·370
8	...	...	...	...	9	40·6	48·4	...	222	·070
9	29·517	37·8	25·9	·04	6	29·1	43·4	S.S.W.	92	·470
10	...	...	...	...	4	28·2	42·4	...	0	·205

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at half-past nine a.m.:—

Barometer reduced.....	29·653	29·671	29·613	29·513	29·555	29·565	29·567	29·567	29·567
Temperature of Air.....	51·0	49·4	46·6	41·1	37·8	41·7	41·7	37·7	39·0
Temperature of Evaporation	47·4	41·9	39·6	37·3	25·9	37·4	37·3	37·3	36·0
Direction of Wind.....	S.	S.	S.	S.	S.	S.	S.	S.	S.

ROYAL ENGLISH OPERA, COVENT-GARDEN.—Under the Management of Miss LOUISA PYNE and Mr. W. HARRISON.—Last Nights of the Season.—On Monday, at 7, MARITANA. On Wednesday, at 7, LURLINE, with THE LILY OF KILLARNEY. After which, FRA DIAVOLO. To conclude with the 2nd Act of THE JOVIAL CAMPAIGNERS. Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday (last time), THE ARMOURER OF NANTES. On Friday, LA SONNAMBULA. To conclude with THE JOVIAL CAMPAIGNERS. Saturday, LURLINE. To conclude with THE LILY OF KILLARNEY. Doors open at 6½. Commence at 7. Box-office open Daily, from Ten till Five. No charge for booking.

THEATRE ROYAL, HAYMARKET.—Positively the Last Week but Two of Mr. Selby's Season.—Every Evening and Half-an-Hour before Each Performance, a Selection of Music. Last week but one of Mr. Buckstone as Ann Trevehard, in THE ROSE OF AMIENS, by Mr. Tom Taylor. Mr. Buckstone will appear on Monday, with OUR AMERICAN COUSIN; after which KASPAR, in which Miss Louisa Keeley will appear; concluding with OUR MARY ANN. On Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, OUR AMERICAN COUSIN. Tuesday next (last night of the season), THE LITTLE TREASURE, which will appear as Captain Maydenhair, and Miss Kate Terry (from the New Theatre Royal, Edinburgh) as Lucy Ashton, her first appearance, in the part of Gertrude; concluding with THE LILLIPUTIAN DUKE.

THEATRE ROYAL, DRURY-LANE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. ROMEIKE, PALGRAVE.—Doors at 6. Commence at 7. Monday, MACBETH, in which Mr. Phelps will be received by Mr. E. Dawson's Comedy of EXTREMES; or, Man of the Day. Principal characters by Mr. Phelps, Mr. Ryder, Mr. Ray, Mr. Tilbury, Mr. Stuart, Mrs. Stirling, Mrs. Phelps, Mrs. D. P. Bowers, Miss Cooper, and Miss Edmund Falconer. To be followed with the Second Act of RONNIE DUNDEE; ending with the Farce of THE SPANISH LADY. Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, Comedy with the Afterpiece Farce of THE SPANISH LADY, in which Miss Lydia Thompson will introduce her celebrated Imitations of Fanny Reeve, Mrs. Keeley, and Tom Hill Every Night. Farce as usual. Acting Manager, Mr. F. B. Conway.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, ADELPHI.—On Monday and Every Evening during the Week, A SUDDEN ATTACK—Messrs. Elton, Garden, Wilkinson, Mrs. Alfred Mellon, and Miss Woolgar. Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, Mr. Boucicault's New Play, entitled THE OCTOROON. Mr. Boucicault, Mr. Rod Ferral and John Broughton. The principal character will be sustained by Mr. Fechter, supported by Mr. Addison, Phillips, J. Broughton, H. Widdicomb, G. Cooke, Miss Fanny Wyndham, H. Bukley, Barnaby; Misses Collette Lecliercq, Kate Terry, R. Lawrence, and Mrs. Billington. Friday, Mr. Boucicault's Sensation Drama, THE OCTOROON. Saturday, LOVE'S SACRIFICE. Box-office now arranged, and will shortly open.

THEATRE ROYAL, ST. JAMES'S.—MONDAY and during the Week, A TRUMPING LEGACY. After which, LADY AUDLEY'S SECRET. Messrs. Swanborough, A. Stirling, Miss Herbert, Catlord, and Dyas. To conclude with BEAT AS A POST.

VOCAL ASSOCIATION.—ST. JAMES'S HALL, PICCADILLY.—THE FIRST CONCERT of the Season will take place on MONDAY NEXT, the 16th inst., when will be performed a New Cantata, by G. R. ALLEN, entitled HARK! HARK! THE LARK! Vocalists—Madame Sainton-Dolby, Miss Allen, and Mr. Sims Reeves. Violin—Herr Ernst. Pianoforte—Miss Dolby. Conductor—Mr. Benedict. Sofa Stalls (numbered), 10s. 6d.; Balcony, 5s.; Body of the Hall, 3s.; Admission, 1s. Tickets to be had of the Secretary, at the Hall.

AGRICULTURAL HALL, ISLINGTON.—Mr. SIMS REEVES.—GRAND MUSICAL FESTIVAL, MARCH 26.—Mr. J. RUSSELL has to announce a Grand Vocal Concert at the above Hall (which has been entirely rebuilt and warmed, and possesses a splendid Orchestra capable of accommodating 1000 performers), the Second on the 26th inst., when will be performed, for the first time, a New Cantata, composed for the occasion by Mr. G. A. MACFARREN, entitled THE SISTERS. Miss Rovere; Miss Poyntz, Miss Fanny Huddart, and Mr. Lewis Thomas will also appear. Violin—Herr Ernst. Pianoforte—Mr. Charles Hallé. Conductor—Mr. Benedict. Sofa Stalls (numbered), 10s. 6d.; Balcony, 5s.; Body of the Hall, 3s.; Admission, 1s. Tickets to be had of the Secretary, at the Hall.

SONGS OF SCOTLAND.—DUDLEY GALLERY.—LAST WEEK.—MR. SANDYS'S last Scottish Entertainment, THE LAND O' THE LEAL, every Evening (except Saturday) at Eight, and on Saturday Afternoon at Three. The celebrated LONDON SCOTTISH BAND (Mr. Laud, Director) every Afternoon at Three, and Evening at Eight. Stalls, 3s.; Royal Library, 2s.; Old Bond-street, 1s.

MR. HENRY LESLIE'S CHOIR, March 18.—LENTEN CONCERT, HANOVER-SQUARE ROOMS. Grand Selection of Sacred Music, including Handel's Coronation Anthem and part of Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise, and Mozart's "Ave Verum." Stalls, 5s.; Area, 3s. 6d.; Admission, 1s. At Addison's, 210, Regent-street; Ewer's, 390, Piccadilly; Hanover-square Rooms, and of Members of the Choir.

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED, with Mr. JOHN PARRY, will open ST. GEORGE'S HALL EVENING (except Saturday) at Eight, and Saturday Morning at Three o'Clock, in THE FAIR AMERICAN, and MR. PARRY'S LITTLE PARTY.—ROYAL GALLERY OF ILLUSTRATIONS, 14, Regent-street.

MR. EDMUND YATES'S INVITATIONS to EVENING PARTIES, at the BEAUMONT HALL, Mortimer-street, Cavendish-square. Every Evening (except Saturday) at Eight o'Clock. Mr. Harold Power will be one of the party. Mr. Yates's Invitations to Dinner Parties, Wednesday and Saturday, at Seven. Mr. Yates's Invitations to Lunch every Day from Eleven till Five o'clock.

WILL CLOSE ON THE 21ST.—SOCIETY OF PAINTERS IN WATER COLOURS.—Winter Exhibition of Sketches and Studies by the Members, at 53, Pall-mall East, from Nine till Dusk. Admission, 1s. Catalogue, 6d.
JOS. J. JENNER, Secretary.

GERMAN GALLERY.—MARRIAGE of H.R.H. the PRINCE OF WALES.—Subscribers' names are being received for the Pictures of the Marriage, present on the occasion.—German Gallery, 168, New Bond-street, daily (Sundays excepted).

GERMAN GALLERY.—Mr. W. H. RUSSELL'S NEW LECTURE.—Subscribers' Names received daily from Ten till dusk for THE RISING OF THE WEDDING AT WINDSOR, by W. H. RUSSELL, Esq., LL.D. (late Special Correspondent to the "Times").—German Gallery, 168, New Bond-street.

THE RAILWAY STATION.—This celebrated Picture by Mr. FRITH, R.A., is now ON VIEW to the Public at the Fine-Art Gallery, 11, Haymarket. Admission, 1s. Open from Ten to Five. A descriptive Pamphlet of the above Picture by Mr. Tom Taylor, R.A. Price 6d.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—OPEN DAILY.—Monday to Friday, 1s. On the Saturday Concert, Half-a-Crown; Children under Twelve, half-price. All the Retail Refreshment Contracts, including the celebrated Renowned Moss Gratification, of Perth, will remain during the week.
Gothenard Band and Great Organ Performances daily, commencing at One o'Clock. Beautiful Display of Flowers.

SACRED HARMONIC SOCIETY, EXETER HALL.—Conductor, Mr. COSTA.—FRIDAY NEXT, MARCH 20, Mendelssohn's ST. PAUL. Principal Vocalists—Madame Rudersdorff, Miss Dolby, Mr. Lewis Thomas, and Mr. Weiss. The Band and Chorus, on the most extensive scale available in Exeter Hall, will consist of (including 10 Double Basses) nearly 720 performers. Tickets, 3s., 5s.; and Stalls, 10s. 6d. each, at the Society's Office, No. 6, Exeter Hall, Strand.

ROYAL SOCIETY OF MUSICIANS OF GREAT BRITAIN, Established in 1738, for the Maintenance of Aged and Indigent Musicians, their Widows and Children.—THE 125TH ANNIVERSARY will take place at the FREEMASONS' HALL, on FRIDAY, March 20.
President of the day—The Right Hon. the LORD MAYOR, M.P., supported by the Sheriffs of London.
Tickets, 21s. each, to be obtained of the members of the Committee; or of the Secretary, at the Society's Office, 6, Serle-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields.
STANLEY LUCAS, Secretary.

MR. SCOTSON CLARK'S PIANOFORTE CLASSES at the Royal Academy of Music commenced may be had of SHARP, CHAPPELL, HALLE, and WOOD, 201 and 209, Regent-street, W.

RENÉ FAVARGER'S COURS DE PIANO, 41, St. Innocent-street, Finsbury-square; and at the Normal-hill College, 65, Kensington Park-gardens, Notting-hill.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY'S CAMELLIA SHOW at SOUTH KENSINGTON, on WEDNESDAY NEXT. Open at One o'clock. Band from Two till Four. The Exhibition Building will be open to the Visitors, and an Organ Performance will be given.

FREE EXHIBITION of BEDFORD'S PHOTOGRAPHS of the DANE, taken during the tour in which, by command, he accompanied H.R.H. the Prince of Wales in Egypt, the Holy Land, and Syria, Constantinople, the Mediterranean, Spain, and Portugal. Open Daily, from Ten till Five, at the Architectural Museum, from the 12th inst. Admission by production of address card.

DEBARKATION OF THE PRINCESS ALEXANDRA.—INSTANTANEOUS ALBUM PHOTOGRAPHS (copyright), taken by S. AYLING, and exhibiting the Warrior and other vessels, with groups of persons, &c.
1. The Royal Yacht passing H.M.S. Emerald.
2. The Royal Yacht moored to the Pier.
3. Debarkation of the Royal Party.
Nos. 1 and 2, 1s. each; No. 3, 1s. 6d.; the Set, 3s.; for stamps.—S. B. BRAL, 8, Fairbrook-road, N.

WHAT WILL THIS COST TO PRINT?
In a thought often occurring to literary men, public characters, and persons of business or profession. An immediate answer to the inquiry may be obtained. A Specimen Book of Types, and information for authors, sent on application, by CLARK and HALLETT, Printers, Bold-street, Colchester.

MR. W. A. OAKLEY'S REGISTERS comprise Landed and Funded Property, Annuities, Reversions, and Life Interests, London and Country Estates, Mortgages and Ground-rents, London and Westminster Improvement Bonds, Railway Debentures, Shares, and Scrip, Canada, and Great Northern Railways, Printed List post-free.—3, Regent-street, London.

DANCING.—Miss LEONORA GEARY has the honour to inform Subscribers and Parents that her JUVENILE CLASS for Dancing, Deportment, and her celebrated Indian Sequin Exercises has RECOMMENCED. Families visited and Schools attended. Private Lessons at her Residence or Academy. Prospectuses forwarded on application.—Three Tuns Rooms, Castle-street, Court Precaution Lessons. A Select Evening Class. 14, Gresham-street, New Bond-street.

THE SUPERB COLLECTION OF PHOTOGRAPHS illustrative of the Marriage Ceremonies, Processions, and Festivities, Exhibition are now ON VIEW at CALLAGHAN'S, No. 21a, New Bond-street, W., corner of Conduit-street. The Views of Windsor, Slough, Paddington, and Edgware-road Stations, and Queen Victoria's entrance were produced. As also the celebrated Opera, Ices, and Field Glasses, made by Voigtlander, Vienna.

DENT, Chronometer, Watch, and Clock Maker to the Queen, and maker of the only Watch and Clock for the Houses of Parliament, 61, Strand (adjoining Coutts' Bank); and 34, Royal Exchange.

NOTICE OF REMOVAL.—WILKINSON and KIDD, Wholesale and Export Wine Merchants, beg to inform their friends and the trade that they have REMOVED from the corner of Park-street, Oxford-street, to 5, Hanover-square, W (entrance in Princes-street), Hanover-square.

HORNIMAN'S PURE TEA, "always good alike," Imparting it not neutral with powdered mixer prevents the Chinese passing off low-priced Tea upon them as the best. Sold in Packets only by Agents, in every town.
Sole Warehouse, 90, Fenchurch-street, London.

BEAUJOLAIS, 16s. per dozen; Burgundy, Beaune, 22s. per dozen; Chablis, the dry wine, 30s. per dozen; port, Sherry, Sauternes, 30s. per dozen; Moselle, 30s. Prime fine sound Claret, 15s. per dozen. Terms, cash. Cases free. Sample bottles, 1s. each, by post, 1s. 6d. Wine Circulars, post-free. Dr. Prince Albert-street, Brighton; and Finchley, Meakin, Todd, and Co., 215 Tooley-street, London S.E.

EAU-DE-VIE.—This Pure PALE BRANDY, 18s. per gal., 36s. per dozen, is recommended as a pure, fine, old, mellow spirit, as is sure for the country, 20s. Railway carriage paid. No agents.—HENRY BRETT and CO., 19, Mincing-lane, Fenchurch-street, and 20, Regent-street, S.W. Prize Cabinet free on application.

SAUCE.
LEA AND PERRINS'
WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE,
Pronounced by Connoisseurs
"THE ONLY GOOD SAUCE."
Nine gamins without Name on wrapper, label, bottle, and stopper.
Sold by CROSSE and BLACKWELL; Purveyors to her Majesty, and Export Oilmen universally.

TURTLE.—MCCALL'S WEST INDIA. Superior quality, pints, 6s. 6d.; half-pints, 3s. Cullipash and Callipee, the 6d. per lb. Sold by leading Oil and Italian Warehousemen, and Wholesale only by the Calcutta Company, 1, Mincing-lane, E.C.

Preston Stores, 197, Shoreditch, N.E.
Prize Medal for Patent Preserved Provisions without overcooking, whereby freshness and flavour are retained.

KEEN'S GENUINE MUSTARD, made with the Original Receipt for Flour Mustard, CELEBRATED BRAND.
distinguished supreme of a century for pure and strength, has received the general approbation of the Public.
FIRST MANUFACTURED, 1742.
Sold by most Grocers throughout the Kingdom, in Packets, Tins, and Canisters.
KEEN, ROBINSON, BELLVILLE, and CO., Garlick-hill, London.

GABRIEL'S 36, DENNER SERVICES.—A large assortment of patterns of the choicest Dinner Services, Breakfast, Dessert, Tea, and Toilet Services, in Porcelain and Earthenware; also glass of the richest brilliancy of colour; one dozen, from 2l. 5s. per dozen.—GABRIEL'S, 39, Cornhill, and 58, Lombard-street, London. Illustrated Catalogues free by post.

DINNER, DESSERT, BREAKFAST, TEA, and TOILET SERVICES.—A large assortment of new and good patterns. Also a beautiful variety of every article for the Table, at the lowest prices. Orders executed, and delivery safely effected by Rail. Catalogues free by post.
RICHARD and JOHN SLACK, 336, Strand.—superior taste—low prices.
Established 1745.

CARSON'S ORIGINAL ANTI-CORROSION PAINT, for outdoor work, as iron, wood, stucco, brick, canvas, ground, &c., is unrivalled for durability, economy, and beauty of colour. Sold in packages from one cwt. upwards, 28s. per cwt.; casks, 30s.; chocolate, lead colour, and black, 35s.; greens and blues, 42s. Carriage paid to any railway station.—Manufactory and Stores, Broad-street, Golden-square, London, E.C.

LETTERS PATENT, 1852. PRIZE MEDAL, 1854.
ROBINSON'S PATENT GROATS is the most valuable preparation for the nursery and delicate grist. Modern chemistry has shown that this meal is easy of digestion, and very nutritious.
ROBINSON'S PATENT BARLEY, for making transparent jelly, blancmange, &c., directions for which have been given by Mrs. A. E. Rundell. It is appreciated as a nourishing and delicate diet for infants and invalids. Sold by Grocers and Druggists in packets and canisters, and wholesale by Robinson, Bell, and Co., Glasgow and London.

TEAL FURNITURE.—ALFRED GREEN'S Stock embraces every variety of plain and ornamental deal bedroom, dining, and drawing-room furniture, which he is enabled to offer at unusually low prices, from the fact of his having a steam saw mill at his establishment. These goods are kept in stock, arranged in complete sets, and are of the very best workmanship. Illustrated Catalogues, containing 100 designs, free by post.—Alfred Green, General Furnishing and Upholstery Company (Limited), 54 and 55, Berners-street, Oxford-street.
Birmingham—Broad-street and Bennett's-hill.

OSLER'S GLASS CHANDELIERS, WALL LIGHTS, and Mantelpiece Ornaments, in Rock Crystal and Ormolu.
Glass Dinner Services for 12 persons, from 47 12s.
Glass Dessert Services for 12 persons, from 21s.
All articles marked in plain figures.
Ornamental Glass for Presents, suitable for the Princess Alexandra.
Glass Manufactory and Show-rooms, 45, Oxford-street, London.
Birmingham—Broad-street and Bennett's-hill. Established 1807.

CHANDELIERS FOR DINING-ROOM and LIBRARY, Candelabra, Moderator Lamps, in Bronze, Ormolu, China, and Glass. Statuettes in Parian, Vases, and other ornamental China.—OSLER, 45, Oxford-street, W.

STEVENS'S PURE and CLEAN MACHINE-MADE BREAD and BREAD-MAKING MACHINERY.—Families, Public Institutions, Clubs, and the Trade supplied with Bread of unrivalled purity. Fancy Bread, Rusks, and genuine Rice by Stevens's Royal Machinery Company (Limited). Orders to be sent to the Manager, at the Steam Bakeries, Bromptom-road, S.W.; 15, Dover-street, Piccadilly; and 3, Bow-street, Blackfriars, E.C. On sale, at 12s. Clarges-street, Piccadilly, a large assortment of Family Machines of several sizes, at 4s. to £10; also Trade Machines mixing half a sack to six sacks of flour at a time. Bread-making Apparatus for Hotels supplied with the Machines on sale or private. Two Lads' situations required.

THE ROYAL MARRIAGE.

THE incidents of the Marriage of their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales have proved so numerous that, although the present Number consists of Two Whole Sheets, our space is yet insufficient to illustrate more than the Progress of the Princess from her native country, and the Procession of the Royal cortège through London.

THE GRAND DOUBLE NUMBER,

To be published on SATURDAY NEXT, the 21st inst.,

which will consist of THREE WHOLE SHEETS, will, however, contain the following Engravings in further illustration of the great Event.

PROGRESS TO WINDSOR.

The Arrival of her Royal Highness the Princess at Flushing.
The Squadron at the Nore saluting the Royal Yacht.
Presentation of a Bouquet to the Princess by the Mayoress of Gravesend.
Triumphal Arch at London Bridge, erected by the Corporation.
Presentation of a Bouquet to the Princess by the Lady Mayoress, at the Mansion House.
The Royal Procession passing between the Volunteers in Hyde Park.
Triumphal Arch erected by the Inhabitants of Paddington.

ARRIVAL AT WINDSOR.

Triumphal Arch prepared by the Eton Boys.
Triumphal Arch erected at the Castle-hill, Windsor.
Presentation of an Address to their Royal Highnesses by the Mayor of Windsor.

THE WEDDING.

The Royal Cortège Quitting the Palace for St. George's Chapel.
The Procession on its way to the Chapel.
Her Royal Highness the Princess's Dressing-room.

TWO-PAGE ENGRAVING
OF THE
INTERIOR OF ST. GEORGE'S CHAPEL DURING THE CELEBRATION OF THE MARRIAGE CEREMONY.

TWO-PAGE ENGRAVING
OF THE
MARRIAGE GROUP BEFORE THE ALTAR.
(From a Drawing by Mr. JOHN GILBERT.)

The Double Number will, in addition, contain Engravings of the Royal Marriage Presents, including the Statue of Hebe, and Queen Dagmar's Cross (the Presents of the King of Denmark), the Lace given by the King of Belgium, &c.; and a Birdseye View of the Town and Castle of Windsor; comprising in all Three Whole Sheets. Price, 10d., unstamped; stamped, 1s.
Orders should be immediately given to Newsagents and Booksellers.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS.—Advertisements for the above Number cannot be received later than Six o'clock on Wednesday, the 18th inst. Office, 198, Strand.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS,

LONDON: SATURDAY, MARCH 14, 1863.

IT is creditable to the Legislature, as well as characteristic of a sensible nation, that on the eve of a grand holiday, and also between two great holidays, Parliament has met and attended to important business as calmly as the old senators of Rome awaited the inrush of the Gauls. Never, perhaps, in the history of London has the metropolis been so completely delivered over to jubilation as on Saturday and Tuesday last. We are reminded of the ill-rewarded demonstration made by the capital at the Restoration, by which, perhaps, the chief gain to posterity has been the glorious chapter which concluded "Woodstock," but even that day of wild acclaim was festival to aportion only of the Londoners, thousands of whom had ominous forebodings on their own behalf, while many had foresight enough to perceive that at no distant date the people of England would have to reconsider their relations to the Stuarts. But the rejoicings of March, 1863, were shared by every individual in the kingdom, and the sensation—there is no other word for it than one which quacks have vulgarised—will not be forgotten for half a century. We were all in a ferment of loyalty and happiness; and yet our Parliament met, speeches were made and reported, and the legislative chariot made progress, despite the universal block, a metaphor which will be singularly well appreciated by thousands who were out on Tuesday night.

The Brazilian debate was not uninteresting; but it was understood that there were no battles, and that excepted, when one set of speakers had represented that we had behaved in an arbitrary and oppressive manner, and another set had contended that we had simply vindicated the honour of England, the affair was practically over. Nevertheless, and until the Brazilian quarrel shall be set in a very different light from that in which it is now exhibited, popular opinion will be to the effect that we have acted with more harshness towards a nation that seems to deserve our best indulgence than we usually display when aggrieved. It is perfectly true that weakness is no excuse for misconduct, and that (except perhaps in America, where a wretched dwarf is admitted to an "audience" by the President, at a crisis when good taste would prohibit tomfoolery) one cannot set up a plea of insignificance in bar of right and justice. But, as one of the speakers on the Brazilian question put it with more of epigram than of ceremony, an affair in which a "wild Consul and twotipsy sailors are the chief actors," ought scarcely to have embroiled us with a State which is a large employer of our labour, and which is struggling to improve itself by all the means in its power. We do not think that the position of Englishmen in Brazil will be very enviable for some time to come, though it is due to the superior classes in that country to note that, even in the hour of excitement and irritation, they did their utmost, and successfully, to prevent any popular outbreak. Parliament met again on Monday, heard complaints touching misadventures on the processions Saturday, and applied itself to the Army Estimates, in which, as in those for the Navy, a saving of a million has been effected. The announcement

THE COURT.

The great national event of Tuesday last has so completely occupied and governed the movements of the Court that little is left to be said under our usual heading.

On Saturday last the Prince of Wales left Windsor Castle at half-past nine o'clock for Gravesend to meet his affianced bride, Princess Alexandra. The Royal Highnesses arrived at Bricket at a quarter to six o'clock, and found the Crown Prince of Prussia, Prince Louis of Hesse, and Princes Arthur and Leopold in waiting to receive them. The Prince of Wales and Princess Alexandra, with the illustrious members of her Royal Highness's family, were received at Woodez Castle by the Queen, the Crown Princess of Prussia, Princess Louis of Hesse, Princess Helena, Princess Louisa, Princess Beatrice, the Duchess of Brabant, the Duke of Coburg, the Count of Flanders, and Prince Christian, the Marchioness of Ely, the great officers of State, and the ladies and gentlemen attendant her Majesty and the Royal visitors. Queen Victoria's Guard of honour was furnished by the family in the oak room, and to the Royal household and suites in the Waterloo Gallery.

On Sunday the Queen, the Prince of Wales, the Crown Prince and Princess of Prussia, Prince and Princess Louis, Princess Helena, Princess Louisa, Prince and Princess Christian of Denmark, Princess Alexandra, Princess Dagmar, Prince William and Prince Frederick of Denmark, and the Princes and princesses in attendance at Osborne, attended Divine service in the private chapel. The Bishop of Oxford preached the sermon.

On Monday the Excellency M. De Bille, Danish Minister, had an audience of the Queen. His Excellency was introduced by Earl Russell, Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, Princess Alexandra, and Princes Christian of Denmark took an evening in the afternoon in an open carriage and four. Their Royal Highnesses the Duchess of Cambridge and Princess Mary and the Duke of Cambridge, his Royal Highness Prince George of Hesse-Cassel, and his Serene Highness the Duke of Holstein-Glucksburg arrived from London on a visit to her Majesty. In the afternoon a table was placed at St. George's Hall, the State service of silver-gilt being used on this occasion. The company included the Prince of Wales and Princess Alexandra, the Crown Prince and Princess of Prussia, the Queen, Princess Louis of Hesse, Prince and Princess Louis of Hesse, Princess Helena, the Duchess of Cambridge, Princess Mary, the Duke of Cambridge, Princess Louisa of Flanders, the Duke of Saxe-Coburg, Prince and Princess Christian, Princess Dagmar, Prince Frederick and Prince William of Denmark, Prince Frederick of Hesse-Cassel, the Duke of Holstein-Glucksburg, and Prince Leiningen, the Mistress of the Robes, the Duchess of Wellington, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Baron Von Brunnow, Count and Countess Gleichen, the Danish Minister, the Earl of St. Germans, Viscount and Viscountess Canning, the Earl and Countess of Chichester, Lord Ely, Earl and Countess Spencer, the Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch, the Marquis and Marchioness of Carmarthen, the Marquis of Abercorn, Lord Alfred Paget, Colonel and Countess Russell, Earl and Countess Cowley and Lady Feodore Wellesley. Viscount Torrington and Lord Alfred Churchill.

On Tuesday the auspicious marriage of the Prince of Wales with Princess Alexandra took place. It is stated in some accounts of the Royal procession that the Princess was retired from the closet in St. George's Chapel immediately after the ceremony of the marriage was concluded and the illustrious bride and the Prince of Wales are now said to add that her Majesty, entering from the north terrace, was in time to receive the Prince and Princess of Wales at the grand entrance, where her Majesty cordially embraced them and accompanied them to the Princess of Wales's apartments.

On Wednesday the Queen drove out, with Princess Louis of Hesse, in the Home Park. The Crown Prince and Princess of Prussia went to Clarence House, and visited the Queen Dowager. The illustrious bridegroom and bride received the marriage of the Prince of Wales left the castle to-day.

Lady Churchill has succeeded the Countess of Caledon as Lady in Waiting, and the Hon. Mortimer West has succeeded Colonel F. Seymour as Groom in Waiting to the Queen.

THE PRINCESS OF WALES.

The Lords of her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council had a meeting on Wednesday at the Council Office, Whitehall. Present: the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Lord Chancellor, the Duke of Somerset, the Duke of Newcastle, Viscount Palmerston, the Bishop of London, Earl Granville, Earl of Kimberley, Lord Wodehouse, and the Right Hon. R. Lowe. At the meeting it was ordered that in Morning and Evening Prayers, in the Litany, and in the other parts of Divine Service where Queen the Royal family is particularly prayed for, the following form shall be observed :—"Albert Edward Prince of Wales, the Prince of Wales, and all the Royal family."

COURT RECEPTION AT ST. JAMES'S PALACE.

The Crown Princess of Prussia (Princess Royal) will hold a reception on the 20th instant at St. James's Palace on behalf of her Majesty. On the same day the Princess Dowager of Prussia, mother of Wales will be present. A second Court reception will be held after Easter.

PRINCE AND PRINCESS CHRISTIAN OF DENMARK.

Their Royal Highnesses Prince and Princess Christian, Prince Frederick, Prince William, Princess Dagmar, Prince Waldemar, and Princess Thyra, of Denmark, arrived at the Palace Hotel, Buckingham-gate, on Wednesday afternoon, attended by Colonel Frances Seymour, C.B., and Mr. Windsor Castle. That day Prince Christian dined with the Duke of Cambridge the same evening, at Gloucester House. On Thursday the Prince and Princess dined with Earl Spencer, at Spencer House. On Friday the Duke of Cambridge entertained their Royal Highnesses at St. James's Palace. This evening (Saturday) they dine with Viscount Palmerston. The Princess will leave on Tuesday next the Duchess of Wellington, as Mistress of the Robes, will give a grand entertainment to the Prince and Princess at Apsley House.

PRINCE ALFRED.

At this season of Court and national rejoicing, it is pleasant to know that the Prince Alfred is in good health. The Queen's family who is at present absent from the country—has quite recovered from the effects of the late severe weather. He is permitted to take free outdoor exercise and his usual meals.

His Royal Highness has been examined for his Lieutenant's commission, and has passed.

His Serene Highness Prince Frederick of Hesse-Cassel and the Duke of Holstein-Glucksburg dined with the Duke of Cambridge on Saturday evening at his residence, Gloucester House, Park-lane.

The Countess Gleichen will have a soirée dansante on the 18th inst.

Field Marshal Viscount Combermere and Viscountess Combermere arrived in Belgrave-square on Saturday, having received Her Majesty's commands to be present at Gold Stick on the occasion of the marriage of the Prince of Wales to the Princess Alexandra.

Viscountess Palmerston will have a grand reception at Cambridge House this evening (Saturday), to meet the members of the Danish Royal family at present in London.

The Prince of Wales, from Melbourne, on the 2nd December, arrived on Thursday with 17,133 on. gold.

On Tuesday last Mr. Lewis, a Royal sturgeon, about eight feet long, and weighing about 200lb., was conveyed to Windsor as a marriage present by the captain of a fishing-boat from Chichester Harbour.

The Right Hon. the Speaker of the House of Commons gave his fifth full-dress Parliamentary dinner on Wednesday evening at his official residence at the New Palace, Westminster. The right hon. gentleman had a bevy later in the evening, at which 200 members of the House of Commons attended.

The London Stereoscopic and Photographic Company has published a card containing photographs from French lithographs of the Prince and Princess. The card is prettily illuminated with appropriate devices

Mr. Frith's picture, "The Railway Station" has been removed from the City for re-exhibition in the Haymarket—but at No. 11, not at its old quarters, No. 7.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—MONDAY.

The Earl of Malmesbury, at the request of the Duke of Somerset, put off his motion on the subject of the arrest by the Brazilian authorities of certain officers belonging to her Majesty's ship Forte, but expressed his surprise that such an application should have been made to him in view of the fact that a long debate had already taken place on the subject of Brazil in the House of Commons. Some conversation ensued on the subject, in the course of which the Duke of Somerset declined to give any rule as to what numbers more stringent than it was at present.

On the motion of Earl Grey, and after a short discussion, a Select Committee was appointed to inquire whether the power already given to landowners to enclose their commons with the consent of parties to raise money for the improvement of the land should be extended to enable them to raise money to take shares in railway companies likely to increase the value of their property.

Subsequently Earl Dalhousie called attention to the detective police arrangements on the Great Northern Railway on Sunday on the passage of the Scotch mail. He expressed an opinion that it would be better if the City Police were brought under the control of the Commissioners of Police of the Metropolis. Some conversation ensued, in which similar opinions were expressed. The Lord Chancellor said the subject would receive the consideration of the Government. All the speakers did justice to the good behaviour of the people.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, in reply to a question put by Mr. Hankey, stated that the Budget would be brought forward on the earliest possible day after Easter.

THE TICKET-OF-LEAVE SYSTEM.—MR. ADDERLEY introduced the question of our ticket-of-leave system, and moved an address to the Crown praying that, pending the inquiry by the Royal Commission on the subject, the terms on which tickets of leave are granted might be carefully enforced. He conceded that there had been great neglect in this matter, and that, if the existing law were properly carried out, much that was now complained of would cease. Sir G. GREY said there would be much inconvenience in dealing with the matter while the Commission was sitting, and denied that the principle had been at sea as it had been described by Mr. Adderley. The debate was continued for some time and eventually Mr. Adderley withdrew his motion.

ENGLISH POLICE IN POLAND.—A rather extraordinary revelation was made by Sir G. Grey in reply to Mr. Bunces. He said that inquiries had been made by the Russian Government that detective police-officers should be sent from London to Warsaw. He added, however, that in fact, as the Russian Ambassador wrote to him that the Grand Duke Constantine, who very much admired our police system, had sent to ask whether a detachment would enable the authorities at Warsaw, if possible, to assimilate the police system of Warsaw to that of Dublin. In reply the latter was sent to the Commissioner of Police, and Superintendent Walker and Inspector Whicher, of the detective force, were in fact sent to Warsaw. They had remained there in consultation. The Russian authorities found, however, that the English system would not work in Poland. The report of the trip for the Russian Ambassador lies on the table, and said that no written instructions had been given to the police-officers who went out.

THE ARMY ESTIMATES.

The House went into Committee of Supply, there being twenty-five hon. members present, when Mr. Massey took the chair—viz., thirteen on the Ministerial and twelve on the Opposition benches.

Sir G. C. LEWIS, in moving the Army Estimates, observed that they had been framed on the principle of endeavouring to bring them into conformity with the Naval Estimates, by which the first item was the number of men to be voted. The Army Estimates for the present year amounted to £16,097,827, against £16,660,350 in the current year, so that the decrease was, as near as possible, 1,000,000. The reduction was under the head of pay, and not stores, as the Government did not intend to proceed with any large manufacture of guns pending the experiments now making. The total number of men to be voted for the coming year was 145,242 against 162,401 voted last year. The decrease was 17,159 men. The number of battalions would, however, remain the same as last year, but there would be a reduction of 100 rank and file in all battalions at home, and colonial corps in the East Indies, China, and New Zealand, and excepting the first five battalions for foreign service. When it was borne in mind that the British possessions at home and abroad covered 7,383,000 square miles, and contained a population of 181,191,000 souls, it would be seen that, although the number voted for last year of 162,402 men was excessive.

General Peel criticised the estimates at some length, and pointed out that the vote did not include 2115 men employed in China, and who would have to be paid for out of the general vote for the expenditure of the year.

Mr. W. WILLIAMS next moved to reduce the number of men by 10,000; but after some discussion, the motion was negatived by 77 to 18.

The vote was then agreed to.

On the question that £6,709,733 be voted for the charges of general staff, regimental pay, allowances, &c., for the army at home and abroad,

General PEEL moved to reduce the vote by £98,000 for the proposed repayment to the Indian Government of men employed in China. These men did not, he said, form any portion of the force voted by Parliament, and would not be subject to our Mutiny Act.

Sir G. C. LEWIS said he had followed the same practice with regard to the troops in China as had been followed with reference to the forces at Labuan.

On a division the motion was negatived by 71 to 18.

At midnight, Sir J. TRELAWNY moved to report progress, but the motion was negatived by 69 to 20.

On notice of a subsequent motion to the same effect, Sir G. O. Lewis gave way, and the Chairman reported progress. The House resumed at 1 o'clock.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—WEDNESDAY.

The second reading of the Affirmations Bill, the object of which was to allow witnesses who held no religious belief to make their statements on affirmation, instead of having it rejected by their refusal to take an oath, was moved by Mr. Locke King, and opposed by Mr. Whiteside, by the Attorney-General, Sir J. Shaw, Sir J. Trelawny, the Solicitor-General, and was supported by Mr. Ferguson, Mr. Hadfield, Mr. Bright, Mr. Locke, Mr. Thomas Duncombe, Mr. Beecham, Sir R. Gobbold, Mr. Locke, Mr. Hennessy, and Mr. Crawford. On a division the second reading was thrown out by a majority of 142 against 95.

The second reading of the Security from Violence Bill, the main feature of which is the abolition of the punishment of solitary confinement, was moved by Mr. Adderley. Mr. Hadfield moved that the bill be read that day six months, and he and Sir G. Grey, who also spoke against the motion, contended that the second reading of the bill would be throwing away the labour of the Committee which had considered the subject. Mr. Adderley, however, was unable to withdraw the bill, which was supported by Sir R. Northcote and Colonel Sykes, and on a division the motion was carried by a majority of 191 to 74.

The Tramways Bill, the Thames Embankment (North Side) Bill were read a second time. The Sheriffs Expenses Bill was referred to a Select Committee. The Salmon Exportation Bill passed through Committee.

The Bleaching and Dyeing Works Act Amendment Bill was recommitted, and amendments were made.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—THURSDAY.

THE GREAT EASTERN RAILWAY NEW METROPOLITAN STATION AND BRANCHES BILL.—The second reading debate on the second reading of this bill was resumed by the Earl of SHAFTESBURY, who opposed it on the ground that it would create great injury to the poorer occupants of houses in the street, would destroy many small tradesmen, and would be a nuisance to the neighbourhood of the proposed station, and concluded by moving that the second reading be read on that day six months.—Lord ERNEY contended that the bill would not create the nuisance referred to by Lord Shaftesbury. The Marquis of CLANRICARDE supported the motion, and was not knowing what the result would be, he would vote for it. He objected to the second reading of the bill, which was supported by Lord Redesdale, who argued that the bill would be a great boon to the public. After further discussion, the House adjourned.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY.

LONDON POLICE IN POLAND.—Mr. HENNESSY asked the Home Secretary whether he would by or by not lay upon the table the correspondence connected with the desire of the Grand Duke Constantine that some of the metropolitan police should be sent to Poland; and if so, would he say by what principle of selection the men were chosen? Lord PALMERSTON said he had not received had been called to the hon. gentleman's question, and consequently been laid upon the table that day. At the date of the application the Government had not received that day. At the date of the application the Government had not received any information from Warsaw; but a letter was received at the Foreign Office on the 5th inst. One written report had been made by the officers, which should be laid on the table.

IRON ON WOOD FOR OUR NAVY.—On the order for going into Committee of Supply, Mr. LINDSAY called attention to the expediency of commencing at the present time to build wooden ships to be cased with iron armour-plates. The hon. gentleman argued at great length that ships of war ought to be built exclusively of iron. He further contended that they should be built under contract, and that the tenders should be thrown open to the trade generally. Lord C. PAGET said, if there were absolutely necessary to maintain our naval supremacy, we should continue building armour-plated vessels. He admitted that the question "Iron v. Wood" was open to debate, and that many arguments might be urged in favour of both materials; but he was not prepared, in the present state of their knowledge upon this subject, to give up entirely the building of wooden-framed vessels with iron plates, and to depend exclusively upon ships built wholly of iron.—A long debate ensued, and in the end Mr. Lindsay's motion was defeated by 164 votes to 91.

THE PROGRESS OF PRINCESS ALEXANDRA (PRINCESS OF WALES): ARRIVAL OF THE VICTORIA AND ALBERT, WITH HER ROYAL HIGHNESS ON BOARD, AT GRAVESEND.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 279.

AND ALBERT, WITH HER ROYAL HIGHNESS ON BOARD, AT GRAVESEND.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 279.

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

THERE are no Echoes this week possible but wedding ones. There are no oils, canticles, chimes, quarter-chimes, or tintinnabula, but only so many hundreds of thousands of wedding-bells. The shrubberies yield nothing but orange and myrtle blossoms. Bridecake is, or ought to be, the piece de resistance at every banquet. Children and simpletons are said to believe that the moon is made of green cheese. They are wandering in the wilderness of error. The orb of night is a disc of the purest Narbonne honey. Dr. Colenso is declared by some persons to be a sceptic. Those persons are wrong. J. W. Natal must for this week have a strong faith in Lemprière's classical dictionary. His maid believe in Cupid and in Hymen. Coventry has not had billions of yards of white ribbon. Covent-garden was exhausted for sausages. All the male babies born next Christmas will be christened Albert Edward, and all the girls will be called Alexandra Caroline Julia. The haberdashers sold nothing but wedding gloves, red and white scarves, or pocket handkerchiefs emblazoned with the united arms of England and Denmark. All disciples of St. Crispin, after exhausting their ingenuity in the production of patent leather boots and white satin shoes for bridal festivities, laid in stocks of old slippers, to be cast after the bridal barouche. The most cold-blooded of our contemporaries, even, warmed up for once, and burst into a shout of "Hymen, O Hymenæus!" Private houses were put upon half rations of gas, for all that could be begged, borrowed, or manufactured, was required for the illuminations. Perhaps the world was a little mad from the sixth to the eleventh day of March, inclusive; but it is good for us to be crazy sometimes. What an intolerable curriculum of boredom would this life be, to be sure, if everybody was quite sane!

In the interest of the public, and of the readers of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS in particular—stay, there is no need to draw a distinction, for the terms are synonymous—let everybody, even in a little coherent, for the space of a column or thereabouts, while we reduce the Echoes which have been chasing one another in vain, for nothing speed through our brain to something like a tangible shape. We have seen and heard much since we last had the pleasure of addressing our constituents; but, as only four columns, would be required were we to give a definite account of our stewardship. We have been in the thick of the bride. We have been in the hurt, and have we come out of the fray unscathed. The hand which pens these lines is firm, but the body attached to it is very much bruised. We won't say anything about the state of our feelings, because persons whose vocation it is to write for the press are not supposed to have any. It is enough to mention that we attended the Royal procession on Saturday from London Bridge to Paddington, and the carriage in which the Corporation of London had courteously permitted us to ride having been jammed in a hopeless block up in the midst of the wilds of Aldermanbury, with the prospect of remaining there until the wheels of our carriage rusted, and the coachman broke their hearts, and the horses ate their heads off, we abandoned the unpublished and unpublishable attempt at being "carriage-folk" for a few hours, and, abdicating at the same time any pretensions to be considered as Royal Commissioners, we descended from our chariot and patiently trudged in the ranks of the procession from Guildhall to London Bridge, and so returned through the screaming, shouting, cheering City by the Mansion House. Our bruises; hence our crushed corns, our dilapidated hat, our injured coat-tails, our lost buttons, our general battered appearance, our unbraced breathpin, our watch wrenched from the swivel of our guard; but, ahs! we took out the watch that didn't go, and the chain that wouldn't do anything! — our spirits remain, and we have no sense of exhaustion, hunger, thirst, or hymenia, and cerebral excitement.

When Lord Mayor Botheld died, poor Cockle Grubbins wrote a number of odes, elegies, and so forth, on the mournful event. He struck a balance between the publishers who had paid and those who had not paid him for his effusions, and was consolatory to the consolation that he was glad, to the extent of about fifty shillings, that the Lord Mayor was dead. Let us not be so unfeeling as Cockle. But the debit side we find two banners belonging to the Skinners' Company, or the Skinners, we are not certain which, have run into pecuniary difficulties, and the head of a volunteer's rifle violently driven into the cavity once occupied by our liver, eighteen flags provokingly flapped into the centre of our eyes, fourteen pairs of pumps, and the necessity to the publics forbids us to enumerate, our penultimate services would be all but annulled. Our hands, which we had to use as rakes on our left deltoid muscle, two bites from the high-mettled steed of a Royal Yeoman Pricker, and a dozen kicks from the coachman "screw" bestridden by a police-sergeant who didn't know how to ride. Add to this that we were several times carried off our feet at the Mansion House, found our own over in St. Paul's-churchyard, and were in the Ludgate-hill—O that we had accepted worthy Mr. Beacon's offer of a front seat on a first-floor window!—ridden down in Fleet-street, all but knocked to pieces and crushed to fragments against the walls of Temple Bar by a squadron of the Royal Horse Guards blue, and purchased, as though we had been bullocks exhibited by the Americans Bunyers, by the metropolitan mounted police, and the reckoning at our tribulation is complete. But we look for no sympathy, and our countenance—angelic the black eye resewed in King William-street and the scratch over the nose in Trafalgar-square—brightens with satisfaction. In the first place, we are safe, and that is always something to be thankful for. Next, we had a capital breakfast with the Corporation at Guildhall, and dined at the Mansion House—dined at night, which our bruised condition forbade us to accept; thirdly, we had opportunity after opportunity of assuming with an impertinently inquisitive eye, but with frank and loyal admiration—the prettiest young Princess and the most gallant young Prince that were ever seen out of a fairy tale. So we think we have fairly, constantly in favour of the credit side, and are ever so many pounds glad —if a pecuniary value is to be put upon our sensations—that when we trudged after the procession on Saturday, even though we did get bruised, beaten, hooked, and jumped upon by the chargers of the household cavalry, and thoroughly disgusted in our right mind, even with hootings and execrations, now as "detectives" and now as "penny-a-liners."

On Sunday we went into dock, and, our shattered nerves and excoriated sides being partially repaired, we plunged with renewed ardour into the habits of metropolitan society. We went to church at Windsor. How would you like to pay a guinea for a bed at a boarding, with the option of paying another guinea for the Monarch of the oratio rostiby? Dinner, tea, lunch, supper! Royal weddings forbid the fourth estate from even dreaming of such luxuries. They have the fourth estate from even dreaming of such luxuries. They have to live on telegraphic messages. They may eat their note-books, or drink ink if they like, but they must not hope for more substantial nourishment on Sunday morning, however, for although we went. We went to the wedding. A magic ticket, signed by the Lord Chamberlain, admitted us to a spot of ground where we could inspect, at our ease, every inch of nave and quire. The reception-rooms we know by heart, for we had wandered through them during the previous week. We saw the throne in the chapel, too; gazed upon the workmen as they chipped the bases of the columns of the reredos to fit them to the mosaics; peered over the brass plates, emblazoned with faded heraldic devices, in the stalls of the Knights of the Garter; and, when the doors were thrown open, we stood on the north side of the nave; and peeped into the hidden chapel containing the monument of Princess Charlotte of Wales. But what a difference was there between that hidden part of the chapel when we saw it on Friday and the gorgeous sight it presented at half-past one on Tuesday afternoon, when the procession to meet the bride and bridegroom was returning to the western entrance—when the band and organ were thundering forth the "Hallelujah Chorus" from "the Mount of Olives"—when the choir and the Albert Walk were booming out in honour of the wedding!

We have many pageants to remember, and, some of them truly grand ones—Kings crowned and Emperors buried; but we can frankly declare that we never witnessed one more truly magnificent, in every sense of the word, than that which took place on the marriage of the Prince of Wales to Princess Alexandra of Denmark. Never the necessarily circumscribed area within which the ceremony was conducted lent additional dignity and splendour to the scene, for in surveying the assembly, as we did, from a secure height, it was impossible not to feel that every single person, male and female, on whom the eye rested was in some manner illustrious for birth, or rank, or official position of some kind or another. The hundred personages in the Chapel of St. George — judging, at least, from the mere standard of worldly state and dignity, was Mr. Frith, who, being commissioned to paint a picture of the Royal marriage, had a commodious corner assigned to him on the right-hand side of the altar; and yet Mr. Frith is a Royal Academician, and one of the foremost of English artists. But the audience in the chapel of St. George scarcely admitted of the institution of comparison. They were all in the superlative degree. They were the Princes and Princess of the land, the Barons of the empire, the pillars of the State, with their haughty dames and beauteous damsels—the whole constituted of the Garter, collars, badges, stars, rivieres of diamonds, and uniforms glistening with orders never worn in the everyday concourse of an especial race. It seemed perfectly natural that a gentleman should have the seams of his coat embroidered with gold lace, and that a lady should have her head-dress and her head and a dress three yards long.

And the centre figures in this unparalleled picture? Charming as Princess Alexandra looked on Saturday, she was seen, nevertheless, at a disadvantage. She was literally overwhelmed and crushed under many disadvantages. She was literally overwhelmed by a roaring, screaming, and violently-gesticulating mob, the like of which perhaps had not been seen in this country since the proclamation of the coronation of Queen Anne and shouted out hopes that her Majesty was "for the Church and Dr. Sacheverell." But on Tuesday the Princess was not only among friends but among her kinsmen and kinswomen. It was a family party of pomp and state, of gorgeous decorations and glittering dresses, and of jewels that flashed with the light of love as it reposited at a respectful distance. A bonnet or a round hat, were it the most exquisite object in the world, a fairy fabric from the hands of a Christie on the other, would have seemed almost a profanation in St. George's Chapel. We confess that the appearance of some persons, lovely as regard as they were with gold lace, on civilian limbs jarred on our nerves somewhat. Shorts and silk stockings were the proper costume for the occasion. Those persons who, in fact can scarcely realise the notion of a Knight of the Garter in the ordinary pantaloon and boot, and who, in consequence, unwittingly suppose gaiety he wants white satin trunks and silken hose, with pointed shoes, and those were, indeed, worn by the Crown Prince of Denmark and by the Princes of Leiningen, supporters of the bridegroom. While coupled with this branch of sumptuary dis union left us more our hottest regret. Garter King-at-Arms, with Norroy and Clarenceux and the rest of the heralds and pursuivants, persisting in wearing pantaloons beneath their emblazoned tabards. The heralds of old were a well ruled race, and their modern successors become absolutely ludicrous when, beneath the drowsy tabard glowing with embroidered heraldic emblazonments, we see the trousers by their array, might belong to a post-captain in the Navy. H Garter and his colleagues be apprehensive of exhibiting their ankles hose, may we whisper to them that there is such a thing as padding!

THE THEATRES.

THE present has been a week of festivities in which theatres have been little considered. The pageantry and pomp of Royal processions, and the celebration of the Royal marriage, being the one topic of public interest, and the one subject of talk, what was left the dramatic amusement of the people entirely forgotten, and on Tuesday evening all the principal theatres were closed, even gratuitously to the public. This gracious act of the Government was well responded to by the various managements, and the public were entertained with the best and most popular of their productions. Some of them added to the usual fare in order to give to the occasion something of the character of a festival. At the Princess's, undoubtedly at several of the theatres, the Muses were involved, and Poetry presided at the board. Sophia Lee's tragedy of "The Chevalier Dody Two-shoes" were witnessed by an overflowing audience, whom haste prevented from writing their names in the Visitors' Album. At the HAYMARKET "Our American Cousin" and "Ranelagh," with the farce of "Used Up," were performed. Sadler's Wells was the most popular places of the season; while at the ADELPHI, to the usual performances, Miss Avonia Jones, attired in costume appropriate to the symbolisation, gave a recitation descriptive of the delivery of which taxed to the height the power and vigour of the elocutionist. Proceeding to the Pantheon, we find the entertainments of the evening to be developing a similar effusion, written by Mr. Chellman, the author of a version of "Lucia di Lammermoor," which was sung for the first time this evening. The LYCEUM presented an unchanged bill, but the performance was judiciously varied by the recitation of an ode, which, in the character of Britannia, Miss Bateman delivered with skill. This was followed by views of Windsor Castle and St. George's Chapel, while behind the scenes the marriage of the Prince of Wales was celebrated by Prince Albert. An allegorical table-au succeeded, which unfolded like a transformation scene, and presented, with accessories, the portraits of the Prince and Princess of Wales. At the ST. JAMES'S Lord Lytton presented Miss Herbert in Lady Audley, and, in her excellent acting of the part, she received unmistakable evidence of the favour in which "A Husband to Order," with "The Lottery Ticket" and "Robin Gold," were graced during the week. At the ROYAL ALFRED, WESTMINSTER, and SURREY commanded large audiences with their respective versions of "Effie Deans." Nor were the City theatres behindhand in the celebration of the royal nuptials, and, at the STANDARD, appeared in one of his best and most striking characters—Imperial Mr. Vandenhoff. At the OLYMPIC, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mr. Anderson, after appearing as Duke Aranza, in Tobin's excellent comedy of "The Honeymoon," delighted his patrons by reciting an ode, written for the occasion by Mr. Tobin, Jun.

PRINCESS'.—This theatre was the arena of an extraordinary success on Wednesday evening. Mr. Chellman, of Miss Braddon's novel, dramatised "Aurora Floyd," and found satisfactorily acted throughout. The nature of the interest existed considerable excitement, and the audience were in a state of alarm at the action with intense anxiety. Miss Amy Sedgwick, as the energetic heroine, was equal to the task, and anxious for her fortunes. Mr. Vandenhoff as the past, acted both with discrimination and force, and made the utmost of the situations on which he principally depended. She was most judiciously supported. Mr. Rowbotham, as Talbot Bulstrode, filled the part of John Mellish, her confiding husband, a fervour and a manliness which were highly appreciated by the audience, while the part of the brute Conyers was supported by Mr. Roxby in the most artistic manner. His delineation was perfect as the type of a class, and yet so individualised that the villain of the character was distinctively portrayed, not only in regard to special peculiarities, but also in its relations to the other characters. From the first he knew that there was danger in Stephen Hargreaves; but, confident in his own prowess, he despised the misbehaviour of Conyers. The character was ably supported by Mr. Belmore, a gentleman whose talents as a comedian have long been appreciated by the public, and whose performance of Mr. Isaac is a very eminent position indeed in his profession. His make-up was admirable, and his acting exhibited remarkable power. Mr. Vane was bent on malice and ready for crime. Every detail of feeling was carefully and decidedly expressed; and when he had to struggle with his captor for his life, and afterwards with the effects of the struggle, his performance was a masterpiece of acting

LONDON, BRIGHTON, and SOUTH-COAST RAILWAY.
The WEST LONDON EXTENSION LINE being NOW OPEN. Trains run from Kensington station to the Hammersmith-road, and from Chelsea, Battersea, and Pimlico Junction, to Stockwell, St. Leonard's, Eastbourne, Brighton, Worthing, and the other stations on the Main and Suburban Lines of the Brighton Railway.
JAMES STAPLEY, Secretary.

HOSPITAL FOR CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST, Brompton, S.W.—Supported by voluntary contributions. Limited and immediate support is solicited in behalf of numerous urgent cases.
PHILIP RASH, Hon. Sec.; HENRY DOBBIN, Sec.

JAMAICA.—THOMAS SEARLE and ELIZABETH STAINES.—According to the "Gazette" of St. Jago de la Vega (Spanish Town) there parties were married on the 25th inst., in Jamaica, Oct. 27, 1785. Any one who knows either of them, or the parents or descendants of either, is earnestly requested to communicate with Messrs. CLARKE and MUNCE, Solicitors, Gresham-buildings, Basinghall-street.

NAVAL and MARINE CADETS, &c.—EASTMAN'S Royal Naval Establishment, Eastern-grange, Southsea. At the March examination the following passed:—Mr. Eastman's pupils, 6; Mr. Cole's, 3; Mr. Hall's, 1; Mr. Hunter's, 1; Hamilton club, Gosport (Mr. Hudson), 1; Worthing club (Mr. Hunter), 1. Illustrated prospectus, with full particulars for Master Cadetship, pupils of this establishment took the first places.

A GENTLEMAN FARMING one of the Best STOCK FARMS in East Suffolk has an opening for a companionable gentlemanly YOUTH who is desirous of studying Practical Agriculture. To save trouble, terms 150 guineas per annum. Address, "Agriculture," Post-office, Ipswich.

THE RECTOR of a small Country Parish, in a healthy and pleasant situation in the Midland Counties, has also a Vicarage, lately much enlarged, desires to meet with GOOD or TWO more as Companions for them. The Rectory-house contains Seven Bedrooms, and the Vicarage Five. Both have matchless cow and stabling. The highest references and testimonials will be given.
Address, Rev. A. B. C., Ashby de la Zouch.

EDUCATION.—Richmond-hill.—In a French and German Protestant establishment, permanently and very finely situated, extensive and well-ventilated premises ensure for English, Indian, French, German, scientific lectures, drawing, painting, music, singing, dancing, religious instruction by a clergyman. The LADIES' SCHOOL DAUGHTERS reside within from any of the masters, with liberal board, from 40 to 60 guineas per annum. Prospectuses, with terms, &c., may be had of Messrs. Nisbet and Co., and of matriculated gentlemen of twenty years' French and German residence, principals, assisted by a staff, forms their undivided attention to the comforts and improvement of the pupils. Parents can best appreciate the Christian principles which include simple taste by inspection and reference. The house is on a healthy eminence, and has a large garden and playground. The domestic arrangements are on a liberal and comfortable but economical scale, thoroughly combining with eminent forty-five happy years and four half-terms.—Thirza, Post-office, Richmond, Surrey.

EDUCATION, Ealing, first Station on Great Western Railway.—For the daughters of Gentlemen. Mrs. and the Misses BARRETT have a few vacancies for eligible young ladies as pupils or parlour-boarders.—Address, "Miss," Mr. Cook's, 311, New Oxford-street.

ACCIDENTS by Road, River, or Railway, in the Field, the Streets, or at Home, may be avoided against by taking a policy of the RAILWAY PASSENGERS ASSURANCE COMPANY (Limited), Incorporated by Special Act of Parliament. £10,000 have been already paid as compensation. Cornhill, 3, Apply in the railway stations, to the local agents, or at the Head Office, 64, Cornhill, London. WILLIAM J. VIAN, Sec.

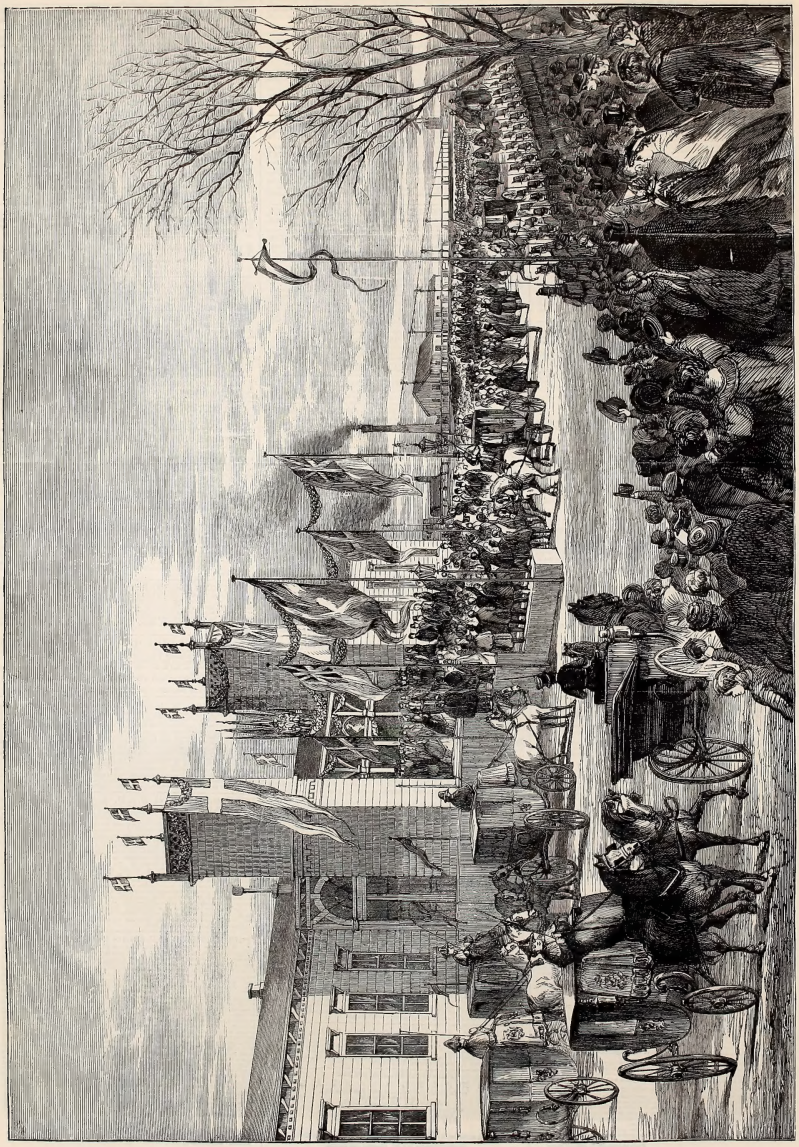
THE ENGLISH and IRISH BANK (Limited).
Temporary Offices, 10, Old Jewry.
Capital of Company, £1,000,000, in shares of £100 each.
First issue, 10,000 Shares.
DIRECTORS.
Sir Robert Walter Carew, Chairman.
The Right Hon. Lord Talbot de Malahide, Deputy-Chairman.
MANAGER—Mr. W. Lang Thompson.
This Bank is formed for the purpose of affording additional banking accommodation to the trading community in the principal towns of Great Britain and Ireland, and, with the sanction of the Board, however, the directors will open only the best office in London.
Applications for shares, with deposit of £2 per share, for which a regular scrip will be allotted in due course, may be addressed to the temporary offices.
Current accounts opened with parties properly introduced. Interest allowed on the minimum monthly balance calculated at the half-yearly settling, at such rate as may be agreed upon, if the balance has not fallen below £50; and at one per cent per annum if not below £100.
Commercial bills discounted and advances on approved collateral security.
Deposit accounts opened with the public generally. On sums of not less than £10 interest will be allowed from the date if put down before the Bank of England rate rule; and, when the rate of the money market will permit, for fixed sums of £50 and upwards, an increased interest will be offered.
The bank will undertake the agency of country and foreign banks, and collect dividends on stocks, shares, &c., for customers.

THE INTERCOLONIAL BANK of AUSTRALIA and NEW ZEALAND (Limited).—Capital £1,000,000, in 10,000 shares of £100 each. The First Issue of 5,000 shares is now offered for subscription at £20 per share, payable as follows:—Deposit of £2 per share to be paid on application, £3 on allotment, and the remaining more than £15 per share will be required to be called up. Three months' interval at least will elapse between each call; and no Call will exceed £5 per share. Shareholders under the Joint-Stock Companies Act of 1862, whereby each Shareholder's liability is limited to the amount of his shares.
DIRECTORS.
Wm. Congleton, Esq., M.P. (Director of the London, Brighton, and South Coast Railway Company), and Deputy-Governor.
Geo. Gilbert Ferry, Esq. (Director, Bee Deposit and Co., 39, Great Ship-street, Haymarket).
Thomas Hall, Esq. (Director of the Australian Mutual Provident Society, Sydney).
Henry Jacob Oliveira, Esq., Farm Lane, Hanley, and 15, Old Jewry, London.
Clark Irving, Esq. (Member of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales), 6, Hyde Park-terrace, W.
Frederick Lee, Esq. (Messrs. Philip Lee and Co.), London and Adelaide.
Wm. Lee, Esq., Hyde Park-terrace, and Adelaide.
The Hon. Sir Wm. and Alexander M'Arthur, Australian Merchants), 41, Moorgate-street, E.C.
Henry Reay, Esq. (Chairman of the Mediterranean Extension Telegraph Company, and late Member of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales), 3, Gresham-buildings, Basinghall-street.
Thomas Sutherland, Esq., Agent for Russell and Sons, Wednesbury and Blackfriars.
Bank, Sargood, Esq. (Sargood, Sons, and Sargood), 89, Moorgate-street-buildings, and Melbourne.
(With power to increase).
BANKERS—Messrs. Sir W. Carden and Sons, 7, Birchin-lane-buildings, E.C.
BROKERS—Sir S. W. Carden and Sons, 7, Birchin-lane-buildings, E.C.
AUDITORS—Messrs. Johnston, George, Wemble, and Co., Lothbury, E.C.
SECRETARY—Mr. Wm. Lang Thompson.
TEMPORARY OFFICES—22, Basinghall-street, E.C.

1. The rapid growth of the Australian colonies, and the consequent development of their commercial resources, have rendered the Australian banks the most flourishing undertakings of that class of enterprise in the world.
2. Nor is this to be wondered at, when it is considered that from the two colonies of Victoria and New South Wales alone the sum of £10,000,000 has been raised in gold since the meeting of parliament has been produced in one year.
3. The extent and intimacy of the commercial relations between the colonies and Great Britain will be gathered from the fact that, while the exports of the former consist of British manufactured goods to the sum of less than seventeen millions, in Australia it is ever ready to receive more.
4. It is the policy of every member of the population of the great Australian colonies to increase for beyond the natural rate. This circumstance would of itself, according to the ordinary course of things, have produced a great increase in the value of land, property, and other real wealth; but the increase produced by such causes is trifling when compared with that amount of unity arising on between the principal ports and inland centres of population—a fact which the Intercolonial Bank principle is further intended to develop. And banking facilities, it is believed that the establishment of this bank is justified as a matter of necessity, and that the profits will be large and sure. The gold fields of Victoria and New South Wales, and the copper fields, while they have the effect of drawing away labour, importance as a well-gathering colony, they only represented £1,784 bales.
7. The annual value of the Australian banks will be seen at a glance from the following table:—

Name of Bank.	Head Offices in	Paid up Capital.	Present Value of Shares.	Dividend with Bonus.
Bank of New South Wales	Sydney	£300	£31	17½
Bank of Victoria	Melbourne	200	30	15
South Australian Banking Company	Adelaide	200	30	15
Union Bank of Australia	Melbourne	200	30	15
London Chartered Bank of Australia	Melbourne	100	20	10
Commercial Banking Company of Sydney	Sydney	50	46	15

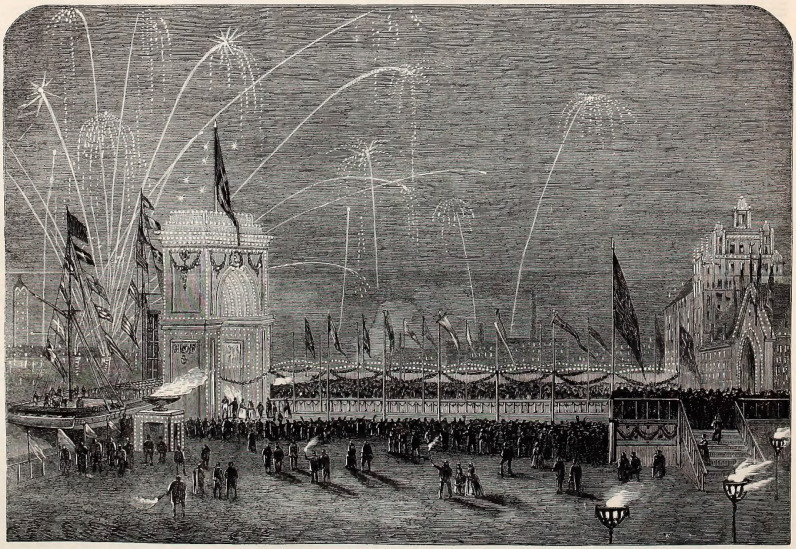
8. The Bank of Australia was established in London. There has not been a single Bank failure since the bank panic a quarter of a century ago; and, in Australian investments, such a thing as a bad debt is unknown.
9. It is worthy of note that the Bank of Australasia, incorporated by Royal Charter, has for a period proposed to increase its present capital, £500,000, to the utmost limit allowed by the charter—namely, £1,000,000, in order to meet the increasing requirements of the Australian colonies, especially of New Zealand, to which, until lately, the Union Bank of Australia was the only one established.
8. Rapid as has been the growth and prosperity of Australasia, it is only in its infancy. Its success is likely to be more observable. Every intercolonial exportation has shown that the produce of mineral deposits and agriculture is only in its commencement. Capital cannot be well and safely for settlement are of morbid richness and very inexpensive working. Agriculture is in its infancy, and the wheat crop of 1862 is estimated at 20,000,000 bushels.
Applications for shares, with the Intercolonial Bank of Australia and New Zealand (Limited). The Chief Offices of the Bank will be in London, Sydney, and Melbourne; and at Adelaide, Hobart Town, and Brisbane. New Zealand arrangements will be completed, and will be opened in due order at other places where the commercial wants of the Australian colonies may require future. Special attention will be given to the following branches of business:—
1. The purchase, investment, and shipment of gold.
2. The purchase of bullion, and other valuable commodities.
3. Discounts on terms which, while safe and remunerative, will aid in the extension of trade and commerce.
4. The transmission of bills of exchange and the issuing of letters of credit, and all other needful for the safe and expeditious conduct of intercolonial financial affairs.
5. The Bank of Australia, Union Bank of Australia, and Commercial Bank have just started in exportation of gold, for banking and exchange purposes, and the Intercolonial Bank will be opened in due order at other places where the commercial wants of the Australian colonies may require future. Special attention will be given to the following branches of business:—
1. The purchase, investment, and shipment of gold.
2. The purchase of bullion, and other valuable commodities.
3. Discounts on terms which, while safe and remunerative, will aid in the extension of trade and commerce.
4. The transmission of bills of exchange and the issuing of letters of credit, and all other needful for the safe and expeditious conduct of intercolonial financial affairs.
The Bank of Australia, Union Bank of Australia, and Commercial Bank have just started in exportation of gold, for banking and exchange purposes, and the Intercolonial Bank will be opened in due order at other places where the commercial wants of the Australian colonies may require future. Special attention will be given to the following branches of business:—
1. The purchase, investment, and shipment of gold.
2. The purchase of bullion, and other valuable commodities.
3. Discounts on terms which, while safe and remunerative, will aid in the extension of trade and commerce.
4. The transmission of bills of exchange and the issuing of letters of credit, and all other needful for the safe and expeditious conduct of intercolonial financial affairs.
5.



THE PROGRESS OF PRINCESS ALEXANDRA (PRINCESS OF WALES): DEPARTURE OF HER ROYAL HIGHNESS FROM COPENHAGEN.—SCENE AT THE RAILWAY STATION.—SEE SUPPLEMENT.

THE PROGRESS OF PRINCESS ALEXANDRA (PRINCESS OF WALES).

ARRIVAL OF HER ROYAL HIGHNESS ON BOARD THE ROYAL STEAM-YACHT SLESWIG AT KIEL, IN HOLSTEIN.—SEE SUPPLEMENT.



ARRIVAL OF HER ROYAL HIGHNESS AT KORSÖR AND EMBARKATION ON BOARD THE ROYAL YACHT SLESWIG.—SEE SUPPLEMENT.

" The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.*

BIRTHS.

On the 11th inst., at Kensington, the wife of Henry B. Fuller, Esq., of a son.

On the 6th inst., at 7, North-road, Clapham Park, Mrs. W. Evens Nichols, of a daughter, stillborn.

On the 7th inst., at Bemport, Sussex, the wife of Thomas Emery, jun., Esq., of a son.

On the 7th inst., at 22, Upper Grosvenor-street, Lady Maria Fennoyley, of a daughter.

DEATHS.

On the 6th inst., at Boulogne-sur Mer, William Hopking, Esq., M.D., late surgeon of the Glamorgan Militia, aged 56 years and 7 months.

On the 9 th inst., at Streatham, Hugh Laurent Baldwin, of the 2nd West India Regiment, fifth son of Edward Baldwin, Esq., of Preston, Surrey, aged 20 years.

GOLD CHAINS and FINE GOLD JEWELLERY.—A very elegant STOCK of GOLD CHAINS, 15s. to 50gs.; Gentlemen's Albert Chain, 2gs. to 10gs.; Gold Bracelets, 5s. to 10gs.; Gold Brooches, 5s. to £10; Wedding and Keeper Rings, 2s. 6d. to £5; Gold Pencil Cases, 5s. to £5; Gold Watches, 10s. 10s., and 5gs. to £20. Gold Lockets, 5s. to £10. Gold Rings, 10s. 6d. to 5gs. per Ring. GEORGE HARLEY, Goldsmith, 148, Regent-street W. Established and Business conducted since 1837.

WATCHES, Timepieces, and Clocks. Elegant GOLD WATCHES, jewelled in four holes, £2 15s.; in eight holes, £3 10s.; in capped and jewelled 3-day movements, £4 15s.; in capped and jewelled 4-day movements, £5 15s.; in capped and jewelled 5-day movements, £6 15s. each; duke going 14 days; three guineas and upwards. FREDERICK DENT, Watch and Clock Manufacturer, 61, Strand, and Growndall Works, Hackney. Sent carriage free to any part of the kingdom. Old Watches, Gold, Silver, Diamonds, &c., bought for cash or exchanged. Wholesale and Exports supplied on liberal terms. Watches and Clocks repaired.

BENSON'S WATCHES.—"Perfection of mechanism."—Morning Post. "Extraordinary moderate charges, keen business principles, and unimpeachable integrity are known qualities, every movement, therefore, split seconds, quarter repeaters, keyless watches, from the pinchest to the highest quality of which the art is at present capable. By means of the Government Department, Mr. Benson is enabled to offer his watches, and bear witness of temperature variations in all climates, and bear witness of temperature variations in all climates, and bear witness of temperature variations in all climates

NEW MUSIC.

HENRY FARMER'S VIOLIN SOLOS, with Accompaniment for Pianoforte.
No. 1. Home, Sweet Home.
" 2. Last Rose of Summer.
" 3. Blue Bells of Scotland.
Price 3s. each, Solo and Duet.
Orchestral Parts in the Press.
London: J. W. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S NEW PIANOFORTE TUTOR. Price 4s. "This is decidedly the most useful and best instruction-book for the pianoforte we have seen."—Musical Review.—London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars.

HENRY FARMER.—POSERPINE WALTZ. Performed in Cotsmore by J. BRANDARD, Esq. Price 4s.; Duet, 5s.—London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S CHRISTMAS CAROLS. Price 3s.; Duet, 3s.; Septet, 5s. 6d.; Orchestra, 4s. (Postage-free.) This beautiful Quadrille forms an appropriate popularity.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars.

THE ORIGINAL LANCERS. Arranged by HENRY FARMER. His additional new Tunes. Price 3s.—London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S ALEXANDRA WALTZ. Performed in Cotsmore. Price 4s.—London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S ALBERT EDWARD LANCERS. Performed in Cotsmore. Price 4s.—London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S PRINCE OF WALES' JUBILEE QUADRILLE.
JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S GUY MANNERING' (A. LULLY). Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.; Duet, 5s.; Orchestra, 3s.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars; and 123, Cheapside.

MARRIOTT'S "MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM" QUADRILLE. Price 4s.; Duet, 5s.; Orchestra, 3s.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars; and 123, Cheapside.

BRIGHTEST HOPE OF ENGLAND'S GLORY.—New National Song, respectfully inscribed to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. Price 3s.—Words and Music.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

FAIRY STEPS. Twenty-Two Pieces by J. T. STONE.
1. The Maiden's Blush | 2. Santa Lucia
3. The White Squall | 4. Support me! sweet
5. Merrily o'er the Snow | 6. Sweet Spirit, hear my prayer
7. Gentle Annie | 8. Sweet Home
9. Bonnie Dundee Flower | 10. Scots Wha' hae
11. Rule Britannia | 12. Good night, Good Home
Price 2s. each.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside.

ALBERT EDWARD and ALEXANDRA WEDDING MARCH.—Composed by JULES BENEDICT, as performed by the Band of the Coldstream Guards, at Windsor Castle, and at the Royal Chapel, Wellington Barracks. Illustrated Title. LAMBORN COCK, 23, Conduit-street (late Lender and Cock), 63, New Bond-street.

"OH, MAY YOU BOTH BE HAPPY." Song and Chorus. SYDNEY POTTER, with the Illustrated Title. Price 2s. 6d. LAMBORN COCK, HUTCHINGS, and CO., late Lender and Cock, 63, New Bond-street.

Just published,
BURGMÜLLER'S COMPLETE TUTOR for PIANOFORTE, as revised by G. A. MACFARREN, explaining Exercises and Scales in all Keys (fingered). Easy Duets for Master and Pupil, &c. Price 4s. Royal-octavo.
J. ALFRED NOVELLO, 69, Dean-street.

THE MUSICAL PLAYER. Ballad, Sung by Miss Louisa Pyne. Composed by THOMAS BAKER. One of the most melodious published this season." Price 2s. 6d.; post-free at half price.
London: ROBERT COCKS and CO., 314, Regent-street.

JERUSALEM THE GOLDEN, the celebrated Hymn arranged (with permission of the Bishop of Durham) as a Solo for the Harp, by CHARLES OBERTHÜR. Price 3s.—Duff, Hodgson, and Co., Oxford-st., 65, Portman-square.

THOSE EVENING BELLS.—Just published, a new arrangement of this beautiful Melody, by SIDNEY BERTHOLD. Price 3s. Duet 4s. A. HAMMOND and Co. (late Jullien), 214, Regent-street. All music at half price.

GUILLAUME TELL (No. 12) and NORMA (No. 13), arranged for PIANOFORTE SOLO, with ORNAMENTS and PIANOFORTE 4s. each. WINTERBOTTOM'S COMPLETE PIANOFORTE TUTOR. 4s. net. HAMMOND and Co., 214, Regent-street.

POOR JACK BROWN: a New Song. By HENRY SMART. Price 3s. Song with great applause by Misses Messent and Wells.
ROBERT COCKS and CO., 314, Regent-street.

ALL MUSIC at HALF-PRICE (the best and cheapest), without a reserved in favourable post-free by A. HAMMOND and Co. (late Jullien), 214, Regent-street, on receipt of stamps to the amount. Catalogues sent gratis.

NEW ORIGINAL HYMN—THE PRINCE OF OUR DEFAULT LAND. Words and Music by GEORGE LINLEY. Price 2s. "Supreme sharp parts, price 3d. each.
ADDISON and LUCAS, 210, Regent-street, London.

THE BRIDE ELECT. WELCOME TO ENGLAND. Song. By CHARLES JEFFERYS and ALFRED GLOVER. Illustrated by BRANDARD with a full-length Portrait of the Princess Alexandra. Price 2s. (postage-free, 1s stamps).
CHARLES JEFFERYS, Soho-square, W.

THE BRIDAL ALBUM, containing the "Spirit of Love" Waltzes, the Bride's Quadrille, and the "Hymeneal," with full music size, and printed from engraved plates, with fine toned illustrations. Post-free for 61 stamps.
CRAMER, D'ALMAINE, and CO., Soho-square.

THE ARMOURER OF NANTES. Libretto by J. V. BRIDGEMAN. Music by M. W. BALFE.
"Sweet Spirit, hear my prayer." Song by Mr. Weiss ... 2s. 6d.
"Truth and Duty." Song by Mr. W. H. Weiss ... ... 2s. 6d.
"There was what's not, here's what is." Song by Miss Louisa Pyne ... ... 2s. 6d.
"Where's the bliss, a real heart to know." Song by Mr. W. Harrison ... ... 2s. 6d.
"Oh, would that my heart!" Song by Miss Louisa Pyne 2s. 6d.
Performed by Jennings, Sautley, Harper, Parkes, Cattarina Rada, Guberni, Ricketts, Tredelis. Boosey Music by Cocks.
ROBERT COCKS and CO., 314, Regent-street, London.

DISTIN and CO.'S PRIZE MEDAL.—Brass Instruments manufactured of the finest Sheet-Copper, silver, Gold, New Needle-action Amateur Cornet, Silver and Finest Percussion. Illustrated Lists post-free.
DISTIN and CO., 4, Argyll-street.

BUTLER'S BRASS-BAND INSTRUMENTS, Cornets, Saxhorns, Circular Vibrating Horns, Drums, Fifes, Bugles, Trombones, Euphoniums, and said at prices much below the usual terms of the trade. A written guarantee given with every instrument. Manufactory, 4, Princes-street, Hanover-square, London.

ENGLISH CONCERTINA, £2 2s. Genuine, full compass, 48 keys, double action, rosewood notes, mahogany bellows, in case. Second-hand Musical Instruments in exchange for new. JONES and SON, Crystal Palace, London, S.E.

MUSICAL BOX DÉPÔT for the Sale of Tunes, Cylinders, and Musical Instruments in general from 3s. to 70 guineas.—JONES and SON, Crystal Palace, London, S.E.

MUSICAL BOX DÉPÔTS, 32, Ludgate-st., corner, and 26, Cheapside. NICOLE'S NEW MUSICAL BOXES, 41 per air. SNUFFBOXES, 10s. to 6s. Catalogues of Tunes and prices, gratis and post-free, on application to WALES & CO. as above.

HOME AMUSEMENTS.—BAGATELLE BOARDS of the best make, from 2s. 6d. complete. Illustrated Catalogue of Parlour and Garden Games, post-free on application.—ALLEN and SHERWIN, 20, Strand, W.C., London.

NOS. 77 and 78, OXFORD-STREET.—HAYWARD and COMPANY'S DRESSING-CASES, TRAVELLING-BAGS, fitted with their unrivalled Cutlery and every article of luxury and convenience in the first quality.
Dress and Travelling Bags.

	Leather	Enamel	Morocco	Wide
Leather Travelling-bag	£1 10 0	£1 15 0	£2 0 0	£2 12 6
Ditto, with writing materials	2 10 0	3 3 0	3 10 0	4 0 0
Gentlemen's Travelling-bag	1 2 6	1 7 6	1 12 6	1 17 6
Ditto, with writing materials	2 5 0	2 10 0	2 17 6	3 5 0

Dressing-cases of every description, fitted with the most complete requirements.

Leather Wood Dressing-case	£1 1 0	£1 5 0	£1 10 0	£2 0 0
Travelling	1 1 0	1 5 0	1 10 0	2 0 0
Leather Ditto	0 15 6	0 18 0	1 1 0	1 5 0
Ditto, better quality, and more completely fitted	0 14 6	1 0 0	1 5 0	1 10 0

Hayward and Company's Catalogue, containing 1,000 articles, post-free. Every article is marked in plain figures, and all are moderately the cheapest in the Trade. An inspection is respectfully solicited to a purchase. Observe carefully the numbers, 77 and 78, Oxford-street, corner of Wimsley-street and Regent Colbury Works, Birmingham.
Opposite the Pantheon.

CAUTION.

MAPPIN AND COMPANY respectfully beg to inform their customers that they have no connection with any other firm bearing a similar name, and to respectfully request that all orders sent to them by post may be addressed to
Mappin and Company,
(corner of Wimsley-street)
Oxford-street, London.

PLATE.—A. B. SAVORY and SONS, Manufacturing Silversmiths, 11 and 12, Cornhill, London, and 28, Panton-street, Haymarket, S.W., beg to call attention to their Table Cutlery, No. 64, per dozen; pattern, No. 54, per dozen. Many other patterns recently finished, plain or highly ornamented.

12 Table Spoons	30 ... 11 0	12 Table Spoons	40 ... 15 0
12 Dessert Ditto	20 ... 7 10	12 Dessert Ditto	30 ... 11 0
12 Tea Spoons	12 ... 2 16	12 Tea Spoons	18 ... 4 4
12 Dessert Ditto	20 ... 5 8	12 Dessert Ditto	30 ... 8 7
1 Gravy Spoon	10 ... 1 11	1 Gravy Spoon	14 ... 2 2
1 Soup Ladle	10 ... 3 13	1 Soup Ladle	11 ... 4 2
1 Fish Slice (pierced)	10 ... 3 13	1 Fish Slice (pierced)	14 ... 5 5
1 Fish Slice (plain)	10 ... 3 13	1 Fish Slice (plain)	14 ... 5 5
1 Pair Sugar Tongs	2 15 0	1 Pair Sugar Tongs	3 10 0
1 Pair Sugar Nippers	2 15 0	1 Pair Sugar Nippers	3 10 0

Carriage paid to the London Railway Stations. Orders, with remittance, and prices of silver spoons, forks, tea and coffee services and table plate, with pair drawings of ornamental plate for private use and presentation, forwarded by the best silver-gilded manufacturers, gold and silver watches, clocks, jewellery, and electro-plate, may be obtained on application to any part of the kingdom.

For the use of nonetheless, a work is printed with keys fitted-to-the-pattern, and the prices of the necessaries.

MILITARY CANTEENS for Officers, £10 inch. Ash Can, containing the following:—

	£ s. d.		£ s. d.
6 Table spoons	0 12 0	1 Bread Grater	0 2 6
6 Table forks	0 12 0	1 Pair sugar tongs	0 2 6
6 Dessert spoons	0 9 0	1 Pair sugar nips	0 2 6
6 Dessert forks	0 9 0	1 Cruet frame	0 3 6
6 Tea spoons	0 3 6	2 Table knives	0 3 6
1 Gravy spoon	0 3 6	1 Pair carvers	0 5 0
1 Soup ladle	0 3 6	1 Pair of meat carvers	0 7 6
1 Fish slice	0 5 0	1 Pair of steels	0 3 6
1 Mustard spoon	0 1 0	1 Corkscrew, steel	0 1 0
1 Mustard spoon	0 1 0	1 Tin Canister	0 14 0
		Carried forward, £5 11 6	Complete ... £10 0 0

Every article kept in stock, and marked in plain figures.
MAPPIN BROTHERS, Silversmiths and Cutlers, Wed-end House, 220, Regent-street, and Queen's Cutlery Works, Sheffield. Manufactory, Queen's Plate and Cutlery Works, Sheffield.
Observe the address.

SLACK'S SILVER ELECTRO-PLATE is a coating of pure Silver over Nickel, Manufactured solely by ELKINGTON and CO., and is the most durable, and still retains its superiority over all others for durability and elsewhere appearance. Fiddle Pattern. Thread. Brunswick. Pattern. Fiddle Pattern. Every Table Knives, Full Size, Balance Handles.

	Per Dozen.		Per Dozen.
Dessert Knives	£ s. d.	Table Knives	£ s. d.
Dessert Ditto	1 0 0 ... 1 10 0	Table Ditto	1 0 0 ... 1 10 0
Table Spoons	1 0 0 ... 1 10 0	Dessert Ditto	0 15 0 ... 1 0 0
Dessert Ditto	1 0 0 ... 1 10 0	Carvers (per pair)	0 5 0 ... 0 8 0
Tea Spoons	0 15 0 ... 1 0 0	Fish Carvers (per pair)	0 5 0 ... 0 8 0
Richard and Joseph Slack, 336, Strand, corner of Wellington-street.		Corkscrews, complete	0 2 6 ... 0 3 6
		Electro-plating and Gilding	0 1 0 ... 0 2 6

LE SOMMIER ÉLASTIQUE PORTATIF. The foundation for all Mattress Bedding should be elastic, and of a permanent character. This is the only Mattress which combines all that is desirable in a Bed. The Sommier Elastique Portatif is made in three separate parts, and is therefore light and portable. It is also cheap and durable. Sold at 4l. in full size bedding on the best 3l. 10s. Illustrated Price-List gratis.
HEAL and SON'S ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE, containing Prices of their Bedsteads, Bedding, as well as of 150 different articles of Bedroom Furniture, sent free by post.—Heal and Son, Manufacturers of Bedroom Furniture Manufacturers, 196, Tottenham-court-road, W.

J. MAPLE and CO.'S BEDSTEADS, in Iron and Brass, with Furniture and Bedding complete. Full-size Iron Bedsteads, 6s. 6d.
Illustrations, 145, Tottenham-court-road.

J. MAPLE and CO.'S FIRST-CLASS FURNITURE.
The Pompeian Couch ... ... 8l. 8s.
The Prince of Wales's Couch ... ... 8l. 8s.
The Prince's Easy Chair ... ... 3l. 3s.
The Pompeian Easy Chair ... ... 3l. 3s.
The Vienna Easy Chair ... ... 3l. 3s.
Illustrations, 145, Tottenham-court-road.

J. MAPLE and CO.'S NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE, containing the Prices of every article required in Furnishing, sent free by post. The Largest Furnishing Establishment in the world—145, Tottenham-court-road.

J. MAPLE and CO. for CARPETS.
A Handsome Brussels Carpet ... ... 2s. 9d. per yard.
Choice New Patterns, at ... ... 3s. 3d. "
Axminster Carpets, at ... ... 4s. 6d. "
Illustrations, 145, Tottenham-court-road.
Entrance—145, Tottenham-court-road.

SECONDHAND FURNITURE.—A very large assortment of Secondhand Furniture, Carpets, and Bedding, suitable for Lodging-houses, Families, and Schools, at the most reasonable prices. Purchasers waited upon by a competent person. Illustrations, 145, Tottenham-court-road.

SECONDHAND FURNITURE, for a drawing-room and dining-room, of a costly description. The Drawing-room Furniture consists of a handsome Grand Pianoforte, by Broadwood, in rosewood case, with trichord and check action, and seven octaves; carpets, superb mirror-plate, cornices, curtains, and cord and tassels, valued at 60 guineas. The Dining-room Furniture is in keeping with, consisting of a magnificent sideboard, fitted with lofty plate-glass back, and a handsome dining-table, with patent screw, and set of chairs, in the Elizabethan style of the period, covered in real hide leather, and all lasting in good condition, a pair of easy-chairs, and a couch to match. The above has recently been removed from a mansion, is of a very superior description, and will be disposed of at an extremely low price. To be viewed at No. 31, Baker-street, W.

FURNITURE CARRIAGE-FREE to any Part of the Kingdom.
Drawing-room Suites, complete £35 0 0
Dining-room Suites, complete 20 0 0
Bedsteads 2 0 0
Warranted First Class.
P. and S. BEYFUS, 144, GUILFORD-STREET.
Illustrated Catalogue gratis and post-free on application.

OSTEO-EIDON.—PATENT, No. 560. GABRIELS self-adjusting patent indestructible MINERAL SEPTUM SPECTACLES. Perfect vision, comfort, and ease, and without operation. Purest mineral only, a half the usual cost. Messrs. Gabriel, the old-established Dentists, 27, Hatton-street, Cavendish-square, and 34, London-bridge, London; 134, Duke-street, Liverpool; and 65, New-street, Birmingham.—Our visionally requisite to be personally for eyes. To be seen at No. 31, Baker-street, W.

GREAT SALE OF NEW SPRING SILKS, &c., at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free to all parts of the world.
Address to King and Co., Regent-street, London.

NEWEST
SPRING SILKS at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
From £1 to £3 3s. the Full Dress.
Patterns sent post-free.

NEWEST
BLACK SILKS at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
From £1 to £3 3s. the Full Dress.
Patterns sent post-free.

NEW SILKS
WEDDING SILKS at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
From £1 to £3 3s. the Full Dress.
Patterns sent post-free.

NEW
PETTICOATS, 4s. 6d. each, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.

NEW SUITS
CAMBRICS, 5s. 6d. Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.

NEW JACONET
MUSLINS, 5s. 6d. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.

NEW ORGANDIE
MUSLINS, 7s. 6d. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.

NEW SPRING
LAMAS, 7s. 6d. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.

NEW SPRING
MOHAIRS, 7s. 6d. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.

NEW SPRING
POPLIN DE LAINES, 15s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.

REAL IRISH
POPLINS, £2 5s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Patterns sent post-free.
Address to King and Co., Regent-street, London.

EMBROIDERED CAMBRIC HANDKERCHIEFS, manufactured and supplied by appointment to 300 French Cambric Embroiderers, beautifully worked, at less than half their value, 6s. 6d. per dozen; usually sold at 12s. by the shops.
COMPTON HOUSE, 44, 45, and 46, Old Compton-street; and 37 and 38 and 39, Old Falcon-street, London, W.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES.
SEWELL and CO.
Beg to announce they have received from a foreign agent his stock at Fair Fancy Child and Stranded Silks, which they are now selling at 3½ and 4 guineas the Full Dress.
COMPTON HOUSE,
37, 38, and 39, Old Falcon-street.

MUSLINS, CAMBRICS, &c., PATTERNS FREE.
Muslins, Barèges, Jaconettes, Grenadines, &c., 5½d. per yard wide. Full Dress, 5s. 6d.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street.

BLACK and COLOURED SILKS from 4½ to 8s. the Full Dress. Patterns free.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street.

GLOVES, GLOVES, GLOVES.
The World-renowned Alpine Kid, 1s. 6d. per pair.
The very best Paris 2s. 6d. Sample sent for two extra stamps.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street.

LINENDRAPERS TO THE QUEEN BY APPOINTMENT.
Established in 1778.
Ladies' WEDDING OUTFITS
Post free of catalogue.
DAPPER, HOOD, and CO., 95, Cheapside-street, London, E.C.

Sent post-free, Descriptive Lists of COMPLETE SETS OF BABY-LINEN, which are sent home
throughout the kingdom free of carriage.
UNDERCLOTHING for Ladies, Gentlemen, and CHILDREN, for Ladies and Children of all ages.

LINENDRAPERS TO THE QUEEN BY APPOINTMENT.
Established in 1778.
BABIES' BASSINETS
Trimmed and Furnished
ready for use, and sent home free of carriage.
BASSIN BASKETS
Trimmed and Furnished in corresponding
DAPPER, HOOD, and CO., 95, Cheapside-street, London, E.C.

R. WILLEY and SON are now DISPOSING OF the Manufacturing Stock last year's production of Shawls, without a speedy sale. Also upwards of 1000 yards of Fancy Silks, which they have reduced to 2s. per yard, 1s. 6d. per yard, and 1s. per yard.
Four doors from St. Paul's churchyard.

RICH BLACK GLACÉ SILKS, at 23½d., 2s. 4½d., 2s. 9½d., 3s. 9½d., 4s. 4½d., 5s. 4½d., 6s. 9½d., and 7s. 9½d. per yard, wide widths.
These goods are worthy of inspection.
R. WILLEY and SON, 65, 66, 67, and 68, Ludgate-hill, London, E.C.
Four doors from St. Paul's churchyard.

RICH GLOVES.
Ladies' and Gentlemen's Kid Gloves, of quality as exhibited in the Prize Collection of Kid Gloves at the International Exhibition, from 1s. 6d. per pair. Sample of quality as 1s. 7½d. to 2s. 3d. per pair. Birthday Presents, Keepsakes, &c. Send all the best makers.
R. WILLEY and SON'S KID GLOVES, from 1s. 6d. to 2s. 6d. per pair, best quality.
Sample pairs forwarded by post.
65, 66, 67, 68, and 69, Ludgate-street; 1, 2, and 3, Wells-street.

COURT TRAINS, MARRIAGE TROUSSEAUX, &c.
MANT AND GARR
are showing an extensive Collection of expert new Silks. Moire Antiques (expressly manufactured for the Court), Fashion Cashmeres, Glacé Silks, Satins, &c., for Court and Dinner Dresses, at prices from 2l. 5s. to 10 guineas the Dress.
MANT AND GARR, 103, Regent-street, 198, 200, 202, Regent-street, next door to Swan and Edgar's, and 1, Conduit-street.

BLACK SILKS.—A Specialité. This Week and Throughout the Month will be sold
The best Black Silk ever submitted,
Rich Figured Brocade Silks ... from £1 10 0 to 5 guineas.
Rich Satin Ditto ... ... 1 10 0 ditto
Rich Gros Grain Ditto ... ... 1 5 0 ditto
Rich Poult de Soies (exclusive) ... ... 2 2 0 ditto
Broads and Cashmeres ... ... 2 2 0 ditto
Rich Ambures ... ... 3 3 0 to 10 guineas.
Rich Glacé Checks ... ... 1 5 0 to 2 guineas.
Patterns free.—1 to 5, Ludgate-hill.
Also a large variety of make-up Silk Skirts in new and pretty designs, from 21s. each.
At PETER ROBINSON'S Family and General Mourning Warehouse, 103 and 104, Oxford-street.

BLACK BARÈGE—A SPÉCIALITÉ.
LINTHALIA,
A new French Wool Barège,
One Guinea the Full Dress, at the International Exhibition for the beauty of its texture and great wearing qualities.
This new and most useful wearing fabric is manufactured in quality of the finest Merino Wool, and is unsurpassed for its softness, lightness, and yet great durability, combining all the necessary qualities required in such portions as elegance and strength, seen to from its appearance. Also in a variety of Checks, Stripes, Crapes, Bayadères, and other makes of barèges.
Address PETER ROBINSON'S Family and General Mourning Warehouse, 103 and 104, Oxford-street.

FAMILY MOURNING
SENT FREE OF CHARGE.
Families are recommended to forward a list of the requisite mourning goods (including dresses, cassocks, millinery, mantles, shawls, &c.) when only an estimate for a complete outfit can be furnished for selection in any part of the country, free of expense, immediately on receipt of the order. Every article is marked in plain figures at the lowest London, or superior Provincial terms, and if not approved Patterns and Estimates free. Also complete lists of Mourning requisite for every grade in terms of reasonable economy.
Address Agents for the new imperial mourning Crape.
Address PETER ROBINSON'S Family and General Mourning Warehouse, 103 and 104, Oxford-street.

NEW SILKS.
NEW KNOT SILKS.
Fancy French Checks, £3 7s. 6d.
Fancy Checked Glacés, £2 15s.
Jaconet Frangaises, £3 10s. 6d.
Very rich Coloured Gros Grains.
The Rose Full Dress of 16 yards.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

NEW SPRING DRESSES.
Every new colour in all the new fabrics for the season, Drap de Soies of extraordinary richness, a very useful and desirable Dress for early Spring can be had in every shade of colour, from 14s. 6d. to 2 guineas the Full Dress.
Just received, several patterns of
NEW FOREIGN DRESSES.
The Tarlatane Dress, 12 yards, 10s. 6d.
The Fayetine de Printemps, 12s. 9d.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

NEW SPRING PETTICOAT.
THE BORDERED.
In Stripes and Checks, from 1s. 11½d. each.
Every new Petticoat, Flounced, Trimmed, and Quilted.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

Upwards of 500, commencing at 1 guinea.
SPANISH LACE SHAWLS,
purchased during periods of inaction in the manufacturing districts, and now offered to customers at a lower price than they can usually be sold at.
A large and very Elegant Stripe in NEW FLUTED LACE
for Walking Dress, suitable for early Spring.
NEW Flounced Dress, in Stripes and Fancy Checks.
NEW Waterproof Cloaks, commencing at 1 guinea.
Patterns and Illustrations free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

PARIS KID GLOVES,
700 Gs. Dozen (Sent), 1s. 11½d. per pair; free 24 stamps.
Ladies' and Gentlemen's.
PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

NEW SPRING DRESSES.
NEW Patterns post-free.
Rich Poult de Soies,
Rich Silk Poplins,
Norwich Tamoines,
Rich Gros Grains,
Rich French Merinos,
Rich Cloth Serges,
Rich Fancy Dress Stuffs,
12s. 9d., 12 yards,
Rich Fancy Checks,
12s. 9d., 12 yards.
The Rose Full Dress,
16 yards.
NICHOLSON and SONS,
50, Ludgate-hill, Warehouse,
61 and 62, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NEW SPRING SILKS.
NEW Patterns post-free.
Rich Glacé Silks,
Rich Gros Grain Silks,
£1 1s. 6d.
Rich French Checks,
12s. 9d.,
The Rose Silks,
£1 5s. 6d.
Rich Alhambra Silks,
£1 15s. 6d.
Marcellines Silks, in every shade
of Colour,
Five hundred Dozen Parasols,
Handsome Silk Parasols,
Richest Second Poult de Soies
Parasols,
Corded and Silk Parasols,
42 12s. 6d.
Rich Fancy Parasols,
Paris Kid Gloves,
NICHOLSON and SONS,
Ladies' Warehouse,
61 and 62, St. Paul's-churchyard.

UNDER THE PATRONAGE OF LADIES of the HIGHEST DISTINCTION.
Ladies' Underclothing,
Infants' Outfitting,
and
Wedding Trousseaux,
Baby Linen, Baby's Requisitories, &c.
Illustrated Lists post-free.
80, Bryanston-street (Portman-square), London, W.

BONNETS.—MARKS and GAVELL, 27, entered from Paris with their elegant GUINEA BONNETS, in silk, tulle, and crape, in all the fashionable colours (no shops), 61, Regent-street (four doors from Swan and Edgar's).

ORCHARD and CO., ARGYLL HOUSE, 245, Regent-street,
Silks, Fancy Dresses, Shawls, and Mantles.
The Rose Full Dress of 16 yards, 21s.
Brocaded Silk Dresses, 21s.
Elegant Opera Mantles, from 1 guinea.
Brilliant colours in Mousseline de Laines, 1s. 6d. a yard.
The Prize Family and Tents Linens and Carpets from the Exhibition.
Patterns free.
The Morning Dress Fabrics, in Cloths and richest materials.
Orchard and Co., 245, 247, and 249, Regent-street.

SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE.
New Spring Silks, 37s. 6d. the Dress.
New Colours in Silk Poplins, 1 guinea.
Striped Checked Silks, for Walking-Dress, 25s. 6d.
PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

NEW SPRING MOHAIRS for March, 1863. Patterns free.—R. HOOPER, 43, Oxford-street, W.

HOOPER'S ALEXANDRA JACKETS.—This beautiful shape is now ready for hire, and can be promptly executed in Velveteen or in the new Spring Cloths.
The Showrooms contain the largest Stock of Jackets in Europe.
R. HOOPER, 43, Oxford-street, London.

HOOPER'S LYONS VELVET JACKETS, of the richest quality, beautifully braided and ornamented, suitable for dinner, or evening dress, from 2 to 5 guineas. Illustrations free.—R. Hooper, 43, Oxford-street, London (near Bond-street).

HOOPER'S HALF-GUINEA JACKETS, in Cloth and Cashmere, in various colours. Although remarkably cheap, they are made in the most perfect manner. Illustrations free.—R. Hooper, 43, Oxford-street, London.

NEW MUSIC.

WEDDING MUSIC.

ALBERT LINDAHL'S WEDDING WALTZES. Just published, with a full-length Portrait, beautifully printed in colours, of her Royal Highness the Princess Alexandra. Price 4s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

DALBERT'S WEDDING QUADRILLES on the FAVORITE MINSTRELS' MELODIES. 10th Edition at this very popular set. Price 3s.; Post, 3s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

DENMARK QUADRILLE. Composed entirely on Danish National Melodies. By D. GODFREY, Her Majesty's Guards' Band. Illustrated with a Photograph of H.R.H. the Princess of Wales. Price 4s.

N.B. This Quadrille was performed by the Bands of the Guards on March 10.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S ROYAL WEDDING MARCH, for the Pianoforte, specially Dedicated to Costume. Price 4s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

GODBAN'S WEDDING BELLS, for the Pianoforte. Beautifully Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE PRINCESS OF WALES. A Fantasia on Danish Airs for the Pianoforte. By KUHE. Price 4s. Illustrated with a Photograph of her Royal Highness the Princess Alexandra.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE PRINCE OF WALES: a Fantasia on Welsh National Melodies for the Pianoforte, by BENEDICT, performed by Miss Arabella Goddard at the Monday Popular Concerts. Illustrated with a Photograph of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales by John and Charles Watkins, of Portman-street.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

DALBERT'S PRINCE OF WALES'S GALOP. A new Edition. Beautifully Illustrated with a Portrait (in Costume) of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales by BAUER. Price 3s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE PRINCESS ALICE WALTZES, with a full-length Portrait of the Bride of the Royal Bridegroom. By T. BROWNE, Author of the Agnes Polka, &c. Price 4s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

DALBERT'S SOLDIER'S POLKA. A new Edition. Illustrated with a Portrait just published, with a Portrait of his Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge by BRANDARD. Illustrated in Colours. Price 3s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

DALBERT'S KATHLEEN MAVOURNEEN Arranged as a Waltz on the favorite Song of "Kathleen Mavourneen." A new Edition. Beautifully Illustrated. Price 3s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

DALBERT'S WEST-END POLKA. A new Edition. With charming Polka, splendidly Illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD. Price 3s., post-free.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

C. H. OSBORNE'S POPULAR AIRS, arranged for the Pianoforte,
Charlie is my darling, 3s.
Ye banks and braes, 3s.
The Minstrel Boy, 3s.
Robin Adair, 3s.
Comin' thro' the rye, 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' COMPLETE EDITION FOR THE PIANOFORTE. The best, the newest, and cheapest collection of Pianoforte Music, containing all the favorite compositions, vocal, instrumental, and dance, of the most popular Composers at progressive lessons. Sixty pages, full music size, price 4s., post-free. Lists of Brinley Richards' Popular Pianoforte Pieces will be sent on application to

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' JUANITA. This popular Song arranged as a most pleasing dancing-room Pianoforte Piece. Price 3s. Also as a Duet, 4s. 6d.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' MARAQUITA. This popular Ballet arranged as an easy and effective dancing-room Pianoforte Piece. Price 3s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' GOD SAVE THE QUEEN. As a dancing-room piece, we are disposed to think "God save the Queen" is one of the most striking achievements."—Review. Price 3s. 6d.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S NATIONAL MELODIES FOR THE PIANOFORTE.
No. 1. "The Maid of the Mill." Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S SEMIRAMIDE. Grand Fantasia on the favorite Rossini Opera, for the Pianoforte, by the popular Composer. Price 4s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S MASSANIELLO.—Just published, a Grand Fantasia for the Pianoforte on airs from the favorite Opera. Price 4s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE ANGEL'S HARP, by THEODORE TRKELL, a New Pianoforte Piece, price 3s. 6d., that has already received universal popularity. "The most effective dancing-room piece we have seen for ages."—Herald. Also, "Trkell's Sparkling Quadrilles on the Angel's Harp," price 4s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

TRKELL'S LA PRIÈRE D'UNE MÈRE. Reverie pour Piano. Price 3s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

TRKELL'S LA VIVANDIÈRE, Impromptu Militaire pour Piano. Price 3s. 6d.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

ALBERT LINDAHL'S New Piece, MIGNONETTE. Illustrative of the Pianoforte. Price 3s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NAVA'S DANISH NATIONAL SONG and HYMN, arranged for the Pianoforte, price 3s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NUPTIAL MUSIC and WEDDING MARCH. Composed for the Marriage Ceremony of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales and H.R.H. the Princess Alexandra. By SIEGFRIED KALLIWODA, Kapellmeister to the King of Denmark. Piano Solo, 4s. Also, arranged for the Organ, by G. A. ELLIOTT, Mus. Bac. Oxon.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, and 39, Great Marlborough-street, W.

DOMÉ. OURY'S DANISH HYMN. The most successful arrangement for the Piano of this popular Air. Price 3s.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, and 39, Great Marlborough-street, W.

HRH. GODFREY'S PRINCE OF WALES'S BRIDAL MARCH. A very effective and not difficult overture for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 39, Great Marlborough-street, W.

NEW QUADRILLE.—DENMARK. By CARL KOHLER. No. 2 of the popular Danish Airs. With an excellent Portrait, in Colours, of the Princess Alexandra. Price 4s.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, and 39, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE GALOP OF THE SEASON.—THE STAR OF DENMARK. By KARL KOHLER. With a tinted Portrait of the Princess of Wales. Price 4s.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 39, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE NEW AND POPULAR VALSE.—DE DARFARD'S LES FRANCES. As played by all the Bands. With portraits of the Royal Bride and Bridegroom. The Illustrations are embellished with postage-stamps of all nations. Price 4s. Also, arranged for Piano duet, 4s. Also for twelve stamps, Brass and Qd., Reed, Septet, London.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 39, Great Marlborough-street, W.

ETTIE VALSES. By G. RENNIE PITWELL. "A very graceful Set."—Musical Review.
BOOSEY & OLLIVIER, 19, Old Bond-street.

NEW MUSIC.

BOOSEY'S MUSICAL LIBRARY.—Every Subscriber of Two Guineas receives a splendid Quire of Elegant Sheet Music, and has the use of twenty pieces of Music at home and twenty pieces in the country. Subscribers at One Guinea have the use of twenty pieces. Prospectuses from 28, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

14 SACRED SONGS in BOOSEYS' MUSICAL CABINET. No. 74, with Pianoforte Accompaniments. The Words and Music by Mozart, Handel, Meyerbeer, &c., &c., under the title of "Sacred Song, "Jerusalem thy Builder." Price One Shilling. Published this Day.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

20 SACRED COMPOSITIONS FOR THE PIANOFORTE, by the greatest Masters, in BOOSEYS' MUSICAL CABINET, No. 75. Price One Shilling.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' PORTUGUESE AIR, "Ye Mariners of England," "Rule Britannia," "Hail to the Bride," and companion to the "Vesper Hymn." Price 3s. Just published. Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

NORDMANN'S SICILIAN MARINERS' HYMN, as Piano Duet for Children. By the same Composer, "The Ancient Hymn" and "Adeste Fideles." Price 3s. each. Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

HENRY SMART'S 20 PRELUDES and INTERLUDES for the Organ. Price 2s. 6d. in cloth. An entirely new and original work. "Masterly, pleasing, and well varied."—Athenæum.

BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

ENTRY SMART

FLOATING BELL, a plaintive and pastoral Song. By HENRY SMART, Author of "The Lady of the Lea." Price 3s. 6d.—Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

VIRGINIA GABRIEL.

DREAM, BABY, DREAM. A very beautiful Song for Contralto or mezzo-soprano voices. Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

CLARIBEL.

THROUGH THE VALLEYS, New Song, by CLARIBEL, Author of "Five o'Clock in the Morning." Published this day. Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

MISS GODDARD'S New Fantasia, CAMBRIA, Fantasia on Welsh Airs by Brodein, companion pieces to "Erin" "Caledonia," and "Germania." Boosey and Sons, Holles-street. Price 4s. Published this day by BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

24 OF SIR HENRY BISHOP'S GLEES (in Vocal Score) in separate books, price 1s. each; or in two volumes, cloth gilt, 3s. each; or in one volume, cloth gilt, 5s. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street. Catalogues gratis.

20 NEW CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS' SONGS in BOOSEY'S MUSICAL CABINET, No. 76. Price One Shilling. Published this day. The Words and Music of the most popular songs now being sung by the various troupes of Christy Minstrels.

9 NEW NUMBERS of BOOSEYS' CABINET are published THIS DAY. No. 74 contains 14 beautiful Sacred Songs, and No. 75 contains 20 Sacred Pianoforte Pieces. Price 1s. each.

CHALBERG'S ART OF SINGING APPLIED TO THE PIANO. Cheap Edition of the Six Favourite Exercises, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, and Preface on Introduction on the Art of Performing, by CHALBERG. This invaluable Work may be had in Six Numbers, price 1s. each, or in One Volume, 6s. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

THE POLISH MAZURKA and HYMN arranged by CHALBERG in Duets. Now first published in England, and dedicated to Miss Arabella Goddard. Price 4s. each. The Hymn is the only version of the Polish National Song.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

THE ANGLO-DANISH QUADRILLE, by E. L. HIME, on Solo and Duet, price 4s. each, sent at half price. This is the best set of Quadrilles on the Danish airs that we think it admirable.—DUFF and HODGSON, 30, Oxford-street.

THE ANGLO-DANISH VALSE, by E. L. HIME, on Solo and Duet, price 4s. each, sent at half price. Admirable pianoforte Valse, it is graceful and elegant, and will be a favourite.—DUFF and HODGSON, 30, Oxford-street.

NEW SONGS.—"GENTLE BESSIE" and "BIRD OF LOVE." Two charming Songs by MR. LAND (composer of the song with the greatest success by MR. KUHE) in contralto and tenor keys. Price 2s. each. Free for 13 stamps each.
DUFF and HODGSON, 30, Oxford-street.

NOTICE.—HALF-PRICE.—All Music, and all Books in Music and General Literature, sent post-free for postage-stamps or Post Office order.
DUFF and HODGSON, 30, Oxford-street, W.

TINNEY'S PRINCE OF WALES QUADRILLES. Price 4s. With a splendid Likeness of the Prince in Costume, by HAYNES and SON.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

Introducing the Danish National Air,

COOTE'S PRINCESS ALEXANDRA VALSE. Price 4s. Illustrated with Portrait in Colours, respectfully inscribed to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

The Latest Excitement.

COOTE'S FIRST LOVE. Illustrated. Price 4s. Solo or Duet. One of this Composer's happiest ideas, sparkling and charming.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-st.

The best Set of Lancers are

COOTE'S CURE LANCERS. Price 4s. Every bar charming.—The Queen.—"My Pretty Jane," "Cure," and other popular Airs.—The Court Circular. Always recommended.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

COOTE'S DOMINO GALOP, Price 3s. Always recommended.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

COOTE'S VILLAGE-BELLS POLKA, price 3s.; one of the very best published, and will excel in popularity Coote's celebrated Polka, "The Dragonfly."
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

Continued Success.

TINNEY'S SONGS OF THE WOOD VALSE. Price 4s. Solo or Duet. Illustrated. By Permission to the Queen and United Kingdom.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

COME WHERE THE MOONBEAMS LINGER. Price 3s. 6d. The melody is simple and beautiful, and both text and music are by the Author. "Lord by laid the name in Parliament."
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

NEW BALLAD.

SIGHING FOR CHLOE, by F. BUCKLEY, Price 3s. 6d., is creating a furore.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

ENGLAND and DENMARK, Mazurka (Solo Edition). By C. M. E. OLIVER. Price 4s. Beautifully Illustrated with Portraits in Colours.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

NEW AND EXQUISITE MORCEAU.

KUHE'S SILVER MOONBEAMS. Price 3s. 6d. The most favourite piece by this admirable Composer.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S AULD LANG SYNE, price 3s. Also, by the same Composer, CHOOSE TO A DAINTY, VIOLETS, and OH! IF I HAD BOON ONE TO LOVE ME, price 3s. each.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

TWILIGHT REVERIE. Romance for the Pianoforte. By LINDAHL and CAMPBELL.
THE STERLINDA MAZURKA. Price 4s.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

NEW MUSIC.

THE PRINCE OF WALES'S WEDDING MUSIC.—Dedicated by Special Permission to his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales.

THE PROCESSION MARCH, by ARTHUR S. SULLIVAN. Arranged for the Pianoforte. 1s. Performed on the 10th inst. by the principal Military and Orchestral Bands throughout the country.

THE WEDDING MARCH, by WALLACE MACFARREN. Arranged for Orchestra by ARTHUR S. SULLIVAN. Arranged for the Pianoforte. 2s. Performed by the whole Band in the progress of the Procession through London.

THE BRIDE FROM THE NORTH. Song. Poetry by HENRY F. CHORLEY. Music by ARTHUR S. SULLIVAN. 3s.

THE SNOW-WHITE PLUME. Song. Poetry by W. H. BELLAMY. Music by J. L. HATTON. 3s. Sung by Mr. Henry Corri.

THE WEDDING; Descriptive Fantasia for the Pianoforte. By CHARLES COOTE.

THE ORANGE-BLOSSOM VALSE. By LOUIS PHILLIPS. 4s. The three pieces last mentioned are performed by the best Pianoforte artists. The complete set may be had in an elegant Portfolio, price 10s. 6d.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

HER PATHWAY STREW WITH FLOWERS. Song. Poetry by RICHARD SAUNDERS; Music by W. WINN.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

HONOUR, RICHES, MARRIAGE BLESSING. Song. Words by ARTHUR S. SULLIVAN.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

T. W. NAUMANN'S "DANIA," on Popular Airs.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' DANISH AIRS.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

WHEN FIRST THE BELLS, George Perkins' Popular Song. Sung with great applause by the Composer.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

G. GRETTON'S PIANOFORTE WORKS, for Schools and Academies.—Les Demoiselles, Les Walloises, 4s.; Fantasia, 4s.; Quatre Pabtitions, 4s.; Toccata, Pastoral, 4s., &c. CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

BLOCKLEY'S ROYAL PROCESSION MARCH. Descriptive Piece, with View of the Triumphal Arches, Portraits of Bride and Bridegroom, beautifully Illustrated in Colours. Solo or Duet, 4s. Orders should specify Addison's Edition. Just published.
ADDISON, HOLLIER, and LUCAS, late Addison and Hodson, 210, Regent-street.

BLOCKLEY'S ROYAL WEDDING MARCH. Descriptive Piece, with View of the Interior of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, and Portraits of Bride and Bridegroom, Illustrated in Colours. Solo or Duet, 4s. Orders should specify "Blockley's Royal Wedding March."
ADDISON, HOLLIER, and LUCAS, late Addison and Hodson, 210, Regent-street; and all Musicsellers.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' BALLAD, "When thou art near we sorrow seems to fly." With Portraits of Prince and Princess of Wales, in Costume. 3s.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street; and all Musicsellers.

"ENGLAND'S CHOSEN BRIDE." (The Bride from the North.) Composed by J. F. KLITZ. Illustrated with Portrait in Colours, 3s. Inscribed by special permission to her Royal Highness.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

"WE'LL PART NO MORE BY KEEPING." DANISH BRIDAL SONG. 3s. Composed by F. L. HIME. Beautifully Illustrated with Portraits of Princess of Wales in her bridal dress.—ADDISON, 210, Regent-street; and all Musicsellers.

BLOCKLEY'S "ROYAL BRIDAL GALOP," by BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street. Also the ALEXANDRA GALOP, by CARL HAUSMANN, with Portrait in Colours, 4s.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BLOCKLEY'S PRINCE OF WALES' MARCH. Also, Blockley's ALEXANDRA MARCH. 3s. Both Illustrated with Portraits in Colours.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

JERUSALEM THE GOLDEN. Sacred Song. Blockley's only authorised edition of this popular Song, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 3s. Also, Blockley's Arrangement of "Adeste Fideles" and "Angel's Lullaby." Published by J. BLOCKLEY, Pack-road, Kingsland; Cramer, 201, Regent-street

THE CHRISTIAN MARTYR: Sacred Song. Composed by the Rev. J. B. DYKES, M.A. Illustrative of Defoe's celebrated picture "The Christian Martyr." Price 3s. Published by J. BLOCKLEY, Pack-road, Kingsland; Cramer, 201, Regent-street; and all Musicsellers. Also, by the same, "Father, forgive them," "Resignation" (There is no Rock), all Illustrated. Songs (or Duets), 3s. each. Cramer, 201, Regent-street.

WANDERINGS AT MORN. By J. von JOEL. A charming solo, replete with melody and effect, intended as the companion piece to "Thoughts at Eventide." Free for 18 stamps. Also, a selection of 100 pieces of Music, consisting of ordinary performers. Price 5s.—D'ALCORN, 9, Rathbone-place, W.

ANGELS FROM THE REALMS OF GLORY. Sung by J. B. LAMPERT, and Mdlle. LA ROSE, Encored. Price 3s. Also, by the same, "Sweet Spirit, hear my prayer." Sung by Mdlle. LA ROSE. Encored. Price 3s. Published by J. BLOCKLEY, Pack-road, Kingsland; Cramer, 201, Regent-street.

LOVE'S WHISPER WALTZ. By R. F. HARTE. Composed for the Ball at the Private of Wales' Royal Wedding Ball. Superbly Illustrated. Price 4s.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

THE SPINNING-WHEEL (copyright), as sung by Mr. Kennedy, from Paterson and Sons' Glees Edition. Pianoforte Accompaniment by Montgomery.
PATERSON and SONS, Rosemount Buildings, Montrose and Glasgow.

KUHE'S ROYAL WEDDING AIRS. Just published. Price 4s.; post-free, at half-price.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street, Dublin.

CHAPPELL'S NEW TWENTY-GUINEA PIANOFORTE, with check action, in French mahogany case, with trichord treble throughout, and only just been brought to perfection as a foreign factory, expressly, built with the view of bringing a really good pianoforte within the reach of limited means. It has the very best check action, the full compass; is made in a hard and solid manner, and will stand any climate. The tone is very pure and sympathetic, and the touch remarkably even and responsive. Cc. strongly recommend this Pianoforte as superior in all respects to bankers and other Pianofortes at the price. The advantage to parties in or retiring on a good guarantee, with a perfect touch, will be found in this Pianoforte. Cc. have also a few of the same description, but with the full compass, and all the latest improvements, at 25 guineas.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN PIANINO (the only Pianino to which the Prize Medal was awarded).—A very elegant pianoforte, in rosewood case, with trichord treble throughout, full compass, and all the latest improvements. The touch is remarkably even and responsive, and the tone is pure and sympathetic. Cc. have also a few of the same description, but with check action, and all the latest improvements, at 25 guineas.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN MODEL PIANOFORTE, price 20 guineas, in rosewood; or in walnut, 21 guineas. Cc. believe that these fittings and the fullest possible compass of Seven Octaves, obtained by every possible means to endure the greatest amount of wear, and to stand perfectly in tune, will be found of great advantage to the purchaser, and to any climate. The touch and tone cannot be excelled in this class of pianoforte, and the repetition very rapid. No pianoforte, in all respects comparable, has hitherto been made in England at the same price. Every instrument will be warranted, and (if desired) removed and tuned in any part of London.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BROADWOOD, COLLARD, and ERARD. The best Pianofortes of every description, including all the newest trials by those celebrated makers, may be tried side by side (and hired with option of purchase) at the new Showrooms of CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

EBARD'S NEW BOUDOIR GRAND PIANOFORTE, at 120 guineas, having been now brought to perfection, can be hired, with the option of purchase, at CHAPPELL and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street.

SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES CHAPPELL and Co. have a large Stock of SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES for sale, by ERARD, COLLARD, BROADWOOD, &c., &c., at very reduced prices. Also, new Instruments of every description.—Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

DIANOFORTES at CHAPPELL'S.—The largest Stock in London, by Broadwood, Collard, Erard, &c., for Sale or Hire.

ALEXANDRE'S DRAWING-ROOM HARMONIUM, the best that can be made, price 35 guineas, in handsome case. Lists of Alexandre's Illustrated Catalogues of Pianofortes and Harmoniums sent on application to CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

SIX-GUINEA HARMONIUM by ALEXANDRE, with five stops and percussive reed tone. These instruments are lower in price and superior to all other cheap harmoniums. Lists of descriptive lists on application to CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

SECOND-HAND HARMONIUMS, by ALEXANDRE, nearly (if not quite) as good as new, at greatly-reduced prices, at CHAPPELL'S, 50, New Bond-street.

ALEXANDRE'S PRIZE EXHIBITION HARMONIUM, for the CHURCH, in oak case, with 16-feet, Diapason and Vibrating reed, voiced by the best of the right hand, price 50 guineas. Lists of Alexandre's Harmoniums may be had on application to CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE SICCAMA FLUTE.—Old System of Fingering, with important improvements.—These celebrated Instruments are now made with the following Patent Keys:—Patent Keys 4 to 13 guineas, by S. ARTHUR CHAPPELL, 314, Regent-street, from whom detailed prices may be obtained.

ANTOINE COURTOIS' CORNETS-à-PISTONS.—These celebrated instruments, used by every professor, may be obtained of CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street, or of S. ARTHUR CHAPPELL, 314, Regent-street, from whom price-lists and testimonials may be obtained.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD'S PIANOFORTE GALLERY, at 201, Regent-street. The largest in Europe.

Every Instrument that is for Sale or Hire at least equal to the description given of it. Inferior Instruments are carefully excluded from this Gallery.

Pianofortes by Broadwood, Collard, Collard, Continental, and Amateur Manufacturers, for Sale or Hire.

THE DRAWING-ROOM COTTAGE. CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD would call the attention of the nobility, clergy, and gentry to their Stock of Pianofortes of the medium size, and of the very best description. The tone of these Pianofortes is full, rich, and sympathetic, and the touch elastic. This beautiful instrument has been produced with an eye to elegance of appearance, and to the requirements of modern drawing-rooms. The full compass of seven octaves, with the trichord treble throughout, can possibly be made. In rosewood, 28 guineas; walnut, 25 guineas.—201, Regent-street.

THE ENGLISH PIANETTE, 22 Guineas. CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD manufacture this genteel small Pianoforte, which has been pronounced by the most eminent professors to be the best Pianoforte of its size ever produced at the price. The fingers of the player will be strengthened much more effectually upon this Pianoforte than in practising on old-fashioned bass in the key and worn to the hammer. In rosewood, 22 guineas; in walnut, 23 guineas.

The Pianoforte are constantly manufactured so that this instrument has not the common or single action, but the double or check action; and has the full compass of seven octaves and the trichord throughout it is Rotation.

THE ENGLISH PIANOFORTE.—CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD manufacture for India a superior Pianoforte, especially adapted to suit extremes of climate, solidity of bearings, and all other silent appliances necessary to resist the effect of extreme heat and moisture. Also for ALEXANDRE'S Harmoniums. The assortment of the instrument as well as the case has been secured by Messrs. CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, after many years' practical experience, and has been declared by numerous purchasers to possess the highest recommendations for their excellent quality of tone and their durability.

Cramer, Beale, and Wood deliver their instruments (safe, packed in case) free of expense to the docks, Gravesend, Liverpool, Hull, Leith, Belfast, Cork, Dublin, Glasgow, &c.

Universal Pianoforte Gallery, 201 and 205, Regent-street, London.

CRAMER'S HARMONIUMS. Harmoniocords, Concertinas. Manufactured by CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD.

CRAMER'S CHURCH HARMONIUMS, with two rows of keys, as manufactured by M. Debain, the inventor of the Model Harmonium. Nothing can surpass these little instruments, either as regards solidity of workmanship or extreme purity of tone. Prices, 20 guineas, 25 guineas, 30 guineas, 35 guineas, 40 guineas, 45 guineas, 50 guineas. Prize in Class of Reverend Gentry, with knee action, 17 stops, 36 guineas; 20 stops, 40 guineas; 22 stops, 45 guineas; 24 stops, 50 guineas.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street, London.

HARMONIUM PEDALIER FITTED FOR CHURCH ART PURPOSES.—M. Debain, inventor of the Harmonium, has recently constructed a set of Pedals, producing a fine Organ tone, which can be added to any of his Models. The Pedalier will be found of great advantage to Organists who have not an Organ Music of a high class. The compass is 13 octaves (C to G); there are two set of pedals, one for the treble, and the other for the bass. Cramer, Beale, and Wood, 201, Regent-street, London.

BOOSEY'S "MINIATURE" PIANOFORTE. This new and elegant Pianoforte is made in rosewood, in a simple but elegant case, and possesses great brilliancy, as well as a good, full, and rich quality of tone. Price 25 guineas. The touch is delicate, and the tone is sympathetic, and remarkably even in quality, and is recommended for the use of a small room. Boosey and Sons, Holles-street, London.

BOOSEY'S MINIATURE PIANOFORTE. "We have much pleasure in sending a further description of Pianofortes manufactured by Boosey and Sons, which combines quality and elegance, and is suitable for the drawing-room of moderate dimensions. The instrument we have tested is a cottage model, covered by a solid dancewring neat eloquent music," with the voice of a full-sized piano. It is of great power, and sufficiently large enough to fill the largest drawing-room;" and the whole mechanism of the instrument is constructed with the greatest care, and is calculated to stand any climate. We can recommend it to the public."—The ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS, Feb. 28, 1863.

PRATTEN'S SEVEN-GUINEA PIANOFORTE. The Model Pianoforte for Students. Especially suited for the use of Schools. Strongly recommended by many eminent professors. Descriptive lists of this and other Pianofortes, with full particulars, and other principles, without changing the familiar fingering of the old 4-keyed flute, may be had on application to Messrs. Pratten, 295, Regent-street. Pianofortes taken in exchange, or purchased. Pianofortes to suit this instrument at one third of the expense of any stiffener flute now made.

An illustrated prospectus may be had on application to the manufacturers, Messrs. Pratten, 295, Regent-street.

CASE'S ENGLISH CONCERTINAS.—These Concertinas, which have maintained their unrivalled reputation, possess a rapid speech, a great compass, and a powerful organ-like tone, and are recommended by the profession.
BOOSEY and CLINCH, Manufacturers, 24, Holles-street.

EVANS' ENGLISH HARMONIUMS, price from 15 guineas. Illustrated Lists on application to BOOSEY and CLINCH, 24, Holles-street, London.

EVANS' COTTAGE HARMONIUMS, at 8 guineas, 10 guineas, and 12 guineas.
BOOSEY and CLINCH, 24, Holles-street.

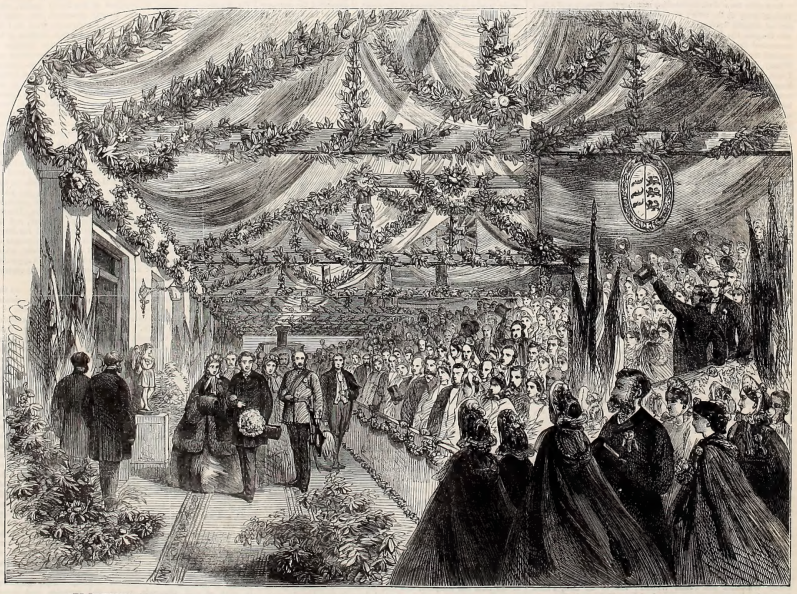
EVANS' ENGLISH HARMONIUMS, at 15 guineas, 20 guineas, and 25 guineas. Illustrated Lists on application to BOOSEY and CLINCH, 24, Holles-street. Harmoniums Discounted for cash or half an equivalent to the trade.
Harmoniums.—BOOSEY and CLINCH, 24, Holles-street, London.

E. BESSON'S NEW CHALLENGE CORNETS.—Manufactory, 198, Euston-road. Twenty-three models executed for these celebrated instruments, which are adopted by the first artists and amateurs in the world.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, MARCH 14, 1863.

MARRIAGE SUPPLEMENT TO THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

VOL. XLII. SATURDAY, MARCH 14, 1863.



THE RECEPTION OF PRINCESS ALEXANDRA (PRINCESS OF WALES) IN LONDON: ARRIVAL OF HER ROYAL HIGHNESS AT THE BRICKLAYERS' ARMS STATION.

MARRIAGE OF THE PRINCE OF WALES AND PRINCESS ALEXANDRA OF DENMARK.

ARRIVAL OF THE PRINCESS.

IF the chroniclers of Royal receptions in time gone by have writ their annals true, there have been occasions when the entries into London of Kings and Princes were striking popular demonstrations. The progresses of the Black Prince and of Bolingbroke, each with a captive Monarch by his side, were somewhat in the nature of the ancient triumphs; and therefore, although we are told that they were studious exhibitions of the people's joy, yet they scarcely bear any close analogy to the event which we have just celebrated. Perhaps the passage of King Charles II. through London at the Restoration may have had about it some of those features of complete abandonment to the excitement of the moment which were so prominent in the reception of the Sea-King; but it is now our happiness to call Princes of Wales. However that may be, it is difficult to imagine that any ovation could have ever occurred in which the whole nation spoke with one voice of enthusiastic welcome. Whether as regards the past or the future, the arrival of Princess Alexandra in the land of her adoption stands, and will stand, as an occurrence without an equal.

Leaving her native country on the 26th of last month, amidst every expression of good-will and sympathy from its inhabitants, the Princess passed on through a well-selected route and reached Cologne at an early hour on Monday, the 2nd inst., where she received some of the first greetings from her future compatriots, the resident English doing her all honour during her brief stay at that place. In the afternoon of Monday her Royal Highness reached Brussels, where she was received with great ceremony by the Duchess of Brabant, the Count of Flanders, the Burgomaster of Brussels, and was royally entertained by King Leopold during her visit. Tuesday was the day appointed for Antwerp, and in the place of her until the Thursday, when she departed for Antwerp, the place of her embarkation for England. At Flushing a magnificent squadron of ships of war, comprising the Revenge, 73, the flag-ship of Admiral Smart, in command of the Channel Fleet; the Victoria and Albert, Steamer, in command of Lord Clarence Paget; and several dispatch-boats, had assembled to escort the Royal yacht Victoria and Albert, having the Princess on board; and from that point until the time of her landing they performed that duty.

Pressing on at great speed, the Royal yacht putting the very fastest vessels of our fleet on their mettle, the squadron arrived at midnight off Margate Roads, where the ships anchored. Soon after daybreak by sunrise, the authorities of the town bestirred themselves effectually to get up a deputation and present an address to the Princess, which was graciously received by her Royal Highness in the fine cabin of the yacht on Friday. Shortly after three o'clock the squadron weighed anchor and proceeded up the river, arriving at the Nore at twenty minutes past five o'clock, where it again anchored. At this time the weather, which had for so long been fine, changed, and a fresh gale blew, accompanied by squalls of rain. At Sheerness all that could be done in the way of demonstration was done. There were Royal salutes from the vessels of war stationed at that place; the garrison were drawn from the vessels of war stationed at that place; the garrison were drawn up to the number of 1,000 in the dockyard, and the Princess was received by her Royal Highness with a guard of honour. Here a telegraph communicating with the railway station announced that the train which conveyed the Prince of Wales had reached the terminus. The Prince of Wales, accompanied by Viscount Sydney, Lord Lieutenant of Kent; General Bruce, and Alfred Paget, and a numerous suite, most of whom, as well as the Prince himself, were dressed in plain clothes, entered the carriages which were waiting for them and proceeded to the pier, and thence on board the yacht. As he reached the deck Princess Alexandra advanced to the door of the State cabin to meet him. His Royal Highness, with a quick step, proceeded towards the doorway, and taking his bride by the hand, and, with a kind expression of face, led her to the deck. This greeting was witnessed by a number of persons, in whom it caused but one feeling of sympathy, it being recognised as one of those touches of nature which make the whole world kin. At twenty minutes past twelve the Prince of Wales, with the Princess leaning on his right arm, stepped on shore, and were received in a tastefully-decorated reception-room by about sixty young ladies, who scattered violets, primroses, and sprigs of myrtle on the pathway over which they passed. At the same moment the wife of the Mayor of Gravesend presented to her Royal Highness a magnificent bouquet; and the Mayor and Corporation delivered their address, which was graciously received. The Royal pair, accompanied by Prince Christian and Princess Louisa of Denmark, the parents of Princess Alexandra, then proceeded through the ever-changing streets of the town, which were ornamented with great taste—banners, flowers, triumphal arches, guards of honour of the Royal Marines and volunteers combining to make up a gallant show to the railway station, in the vestibule of which was a superb display of hothouse flowers.

At ten minutes to one o'clock the train containing their Royal Highnesses and their suite started from Gravesend, and, passing through Northfleet, Greenhithe, Dartford, Erith, Belvedere, Plumstead, Woolwich, Charlton, Blackheath, Lewisham, and New Cross, arrived at the Bricklayers' Arms station at forty minutes past one. At every station along the route decorations and shouts of welcome from assembled crowds prevailed. The Bricklayers' Arms station was richly ornamented with evergreens, flowers, and flags of different nations; and the platform was covered with crimson cloth. Immediately opposite the place at which the Princess left the carriage was the Royal tent of England, and Denmark. A reception-room, superbly fitted up, was provided as a resting-place for her Royal Highness. Awaiting the arrival of the train were the Duke of Cambridge, Sir George Grey, the Home Secretary; Mr. Layard and Mr. Locke, the members for Southwark, and the High Bailiff of that borough. On the Princess's arrival she was welcomed by the chairman and directors of the South-Eastern Railway, and again a splendid bouquet was presented to her.

Exactly at two o'clock the Royal personages entered six carriages which awaited them in the courtyard of the station. A battalion of guards and another of the 60th Rifles were on duty as a guard of honour, and two escorts of the Royal Horse Guards (Blue) and the Life Guards surrounded the carriages, and contributed the only appearance of splendour which the very simple cortège exhibited. In the first carriage were General the Hon. Sir C. Grey, Colonel Seymour, Captain Lund, and Mr. Punch; in the second, Countess Hilda Reventlow and Mdme. Yauville; in the third, General Oxholme and Mdme. Oxholme; in the fourth, Prince Waldemar and Prince William; and in the fifth, Prince Frederick, Princess Dagmar, and Prince Thyra of Denmark, brother and sisters of Princess Alexandra. In the sixth and last were seated Princess Alexandra, having on her left her mother, Princess Louisa, and opposite to her the Prince of Wales and her father, Prince Christian. Along that some-what dreary district which leads from Old Kent-road into the Borough, and which, in spite of much decoration and more than one triumphal arch, scarcely emerged from its normal dinginess, and amidst the roaring rather than the shouting of an excited multitude, composed, no doubt, of persons who seldom if ever see a pageant of any kind pass through their bounds, the procession passed slowly along until it reached St. George's Church, in the widest part of the High-street, Borough, where was upreared a pretentious triumphal arch, spanning the road, and rising to a height of fifty feet. At this time the festivities of the day were for a while sadly damped by a shower of rain, which compelled the occupants of the Royal carriages to take shelter beneath umbrellas; but it passed off in a few minutes, and all was well again.

At the south side of London Bridge the Southwark authorities filed off and delivered the Princess to the care of the Corporation of the city of London, which, with the Lord Mayor and Sheriffs at their head, was waiting to receive her on the northern extremity of the bridge, on the face of the city. At this point her Royal Highness may be said strictly to have entered the metropolis. The spectacle presented here was one of great picturesqueness. The bridge was decorated by London Bridge was striking in the extreme. Over the centre arch was a huge tripod, in which incense was burning, the parapets hung with medallion portraits of the Kings of Denmark, and the pedestals on the south side crowned with gigantic statuary, and a splendid trophy of flags. Immediately behind this triumphal arch, the massive and elaborate Temple Bar, which forms the City's northern extremity, the vast area of the bridge was clear of persons on foot, and the centre only occupied by the line of carriages in which the Corporation of London was conveyed, which, with the ample the Corporation of London was conveyed, which, with the ample escort for the purpose, formed the Royal cortège proper. As the carriages arrived on the bridge the Danish members of the suite involuntarily rose from their seats and gazed on the tremendous spectacle which was formed by every foot of the ground which the eye could command, the ground to the roofs, who were massed along the quays on both sides of the river and thronged the shipping in the Pool to the right of the bridge. As soon as the carriage in which the Princess was seated, and in which a Divided Court Dress by a special escort, appeared on the south side of the bridge, where it became distinctly visible to the persons who occupied elevated positions on the buildings at the foot of the occupied elevated positions on the buildings at the foot of the bridge, a shout of welcome burst from the multitude which broke out which was almost terrible. For an instant the Princess seemed alarmed, but an assuring word from the Prince of Wales restored her equanimity, and she acknowledged with courtesy the greeting which was somewhat distant spectators. Owing to circumstances connected with the utter absence of organisation in the arrangements along the route from the north side of the bridge to Temple Bar, the Royal party were for nearly half an hour twenty minutes on her passage towards the triumphal arch, where she was received by the infantry brigade of the Royal Artillery Company, with their band and colours. The men of the Royal Artillery Company, with their band and colours. The men of the Royal Artillery Company, with their band and colours, formed a guard of honour, and likewise was guaranteed the good feeling of the people, might have changed a demonstration of joy into one of riot and danger. Although the horse brigade of the Artillery Company, and other bodies of volunteer cavalry, had been appointed to keep the ground in line on one side of the route from Adelaide-place to the Mansion House, the other side was left to be guarded by a very few troopers of the Royal Horse Artillery and the police, which was pretty much to steel; while, to add to the blockad e of the street, a number of the carriages of the members of the Corporation which ought to have gone on in advance were drawn up in the street. The procession was not only by forcing the horses through the crowd that sufficient space was obtained for the Royal carriages to pass, and for a time the Princess was literally hemmed in by a dense mass of excited people, whose sympathetic, hands of an enthusiastic and excited mob, who surrounded the carriage and uttered their hoarse but hearty welcomes in her very ear. This continued until the Lady Mayoress, issuing from the Mansion House, where the Lady Mayoress, issuing from beneath the splendidly-decorated portico of the official residence of the Chief Magistrate of London, greeted her Royal Highness on behalf of the ladies of the City, and presented her with the magnificent bouquet. Along Cheapside, though spaces were not satisfactorily attained, these was just space enough kept for the procession to pass, beneath a perfect canopy of flags and banners, which hung from the windows of the houses, and festoons of cloths and festoons of flowers, until the very atmosphere of the dingy old street glowed with a bright hue. Past St. Paul's, the grand old Cathedral transformed into a huge pyramid stands with a gay peculiar appearance; down Ludgate-hill, up Fleet-street, the whole way illustrated in the same gala fashion as the streets which had been left behind, swept the procession, and at Temple Bar the Lord Mayor and parochial officers of St. Clement Danes.

From this point excellent arrangements, carried out with their usual skill by the household cavalry and the metropolitan police, were made, and the procession passed on in due succession, which wended its way past St. Clement's Church, piled up to its roof with seats crowded with spectators, by St. Mary-le-Strand, which presented a magnificent appearance along the south side of the Church into Trafalgar-square. How that large area was made available by the crowd it is hardly necessary to say.

The clubs in Pall-mall and St. James's-street contributed largely to the picturesque features of the day; and the aristocratic mansions of Piccadilly, notably the Duke of Devonshire's, Lord Ashburton's, and Lord Palmerston's, were the garb of festivity and welcome with an utmost liberality.

When the procession turned into Hyde Park the whole character of the scene changed. Hitherto the military element of this country had been but feebly represented by an occasional detachment of troops stationed at points along the route, and by scattered videttes of cavalry who were performing civil functions in keeping the line. But in Hyde Park were massed, four deep on each side of the road from the gate to Apsley House, 17,000 men"of that national army, the Volunteers. Cavalry, artillery, and infantry were represented by picked corps of the force; and a gallant show they made, not so much from any gaiety and glitter of their uniforms and accoutrements as from the serviceable, efficient, and compact appearance of the men. The force was divided into eight brigades, and was under the command of Major-General Barnaby, under the immediate supervision of Colonel M'Murdo, Inspector-General of Volunteers, and his Staff. At three o'clock the disposition of the force was complete, and they awaited the approach of the procession until half-past four, at which hour it filed into the park, passing along the line, and proceeded to the Marble Arch.

Issuing thence into the Edgware-road, it made its way to the terminus of the Great Western Railway at Paddington. Here preparations had been made for an honourable reception of the Princess; but, although the ornamentation and decoration were perhaps adequate, they were by no means lavish. Accommodation, however, was provided for some fifteen hundred or two thousand ladies and gentlemen to witness the departure for Windsor. The Royal train was ordered to be in readiness at four o'clock, and at that hour all the arrangements for the transit by rail were complete. It was, however, ten minutes past five when the Royal carriages entered the station. Five minutes only were occupied in passing to the carriages, and at a quarter past five the train started, the engine being driven by the Earl of Caithness, a well-known amateur locomotive engineer. On arriving at the station at Slough it was found that the elaborate preparations which had been made by the railway directors and authorities of the town were unfortunately thrown away, for a dense and pouring rain intervened, and all the incidental features—such as a gay procession and a reception by the boys of Eton—were marred or else omitted. In close carriages, and amidst the darkness, scarcely relieved by partial illumination, the Royal party proceeded rapidly to the castle, where they were received by her Majesty, and rested after the fatigues of a long and, to every one concerned, most exciting day.

In summing up this outline of the proceedings, it is only necessary to say that, although much was done, and successfully, to make London materially gay and bright, yet the real sight, and the real reception, came from the people, who emphatically, and in the widest sense of the term, united to bid the Princess of Wales heartily welcome.

THE MARRIAGE OF THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES.

The Royal borough on which the privilege was conferred of being the marriage-place of the Prince of Wales and Princess Alexandra of Denmark was astir at an early hour on Tuesday. There is no doubt that Windsor loyally exerted itself to do honour to the occasion, and everything in the way of triumphal arches, pretty mottoes, and all the outward signs of rejoicing could effect was done, and done well. The morning was at first somewhat dull and chilly; but in a short time the sun, which was bright and warm, and the temperature weather smiled on the conspicuous event of the day. At about nine o'clock, when thousands of persons, adorned with emblematic wedding favours, were moving along the streets, two companies of the Coldstream and three of the Grenadier Guards, with their band and colours, marched into Windsor, the bands playing for the first time in the town since the death of the Prince Consort, a circumstance to be marked. Although of course a private marriage in one sense, it was not till eleven o'clock on Tuesday that the preparations in St. George's Chapel were finally concluded—not a moment too soon, for at thirty-seven minutes past that hour the first of the Royal State carriages appeared at the gates of the chapel, the procession having been formed at, and proceeding from, the castle. These carriages contained the "Royal guests," comprising the Maharajah Dhuleep Singh, Prince Edward of Saxe Weimar, the Prince of Leiningen, the Duke of Holstein-Oldenburg, Prince William of Denmark, Prince Frederick of Hesse-Cassel, Prince Augustus of Saxe-Coburg, Princess Dagmar of Denmark, Prince Frederick of Denmark, the Duchess of Saxe-Coburg, Princess Thyra of Denmark, Princess Louisa of Denmark (mother of Princess Alexandra), Princess Thyra of Denmark, and Prince Waldemar of Denmark. The second portion of the procession consisted of members of the Royal family, with their suites, and comprised the Queen's household, and a state in eleven State carriages. The principal personages were Earl St. Germans, Lord Steward; the Duchess of Wellington, Mistress of the Robes; Viscount Sydney, Lord Chamberlain; the Marquis of Ailesbury, Master of the Horse; Princess Mary of Cambridge and the Duchess of Cambridge. Then came the Royal children—namely, Prince Leopold, Prince Arthur, Princess Helena, Princess Louise, Princess Beatrice, and Princess Louis of Hesse (Princess Alice), and Prince Louis of Hesse. In the last carriage were the Crown Princess of Prussia (Princess Royal of England) and her youthful son, Prince William of Prussia. The deepest interest the assembled spectators watched the passage to the chapel of the procession of the bridegroom, which came next, which consisted of six carriages, the front five being occupied by members of the household of the Prince of Wales and the fifth of the "supporters," and the Crown Prince of Prussia and the Duke of Saxe-Coburg, who sat in the sixth carriage with his Royal Highness. The bridegroom was much cheered as he passed by, but, as was natural, his attention was directed towards the next and last part of the procession which was approaching, and which was that of the bride. The cortège consisted but of four carriages, in the last of which, the centre of every eye, Princess Alexandra, with her father, Prince Christian of Denmark, and the Duke of Cambridge. It was observed universally that her Royal Highness looked pale—far more than even at their reception on Saturday when she was in the very hands of an excited crowd, whose good intentions were so roughly expressed as not to be quite apparent; and the serious expression of her countenance was in strong contrast to its smiling and animated look of that day.

Within St. George's Chapel the scene was most imposing. In the exercise of a sound judgment little was done in the way of ornamentation which would have had the effect of changing the chapel from a place of worship which has its own special beauties, into something not unlike a theatrical "salle." Although due preparation was made in the way of carpets, tabourets, and seats for the Royal and noble personages who took any part in the ceremony, the chapel preserved its distinctiveness, and its appearance was at once solemn and picturesque. At one end a crimson curtain hid from the spectators previously assembled within the chapel the altar, which the processions were marshalled. Amongst the earliest arrivals of those personages who were, so to speak, on duty, were the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of London, and the Dean of Windsor, the appointed officiating priests. Ladies in sufficient numbers to fill the comparatively limited space which could be allotted to mere lookers on soon pressed in, and seventy knights of the Garter, in their superb robes, among whom were Earl Granville, the Earl of Clarendon, the Earl of Shaftesbury, the Duke of Somerset, Earl Russell, and Lord Palmerston, entered and took their prescribed places. In the meantime, in good time, all was ready, and the advent of the real actors in the ceremony was anxiously expected. Soon after, attention was attracted to a closet placed over the north side of the communion table, and hung with drapery of purple and gold, out of which it was known her Majesty would occupy. Every one was gratified at seeing the Queen advance and seat herself in front of the pew. Her Majesty was attired in a widow's dress of the most simplicity, and the ladies in attendance upon her were also in deep mourning. Immediately afterwards a loud flourish of trumpets announced the arrival of the first part of the procession—namely, "The Royal Guests," of whom a list has been given, headed by the Maharajah Dhuleep Singh, glittering in cloth of gold, diamonds, rubies, and emeralds, and closed by Princess Christian of Denmark leading her two young

Issuing thence into the Edgware-road, it made its way to the terminus of the Great Western Railway at Paddington. Here preparations had been made for an honourable reception of the Princess; but, although the ornamentation and decoration were perhaps adequate, they were by no means lavish. Accommodation, however, was provided for some fifteen hundred or two thousand ladies and gentlemen to witness the departure for Windsor. The Royal train was ordered to be in readiness at four o'clock, and at that hour all the arrangements for the transit by rail were complete. It was, however, ten minutes past five when the Royal carriages entered the station. Five minutes only were occupied in passing to the carriages, and at a quarter past five the train started, the engine being driven by the Earl of Caithness, a well-known amateur locomotive engineer. On arriving at the station at Slough it was found that the elaborate preparations which had been made by the railway directors and authorities of the town were unfortunately thrown away, for a dense and pouring rain intervened, and all the incidental features—such as a gay procession and a reception by the boys of Eton—were marred or else omitted. In close carriages, and amidst the darkness, scarcely relieved by partial illumination, the Royal party proceeded rapidly to the castle, where they were received by her Majesty, and rested after the fatigues of a long and, to every one concerned, most exciting day.

In summing up this outline of the proceedings, it is only necessary to say that, although much was done, and successfully, to make London materially gay and bright, yet the real sight, and the real reception, came from the people, who emphatically, and in the widest sense of the term, united to bid the Princess of Wales heartily welcome.

THE MARRIAGE OF THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES.

The Royal borough on which the privilege was conferred of being the marriage-place of the Prince of Wales and Princess Alexandra of Denmark was astir at an early hour on Tuesday. There is no doubt that Windsor loyally exerted itself to do honour to the occasion, and everything in the way of triumphal arches, pretty mottoes, and all the outward signs of rejoicing could effect was done, and done well. The morning was at first somewhat dull and chilly; but in a short time the sun, which was bright and warm, and the temperature weather smiled on the conspicuous event of the day. At about nine o'clock, when thousands of persons, adorned with emblematic wedding favours, were moving along the streets, two companies of the Coldstream and three of the Grenadier Guards, with their band and colours, marched into Windsor, the bands playing for the first time in the town since the death of the Prince Consort, a circumstance to be marked. Although of course a private marriage in one sense, it was not till eleven o'clock on Tuesday that the preparations in St. George's Chapel were finally concluded—not a moment too soon, for at thirty-seven minutes past that hour the first of the Royal State carriages appeared at the gates of the chapel, the procession having been formed at, and proceeding from, the castle. These carriages contained the "Royal guests," comprising the Maharajah Dhuleep Singh, Prince Edward of Saxe Weimar, the Prince of Leiningen, the Duke of Holstein-Oldenburg, Prince William of Denmark, Prince Frederick of Hesse-Cassel, Prince Augustus of Saxe-Coburg, Princess Dagmar of Denmark, Prince Frederick of Denmark, the Duchess of Saxe-Coburg, Princess Thyra of Denmark, Princess Louisa of Denmark (mother of Princess Alexandra), Princess Thyra of Denmark, and Prince Waldemar of Denmark. The second portion of the procession consisted of members of the Royal family, with their suites, and comprised the Queen's household, and a state in eleven State carriages. The principal personages were Earl St. Germans, Lord Steward; the Duchess of Wellington, Mistress of the Robes; Viscount Sydney, Lord Chamberlain; the Marquis of Ailesbury, Master of the Horse; Princess Mary of Cambridge and the Duchess of Cambridge. Then came the Royal children—namely, Prince Leopold, Prince Arthur, Princess Helena, Princess Louise, Princess Beatrice, and Princess Louis of Hesse (Princess Alice), and Prince Louis of Hesse. In the last carriage were the Crown Princess of Prussia (Princess Royal of England) and her youthful son, Prince William of Prussia. The deepest interest the assembled spectators watched the passage to the chapel of the procession of the bridegroom, which came next, which consisted of six carriages, the front five being occupied by members of the household of the Prince of Wales and the fifth of the "supporters," and the Crown Prince of Prussia and the Duke of Saxe-Coburg, who sat in the sixth carriage with his Royal Highness. The bridegroom was much cheered as he passed by, but, as was natural, his attention was directed towards the next and last part of the procession which was approaching, and which was that of the bride. The cortège consisted but of four carriages, in the last of which, the centre of every eye, Princess Alexandra, with her father, Prince Christian of Denmark, and the Duke of Cambridge. It was observed universally that her Royal Highness looked pale—far more than even at their reception on Saturday when she was in the very hands of an excited crowd, whose good intentions were so roughly expressed as not to be quite apparent; and the serious expression of her countenance was in strong contrast to its smiling and animated look of that day.

Within St. George's Chapel the scene was most imposing. In the exercise of a sound judgment little was done in the way of ornamentation which would have had the effect of changing the chapel from a place of worship which has its own special beauties, into something not unlike a theatrical "salle." Although due preparation was made in the way of carpets, tabourets, and seats for the Royal and noble personages who took any part in the ceremony, the chapel preserved its distinctiveness, and its appearance was at once solemn and picturesque. At one end a crimson curtain hid from the spectators previously assembled within the chapel the altar, which the processions were marshalled. Amongst the earliest arrivals of those personages who were, so to speak, on duty, were the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of London, and the Dean of Windsor, the appointed officiating priests. Ladies in sufficient numbers to fill the comparatively limited space which could be allotted to mere lookers on soon pressed in, and seventy knights of the Garter, in their superb robes, among whom were Earl Granville, the Earl of Clarendon, the Earl of Shaftesbury, the Duke of Somerset, Earl Russell, and Lord Palmerston, entered and took their prescribed places. In the meantime, in good time, all was ready, and the advent of the real actors in the ceremony was anxiously expected. Soon after, attention was attracted to a closet placed over the north side of the communion table, and hung with drapery of purple and gold, out of which it was known her Majesty would occupy. Every one was gratified at seeing the Queen advance and seat herself in front of the pew. Her Majesty was attired in a widow's dress of the most simplicity, and the ladies in attendance upon her were also in deep mourning. Immediately afterwards a loud flourish of trumpets announced the arrival of the first part of the procession—namely, "The Royal Guests," of whom a list has been given, headed by the Maharajah Dhuleep Singh, glittering in cloth of gold, diamonds, rubies, and emeralds, and closed by Princess Christian of Denmark leading her two young children, Princess Thyra and Prince Waldemar of Denmark. A cloud of attendants, grooms in waiting, equerries, aide-de-camps, &c., preceded and followed the principal personage of the procession. It need hardly be said that the members of the Royal family of Denmark, and the nearest relatives of Princess Alexandra, were objects of earnest but respectful curiosity, and much attention was bestowed on Princess Christian, the mother of the bride. Some little time was occupied in passing these personages to their seats, on what was called the haut pas—namely, the range of places set apart for those specially entitled by their rank to be so distinguished. At this time the Lord Chancellor, and immediately after him the Lord Mayor of London, passed to their allotted places in that section of the chapel. Scarcely had the "Royal guests" had time to settle into their places than another flourish of trumpets heralded the entrance of the next division of the procession—namely, "the Queen's household and the Royal family," whose names, already stated, it is not necessary to repeat. It ought to be mentioned, however, that the appearance of the children of the Queen excited a marked stir of sympathy and feeling amongst the necessarily decorous congregation; the youthful Princes Arthur and Leopold, Princess Alice, and the Crown Princess of Prussia inspiring evidently a large share of the emotion which pervaded the assembly. Preceded by Heralds, Pursuivants, and Kings-at-Arms, and surrounded by a splendid suite, the "procession of the bridegroom" then swept into the Chapel in the same order and manners as that already described when speaking of the carriage procession. The Prince of Wales wore the uniform of a General in the Army, the orders and collars of the Garter, and the star of India, and the rich, purple velvet mantle and train of a Knight of the Garter; and it was universally admitted that he demeaned himself right royally. Indeed, he seemed almost to have increased in stature; and as he passed up the aisle he looked around, and especially bending low in reverence to the Queen, who was looking down upon the scene, his appearance was composed and dignified, as became him. Having reached the altar, his Royal Highness took place there and remained standing during the arrival of the bride. Up to this time there had been no music heard in the chapel except the successive fanfares of the trumpets as the different parties were appeared; but at the entrance of the Prince the organ and the Queen's private band played Mendelssohn's March from "Athalie," until the sound of the trumpets announced the approach of the bride. As the head of the procession of "the bride" entered the chapel etiquette was forgotten, and in the excitement and interest of the moment there was a general rising and turning towards the nave along which her Royal Highness was to pass, a sudden rustle and stir, and even hum, succeeding to the deep silence which had hitherto prevailed. In the same succession, and consisting of the same personages as preceded her Royal Highness in the carriages, of whom a list is given in the previous part of this description, the procession moved on. Under the protection, so to speak, of the Duke of Cambridge, and her father, Prince Christian, walked the bride; her long train being carried by eight unmarried daughters of Dukes, Marquises, and Earls—namely, Lady Victoria Hope, Lady Florence Bruce, Lady Emily Villiers, Lady Feodore Wellesley, Lady Diana Beauclerk, Lady Victoria Howard, Lady Augusta Yorke, and Lady Eleanor Eliot. The dress of the bridesmaids was of white silk, covered with costly lace, and she wore a profusion of orange-flowers, and a necklace of diamonds and pearls, a present from the Prince of Wales. As the bride entered the nave the organ played a march from Handel's "Joseph," and, while the procession was arranging itself for the marriage service, the choristers sang a chorale which had been composed by the late Prince Consort, with appropriate words by Mr. T. Helmore, the precentor, and used, for the first instance, conducted to a seat near the altar, but not before she had advanced to its foot and knelt for a moment in silent prayer. At this moment it was observed that the Queen rose from her seat and left the gazing on the young bride of her eldest son, and for a few moments gave way to unsuppressed emotion. The marriage service was then commenced, and was conducted with commendable simplicity, everything being read by the Archbishop of Canterbury, and no flourishes of any kind perpetrated. At the critical moment when the bride and bridegroom were united the solemn question, the answer to which bound them together for life, and for worse, every ear was strained to catch the least simple but important response "I will;" but it is believed that, except by the bridesmaids who were grouped near her Royal Highness, not even the right of the Prince, her less than of the Princess, was heard. The placing of the ring on the finger of the bride was also by almost every one present; and to the final blessing, which was pronounced with great earnestness by the Archbishop, there was a fervent "Amen" from the lips of all the spectators.

As soon as the ceremony was concluded, the bride and bridegroom turned to the congregation, and stood hand in hand, bowing low to the Queen, who, in returning the salutation, made a gesture of blessing rather than a ceremonious acknowledgment. Her Majesty then quitted the closet; and the procession, having been again formed, moved from the chapel to the carriages, the organ, band, and chorus pealing out the "Hallelujah" of Beethoven. The "united procession" of the bride and bridegroom presented some different features to those in which the approach to the chapel was made. It consisted of twelve carriages, which contained the persons before written, besides the members of the household and the suites of the different Princes and high personages. In the second carriage were the bride and bridegroom alone; in the third the Crown Princess of Prussia, the Duke of Cambridge, Prince Christian of Denmark, and the Duke of Saxe-Coburg; in the fourth were the Crown Princess of Prussia, Prince Frederick of Prussia, and Prince Arthur; in the fifth, Prince Louis of Hesse, Princess Beatrice, and Prince Leopold; in the sixth, Princess Louise and Princess Helena; in the seventh, the Duchess of Cambridge and Princess Mary. In all the rest were the official attendants. The carriages drove rapidly to the palace, where a superb wedding breakfast was served in St. George's Hall.

At four o'clock the Prince and Princess of Wales took their departure from the capital, and proceeded by the terminus of the Great Western Railway, on their way to Osborne, her Majesty's marine residence in the Isle of Wight. The route taken was by way of Southampton, through which town they passed, amidst every possible demonstration of honour and respect, at a quarter to six o'clock, and reached the docks at half-past six on board the Royal yacht Fairy, and finally arrived, in due course and safely, at Osborne, where they will pass their honeymoon.

THE RECEPTION OF PRINCESS ALEXANDRA
(PRINCESS OF WALES) BY THE PEOPLE OF LONDON.

THE welcome which the metropolis gave to Princess Alexandra on Saturday last was emphatically spontaneous and individual. Without any desire to detract from the merit due to the efforts which corporate bodies and the public made to greet the arrival of her Royal Highness in her future home, there can be no question that the spectacle of her entry into, and progress through, the metropolis, was signally wanting in those accessories which constitute a pageant in the ordinary sense of the word. Anxious as the country was to lavish upon its welcome of Princess Alexandra all that it could of its wealth and means, it never dreamt—it would not, indeed, have brooked had others suggested it—that she should have been met with the pshow of authority and the pomp of war which constitute so large a part of such receptions elsewhere. It would very likely have proved somewhat fretful and impatient had anything of the kind been allowed to come between that full, young, generous, and at times boisterous, but ever hearty welcome that it had prepared for her. As it was, the long line of the procession which, east of Temple Bar, preceded the Royal cortege, was endured with stout patience, and the countless thousands who had filled the streets and windows, and looked down from spacious heights among the houstops, were content to have done so much and waited so long for the few moments' gratification which they expected, when the pale cheeks of the fair young lady who typified our young girl, of whom the nation had agreed to expect great things, and the fair features of the future virtuous queen, should be seen by their anxious eyes.

The demonstration of Saturday last, incomprehensible as it must have appeared to foreigners, has somewhat startled the more apathetic among ourselves, and set them upon suggesting causes, more or less wide of the mark, that should explain it. But to the explanation seems simple enough. It is impossible to doubt the depth of the feeling that this incident of the marriage of the heir of the throne has stirred among us. It is as impossible to doubt its general and universal character. It is probable, indeed, that there were not a score of respectable persons in our large metropolis who had any hesitation in contributing their share to the welcome which the Princess received. It is more than probable that the demonstration so many to have existed, the majority were suffering from that irritable disorder which is said to Make all fly; through one small liver pass.

But it is as certain that the demonstration of Saturday was not indicative simply of an attachment to an abstract principle; that the principle, indeed, was not lost sight of, but that it was seen to be loads that should some day wear crowns; and that their shoulds were well given to bear the weight, loving and loyal eyes. On Saturday last, of that day was but an indication of the rich harvest of sympathy and affection which will be certainly reaped, under every circumstance of the kind, by the daughter of a Royal and Royal father daughter at Windsor, and who for nearly a quarter of a century has been established as the model of a Queen and a mother for all England's Queens—the best of English women. As the nation shared, on the 10th of March, 1840, in the sympathies of that December morning when the sun of her life was suddenly and awfully clouded, so, with all the nearest indication of her will that her son's bride elect should receive a befitting welcome to her future country, the nation has found every heart beating in unison with her own—every will furthering hers. As the Royal bride, on Saturday, saw in the sombre garb for the first time last Saturday should know that London had seen Royal processions to which a very different reception had been given, when the warmth and the cheering pass of our greeting of the Prince, who with such just and manly pride presented to the people of his future home his child lately earned.

It can scarcely be supposed that the spectacle of Saturday suggested thoughts like these to the fair young Princess who, with so winning an expression of surprise and confidence, returned the acknowledgments of the cheering that were heard on all sides. To whom the aspect of London and the welcome which it gave to the Danish Princess must have brought a host of varied and sad reflections. To them, indeed, as to the more thoughtful among us, the aspect of the capital from one end to the other must have been pleasantly indicative of the change which a few months must make in future full of hope. For, as it happened, the route which the Royal cortege took was one of the most favourable that could be chosen. The class of the great city was fairly represented. Through the populace, which began to line the streets during the early hours of the day, the Pall-mall, where all that was most distinguished in the social and political world was to be found, presented a crowd which, during the greetings of the Prime Minister and many other members of the Cabinet, who, coming at last to what, in our pride for the manhood of Old England, we are inclined to call the backbone of the land, the army of volunteers in Hyde Park. Here, at all events, were perfect evidences that there was no lukewarmness in connection with the Royal family—an attachment which, expressing itself as it could, in such manner as it could, undoubtedly convincing evidence was offered. Here, in the magnificent area of Hyde Park, was collected an army of 17,000 citizen soldiers, the very pick of the youth and manhood of the metropolis, forming a living mass such as no other power Princess passed before. For it was composed mainly of the English middle class—that class which, during the past century, has proved its sturdy self-assertion and cautious reticence, and which is assuredly not wont to be persuaded feelings to take the place of judgment. Whatever unreasoning impulse might have filled these ranks, they were not drawn the people to their windows, that army of men—soldiers not by profession—was there by the reasoning sense of the people, the responsibility of an inestic being offered to their country—told beyond a doubt that the spectacle of the homage rendered to the future wife of a Prince, whom we cannot bear to regard but as the heir to the virtues as well as to the responsibilities or his Royal parents.

We cannot but believe that these volunteers, with every giving expression to our admiration of the share which the volunteers now took on all occasions, and which, in the speech we have cited, the people, we have always been somewhat suspicious of a large standing army as one of the dangers of the country, we have always had the existence among us of a great national force, which, though powerless for offence, to whom the protection of our honour and the integrity of our coasts may safely be confided, but whose constitution forbids the fear that the possession of so powerful a weapon should at any time endanger the liberties of the people, or subject us to unnecessary war. It was impossible for any one to view the gathering of the volunteers in Hyde Park, or to watch them, as the day's great event drew to a close, marching past the Royal party on their way to their homes, to the music of the bands and their own manly voices, without feeling in the deepest manner that the people, through which the Princess, and moved them to more than usual warmth in the manifestation of their loyalty and admiration as they drove between their close ranks—soldierly silent.

ILLUSTRATIONS OF THE PROGRESS OF PRINCESS ALEXANDRA (PRINCESS OF WALES).

In addition to the continuous narrative, given in another column, of Princess Alexandra's triumphal progress from Gravesend to London, we give further details, gathered from our own special correspondents and the daily papers, of the incidents in the Royal route illustrated in our present Number.

DEPARTURE FROM COPENHAGEN.

Her Royal Highness left the Queen's palace, to become the wife of the future King of Great Britain, at three o'clock on the afternoon of Tuesday, the 10th ult., accompanied by her parents, her brothers and sisters, the British Minister, the Court of Denmark, and other distinguished personages. The carriage containing her Royal Highness proceeded at a slow pace through the town to the railway station, and in her progress the Princess was hailed with the most enthusiastic cheers by the people, who thronged the windows and roofs of the houses and filled the streets through which the cortège passed. Upon her way so many bouquets were offered to and accepted by her Royal Highness that the carriage was filled with flowers. At the railway station the grand-parents of her Royal Highness, with others of her relations, many members of the Court and aristocracy, the high clergy, civil and military officials, the President of the city, and the municipal authorities of Copenhagen were assembled to bid her Royal Highness farewell. The station was dressed gaily with garlands of flowers and flags (English and Danish), while along the broad staircase a band of ladies waited to strew flowers before the Princess. At a quarter to four o'clock a salute of twenty-one guns, and the hurrahs of the multitude without, announced the approach of the Royal cortège. Arrived at the top of the staircase, her Royal Highness greeted the brilliant assembly with affectionate warmth, and passed through the principal saloons, taking leave of the friends that crowded about her. To the course of this interesting ceremony the President of the city of Copenhagen addressed to her Royal Highness the following words of farewell:—"Your Royal Highness,—On the part of the municipal authorities of this ancient city, I beg to offer you the parting farewell of Copenhagen. Your Royal Highness carries with you the sincerest love and sympathy of its inhabitants, and you also carry with you those virtues which will give you similar attachment and affection from the magnanimous people to whom you are united you are to find a home, and from the illustrious Prince to whom you are about to be united. May happiness attend you. Long live the Princess Alexandra!" When the cheering which greeted this address abated, his Royal Highness Prince Christian stepped forward and said:—Mr. President,—Receive the heartfelt thanks of my daughter and myself for all the sympathy and kindness of which we have received so many proofs from the municipality and citizens of Copenhagen. I am assured that my daughter will never forget the dear city of her birth. Long life to the people of Copenhagen!" The preparations for her Royal Highness's departure being now complete, the band struck up "God Save the Queen," and, at a quarter past four, the locomotive, gaily dressed, moved away under a Royal salute and the hearty cheers of the spectators. Among the many triumphs which marked the Princess's progress from her native city to her new home none is likely to remain longer or more pleasantly in her mind than the honest and heartfelt farewell of the capital of Denmark.

ARRIVAL AT KORSÖR.

Upon her way from Copenhagen across the island to Korsör—the port whence her Royal Highness was to take ship for Kiel—the Princess received unequivocal proofs of the sympathy and affection of the Danish people. At the stations along the line and in the villages through which the train passed—and the young, high and lively—had gathered to do her honour. At the small town of Korsör the authorities had been unusually active. The railway station, which is opposite the town and separated from it by the harbour, was superbly decorated; and a platform had been built from the station through a triumphal arch to the quay where the Royal yacht, dressed with flags and streamers, was in waiting. Towards dusk the town and station, with the ships in the harbour, were brilliantly illuminated, and an immense assembly awaited anxiously the roar of the guns which should announce the approach of the Royal train.

As a quarter past seven the Royal train arrived, and, being conducted by the committee into the saloon of the station, received the hearty congratulations of the local military officers and other dignitaries assembled there. Her Royal Highness was then conducted to the platform, and when the cheering had subsided the Governor addressed her as follows:—

"This is a moment of great importance to your Royal Highness and the Danish people. Your Royal Highness is about to leave your beloved native country, where your many virtues have caused you to be loved and venerated by all of us. Your Royal Highness is also about to be united to a Prince who, in order to a great station and glorious future, and of whom all have formed the highest expectations. This alliance is one which is in accordance with your Royal Highness's affections, and promises happiness to you and glory to your native country. It is, at this port from which your Royal Highness has to leave the coast of Sealand, the people of the country from far and near have gathered to convey to you their respectful greetings, and bless you from the bottom of their hearts. For ourselves we have only to express our hope that your Royal Highness will bear Denmark in your memory, and occasionally give us a friendly thought."

His Royal Highness Prince Christian having duly acknowledged this address, an exquisite song, which had been composed for the occasion, was sung, and the Burgomaster of Korsör then stepped forward and addressed her Royal Highness:—

"With the permission of your Royal Highness, I desire to wish long life to the illustrious bridegroom. The Royal house of England, of which you are about to become a member, is one of the noblest in Europe; and the people of Great Britain, whose shouts of welcome, louder than our farewells, you will soon hear, will soon discover, is the greatest in the world, while Denmark is, as our own poet has admitted, but a poor, small country. But—we say it with just pride—for all its insignificance, we have been imperishably wed to the sea of England to come to us for a bride. Fully conscious of the value of the pearl we lose, we feel that it is our duty to offer it to the great English people, and to the Prince the chosen of your heart. We pray that the happiness which abounds in your Royal Highness may be preserved for many, many years, an ornament of the throne of Great Britain and a support of the liberty of the people. Long life to the Prince of Wales."

This speech was greeted with an enthusiastic response, the Princess thanking the Burgomaster for the part of the good wishes of which he was the exponent. The Royal party then passed on board the Royal Danish steamer Slesvig, which was to convey them to Kiel.

ARRIVAL AT KIEL.

The Slesvig left her moorings at Korsör at half-past six o'clock on the morning of the 27th ult., on her way to Kiel; but, owing to some disturbance of the atmosphere, the passage was a very rough one. Fortunately the wind, which had been somewhat cold and rough, fell towards noon, and the greater part of the Royal travellers assembled on the deck of the steamer, which presented a very lively and animated scene. Her Royal Highness, who had been affected by the fatigues of travel and the natural sorrow and disappointment upon leaving her native land, had by this time recovered her usual health and spirits. When the Slesvig at length reached, the town and the ships in the harbour presented an equally animated appearance. After having taken leave of the commander and officers of the Slesvig, the Royal party landed, and were received by the Duke Carl of Glücksburg, uncle to the Princess, and conducted to the Royal palace. Here, great preparations had been made for the reception of a fitting welcome to his illustrious relative. A brilliant party had assembled at the palace. Eighty young ladies, dressed in the national colours, were disposed upon the staircase, and strewed flowers before her Royal Highness, while one of them recited a poem which had been composed for the occasion. The procession was then formed, and the Royal party, which Duke Carl (who had been invited to England) now joined, drove to the railway station of Kiel to their railway station and left for Altona at half-past six. Altona was reached about eight o'clock, where a magnificent reception awaited the Princess. The Royal party, escorted by a body of dragoons, drove their way through the brilliantly-illuminated streets of Altona, which is the best and most attractive suburb of the Danish capital, to the station of the free city of Hamburg. Hamburg was brilliantly illuminated, and every where Royal Highness was warm reception as any they had met with on their previous route. It was not until half-past nine that the Royal party ended their long day's journey at the Hôtel de l'Europe.

ARRIVAL OF THE VICTORIA AND ALBERT, WITH HER ROYAL HIGHNESS ON BOARD.

Gravesend had put on its very best on Saturday, and for a time the weather was fine. A few minutes before eleven the tall masts of the Victoria and Albert were seen rounding the Low Hope Point, and the guns from the Shorn Battery were heard to roar out a welcome salute. A little before that hour the Admiralty yacht, steamed up, and was saluted by the guns of the Enterprise. Several vessels were anchored off the port. The river presented a scene of great animation—huge sea-going steamers, boats of all sorts, everything that could float or steam, or heat a bit of bunting, were heavily laden with passengers and gave with enthusiasm. Every moment the tall, raking masts of the Royal yacht grew more and more distinct—soon the Royal ensign and Danish flag could be clearly discerned, and as she rounded the point the guns of the Emerald, of the Racoon, and those mounted on Tilbury Fort, thundered forth the Royal salute. The crews swarmed up the rigging, ran along the yards, and some more venturesome, as usual, mounted to the topmost trunk of the masts, to be in readiness to join in the cheering while, as if by magic, the ships were dressed with flags from stem to stern. Close in the wake of the Royal yacht the Warrior steamed up. The Royal yacht arrived opposite Gravesend at twenty minutes past eleven, and precisely at the moment that she had got alongside the pier, six strokes of the bell of the electric telegraph communicating with the railway station sounded to announce that the Royal train conveying the Prince of Wales from London had entered the station.

THE RECEPTION OF PRINCESS ALEXANDRA (PRINCESS OF WALES) IN LONDON: THE ROYAL PROCESSION ENTERING ST. PAUL'S-CHURCHYARD.

THE RECEPTION OF PRINCESS ALEXANDRA (PRINCESS OF WALES) IN LONDON: THE ROYAL PROCESSION PASSING TEMPLE BAR.

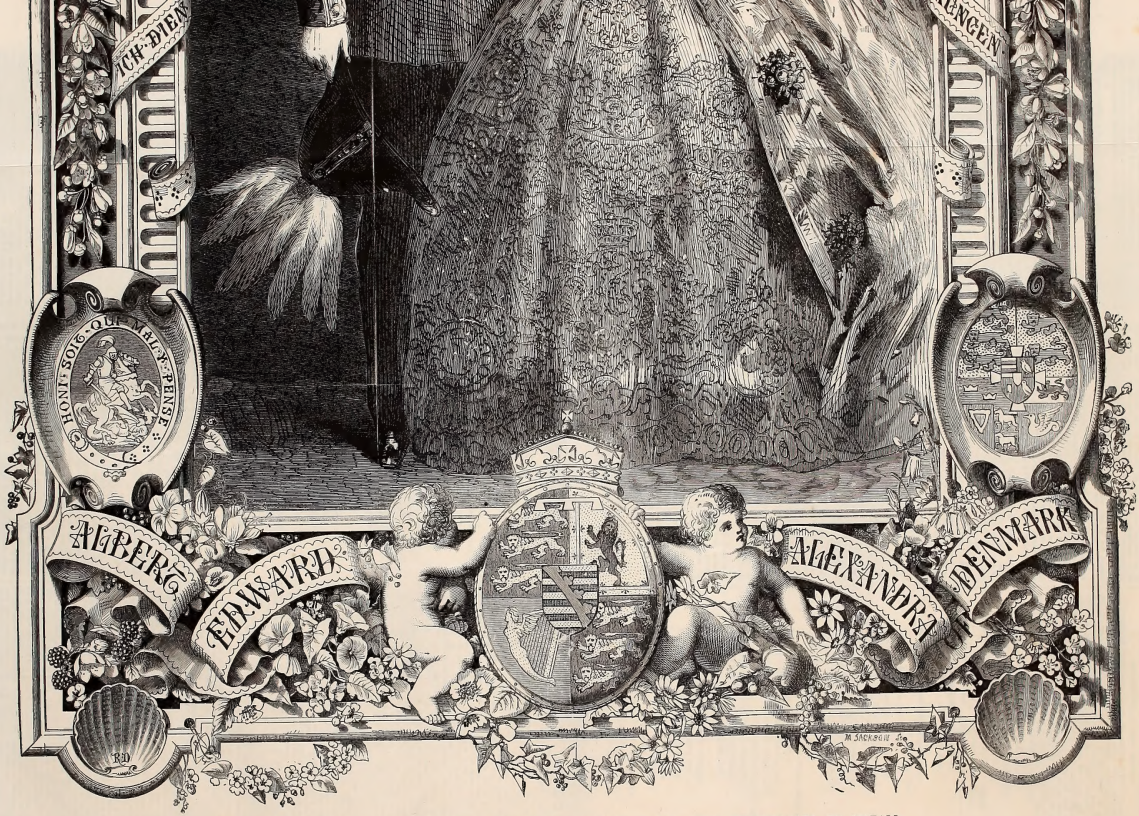
The Prince of Wales was accompanied by Lord Sydney, the Lord Lieutenant of the county, General Knollys, Lord Alfred Paget, and a numerous suite. On alighting from the carriage he was met with numerous suite. On alighting from the carriage he was met with congratulations by the crowds who were here assembled, and seemed highly delighted with the reception. The Prince looked remarkably well, and seemed highly delighted with the reception. The Prince looked remarkably well, and seemed highly delighted with the reception. The Prince looked remarkably well prisoner at Cressy, was confined here with David, King of Scotland, whom the same ill-luck befell at the battle of Neville's Cross. Here also James I., of Scotland, suffered a long imprisonment, and in one of its cells the poet Earl of Surrey composed sonnets to his Geraldine. Oliver Cromwell also used it as a State prison, and the last prisoner of State confined here was the Marechal de Belleisle, in the reign of George II.

THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.—FROM PHOTOGRAPHS BY MAYALL.



THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.—FROM PHOTOGRAPHS BY MAYALL.

Windsor itself is a borough town of some 11,000 inhabitants, and, owing its celebrity entirely to the castle, does not present any especial features of interest.

HOISTING THE ROYAL STANDARD AT WINDSOR

CASTLE ON THE MARRIAGE MORNING.

THE ceremony of hoisting the Royal standard on the Round Tower of Windsor Castle takes place at sunrise every morning that her Majesty passes there. We may be sure that on the morning of Tuesday last those who were waiting for the dawn watched with somewhat more than ordinary impatience, and that as soon as the first streak of light illumined the horizon, the gay standard was run up to the top of the ponderous flagstaff with a will. Nay, we are almost fancy the morning breeze taking more than usual interest in shaking out its silken folds on this occasion.

Our readers may be interested to know that the Royal standard is hoisted as soon as her Majesty enters Berkshire en route for the Castle, and is lowered upon her leaving the county. During her Majesty's stay at the castle it remains up every day until sunset, and is rehoisted each morning at sunrise.

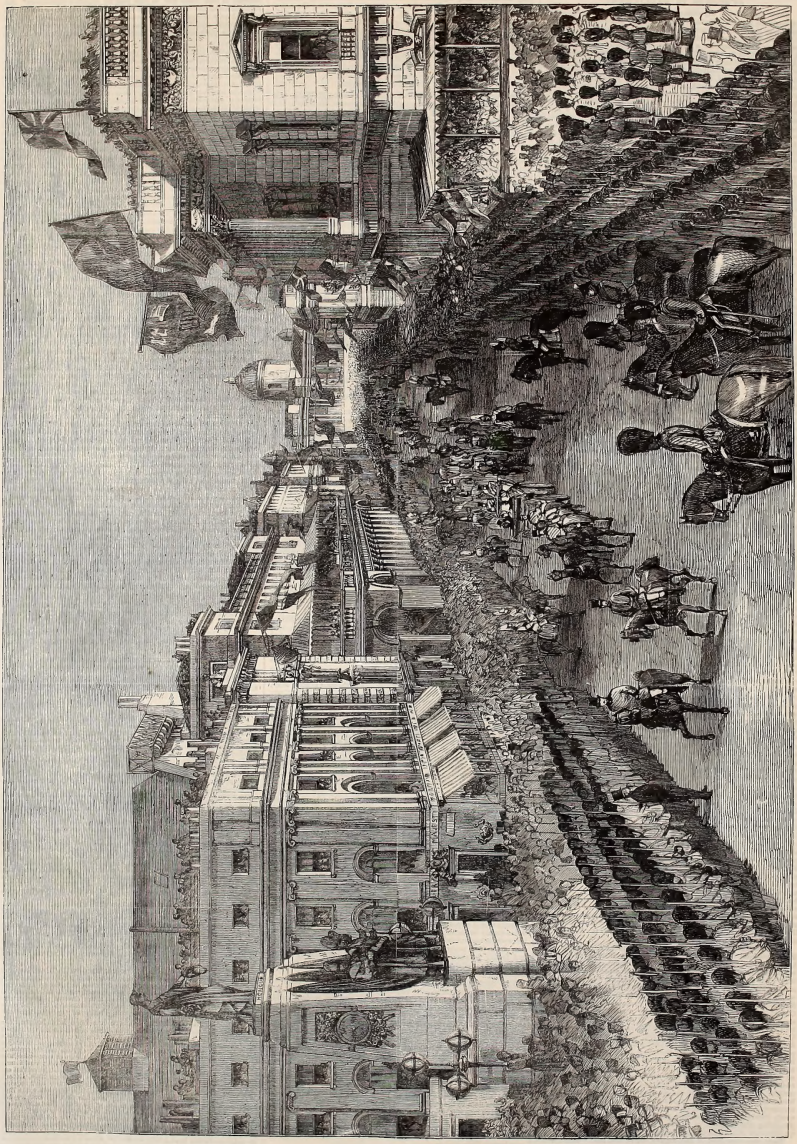
For the auspicious occasion a new standard was prepared, which was used for the first time on the morning of the Prince's marriage. Its dimensions were 36ft. long by 21ft. wide. For stormy weather a smaller standard is provided, which does not try the stability of the flagstaff so severely.

THE PRINCE OF WALES'S FEATHERS.

THE origin and history of the badge and motto of the Prince of Wales—the ostrich feathers, "Ich Dien," and "Houmout," have exercised the ingenuity of antiquaries and genealogists for the last three centuries. Old Randall Holmes solved the question at once by asserting that the triple plume (multiplied so manifold in the celebrations of 1610 mat.) was the badge in the war-torn shield with Ancient Britons; but the only resemblance traceable in ancient British heraldry is stated to be three lions' tails, their tips falling like the graceful bend of the feathers in the Prince's badge.

The earliest known appearance of feathers, worn in this fashion, is on a coin struck by a grant of Prince Edward to the brother, John, Earl of Gaunt, dated 1370, twenty-four years after the battle of Cressy, where Edward is seen seated on a throne, a drawing-sword in the Aquitaine, with a single feather and a blank scroll on each side of him; and the same badge occurs again upon the seal to another grant, in 1375. A popular tradition ascribes the acquisition of the three feathers to Edward the Black Prince, who took this crest, arms, or badge from John, King of Bohemia, slain at the battle of Cressy; but, until recently, this tradition was not traceable to any credible authority. It is first mentioned by Camden (Clarencieux), who, in his "Remains," says:—"The victorious Black Prince, his (Edward III.'s) sonne, used sometimes one feather, sometimes three, in token, as some say, of his speedy succession to the Kingdom of the Poets, in the Roman times, were Pierophora, and wore feathers to signify their flying post-haste." In the first edition of his "Remains" Camden states, the tradition is that the Prince won them (the feathers) at the battle of Poictiers; but, in the second edition, Camden states "the truth is, that he wonne them at the battle of Cressy, from John, King of Bohemia, whom he there slew!" The change from the tradition to the truth would be improved if

THE RECEPTION OF PRINCESS ALEXANDRA (PRINCESS OF WALES) IN LONDON: THE ROYAL PROCESSION PASSING TRAFALGAR-SQUARE.



THE RECEPTION OF PRINCESS ALEXANDRA (PRINCESS OF WALES) IN LONDON: THE ROYAL PROCESSION PASSING WATERLOO-PLACE.

SKETCHES IN PARLIAMENT.

seems that all the expediency and compromises of her Majesty's Government are not effectual to extinguish, however they may suppress, private malice and may neutralise, opposition. The regular occupants of the benches opposite content themselves with skirmishes; or, if they get up something like a general battery, the combat is carried on with heedless lance. But a leader of Opposition de facto has a use, who is gradually being joined by more and more of the less decided members who call themselves independent, principally because nobody depends on them, and they do not exactly know how to depend on themselves. They are noted for sitting on the right flank of the Government and its more assured supporters, and are designated, when labour inclined to be fearfully pronounced, as "the right wing." This term "gangway" has a political as well as a Parliamentary significance. It is a spacious House of Commons' crossing which an independent member is supposed to have abandoned between factions and to have become practical; that is, to have to act submissively to his whipper, and pass on to the right lobby with an obedient stark; while his wife and daughters are made free of Lady Palmerston's Tuesday evening reception, and he is not even invited to at least one of the Queen's balls in the season, when there are any. Any one who knows how greatly the independence of the Government and its more assured supporters, and are designated, when labour inclined to be fearfully pronounced, is owing to the gangway.

THE FARM.

THE discussion which followed Mr. Mechi's Farmers' Club lecture was especially important, if only for the light which it threw on the way of getting up Blue-books. The Alderman's views as to the value of sewage on grasses were well supported by Mr. Marriage, of Monkham Lodge, near Chelmsford, who spoke very highly to their fat-fencing qualities. This was, however, in direct opposition to the Rugby testimony, which went to show that grasses so produced answered remarkably for milk and not for beef purposes. One of the speakers from that town, Mr. Campbell, expressed himself, inter alia, strongly against the over application of sewage; and the Chairman, Mr. Mechi, mentioned as part of his experience that after sewage irrigation the valuable grasses disappeared, and only very coarse ones remained. He had such land which he could sell when he into hay that he had declined to buy some at 40s. a ton. The upshot of the discussion seemed to be that "a little sewage is a good thing," but that, as there it is only those who live close to towns and have "two million gallons a day at their feet," as the pronounced manure of Gotham-land, they can turn the system to real account.

The Journal of the Highland Society announces that £1170, besides medals, will be given at their next meeting at Kelso. Of this, £594 is apportioned to cattle, £352 to horses, £270 to sheep, and £54 to pigs. Besides this amount, about £600 will be given by the local prize essays. The number of members on the books is 3910; so that they are only about a thousand below their great English rival. The latter admitted twenty six new members at its last meeting, and struck off thirty-seven for non-payment of subscriptions. Mr. Edward Bowley, of Cranbrook, a well-known exhibitor of Kentish sheep agriculturist, has been selected to fill the place at the council board of the Royal Arts Association. The subject handed to the members during the past year have been principally for superphosphates and oilcakes; but among the 370 we find a specimen dated of the 15th of June, to meet with a large percentage of nitre, also used for manure in Egypt.

Next week will see, so to speak, the opening of the shorthorn exiles by the great rivals of the Tamworths. On Tuesday the sale of the forty-five of Mr. Locke's shorthorns at Burnaston Farm, Holbrooke, near Derby. On Wednesday the principal portion of the stock of Messrs. Booths' King Arthur, and a Bates-bred 2nd Duke of Oxford, to whom the cows and heifers are principally in call. On Thursday Mr. Brigstocke's sale of the stock of Mr. Wm. Torr, of Kirk-by-Fie, near Stamford. They are chiefly bred from Lord Exeter's, Sir Charles Knightley's, and Mr. Torr's own blood; and include some Rutland show winners, one of them Singwell by Booth's Hamlet and the dam of seven of the lots. Cromwell by Mameluke (13,590) has been principally used.

The Royal Agricultural Society has shown them so good an example in refusing to admit oxen and bullocks for the future, which have been doing summer stock and Christmas fat duty as well in the showyards, that it is to be hoped that the Smithfield Club will ere long revert to their sound primitive rule of not having prizes for the weight of the carcase as returned by the butcher." No great change is generally brought about till some "frightful example" has done its work, and we certainly have one in the late fate of the celebrated Cleveland Bay at Islip's Ox, which was trained on for a year after he won the Smithfield Gold Medal. He finally sailed at Liverpool for the Californians, but his flesh proved to have become a sort of "milk sponge," and it turned green so rapidly that it had to be destroyed, and the butcher lost half his joint. Such was the end of the head of the beast whose fine points have entitled it to become a Christmas simile among breeders. Dickerson's bull, Duke of Richland, third at Leeds, and reserve number at Battersea, &c., but still very inferior to his sire, Bryce's bull his brother, Duke of Richland, was sent to the shambles lately. Mr. Hegan has lost his cow, Grand Duchess 4th; and Lady Pigot's conventional Job's comforter has announced the death of the 500-guinea Victoria, some other calving, and with the pleasing accompaniment to itself from the sad event, by reminding her lodging that it is considered decided that when it may be the poor thing at the show "so greasy overfed and really unfit to breed." It turns out, however, that the lodging's letter that "was" had died of influenza, after her fourth calf, and had never been shown in her life, and that the subject of prophesy (Victoria 30th) had a very fine calf some months ago, and is doing capitally. The Duke of Leeds has been so bad as many, seeing that the cow had produced two heifers and a bull at Brandsby, for which £450 have been refused as a lot. Booth's Kneesworth, by Sir Samuel, from Red Rose, is now in this herd, while well will be sold early in September, when the leaders have got through their Royal and Yorkshire engagements.

Mr. Rea, son., of Mountsorrel, died a short time since, after a long illness. Rea has for many years' standing been a breeder and exporter of Herefords, and, in addition to some 200 local prizes, he has won four or twice at the Royal show and once at Battersea in 1865. His last sale was in the October of 1860, and his son's present herd is founded principally on his Regent (891) cows, and Grenadier (961) and Sir Colin (950) bulls. These were bred chiefly by Mr. Benjamin (1387), a purchase whose stock have done wonders, both in the father's and son's hands.

The important steam-plough trial of "Beadel v. Howard" ended in a verdict for the plaintiff on all the issues submitted, and one reserved for the Court above. It seems that, although the public has forgotten all about them, no one could invent a really useful and serviceable steam-plough till the Messrs. Fowler brought out their balancing principle, or, rather, the "tip action," which enables the ploughs to be lightened or raised out of the soil by the engine-driver easily, and the moving anchor to change the position of the machine on reaching the headland after each "round." For these inventions they patent, and then Messrs. Fowler took out another for improved draught action, and, getting an assignment of the first patent, eventually swapped both to the others. The specifications and drawings were sent to Mr. Howard, the great firms of Ransome, Shuttleworth, and Howard should use the patents on payment of a royalty of £10,000 each. Mr. Howard then declined to complete their part of it, and it was for the alleged infringements of these two patents by them that the action was brought. The defence was that they had applied the same principle in a different manner, and that they had an independent right to use two parts of the patent through one of the brothers Fowler having left Messrs. Rogers, who claimed to have invented the balancing power and the moving anchor. Both Messrs. Fowler and Rogers were called, and the latter retracted the opinion by which he would seem to have misled the defendants, and the latter and the skilled witnesses failed to convince the jury. The case establishes the validity of both of Messrs. Fowler to "the Stephenson" of the steam-plough.

Mr. Robert Wilson, of Lincoln, does not fail to improve the occasion, and spanks in a somewhat grandiose fashion on the last point:—"I shall not go into the question as to whether or not the Queen is head of the land's end, is to die out, to make room for the double-action cow of the Messrs. Fisken; but I shall and do claim the honour of having been the first to solve the problem, and shall keep before you as long upon the question of steam ploughing. Yes; and if I may be permitted to live a few years longer, I shall be found still promoting a dead letter; for a thing that can live only by working its engine at double its nominal power must die."

Under the title of "A Welcome," Miss Emily Faithfull has just published a graceful volume of original contributions in poetry and prose, dedicated, by her daughter's permission, to "Her Royal Highness, the Princess of Wales." Among the contributors are Mrs. F. P. Fellows, Miss Meteyard, the late Dr. Collins, Miss F. Bowman, C. Mackay, Frederick Stransford, the Rev. C. Kingsley, Mrs. Cowden Clarke, William Allingham, Lucia Elloy, Mrs. Gaskell, the late Mrs. Norton, Robert Martineau, and Anthony Trollope.

The trade and navigation returns for the month of January last have been issued. The value of the exports during the month was £6,048,451, as against £5,702,911 in 1868, £5,439,663; and in 1867, £5,944,791. The falling off still continues to be more good, but there is an increase generally in January in the value of imports only come up to the end of the year 1862. Against £19,154,044 in 1861, and £17,181,189 in 1868.

The Chinese expeditionary force, fitting out under the command of Captain Sherard Osborn, to aid the Imperial Government against the Taepings, is progressing rapidly in its equipment. All the officers have been most carefully chosen, and the high pay and nature of the service secure to the naval portion the force an absolute choice among the best able seamen. It has been decided that the best marksmen of the expedition are to be armed with the Enfields, fitted with Storm's American breech-loading chamber.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

L.K. Fuchs.—We have as yet received but one of the documents mentioned by our correspondent. He will, perhaps, be good enough to forward the other at his earliest convenience.

E. and J. R.—There can be no doubt whatever we apprehend, in the opinion of all players, that the move of Black in the sixteenth set of problems published in the Illustrated has not proved to be defective, the former is fairly solved, according to the terms of the competition, in the highest degree. We would, perhaps, have been wiser to announce that each problem should stand or fall by its own merits; but as this was not done the question is rather startling, in the case of a problem-tourney competition visited by not as which is belonged, cannot be permitted to decide directly contrary to the case of the other.

E. W. P.—"The Chess Players' Handbook" is published by H. G. Bohn, of York Street, Covent-garden, price 5s.

J. H. Medley.—Thanks; you appear to be in error regarding the amended position by Mr. Kipping. If White play to move 1 R to B 3rd, Black can reply 1 Q to Q 5th, and escape the mate.

J. D. W.—The two amended positions for which we shall gladly find space when the prize problems are adjudicated.

W. H. Gibbons.—The position bestowed on Mr. Campbell for the best single problem in the late competition has been unanimously awarded to Mr. Campbell, as acknowledged in our Paper of Dec. 27, 1862, as "Problem No. 1270"—has been adopted for the distinction. The problem is a most beautiful one, and unquestionably, we have pleasure in saying, is to inferior in novelty and ingenuity to any one of the three by Mr. Campbell (Nos. 260, 262, and 264) which have appeared.

HAVE WITH A MAN.—Not unimportant, but "Problem-play" is to K 8th, and not to KR4, Hull.—Black has not got a "second won game" in the position submitted. White should move 1 to K 6th, followed by 2 to Q 5th, and make a good fight, indeed, for it.

A apparent chance than to draw the game by perpetual check.

J. Hall Pepper.—Yes, Mr. C. H. Stanley's solution was wrong. See the solution in our last Number.

PUZZLER, Guernsey.—The fundamental laws of the game prevent him; for how can he possibly move a Pawn (the Queen's) from Black's Queen's Rook's 4th to the same square? You have evidently yet to learn the names and moves of the pieces.

J. Hall Pepper.—Your solution of the Problem No. 1270 is correct. The problem, by Mr. Sic, is given in our Paper of Dec. 27, 1862, as "Problem No. 1270"—has been selected for the distinction. The problem is a most beautiful one, unquestionably, we have pleasure in saying, is to inferior in novelty and ingenuity to any one of the three by Mr. Campbell (Nos. 260, 262, and 264) which have appeared.

HAVE WITH A MAN.—Not unimportant, but "Problem-play" is to K 8th, and not to KR4, Hull.—Black has not got a "second won game" in the position submitted. White should move 1 to K 6th, followed by 2 to Q 5th, and make a good fight, indeed, for it.

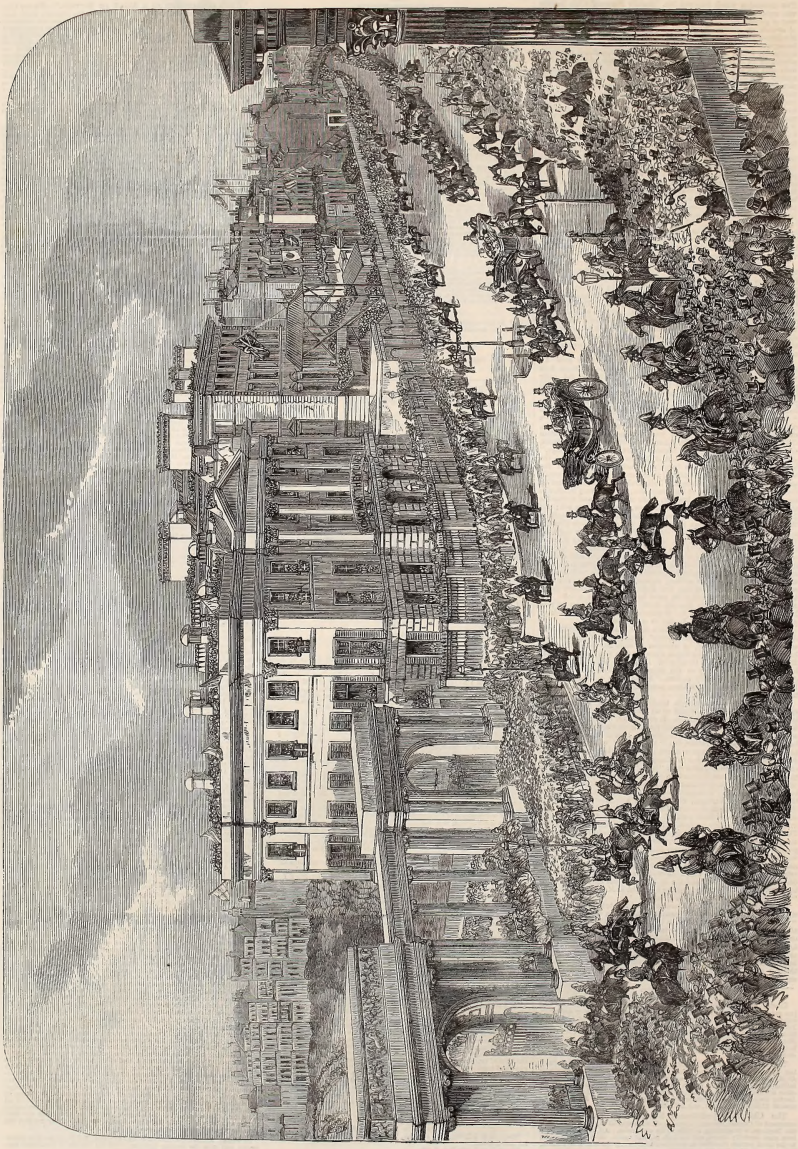
apparent chance than to draw the game by perpetual check.

J. Hall Pepper.—Yes, Mr. C. H. Stanley's solution was wrong. See the solution in our last Number.

PUZZLER, Guernsey.—The fundamental laws of the game prevent him; for how can he possibly move a Pawn (the Queen's) from Black's Queen's Rook's 4th to the same square? You have evidently yet to learn the names and moves of the pieces.

J. D. W.—The two amended positions for which we shall gladly find space when the prize problems are adjudicated.

W. H. Gibbons.—The position bestowed on Mr. Campbell for the best single problem in the late competition has been unanimously awarded to Mr. Campbell, as acknowledged



THE RECEPTION OF PRINCESS ALEXANDRA (PRINCESS OF WALES) IN LONDON: THE ROYAL PROCESSION ENTERING HYDE PARK.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

Nos. 1194, 1195.—VOL. XLII. SATURDAY, MARCH 21, 1863. THREE SHEETS, TENPENCE

THE DICTATOR OF POLAND.

It is high time now that we gave up calling the insurrectionary movement in Poland by any less significant name than that of a war of independence, entered upon and conducted by the whole people with admirable unanimity and undying courage. There is no longer good reason to doubt the unanimity of this unhappy people, who, maddened by atrocities that have no parallel in modern history, have flung themselves at their oppressors' throats, resolved at least to die gallantly if they may not live as free men. In all great national movements—in this one especially, which was inspired by an uncalculating passion for present revenge, rather than prompted by any revolutionary organisation, which, indeed, was followed rather than originated by the National Associations that have so long and successfully kept the spirit of resistance alive among the Poles—it is not unnatural that jealousies of class and station should for a while threaten to mar the perfect unanimity which is indispensable to, if it cannot always command, success. But there can be little doubt that the movement, begun by the gallant youths of Warsaw who fled from their homes into the adjacent forests and morasses rather than carry arms under a flag which they abhorred, has been adopted and furthered by the whole Polish people, as it has been sanctioned by the civilised world, and is likely ere long to call upon the scene actors who may not be satisfied with obtaining the ends alone for which Langiewicz and his gallant companions are fighting.

The assumption by General Langiewicz of the dictatorship of his unhappy country and his subsequent actions augur well for the cause he represents. A man of the middle classes removed by education from the peasantry on the one side as far as the circumstances of his birth remove him from the nobles on the other, Langiewicz seems as eminently adapted to conciliate both classes to his political rule as his rare generalship and ardent bravery must reconcile them to his possessing the highest rank in the field. A soldier by profession he brings to his recruits valuable scientific knowledge, acquired by service in the Prussian army; a companion of Garibaldi in the glorious campaign that began at Palermo and culminated in the possession of Naples, he has studied under that great insurrectionary authority the art of partisan warfare; while still young in years the Dictator of Poland is old in all that makes age valuable—political knowledge, varied experience, suffering, and judgment. Of his soldierly qualities; the manner in which he has encouraged and fostered the scattered bands under his command; his steady resolve not to be forced to fight unless he pleased; the fierce, unconquerable ardour that, when he decides to strike a blow makes defeat almost impossible; the masterly manœuvres by which he has outwitted the Russian always; the marvellous skill with which, out of materials unpromising in every element save that of almost superhuman courage, he has constructed an army, and now, in a position chosen by himself, awaits to give the Emperor's forces battle—we have already given active terms. Of his political discretion evidences as cogent are already forthcoming. If, in the spirited proclamation which followed his assumption of the supreme power, he found it necessary to conciliate the peasant classes by guarantees to them the possession of the soil they till, at the cost, it may be, of the landed proprietors, he has not hesitated to identify himself with the more conservative instincts of the latter by declining the offers of assistance tendered him by the Red Republican party.

PROGRESS OF PRINCESS ALEXANDRA (PRINCESS OF WALES) THROUGH LONDON: PRESENTATION OF A BOUQUET TO HER ROYAL HIGHNESS BY THE LADY MAYORESS.

It would be premature yet to give any very confident expression to the hopes which we, in the interests of humanity, entertain of the ultimate triumph of the great national movement of which this young soldier is now the acknowledged head. Gallantly as he holds his ground, good account as he has hitherto given of himself, numerous as have ventured within reach of his scythemen, there is no denying that his position is most precarious, and that the odds yet to be brought against him may be more than the noblest cause—the greatest skill—the most undaunted bravery may be able to withstand against. As any moment we may be prepared to hear that, forced by the circumstances of his position to do what he has hitherto avoided—viz., fight a battle on a grand scale—he has succumbed to overwhelming numbers, aided by resources which his half-armed gallant rabble does not possess. But, although this may be feared—that the defeat of Langiewicz, even with the death of the gallant Dictator of Poland—the Czar's troubles will not have ended. The movement crushed out in one place will most assuredly be found active in others. It is no longer the passionate defiance of a few thousand peasants, but the solemn, deep, and earnest voice of but the determined appeal of the whole people to the last arbitrement of war, that the Emperor has to stifle and suppress. Of this fact we can now entertain no doubt. From a very early period the Roman Catholic priests of the country—who, for once, in patriotism and sectarianism synonymous terms—have entered keenly into the movement, inspiring the men, encouraging the women. The Russian Emperor had placed at Warsaw a Roman Catholic Archbishop known to be friendly to his power; but he, too, has found the national spirit too strong for passive resistance, and, as we have seen, has despaired of opposing it, and resigned his office of member of the Polish Council of State. Warsaw belongs to the Grand Duke Constantine by the forbearance only of the national party, which awaits impatiently, yet judiciously, the right moment for rising and driving out of the last city of its hated oppressors. Already the members of the municipality have sent in their resignations; the townspeople express an unmistakable sympathy for the insurgent forces in the neighbourhood; while the women of the place busy themselves in finding resources for Langiewicz's army, and in preparing lint, bandages, and medicines for the wounded patriots. Away from Warsaw, where the Emperor retains somewhat of the substance of power, not even its shadow is left him, save in the districts which his brutal soldiery holds possession of. Already the Polish Government is dead. It has been a name that taken steps to provide for the administration of the country; has established a postal service; issued national bank-notes; levied taxes, by a method effectual enough in its rude simplicity, payment or death; has purchased arms, and organised a commissariat.

And if the news be true that the conciliatory advances of the Grand Duke Constantine have been repelled, and the offer of a general amnesty and a charter modelled upon the Constitution of 1815 rejected, the Dictator has but to draw the sword, and throw the scabbard. It would be premature to speculate upon the political wisdom of this daring act. Assuredly there are cases in the history of nations—and this may be one—when what appears reckless audacity may in reality be far-sighted political wisdom. Certainly the statesman worthy of the name will weigh the contingency well as the sagacity to treat. It may be that such a rejection of the Grand Duke's advances—supposing Langiewicz to have so acted—does not augur overweening reliance on his own resources, so much as growing confidence in the vulnerability of the military power of Russia, which it has been the fashion to esteem so highly. And the Dictator of Poland may be right. It was little likely that the same hand that threatened to make Poland a heap of ashes and corpses should hold out the olive-branch from any motive but that of conscious weakness. It is more than probable that an army of conscripts, officered by men among whom the leaven of Liberalism is known to be actively working, will not be found trustworthy in a bad cause like the present.

The attitude of Europe, too, may not unnaturally have stimulated the Dictator to the adoption of a daring policy. Its sympathies are assuredly with him and the cause he represents so gallantly. Austria, which from its geographical position can by mere neutrality render Langiewicz signal service, seems disposed to adopt an even more favourable policy; the Prussian King, who declared himself openly hostile to Poland, has been muzzled—it is to be hoped effectually—by the hands of his own subjects; France shows symptoms of interfering actively in its behalf; Italy and Sweden raise their voices in its favour; and England gives its much-tried, gallant people all her sympathy.

And Poland asks no more of us than this. It would discipline any intervention that would lead to their being required to lay down the arms which the Poles have wielded to such good effect, and to give up the advantages which they have so gallantly, and at the price of so much noble blood, obtained. And if Poland asks of England is just what England can only give—expression to our opinion that the cause for which this unhappy people is once more in arms is a just and righteous one. In the House of Lords and in the House of Commons, at the private preliminary meeting at Lord Townsend's residence, at the public meeting at the Mansion-house, on every hand, and on many other less important occasions, the people of England, of every class and shade of opinion, have spoken their mind upon this subject in sufficiently plain and expressive terms.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

FRANCE.

Monday's Moniteur publishes decrees of the Emperor, nominating Prince Louis Lucien Bonaparte Grand Cross of the Legion of Honour; Count Walewski Minister of State; Baron Charles Dupin Senator, in room of M. Mestayne. The Moniteur contains the nominations of several Majors to the Legion of Honour.

On Monday the Prince Imperial completed his seventh year, having been born on the 16th of March, 1856. On Sunday afternoon the colours of troops of the five regiments of the guard assembled in the courtyard of the Tuileries and manœuvred in presence of the Emperor, the Empress, and a large party of distinguished persons invited by them. The Moniteur gives the following account of the proceedings:

The pupils of the Imperial Guard, among whom is placed the Prince Imperial, were commanded by Colonel Fay, first Aide-de-Camp to the Emperor of the Tuileries. The Emperor was accompanied by Marshal Regnaud de Saint-Jean d'Angely, Commander of the Imperial Guard, General Mellinet and Comte, commanders of the regiments of Infantry of the Guard to which these children belong. The Prince Imperial, in his turn, as well as his comrades, took part in the manœuvres, which were executed with great precision. After each exercise the young Prince, at the head of his troop, came to receive the refreshment offered them by the Prince. The repast was served in the Salle des Maréchaux, which overlooked the grand courtyard, by the windows of the palace. The young soldiers successively went through the different evolutions of each exercise, formed a column of attack, and, armed cut as sharpshooters, all these manœuvres being performed with a precision, a rapidity, and a facility which excited the admiration of the soldiers, and his skill in defending himself with the bayonet was particularly remarked. The young Prince was dressed in the uniform of the grenadiers of the uniform of the 2nd Regiment of Zouaves of the Line. This was a son of General Bourbaki, killed at Malakoff, and formerly aide-de-camp to that regiment.

The Committee of the Senate, to which the petitions in favour of Poland were referred, came to the conclusion that, in view of the present complications, it was not desirable to submit any petitions, but to recommend the Ministry to take the petitions into consideration, and, therefore, they proposed to the Senate to leave them to the discretion of the Government. This report left personally M. Billault would continue to do, all that was just and public in favour of Poland.

The debate on Polish affairs began on Tuesday in the Senate. M. Bonjean gave an account of the sufferings of Poland, and of the iniquities of which she had been the victim, and foresaw the probability of a prolonged struggle. He expressed a strong wish for Poland her nationality. M. Bonjean entreated the Emperor's Government "to make some attempt, if it were only to accomplish a humane work, to prevent bloodshed and reparation." He stated in conclusion that he should vote for sending back to the Minister of Foreign Affairs the petitions relative to the speech of M. Bonjean, and believed there was still time for Russia to carry out the treaties on the fulfilment of which, he said, the existence of the Polish nationality depended. He warmly spoke in favour of Poland, and said he could not understand how the Senate could refuse to be unanimous in favour of Poland by unhesitatingly passing to the order of the day.

The debate was continued on Wednesday. The Marquis de La Rochejaquelein, after speaking to the order of the day, and maintained that the movement in Poland was not national, but revolutionary. M. Walewski protested against the Marquis de La Rochejaquelein, and said that the treaties of 1815 did not establish the right claimed by the Czar over Poland. He also protested against the assertion that the Polish insurrection was a revolutionary movement. Prince Napoleon opposed passing to the order of the day, a course which, he said, he was unable to pursue. He was quite as much less sympathetic with Poland than if the Senate were to be called upon to vote for the constitution of the new kingdom. The Prince continued:—"Simply referring the petitions to the Government without strong debate would be a strengthening of the hands of the Russian violence of the Emperor, and would have shown France abroad to be intimately bound to the Government on the Russian question." The Prince then spoke of the time when Napoleon said they should only be mentioned to be executed. The Russian Government was, he said, in the hands of the most execrable servitude, which was a proscription en masse, directed by the pleasure of the police. The Prince enumerated the barbarous measures taken and the horrors committed by the Russians, and declared that the Emperor's Government ought not to do for Poland what preceding Governments had done. Recalling the speech of Napoleon I. to the Great Powers, the Prince was of opinion that Russia sought to distract the broad understanding existing between France and England in order to carry out her designs in the East. "Russia, in order to hold her troops available against the emancipated serfs, endeavours to create a diversion in Poland." With regard to Turkey, the Prince Napoleon said that her conduct, though it might cause surprise, was satisfactory. He concluded by declaring that he was entirely for the Polish movement, and said:—"Men of all opinions and all ranks, up to the Archbishop of Warsaw, take part in the insurrection. With this spirit of unity it would be deplorable to be cold. We must grow if Poles are on a solid basis. The moment has come to act." Prince Napoleon concluded by expressing a hope that the Senate would not pass to the order of the day. M. Billault was opposed to the adjournment of the debate, in order that the Government might reply to the many important points that had been raised.

The debate was brought to a conclusion on Thursday. After a speech from M. Billault, a division was taken, when it was resolved to pass to the order of the day by 133 votes against 86.

In the course of the day a number of students set out for the Polish frontier, with the object of making a demonstration in favour of Poland, but they were dispersed by the police, and several of the students arrested.

Several highly important diplomatic papers on Poland have been published in the Moniteur, three of which were written during the month of January. On the 6th, dated 5th, M. Thouvenel informs M. de Talleyrand, the French Envoy at Berlin, of the deep concern of France at the unaccountable breach of neutrality by Prussia, and describes the conduct of the Cabinet of Berlin as "a source of anxiety which may lead to complications." In a despatch dated Feb. 18 addressed to the French Ambassador at St. Petersburg, M. Drouyn de Lhuys states that "The Polish question has, more than any other in France, the privilege of awakening sympathies equally great among all parties. They are in this respect unanimous: the language of the most zealous upholders of monarchical ideas differs only by imperceptible shades from that of the most advanced organs of democracy. How can we prevent the publication of articles which only appeal on the most unquestionable principles of right? Not only are we not able to do it, but, deriving our power from public opinion, we are compelled to take into account sentiments which have for many years been those of the country." M. Drouyn de Lhuys then alludes to the Congress of Vienna, and, after stating that the French Government would fulfil all the obligations arising from its amicable relations with Russia, and condemns any approach to anarchical or revolutionary proceedings, goes on to say:—"Meanwhile we have not concealed from M. Dashkoff that in spite of ourselves events might become more and more embarrassing; that the pressure of public opinion would increase in circumstances grew in importance; and that we must form wishes that in the means which the Russian Government may have to adopt there should be nothing to hinder our position more difficult as regards the Cabinet of St. Petersburg, Europe, and ourselves." The last despatch, dated March 4, states the offer of France to England and Austria to join in a remonstrance to Prussia concerning the convention; and, secondly, the refusal of England and Austria to join France. It concludes by asserting that France has no intention of pursuing an isolated or private policy on the Polish question.

ITALY.

The King has given the Royal assent to the bill authorising the Government to conclude a loan with Messrs. Rothschild, of Paris, and the Société Générale, to borrow 500 millions at 5 per cent, but it is not intended to raise more than 500 millions at present. The amount of the new loan reserved for public subscription in Italy is five millions of rents, or 100 millions lire stock. This latter portion has been fixed at 100 millions of lire, to be issued at 71. The price of contract with the Rothschilds is said to be 69½, and they will take 380 millions.

By order of the King, the soldiers commonised in the last Garibaldian rising in Sicily, and condemned to penal servitude for life, have had this sentence commuted into twenty years' imprisonment.

Arrests have taken place at Milan in consequence of the discovery of a conspiracy, described as partly Bourbonian and partly Mazzinian, at the head of which are the famous ex-Neapolitan Colonel Rentzenberg, and the editors of the Unità Politica and a paper calling itself the Nuovo Mondo. Palermo is reported perfectly quiet, and the judicial authorities have commenced an inquiry into the matter.

According to a telegram from Turin, Garibaldi's wound has shown symptoms of an aggravated character.

The following despatches have been made by the Pope:—Monsignor Falconieri to be Papal Nuncio at the Court of Vienna; Monsigner Sinagnino to be Internuncio for the Brazils; Monsigner Ordile to be Internuncio at Berne. The person appointed to the Soudanese Mission, and the editors of the Unità Politica and a paper calling itself the Nuovo Mondo. Palermo is reported perfectly quiet, and the judicial authorities have commenced an inquiry into the matter.

According to a telegram from Turin, Garibaldi's wound has shown symptoms of an aggravated character.

The following despatches have been made by the Pope:—Monsignor Falconieri to be Papal Nuncio at the Court of Vienna; Monsigner Sinagnino to be Internuncio for the Brazils; Monsigner Ordile to be Internuncio at Berne. The person appointed to the Soudanese Holiness at the Hague, Monsigner Vecchiotti, is appointed Councillor of States.

AUSTRIA.

In order to satisfy the reiterated applications of Russia, Austria has, it is said, sent reinforcements to the garrisons on the frontiers of Russian Poland. The mission of those troops will be to closely watch the frontier, so as to prevent the contraband communications with the insurgents and the Poles of Galicia.

The semi-official papers state that Prince Metternich has been summoned from Paris to report to the Ministry the present condition of political affairs. The Nation of Tuesday says:—"The Austrian Ambassador, Prince Richard Metternich, had an interview with the Emperor and Count Rechberg, that the opinions of the Emperor of Austria are in accordance with those entertained at Paris with regard to the diplomatic questions which have arisen from events in Poland." The Nation draws attention to the liberal tendency of the Austrian Government, "which is increasingly approaching the Western Government."

The Archduke Ferdinan d Maximilian is lying ill of the measles on the Island of Lacroma.

A telegram from Vienna of Monday reports a first sitting of delegates from Venetia, "to deliberate on the scheme of granting a provincial Constitution to Venetia."

PRUSSIA.

On Tuesday Berlin put on gala dress. The long straight streets of the capital were filled with spectators. Under the Linden was a mass of uniforms and bayonets, for the whole body of veterans, as well as of the active army, were to be gathered together from all parts of the country to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of Prussian independence. The King and Queen, with the whole Royal family of the patriots of that memorable time, assembled to the number, it is said, of near a million, to witness the most impressive and grand spectacle. The King laid the foundation-stone of a statue to his father—the 17th of March being the day on which Frederick William, fifty years ago, called upon his people to arm in the decisive fight for their existence and independence." All the Royal family were present, with the King's brother, Prince Charles, who was unwell, and the Queen-Dowager.

The Committee of the Chamber of Deputies has resolved to recommend that the numbers of the army shall be fixed for a special law, and that the military estimates shall be specially and separately voted. The Government Commissioner declared that such a proposal would not be accepted by the Administration, and would only embitter the conflict between the Crown and the Lower House.

GREECE.

The National Assembly has elected a Committee to discuss the question of the accession to the throne of Greece with the Minister of the Interior. Accessions are said to be in favour of the Duke of Leuchtenberg, Prince Alfred, and Prince Napoleon. The latter has taken place in Sparta, Calamata, Tricala, and Locris. This week the arms of Prince William of Denmark, instead of a Danish, is uppermost as a probable candidate for the throne of Greece.

The National Assembly has, by 150 against 114 votes, recalled M. Christides, the leader of the French party, who had been exiled by the Provisional Government.

THE POLISH REVOLUTION.

The Dictator Langiewicz has issued national bank-notes of the value of two Polish florins.

La France asserts that the Dictator has accredited official agents to all foreign Governments to protect the interests of the insurrectionary Government of Poland.

The Dictator Langiewicz has appointed the insurgent leaders Jedoranski and Waligorski Generals.

A decree of Langiewicz has been published, constituting the civil Government of Poland by the nomination of four directors and two secretaries.

General Langiewicz has received the following letter from Garibaldi:—

Caprera, March 1.

My dear Langiewicz.—May God bless you, and with you the sacred cause of your country. I am sorry that my wound prevents me from accompanying you. I am in detail; and by propagating the movement through the whole of ancient Polonia you will bring about victory. Then, if you will, you can proclaim the republic in fact the sympathies which you merit from all the world. You have already accomplished wonders. Continue to act worthy of the name you bear. At the head of your youth you achieve miracles. We will all be with you.—And soon.

GIUSEPPE GARIBALDI.

The France asserts that Langiewicz has declined the proffered services of Garibaldi, on the ground that, the movement in Poland being essentially national, the co-operation of foreign classes of Poles who might object to succour of an exclusively revolutionary character.

In a proclamation issued by the Central Committee at Paris, published under Prussian and Austrian rule, they are conjured to remain quiet and to confine themselves to aid the insurgents by sending money, arms, and munitions, and by enlightening Europe as to the true state of Polish affairs.

A correspondent of the Hamburg Journal, who has visited Langiewicz in his camp, writes as follows:—

At the entrance of the General's residence stand two powerful sythemen, with their weapons crossed. These form the body-guard of the insurgent Generals. On the left is a chamber of moderate dimensions, in the centre of which is a table of deal and oval shape, and around this sit and stand many men, who carry on in lively a discussion that one scarcely comprehends from the noise of these are strong and wiry, others are in the bloom of youth; good strong these present three are vociferation men, with grey hair and locks. At the end of the table, somewhat sidewards, sits General Langiewicz, engaged in writing. The man does not disturb himself, according to the report of those around him, he possesses much presence of mind. He writes, and at the same time answers many questions, and also distributes various orders to his officers, who continually come and go. His answers were short and decided, as were his orders. At last he raised his head a little, and I could perceive that he was a handsome man. Pronounced cheek-bones, a fine forehead, and appearance to be quite an ordinary one, but he pleased me on the instant. He was about five or six-and-twenty. He is of small stature, somewhat slender, and very thirty years of age; slim, but muscular; the head in proportion, but with a magnificent beard; the eyes though dark and quick; dark hair and somewhat short; moustache also dark and large, but very beautiful; his entire expression is mild and decided, as with most Italians. On his head he wore the regulation-coloured fatigue-cap, covered over, with dark lamb's-wool trimming and a white feather. He wore also large boots, and a dark-blue cloth cloak, with a dark-red internal cloak. He wore also a frockcoat and vest, by which each of his officers was easily known. He was a thorough gentleman, and interested very much in the campaign. After my interview with Lanzinger I began to look around the room. Garibaldi, Crispi, and all who were present, I became acquainted with. Garibaldi I found to be, as I ever so many more, who have already made their acquaintance, very simple and frank. Among others was Missori, who appeared to be a young and fine officer. Many other distinguished persons have been present at all the delicate transfers; she is attired in many costumes, and has been greeted with the bullets, and no wonder, for she is generally beloved and regarded as saviour of her country and people. In conjunction with Garibaldi's wife was also the Countess Capechio who serves as field chaplain and physician, and who, with her husband, has followed Garibaldi in all his wars and campaigns since 1848. On the whole, the visit to Lanzinger has been quite agreeable, and I thought him a man for the time and circumstances made a very favourable impression on me. I did not find in him the coolness or tone of reserve which I had noticed among others."

A discovery has just been made at Wassew that large quantities of artillery are buried there since the Swedish invasion of 1655.

Miecislawski has left Poland, and a letter from Paris states that he is quietly domiciled at his old lodgings in Paris, where he is very much annoyed by the attentions of the visitors who call, with the drawing up a statement of what he personally witnessed, with the motives actuating his prompt withdrawal from the scene of action.

The Paris Patrie says that Earl Russell has dispatched a circular note to all the European Governments requesting them to support at St. Petersburg a demand on the Polish question such as Count Walewski, Ambassador there direct; but the answers given to this request are not known. The Patrie adds that it is to be expressed in quite a mild form the step was full of inconvenience.

Various fresh engagements are reported. On the 5th inst. the insurgents, between the Polish general Lewandapski, defeated the Russians near Rezenska, and captured two guns. Another body of insurgents, under a leader called Lelewel, were victorious near Wilkowiski, on the 6th Bug, on the 7th inst., on which day the Russians also sustained a further defeat near Plock. On Sunday last, the 8th inst., the insurgents defeated the Russians under the command of Colonel Toll, near Mysseno, in the Government of Plock. The Russians had 100 killed. On Thursday last, it is reported there was a sanguinary engagement at Sosnowice. The Russian officials in the town had already taken to flight when the insurgents entered, and were received with enthusiasm by a portion of their number driven on to Prussian territory. An engagement between the Polish and Russian forces took place on the Prussian border. The revolt seems to have fairly spread from the kingdom of Poland into Volhynia and Podolia and Lithuania. According to a despatch, dated Wilna, a body of the Russian Imperial Guards has been drawn into an ambuscade within a few miles of that city, and sustained a loss of 200 men. At Warsaw, the execution is gaining ground in Kalisch, and has broken out in Polotsk, several Russian officers having, it is reported, been shot there. The Prussian telegraph reports four encounters between the Poles and Russians, in all of which the Poles were victors. The greater part of the Russian 4th Corps d'Armée, under General Mischow, and a great battle was expected, skirmishing with the Russians, who are supposed to be in great force, have already taken place. A state of siege has been proclaimed in the cities and districts of Pinsk, Bluck, and Novogrudsk, in the Government of Grodno.

AMERICA.

By the arrival of the steamer Jura we have telegrams from New York to the 6th inst.

WAR NEWS.

A battle took place on the 5th inst. between the Confederates under Van Dorn and the Federals under General Osborn, in the vicinity of Tennessee, thirteen miles south of Franklin. The fight lasted all day, and ended in the defeat of the Federals. The Federal forces consisted of seven regiments of infantry, 500 cavalry, and six pieces of artillery. Nearly all the Federal infantry were cut to pieces or captured, but the cavalry and artillery escaped.

The transactions at Vicksburg are shrouded in mystery.

The Confederate have captured the Federal steamer Indianola 25 miles below Vicksburg. The rams Webb and Queen of the West attacked her and charged into her until she surrendered. The fight lasted two hours, and the Indianola subsequently sank in a sinking condition.

The Confederate steamer Nashville ran aground at Fort Macallister, Savannah and was destroyed by the Federal ironclads.

The report of an attempt to assassinate General Banks at New Orleans is said to have been a canard. General Banks has issued orders that negro troops are to be regarded as equals with the white troops.

WASHINGTON.

Senator Sumner reported to the Senate from the Committee upon Foreign Relations a resolution requesting mediation, which were afterwards passed by both houses of Congress. After returning to the Foreign Relations Committee, the resolutions declare that a case of mediation or intervention is impracticable, unreasonable, and inadmissible; also that any offer of interference on the part of powers still, and that the existing war should continue; and that Congress will therefore be obliged to regard any further attempt in the same direction as an unfriendly act. The Resolutions express a conviction that the Southern States are not frankly interested the Southern chiefs that the work in which they are engaged is hopeless, and that a new Government, with slavery for its corner-stone, and with no other declared object of separate existence, is so far shocking to civilisation and to the moral sense of mankind that it must be rejected without or recognition on the part of mankind of nations.

The resolutions express an unalterable purpose to prosecute the war until the rebellion is crushed. The resolutions will be communicated to foreign Governments.

Both houses of Congress have passed a bill indemnifying the President for the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus; also a bill imposing a tax of forty cents upon bank circulation. The duty on paper has been reduced from 50 to 20 per cent.

Congress having expired at twelve o'clock on the 4th of March, the Senate reassembled in extra Session, pursuant to the proclamation of President Lincoln. Seventeen new members took their seats, of whom nine are elected for the full term. Of these nine six were Democrats and three Republicans.

MISCELLANEOUS.

An excited meeting of the New York Chamber of Commerce has taken place. The meeting was called to discuss the burning of the Jacob Bell. The report of the chamber intimated that the policy of England was a possibility, and one not to be dreaded. England's neutrality was denounced, and the conduct of England towards American vessels declared to be a disgrace to the age.

A riot has occurred at Detroit, Michigan, caused by an attempt of the new Police Board to enforce the sale of liquor. The mayor sympathised with assaulting a white girl. The mob failed to capture the negro, but attacked the coloured people miscellaneously. Fifteen persons are said to be killed, and as many houses burned.

In consequence of the passage of the Act taxing speculative transactions in gold and silver coin, there has been a sudden fall in the premium on gold and silver, and the rate of sterling exchange. The premium on gold was fluctuating between 150 and 155.

INDIA, CHINA, AND JAPAN.

The intelligence from India is not marked by any exciting topic, everything progresses in a calm and peaceful manner. The Viceroy had left Calcutta on his tour to the Upper Provinces, and had arrived at Benares, where he had held a durbar. Sir C. Trevelyan had fairly entered on his duties, and it is reported that one of his first measures will be the repeal of the income tax.

From China we hear that all was quiet at Pekin, and that Mr. Bruce was still on satisfactory terms with the Government. The expedition for the capture of Nanking, which had been suspended by the dismissal of General Burgevine, was being reconstructed. Captain Holland had taken the command of the Ward Corps. Rebels were pretty quiet at Shanghai. The defence of the city was left to the sole charge of the British, all the French troops and marines having been withdrawn for Saigon, in Cochin-China. The rebel city Changchow has tendered its allegiance to the Imperialists. The New Zealand mail was to leave Melbourne for Galle at Ningpo on the 22nd inst.

Intelligence from Japan announces the degradation of the nobles who had been connected with foreigners. This measure was supposed to be the precursor of a repudiation of the treaties concluded by the Tycoon with foreign Powers. Colonel Neale was informed by the Governor of Foreign Affairs at Yokohama that a letter had been addressed to the Foreign Ambassadors and representatives. Colonel Neale was remonstrating against this non-fulfilment of affairs, taking measures of precaution with the naval and military authorities.

AUSTRALIA.

(From our own Correspondent.)

MELBOURNE, Jan. 26.

THE burden of this month's news is the funeral of the unfortunate explorer Burke and his companion Wills, which took place on the 21st instant. All of the Royal Society was given up and profusely decorated, commenced on the morning, and continued for the space of nearly 10,000 persons were walking the hall during that time. The public funeral, took place on the 21st inst., and was the largest ever witnessed in the streets of Melbourne. It commenced at noon. The day was observed as a holiday, and all classes turned out to honour the memory of the dead heroes. The streets of the city were lined with troops, and the route the streets were crowded. The procession was headed by the Governor's carriage, and other carriages, in which a view could be obtained, were numbers of citizens of the highest respectability. On the 20th inst., after the Christmas recess, but, after a few minutes' silence, kept up his Spring form, and with 221. less he gave Miss Julia a chance at half a mile. Despite the liberality of the Corporation, the Municipal Council, at a meeting meeting, passed had his revenge for being left at the post at Lincoln by his victory in the Epsom Derby, and the Oaks on the 20th inst., Mr. Alexander Long, rode Lapphohe; the performances of Joey Jones, and other stable companions of National Guard, raised Richmond's hopes of this Derby; and, second to Lapphohe, was the simple reason he proposed to them, they have gone on obstinately year after year allowing the Exhibition Building to languish their despicable one can pity the Doncaster committee when Emblem, even with 141b. extra, reduced their stakes to 25*l*. each, and the Derby by the new rules. The season begins in earnest at Northampton on Tuesday and Wednesday; and a very few hours' run by the Great Northern will bring visitors within reach of the Oxford, Cambridge, and Rugby Lapphohe; the performances of Joey Jones, and other stable companions of National Guard, raised Richmond's hopes of this Derby; and, second to Lapphohe, was the simple reason he proposed to them, they have gone on obstinately year after year allowing the Exhibition Building to languish their despicable one can pity the Doncaster committee when Emblem, even with 141b. extra, reduced their stakes to 25*l*. each, and the Derby by the new rules. The season begins in earnest at Northampton on Tuesday and Wednesday; and a very few hours' run by the Great Northern will bring visitors within reach of the Oxford, Cambridge, and Rugby

NATIONAL SPORTS.

Race meetings have followed in quick succession since our last. At Liverpool, Tuesday was a proof that Mr. Parr may himself make mistakes in the "cart of" business, as well as profit by those of others; and Johnny Armstrong showed that he retains much of his two-year-old form which once made it so difficult to past him from Holland and Neptune. Thames Mouse's first attempt on Lord Stanford's colours was a signally lucky one, as he won both his races, one of them on Hyrpatia, own sister to Diophantus, and purchased for 210 gs. at the last Doncaster sale. It is the son of a very respectable old "Pester jockey," Sam Mann, and few men have waited more patiently for a turn of fortune than he has done. The Lewes Cuckoo may perhaps secure first call of Sam Rogers. The finish brought the winner, Bedcop by Faugh-a-Ballagh, Lord Lurgan, and Dunne at Bulls within about half a length of each other, and was as close as that celebrated one for the same stake in 1850, when Lady Clifden, Big Ben, Dundee, and Mincepie finished in a line across the Swepstakes of 10 sovs.—Ilderton, 1. Charley Boy, 2. My Mary, 3. Shabby Gentleman—Merrimac, 1. Lady of La Garaye, 2. Lady Lovel, 3.

WARWICK SPRING MEETING.—WEDNESDAY.

Racing Stakes.—Flower Safety, 1. Lord Lurgan, 2. Dundee, 3.
Trial Stakes.—To Marechal, 1. Atherstone, 2. Twilight, 3.
Sweepstakes of 10 sovs.—Ilderton, 1. Gainsboro, 2. Hazeldine, 3.
Handicap Plate.—Queen of the Vale, 1. Poignoir, 2. Churchman, 3.
Welsh Handicap.—Sabrina, 1. Sultan, 2.
Stand Handicap.—Sobieski, 1. Miss Mina, 2. Grand Vizier, 3.
Farmers' Plate.—Devil-o-, 1. Little Fairy, 2. Bob, 3.

THURSDAY.

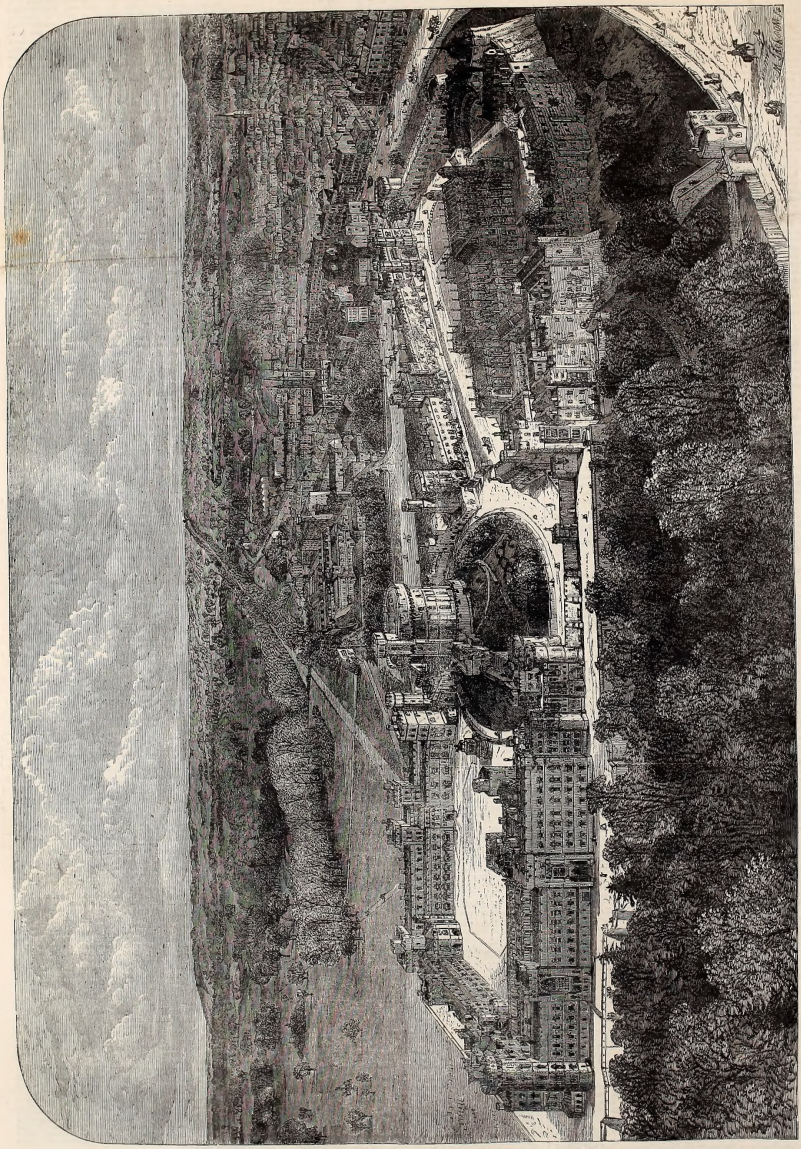
Selable Stakes.—Little Dick, 1. Gainsby, 2. Tambourji, 3.
Walton Handicap.—Bateman, 1. Lurra, 2. Confusion, 3.
Great Warwickshire Handicap.—Selection, 1. Spalding, 2. Toluros, 3.
Two-year-old Stakes.—Starbeam, 1. Whitefield, 2. Lady Nichol, 3.
Handicap Plate.—Lady Langdale, 1. Lady Lurgan, 2. Lord Warwick, 3.
Handicap Plate of £50.—Ellerton, 1. Poignoir, 2. Abernethy, 3.

FRIDAY.

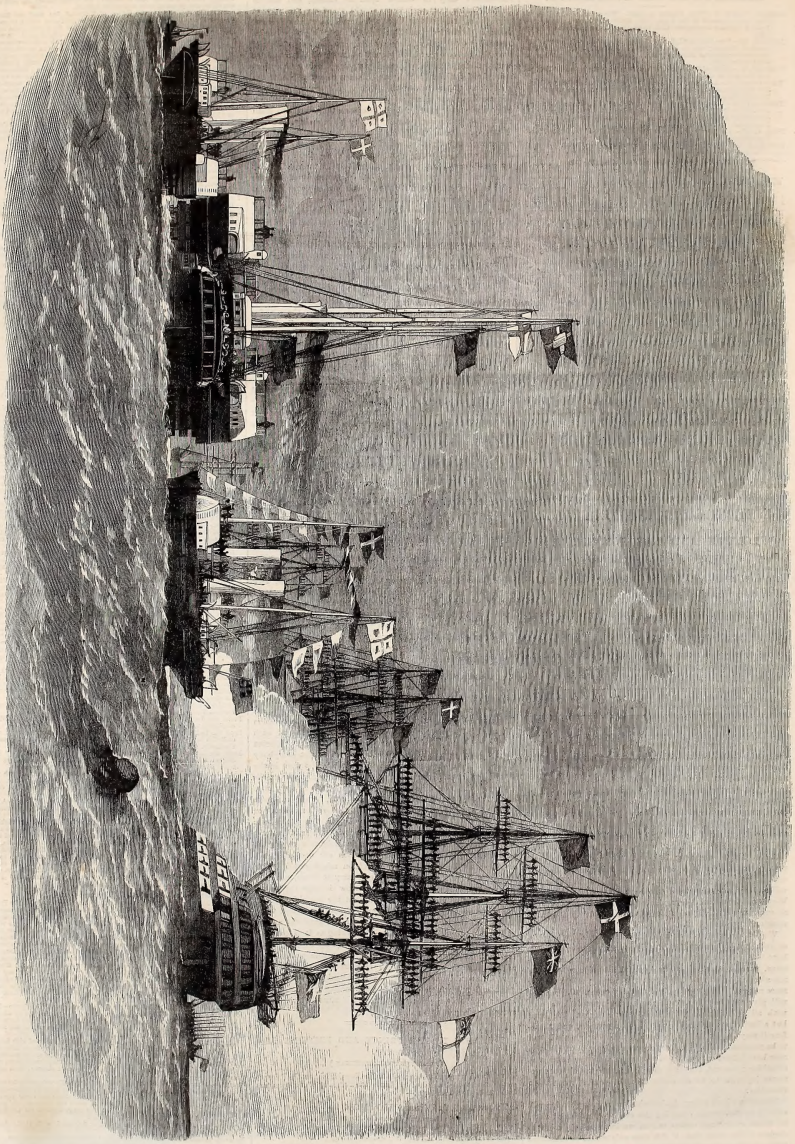
Scurry Handicap.—Flower Safety, 1. Lord Lurgan, 2. Inkerman, 3.]
Lady Lurgan Stakes.—Lady of La Garaye, 1. Dundee, 2. Bedcop, 3.
Grand Annual Steeplechase.—Sinking Fund, 1. Light of Other Days, 2.
Handicap Steeplechase.—Inclosure, 1. Meningitis, 2.
Heavy Weight Steeplechase.—Lady La Garaye, 1. Flesh-over, 2.
Nursery Steeplechase.—Lord Warwick, 1. Nectar, 2.
Light Weight Steeplechase.—Worcester, 1. Truly, 3.

The Viceroy of Egypt, on the occasion of his visit to the Sultan a few days ago, presented to his master with 28,000 minié rifles, and renewed for himself the promise of Said Pacha, with reference to the middle degree interest in Suez Canal shares. On his part, the Sultan has presented his Highness with a magnificent diamond, said to be of 81 carats' weight, and which was formerly worn in a ring by the late Sultan Mahmoud.

A correspondent of the Times who has just visited the works of the Suez Canal observes:—"Ground Asphalte as to the prospects of a ship canal being completed on the scale and according to the terms adopted to itself by the company must, I apprehend, continue to prevail, and not less so in regard to the commercial prospects of the undertaking, should the work be brought to a conclusion, even were the end to be attained without exceeding the funds raised by the company. But I feel assured that neither professional nor non-professional travellers will return from the Isthmus without admiring the perseverance and energy displayed by the gentlemen intrusted with a work of such magnitude, undertaken in the midst of a desert where every resource had to be created."



BIRD'S-EYE VIEW OF WINDSOR CASTLE.



PROGRESS OF PRINCESS ALEXANDRA (PRINCESS OF WALES): THE SQUADRON AT THE NORE SALUTING THE ROYAL YACHT.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING MARCH 28.

SUNDAY, MARCH 22.—Fifth Sunday in Lent. The order of the Knights Templars suppressed by the Council of Vienne, 1312. Battle of Bangy, in Anjou; the Duke of Guienne defeated and slain by the Dauphin, and Scotch auxiliaries, 1421.

MONDAY, 23.—Pope Innocent III. placed England under an Interdict, 1208. Battle of Novara; Charles Albert, King of Sardinia, totally defeated by the Austrian Marshal Radetzky, 1849. The Spaniards defeat the Moors at Castel-el-Sen, 1860.

TUESDAY, 24.—Death of Queen Elizabeth and union of the crowns of England and Scotland in the person of James I., 1603.

WEDNESDAY, 25.—Lady Day: Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary. The Slave Trade abolished throughout the British Dominions, 1807. Opening of the Thames Tunnel, 1843; of St. James's Hall, 1858.

THURSDAY, 26.—Great earthquake in Carniola; nearly 12,000 persons perished, 1812. The Duke of Cambridge born, 1819. Mohammedan, in Persia, executed by Sir Justin Sheil, 1852. The Planet Victoria discovered by Mr. Luscombe, 1859.

FRIDAY, 27.—The Peace of Amiens (between England and the French Republic) signed, 1802. Moon, first quarter, 9h. 58m., a.m.

SATURDAY, 28.—The planet Pallas discovered by Dr. Olbers, 1802.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE,
FOR THE WEEK ENDING MARCH 28, 1863.

Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
M. h. m.	M. h. m.	M. h. m.	M. h. m.	M. h. m.	M. h. m.	M. h. m.
2 5	2 49	3 34	4 20	5 7	5 56	6 47
A. h. m.	A. h. m.	A. h. m.	A. h. m.	A. h. m.	A. h. m.	A. h. m.
2 27	3 11	3 56	4 42	5 29	6 18	7 9

THE ROYAL MARRIAGE.

ALTHOUGH we have devoted so large a space to illustrating the Marriage of Her Royal Highness the Princess Alice and Princess of Wales, several Engravings of great interest still remain to be given. Our Number for Saturday, the 28th inst., will contain

A TWO-PAGE ENGRAVING
OF
THE BRIDAL PROCESSION
IN THE NAVE OF ST. GEORGE'S CHAPEL, with Illustrations of the Procession of the Royal Bridegroom, the Wedding Presents, the Departure of the Prince and Princess from Windsor, &c.

But the interest of the Tenth of MARCH last did not terminate with the Celebration of the Royal Marriage.

THE PUBLIC REJOICINGS
IN TOWN AND COUNTRY
upon the late auspicious occasion have especially engaged our attention, and the forthcoming Number will contain numerous Engravings of

ILLUMINATIONS AND FESTIVITIES
IN LONDON AND THE PROVINCES.

Price 6d., unstamped; stamped, 6d. Orders should be given immediately to Newsagents and Booksellers.

Notice to Advertisers.—Advertisements for the above Number cannot be received later than Six o'Clock on Wednesday, the 25th inst.

NOTICE TO THE TRADE.

IN consequence of the enormous demand, it is impossible to supply the orders already received for this Number of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS until next week.

168, Strand.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON, SATURDAY, MARCH 21, 1863.

A RENEWED attempt is being made to meet one of the vices of the age by restrictive legislation, and the subject is one which may not be discussed without the ascetic which it requires no great power of vaticination to predict will shortly characterise debates upon such a topic. Certain well-meaning legislators have introduced into the House of Commons a bill for closing, for the whole of Sunday, every place where refreshment is sold to the public. And it is worthy of notice that an effort to resist the introduction of the bill was defeated by a large majority of 141 to 52. The Government did not oppose the bill, but Sir George Grey intimated that he had given no promise to support it, a course which is in perfect keeping with Home Office practice and at present understood, but which will scarcely commend itself to the good sense of the nation. We should have been better pleased to hear Sir George Grey at once avow that the administration had made up its mind upon an important point.

We frankly avow that we hold this bill to be objectionable, and that we hope to see it defeated upon second reading. We hope that it is not necessary for us to go back upon all occasions, parish-orator fashion, to declarations of our hatred of intoxication, or to our belief that the Sunday might be far more usefully spent by myriads than at present. Our readers will give us credit for feeling and thinking with them, and with all right-minded persons, on these subjects. We have but a limited space in which to discuss any topic, and therefore it may be permitted to us to take ethics for granted, and to be practical. We, therefore, propose to suggest to all who may have influence to bring to bear upon this newly-drawn social improvement, that the bill, if carried, would work extreme injustice to an enormous class of a most respectable character.

Though we have strong doubts whether mere legislation will ever do much towards checking the evil propensities of those to whom enjoyment means excess, we have no objection to declare at the outset that, if this class only would be interfered with by the proposed bill, we might not feel ourselves called upon to offer any strenuous opposition to it. That class is not worthy of other consideration than that which it is the statesman's duty to bestow upon all classes, and neither its petulances nor prejudices should stand in the way of any police regulations that are based in common sense. There might be no particular objection to trying experiments upon it, supposing that they could do no harm even if they wrought no good; and we should no more consider that we were inflicting a hardship by closing a public-house door against a drunkard than in directing a policeman to escort him, if too uproarious, to the next station-house. We are not likely to become the organs of any vulgar cant about the liberty of the subject, when the unruly subject interprets that liberty to mean the right of annoying other persons by his brutality. In fact, if we could condemn this kind of reveller to a year of cold water without interfering with the rights and comforts of his betters, we should see no great harm in trying a course which, by itself, might not be very educational in its results, but which might have the effect of inducing a temporary fit of philosophical character. But no such device is at present before Parliament. We are asked to declare that neither man, woman, or child, unless a member of one of the London clubs, shall taste any stimulant on the Sunday, unless that liquid shall have been purchased and taken home on the Saturday night. Those who propose such a measure must pardon us for saying that they do not know the habits, customs, and powers of the people for whom they would legislate. We must speak plainly, because we wish to make plainer speaking still, at a later date, unnecessary. We do not wish to be personal in our remarks, or to disrespect, it would be as wise to hand legislation for the people to men who are so notoriously ignorant of them, as for Dr. Sclater, the accomplished manager of the Zoological Gardens, to dismiss the trained staff which at present ministers with so much success to the habits and wants of the feline class, and to hand over the providing for them to a set of nurses from the Foundling Hospital, or to a dozen of the most intelligent shepherds from Salisbury Plain.

The bill must be opposed and rejected—not because we would set gladly the whole family in Bagnigge Wells Road at making provision on Saturday for the wants of Sunday, but because it is absolutely impossible for thousands on thousands of families to do anything of the kind. We will not go into the question of the rights of man, or the wrongs of publicans. Even if we seemed to have the right on our side, we cannot consent to sacrifice a little more of the liberty of which all citizens must sacrifice a good deal for the common interest, and to admit that it is right that the Legislature should pass a paternal law, enacting that respectable and self-respecting men shall not be allowed to spend their own money in a public cellar, which is free to them all the week, we cannot allow that even Parliament has a right to compel them to go without refreshment on the day of rest. This, though the proposers of the new law do not understand it, would be the result of the desired measure. "Is it right?" is the question which the night before ?" is the question which wealthy gentlemen, with butlers and cellarage, are never tired of asking, and the reply to which they seem never inclined to listen. The answer, for the thousandth time given, is, that the thing cannot be done because the poor have no accommodation for the fluids. The lower middle class has no cellar, no cool halls where Pallas shuns the day.

The publican is their butler, and his vaults are their cellarage. If gentlemen who are trying to force on the new code will only demean themselves to visit a few of their acquaintances in ungentel life, and especially those who live in lodgings, and will bring down their cellarage behind and which it would be possible for them to answer the hideously vulgar question where the beer is to be put, we should hear less of such nonsense. We are writing in the most humiliatingly plebeian way, but we are writing in the interest of almost everybody who was in a hurry to get to a vast number who were not. We stands, on Saturday week; and that is so goodly a clientelle that we are not ashamed to hold its brief. We say once more, then, that beer, which is still, and in spite of Mr. Gladstone, the drink of the million, can be kept in the cellar only of the Upper Ten Thousand; and we may add, to show that we are not entirely ignorant of nobler things, that even in Belgravia very great people keep their beer in cellars which are decidedly not attached to the mansion. The million might certainly buy bottles, and put liquor in them, and carry it home, and keep it in warm places, and on the morrow indulge in potations with the flat and nauseous result; but the people's beer is not made to be bottled, and becomes detestable except when taken from the cask. That is the vulgar but practical answer to Mr. Somes and his friends; and, shocking as it is to write on such subjects, and deeply as we feel that nothing but a course of Italian operas will perform quarantine work for as after such work, we are bound to say what we have said. The new bill would operate cruelly and tyrannically towards the great and respectable class who need Sunday refreshment and have a right to enjoy it; and the new bill must be rejected on second reading.

PRESENTS TO THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.
(FROM THE COURT NEWSMAN.)

THE following presents were made to her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales and his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales upon the occasion of their marriage :—

The presents to the Princess of Wales included—

From her Majesty the Queen, in the name of his Royal Highness the Prince Consort and the Queen, from designs by his Royal Highness—A parure of very large and fine opals and brilliants, consisting of three circular brooches, a pair of earrings, cross, and bracelets. (Garrard and Co.)

From her Majesty the Queen—The Victoria and Albert badge, formed of a fine Oriental pearl, with the initials of her Majesty and his Royal Highness the Prince Consort enclosed by a border of fine brilliants, and surmounted by a crown of diamonds, with carved ruby cup (Garrard and Co.); a suite of Indian ornaments of pearls, emeralds, and diamonds, consisting of corsage, pair of bracelets, and an armlet; six Indian shawls, one gold tissue shawl, several pieces of satin and velvet uncuts.

From his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales—A fine pearl and diamond necklace, formed of eight circular clusters of brilliants, with a large pearl in the centre of each, and connected by festoons of diamonds: from each of the three principal clusters is suspended a pear-shaped pearl. A brooch of sibling form, with three very fine pearls set with large brilliants, and three large and fine pearls pendent. A pair of earrings to match. (Garrard and Co.) A diadem of fine brilliants; the circlet is composed of two rows, with ten large brilliants equidistant; it is surmounted by eight others, alternating, having in the centre of each a large pear-shaped brilliant; these are connected by Greek devices, also in brilliants: the various pieces are connected by chains separately set with brilliants. (Hunt and Roskell.) A bracelet, formed of two large turquoises, inlaid with Arabic characters, and mounted in gold in Oriental style. A very handsome ornament, consisting of all the articles in which were made by Miss Chitti, Miss Given, Mrs. Heath, Mr. Hill, Mr. Lewis, Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Nelson, Mr. Pocock, Mr. Rowe, Mr. Sabin, and Mrs. Segerman, at Windsor.

From her Majesty the Queen and Queen Prince and Queen Princess of Prussia (Princess Royal)—Portraits (three-quarter size) of their Royal Highnesses.

From the Queen Dowager—A pearl and gold locket, with the cipher "L. A." in "Victoria"—from a design by her Royal Highness.

From their Royal Highnesses Prince and Princess Louis of Hesse—A bracelet of turquoises and brilliants, with the cipher "L. A." in diamonds on crystal. (Phillips, Regent-street.)

From their Royal Highnesses Prince Alfred, Princess Helena, Princess Louise, Prince Arthur, and Prince Leopold, each Princess's—A very brilliant pendant, having in the centre five sapphires in the form of a cross, and a brooch to match.

From her Royal Highness the Duchess of Cambridge—A flower-pattern brilliant ornament, for the corners of the flounces of the dress and train.

From her Royal Highness Princess Mary of Cambridge—A handsome bracelet, the clasp of pearls and diamonds.

From his Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge—A broad wave gold hunt bracelet, with blue and white enamel centre and pearls. (Garrard and Co.)

From her Highness the Princess Hohenlohe—A beautifully-painted fan-mount, representing an outdoor scene (skating), a ballroom, and a concert; a similar mount, representing a group in the costume of Louis XIV. period.

From his Majesty the King of the Belgians—A dress of beautiful and costly Honiton lace, with flounces and handkerchief to match.

From his Majesty the King of Denmark—A necklace of pearls and diamonds (a five-fold chain), with a large pearl pendant containing miniatures, with a large brilliant in the centre of each. The centre of the necklace is formed of an ivywreath of diamonds, with one round and two pear-shaped diamond pearls, and suspended from it is the facsimile of the cross of Dagmar, tastefully executed in pearls and diamonds, and surmounted with the style of the necklace is Byzantine. (Jules Diétrichem, Crown jeweller, Copenhagen.)

From her Royal Highness the Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg—A gold bracelet and locket, with the cipher of the donor in brilliants in the centre. (Phillips.)

From their Majesties the King and Queen of Prussia—A large vase of china, with exhibit engraved portrait of his Majesty; the handles, lip, and foot are beauties all richly gilt.

From his Royal Highness the Landgrave Wilhelm of Hesse and sisters—An antique gold parure, diadem, necklace, bracelet, brooch, and earrings. (Hübelem, Copenhagen.)

From her Highness the Duchess of Glücksburg—An old enamelled watch, with diamond hands and dial-plate.

From the Maharajah Dhuleep Singh—A bouquet-holder of carved crystal, with mounts and cords marvellously set on the arm in a bracelet of pearls and diamonds, and a jewelled corsage; the pearl is formed of a bell of crystal, with pendent pearls. By turning the bell the bouquet springs into four supports, in each of which is a plume and cipher; attached to the corsage is a chain of gold and pearls, and a loop-ring of eight pearls. (London and Ryder.)

From the Illustrious gentlemen of her Majesty's household—A very richly-chased silver-gilt toilet-service in the Queen Anne style, consisting of a magnificent looking-glass, a large salver, two large candlesticks, two large jars, four smaller jars, two large beakers, four large scentbottles with covered tops, four with glass stoppers, a pincushion, a pomatum-box, a tray, ivory hairbrushes with silver-gilt cipher and crown, a tortoiseshell comb, and a handsome dressing-case, with the same cipher. The principal object of the service, has a very richly-chased frame, at the top of which is that of the Illustrious Order of her Royal Highness Princess Alexandra, surmounted by two winged figures bearing the Prince of Wales's feather, which forms the support for the mirror; the frame is of Queen Anne. At the foot of the glass are the full arms, supporters, and crown of the Princess of Wales. The glass is fitted in a rosewood case, with a handsome cipher and crown on the cover, richly-ornamented handles, and look-plate. The casing of the box is also adorned with a beautiful chased panel on each lap of which is engraved the name of a subscriber. (Garrard and Co.)

From the Right Hon. Benjamin Disraeli, M.P.—A gold locket. (Asprey and Co.)

From the Archbishop of Canterbury—Ewer and basin of majolica ware.

From Chamberlain Schoesteh Jost and daughter, Master of the Hunt, Lindegard, and Lieutenant Lindegard—A gold locket, with chased enamel design, a broad gold bracelet with filigree work, and a brooch and earrings to correspond.

From the Corporation of the City of London—A necklace of thirty-two very large and fine pearls, with a pair of earrings to correspond, consisting of two large and fine brilliant tops, and two equally fine drops connected by two diamond brilliants. (Garrard and Co.)

From the Lady Mayoress—A bouquet-holder of cornucopia form, with thistle, and shamrock, and rose ornaments, and diamonds. (Garrard and Co.)

From the Lady Mayoress of Dublin, and a number of ladies of Irish association of Dublin—A diamond fan mounted on ivory.

From the Duchess of Inverness—A gold bracelet with diamond centre.

From Lady Augusta Stanley—A bracelet in imitation of Etruscan work, made at Torquay.

From the Ladies of Liverpool—A cross of clear green lace and fine brilliants, suspended from a row of pearls. (Mayer, Liverpool.)

From the Ladies of Manchester—An opal and brilliant bracelet, with small emeralds introduced; in the centre are five large opals, and sixteen opals in two bands. (Garrard and Co.)

From the Ladies of Leeds—A handsome diamond bracelet, contained in an elegant case, with a pair of earrings to correspond, diamonds. (Garrard and Co.)

From the Lady Mayoress of Dublin, and a number of ladies of Irish association of Dublin—A diamond fan mounted on ivory.

From the Duchess of Inverness—A gold bracelet with diamond centre.

From Lady Augusta Stanley—A bracelet in imitation of Etruscan work, made at Torquay.

From the Ladies of Liverpool—A cross of clear green lace and fine brilliants, suspended from a row of pearls. (Mayer, Liverpool.)

From the Ladies of Manchester—An opal and brilliant bracelet, with small emeralds introduced; in the centre are five large opals, and sixteen opals in two bands. (Garrard and Co.)

From the Ladies of Leeds—A handsome diamond bracelet, contained in an elegant case, with a pair of earrings to correspond, diamonds. (Garrard and Co.)

From the Ladies of Gravesend—A bouquet holder, ornamented with pink coral and pearls, and having the corporation arms on one side, and the arms of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales and of Denmark on the other. (Dent, Cornhill.)

From the Inhabitants of the two Islands of Lealand and Falster.—A gold suite, of Saxon design—diadem, armlet, brooch, hair pins, three buttons, a girdle clasp, &c. (Dahl, Copenhagen.)

From the Highland companies of the Edinburgh Rifle Volunteers—A Highland dress, with the arms of the Prince of Denmark surmounted by a crown and shield, with the arms of the Prince as Duke of Rothsay, and the Royal arms of Denmark in the centre, and the motto "Ich dien" and "Nemo me impune lacessit" in the centre, and the motto "Ich dien" and "Nemo me impune lacessit" in the centre. The brooch is furnished with Scotch pearls in the centre, and the whole is surmounted by a crown. Presented by the daughter of Councillor Cowan. From the Corps of the Dunstan, 1863. From Sergeant Major Cameron, R.S.A., executed by G. and M. Crighton.

From the Ladies of Edinburgh—A Bible and Prayer-book, the sides of the backs of ivory with turquoise cross in the centre.

The presents to the Prince of Wales were :—

From her Majesty the Queen, in the name of his Royal Highness the Prince Consort and the Queen from designs by his Royal Highness)—A targe in ivory, partially gilt, and studded with the blue Garter, and surmounting his infant son (born at Carnarvon Castle, April 25, 1284) to the Welsh chieftains. The figure is surmounted by a crown, and the shield bears the infant in her arms, two chieftains, one of whom kneels and kisses the infant's hand; the other stands. The shield's page bearing the Prince's feather, and a Knight. The base is rich in ornaments, and bears shields for arms, &c., supported by two Welsh chieftains. Beneath the base are shields of the following Princes of Wales, viz.:—Edward, afterwards Edward II.; Edward the Black Prince; Edward, afterwards Edward V.; Arthur, Prince of Wales; Arthur, son of Henry VII.; Charles, afterwards Charles I.; George Augustus, afterwards George II.; Frederick, Prince of Wales; and George IV., who was intended for flowers, is surmounted by a figure of St. David. (Hunt and Roskell.)

In the name of his Royal Highness the Prince Consort and the Queen—Two vases in silver-gilt, of Elizabethan design, one containing a figure of Britannia, the other by that of a Welsh bard. The handles are formed of the Prince's feathers, and the vases rest on the arms and supporters of his Royal Highness in relief. (Hunt and Roskell.)

From her Majesty the Queen—A candelabrum for seven lights of rich foliage ornament. On two sides of the base are the arms of her Royal Highness the Duchess of Kent, and on the other two sides the cipher and crown of her Royal Highness. Three large oval salvers with the cipher and crown of her Royal Highness engraved upon them, a new article of plate.

From the Duke of Buccleuch—A finely-chased silver-gilt and jewelled vase in the style of Holbein. On the body of the vase are the heads in high-relief of Holbein, Erasmus, Michael Angelo, and Raphael; from the cover rises an elegant scrollwork supporting a medallion, with the arms of his Royal Highness enamelled on both sides. This was manufactured for the International Exhibition, 1862. (Garrard and Co.)

From the Duke of Newcastle—A large silver inkstand, with richly-chased border and feet. (Garrard and Co.)

From the Dowager Duchess of Sutherland—A china service from Minton.

From the Duke of St. Albans—A very handsome massive paper-weight.

From Lieutenant-Colonel Stanley, V.C.—An antique casket-shaped inkstand of silver, richly ornamented with raised scrollwork in the style of Queen Anne. (Garrard and Co.)

From Lieutenant-Colonel Cavendish—An inkstand of Algerian onyx.

THE COURT.

THE Crown Prince and Princess and Prince William of Prussia left Windsor Castle on Friday morning, the 20th inst., for Osborne, to pay a visit to the Prince and Princess of Wales, and embarked the same evening in the Osborne for the Continent. Their Royal Highnesses arrived at Berlin on Tuesday night.

The Earl of Carlisle, Sir G. Lewis, and the Bishop of London arrived at Windsor on Saturday. Windsor and Eton Rifles marched to Sunday for War had audiences. Prince Louis was to Aldershott, witnessed the review of the troops by the Duke of Cambridge, and returned the same day.

The Queen, Princess Helena, Princess Louise, Prince Louis of Hesse and Prince Leopold attended Divine service on Sunday morning in the private chapel. The Bishop of London preached the sermon.

The Queen, accompanied by Princess Alphonse Princess Louise and attended by Lady Augusta Bruce, walked in the grounds on Monday morning. The Bishop of London and the Right Hon. Sir G. C. Lewis left the castle.

On Tuesday morning the Queen, accompanied by her Royal Highness Princess Louise, walked and drove in the grounds. Her Royal Highness Princess Beatrice took a carriage drive. Her Imperial Highness the Crown Princess of Prussia and Her Royal Highness Princess Louis of Hesse rode on horseback. Their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales arrived at Windsor Castle from Osborne, attended by Colonel the Hon. C. Grey, Major C. Morton, Lieutenant-General Knollys, and Lieutenant-Colonel Keppel. Her Majesty the Queen, with the Royal family and the Duchess of Brabant, attended by the ladies and gentlemen in waiting, received their Royal Highnesses, who arrived at ten minutes past two o'clock, in an open carriage, from the railway station.

The Queen, attended by Lady Augusta Bruce, walked and drove in the grounds on Wednesday morning. Their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, her Imperial Highness the Duchess of Brabant, and Princess Louise of Hesse, attended by the Lord Steward and Lieutenant-Colonel Keppel rode on horseback. The birthday of her Royal Highness Princess Louise, born in 1848, was celebrated with the ringing of merry peals from the castle bells and of the parish church of St. John, and the firing of a Royal salute in the Backhouse Area. The first birthday celebration has been kept since the day of rejoicing since the death of his Royal Highness the Prince Consort.

The Queen, accompanied by Her Royal Highness Princess Louise of Hesse, walked and drove in the Home Park on Thursday morning. Her Royal Highness Princess Beatrice took a carriage drive. Their Royal Highnesses Prince and Princess Christian, Prince Frederick, Prince William, Princess Dagmar Princess Thyra, and Prince Waldemar of Denmark, attended by Lieutenant-Colonel Byng, Lady Ely, Countess Reverlow, arrived from London at half-past eleven o'clock and left again in the afternoon.

THE MARRIAGE OF THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT

On Tuesday morning the newly-married Royal couple left Osborne, took the railway at Clarence Victualling-yard, Gosport — having declined to pass through Portsmouth, though willing to receive an address — and reached Windsor in a few hours afterwards. To receive an address at the pretty village of Mortimer, one of the stations, and a young lad presented a bouquet on the platform at Reading, at which the Princess received each in the most gracious manner. The crowd then cheered most heartily, the train continued its journey to Slough, and the lovely Princess manifested her enjoyment of happiness, her animated countenance winning the admiration of all the good people of Mortimer. The streets of Windsor were decorated with flags of all nations and various devices, and looked as gay as on the day of their departure for Osborne. There were the usual crowds about the Princess and his suite occupied only two open carriages. Her Royal Highness wore a purple velvet mantle, and white silk bonnet with bluish trim.

The Prince and Princess came to London yesterday (Friday), and were present in the evening at a Court reception held by command of the Queen at St. James's Palace.

THE DANISH ROYAL FAMILY.

Prince Christian and Prince Frederick of Denmark, Prince Frederick of Hesse-Cassel, and the Duke of Holstein-Glucksburg, gentlemen of their suite, and Lieutenant-Colonel Du Plat, went on Thursday week to Woolwich, where they were received by the Duke of Cambridge. The troops in garrison were paraded. The party lunched with the mess of the officers, and afterwards inspected the garrison. In the evening they honoured Earl and Countess Spencer with their company at dinner, at St. James's-place, and afterwards, with the Princess, attended a ball at Lord Stanley of Alderley's.

Their Royal Highnesses visited Westminster Abbey on Friday morning, and also the Houses of Parliament. In the afternoon they inspected the South Kensington Museum, and dined in the evening with the Duchess of Cambridge.

On Saturday the Princes visited Aldershott, witnessed some manœuvres, and lunched at the mess; the Princesses visited Kew-gardens. In the evening Lord Palmerston entertained Princes and Princess Christian and Prince Frederick at dinner, and Lady Palmerston in the assembly. Princess Mary of Cambridge, Princess Dagmar, Prince William of Denmark, and suite, attended the Olympic Theatre in the evening.

On Sunday afternoon their Royal Highnesses, with Princesses Dagmar and Thyra, and Princes William, Frederick, and Waldemar, attended Divine service in the Danish church in Compton-street. The church was filled by ladies and gentlemen, chiefly Danish residents in London, and their Royal Highnesses Princes and Princess Christian, and the Duchess of Inverness in the evening.

The Prince and Princess Christian visited the British Museum on Monday, subsequently dined at the Danish Minister's, when Prince Frederick of Hesse and the Duke of Holstein were also of the party, and afterwards went to a ball at Lord Stanley of Alderley's. Prince Christian also visited the House of Commons in the evening, in company with the Duke of Cambridge, and was for some time in the gallery.

Prince and Princess Christian received a deputation of Danes on Tuesday morning at the Palace Hotel, Buckingham Gate. The deputation was headed by the Danish Consul, and was introduced to the Royal Highnesses by Mr. Shoubridge, the late Danish Minister. Princess Christian, with other members of the Danish Royal family, partook of a déjeuner with the Duke of Holstein-Glucksburg, honoured the Duke and Duchess of Wellington with their company at dinner in the evening at Apsley House. A royal salute was fired to the relations of the noble Duke and Duchess, had the honour to meet the Royal party after dinner.

Princess Thyra, with Princess Thyra, on Wednesday morning viewed the flower show in the Horticultural Gardens, South Kensington, where she was met by the Duchess of Cambridge and Princess Mary (attended by Colonel Home Purvis). The Royal party inspected the International Exhibition Building and also the South Kensington Museum. Princess Christian, with Princess Thyra, afterwards paid a visit to the Duchess of Inverness, at her residence in Kensington Gardens. Prince and Princess Christian and Prince Frederick of Denmark honoured the Marquis and Marchioness of Ailesbury with their company at dinner on Wednesday evening at their residence in Full-mall. Prince Frederick of Hesse-Cassel and the Duke of Holstein-Glucksburg, attended by Lieutenant-Colonel Du Plat, went on Wednesday to Hampton Court Palace. In the evening their Royal and Serene Highnesses honoured with their presence the performance at the Lyceum Theatre.

The Bishop of Chester intends to hold an Ordination at Chester, as usual, on Trinity Sunday, the 31st of May.

Letters from Upper Canada state that an oil well, which some time since ceased to flow, has again commenced spouting, and now yields from 300 to 400 barrels a day. A large quantity of oil is also being taken from the different wells by pumping; so there is no fear of any present failure of the supply. The inhabitants of the oil districts are about to sink wells in forward "out well," in order to ascertain what quantity may be expected to flow from a greater depth than yet reached. It is intended to sink the "Enniskillen" 1000 feet, so hope of the present wells exceed 300 feet in depth.

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

IT seems as though it had occurred a hundred years ago, and yet it was only the day before yesterday, or Tuesday week, if exactitude be insisted upon. It is the event of the week. It has become a think of the past. It remains a day to be marked in future calendars with the whitest of stones; but this generation will see no parallel again. Garter King-at-Arms has put by his tabard, his crown and sceptre. The robemakers have folded up the brave panoply of the Knights of the Garter. Crowds of sightseers have been wandering through the central hall, the saloons, and boudoirs of the temporary building in the enclosure at Windsor, and for long they will vanish like visions of the night season. The bridecake has been cut up and dispersed, and the Prince and Princess of Wales, from here, have left Osborne and returned to Windsor.

Everything, then, has assumed its ordinary, workday aspect. The chimney-sweeps have been released from the unwonted relief of forty old members who don't care for marriages, and who complained that they could not find the crowned heads at the upper windows. The tiers of seats which were above almost every arcading in the line of route, have disappeared. The flags and streamers, the Chinese lanterns, the festoons and garlands, and scarlet draperies, have all been put by, and the "Temple Bar Grand Stand" has resumed its normal position of a mere passage. The Fleet-street and Temple Bar trade has been stripped of its gorgeous decoration, and the hardworks, no longer covered with cerulean and blush-rose bonnets, revert to their peaceful and unconscious occupants.

The joybells, with one curious exception, have ceased their merry peals. The exception is to be found in Trafalgar-square. The portico of the National Gallery was covered on the night of the Illumination with a gigantic iron shield, bedecked with a sumptuous series of devices in gas, the effect of which was heightened by thousands of gaudily-pendant lustres of cut glass. The centre of the lozenge of illumination was ringed by these crystal drops. They have not been removed as we write; and, in passing through Trafalgar-square, on Monday last, we were startled by the sweetest and most clearsome music imaginable on the long lines of the vocal organ.

Our able and thoughtful contemporary the Spectator has been indulging in some polite sarcasm as to what it calls the "hysteria of the Illumination" with a gigantic "H." It has been struck by the special correspondents of the daily newspapers. An unlucky wight — "created writing" in these columns — has, and, moreover, the accumulation of daily journalism for the past week lies before us, and, in fact, not only to-morrow's, but to-day's will not cover in style and diction for his avoidance.

Let us consider the "hysteria of a "thoughtful essay" writer with the lot of one of the "practised penmen" — the poor "ready writers" who are bound to keep the public posted up in the proceedings transacted in the City, in the courts, in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, there were on Tuesday last about a dozen gentlemen who had to "write" the Illumination, not because they were "sensation writers," but because they happened to possess long experience, and great capacity for labour and promptness. These gentlemen were provided with pretty generously tested before the day was over. This round dozen of gentlemen did not retire to bed, but, in the Strand, were supplied with coffee, and their hair down the middle — who lounge in embroidered dressing-gowns, and write, with gold pens and enamelled inkstands, upon velvet-covered desks, and who, by the midnight train, on Monday night, begin clothes-brushing for the reporters' gallery on the arrival of instructions to. They get to bed, say at two a.m. on Tuesday. They were up again at eight. By nine they were at the south door of the Abbey, and were there. Before nine o'clock. From ten till half-past one they were rushing backwards and forwards from the Abbey to Paddington, and from the Abbey to Buckingham Palace, noting down the preliminaries, the episodes of the processions, and the actual ceremony (only as seen from the north door of the Abbey), the arrival of a troop of Knights of the Garter and foreign Ambassadors out of St. George's Chapel, and to drive between golden carriages — the Queen's and Princess Alexandra's — and the Prince and Princess, and perhaps imagined them to be picknicketts. They dashed across the stately park, and through Hyde Park and Kensington Gardens, through the crowd, and leapt over the barriers and chains which intersected the streets of Windsor to the South-Western Railway Station, and were off to London, where they provided a special train. The special correspondents were at their desks in London and the actual ceremony of marriage was over. They had seen, heard, wrote and wrote without surcease and without intermission, without dinner, tea, or supper. It was impossible for one to compose at the same ship sat hung to the printer — to say nothing of the correction of proofs; and the British public who breakfasted at eight were enabled to read the entire ceremony from A to Z in the very same type written by one single hand, in each morning newspaper. When it is borne in mind that the Times, the Daily News, the Morning Post, and to denounce a report as tame and flat if anything like a tendency to enumerate expletives in phraseology is manifest, the "hysteria of reporters" may well think of composing whatever wealth of words is at their command, including even such terms as "orphy-organ" and "Gothic-ogive," and then, in the composition of a little elegant malevolence at the hands of their brethren who have had a whole week to write their "thoughtful essays."

The philosophical writers may object that there is no necessity for the performance of such a feat of high-pressure journalism, which is, after all, but a matter of curiosity, and which can be left to amusement on the part of the public. We answer, there is the public — and the public's curiosity — to be satisfied. The public will not and he craves for, he devours news. Incontinent. Doubtless it would be a capital thing for the literature of a week written in style that should be lofty and not inflated, graphic and not sensational. But how many years of study and preparation would be needed, if you please, for the Addisons and Macaulays of the day? Addison and, again, should there not have been in the organ-loft gallery on the 19th inst. a writer in the place of the learned Dr. Crotch, who, unlimited, at a select band of worthies answering to the names of Macaulay, Prescott, Prescott, Grote, Kinglake, and John Stuart Mill?

Perhaps Mr. Matthew Arnold, or Mr. Russell Lowell, or Mr. Russell will be able to satisfy the hypercritics. He has been persuaded by a friend, who has been in the neighbourhood of the Abbey during the wedding festivities — landing, entry, procession, marriage, and déjeuner — to undertake a connected description of the whole for George Thomas. The conjunction of the "pen" and "pencil" of martial achievements par excellence is most favourable, and, we doubt not, will be as successful as the dulia union of a great pageant of happiness and peace.

The poet laureate, it appears, was not present at the marriage ceremony, although the day before Mr. Tennyson had, characteristically enough, sent up a considerate telegraph to his betrothed Queen, to convey welcome to the "Sea-Kings' Daughter." There has been no very plentiful store of poetry produced on the occasion, and very little of it deserves the name of poetry. Some of the Court Circular has been heard, mellifluous and inoffensive, as of yore; but the sage has, it would appear, abandoned the study of the Book of Proverbs for that of the Tutor's Assistant; and his greeting to Princess Alexandra was so arithmetical as to induce an opinion that Dr. Colenso had had some share in its composition. Our philosophical contemporary already mentioned comes out with some lines on the marriage, which are in themselves curious commentaries on its strictures upon those of the writing. The Princess is spoken of as coming "across the favourable foam," when her Royal Highness notoriously arrived in the Downs in a gale of wind; and the streets are said to have been draped with the "banners of the brave" — a hyperbolical expression, we presume, for the inordinate display of bunting floating from the shop windows, or borne by the ridiculous old retainers of the City companies.

The melancholy accidents on the night of Tuesday, leading to the death of eight persons and the serious injury of thirty or forty more, have awakened, as we were sure they would, the kindly and commiserating sympathy of her Majesty the Queen and of the Prince of Wales. Enquiries have been made into the condition of the families of the sufferers, and their necessities will be promptly and generously relieved. It is impossible to avoid the conclusion that "some one has blundered" in the police arrangements, especially in the city of London, certainly, or rather one accident, and one only, at Temple Bar's entry and on the night of the wedding; but it would be unjust, we think, to seek to make the City responsible for the fatal accidents which occurred during the illumination. There were over a million people about, and the tortuous and narrow streets east of Temple Bar, where all the fatal accidents occurred, are of insufficient things can be ensured) most of all to blame.

The City police is said to have broken down throughout, and there is an outcry for abol shing the separate jurisdiction of the Corporation, and amalgamating the whole force, under the command of Sir Richard Mayne. Certainly, let us have one undivided police with one administration, one central office, and one code of rules and regulations. Only, whether the Government's paramount voice in the direction of the force, would it not be best to provide a few constitutional checks, by adding two or three Commissioners, representing the municipal interests of London and Westminster, to the power already existing.

MUSIC.

During the engrossing excitement caused by the rejoicings and festivities on account of the Royal nuptials music, unless it was connected with those festivities, received less than the degree of attention it usually obtains; and it is to be feared that the musical entertainments of this week have suffered somewhat from the reaction which naturally follows extraordinary excitement. This week in the series, the case with the Popular Concert of Monday last, which also suffered from the non-appearance of Mdme. Arabella Goddard, who was labouring under severe indisposition. The concert of the Vocal Association (the first of the season), on Tuesday evening, was thinly attended, but was one of considerable musical attraction, inasmuch a new cantata, composed by Mr. Allen, entitled "Harvest Home," a work of considerable merit, which we shall have occasion to notice more fully.

On Tuesday evening Mrs. HOLMAN ANDREWS gave her first soirée of the season at her residence in Portman-square. The rooms were filled by a numerous and distinguished assemblage, and the musical entertainment presented to them was elegant and recherché. Spohr's grand sextet in C major, Op. 140. Thus set great, if not very effectively performed, the choral portions being given with precision and power. Handel's pathetic aria "Ombra mai fu," Despar and deeper still," and air, "Waft her, angels, through the skies," were sung by Mr. Benson with great taste and feeling. Several fine airs, part-songs, and concerted pieces were also given by Mdme. Andrews, Mdlle. Mori, Mr. Benson, Mr. Allen Irving, and others, took part; and all the performances were loudly applauded by the fashionable audience.

The Royal English Opera, Covent Garden, closes this evening, (Saturday) when Miss Louisa Pyne takes her benefit. She has chosen "Le Domino Noir," the delightful opera of Auber, and a comic style; and, doubtless, the attraction of this opera, added to the high degree of public favour enjoyed by the fair beneficiare, will fill the house to overflowing.

Mr. Mapleson, the lessee of her Majesty's Theatre, has put forth his prospectus for the season, which is, in many way somewhat meagre; but its essential points may be given in a few words. Mr. Mapleson's company will be exceedingly strong, comprising not only the principal singers — Mdme. Patti, Mdme. Lucca, Alboni, Trebelli, &c.—but several important additions, among whom is the American prima donna, Miss Kellogg, and conductors Mr. Sanlley, are the most remarkable. The operas performed during the season will include the principal pieces belonging to the repertoire of the theatre, besides several interesting novelties and revivals. The novelties will be Gounod's "Faust" and an opera by Signor Sobra, the revivals will be "Don Giovanni," "Figaro," "Lucrezia Borgia," and "Oberon." The orchestra and chorus will be increased in strength and efficiency, and Mr. Costa will continue to preside over the musical director. The theatre is to open on the 11th of April with the "Trovatore," in which Titiens, Guglini, Alboni, and Delle Sedie will appear. No prospectus of the Italian Opera season at Drury Lane has been issued by Mr. Gye.

A young singer is daily expected here, who, if we may believe what is said of her, will probably cause a sensation. This is Mdlle. Carlotta Patti, the younger sister of Adelina, who is now on her voyage from New York to this market of music. She was in a short time after her sister appeared at Covent Garden, and the New York journals are unanimous in declaring that she is a wonderful child. Her voice is said to be one of the highest and most brilliant sopranos ever heard, her execution as extraordinary, and her style as thoroughly Italian. She will probably appear early in the season at one of our Italian theatres.

THE THEATRES.

DRURY LANE.—Theatrical business has been dull for the last two weeks, and it has been impossible for any manager of the house to contemplate a change of performance. The previous excitement has led to a natural reaction, and the public seem disposed to rest after the labours and fatigues of sightseeing; so that, in all probability, little will be done until the arrival of the Easter season. Mr. Falconer has found it expedient to withdraw the play of "Roman Law," for the one act that presents the gathering of the clans, and to fill up the remainder of the evening by the reproduction of his capital comedy of "Extremes," in which Mr. Lorsine very effectively sustains the part of Hawthorn. The play is very carefully placed on the stage, and interests the audience by its unexceptionable moral, life, and commands frequent applause.

NEW ADELPHI.—On Wednesday another version of "Aurora Floyd" was produced at this theatre, consisting of a prologue and three acts It has been produced under the superintendence of Mr. Benjamin Webster, and is filled with actors with strong parts. It is one of the most extraordinary and extensive combinations ever acted, and forms, altogether, a regular "Adelphi drama, with Adelphi effects." It is, however, so elaborate, so full of minute detail, so burdened with action, and so prolonged in development, that a description of its contents is literally impossible. The whole story is there, but where it is altered; here there is a combination of one or more elements, and there the character of the whole is changed from tragic to comic, in its integrity or its modifications, to compare it with Miss Braddon's novel were an attempt to describe a panorama by the aid of the Thames Archway. The part of the heroine was carefully filled with opportunities for effective acting; and the final tableau, in which Softy endeavours to murder the lady who has courageously taken on herself his capture, gave to Miss Avonia Jones a crowning incident, which she appropriated with distinguished success The drama, however, occupies four hours and a half in performance, and requires much abridgment. The curtain fell to unanimous approbation.

Mr. Boxall and Mr. Weekes have been elected Royal Academicians. Mr. Le Jeune has been elected an Associate.

A War Office notice states that classes for musketry instruction of rifle volunteers will be formed at Hythe and Fleetwood on the 7th of April.

THE ROYAL PROCESSION AT THE GRAND ARCH, LONDON BRIDGE.

AND ARCH, LONDON BRIDGE.

SKETCHES IN PARLIAMENT.

If one considers the present Parliament from the Seneca ait point of view, one cannot but be struck with its speed of decay. It seems to be much in the condition of a property which is held on a lease for lives, of which the last only is extant. In the Lords, the Earl of Derby alone seems to keep the House from lapsing; while Lord Palmerston occupies the position in the Commons. After him—whom and what, is becoming a very decided question. No real leaders are in reserve, and the rising statesmen are nowhere. It happens that Lord Derby has been almost for nearly two years his Indignation; and no one thinks of making those spasmodic attempts to get up a party on the Opposition benches as would at once show which alone mark vitality in the Lords, and brief sittings of three-quarters of an hour, in the first quarter of which nobody is there, have become the order of the day. Lord Stratheden has kept a motion, which involves a declaration of opinion by Minister on the question between North and South in America, simmering before the House for a fortnight, but has not been able to bring it on, the last obstacle being a mere of the Government's time to get a Bill through Committee; and this is a specimen of the way of doing "business" in the Lords. In the Commons, twice within the last few days, the Government Members have formally appointed for particular days, and have duly come on; but the debates halted and stumbled and with difficulty were prolonged to a little after ten; while such is the state of the notice-paper that the House decorously and soberly goes to bed from office-work. No doubt the Government Whitebaiting have also in, when Church and State, protection and primogeniture have been upheld, and dashes at dissent have been made with fastidious vigour. Mr. Bentinck, Sir Hedworth Pole, and Sir John Tyrrell have duly invested with their Parliamentary matyrdom. But even these are brief encounters, and the sound of fight is far off, and the combatants on full about half-hour fuse, instead of rattling fiercely until such time before an office for a morning. In short, the state of the House upon days of Parliamentary negation, for aught that interests or excites, at least with any continuity, the business of the Session might be carried on by the Government and Opposition Whips outside the table.

By Rigour the intervention some features may be detected in the proceedings of the Lower House. At one time, in the last week or so, there were hopes that Mr. Hennessy might have got up a sensation about the state of the prisons; policemen had been seen to come and go from sessions attains committees sitting on permanence in small hostelries in Westminster; and Mr. Layard did his best to get a word to said Russia in opposing the Polish. But somehow the House Secretary contrived to show that a social inquisition was not relevant in the presence of the two great subjects in the metropolitan police who were lost to the Grand Duke Constantine to teach the authorities in Western Europe that they had no superiority to the Czar in a sound hate, and carrying carefully concealed truncheons never to be used but in self-defence have been rendered powerless by the arrow them by maltreatment, instead of by truculent Cossacks with fur-caps, knives, and sabres. Then there came, one fated evening, Mr. Lindsay with a small wooden ships he had built in pursuance of an arrangement with the Premier, who had promised that if the model should be fully developed when the information had been afforded to the House by the Admiralty. Accordingly it was produced, and at the close of the speech-making assailants of naval administration got excellent arguments against the Government, and a debate ensued, in which almost every one explained how Government ought to have done what Captain Fagot could himself as a sea-Scarlet, in insinuating a case for a version. On one came by his lady, and as he had not been long observed to speak earnestly to Sir Francis Baring, who at first held up his hands with a gesture of denial, but who afterwards consented to act as a witness to the transaction made his way to the table, where, who, save the mace, absolutely snatched the debate from lapsing about eight o'clock. But Sir Francis Baring did not succeed in his helplessness to form an opinion, and advised everybody to trust to the Government. The House was at that moment in a very good temper, and given a small gentleman expanding to the dimensions of a Lord High Admiral. Taking up a book, out of which he appeared to be steadily scowling loud, and so scolded that he brought up Mr. Henley, with a face of the sea-pap, cynical style of criticism, was quite solemn. All through the night Mr. Lindsay was present, and if he had been there he might have found opportunity for a blushing acknowledgment. As it was the debate was left to Ministers, and evening had nearly died out could not be kept up any longer, although it was only about a quarter past twelve when Lord Palmerston, Mr. Bouverie rose to occupy the time until men who expected to vote about twelve were employed in. Mr. Brand, coming in when he was quite ready to be the accommodating gentleman, was good at making a sad muse of it, and Mr. Bouverie, not even pretending to finish the evening with anything, dropped into the last debate of the division, which utterly baled the argument of the discussion, was pronounced in favour of the Government, and members left at 1 o'clock without having heard a word of the debate went home the most satisfied of all that they had done their duty.

The debate on Thursday night may have witnessed a prologue to the business, if there is any business, on one evening of the past week, must have had the dance of the dignity of a Lord Mayor of London most fearfully outraged. For it is not to be supposed that the great civic functionary, whom French romance-writers place above the highest of the land, can perhaps quite assent to Lord Derby and Lord—, was simply chaffed by a laughing and jocular House when he essayed a defence of the City police and their conduct on the Lord Mayor's day on the 9th inst. Mr. Rose made a very fair fight for it; but, like some of his people, he was not aided by the City police, he was rather mobbed and hustled, and might have been pitched out of the House had not locked at any justification of the corporate proceedings which involved an angry imputation of blame. Lord Alfred Paget did the City good service in the discussion by putting it in its business in a droll light, and Mr. Layard was rollicking speech; while the most damage to the Corporation was done by the turgid solemnity of speech of one of their own body, who, with perverse ingenuity, contrived to attack every point of every sentence that he uttered a series of words which are generally subjected to a severe criticism in the newspapers. Indeed, the separate tendency of which was admirably represented on this occasion. By-the-by, when Lord Elcho, Aldermanic pro tem of the City for the volunteers, indicted the metropolitan police, one of the stoutest standard, best tempered, and most sententious speakers in the House was transformed, or translated, as Golding Bird, into a fiery dragon, and startled members shrunk before Lord Hotham rushing into a passionate defence of the tradesmen of the Borough. It was unquestionably this was the most interesting debate of the Session, and more blood was shown than even on that next best discussion, which flamed into revenge of Poland.

Of a surely its attractions outstripped those of that which, looking to the business of preparation which preceded it, was intended to be a great Greek debate. The phrase called up recollections of a Parliamentary display when every member smelled to gigantic proportions; and there was much more than this old Monday night swindle to a battle of pigmies. There was a choice audience, for in the midst of a week which opened nearly to the end of the first dramatic gallery over the clock, sat Prince Christian of Denmark, supported, as of course became him by the Duke of Cambridge; and the Lords hung up, the Peers poured into the House, and the side gallery in considerable numbers. The Commons members being in the secret of the conspicuous absence of Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Cochrane rose to a contemptuously thin house. Alas! for the effect on the Danish mind which was to take in a due sense of the grand moral influence of the Parliament of England! When the mover had got up, with a touch of hoarseness, all his neat little epigrammatic sentences, through which ran a thin current of humour of about the strength and effervescence of mixed milk and soda-water, up rose a gentleman who has made some good speeches—or rather parts of speeches, for he has not yet learned the art of knowing when to conclude with effect—and for one martial hour held his own reputation, and showed that a gentleman who can be pointed at times can be wholly pluteibudous at others. Could it have been a whisper which was about the House that a Servian Princess was in the ladies' gallery, that caused Mr. Gregory to speak badly and inefficiently, as the ends of a discussion on Greek affairs, a great part of the speech which he might have been expected to deliver well some weeks hence on the affairs of Turkey. Cortes, he pitched his tone high in favour of the Christian subjects of the Porte; and it he was duly interpreted in the gilded lurking-place of the latter sex, no doubt his speech, which for some time as he sat down, the Danish Princes, who had sunk into attitudes of fatigue, exhausted by the efforts to catch the grand moral of Cochrane's speech, and by the Government Whips, who, as the first tones of Mr. Monckton Milnes fell upon their ears, with a simultaneous movement as they sprang to their feet, many, as the old stage directions would say, dispersedly. Saved from extinction at an early hour by the Lord Advocate's graceful appreciation of the salvation of the debate from a state of fatuity. To him succeeded, with a few well-timed words, Mr. Charles Fitzroy, whose few occasions has exhibited a dry humour, a caustic wit, and a comicality of expression, verbal and facial, which are intensely amusing. Flat down into the middle of the debate; and, provided with a hopeless glance to see why no one rose, Lord Palmerston was obliged to intervene, and, in a long hour and a half, to explain the Government the policy of the Government a good wigging. In lead, he laid on so much of the Lord Mayor's side as to be almost on the castigated, which only encouraged him to assert more deeply and confidently; for his speech was nothing but assertion. All this time Mr. Disraeli had sat on the cross-bench, with the cunning stare of Memnon in his eyes, and Lord Palmerston had so palpably laid himself open to attack that Mr. Disraeli, with a few quiet thrusts from the leader of the Opposition. But he made no sign, and Mr. Seymour Fitzgerald rushed boldly into the fray. Then have to the Government, and Mr. Layard and the Foreign Office and measure himself with Lord Palmerston on a question of foreign policy; but Mr. Layard did his work admirably, and was the more so because he was as brief as he was pointed and emphatic. And so did away, of unfortune decay, even after ten o'clock, a fierce debate which was to have been, but somehow could not be made, great.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—MONDAY.

A bill to amend the Leases and Sales of Settled Estates Act, introduced by the Lord Chancellor, was read a first time.

The Crown Suits (Ireland) Bill, the Customs Bill and the Salmon Fisheries Bill were read a second time.

The Mail Bill was read a third time and passed.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY.

Prince Christian of Denmark, with his son, and the Duke of Cambridge, were in the Ladies' Gallery during part of the evening.

A new writ was ordered to issue for the election of a member for North Lincolnshire, in the room of the Marquis of Harrington, who has accepted the office of a Lord of the Admiralty.

The Customs Duties (Wines) Bill (£4,000,000 Bill), the Land Revenue Act Amendment (Scotland) Bill, and the Metropolis Turnpike Roads Act Amendment Bill were read a second time.

The Hares (Ireland) Bill passed through Committee.

Sir Percy Herbert moved for a Select Committee to inquire into the Volunteer Act Amendment (Scotland) Bill, and the Metropolis Turnpike Roads Act Amendment Bill were read a second time.

The Hares (Ireland) Bill passed through Committee.

Sir Percy Herbert moved for a Select Committee to inquire into the Volunteer Act Amendment (Scotland) Bill, and the Metropolis Turnpike Roads Act Amendment Bill were read a second time.

Colonel Sykes moved an address to the Crown, praying that the stoppage from the pay of cavalry and horse artillery officers for forage be discontinued.—Mr. C. C. Lewis opposed the motion, which was negatived by a majority of 120, and to the army estimates. On a division the motion was lost by 197 to 75.

THE ARMY ESTIMATES.

The House then went into Committee upon the Army Estimates.

On the vote of £616,437 for barrack establishments, services, and supplies, a conversation took place upon the subject of the sanitary state of barracks and other expenses to which private soldiers are subject. After a few words from Mr. H. Peto, the vote was agreed to, as was also a vote of £50,000.

The vote of £46,097 for the purpose of Divine service was also agreed to.

On the vote of £1,000,000 for the accommodation of troops, Lord Hartington gave a short discussion ensued, and the vote was ultimately agreed to.

The vote of £1,000,000 for the accommodation of troops, services, and supplies was agreed to.

The vote of £2,000,000 for militia, £751,484, was agreed to, as was also a vote of £384,162 for the yeomanry.

The Chairman then reported progress.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—TUESDAY.

The bill, continuing the Union Relief Act Act for six months beyond the time fixed thereby, was read a third time and passed.

A short conversation took place in reference to the gunpowder stored in Edinburgh Castle and the precautions adopted by the Lord Lieutenant.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—TUESDAY.

Mr. Somes obtained leave to bring in a bill for the closing of public-houses on Sunday.—Mr. Locke King moved for returns relative to the number of persons who, in the year 1862, were interred or depositing the assessed as it stands in its future stages; and Mr. Bouverie said that, in the event of the being read a second time, he should not oppose it, but he should move a clause extending the prohibition to clubs.

Mr. W. H. Smith moved for a Select Committee to inquire into the operation of the game laws. The motion was seconded by Lord Enfield, but opposed by Mr. H. S. Northcote, who moved that the debate be adjourned. Ultimately a Committee be postponed until further experience shall have been obtained of the working of the Act.—Mr. Bouverie moved for a Select Committee to inquire into the Savings-bank Bill was read a third time and passed.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—WEDNESDAY.

The Consolidated Fund (£10,000,000) Bill was read a second time and passed.

The Diseases Prevention (Metropolis) Bill.—Mr. Brady moved the second reading of this bill, the object of which was to prevent unnecessary persons suffering from infectious diseases in street cabs, by enabling parochial authorities to compel the owners of such cabs to provide them with receptacles for the bill, as it was compulsory and not permissive, and could not be made to work. He moved the second reading.—Mr. D. Pulteney supported the bill.—Mr. Bentley said that a permissive Act, which would have the effect of compelling the owners of cabs to provide them, was a mockery. He thought that some information should be afforded as to whether that Act had been generally adopted. As stringent penalties were imposed by the bill, there ought to be a better definition of that for which persons were made liable to penalties.—Mr. Ayrton said that the bill ought to be sent at once to Committee as to be made operative. He was in communication with the commissioner of police on the subject, and was prepared to say that he would provide means for conveying sick persons at the police-stations.—The motion for the second reading was withdrawn, and the bill postponed till May 29.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—THURSDAY.

The Salmon Expiration Bill passed through Committee.

The Union Relief Act Act (1863) Continuance Bill was read a third time and passed.

Lords Dalhousie, Taunton, and Overstone urged the amalgamation of the "Metropolitan and City police" forces;" but Lord Granville said he could make no promise on the part of the Government with reference to the subject, as the incidents of the 9th and 10th last. were in course of investigation. The Prince of Denmark and the Duke of Cambridge had been present on Tuesday to assist the City authorities in maintaining order, but that officer was declined.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY.

Mr. Layard, in reply to a question, stated that, since the outbreak of the civil war, the correspondence between the Governments of England and the United States relative to the island of San Juan had been suspended.

The Vaccination (Ireland) Bill, the Local Government Act Amendment Bill, and the Judgments (Ireland) Bill were read a first time.

The Marine Mutiny Bill and the Indemnity Bill were read a second time.

The Hares (Ireland) Bill was read a third time and passed.

The Tobacco Duties Bill, amended in several important respects, passed through Committee.—Mr. Hennessy withdrew a motion for a Select Committee to have the measure entrusted to a Select Committee; as also did the Mutiny Bill and the Customs Consolidation Act Amendment Bill.

The House went into Committee on the Currency Practices at Elections Bill, renewing progress on which they did at Mr. Heath's discussion and amendments, so some clauses were added to the bill.

COUNTRY NEWS.

The Prince Consort Memorial statue for Cambridge a to be executed in marble.

Mr. Spooner, M.P. for North Warwickshire, does not intend to offer himself again as a candidate for the representation of that county.

Viscountess Gort died at St. Helier's, the residence of Field Marshal Lord Gough, near Dublin, on Sunday last.

The Marquis of Ailesbury has been appointed Lord Lieutenant of the county of Wilts, in the room of the late Marquis of Lansdowne.

The Annual Meeting of the Yorkshire Fruit Rifle Association will take place at Hornsea, York, on the 3rd, 4th, and 6th of August next.

The steeple of a new church building at East Acton, which had been raised to a height of 90 ft., fell on Sunday morning.

Portsmouth.—At midnight an explosion took place on Messrs. Curtis and Harvey's premises at Fort Cumberland, by which three mills were destroyed. No person was injured.

F. D. Maurice, M.A., has intimated his intention to the National Life-boat Institution to present to it 250 guineas to enable it to provide a new life-boat for Hastings.

The Board of Trade has under consideration applications for provisional orders allowing the construction of piers at Llandudno, Blackpool, Hoyl, Hunstanton, Bournemouth, and Bray.

The honour of erecting the first trophy to Princess Alexandra's visit to Ireland is Wexford. In the centre of the Bull at Bridge, York, it was intended to have put an angel's head as a decoration, but that of the Lord Mayor was substituted in the place of the angel's head.

The handsome bronze statue erected by the citizens of Londonderry to commemorate the public services of the late Sir Robert A. Ferguson, M.P., was unveiled on the 5th inst. A brook in the vicinity has become of the inhabitants. The Bishop of Derry officiated.

Mr. Jas. Hutchinson, who was sold by Mr. Whitbread at Barnaston Farm, near Derby, on Tuesday last. The ten bulls averaged about 19 gs., and the 17 heifers 14 gs. each. The sale realised £1,000, and through Mr. Whitbread) gave the highest price (62 gs.) for Wheeler 2nd from the stock of Mr. Bamford, and Samuel Smith, Stanton-by-Dale, 4th (36 gs.) as well.

At the village of Hucknall, in Notts, on the occasion of the marriage of the Prince of Wales, a committee of working men solicited subscriptions among the inhabitants, and obtained sufficient to purchase comfortable materials to fight a huge fire on the village green, at which they roasted about two oxen and a number of sheep, with a proportionate quantity of cooked potatoes, were distributed to the poor of the place.

Much interest was excited at Aldridge on Tuesday by the trial of Mr. Henry Aldridge, an officer in the 44th Regiment, for forging and uttering an order for the payment of £15 with intent to defraud. The prisoner was accommodated with bail, himself in £100 and two in £50 each. It is believed "the prisoner was the person who presented the cheque. There was evidence for the defence to show that the order for the payment was acquitted, could there in court.

Mr. Thomas Stephenson, the well-known engineer, presented £500 to the town of West Cowes on the occasion of the marriage of the Prince of Wales, to be given to the "boy who shall be the longest liver." In that charming locality; £140 to be invested by the authorities of the town, the interest thereof to be expended in the purchase of "Prizes" ranging in regular the seats on the "Green," and the balance of £20 in providing the festivities post meridian, which will commence with a substantial tea.

An action for breach of promise of marriage was concluded last Saturday at the Galway Assizes. The plaintiff, Miss Lucy Evans, is the daughter of a gentleman residing near Bandon, and defendant, Mr. Wallace Fleming, is Rector of Ballymeswel, in the county of Galway. The case was brought on at the instance of Mr. Blake, Q.C., on the several letters which had passed between the parties, on which he relied as showing that the defendant, after having made love to the plaintiff, her father, sister, and uncle of the lady were examined, and proved that the defendant had engaged and paid for the wedding dress, and that he alleged impediments prevented him from fulfilling his engagement, and also that the plaintiff had refused him before the time fixed for the wedding. The counsel for the plaintiff of the defendant, his Lordship charged the jury, who found for the plaintiff, with £500 damages and costs.

In Ireland the Royal marriage was for the most part celebrated with due festivity. Dublin was illuminated in the usual style—the Roman Catholic University was in darkness. The authorities had taken the precaution to have the Act of the riots read, and determined most conscientiously that there should be no illumination. Some rioting occurred in the evening, and a number of the ringleaders of those charged with the more serious offences have been committed for trial, but nothing serious has occurred. One of the most important disposal of the offenders were sentenced from one to two months' imprisonment, without the option of a fine. In Cork, and where other peaceful rejoicings passed, they ranged from £1 to £5.—In Cork some serious rioting took place on the night of the illuminations. A mob assembled in great strength and marched through the north part of the city on Tuesday night, but were dispersed by a strong police force. On Wednesday night the same mob marched through the city itself, breaking glass in several instances, and attacking the police, who charged them. Several arrests followed, a bodies of cavalry, infantry, and armed police prevented any alarming outbreak.

We learn by a telegram from Constantinople that the Sultan intends to make a journey to Egypt, accompanied by Fuad Pasha.

The Archbishop of York, the Bishop of Durham, and the Bishop Elect of Manchester have arrived in their dioceses for the Synodal Ordination on Sunday, the 30th of September next, at York, Auckland Castle, and Ripon respectively.

TITLES OF THE KING OF BURMAH.—For the information of those curious in such matters, we unspeak a translation of the titles of the King of Burmah:—"His most magnificent and excellent Majesty Lord of all the Tributaries, King of Elephants, Master of many white Elephants, and Proprietor of Mines of Rubies, Sovereign of Land of Gold, Lord of the Land of Sovereign of the Empires of Tampadiba and Thunaparanta, Sole Arbiter of Life and Death, Lord of the Umbrella-wearing Chiefs, Supporter of the Religion, Sole Monarch, Unrivalled, Lord of Justice, Arbiter of Righteousness, who bears the honorary name (in Pali) of the Illustrious in the Three worlds, Lord of the Earth, Possessor of boundless dominion and supreme wisdom, and great King of Righteousness."

On the morning of Friday, the 6th inst., the Trinity yacht Vestal, with the Elder Brethren of the Trinity House on board, entertained party, steamed down the river to greet her Royal Highness Princess Alexandra. The Royal Yacht, a Federal vessel, having been from Bordeaux to New York, which had been learned on the 21st ult. by Captain Semmes, together with a very large ship bound from California to Queenstand. The ship Oil Blas parted from the Alabama on the 23rd ult. in latitude 31 deg. N. and longitude 40 deg. W., and on the same evening the light of a fire was seen from the Oil Blas. The master of a Dutch ship which has arrived at Rotterdam has likewise reported that he had seen two vessels on fire, and that near one of them was a steamer answering the description of the Alabama. One of these two vessels was a large ship, and the other a brig. The latter was picked up by the Dutch captain, supposed to be the Golden Eagle, of New York.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

On Tuesday night a large number of persons assembled at Blackheath to witness a splendid pyrotechnic display in celebration of the marriage of the Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. A volunteer band was in attendance, and the proceedings were under the patronage of his Royal Highness Prince Alfred, who, with other distinguished visitors, was present.

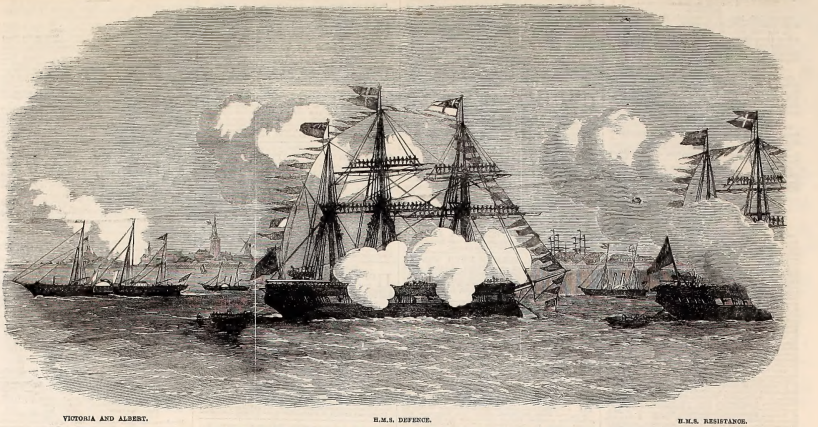
The Court of Common Council, according an alternative proposition which is to have been made to them by Mr. Cowper, the Civil Commissioner of Works, have passed a resolution to the effect that the Corporation is willing to construct the new bridge from the northern embankment of the Thames to the Mansion House, and to appropriate the 4s. coal duty to that purpose in the first instance.

The anniversary festival of the City of London Hospital for Diseases of the Chest was celebrated on Wednesday at the London Tavern. The hospital, which is in the City-road, is one of great benefit, not only to the people in the east of London, but to the whole metropolis. It was opened in 1848, and since that time has relieved 20,000 cases. The number of in-patients annually admitted to the benefits of the charity during the last few years has been 600, while the out-patients have averaged 4,000. The subscriptions amounted to about £3000.

A block of buildings intended as dwellings for working men and their families was opened last Saturday in Black-street, Peel-street, Finsbury-square. The houses have been erected by Messrs. Waterlow and are arranged in "flats," each flat having a suite of apartments to be occupied by a separate family. The roof is a flying one, communicating with the Great Eastern Railroad. Lord Henley, a number of members of Parliament, and other gentlemen were present at the opening on Saturday, and expressed themselves highly gratified as the arrangement, economy, and completeness of the building.

Last week the births of 1632 children—of whom 1009 were boys and 923 girls—were registered in the ten corresponding weeks of the years 1853-62 the average number (corrected) was 2326, and the deaths in London. The last previous week and 769 births were registered. The deaths were 1 in the average number in corresponding weeks of ten years 1853-62 the average number was 1,000. The deaths registered last week, the number of deaths from the principal diseases, were as follow:—Small-pox, 1; measles, 14; scarlatina, 6; cancer, 21; hooping-cough, 18; croup, 6; bronchitis, 74; pneumonia, 146; pleurisy, 1; other diseases of the respiratory organs, 4; diarrhœa, 14; cholera, 0; dysentery, 0; typhus, 11; enteric fever, 14; erysipelas, 3; phlebitis, and metria, 4; syphilis, 1; decomposition, 1; disease of the heart, 49; aneurism, 1; apoplexy, 29; paralysis, 29; epilepsy, 2; convulsions, 39; cephalitis, 11; brain disease, 39; old age, 39; premature birth, 15; suicide, 3; violence, privation, cold, and intemperance, 6; all other diseases, 109. The deaths of persons above the age of sixty-five years, 139; above the age of eighty, 29; above the age of ninety, 3. Of the 1632 children born, 1009 were boys and 923 girls. Of the 1632 children born, 1009 were boys and 923 girls. Of the 1632 children born, 1009 were boys and 923 girls

THE ROYAL PROGRESS: PRESENTATION OF A BOUQUET TO THE PRINCESS BY THE MAYORESS OF GRAVESEND.

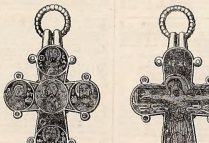


VICTORIA AND ALBERT. H.M.S. DEFENCE. H.M.S. RESISTANCE.

ARRIVAL OF THE VICTORIA AND ALBERT AT FLUSHING: SQUADRON SALUTING AND MANNING YARDS.

ARRIVAL OF THE ROYAL YACHT AT FLUSHING.

On the morning of the 6th inst. Princess Alexandra of Denmark, with Prince and Princess Christian, her father and mother, Princesses Dagmar and Thyra, her sisters, and Prince William and Waldemar, her brothers, arrived at Antwerp by railway from Brussels. They were met there by General Grey and Colonel Seymour, sent specially by Queen Victoria to escort the Princess to England, these Court officials having performed the same office when the late Prince Consort came to England. Arrangements had been made for spending a day among the sights of that fine old city; but a telegram came from Admiral Pitcroy, warning those whom it might concern that a gale was approaching, and another from the Admiralty that not an hour's delay in the passage to England should take place. These instructions were imperative, and at two o'clock the Royal party embarked on board the Victoria and Albert, and reached Flushing about five p.m. Without stopping here the yacht, accompanied by the Osborne and Irene, after receiving a Royal salute from the fort and the vessels (the Resistance and Defence) stationed there to receive her, steamed down the Scheldt, crossed the bar, and put out to sea. It was a magnificent night, and the waters glistened with silvery lustre in the light of the full moon. About nine o'clock the yachts came up with the magnificent ironclads, the Revenge and Warrior, sent to escort them. Then "for miles the glare of light, as of some mighty conflagration, spread over the sea; and showers of rockets from every ship lit up the sky." Between eleven and twelve the squadron came to anchor in Margate Roads.



QUEEN DAGMAR'S CROSS (EXACT SIZE).

KEEPSAKE PRESENTED TO THE PRINCESS BY THE KING OF DENMARK.

THE MAYORESS OF GRAVESEND PRESENTING THE PRINCESS WITH A BOUQUET.

SHORTLY after twelve, on the 7th inst., the Prince of Wales, with Princess Alexandra leaning on his arm, emerged from the deck-saloon, and, after saying a word of farewell to the officers of the yacht, stepped on the gangway and landing-stage, under a salute from the Warrior, the Emerald, the Racoon, and Tilbury Fort. As soon as the Royal couple were fairly on the pier Mrs. Sams, wife of the Mayor of Gravesend, presented a bouquet of the choicest camellias, orange-flowers, and jasmine, mounted in a golden holder, in the form of a cornucopia, and enriched with coral and pearls, to her Royal Highness, who with a graceful inclination received the very handsome present, which was an offering of the Corporation of Gravesend. Here also the Recorder presented the Princess with an address, which being, in accordance with our improved code of etiquette, delivered by the hand instead of by the lips, no time was lost in this portion of the ceremony; and, a procession being formed, the Mayor, Town Clerk, and Recorder leading the way, the sixty young ladies, of ages varying from fourteen to eighteen, who had been selected from the daughters of the residents as the officers of the floral tribute, began to strew their primroses and violets in the path of the illustrious pair. As they passed onward, amidst a renewal of those enthusiastic welcomes which, heartily as each had received them separately before, now seemed to be twice as fervent, they passed from beneath the entrance of the pier into a bright gleam of sunlight, which, transient as it was, became immediately converted into a happy omen. The Prince handed Princess Alexandra into the Royal carriage, seating himself opposite to her, with her Royal parents, one on each side. A momentary pause took place before a stand on the pier parade, where the Danish flag indicated that the Danish residents in London were there placed to welcome their illustrious countrywoman; and the lady of the Danish Consul then presented the Princess with a congratulatory ode, written in the Danish language. On went the Royal party, attended by their escort, through Harmer-street, with ringing acclamations that burst from the heart as well as lips of the mighty multitude assembled—on amidst a chorus of fervent benedictions that were given with a visible warmth of emotion that attested their sincerity; on, with waving of hats and handkerchiefs, and blessings invoked by aged persons, in whose eyes, beaming with joy, one might read old memories of the past, which made them feel prouder of the present; on, with no check to the enthusiasm, no slackening in the deafening roar of cheers that came from dense masses that lined the pathway, and from closely-clustering groups that filled each house from floor to roof; on, under the bright green garlands and beneath the fluttering festoons, went those on whom all eyes were fixed, with a kind look and a courteous salutation for all, and amidst an ovation such as a nation could not have witnessed unmoved, and which no pen can ever hope to describe, or imagination to realise.

STATUE OF HEBE, BY THORWALDSEN, PRESENTED TO THE PRINCESS ON HER MARRIAGE BY THE PEOPLE OF COPENHAGEN.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

BIRTHS.

On the 12th inst., at Tynemouth, the wife of Major Bligh, 41st Regiment, of a daughter.

On the 13th inst., at New-road, Battersea Park, the wife of Henry Purkis, Esq., of twins, a son and daughter.

On the 15th inst., at Allestree Parsonage, near Derby, the wife of the Rev. M. S. Pitt, Rector of Pages and Warwick, Berkshire, of a daughter.

MARRIAGE.

On the 12th inst., at the parish church of Barkisland-Ealing, Beer, by the Rev. T. W. Hirington, Vicar of Great Saxham, William Mortin, Esq., of Thurlow, Suffolk, and Saint-Mary, Suffolk, to Sarah Elizabeth, eldest daughter of the Rev. Robert Stannard Dobson, Vicar of the parish. No cards.

DEATHS.

On the 11th inst., at Pau, Lieutenant-General Sir James Outram, Bart., G.C.B., late Her Majesty's Indian Army, aged 67.

On the 6th of January, 1863, at Port Louis, Mauritius, Stanley, youngest son of Charles Heyliger, late of Her Majesty's 7th Hussars, aged 21.

On the 15th inst., at her residence, 4, Devon-terrace, Kentish-Town, Caroline Abbot, Dowch, Mary Elizabeth Dowch, wife of William Langley, supp., Captain, R.E.I.C.S., aged 61 years.—R.I.P.

THE LONDON GAZETTE.

TUESDAY, MARCH 17.

BANKRUPTS.

W. JAMES, Upper Mitcham, nurseryman to a chemist.—R. WOOD, Woodhouse-terrace, Woodhouse-lane, Leeds, draper.—J. PROUT, Great Woodcott-street, Shepherd's-bush, Middlesex, builder.—J. M. ROBERTS, Thickfield-street, Bethnal-green, licensed victualler.—H. BARTON, St. Agnes-terrace, Kennington-road, Lambeth, Surrey, ironmonger.—J. and W. BOWLES, Lime-place, Old Kent-road, leather-dressers.—J. F. HOWARD, Kew-place, Old Kent-road, builder.—J. and W. HOLLAND, Bridge-street, Blackfriars, Surrey, builders.—J. and J. STEVENS, Gower-street, Bedford-square, Middlesex, wine-merchants.—J. PLAYARDS, Barrow-place, Milton-road, Surrey, builder.—J. P. LEWIS, Bedford-street, Strand, and Lincoln's-inn-terrace, solicitor.—W. F. WATSON, Burton-crescent, Middlesex, surveyor.—J. and W. HOLLAND, Bridge-street, Blackfriars, Surrey, builders.—J. and J. STEVENS, Gower-street, Bedford-square, Middlesex, wine-merchants.—C. C. DOUGO, Consulate-terrace, Baltimore, Maryland, U.S.—J. GAZIN, Sloane-street, Chelsea, publisher on the Great Northern Railway.—F. W. STRANGE, Bartlett's-buildings, Holborn, commission-agent.—J. and W. HOLLAND, Bridge-street, Blackfriars, Surrey, builders.—J. and J. STEVENS, Gower-street, Bedford-square, Middlesex, wine-merchants.—S. GASHION, Lower-street, Islington, coffee-house keeper.—S. PRESTON, Bridge-street, Blackfriars, and Norfolk-street, West Hackney, furnishing ironmonger.—J. and W. HOLLAND, Bridge-street, Blackfriars, Surrey, builders.—J. and J. STEVENS, Gower-street, Bedford-square, Middlesex, wine-merchants

LINCOLN'S-INN HERALDIC OFFICE.—The established office of authority in England for furnishing Arms, Crests, &c., authentically. The Lincolnian Manual of Heraldry, 3s. or stamps.—J. R. and G. RUSSELL, Heralds and Genealogists.

FOR FAMILY ARMS—the LINCOLN'S-INN HERALDIC OFFICE—and Name and County. Arms Painted, Engrossed, &c., Pedigrees Traced, Boundaries Settled, Fellowes of Families, &c.—R. LAKE, 49, Chancery Lane.

LINCOLN'S-INN HERALDIC OFFICE.—Engraving by the Inventor of Carter Kings-at-Arms. Crest on Seal or Ring, 6s.; Arms, 10s. 6d.; Die sunk, with Gold Insert Rose for Crest, 20s.; Book-Plate, Arms and Crest, 21s.

SIGNET CREST RINGS, 18-carat, Hall-marked, Engraved, Gold Pens, Pencil-Cases, Spectacles, Arms and Crest, 30s.; cities, large, for Arms, Crest, and Motto, £4 5s. R. LAKE, Heraldic Engraver, Great Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn.

YOUR CREST, ADDRESS, or INITIALS STAMPED on PAPER and ENVELOPES, without any Charge for Die. RODRIGUES, HENRY SHER, Stationer, &c., 42, Piccadilly, corner of Sackville-street. Observe the only address. Wedding-Cards and Note Papers, Envelopes, Dressing Cases, &c., of the highest quality and taste, and at moderate prices.

THE superb COLLECTION of PHOTOGRAPHS by ANCHER, from the AUSTRIAN COURT and INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION, is NOW ON VIEW at CALLAGHAN'S, 238, New Bond-street. Open, non, and 7 to 10. Admission, 1s. Catalogue, 6d. Photographs, 1s. each, unmounted; 2s. each, mounted. Views of Vienna, for Lord Overstone, Lord Ellesmere, &c. Portraits and most glasses; also for their new photographic treats containing cost-free, by which all the above splendid pictures can be produced.—Callaghan, 238, New Bond-street, W. (corner of Conduit-street).

THE FAIRY WEDDING.—By special arrangement an original work, entitled the CARD PHOTOGRAPH, by the Inventor of the Carte de Visite, is NOW ON VIEW at CALLAGHAN'S, 238, New Bond-street. Open, non, and 7 to 10. Admission, 1s. Catalogue, 6d. Photographs, 1s. each, unmounted; 2s. each, mounted. Views of Vienna, for Lord Overstone, Lord Ellesmere, &c. Portraits and most glasses; also for their new photographic treats containing cost-free, by which all the above splendid pictures can be produced.—Callaghan, 238, New Bond-street, W. (corner of Conduit-street).

THE FAIRY WEDDING.—By special arrangement an original work, entitled the CARD PHOTOGRAPH, by the Inventor of the Carte de Visite, is NOW ON VIEW at CALLAGHAN'S, 238, New Bond-street. Open, non, and 7 to 10. Admission, 1s. Catalogue, 6d. Photographs, 1s. each, unmounted; 2s. each, mounted. Views of Vienna, for Lord Overstone, Lord Ellesmere, &c. Portraits and most glasses; also for their new photographic treats containing cost-free, by which all the above splendid pictures can be produced.—Callaghan, 238, New Bond-street, W. (corner of Conduit-street).

THE FAIRY WEDDING.—By special arrangement an original work, entitled the CARD PHOTOGRAPH, by the Inventor of the Carte de Visite, is NOW ON VIEW at CALLAGHAN'S, 238, New Bond-street. Open, non, and 7 to 10. Admission, 1s. Catalogue, 6d. Photographs, 1s. each, unmounted; 2s. each, mounted. Views of Vienna, for Lord Overstone, Lord Ellesmere, &c. Portraits and most glasses; also for their new photographic treats containing cost-free, by which all the above splendid pictures can be produced.—Callaghan, 238, New Bond-street, W. (corner of Conduit-street).

THE MOON, PLANETS, and DOUBLE STARS may be SEEN DISTINCTLY, protracted to weeks to give the same amount of power as telescopes usually notice 270. H. TUL, 4, Cambridge-terrace, Hyde-park, W. Open from 10 to 4. Astronomy on one hundred times, a day evening when still dilatedish Saturn's Ring, Jupiter's Belts, Satellites, Nebulæ, Star Clusters, &c., never ten miles, economical, and hand stand will joined star hood. Price of the whole, 2s.

SOLAR SPECTACLES, Opticians to the Government, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

A VALUABLE INVENTION.—A NEW MICROSCOPE, with Compass the size of a Guinea watch, the most correct and perfect Instrument ever invented, giving the benefits of a Microscope to all. Price 10s. 6d. Sold by SALOMONS, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

OPERA, RACE, FIELD, and general Outdoor Use and Night Watches—perfect RECONNOITRING and SURVEYING Glasses, each combining 12 lenses. The extraordinary brilliancy and great power of these Glasses cause them to be invaluable to Gentlemen, Army and Navy, to Sportsmen, Tourists, and Gamekeepers.—SALOMONS, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

SPECTACLES.—The patent TINTED SPECTACLES are patronised by the Faculty and others, as affording relief to weak eyes. They give extraordinary power and clear sight in weak, dim, and defective vision. The adaptation of spectacles to the sight is of the highest importance to those in whom it is vital importance. One of the first, who has had great experience and practice in the adaptation of spectacles to the sight, is Mr. JOHN JONES, Mathematical Instrument Maker, 63, Strand, opposite Somerset House.

DEAFNESS.—SOUND MAGNIFIED and INVISIBLE VOICE CONDUCTOR: a newly-invented instrument for the deaf and dumb. It is the most powerful and only means ever in use, and enables deaf persons to hear distinctly in all companies, churches, &c.—Mr. and Mrs. SOLOMONS, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly (opposite the York Hotel).

THE ALGERIAN ONYX COMPANY (Limited) beg to announce to customers that a Varied and Artistic Selection of Genuine and Useful Objects, manufactured from the Onyx Marble of Algeria, is NOW ON SALE at their Depôt, 27, Regent-street, Piccadilly, and Showrooms and Manufactory at Algiers, A, 7, and 9, Regent-street, London. The representative of the company being always in attendance at Messrs. R., J., and Co.'s, next day copies strictly match the honour of a visit.

BENSON'S WATCHES.—"Perfection of mechanism."—Morning Post. "Combine all of it under-chronometers, duplex, lever, horizontal, vertical, minute, half-quarter and centre seconds, keyless, and every construction for the pocket, and many for the use of watch, from the palatial to the highest quality of which the art is at present capable. By means of Benson's Improved Adjustments they are rendered suitable for climates of the greatest extremes of temperature without variation in rate, and are protected by his Patent Balance from the influence of a number of positions, price-list, with an interesting pamphlet on watchmaking, and is next post-free for 2 stamps to any part of the world.—J. W. BENSON, Watch and Clock Establishments, 33, 34, and 35, Old Bond-street. Estimates to be addressed to the Principal Establishment, 58 and 54, Ludgate-hill, City. Established 1749.

THE PRETTIEST GIFT FOR A LADY is one of ELKINGTON'S LOCKETS at £11 11s.; £7 7s. Gentlemen, at £10 10s. Recorded at the Exhibition for elegance of design, workmanship, and finish.—ELKINGTON and Co., 22, Regent-street, London.

HAIR JEWELLERY.—ARTIST in HAIR. DEWDNEY begs to inform Ladies or Gentlemen that he beautifully works their own hair into Brooches in Gold, Rich Enamel, Chains, Bracelets, Rings, Pins, Studs, &c., and forwards the same at once, post-free, on receipt of remittance. Every description of ornamental hairwork executed in the most elegant manner. An illustrated book sent post-free.—Dewdney, 178, Fenchurch-street, London.

WATCHES.—A. B. SAVORY and SONS, 11, Cornhill, and 14, Pall-mall, London (opposite the Bank). First-class Patent Detached Lever Watches, with the latest improvements in timekeeping power, to continue going whilst being wound, recommended for accuracy and durability.

	£ s. d.
Patent Lever Watches, jewelled, enamel dial, and seconds	6 6 0
Ditto, jewelled in four holes and engine	8 8 0
Ditto, the finest quality, jewelled in six holes	10 10 0
Silver Watches, in Hunting Cases, 10s. 6d. extra.
Gold Watches, in Hunting Cases, £2 2s. extra.
Patent Lever Watches, jewelled, enamel dial, and seconds	11 11 0
Ditto, with sticky-improved cases	12 12 0
Ditto, with extra jewelling, and inverted in four holes	16 16 0
GOLD WATCHES—SIZE FOR GENTLEMEN.
Patent Lever Watches, jewelled, enamel dial, and seconds	15 15 0
Ditto, in strong engine-turned cases	16 16 0
Ditto, jewelled in six holes and gold balance	17 17 0
Gold Watches in Hunting Cases, £2 2s. extra.

List of prices, with remarks on watches, gratis and post-free.

DENT, Chronometer, Watch, and Clock Maker to the Queen, and author of the great clock for the Houses of Parliament, 61, Strand (adjoining Coutts's Bank), and 34, Royal Exchange.

GARDEN BORDER-EDGING TILES, in Green and Purple, Ornamental and Plain, and in Scarborough Ware of Wharf, Blackstone, S. Queen's-road, Chelsea; and Kingsland-road, S.E. Illustrated Price-lists free.

NEEDLES, the best Egg or Drilled Eyed, 36d. in elegant leather case, with Photograph of the Prince and Princess of Wales, and Wedding Present, post-free, for 36 stamps, from the Manufacturers, JAMES LEE, Great Needle Mills, near Birmingham.

STEEL COLLARS and CUFFS.—White as linen, dressed in a moment; for Ladies High Dressed and Gent's Swallow Shirts their ever-recurrence renders them indispensable. Sold by the Trade in the Queen, and author of the great clock for the Houses of Parliament, 61, Strand (adjoining Coutts's Bank), and 34, Royal Exchange.

MAPPIN and COMPANY'S ELECTRO-SILVER PLATE and CUTLERY.

Full Illustrated Catalogues sent free by Post.

	Fiddle.	Thread.	King's.	Lily.
12 Table Forks	£1 7 0	£2 16 0	£3 18 0	£4 14 0
12 Table Spoons	1 17 0	2 16 0	3 18 0	4 14 0
12 Dessert Forks	1 5 0	2 0 0	2 16 0	3 6 0
12 Dessert Spoons	1 5 0	2 0 0	2 16 0	3 6 0
12 Tea Spoons	0 16 6	1 4 0	1 8 0	1 16 0

MAPPIN and COMPANY, QUEEN'S CUTLERY, 67 and 68, St. Paul's Churchyard.

All Kinds of Repairs done on the Premises.	Pattern.	Fiddle.	Thread.	King's.
1 Tea Kettle Kettle	£0 13 0	£1 6 0	£1 15 0	£2 6 0
1 Coal Scuttle	0 7 6	0 12 0	0 14 0	1 1 0
1 Pair regular Meat Dishes	0 4 6	0 7 0	0 10 0	0 13 0
1 Pair extra size Ditto	0 5 6	0 8 0	0 11 0	0 14 0
1 Pair Poultry Ditto	0 4 6	0 7 0	0 10 0	0 13 0
1 Pair for Dessert	0 3 6	0 5 0	0 7 0	0 9 0
Complete Service	£3 0 0	£3 0 6	£5 7 0	£6 7 0

NO CHARGE FOR PLATE-CHESTS for Orders of the value of £5 and upwards.

Illustrated Catalogues gratis and post-free.

OBSERVE CAREFULLY THE NUMBERS OF THE HOUSE,

77 and 78, OXFORD-STREET (corner of Wells-street, opposite the Pantheon), and ROYAL CUTLERY WORKS, SHEFFIELD.

CAUTION.

MAPPIN AND COMPANY respectfully beg to return their best thanks to their Friends and the Public for the daily-increasing support they have received since the opening of their Establishment,

OXFORD-STREET,

and respectfully request that the word must be thus spelt and not to them by poor not imitations,

Nos. 77 and 78, Oxford-street (corner of Wells-street, opposite the Pantheon).

MAPPIN AND COMPANY beg to call the attention of the Nobility, Gentry, and Public generally to several stricken [illegible] of the Establishment of a small shop adjoining their premises, having been opened for the sale of their various articles, by parties not connected with them.

Please observe carefully the address,

77 and 78, OXFORD-STREET.

THE EXHIBITION OF ALUMINIUM AND ALUMINIUM BRONZE

IS NOW OPEN DAILY.

TWO STRIKING SPECIMENS illustrating the application of Ornament and Use of Aluminium Bronze are NOW ON VIEW at MAPPIN BROTHERS' NEW ROOMS, 222, REGENT-STREET.

FURNITURE.—A rare opportunity now offers for obtaining TWO superior SUITES of DRAWING and DINING ROOM FURNITURE, in the Elizabethan Gothic and Louis Quatorze styles, at a very low price. The drawing-room is in velvet, and the dining-room in leather. The suites are of the most elegant and substantial description, and have been made to order by a first-class firm, regardless of cost. The drawing-room suite is in satin, with handsome chintz cases, as real curtain tulle as the curtains, and the dining-room suite in leather, with handsome fringed curtains, and as real curtain tulle as the drawing-room curtains. Lowest price for the beautiful suites, as they must be cleared out. Inspection invited. Also a handsome Brussels carpet, and a beautiful sideboard, with plate-glass back, &c., 30 guineas. To be seen at 27, Upper Berkeley-street, Portman-square, W., 27 doors from the Edgware-road. Cards to view, of Messrs. Dimmock Chalegate, containing 20 designs, gratis. Country orders executed.

COSTLY Drawing, Dining, and Bed Room Furniture, in the Elizabethan, Louis Quatorze, and Gothic styles, to be DISPOSED OF for a very low sum. The drawing-room suite is in rich brocatelle, and the dining-room suite in rich real morocco leather, including three very large glasses in superb gilt frames, and a handsome Brussels carpet to match. Also a pair of rosewood pianos, and a pair of fine-toned cottage pianos, by the most celebrated in same style, large telescope dining table, sideboard, chiffonier in fine walnut, elegant chimney glasses, a perfect marble washstand and toilet-table, with plate-glass back, a magnificent bedstead, with spring mattress complete, and other bedroom furniture. The whole of the above is in perfect condition, and is only removed in consequence of parties only requiring a large house or suite. To be seen at 27, Upper Berkeley-street, Portman-square, W., 27 doors from the Edgware-road.

OAK FURNITURE.—A choice Suite of Dark Oak Dining-room Furniture is offered for sale at an exceptionally low price. It consists of a handsome Gothic sideboard, large telescope, 24 at dining-tables with extra leaves, 8 massive chairs, and a pair of handsome Gothic chimney-glasses, in carved frames. The whole is worth £100. Lowest offer, £45. Inspection solicited at Purnell's City showrooms, 5, Queen-street, Cheapside, E.C., and 63, Quadrant, Regent-street, W.

DEAL FURNITURE.—ALFRED GREEN'S Stock of Deal Furniture, consisting of dressing-tables, bedroom furniture, as shown at the International Exhibition, and other articles, is now on view at his Manufactory, 84, Great Portland-street. The goods are kept in stock, arranged in suites, and being of the very best materials and workmanship, are guaranteed. Every article is marked in plain figures. Illustrated Catalogue and Price-list gratis and post-free. Upholstery and General Furnishing Company (Limited), 84 and 85, Great Portland-street.

FENDERS.—W. CLARK and Co. have the largest and best stock of Bright and Bronzed Fenders in London, from 5s. to £20. Address for the Guinea or the Mansion.—19 and 20, London Wall, City, E.C.

WILLIAM S. BURTON'S GENERAL FURNISHING IRONMONGERY CATALOGUE contains the Lowest Possible Prices of Sterling Utensils suitable for all Climates, with Illustrated Sketch of their Stock, arranged in Classes, sent free by post. Orders by Post receive the same attention as Personal Visits. Goods delivered Free to any Railway Station in England. Address WILLIAM S. BURTON, General Furnishing Ironmonger, 39, Oxford-street, W.

GLENFIELD PATENT STARCH, used in the ROYAL LAUNDRY, and awarded the Prize Medal, 1862, sold by all Grocers and Chandlers, &c.

COALS.—COCKERELL'S COALS, price 21s. per ton. Central Office, 31, Cornhill, E.C.

LEFT-OFF CLOTHES.—Uniforms, Jewellery, Miscellaneous Property, &c., of every description purchased in any quantity, by Mr. and Mrs. DAVIS, 64, Marylebone-lane, Oxford-street, W. Ladies and Gentlemen waited upon. Parcels sent—money orders remitted. Established 74 years.

WANTED, LEFT-OFF CLOTHES, Uniforms, Furniture, Miscellaneous Property, &c. The highest price given. Ladies or Gentlemen waited on by addressing to Mr. or Mrs. D. RYAN, 16, Beaumont, Regent-street, W., or Parcels being sent; the utmost value in cash immediately remitted. Established 1804.

GREAT SALE OF NEW SPRING SILKS, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent free. Sale of the world. Address to King and Co., Regent-street, London.

NEW STRIPED SILKS, £1 1s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW CHECKED SILKS, £1 5s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW PLAIN SILKS, £1 7s. 6d. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW CHECK SILKS, £1 15s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW CHECK SILKS, £1 19s. 6d. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW FOULÉ DE SOIES, £2 5s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW MOIRE ANTIQUE SILKS, £2 15s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW POMPADOUR SILKS, £3 3s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

RICHEST BLACK SILKS, £1 to £5 a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW SPRING LLAMAS, 7s. 6d., at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent free.

NEW SPRING MOHAIRS, 10s. 6d. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent free.

NEW SPRING POPLIN DE LAINES, 15s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street. Patterns sent post-free.

NEW SPRING POPLINS, £2 5s. a Dress, at KING'S, 243 Regent-street.

N.B.—The above Silks are chosen by the Prince of Wales's Private Secretary, London. Patterns sent post-free.

Address to King, Regent-street, London.

NEW SPRING SILKS.

Patterns post-free.
Checked Silks,	1s. 9d.
Striped Ditto,	1s. 9d.
Brilliant Black Glace Silks,
Full Width,	2s. 6d.
Rich Black Gros de Rhin,
Full Width,	2s. 6d.
The Rich Black Gros de Naples,
42 ins. wide,	3s. 6d.
Plain Coloured Glace,
42 ins. wide,	2s. 6d.
Five hundred Fancy Silks,
Handsome and Rich,	2s. 6d.
Richest Brocaded Satin de Soies
42 ins. wide,	3s. 6d.
Rich Black Gros de Rhin Silks,
42 ins. wide,	3s. 6d.
Rich Moire Antiques,
42 ins. wide,	3s. 6d.
Lyons Pompadours,
42 ins. wide,	3s. 6d.
Richest Black Gros de Rhin Silks,
four to five guineas.
The New Opera Silks, in all shades,
12 guineas.

NICHOLAS AND AMOTT, 61 and 62, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NEW SPRING DRESSES.

Patterns post-free.
Genuine Mohairs,
10½d. per yard.
Rich Poplin de Laines,
9d. the 12 yards.
Rich Plaid Poplins,
8s. 11d. the 12 yards.
The New Wellington Dress,
12 yards, 7s. 6d.
The New Paris Dress,
18s. 6d., the entire length.
The New Pipeline Plaids,
12s. the entire pattern.
NICHOLAS AND AMOTT,
61 and 62, St. Paul's-churchyard.

MUSLINS, CAMBRICS, &c., PATTERNS FREE.

Muslins, Barèges, Balzarines, Grenadines, &c., Cambrics, Lawns, Piques, &c.

BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street.

BLACK SILKS.

Patterns free.

£1 5s. 6d. the Full Dress.

BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street.

GLOVES, GLOVES, GLOVES.

The Best Kid Gloves, 1s. 6d. per pair.

The very best Paris, 2s. 11d. Samples and the new Lilac shade, BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street.

FRENCH KID GLOVES.

BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street, are selling the PARIS KID GLOVE, quality as exhibited in the International Exhibition, 1862, at 1s. 6d. per pair; and the very best Kid quality at 1s. 11d. to 2s. 6d. per pair; Looking Chevrette, Regentine, and Mousquetaire Kids.

GUINEA KID GLOVES, from 1s. 6d. to 2s. 6d. per pair, best quality.

Patterns free.

55, 59, 60, 61, and 63, Oxford-street; 1, 2, and 3, Wells-street.

COURT TRAINS, MARRIAGE OUTFITS, and BALL DRESSES.

BAKER and CRISP are showing an extensive Assortment of rich new Silks, White Glacés, Gros Grains, Satins, Tulles, Illusions, and other Fabrics (lustrated expressly), Chevrolliers, Satins, &c., for Court and Dinner Dresses, Bridesmaids' Dresses, and Ball Costumes.

Also the Richest Black Silks in all qualities at 1s. 9d. per yard, the best value, quality, or exhibition ever offered to the public.

Patterns free.—BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street, and the Duke, all bearing the extra length of 14 yards, or any length cut.

N.B. Court Trains, Veils, and Dresses made to the nearest.

Mr. Crisp's Court Dressmaking Establishment has completed the Dresses for presentation at Court on the 11th inst. Dresses and Veils made to Court Trains, at 221, Regent-street.

55, 59, 60, 61, 63, Oxford-street; 1, 2, and 3, Wells-street.

A BOON to LADIES in the COUNTRY, the Continent, and Colonies.—Gentlemen in search of a perfect Petticoat Corset are sent post-free without any extra charge. It is the only Corset that will not break down over the hips, and is the best fitting, and the most elegant shape ever produced. Messrs. Hancocks and Sloane's luxury but a necessity, unlike in regard to health, elegance, and convenience. Illustrated prospectus, self-measurement papers, &c., post-free.—Messrs. HANCOCK and MAITLAND, Patentees, 68, Conduit-street, opposite Bond-street.

100 PATTERNS POST-FREE of all the New Fabrics, Chalis, Spitalfie, Chalies, Grenadines, Foreign Alpacas, &c. New Evening Striped Petticoats, 4 yards wide, from 9s. 11d. each. 50 Patterns post-free.

RICHMOND, S, 50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

JAMES LOCKE and CO., 117 and 119, Regent-street.—New Materials for Spring Dresses, 20s. the Full Dress. Flounced and Net Muslins and Jackets in great variety. Patterns post-free.—The Scotch Warehouse, 117 and 119 Regent-street.

FORD'S LYONS VELVET JACKETS, in beautiful cashlins, either plain or with novel and tasteful embroidery and ornament, suitable for Dinner, Evening Dress, or Carriage Costume. Price 1 to 10 guineas each, and to be procured in no other form. Illustrations post-free. 27, Pond, 27, Oxford-street, London (near Mr. Graves's).

FORD'S NEW SILK JACKETS for the Spring are now ready. Ladies are invited to inspect some very pretty styles. Prices 21s. and upwards. 27, Pond, 27, Oxford-street.

FORD'S CACHEMERE JACKETS for Morning Wear, braided in front and at the Arm, in a New French Material at a Guinea, exceedingly durable. 27, Pond, 27, Oxford-street.

FORD'S ALEXANDRA JACKETS, for in and out-of-door wear, in various materials. The largest and cheapest stock in London.

No. 42, Oxford-street, London (near Newman-street).

FORD'S VELVET WALKING JACKETS, at 1, 2, and 3 guineas, are especially worthy of notice as to shape, useful, and fashionable Mantle for the Spring.

27, Pond, 27, Oxford-street (near Mr. Graves's).

FORD'S WATERPROOF TRAVELLING CLOAK is now warranted to resist many hours' rain. A nice shape, with large sleeves, and a hood to cover the head. Price 1 guinea. Sketches post-free.

FORD'S GLACÉ SILK SKIRTS, fashionably made, so for immediate wear, in various styles. A full and handsome Glace Silk Skirt, 7 gathers, 42 inches wide, 4½ guineas.

42, Oxford-street, W.

FORD'S RIDING-HABITS of superior make and style. Price 3½ guineas.

Ladies' Riding-Trousers, channels leather, with black cloth feet, 21s. Gentlemen's Riding-Trousers, 21s. and 25s. 42, Oxford-street, W.

BABY LINEN.—One Third less than usually charged. Every requisite for the Infant. Cloaks, Robes and Robes, nurses, and Baby Linen, Baskets, Cots, and Perambulators. THOROGOOD, late Nunn. The Juvenile Depôt, 310, Regent-street (adjoining the Polytechnic).

Price-lists free by post.

FRENCH GLOVES, Paisley best make, 3s. 6d. per pair; by post, 4s. 0d. 75. RIMMEL, Perfumer to the Queen, 96, Strand.

BLACK GLACÉ SILKS guaranteed to wear. SPECIAL REGAL MOURNING. To consequence of the numerous complaints respecting the wear of Black Silks, have made arrangements with PRANT and OAKE to supply their Celebrated Black Glacé Silk manufactures, by which the country will be enabled to obtain a Silk of undoubted British fabric, for the wear of which they will hold themselves responsible

The Morning Department, No. 38, Oxford-street, contains every requisite for the Trousseau and Mourning.

38, Oxford-street, 26, 29, 60, 61, 62, Oxford-street; 2, 4, and 5, Wells-street.

FIRST DISPLAY of SPRING NOVELTIES, SILKS, FANCY DRESSES, &c.

A large and well-assorted Stock of Rich Silks, Coloured and Styles in striped, Checked, Chintz, Cashmere, Cord, and Glacé Silks, from 29s. 6d. to 42 guineas the Dress.

The Assortment of Fancy Dresses is the new season is very large, including the Alexandra Cloth, Plain and Fancy Mohairs, Foil de Soie, Poplin de Laines, Foulé Cloths, Cashmeres, &c., from 10½d. per yard, any length cut, with 100 new shades of Imperial Serges and Shirting in all colours.

Patterns of the above forwarded (post-free) on application.

REGENT and CO., The Bedford, 61 and 62, Baker-street, W.

BLACK, VIOLET, MAUVE, and WHITE, Glacé, Gros Grain, Poult de Soie, a consignment of very superior make, silky for mourning purposes or for trimming, and wearing well, now selling at the lowest rate ever known.

THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE.

THE COMING SEASON.—The Manager of Messrs. Jays' Establishment in Regent-street, with a view to meet the requirements of the Nobility and Gentry, has now completed one of the largest and most elegant Stocks of Mourning Silks, Crapes, &c., in the Metropolis.

JAYS' LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE, 247, 249, 251, Regent-street.

BLACK SILKS.—A Specialité.—Purchasers will find at all times the greatest possible advantages in BLACK SILKS, whether for Full Dress or Mourning, at the London General Mourning Warehouse, 247, 249, 251, Regent-street.

THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE, 247, 249, 251, Regent-street.

JAYS'.

LINENDRAPERS TO THE QUEEN BY APPOINTMENT. Established in 1774.

LADIES' OUTFITTING and INFANTS' WARDROBE.

Descriptive Lists, with Prices, sent free by post.

CAPPER, SON, and CO., 60, Grosvenor-street, London, W.C.

Best post-free. Descriptive Lists of COMPLETE SETS OF BABY-LINEN with or and home Greyhound, Rabbit, Lamb, and cartridge.

UNDERCLOTHING for HOME, INDIA, and the COLONIES.

CAPPER, SON, and CO., 60, Grosvenor-street, W.

LINENDRAPERS TO THE QUEEN BY APPOINTMENT.

BABIES' BASSINETS ready for use, and sent home free of carriage.

BABIES' LAYETTES Trimmed and Furnished to correspond.

CAPPER, SON, and CO., 60, Grosvenor-street, London, W.C.

Descriptive Lists, with Prices, sent free by post.

SHIRTS.—Morning and Evening Shirts of every description, fitting with precision and ease, at moderate prices. Patterns and self-measurement sent free on application. CAPPER and WATERS, 30, Grosvenor-street, London.

E. MOSES AND SON, Ready-Made and Bespoke Clothiers, Hatters, Hosiers, Boot and Shoe Makers, and General Outfitters.

London Establishment:

CITY ESTABLISHMENT,

154, 155, 156, 157, 158, 159, 160, 161, 162, and 99, Aldgate.

WEST-END DRESS BRANCH,

476, 477, 478, and 479, Oxford-street, corner of Hart-street.

TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD BRANCH,

107, 108, Tottenham-court-road; 283, Station-road.

CAMDEN-TOWN BRANCH,

Hawley-road and Stanhope-street.

Descriptive Lists, with Prices, Patterns, Publishers, and our Pamphlet, "Every Gentleman's Outfit and post-free.

ESTABLISHED 1764.

DOUDNEY AND SONS' FOOTMAN'S SUIT, best quality complete, £3 13s. 6d.

17, OLD BOND-STREET, and 75, CHEAPSIDE-ARCADE; 69, LOMBARD-STREET.

THE 1s. HAIR-WAVER (the Original).—A Specific for Curling the Hair in Ringlets or Waves, and sold wherever by Princess Alexandra, in a few minutes, without hot water or irons. Sold by Chemists, Perfumers, Hairdressers, &c., at 1s. 6d.—TRUEFITT, Inventor, 1, Arlington-street, Grey's-inn-road, W.C.

PRINCE'S PATENT COMPLEXION PALM OF COLUMBIA. Established upwards of forty years. It is universally believed to be the best and only certain remedy ever discovered for preserving, strengthening, beautifying, or restoring the Hair, Whiskers, or Eyebrows. It is the most delightful dressing for the Hair, Whiskers, &c., and for the Skin, and is sold at 3s. 6d. and 7s. 6d. Wholesale, Retail, and for Exportation. Sold by all Chemists and Perfumers. For Children it is invaluable

CHAPPELL AND CO.'S PIANOFORTES AND HARMONIUMS,

50, NEW BOND-STREET.

CHAPPELL'S NEW TWENTY-GUINEA PIANOFORTE, with check action, in French mahogany case and full compass. This instrument has only just been brought to perfection at a foreign factory, expressly built with the view of making a really superior instrument at the lowest price possible. It has the very best check action, the full compass; is made in a hard and durable manner to stand any climate, and will be found as well or a perfectly satisfactory pianoforte. Messrs. Chappell and Co. strongly recommend this Pianoforte as superior in all respects to second-class or other cheap instruments. The advantage to parties in purchasing on a good pianoforte, with a perfect touch, may be estimated from the fact that the price of this cottage will shortly be the best obtainable in a part of France where skilled labour is plentiful and cheap.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN PIANINO (the only Pianoforte to which the Prize Medal has been awarded)—A very elegant Pianoforte, of small size, the full compass, check action, and most carefully adapted to small rooms, being the invention of Beaulieu, &c. Warranted to keep in tune, and to be the best and most durable Pianoforte ever made at the above price in the United and All the Asiatic Empires.

Price, in mahogany, rosewood, or walnut, 32 and 36 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ENGLISH MODEL PIANOFORTE.—To accommodate purchasers in the English taste of the Brandwood or Collard quality, the English Model will be found the most perfectly satisfactory Instrument, at a moderate price. The action is of the most simple description as used by the best makers, the touch elastic, and the tone pure and full, while the more complicated actions are objectionable on account of their basis. In elegant rosewood case, with full iron, similar in every respect to other instruments at 50 guineas, price 35 guineas; in walnut, 40 guineas.

TO MERCHANTS, SHIPPERS, AND RESIDENTS ABROAD.

CHAPPELL and CO., 50, NEW BOND-STREET.

are prepared to export Pianofortes to any part of the world, with the best MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, in which no small profit but the most favourable terms; also PIANOFORTES, from 25 to 50 guineas; and HARMONIUMS, varying in price from 8 to 100 guineas, all of the best manufacture, and selected from their stock, which is now the largest in London. Catalogues of Music or of Instruments will be forwarded (free on application to Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street, London.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S NEW ROOMS contain Pianofortes by every celebrated maker, and form a collection unrivalled by that of any other Establishment.

The Instruments are classified in the following manner:—

Room No. 1—Pianofortes of every description, from Ten to Thirty-five guineas.

Room No. 2—Pianofortes from Thirty-five to Sixty guineas.

Room No. 3—Pianofortes from Sixty to One Hundred guineas and upwards; also, Harmoniums of the best kinds.

Room No. 4—Harmoniums of every description, from Six to Sixty guineas each.

Rooms Nos. 5, 6, 7, and 8 are appropriated to Pianofortes and Harmoniums for Hire.

Purchasers have thus the opportunity of hearing, side by side, instruments of the most opposite character, and can select the one best adapted to their wishes. Parties at a distance can readily be contented by visiting the different factories, the smallest properties of which would escape the observation of persons unaccustomed to the most subtle of CHAPPELL and CO. have of Alexandre's Harmoniums is too well known to require comment. At the Great Exhibition, 1862, the Jury award was awarded to them for "novelty of construction of Harmoniums, and for general excellence of manufacture and fine quality of tone."

The Alexandre Harmonium may be seen suitable to the Schoolroom, Church, or Drawing-room, in every variety, from Five to One Hundred Guineas.

Any Instrument may be exchanged within six months of the date of purchase should it fail to give entire satisfaction.

Any Instrument, from any Manufactory may be hired, if taken for three months. Terms moderate.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES and HARMONIUMS.—ALEXANDRE HARMONIUMS and PIANOFORTES of every description, by all makers, as good as new, at greatly reduced prices. Secondhand Instruments of every description, by all makers, for SALE, HIRE, or EXCHANGE, at 50, New Bond-street.

ERARD'S NEW BOUDOIR GRAND PIANOFORTES, at 190 guineas, having been now brought to perfection, with the aid of many years' experience.

BROADWOOD, COLLARD, and ERARD. The best Pianofortes of every description, including all the recent improvements, for SALE or HIRE, at the Manufactory, 33, Great Marlborough-street, or at the Warerooms of CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S ORIGINAL MODEL PIANOFORTE.

Size, 6ft. 9in. by 2ft. 10in. height, 3ft. 10in. Compass 6½ oct. C to A. Trichord throughout. Full, rich, and pure tone.

Price 75 guineas.

Size, 6ft. 4in. by 2ft. 10in. height, 4ft. Compass 6½ oct. D to A. Handsome case.

Price 80 guineas.

The above Instruments are thoroughly sound, and are constructed of thick well-seasoned wood, which will stand any climate. They are of the best possible manufacture throughout, that they are confidently recommended as the most durable Pianofortes ever made, and for the EASTERN SETTLEMENTS generally.

CHAPPELL'S (1) packing-cases of tin and wood; (2) A silk-lined travelling-case; (3) A stout travelling-box; (4) some additional scrags; (5) a Book on Tuning and Preserving the Instrument; (6) and Tuning-Hammer.

NEW FIVE-GUINEA HARMONIUM, by ALEXANDRE, the best of all makers. In oak case, with a pleasing variety of tone, suitable for the school, or small room. Price Five Guineas. Drawings free by post.

NEW SIX-GUINEA HARMONIUM by ALEXANDRE, with five octaves; two footboards, and 13 oak case. These instruments lower in price, and superior to all other cheap harmoniums. Descriptive lists free.—application to CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

FULL DESCRIPTIVE LISTS (Illustrated) of Pianofortes and Harmoniums will be sent on application to CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN MODEL PIANOFORTE.—This Instrument is increased; or in number, 60 guineas. This Instrument has Three Strings and the fullest sound possible to be obtained from a Cottage. It is made in the most substantial manner, and will stand any climate, and to stand perfectly in any climate. The workmanship is of the best description; the tone is pure, full, and rich, and power equal to that of a Boudoir Grand. The touch is elastic, and the repetition very rapid. No Pianoforte of the size has ever been made to equal it, either in England or on the Continent. The Instrument will be warranted, and (if desired) exchanged within six months of the purchase.

ALEXANDRE'S PRIZE EXHIBITION MODEL HARMONIUMS.

No. 1.—FOR THE CHURCH.

With Thirteen Stops, viz., Grand Jeu, with the addition of the Gamba Stop, Vox Humana, worked by the heel of the right foot, by which means a crescendo can be produced without the use of the Expression Stop. Price, 72 Guineas; or without the Swell, 50 Guineas.

No. 2.—FOR THE DRAWING-ROOM.

In Handsome Rosewood Case, with Fascinating Action and Fourteen Stops. This Instrument, finished in a style superior to any other Harmonium, has Three Rows of Vibrators, Percussion Action, and consequently more calculated to withstand the effects of dust and damp. The Vox Humana Stop is worked by the heel of the right foot, with the knee Pedals, which are introduced for changing notes. Price 60 guineas.

No. 3 (specially recommended for abroad, as less liable than any other Model to get out of order.

ALEXANDRE DRAWING-ROOM HARMONIUMS.

No. 1. Three stops, percussion action, additional blower, and knee swell ..... 45 gns.

No. 2. Eight stops, percussion action, additional blower, and knee swell ..... 55 gns.

No. 3. Eight stops, percussion action, additional blower, voix celeste, &c. ..... 65 gns.

ALEXANDRE'S NEW PEDAL HARMONIUMS, with two rows of keys, may be used either by the hands or feet, or both together. By this means the compass of the instrument, with separate reeds and percussion, three movements can be played in three ways—1st, as an harmonium, with keyboard for feet, as a chamber organ, with Alto-Baritone for feet; 3rd, as full organ, by a separate keyboard.

No. 1, with 4 stops, 16 rows of vibrators, price 65 guineas.

No. 2, with 8 stops, 24 reeds, 24 rows of vibrators, 85 guineas.

No. 3, with 8 stops, 24 reeds, 24 rows of vibrators, 100 guineas.

Each model is prepared to lower pedal, 10 guineas.

No. 4, without pedals or percussion, 3 rows of vibrators, 75 guineas.

Testimonials to the great superiority of the Alexandre Harmoniums from Prosecutor Herculais Bonnard and Sir Gore Ouseley; also, from Professor Wylde, Dr. Gauntlett, Rev. Sir F. Gore Ouseley, and the most eminent professors. Descriptive lists, with testimonials, free by post, will be forwarded on application to CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

EVERY DESCRIPTION OF PIANOFORTE AND HARMONIUM FOR HIRE BY THE MONTH OR YEAR.

CHAPPELL AND CO.'S NEW MUSICAL PUBLICATIONS.

CATALOGUES POST-FREE ON APPLICATION.

WEDDING MUSIC.

ALBERT LINDAHL'S WEDDING WALTZ. Just published, a full-length, ferrotyped, beautifully printed in colours, of her Royal Highness the Princess Alexandra. Price 4s.

DALBERT'S WEDDING QUADRILLES on the CHERRITT MINSTREL MELODIES. 10th Edition of this very popular set. Price 4s.

DENMARK QUADRILLE. Composed entirely on Danish National Melodies. By C. GODFREY, Bandmaster Coldstream Guards. With a Photograph of H.R.H. the Princess Alexandra. Price 4s.

N.B. This Quadrille was performed by the Bands of the Guards on the 10th of March, at Windsor Castle. Price 4s.

KUHE'S ROYAL WEDDING MARCH, for the Pianoforte. Splendidly Illustrated in Colours with an admirable Portrait of H.R.H. the Princess of Wales. Price 4s.

GOODBAN'S WEDDING BELLS, for the Pianoforte, beautifully illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.

THE PRINCESS OF WALES. A Fantasia on Danish Airs, for the Pianoforte. By KUHE. Price 4s. Illustrated with a new Photograph of H.R.H. the Princess Alexandra, by Mayall.

THE PRINCE OF WALES: a Fantasia on Welsh National Melodies for the Pianoforte, by BENEDICT; performed by Madame Arabella Goddard at the Prince's Concerts, this day. Illustrated with a Photograph of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales by John and Charles Watkins, of Parliament-street. Price 4s.

DALBERT'S PRINCE OF WALES'S GALOP. A new Edition. Beautifully Illustrated with a Portrait (in Colours) of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales by BAXTER. Price 4s.

THE PRINCESS ALICE WALTZES, with full-length Portrait, in colours, of her Royal Highness. By C. BROWNE, Author of the Agnes Polka. 4s. Price 4s.

DANISH NATIONAL HYMN and SONG, by FRANZ NAVA, for the Pianoforte. Beautifully Illustrated in Colours by Brandard. Price 4s.

CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE OF VOCAL and PIANOFORTE MUSIC, in SHILLING MONTHLY PARTS. Each Part contains:

No. 1.—Six Vocal Duets, arranged for the Pianoforte. Just published:

No. 49. 10th Irish Melodies, arranged for the Pianoforte. 1s.

No. 45. Fifty Operatic Airs, arranged for the Pianoforte. 1s.

No. 44. Six Vocal Duets, arranged for the Pianoforte. 1s.

No. 43. Gounod's Song-Book, 2nd Series, complete. 1s.

No. 39. A Pianoforte Dance-book for the Pianoforte. 1s.

No. 38. Popular Dances, Hungarian, Spanish, Gipsy, &c., for the Pianoforte. 1s.

No. 34. Chwisty and Buckley Minstrel Airs for Pianoforte (without Words). 1s.

No. 33. Chwisty and Buckley Minstrels' Songs, Second Series. 1s.

No. 32. Chwisty and Buckley Minstrel Duets. 1s.

No. 31. The Juvenile Album, edited by Charles Hallé. 1s.

No. 30. Beethoven's Sonatas, edited by Charles Hallé (No. 31). 1s.

No. 29. Beethoven's Sonatas, edited by Charles Hallé (No. 30). 1s.

No. 28. Beethoven's Sonatas, edited by Charles Hallé (No. 4). 1s.

No. 27. Beethoven's Sonatas, edited by Charles Hallé (No. 3). 1s.

No. 26. Beethoven's Sonatas, edited by Charles Hallé (No. 2). 1s.

No. 25. Chwisty and Buckley Minstrels' Songs. 1s.

No. 24. Thirty Scotch Melodies, &c., by D'Albert, &c., 1s.

No. 23. Nine Revived Court Popular Songs. 1s.

No. 22. Twenty-one Chwisty and Buckley Minstrel Airs. 1s.

No. 21. Twenty-one Chwisty and Buckley Minstrel Songs. 1s.

No. 20. Twenty-one Chwisty and Buckley Minstrel Melodies. 1s.

No. 19. Nine Popular Songs by Auber and Gounod. 1s.

No. 18. Beethoven's Sonatas, edited by Charles Hallé (No. 2). 1s.

No. 17. Nine Popular Songs by Auber and Gounod. 1s.

No. 16. Nine Popular Songs by Verdi and Flotow. 1s.

No. 15. Nine Pianoforte Pieces by Osborne and Lindahl. 1s.

No. 14. Weber's Concert Duets, for Soprano and Contralto Voice. 1s.

No. 13. Eighteen of Macvey Irish Melodies. 1s.

No. 12. Nine Pianoforte Pieces by Osborne and Goodwin Words. 1s.

No. 11. Beethoven's Sonatas, edited by Charles Hallé (No. 1). 1s.

No. 10. Beethoven's Sonatas, edited by Charles Hallé (No. 1). 1s.

No. 9. Nine Sacred Songs by Handel. 1s.

No. 8. Nine Pianoforte Pieces by Brinley Richards. 1s.

No. 7. Nine Pianoforte Pieces by Brinley Richards. 1s.

No. 6. Twelve Sacred Songs by Mozart, Haydn, Beethoven, &c. 1s.

No. 5. The Duets of Charles D'Albert, &c., complete. 1s.

No. 4. Twelve Sacred Songs by Popular Composers. 1s.

No. 3. Twelve Sacred Songs by Handel and English Words. 1s.

No. 2. Twelve Songs by Verdi. 1s.

No. 1. Ten Songs by the Hon. Mrs. Norton. 1s.

Nos. 1 to 49 bound in 1 vol. 24s.

N.B. All the Songs have a Pianoforte Accompaniment.

CHAPPELL'S STANDARD WORKS.

CHARLES HALLE'S EDITION OF BEETHOVEN'S SONATAS, carefully fingered and phrased, complete in 3 vols., 41 in each; separately, 5s. 6d. or 6s. each Sonata.

CHARLES HALLE'S EDITION OF BEETHOVEN'S AIRS, with Variations, carefully fingered and edited, complete in 1 vol., 31 in all, 7s. 6d. net; or separately, 1s. each.

CHARLES HALLE'S EDITION OF MOZART'S SONATAS, carefully fingered and edited, complete in 2 vols., 41 in each; or, separately, 5s. 6d. or 6s. each Sonata.

CHARLES HALLE'S EDITION OF MENDELSSOHN'S THREE-PART SONGS, carefully fingered and edited, complete in 1 vol. 8vo, 6s.; or, separately, Books 1, 2, 3, each 2s.; Books 4, 5, each 1s.

Detailed Catalogues post-free on application.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' COMPLETE TUTOR for the PIANOFORTE. Containing, in one book, the most complete Instruction Book for the Pianoforte, the newest, most useful, and most popular Pianoforte Music, and a great variety of the most popular themes as progressive lessons. Sixty pages, full music size, price 5s., post-free.

N.B. A list of Brinley Richards' Popular Pieces will be sent on application to

CHAPPELL AND CO., 50, New Bond-street.

MUSICAL PRESENTS.

CHAPPELL'S ENGLISH BALLAD ALBUM: containing 36 Songs by Balfe, Wallace, Barker Glover, Linley, Lover, Walter Maynard, and other popular composers, all with Pianoforte Accompaniments, bound and gilt edges.

In this Album will be found the most favourite popular ballads of these favourite composers.

CHAPPELL'S 1st ALBUM DE DANSE for the Pianoforte; containing 10 Sets Quadrilles, 30 Valses, 30 Polkas, chiefly by Charles Coote.

Price 5s., bound, with gilt edges.

CHAPPELL'S 2nd and ALBUM DE DANSE for the Pianoforte; containing 10 Sets Quadrilles, Valses, Polkas, Galops, Schottisches, Varsovianas, Polka-Mazurkas, Redowas, and Fantasia Quadrilles.

Price 5s. bound, with gilt edges.

N.B.—The two Albums de Danse comprise a complete collection of Dance Music, by various composers.

CHAPPELL'S CHRISTY MINSTREL ALBUM: containing 32 Songs, with Choruses and Pianoforte Accompaniments.

This collection alone contains sixteen popular songs including the following favourites:—"Willie, we have missed you," "Ole Uncle Ned," "Nancy Till," &c.

Price 5s., bound, with gilt edges.

CHAPPELL'S SACRED VOCAL ALBUM: containing 32 Songs and Duets, by Handel, Mozart, Haydn, Hon. Mrs. Norton, Smart, Abt, Moore, Macfarlen, &c. Price 5s. bound, with gilt edges.

CHAPPELL'S ITALIAN SONG BOOK: containing 32 Italian and German Songs, by Verdi, Mozart, Rossini, Donizetti, Bellini, &c., with Italian and English Words and Pianoforte Accompaniments, bound, with gilt edges.

BRILLING ALBUMS.

CHAPPELL'S CHRISTMAS ALBUM OF DANCE MUSIC: containing many of D'Albert's most popular compositions, Quadrilles, Valses, Polkas, &c. 24 pp. Price 1s. or in cloth, with gilt edges, 1s. Post-free, 1s. 2d. or 2s. 2d.

CHAPPELL'S CHRISTY MINSTREL ALBUM: an entirely new selection of these popular Songs, with Pianoforte Accompaniments. 24 pp. Price 1s.; or in cloth, with gilt edges, 2s. Post-free, 1s. 2d. or 2s. 2d.

CHAPPELL'S FASHIONABLE DANCE-BOOK.—A choice selection of Quadrilles, Valses, Polkas, Galops, Redowas, Varsovianas, Polka-Mazurkas, &c. Price 1s., or in cloth, with gilt edges, 2s. Post-free, 1s. 2d. or 2s. 2d.

CHAPPELL'S JUVENILE DANCE-BOOK, consisting of Country Dances, Hornpipes, Reels, Jigs, &c., newly arranged for the Pianoforte. Price 1s.; or in cloth, with gilt edges, 2s. Post-free, 1s. 2d. or 2s. 2d.

CHAPPELL'S CHRISTY MINSTREL ALBUM for the PIANOFORTE (without words), containing 32 of the most popular Christy Minstrel Airs. Price 1s.; or in cloth, with gilt edges, 2s. Post-free, 1s. 2d. or 2s. 2d.

CHAPPELL'S STANDARD DANCE-BOOK, consisting of 72 Country Dances, Hornpipes, Reels, Jigs, &c., newly arranged for the Pianoforte. Price 1s.; or in cloth, with gilt edges, 2s. Post-free, 1s. 2d. or 2s. 2d.

THE LILY OF KILLARNEY. THE BOHEMIAN GIRL. MARITANA. THE ROSE OF CASTILLE.

POPULAR PIANOFORTE ARRANGEMENTS.

The Favourite Airs in two books. William Kuhe ..... each 2 0

Gems. As Duets. In two books. William Hutchings Callcott 5 0

Ditto. As Solos. In two books. 5 0

Set of Quadrilles. Charles Coote 4 0

Ditto. Duets. 4 0

Waltzes. Ditto. Charles Coote. Illustrated by Brandard 4 0

Polkas. Ditto. 4 0

Galops. Ditto. 4 0

Bridal Reveries.—Mendelssohn 3 0

" Anna 3 0

" Die Liebende gibt Lieu 3 0

" Opinion 3 0

" In my wild mountain valley 3 0

Kuhe—Fantasia on Favourite Airs 4 0

" Grand Valse 4 0

G. A. Osborne—Reminiscences on Favourite Airs 4 0

Goodban—The moon has raised 3 0

Linley Sheet—Grand Fantasia 4 0

GEMS of D'ALBERT for the VIOLIN, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, price 5s. 6d. each Number:—

No. 1. Scotch Melodies. No. 2. Irish Melodies.

No. 3. Welsh Melodies. No. 4. Swiss Melodies.

No. 5. Tyrolese Melodies. No. 6. Hungarian Melodies.

No. 7. Spanish Melodies. No. 8. Neapolitan Melodies.

No. 9. Gipsy Melodies. No. 10. Christy Minstrel Melodies.

Just published,

GLINKA'S SONGS, as performed at the Monday Popular Concerts with great success. Price of each, 2s. 6d.

No. 1. The Lark. Sung by Miss Banks.

2. Sleep, thou infant angel. Sung by Miss Banks.

3. The Lark from the Steppe. Sung by Miss Banks.

4. The Orphan's Song. Sung by Madame Sainton-Dolby.

POPULAR PIANOFORTE MUSIC.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' GOD SAVE THE QUEEN. "As a sovereign song, we are disposed to think 'God Save the Queen' one of Mr. Richards' most striking compositions."—Vide Press. Price 3s.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' ALEXANDRA, Nortorne polka. Price 3s.; Duet, 4s.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' MINSTREL BOY. The favourite Irish melody, arranged as a Rondo. Price 3s.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' ROSALIE.—ROSALIE, THE PRAIRIE FLOWER, arranged as a pleasing and effective pianoforte piece. Price 3s.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' ROSALIE DUET. Just published, this popular Song, arranged as a Pianoforte Duet. Price 4s.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' JUANITA.—The Hon. Mrs. Norton's popular Song arranged as a very pleasing drawing-room pianoforte piece. Price 3s.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' JUANITA DUET. The favourite Song arranged as a most effective Pianoforte Duet. Price 4s.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' MARAQUITA. The favourite Ballad arranged as an easy and effective drawing-room Pianoforte piece.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' BELLRINGER. By W. T. WRIGHTON, as a brilliant Pianoforte Solo. Just published. Price 3s.

KUHE'S FAVOURITE MELODIES FOR THE PIANOFORTE.

No. 1. "The March of Mind." Price 4s.

KUHE'S SEMIRAMIDE. Grand Fantasia on Airs from Rossini's favourite Opera, for the Pianoforte, by the Author of "Home, Sweet Home." Price 4s.

KUHE'S MASSANIELLO. Just published, a Grand Fantasia for the Pianoforte on Airs from this charming Opera. Price 4s.

GOODBAN'S BLUE-EYED MINNIE. A very popular song and dance by the Christys, is now published for the Pianoforte, and makes a charming Morceau for the Drawing-room. Price 3s.

C. H. OSBORNE'S POPULAR AIRS, arranged for the Pianoforte.

Dalila. Price 3s.

Charity is my Name. Price 3s.

Voice Venezia (or Gazzio Waltz). 3s.

Remembrance. Price 3s.

Where are the friends of my youth? 3s.

Nelly Gray. Price 3s.

Nelly Bly. 3s.

Dinah, the Prairie Flower. 3s.

Rule Britannia. 3s.

Bonnie Dundee. 3s.

Comin' thro' the Rye. 3s.

NAVA'S CLASSICAL FAVOURITES, arranged from the Works of Mozart, Haydn, Beethoven, Rossini, Meyerbeer, Auber, Donizetti, Verdi, &c., &c.

No. 1. Eyris Elegos. 18th Mass Mozart ..... s. d.

2. Haydn's Symphony, No. 1 ..... 2 0

3. Gloria in Excelsis, 7th Mass, Mozart 2 0

4. Haydn's Symphony, No. 2 ..... 2 0

5. La Pucelles, Mozart in Egitto, Rossini 2 0

6. Haydn's Symphony, No. 3 ..... 2 0

7. Pianoforte Version, Vocal Quartet 2 0

8. Adagio 5th Symphony, Haydn 2 0

9. Andante 5th Symphony, Haydn 2 0

10. Andante 1st Symphony, Beethoven 2 0

11. Andante 2nd Symphony, Haydn 2 0

12. Fifth version (ad), Chwisty, Haydn 2 0

TERRELL'S LA PRIÈRE D'UNE MÈRE. Reverie pour Piano. Price 3s.

TERRELL'S THE ANGELS' HARP. Rhapsody for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.

TERRELL'S SPARKLING DEWDROPS. Morceau de Salon for Pianoforte. Price 3s.

TERRELL'S LANGE GARDIEN. Pensée pour le Pianoforte. Price 3s.

LINDAHL'S OCEAN WAVES. The last New Book of this favourite Composer. Price 3s.

A LIBBY LINDAHL'S New Piece, MIDNIGHT SONG. Finale Fugitive for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.

LE POINT DU JOUR. Reverie pour Piano, par EUGÈNE ST. ANGE. Price 3s.

LE CHANT DU MATIN. Pour le Piano, par EUGÈNE ST. ANGE. Price 3s.

MARTIN LAZARE'S MARGUERITE AU ROUET. Caprice pour Piano. Price 3s.

MARTIN LAZARE'S SPRITE GALOP, for Pianoforte. Price 3s. 6d.

POPULAR SONGS, ETC.

SUNNY MEADOWS. New Song. No. 1 of "Lights and Shadows." By STEPHEN GLOVER. Price 2s. 6d.

STARLIT DELL. New Song. No. 2 of "Lights and Shadows." By STEPHEN GLOVER. Price 2s. 6d.

WHISPERING TREES. By STEPHEN GLOVER, beautifully illustrated by BRANDARD. Price 2s. 6d.

SINGING RILLS. By STEPHEN GLOVER. Beautifully illustrated by BRANDARD. 2s. 6d.

THE WOODLAND CALL. By STEPHEN GLOVER. Illustrated by BRANDARD. 2s. 6d.

FELIX MAVOURNEEN. Sung by Mr. Wilbraham, in Benedict's Opera, "The Lily of Killarney," and enthusiastically encored every evening. Price 2s. 6d.

I'M ALONE. Sung by Miss Louisa Pyne in Benedict's Opera, "The Lily of Killarney," and most enthusiastically encored. Price 2s. 6d.

IN MY WILD MOUNTAIN VALLEY. A Romance. Sung by Miss Louisa Pyne in Benedict's Opera, "The Lily of Killarney." Price 2s. 6d.

THE MOON HAS RAISED HER LAMP AGAIN. Sung by Miss Louisa Pyne and Mr. Santley in Benedict's Opera, "The Lily of Killarney." Price 2s. 6d.; or as a Duet, 2s. 6d.

I NEVER CAN FORGET. Ballad. By ALEXANDRE. Sung with the greatest success by Mr. Santley at the Monday Popular Concerts. Price 2s. 6d.

JUANITA, the Hon. Mrs. NORTON'S celebrated Spanish Love Song. 24th Edition. Price 2s. 6d.

JUANITA, as a Vocal DUET. Just published. Price 2s. 6d.

MARAQUITA, the Hon. Mrs. NORTON'S celebrated Portuguese Love Song. 10th Edition. Price 2s.

I'M RETURNED TO THEE, ANNIE. A answer to the celebrated Song, "I'm going to the home of the blest." By ARTHUR BARKER. Price 2s. 6d.

I'M THINKING OF THEE IN SORROW, ANNIE. Vocal Duet. This popular song is now published as a vocal Duet. Price 2s. 6d.

SIMS REEVES' NEW SONG, SUMMER IS SWEET. Composed by GEORGE LAKE; written by MONTGOMERY. Price 2s. 6d.

BLUE-EYED MINNIE. Sung by Mr. Winnhold, of the Christy's Minstrels, with immense encores Composed by GOODBAN. Price 3s.

FLOATING ON THE WIND. Sung by Mr. Winnhold, of the Christy's Minstrels, with the greatest success. Composed by GOODBAN. Price 3s.

BIMBAULT'S NEW SINGING TUTOR. Containing Exercises, Solfeggi, and Songs. Price 5s.

BIMBAULT'S HARMONIUM TUTOR. A concise and easy Book of Instruction for this popular Instrument, with numerous Airs for Practice. Price 5s.

CHURCH HARMONIUM, with Two Rows of Keys.—Just published, A GUIDE TO THE USE OF THE CHURCH HARMONIUM, with Two Rows of Keys, and Seven Pedals, containing Selections of Music by Classical Masters, expressly arranged for this instrument by Dr. BIMBAULT. Price 5s.

NEW SACRED WORK FOR THE HARMONIUM.—Twenty-five FULL or CONCLUDING VOLUNTARIES, in the Form of Interludes, to be played between the Verses of Hymns, as generally performed in the Church Services and Chapels. By Dr. BIMBAULT. Price 4s.; in cloth, 5s.

BIMBAULT'S 100 PSALM and HYMN TUNES for HARMONIUM, selected from the most ancient Church Composers. Price 4s.; in cloth, 5s.

BIMBAULT'S 100 Original INTERLUDES for the Harmonium, to be played to the Psalm and Hymn Tunes in common use, composed and arranged expressly for the Harmonium by the above Author. Price 4s.; in cloth, 5s.

BIMBAULT'S 200 CHANTS by the best Church Composers, ancient and modern, selected from the Books of the various Cathedrals, and arranged expressly for the Harmonium. Price 4s.; in cloth, 5s.

BIMBAULT'S 50 SHORT VOLUNTARIES for the HARMONIUM, expressly suited to small churches and chapels. Price 4s.; in cloth, 5s.

BOOTH'S WESLEYAN PSALMIST. New Edition of this celebrated work. The organ of Pianoforte form, price 18s.; in 12 parts, 1s. each. In Sections Voix Parts—Treble, Alto, Tenor and Bass—each 9s.; or in cloth 2s. 6d.

THE ROYAL PROGRESS THROUGH LONDON: THE VOLUNTEERS IN HYDE PARK.

THE ROYAL MARRIAGE.

Winter decked itself out in the gayest of holiday attire on the 25th inst.; the damage which had been caused by the wind and heavy rains of Saturday last had been fully repaired: footmen gorgeously arrayed in the latest mode, and powdered to the highest pitch of the mode, were crowded with all the charms and attractions that beauty, wealth, and fashion command. The bonnets and dresses of the ladies were like a parterre of flowers, almost bright as their character. With scarcely an exception, every person wore a wedding favour; and the appearance of these ever-varying forms of the most agreeable character. At half-past two, companies of the Coldstream Guards were marched up on to the hill. At four minutes after three o'clock precisely, a small mounted detachment of those who flattered themselves that they had amusing distributors of the Royal bounty, and bridegroom, proceeded to secured good places for seeing the bride and bridegroom proceed to St. George's Chapel. They at length divided in two lines and formed a guard of honour. Troops of the Horse Guards passed up to the grand entrance of the palace to form the Royal escort. Next came a carriage of the Lion boys, who occupied the right-hand side of the road: then a company of the Yeomen of the Guard marched up, and all announced the arrival of the Royal carriage. Royal equipages that had not down specially invited guests at the chapel returned by the lower road, and passed on the way others who had come over others to the chapel. As Ministers of State, in their official costume, Knights of the Garter, wearing over their rich uniforms or courtly dresses the ribbon of the order, to be exchanged in the cabinet-room for the mantle and collar, Chiefs, Lords-in-Waiting, Ambassadors vied with their profusion of decorations; the wives of Ministers and of the leading members of the aristocracy, radiant with beauty and dressed in the most charming of fabrics and the exquisite stream of all that is great, and noble, and worthy in the country poured on their way to the chapel. Old and New Palace, hallowed by so many associations of chivalrous and knightly bearing, and sacred to so much that is grand or gloomy in our history, in scene was one of great splendour, and of varied pageantry. Mingling with these Royal carriages, with their scarlet liveries, were a few private carriages, handsome vehicles, and of the latest, that would have done discredit to a London cab, but these were eagerly seized at the nearest station to convey visitors as quickly as may be to the park-hill there looked down the broad avenue, skirted by the two lines of Household troops, the scarlet uniforms of the Life Guards, whose cuirasses gleamed like silver in the sunlight. Below the Hill gate, and extending on each side to the old Palace Yard, St. George's Barracks and the Enclosure were formed up, about 600 strong, under the command of Colonel Lindsay. Ranged along the park from the old Palace Yard, and opposite the garden wall, were the children of her Majesty's schools, about one hundred and twenty in number, the girls in pretty scarlet cloaks, the boys in grey uniform. They are the pupils at a school which her Majesty has erected near Cumberland Lodge, and in the conduct and management of which she has for several years taken a deep and very personal interest. On the towers and turrets of the fine old castle, on the ramparts of the Round Tower, on the gate-house, and on that which forms the base of the imposing tower, over gateways and from windows, and from tall roofs, from every point of vantage, the crowd of the favoured assembled to see the procession of countless spectators passed expectantly, and waited impatiently for the first blast of the trumpet that should announce the approach of the Royal party.

At half-past eleven the silver trumpets rang out as the grand entrance to the Castle was reached, and a shower of flowers from the children of the Queen's schools came mingling with the distant peals of the wedding bells, the blare of trumpets, and the loyal sounds of the National Anthem. Immediately after, a Captain's escort of Life Guards was seen to emerge from the grand entrance to the castle, and close behind these appeared the Royal carriage with the Royal State livrée, conveying the guests of her Majesty who had been invited to the castle. The first three carriages contained Royal Equerries and gentlemen and ladies in attendance on the Royal guests. In the fourth carriage the Maharajah Dhuleep Singh was observed glittering in jewels, and wearing the turban and other rich dress of India. The Princesses Dagmar and Tyra were recognised by many of the spectators present, as was also the Princess Victoria of the bride.

The Royal carriages, having set down at the chapel, returned by the inner circle of the quadrangle, and instantly started with more of the Royal visitors. This time it was a procession of the Royal family and the Queen's household. The first carriage was greeted with the enthusiasm of the spectators. Now the excitement grew apace. Lord Alfred Paget and Lady Alfred Paget, Lady Geraldine Somerset, Miss Knollys, the Countess of Fortalles, and the Countess of Caledon were in the front most of the carriages. The last five carriages contained members of the Royal family. There were the Princess of Connaught and Princess Mary, who were welcomed with a cheer; next came Prince Leopold and Prince Arthur of Connaught, conducting the Princess Louise of Hesse; and then, to the bright, intelligent faces of the two lads were seen, and a very pretty simplicity they have in their dress, as they sat with the two Princesses, Helena and Louisa, were in the next carriage, and their kind and gentle looks won a hearty cheer. Prince Louis and Princess Victoria of Hesse were very much admired. The last carriage contained the Crown Princess of Prussia (the Princess Royal), with her son Prince William of Prussia. The Crown Princess was looking remarkably well, and her pleasant, affable, cheerful—almost merry—face was seen to great advantage as she bowed her graceful acknowledgments of the cheers which greeted her. The carriages which made up the procession of the Royal family and the Queen's household were three in number.

Expectation was now on tiptoe for the arrival of the two most important personages in the interesting ceremony of the wedding day. A quarter of an hour of suspense passed slowly away, and then a field officer's escort of the Life Guards once more passed down the proud old street, the bands struck up the National Anthem, the children cheered, and still the bells clanged on in their merry peal, and six carriages passed on their way to the chapel. In the first were the anxious sightseers who were the Equerries, or Lords of the Bedchamber, or officers of the household, that filled the last of the six carriages; all eyes were directed to the last one, which was distinguished from the others by two footmen in gold lace and gorgeous hats. Then came the sound of a pale, and there was a pause now and then a twitching of the lips, as though his Royal Highness were striving to repress any exhibition of nervous feeling or agitation. With white shoulder-knots and collar of the Order of the Garter over his bright uniform, he looked a noble specimen of a man, as he is a handsome, bridegroom. He was heartily cheered, and bowed right and left repeatedly in acknowledgment of the applause which accompanied him on his way. The supporters or groomsmen were his uncle, his Duke of Saxe Coburg and Gotha, and his brother-in-law, the Crown Prince of Prussia, both of whom were in the carriage with his Royal Highness. On arriving at the west entrance of St. George's Chapel the guard of honour saluted, and the bridegroom was conducted by the Lord Chamberlain to his allotted place in the chapel.

The procession of the bridegroom was made up of six carriages conveying the following:—

FIRST CARRIAGE.

Mr. Herbert W. Fisher, Secretary to his Royal Highness the bridegroom.
Lieutenant-Colonel F. C. Ricardi, Equerry to his Royal Highness the bridegroom.
Mr. Charles Cust, Groom of the Bedchamber to his Royal Highness the bridegroom.
Major Hon. H. Meade, Groom of the Bedchamber to his Royal Highness the bridegroom.

SECOND CARRIAGE.

Monsieur De Schickler, gentleman in attendance on his Royal Highness the bridegroom during Duke of Saxe Coburg and Gotha.
Captain von Lucadou, gentleman in attendance on his Royal Highness the Crown Prince of Prussia.
Captain G. H. Grey and Major C. Teesdale, Equerries of his Royal Highness the bridegroom.

THIRD CARRIAGE.

Colonel the Hon. Dudley C. P. De Ros, Lord-in-Waiting to the Queen, in attendance on his Royal Highness the reigning Duke of Saxe Coburg and Gotha.
Lieutenant-General Sir Henry J. W. Ellis, K.C.B., Groom in Waiting to the Queen, in attendance on his Royal Highness the Prince of Prussia.
Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Arthur Bigge, Private Secretary and Treasurer of the Household of his Royal Highness the bridegroom.

FOURTH CARRIAGE.

Lord Alfred Hervey, Lord of the Bedchamber to his Royal Highness the bridegroom.
Baron Gleichen, Gentleman in attendance on his Royal Highness the Reigning Duke of Saxe Coburg and Gotha.
Count Seckendorff, Gentleman in attendance on his Royal Highness the Crown Prince of Prussia.

FIFTH CARRIAGE.

The Earl of Mount-Edgcumbe, Lord of the Bedchamber to his Royal Highness the bridegroom.
The Baron von Wangenheim, Gentleman in attendance on his Royal Highness the reigning Duke of Saxe Coburg and Gotha.
Earl Spencer, Groom of the Stole to his Royal Highness the bridegroom.

SIXTH CARRIAGE.

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE BRIDEGROOM.

His Royal Highness the Reigning Duke of Saxe Coburg and Gotha,
His Royal Highness the Crown Prince of Prussia,
Supporters of his Royal Highness the bridegroom.

Not yet was expectation at an end; there still remained the arrival of the bride, who was to proceed in the same Royal State to the chapel. Another quarter of an hour passed away, and at the last sound of the trumpets, the Household Troops presented, as scarcely to flutter the Royal standard which hung in ample folds proudly upon the summit of the great tower, and the guard saluted with the usual ceremonial. With the same escort as before came the procession of the bride, Princess Alexandra, with the Duke of Cambridge and Prince Christian, conducting her to the chapel, in the last of the carriages. The bride looked pale, with the slightest tinge of pensiveness, but a very beautiful and radiant woman; a thing that was the case with unutterable tenderness in the fine full eyes as when, an acknowledged Queen of Beauty, she made her triumphal entry into the chapel on the arm of her father. She walked, bowed from her head, the wedding wreath that sat with such becoming grace upon her fine, full forehead, and her face was lit up with a smile of most charming of brides; and as the Princess passed before the gaze of enraptured spectators she greatly resembled in both the elegant proportions of her figure and in the beautiful Queen of France:—"Surely never lighted on this orb, which she hardly seemed to touch, a more goodly vision." Less tall than the Princess of Wales, dressing and clearing the elevated sphere she just began to move in, glittering like the morning star, full of life, and hope, and joy. Amongst the thousand swords would leap to their scabbards to avenge even a look that threatened her with insult." Such, indeed, was the feeling that impressed all those who were fortunate enough to catch a glimpse of Princess Alexandra. The procession of the bride was as follows:—

FIRST CARRIAGE.

Colonel Charles Byrnhelm, Equerry to Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge.
Colonel H. F. Cavendish, Groom in Waiting to the Queen, in attendance on His Royal Highness Prince Christian of Denmark.
Captain Count Moltke-Huitfeldt, Chamberlain to his Majesty the King of Denmark, Adjutant to his Royal Highness Prince Christian of Denmark.

SECOND CARRIAGE.

Countess Revenlow, Lady in waiting to her Royal Highness the bride.
Lieutenant-General the Hon. Charles Grey, Equerry to the Queen, in attendance upon her Royal Highness the bride.
Viscount Castlerosse, Vice-Chamberlain.

THIRD CARRIAGE.

General d'Schalen, Chamberlain to his Majesty the King of Denmark, in attendance on her Royal Highness the bride.
Count Danneskiold-Samsoe, Master of the Court of his Majesty the King of Denmark, in attendance on her Royal Highness the bride.
The Danish Minister.

HER ROYAL HIGHNESS THE BRIDE.

His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge.
His Royal Highness Prince Christian of Denmark.

The cheers which greeted the Princess were universal, while everywhere handkerchiefs were waved and every mark of enthusiasm was exhibited by the crowd. The procession, passing through the grand entrance, passed along down the hill, through Henry the Eighth's Gateway to the Chapel.

THE MARRIAGE CEREMONY.

The total number of persons admitted by particular invitation or ticket to the chapel for the purpose of witnessing the marriage did not probably exceed 900 ladies and gentlemen, exclusive of the guards and the choristers and others who had to officiate. Some not one-half were admitted to the choir, or were privileged to witness the celebration of the wedding itself. Still, had the audience been much smaller, the arrangements would have been such that the spectacle in twain been thrown down and the amphitheatres of seats built up to the very roof, the whole would have been completely commanded in every part from the spectators—a louder re-echo of that which was uttered by a field of prayers. Never was there a more splendid or more picturesque and most magnificent ever witnessed in England since the coronation of Queen Victoria in 1838.

As early as Monday night the interior of the Chapel of St. George began to show signs of life. It had possibly not been entirely unoccupied on that night, but on the Tuesday there was a considerable stir, and the finishing touches to the decorations and appurtenances both of the chapel and central hall, so rapidly and so successfully improvised. The officials of the Lord Chamberlain's department must have been up by the first streaks of morning light, for the whole official had gone to bed at all; and before ten a considerable number of gentlemen ushers, Court pages, and the like were on the scene of action. Seats numbered were scattered about the nave and choir. The latter, when almost unoccupied, was almost sublime in its perfect and solemn Gothic architecture. There have been instances of modern restoration so successful as that which has raised and almost recut this shining jewel of mediæval architecture, but the restoration may be said to be perfect. No attempt to find a shaw in its dispositions and adornment. Until lately the altar was hidden from view by the organ and by a stained-glass window, executed from the designs of George III.'s pet painter, West, and by the still darker and dreamier work in oil representing the "Last Supper," which was also placed over the communion table. Both these heavy carved work around look still more ponderous and lugubrious. Both of these have disappeared, and the whole interior of the chapel in taste have been removed, although, we trust, not destroyed—for it would be a sad loss to lose the splendid sculptured tombs of Benjamin West as warnings to future generations—and their vacant places have been supplied, first by the huge communion table, of stained carved oak, in honour of the late Prince Consort, and, immediately over the altar, by the beautiful stained-glass window, with exquisite tracery all-colored. The memorial-window is certainly most grandiose in composition, and most felicitous in execution. It is perhaps a little pale, and, as it is not a transparency, but of either the properties of a highly miscalculated, or the base has been cut off to fit with the elevation of the chapel, it is not quite satisfactory in breadth, and the eyes ascend height to be imposing. The panelled spaces and niches on each side are also new, and the whole of the stalls and the canopy work above them, which are completely covered by superb crimson draperies, which throw out the charmingly delicate chiselling of the reredos in the boldest but most harmonious relief. The altar was covered with dark crimson velvet, richly embroidered, with a heavy bullion fringe, and was laden with gorgeous and massy communion-plate in silver gilt. The communion rails were new, and beautiful specimens of mediæval metal-work, picked out with gold. The floor of the choir, which is also the pavement proper of the chapel, was covered with a sumptuous carpet of Garter-blue, the woven pattern being the insignia of the order. Her Majesty's throne, or chair, on the left side of the choir, was placed under the communion-table, and on a level with the organ loft, and also been refitted and redecorated with marked splendour. The floor had been raised several inches, in order to afford her Majesty a more commanding view of the proceedings, and the opening, which was guarded by a gilt rail running round the pew, was externally draped with hangings of Garter-blue, fringed with bullion. On the dais itself seats in crimson satin and gold were provided for the bride and bridegroom, the first to the left, the second to the right; while in diagonal lines, at opposite angles, were matured seats for the supporters of the bridegroom, the members of the Royal family, and much of the route of the Queen's matured guests as were not employed actively within the inner pale of the bridal circle. Finally, from the door under the tower, from the centre or choir, traversing the barrier of the organ-loft, and extending right along the nave to the entrance of the central hall of reception, was the rich crimson carpet, of great depth and quality, for the ocean of the centre of a dull maroon, approaching crimson, the border of a warm white, interwoven with the Royal Prince's crest, the rose, the thistle, and the snowgrass of the august couple, "A. E. A." It will thus be seen that nothing had been spared to render the interior of the choir worthy of the brilliant ceremonial which was to be seen for ages in its precincts.

The ladies and gentlemen forte rate enough to obtain tickets for the never-to-be-forgotten pageant of processions and ceremonial, particular-colored hues and zebra-like striped patterns those tickets were—whence they could best command a view of the whole ceremonies, and listen to although they could not see the ceremony itself, were admitted by the south door in the Castle Green from ten to eleven o'clock. A very considerable number of the bachelors of the people and certainly the prettiest ladies, whom it would be possible to meet with in Europe, assembled about half-past nine o'clock, and waited for the opening of the doors with that good-humoured patience which is only comprehensible when the thing waited for is a right to be bored only once in a lifetime. A venerable amateur present declared that he had not seen so fashionable or so good-placed-looking a crowd since the flood in the year one, which, ever so many years ago, super for admission to Paris's beauties, the leaders of the fashionable world, the semeiter d'elite and wealth and dandyism, were brilliantly represented there; and the presence of sundry distinguished authors showed that, for once, the common men of literature had been deemed worthy to be ranged with the Brahminical classes. Literature and journalism, and the arts pictorial, had their due, and had anonymous representation in a separate portion of the structure, whence they commanded a sweeping view of the whole of the proceedings, probably the best in the whole chapel; while Mr. William Powell Frith, R.A., whose magnificent and onerous commission it is to execute a painting of the Royal marriage for the Queen, was accommodated with a special corner for himself and his sketch-book on the haut pas itself. A convenient angle was to be found in the left of the choir, by the communion-table, it having been deemed indispensable that the great, and we venture to predict, most successful, work which is to be the permanence should contain a representation of the Royal pew, as well as that he should have every opportunity of closely scanning the confronted and most picturesque scene which is at this present time.

The company admitted to the nave were in morning dress: and it need scarcely be said that the ladies were in the most elegant and brilliant toilets. Innumerable marvels in the way of bonnets, and unapproachable triumphs as regards face and flowers, were of course exhibited; while, indeed, the fashionable shows of the millinery and fabrics interwove with gold, was the inevitable white bunnous so pre-eminent, with which to adorn the head when going to or springing suggest the possibility of ringing the passing bills. It must be admitted, however, that the ladies were not in the least degree the suggested circular was remarkable more for its rarity than for its profusion, and that gigantic hoops were throughout the day more honoured in the breach than in the observance. Even our Lord Chamberlain had, with unusual sagacity, caused nonsurrounds at the seats previously forwarded to the holders of ticket-holders, or whether the ladies had held a mass meeting among themselves, and, agreeing to a temporary suspension of the standing order, had resolved, temporarily, for one day, on a temporary restrictive measure, we have no means of ascertaining; but certain it is that the hoops of the fashionable promenade seemed banished for the nonce from Windsor's antique halls, and that, consequently, few complaints were heard on this score, and that, consequently, few complaints were heard on this score, and that, consequently, few complaints were heard on this score

Falmerston, who, so soon as he had reached his stall, was conspicuous by his sanguine wavy attitudes, and by his countenance bright with unimpaired intelligence and vivacity. Whatever the mortal frame of the noble Viscount may be, there was enough to show, as he turned his white curly head from side to side to talk with his worthy gossip to his neighbours, that his heart and mind were still young. By this time—it was a quarter to twelve—another personage, elderly, unannounced, but not unnoticed, had come upon the threshold, of this stately scene. In the antique cloud over the communion-table there appeared, behind the gilt rail, first a Lord-in-Waiting. Lord Methuen next a Lady of the Bedchamber, Lady Churchill: next a Woman of the Bedchamber, the Hon. Miss Robert Bruce; and lastly, the most illustrious of all the inmates of the great palace, the Queen, who, before her pale face, even to her pinched lips wore a close-fitting, underrued widow's cap, with long streamers of lawn. Her handsome, but sad-looking black ribbon of the Garter, with its glittering star, and round her neck what seemed to be a locket suspended from a chain of gold. Her face looked very, very pale; but her step, as before, its accustomed dignified, and serious and inconsolable melancholy, we rejoice to say that no signs of actual malady were visible in the royal widow's person. Her countenance was calm and statuesque indeed till her sons and her daughters, and all the little children of her race, had come upon the scene, and then all her; and then her mother's heart, moved and bruised up for the supreme and imperial effort of that hour, gave way, and she bowed her head and wept. The whole Household wept also. To check further laugh upon her presence and demeanour during the ceremony would be, in the heart, cruelty.

Shortly before twelve o'clock the scene became the centre of interest. Its aspect was most animated. The delicious gloom of the ceiling, walls, and canons, picked out with bronzed shields and mullions, and vividly relieved by the deep blues and crimsons in the windows, was further made more comfortable with the scarlet-edged tiers of seats on either side the deep red river of carpeting. In long lines within which the royal personages of the reception-rabies, and the glowing parterres of elegantly-dressed ladies on either side. The Yeomen of the Guard, in their scarlet double dress with gold lace, were marshalled on each side of the aisle; the royal cognisance and cipher, their ruffs, purpled hose, flat hats of black velvet, and their fine curtain-axes lifted up, and their massive halberts, hard marched in under the command of their Ensign, and now fringed each side of the aisle. In front of them, but in perchance as far as the organ, were the Gentlemen-at-Arms, with their red coats heavily epaulcted, their white-plumed casques, and gilt partisans. Each gentleman is a person of birth, and of family, brave, in all the storm of the Colleges of Arms' bedizonment; and close to the communion-table—a splendid group—the band and drummers and trumpeters in coats of cloth of gold. The kettledrums were borne on a man's back. Heralds and trumpeters drew a little on one side. The golden curtains behind, lifted up, and the royal guests made their appearance and proceeded slowly down the nave.

In the first rank, the Maharajah Duleep Singh, and Prince Duleep Singh, Knight of the Star of India, a handsome, brown-faced, black-moustached gentleman, whose breast were was to advantage with anything like precision, to describe; for, from his turban to his slippers, it was one mass of jewels and embroidery, gold and silver tissue and brocade. Next, the Maharajah's splendid son, a child of the "Arabian Nights," and nearly took away the breath of those who were the first to see him. Following these, and in the rear of Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, C.B., in his Guardsman's uniform, the Prince of Leiningen, and the Duke of Holstein-Glücksburg, followed. To them succeeded Prince Augustus of Saxe Coburg and Gotha, and then the Danish Princes and Princesses, her Royal Highness Princess Dagmar, and Prince Valdemar Tyrga, with her fresh young face framed out, and dainty spangled shoes, and slim legs clad in silken hose, and shoulders shrouded in lace. Then the Princess Mary, fairy in a spectacle; Princes Frederick and William of Denmark; the Belgian Royal family: the Count of Flanders and the Duchess of Brabant: the Duke of Nemours, Prince Gustavus of Denmark, led by the mother of the bride, Princess Christian of Denmark—née Princess Louisa of Hesse Cassel—the young Princes of Saxe Coburg and Gotha; Prince Frederick of Hesse-Cassel; and a brilliant train of equerries, aides-de-camp, and gentlemen in attendance on the above-named distinguished personages. They entered, the Princes duly conducted to their seats, and, after a brief interval, the curtain was drawn back from the front communion-table, and began a brilliant fanfare. Sounding their silver clarions bravely, and advancing with slow, measured tread, they passed down the procession of the Royal family and of the Queen's household, from which, when they had reached the termination of the line of Yeomen of the Guard, at the door, they were followed by the Gentlemen-at-Arms, they filed off.

The Royal family cortége consisted of an ensemble of heralds and pursuivants; the Equerry in Waiting, Major-General Seymour: and the Groom in Waiting, Lord Alfred Paget. To them succeeded the Comptroller of the Household, Lord Proby: the Treasurer, Viscount Bury; and the Keeper of the Privy Purse, Sir Charles Phipps. Then the Groom in Waiting, Lord Sondes, Mortimer Sackville West, and the Lord in Waiting, Lord Camoys. The Lord Steward, the Earl of St. Germans, K.B., lately returned from Rome, followed by the Judges and Chroniclers, bearing themselves haughtily, albeit in their apparel, there is a blending of the medieval and the modern, which struggles between the old and the new buttercup. With a gentleman on each side there next came, with slow and stately step, Garter King-at-Arms, the collar of his office, collar, and badge of gold, and carrying his crown, and wearing his scarlet satin mantle of the order over his splendid tabard. Then the Treasurer, Viscount Hood, and Deputy Earl Marshal; then the Lord Chamberlain, Viscount Sydney; immediately preceding her Royal Highness Princess Mary of Cambridge, who looked very well, and in good form, and attire, and whose flowing train was borne by Lady Edith Somerset. Next came the Royal Highness the Princess Alexandra, bride, came next, her train being borne by Lady Geraldine Somerset. The junior bride's maid of honour followed closely upon their aunt. There was pretty little Princess Beatrice, Prince Arthur, Prince Arthur, in the Highland costume, and the still more Lilliputian Prince Leopold. Then the Princess Helena and Princess Helena was borne by Lady Caroline Barrington, the Lady Superintendent.

A very brief space was suffered by etiquette to separate the foregoing from the next section of the procession, which was headed by her Royal Highness Princess Louise, Princess Alexandra of Great Britain and Ireland, her trainbearer being the Baroness Schenck as bridesmaid, and by her husband, Lord Lorne, in the uniform of his Royal Highness Prince Louis of Hesse, attended by Captain Wetherall, followed. This group proceeded her Royal Highness the Crown Princess of Prussia, Princess Royal of Great Britain and Ireland, bearing her little son, Prince William of Prussia, who, almost a baby as he is, was in the full dress of a Highland chief, and memorable among the juvenile branches of the Royal family, and who looked the most perfect little gentleman that ever was seen in a kilt and hose. A long train of chamberlains, equerries, ladies of the bedchamber, maids of honour, Bedchamber women, the Master of the Buckhounds, the Silver Stick in Waiting, the Captains of the Yeomen of the Guard, and the Gentlemen-at-Arms, all of whom names we have already published in the list, completed the nave; and as we have said, we must spare a special word for Gold Stick, Field Marshal Viscount Combermere, G.C.B., and K.S.I., who, although he has passed his ninety years of age, if not on the wrong side of nonagenarianism, looked still hale and hearty, and walked with a stately and imposing manner. His old hero walks with the aid of a stick, and one leg is rigid with gout, but for all that, he is erect and defiant, and looks as though he could go through twenty more campaigns, and add twenty more stars, crosses and ribbons to the ladder of fame, the galaxy of glory which covers his honoured breast.

The drums and trumpets filed off as before when the procession of the Royal family arrived at the entrance to the choir, but continued playing till it had entered, when Beethoven's triumphal march was played by the organ and by her Majesty's private band.

The Lord Chamberlain, having the drums and trumpets before him, now returned to the west entrance, to await the arrival of the bridegroom's train. There was a deep silence, both in nave and choir, followed by the rustling of many robes, as the new-comers retired themselves in their places, and the long-drawn breath of eager expectation. The bridegroom was coming! What would he be like? How would he be dressed? Would he be content with the plain scarlet mess and gold sash of a General in the Army? These were questions nervously whispered; not, perhaps, in the choir, whose occupants might be supposed to be profoundly versed in the minutest details of Court etiquette, but by those in the comparatively unsophisticated nave, who were not as yet familiar with the personal appearance of his Royal Highness, and were in ignorance as to the precise nature of the sartorial triumphs about to be displayed before their astonished and delighted eyes. All these doubts were speedily resolved. It was a quarter past twelve when the procession of the bridegroom's train breath the drapery of the western portal, drums and trumpets, with Mercury and Apollo, Garter King-at-Arms, the Hon. Robert Bruce; and lastly, the most illustrious of all the inmates of the great palace, the bride, who, poor little dear, even to her pinched lips wore a close-fitting, underrued widow's cap, with long streamers of lawn. The handsome, but sad-looking black ribbon of the Garter, with its glittering star, and round her neck what seemed to be a locket suspended from a chain of gold. Her face looked very, very pale; but her step, as before, its accustomed dignified, and serious and inconsolable melancholy, we rejoice to say that no signs of actual malady were visible in the royal widow's person. Her countenance was calm and statuesque indeed till her sons and her daughters, and all the little children of her race, had come upon the scene, and then all her; and then her mother's heart, moved and bruised up for the supreme and imperial effort of that hour, gave way, and she bowed her head and wept. The whole Household wept also. To check further laugh upon her presence and demeanour during the ceremony would be, in the heart, cruelty.

Shortly before twelve o'clock the scene became the centre of interest. Its aspect was most animated. The delicious gloom of the ceiling, walls, and canons, picked out with bronzed shields and mullions, and vividly relieved by the deep blues and crimsons in the windows, was further made more comfortable with the scarlet-edged tiers of seats on either side the deep red river of carpeting. In long lines within which the royal personages of the reception-rabies, and the glowing parterres of elegantly-dressed ladies on either side. The Yeomen of the Guard, in their scarlet double dress with gold lace, were marshalled on each side of the aisle; the royal cognisance and cipher, their ruffs, purpled hose, flat hats of black velvet, and their fine curtain-axes lifted up, and their massive halberts, hard marched in under the command of their Ensign, and now fringed each side of the aisle. In front of them, but in perchance as far as the organ, were the Gentlemen-at-Arms, with their red coats heavily epaulcted, their white-plumed casques, and gilt partisans. Each gentleman is a person of birth, and of family, brave, in all the storm of the Colleges of Arms' bedizonment; and close to the communion-table—a splendid group—the band and drummers and trumpeters in coats of cloth of gold. The kettledrums were borne on a man's back. Heralds and trumpeters drew a little on one side. The golden curtains behind, lifted up, and the royal guests made their appearance and proceeded slowly down the nave.

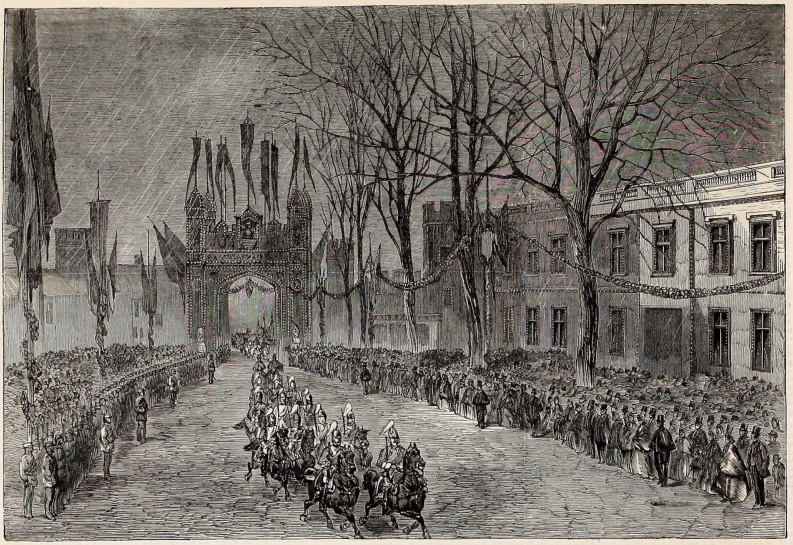
In the first rank, the Maharajah Duleep Singh, and Prince Duleep Singh, Knight of the Star of India, a handsome, brown-faced, black-moustached gentleman, whose breast were was to advantage with anything like precision, to describe; for, from his turban to his slippers, it was one mass of jewels and embroidery, gold and silver tissue and brocade. Next, the Maharajah's splendid son, a child of the "Arabian Nights," and nearly took away the breath of those who were the first to see him. Following these, and in the rear of Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, C.B., in his Guardsman's uniform, the Prince of Leiningen, and the Duke of Holstein-Glücksburg, followed. To them succeeded Prince Augustus of Saxe Coburg and Gotha, and then the Danish Princes and Princesses, her Royal Highness Princess Dagmar, and Prince Valdemar Tyrga, with her fresh young face framed out, and dainty spangled shoes, and slim legs clad in silken hose, and shoulders shrouded in lace. Then the Princess Mary, fairy in a spectacle; Princes Frederick and William of Denmark; the Belgian Royal family: the Count of Flanders and the Duchess of Brabant: the Duke of Nemours, Prince Gustavus of Denmark, led by the mother of the bride, Princess Christian of Denmark—née Princess Louisa of Hesse Cassel—the young Princes of Saxe Coburg and Gotha; Prince Frederick of Hesse-Cassel; and a brilliant train of equerries, aides-de-camp, and gentlemen in attendance on the above-named distinguished personages. They entered, the Princes duly conducted to their seats, and, after a brief interval, the curtain was drawn back from the front communion-table, and began a brilliant fanfare. Sounding their silver clarions bravely, and advancing with slow, measured tread, they passed down the procession of the Royal family and of the Queen's household, from which, when they had reached the termination of the line of Yeomen of the Guard, at the door, they were followed by the Gentlemen-at-Arms, they filed off.

The Royal family cortége consisted of an ensemble of heralds and pursuivants; the Equerry in Waiting, Major-General Seymour: and the Groom in Waiting, Lord Alfred Paget. To them succeeded the Comptroller of the Household, Lord Proby: the Treasurer, Viscount Bury; and the Keeper of the Privy Purse, Sir Charles Phipps. Then the Groom in Waiting, Lord Sondes, Mortimer Sackville West, and the Lord in Waiting, Lord Camoys. The Lord Steward, the Earl of St. Germans, K.B., lately returned from Rome, followed by the Judges and Chroniclers, bearing themselves haughtily, albeit in their apparel, there is a blending of the medieval and the modern, which struggles between the old and the new buttercup. With a gentleman on each side there next came, with slow and stately step, Garter King-at-Arms, the collar of his office, collar, and badge of gold, and carrying his crown, and wearing his scarlet satin mantle of the order over his splendid tabard. Then the Treasurer, Viscount Hood, and Deputy Earl Marshal; then the Lord Chamberlain, Viscount Sydney; immediately preceding her Royal Highness Princess Mary of Cambridge, who looked very well, and in good form, and attire, and whose flowing train was borne by Lady Edith Somerset. Next came the Royal Highness the Princess Alexandra, bride, came next, her train being borne by Lady Geraldine Somerset. The junior bride's maid of honour followed closely upon their aunt. There was pretty little Princess Beatrice, Prince Arthur, Prince Arthur, in the Highland costume, and the still more Lilliputian Prince Leopold. Then the Princess Helena and Princess Helena was borne by Lady Caroline Barrington, the Lady Superintendent.

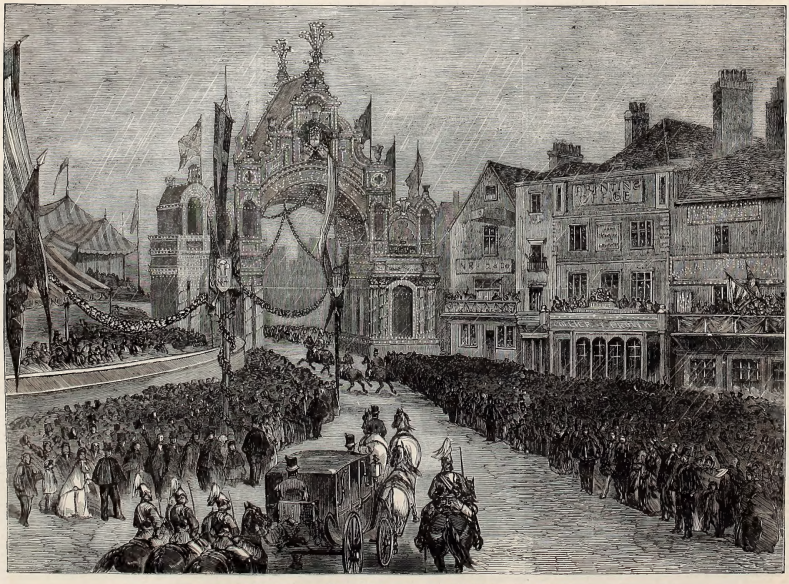
A very brief space was suffered by etiquette to separate the foregoing from the next section of the procession, which was headed by her Royal Highness Princess Louise, Princess Alexandra of Great Britain and Ireland, her trainbearer being the Baroness Schenck as bridesmaid, and by her husband, Lord Lorne, in the uniform of his Royal Highness Prince Louis of Hesse, attended by Captain Wetherall, followed. This group proceeded her Royal Highness the Crown Princess of Prussia, Princess Royal of Great Britain and Ireland, bearing her little son, Prince William of Prussia, who, almost a baby as he is, was in the full dress of a Highland chief, and memorable among the juvenile branches of the Royal family, and who looked the most perfect little gentleman that ever was seen in a kilt and hose. A long train of chamberlains, equerries, ladies of the bedchamber, maids of honour, Bedchamber women, the Master of the Buckhounds, the Silver Stick in Waiting, the Captains of the Yeomen of the Guard, and the Gentlemen-at-Arms, all of whose names we have already published in the list, completed the nave; and as we have said, we must spare a special word for Gold Stick, Field Marshal Viscount Combermere, G.C.B., and K.S.I., who, although he has passed his ninety years of age, if not on the wrong side of nonagenarianism, looked still hale and hearty, and walked with a stately and imposing manner. His old hero walks with the aid of a stick, and one leg is rigid with gout, but for all that, he is erect and defiant, and looks as though he could go through twenty more campaigns, and add twenty more stars, crosses and ribbons to the ladder of fame, the galaxy of glory which covers his honoured breast.

The drums and trumpets filed off as before when the procession of the Royal family arrived at the entrance to the choir, but continued playing till it had entered, when Beethoven's triumphal march was played by the organ and by her Majesty's private band.

The Lord Chamberlain, having the drums and trumpets before him, now returned to the west entrance, to await the arrival of the bridegroom's train. There was a deep silence, both in nave and choir, followed by the rustling of many robes, as the new-comers retired themselves in their places, and the long-drawn breath of eager expectation. The bridegroom was coming! What would he be like? How would he be dressed? Would he be content with the plain scarlet mess and gold sash of a General in the Army? These were questions nervously whispered; not, perhaps, in the choir, whose occupants might be supposed to be profoundly versed in the minutest details of Court etiquette, but by those in the comparatively unsophisticated nave, who were not as yet familiar with the personal appearance of his Royal Highness, and were in ignorance as to the precise nature of the sartorial triumphs about to be displayed before their astonished and delighted eyes. All these doubts were speedily resolved. It was a quarter past twelve when the procession of the bridegroom's train breath the drapery of the western portal, drums and trumpets, with Mercury and Apollo, Garter King-at-Arms, the Hon. Robert Bruce; and lastly, the most illustrious of all the inmates of the great palace, the Queen, who, before her pale face



THE ROYAL CARRIAGES PASSING THE ARCH PREPARED BY THE ETON BOYS.



THE ROYAL CORTEGE APPROACHING THE ARCH ON THE CASTLE HILL, WINDSOR.

PRESENTATION OF ADDRESS BY THE MAYOR OF WINDSOR.

That royal train would arrive at the station precisely at 5.37 p.m. Special arrangements were made by the South-Western Railway Company all down the line for the safety and punctuality of the train. The arrangements made by Mr. Beach, the Southampton station master, and Messrs. Giles, Hedger, and Levry, connected with the docks, were admirable. The whole way the train had to pass over, from the ticket station to the embarkation steps, was inclosed, and the inclosure adorned with triumphal arches and other decorations. At the embarkation steps there was a raised stage inclosed for a number of ladies and gentlemen admitted by ticket, one also for the Mayor and Corporation, and ample accommodation was made for the public press and others. Grand barges were moored close to the Royal yacht Fairy. It could be reached most conveniently by means of a flight of steps from the quay, but the gangway to the yacht was washed for the Royal party to step from the barge to the yacht. Huge steamers surrounded the passage of the Royal yacht, and were gaily decorated with flags and crowded with people. It is curious that the Princess of Wales, on her way from the station to the dock, passed by the house of the Danish consul, whose daughter the King Canute rebuked the flattery of his courtiers, and not far off are the remains of the palace of Canute, whose family it is a question post the Marsh, and the ticket stations, crowds of persons were present to welcome the Royal couple. The town was gaily decked out with horses, and amidst cheers and every sign of welcome and rejoicing. The rush to the docks with the train was tremendous, and the cheering enthusiastic. The Royal pair were received with profound homage by the municipal and dock authorities. The Mayor tendered permission for their Royal Highnesses an address, which was graciously accepted, and his Worship spoke a few words, wishing their Royal Highnesses joy. The chairman of the Docks Company presented them in an appropriate speech. The Princess looked well, and both she and her husband seemed delighted with the enthusiastic welcome that had received. At about half-past six the Royal yacht Fairy began to move and to slowly wend her way through the dock between rows of gigantic steamers crowded from the rigging to the lower decks, and amidst music, tumultuous cheers, and the waving of hats and handkerchiefs from tens of thousands of spectators. The Royal yacht passed to Southampton. As soon as the Royal yacht came into the offing her Majesty's ship Hogue, Rosamond, Dauntless and Wanderer and manned. Troops of people on both shores of Southampton Water cheered the Royal pair on their way to their inland palace. It is estimated that upwards of 100,000 persons were in Southampton.

The Royal yacht Fairy arrived at East Cowes at ten minutes past seven, and went rejoicing, where she was received by salutes from the Mayor and Corporation of Ryde, and the Prince and Princess of Wales reached Osborne at twenty minutes to eight. Scores of large bonfires were lighted down the Channel and inland on the Isle of Wight, which had a splendid effect.

THE PRINCESS OF WALES'S HOUSEHOLD.

The following appointments of the Princess of Wales has been pleased to make the following appointments:—

TO BE CHAMBERLAIN TO HER ROYAL HIGHNESS.
Lord Harris.

TO BE LADIES OF THE BEDCHAMBER TO HER ROYAL HIGHNESS.
The Marchioness of Carmarthen.
The Countess of Morton.
The Countess of Macclesfield.
Countess De Grey.

TO BE BEDCHAMBER WOMEN TO THE ROYAL HIGHNESS.
The Hon. Mrs. Robert Brand.
The Hon. Mrs. William George Grey.
The Hon. Mrs. Edward Cole.
The Hon. Mrs. Francis Stonor.

THE PRINCE OF WALES AND HIS TUTORS.

Among those present at the meeting of the Senate in St. George's Chapel, and remarkable at the sojourner in St. George's Hall, were the Rev. H. M. Birch and the Rev. C. F. Tarver, both of whom had been selected by the instruction of the Prince of Wales in his early years, and as, his incident will show, had not been forgotten by him. After the sojourner had informed the Senate that it was a certain room in the castle they would find a memorial from the Prince, of which he desired their acceptance, and this proved to be a copy of the Holy Scriptures, handsomely bound, and inscribed by his Royal Highness as a memento of his wedding-day. Through the kindness of the Prince of Wales the Rev. C. F. Tarver, who is the son of the late Professor of French in Eton College) has been presented by the Lord Chancellor to the living of St. John's, in the Isle of Thanet, vacant by the death of the Rev. Sanderson Robins, of the value of nearly £700 per annum.

THE WEDDING BOUQUET.

Mr. James Veitch, jun., of the Royal Exotic Nursery, King's-road, Chelsea, had the honour of presenting the Princess' bridal bouquet. It was composed of beautiful orange-blossoms, stephanotis, maiden hair, cardiocoslowes, and sprigs of myrtle; the whole being encircled with a chaste trimming of Honiton lace. By her Majesty's express command, the myrtle was taken from plants reared from sprigs used in the bouquet which Mr. Veitch presented to her Royal Highness the Princess Royal on the occasion of her marriage. It is understood to be the Queen's desire that myrtle plants should be raised and kept in the pleasure at Osborne from each of the bridal bouquets of the Royal family.

THE ROYAL WEDDING CAKE.

We learn from the Morning Post that Mr. Constant Paynter, the Queen's confectioner at Windsor Castle, made the bridecake. It stands 3 ft. high, and at the base is 3 ft. 6 in. in circumference, and weighs of 100 lb. Mr. Paynter, adopting a Gothic design, has produced an ornamental "elevation" which reminds one of one of our old English crosses of the time of the Edwards, such as we see at the entrance to Waltham in remembrance of Queen Eleanor. The design is divided into four principal divisions. The basement is adorned with which in arches two niches contain the arms of England and Denmark, with alternate arches occupied by figures of Britannia and Hibernia. Above the basement and the two tiers of arches, cornucopias hang over the parapet, and medallions of the Prince and Princess are hung from the bases of the pillars above. The shafts of these pillars are entwined with heraldic devices—the plumes of the Prince, and other such significant badges, while wreaths, and occupying the spaces, and figures emblematic of Hymen, surrounded by Cupids and other mythological attendants upon the nuptial ceremony. On reaching the apex of the octagonal shape contracts into an hexagonal form, within the arches of which the god of love sports, surrounded by a variety of complimentary emblems, and on the top of the whole quadrilateral, rises, which, being more contracted in size and approaching where is decked with as a sort of bower of orange flowers surmounting the whole structure, out of which orange-flowers depend. Festoons of orange-flower wreaths hang from column to column.

THE LADIES' DRESSES.

The dress of the Princess of Wales was a petticoat of white satin trimmed with six chains of orange-blossoms, myrtle, and bouffants of tulle, with a Honiton lace, the train, of silver moire antique, trimmed with bouffants of tulle, Honiton lace, and bouquets of orange-blossom and myrtle, and the body of the dress trimmed to correspond.

Her Royal Highness wore a veil of Honiton lace, and a wreath of orange-blossom and myrtle.

The bracelet, earrings, and brooch of pearls and diamonds were the gift of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. Riviere of diamonds, the gift of the Corporation of London. Opal and diamond bracelet, given by the Queen. Diamond bracelet, given by the ladies of Leeds; and opal and diamond bracelet, given by the ladies of Manchester.

The wreaths of the bridesmaids were formed of blush roses, shamrocks, and white heather, with long veils of tulle fixed falling from the back of the wreath. The dresses of white tulle over white glace were trimmed to correspond.

Princess Mary of Cambridge wore a train of lilac silver moire, trimmed with white Honiton lace, petticoat of white satin, with flounces bouffants and bands of lilac velvet; diadem of diamonds; stomacher, necklace, and earrings of diamonds. Headdress, white feathers and tulle veil.

The Duchess of Cambridge wore a violet velvet train trimmed with ermine; petticoat of violet satin trimmed with black lace covered with a tunic of Honiton lace; a tiara of pearls and diamonds; necklace and stomacher to match.

Princess Helena wore a train of white silk, with bouquets of the rose, shamrock, and thistle, tied with silver cord, encircled by Lewis and Allenby, trimmed with tulle and bouquets of lilac, white and lilac; petticoat of white tulle over white glace, striped with bouquets of shamrock, and thistle; bouquet of lilac. Headdress, wreath of lilacs, white feathers, and blonde lappets; diamond ornaments.

Princess Louise and Princess Beatrice, dress of white tulle over white glace, trimmed with bouquets of rose, shamrock, and thistle, tied with silver cord; trimmed with bouquets of lilacs. Headdress wreaths of lilac (white and lilac); pearl ornaments.

Her Imperial Highness the Princess of Brabant wore a train of blue moire antique embroidered with gold.

THE CARRIAGES OF THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The carriages of the Prince of Wales and Princess Alexandra, by Messrs. Hooper and Co., Haymarket, coachbuilders to her Majesty and the Royal Family, are four in number, and consist of a state coach, for use on public occasions; a light and handsome wagonette, for country excursions, &c.; a barouche, for the private use of the Princess; and a brougham, designed for private use. The State carriage is a superb vehicle, the prevailing colours being chocolate and warm yellow, the latter being richly gilt. The ornaments of the roof are adorned with rich gilt crowns, and on the door-panels the arms of the Prince of Wales and those of the Princess are emblazoned. On the other panels the Prince of Wales's plumes are repeated, surrounded by the collar and the order of the Garter. The hammercloth is also richly gilt, and is made to be composed of Crown velvet of a purple colour, on which are richly embalmed the Prince's plumes, &c. The carriage is lined throughout with rich gold-coloured gilt carriage-lamps complete the appointments of this truly Regal carriage. The barouche or landau, being designed for the use of the Princess, is of a lighter and more gaily tinted character. It is understood that his Royal Highness took a direct personal interest in the construction of this carriage, and gave many valuable hints as to its decoration. The prevailing colours were chocolate and vermilion, and the interior is lined with rich silk. The wheels are picked out in a light vermilion intended for shooting and other excursions in the country. It is provided with Hadcock's patent contrivance for lowering the driving-seat for the convenience of the Princess for of ground that is gone over up to thirty miles, when it can be wound up and protected by a hood. The brougham is a comfortable carriage vehicle, adapted for private use. It is small, but comfortably and tastefully fitted up.

WEDDING PLATE PRESENTED TO THE PRINCESS OF WALES BY THE ROYAL FAMILY AND PEOPLE OF DENMARK.

Previously to her leaving Denmark, her Royal Highness Princess Alexandra received many gratifying tokens of the esteem and affection with which she is regarded by her fellow country men and women of all classes. Among the gifts which were to be handed to the Princess, to strove to testify in some way their regard for our future Queen. The King's gift which we have engraved upon this page, a handsome ornamental vehicle, adapted for private use. It is small, but comfortably and tastefully fitted up.

WEDDING PLATE PRESENTED TO THE PRINCESS OF WALES BY THE ROYAL FAMILY AND PEOPLE OF DENMARK.

Previously to her leaving Denmark, her Royal Highness Princess Alexandra received many gratifying tokens of the esteem and affection with which she is regarded by her fellow country men and women of all classes. Among the gifts which were to be handed to the Princess, to strove to testify in some way their regard for our future Queen. The King's gift which we have engraved upon this page, a handsome ornamental vehicle, adapted for private use. It is small, but comfortably and tastefully fitted up.

The necklace consists of no less than 118 pearls and 2000 brilliants, splendidly set. The Crown Princess of Denmark has received from Mr. Hubertchens, the Court jeweller of Copenhagen, to whom the work was intrusted, and to the taste and art of the designer, Mr. Hansen, the highest praise for the manner in which they have done it. The King visited Copenhagen on the 24th ult. especially to take leave of his Royal niece and to present her with the necklace. The pearls which are attached to it contains some relics of Canute, the patron saint of Denmark, and a slip of parchment, on which the following is written:—"Pearls from the coronation dress of St. Canute Regis et Patroni Danise, anno Frederici VII. Regis Danise sbesitatem. (Piece of the Cross, which was given to Saint Canute Patron Saint of Denmark by Frederick VII., King of Denmark.)"

The bracelet represents Princess Dagmar, the darling Queen of Denmark, and the famous cross which bears her name will, no doubt be interesting to our readers. Dagmar was Queen of Waldemar the Second, surnamed Waldemar, who died in 1241, after having reigned for thirty-nine years and performed many acts of valour. Waldemar married Dagmar, a daughter of Premislaus, King of Bohemia. She was most beautiful, and so universally beloved in Denmark that her name, Dagmar, is still used by the Danish ladies, and to her memory upon her by her adopted country as a mark of its affection. It is sometimes written Dagmor, signifying "mother of day."

In the excellent collection extant of Danish folklore may be found the following, collected by her father, Svabo, and which we give to Dagmar by King Waldemar, the voyage of Strange, his young Envoy, to the Court of Bohemia upon the same interesting business. Strange returned with the Princess Dagmar, and shortly after her death, and the touching incidents of its realisation. They still remain among the most favourite legends of Denmark.

At Dagmar's death, in 1212, she was carried to her grave adorned with a costly jewel which lay upon her breast. This jewel was taken care of, and it is now one of the most precious objects in the Museum of Northern Antiquities at Copenhagen. The cross is about 3 in. high, about 1 in. broad, is covered with figures in enamel on both sides, and appears to be of Byzantine workmanship. On the front is a representation of Christ on the cross, and on the back five half-length figures, Christ in the middle, St. Andrew and St. Peter kneeling on the one side before the left, and St. John the Evangelist on the right. Golden crowns fasten the two sides together, and on these crowns are the words of the motto, "Crux Dannebrog."

The splendid ornament has great artistic value, it being the only enamelled cross which is known to be of Byzantine origin. On the back of the cross is a relic of the Saviour's cross, which was given to Dagmar by Bishop Andreas Sunesen, the friend and co-expert pursued and protected antiquarian studies and the national monuments as the King. The idea of using this famous cross as a motive for the bracelet was a jewel which he intended to give to Princess Alexandra on her leaving Denmark, and which was prevented only by the death of the King.

Her Majesty the Queen Dowager also presented the Princess with an oil-painting by Vilhelm Marstrand, the Danish artist, and one of her brothers and sisters. Her uncle, Prince Frederick of Hesse, who resides at Copenhagen, and her Royal Highness's own family have likewise made numerous ornaments made by the Court jeweller, Michelsen, in imitation of the ornaments worn of old by the Queens and Princesses of Denmark.

The people of Copenhagen presented to the Princess several objects of interest, including a Bible, having for subjects views of the environs and city, the summer palace of Bernstorf, &c., and a celebrated statue by Thorwaldsen, which we have engraved on the next page. The statue, which is a very faithful copy by the celebrated Danish sculptor, M. Bissen the elder (one of the contemporaries of Thorwaldsen and Lebrecht), is from the studio of Thorwaldsen Museum at Copenhagen. Though not figured in "Thorwaldsen's Museum and Lebensbeschreibung," published in 1843, it is a well-known and highly-esteemed work. We learn from Nagler's "Kunst Lexicon" (article "Thorwaldsen") that the great sculptor first executed a statue of Hebe in 1806, but the work from which the present copy is taken dates some twelve years later. The first statue (which is figured in "Mor," tab. 16) is weaker and less decided in its contours; the drapery is arranged to leave the left breast bare, and there are some other slight differences between it and the later work. The present statue was commissioned by an American gentleman named Dewit, but, he having died before it was finished, it was purchased by Mr. Thomas Jarvis, and sent to England in 1852. In 1858 it was bought by Mr. S. Boddington, and subsequently engraved by E. Finden. A duplicate of this work was executed by Thorwaldsen, and it is, as we have already informed our readers, in the Museum at the Thorwaldsen Museum, that the present copy is taken.

The statue is a fine example of Thorwaldsen's pure and classical treatment of classical themes. Though he frequently infused a feeling of his own, this statue might be an ancient Greek work, so thoroughly antique are the feeling and grace, the "motive," the type and character, the disposition of the drapery. Hebe (Ἥβη), called Juventas by the Romans, daughter of Zeus and Here, the everblooming virgin, goddess of youth, waited upon the gods, and as we all know, filled their cups with nectar before Ganymedes obtained his office. Some say she married Hercules after he has ascended to the "gates," she holds in her left hand from the goblet held in her right with the drink of immortality. Hebe is generally represented to be one of the circle of Olympian divinities, her eye resting on the immortal she is approaching with modest beatific mien. Hebe, we may remind the reader, was personified by the ancient authors as assisting her mother Here in putting the horses to her chariot, and in dressing her brother Ares. She also attended Hercules after his apotheosis, and bore to him two sons, Alexiares and Anticetus. Later traditions represent her as a goddess who had the power to make aged persons young again. At Rome there were several temples of Juventas. She is even represented to have had a chapel on the capitol. Pausanias mentions a statue of her at Sicyon. In the presentation of a statue of Hebe engaged in her primary office, as a very flattering compliment may possibly have been paid to both the Princess and Prince of Wales; but whether or not the Copenhagen committee intended to hint that the Princess would fill the Prince's cup full with nectar, a most important present could be offered before her Royal Highness on leaving her Danish home than this souvenir of Denmark's great sculptor.

We have thought that a short memoir of Thorwaldsen at the present moment, and on the occasion of our engraving this statue, will not be unacceptable, and we therefore given a few biographical notes in another column.

The address to the above gifts a committee of the land of aristocracy of Denmark prayed the Princess's acceptance of a group in marble, by Jerichau, the Danish sculptor of Copenhagen, representing Hero and Eve before the fall.

Again, a deputation from the islands of Falster and Lealand attended to offer her Royal Highness several ornaments in gold, copied from antique models preserved in the Antiquarian Museum of Copenhagen.

The Jewish community, on the occasion of their leaving the Princess Prince and Princess Christian, the august parents of the Princess of Wales, executed in the Hebrew character, and richly illuminated. The ladies' subscription provided a complete dinner set and some richly-painted vases, once-ated at the Royal porcelain works of Copenhagen.

Many articles of antiquity and of highly needful use were also contributed. In short, each class vied with the other in bringing its choicest offering to one heart of the beloved heroine of among them; even the shoemakers of Copenhagen begging the Princess's acceptance of the best specimens of the shoes that they could produce.

PRESENTATION OF THE CITY JEWELS.

On Monday week the Lord Mayor and Corporation of the city of London proceeded to Windsor Castle, by special train, on the South-Western Railway, for the purpose of presenting to Princess Alexandra of Denmark (the Princess of Wales), the diamond necklace and earrings which had been chosen by the Corporation as a present from the City as a suitable offering to her Royal Highness on the occasion of her marriage to the Prince of Wales.

The members of the deputation alighted at the grand entrance and assembled in the Waterloo Gallery, whence they were conducted, at a quarter past three o'clock, to the presence chamber in the following state:—The Throne or Garter room.

The Princess was accompanied by her Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, who took her side, and also by her Royal Highness's parents, Prince and Princess Christian of Denmark.

Miss D'Oyley, Miss Knollys, and Lord Suffield stood behind her Royal Highness.

The Prince of Wales and Princess Alexandra were attended upon this occasion by Viscount Sydney, Lord Chamberlain to the Queen; Earl Spencer, Groom of the Stole to his Royal Highness; Lieutenant-General Bruce, Master of the Household; Major-General Lord Alexander (on the Princess); Major-General Seymour, Equerry to her Majesty; Lieutenant-Colonel Keppel, Equerry to the Prince of Wales; Baron Stockmar (Secretary); Lieutenant-Colonel Keppel, Equerry in Waiting; and Colonel Biddulph, the Master of the Queen's Household.

The Lord Mayor and Sheriffs of London, advanced to the Princess and presented her with the diamond necklace and earrings, the kneeling before presenting the jewels in the following address:—

May it please your Royal Highness,—As the Lord Mayor of the city of London, acting in the name and on the behalf of the Corporation, I have the honour to present to your Royal Highness this testimony of the affectionate acceptance of your Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, the token of their esteem and admiration. The Corporation of London have long appreciated the deep interest felt by the citizens of London, in common with all classes of her Majesty's subjects, in the happiness of their future welfare and happiness.

The Lord Mayor then severally presented to Princess Alexandra the Aldermen, the Sheriffs of London and Middlesex, the members of the Reception Committee, and the Common Council, and the Town Clerk.

A dejeûner was served to the Corporation in the Tapestry-room, on quitting which the deputation passed in procession through St. George's Hall.

At the invitation of the Lord Chamberlain of the Queen's Household, the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, members of the Reception Committee, and officers of the Corporation conducted through St. George's Chapel to view the preparations for the Royal marriage.

BRIDAL PRESENTS TO THE PRINCESS OF WALES.

The ladies of Liverpool have presented to the Princess of Wales with a diamond cross. The ladies of Manchester and Leeds have each sent from each town a diamond bracelet. Her Royal Highness has accepted all three gifts. The following correspondence between the Lord Harris, Comptroller of the Household of her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales, and the acknowledgment of the presents addressed to her Royal Highness:—

Windsor Castle, March 12, 1863.

Lord Harris has been commanded by her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales to express to the Ladies' Committee of Manchester her Royal Highness's thanks for the address and the handsome bracelet acknowledgments for the very beautiful gem to the ladies of Manchester for the address and the handsome bracelet sorcerie which they have presented to her Royal Highness. Lord Harris is also desired to express to the ladies of Manchester how deeply sensible of the gratifying expression of sympathy and regard which they have been pleased to offer on the occasion of her Royal Highness's marriage with the Prince of Wales. Her Royal Highness must be infinitely fixed in her heart, and for address, the memory of which Lord Harris has been desired to express's warmest thanks.

To the Executive Committee, Bridal Souvenir Fund, Liverpool.

Windsor Castle, March 12, 1863.

Worshipful Sir,—I have the honour to acknowledge, by command of the Royal Highness the Princess of Wales, the receipt of your letter of the 10th inst., and accompanied by a bracelet of diamonds and signed by you, and accompanied by a bracelet of diamonds, which, when she was precisely placed to accept them. I have the honour to inform you that her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales has been graciously pleased to accept the very beautiful ornaments which you have sent her, and Wales highly appreciates the valuable present which you have sent her, and I am instructed to express to you and the other ladies of Leeds her Royal Highness's warmest thanks for the sincere congratulations and fervent good wishes expressed in their address.—I have, &c.

HARRIS.

To the Ladies of Leeds, Committee of Manchester.

Windsor Castle, March 13, 1863.

Madam,—I am commanded to acquaint you that the diamond bracelet, and the address from the ladies of Leeds which accompanied it, have been laid before her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales.

I am directed, while informing you that her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales is highly pleased to accept the very beautiful ornaments which you, with the other ladies of Leeds, have presented to her, to add that its value, in her estimation, is greatly enhanced by the kind and gratifying sentiments expressed in the address which accompanies it.

I have to communicate to you and the other ladies of Leeds her Royal Highness's warm acknowledgments for those congenial many a (sorry) proofs of the cordial reception prepared for her by the people of this country, and for which she is profoundly recognisant.—I have, &c.

HARRIS.

To the Ladies of Leeds.

A beautiful Highland brooch, prepared from a design by Mr. J. Drummond, R.S.A., London, has been forwarded to Scotland, with an appropriate address, on the Monday previous to her marriage, to Princess Alexandra, at Windsor, from the Highland companies of the Edinburgh Volunteer Rifles, in token of their loyal affection, "as a memorial of Scottish product, and an offering from true Scottish hearts." The following reply was received on Wednesday week from the Lord Chamberlain's department:—

CELEBRATION OF THE ROYAL MARRIAGE: THE SCENE AT THE ALTAR OF ST. GEORGE'S CHAPEL.

T THE ALTAR OF ST. GEORGE'S CHAPEL.

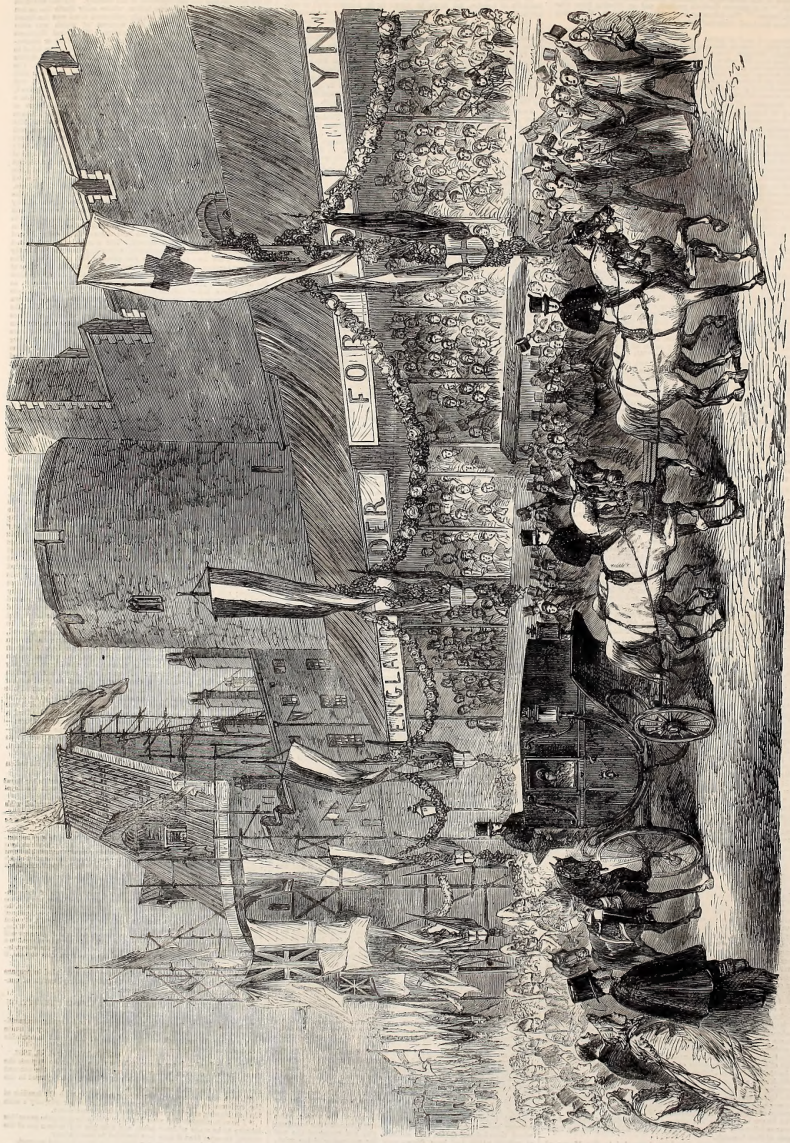
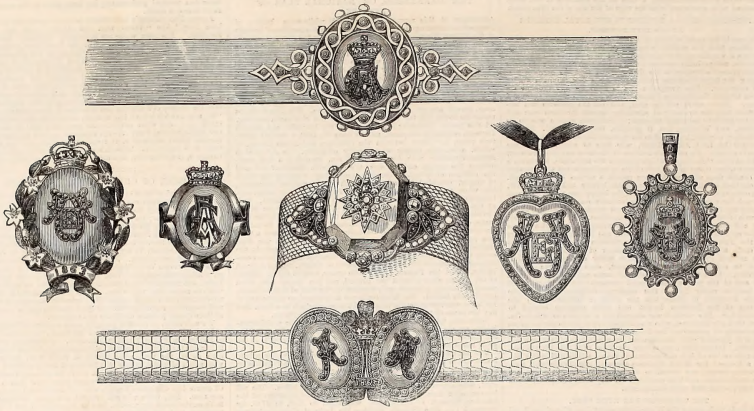
Windsor Castle, March 11, 1863.

Gentlemen,—I have to inform you that the address transmitted to me, together with a brooch, through Lord Elcho, for presentation to Princess Alexandra of Denmark, from the Highland companies of the Edinburgh Rifle Corps, have been laid before her Royal Highness the Princess. Princess Alexandra has been graciously pleased to accept this address and brooch, and has commanded me to say that she has been much pleased to receive a mark of appreciation of her handsome ornament you have offered to her, and will always regard it with the greatest interest, as a token of the kind feeling which exists between those persons who bear the same name, and are connected by the same blood.—I have, &c. (signed) C. B. Phipps, Lord Chamberlain.

The Duke of Bridgewater, K.G., has appointed Sir Thomas Acland, Bart., of Killerton, Devonshire, to be Lord-Lieutenant of the county of Devon, in the room of the late Sir Stafford Northcote, Bart., who has resigned



THE ROYAL PARTY PASSING THE CURFEW TOWER, WINDSOR.



JEWELLERY MADE BY ORDER OF THE PRINCE OF WALES FOR WEDDING PRESENTS TO THE ROYAL FAMILIES OF ENGLAND AND DENMARK.

ILLUSTRATIONS OF THE ROYAL PROGRESS.

ARRIVAL AT THE NORE OF THE ROYAL SQUADRON.

The Royal squadron was sighted from Sheerness shortly after four o'clock on the 6th inst., and preparations suitable to the occasion were made for the reception of her Royal Highness Princess Alexandra. To the several vessels of war stationed at the Nore—the Formidable, 84, Captain Luard, the flagship of Rear-Admiral Sir W. Hope Johnson, K.C.B.; the Cumberland, 70, Captain Thompson, guardship to the steam reserve; and the Leander, 51, Captain Read—was committed the distinguished privilege of being, on behalf of the entire kingdom, the heralds of its joyous greeting. As the Royal yacht approached the merry piping of the boatswain's whistle was heard from vessel to vessel; in a moment unusual animation prevailed; the Danish flag was run up, and the union jack lowered in salute; flags flew from every point from which they could be displayed with effect; the riggings swarmed with men climbing to their diary stations aloft; the yards were manned, the officers of the various vessels were grouped upon the quarter-decks; marines formed double lines from stem to stern, and presented arms; bands struck up the National Anthem of Denmark; and Royal salutes thundered from the iron throats of the ships' guns, evoking a kindred response from the batteries on shore. The Royal yacht had scarcely anchored when a burst of cheering, loud and hearty, rang from ship to ship, renewed again and again with increased intensity and fervour.

THE ROYAL PROCESSION AT THE TRIUMPHAL ARCH, LONDON BRIDGE.

London Bridge presented an appearance wholly novel in the manner of its ornamentation. Out of compliment to the nation of the Princess, the parapets were ornamented with statues of the Kings of Denmark from the earliest period, including that of the present reigning Sovereign, affixed to Danish standards some 30 ft. high, and which in turn were surmounted by gilt figures of ravens and elephants—the national emblems. Between the standards tripods were placed, from which burning incense arose. At the south and north approaches to the bridge elegant pedestals were erected, bearing statues of Fame, surrounded by Danish warriors holding the Dannebrog, or national flag. In the several recesses along the parapets smaller pedestals were arranged in a similar style of ornamentation. On the northern side of Adelaide-place a triumphal arch, about sixty feet high, of which we give an Engraving, had been constructed. The shipping on the Thames and the little passenger-steamers were all profusely decked, and flags floated from buildings on each side of the river, right and left of the bridge, as far as the eye could reach. Every conceivable place commanding a view of the spectacle at that point swarmed with spectators, even the cage at the top of the Monument.

THE PRINCESS'S DRESSING-ROOM, ST. GEORGE'S CHAPEL.

PRESENTATION OF A BOUQUET TO HER ROYAL HIGHNESS

BY THE LADY MAYORESS.

It was to the space in front of the Mansion House, perhaps above all others, that the multitude tended on the day of the procession, because it was the point of convergence of four or five great arteries of traffic, and probably because it was known that the Lady Mayoress would present a bouquet to the Princess, and that the carriage conveying her Royal Highness must pause for a few moments during the ceremony. Accordingly the crowd had to fight its way through the crowd towards the Mansion House, but the line was broken again and again. Force could not be used, and yet the pressure was tremendous and the necessity of advancing urgent, for there were still miles of street to be passed through; Paddington station was to be reached, and Windsor, too, if possible, before nightfall. In this emergency it would be unjust to leave unmentioned the signal service rendered by Lord Alfred Paget, who rode as equerry beside her Royal mistress. By an adroit mixture of firmness and good humour, and a skill in "chaffing" which charmed the multitude, he coaxed a passage where it was impossible to force it, and again and again averted the charge from what might have proved a serious embarrassment. At one time, although it was made, in all loyalty and good-humour, no doubt, to take out the horses, that the hoppy pair might be drawn through the City; at another a man actually mounted the carriage behind the Prince of Wales, while others constantly thronged beside it with friendly but boisterous acclamations. In every case the tact and good humour of the equerries succeeded in averting these well-meant but untimely manifestations, and by degrees the carriage of the Princess approached, the multitude ranging to one side to catch a glimpse of her. The manner of her Royal Highness was marked by much self-possession and considerateness, and contrasted favourably with the former, even amid the general rejoicing. Once or twice she showed some natural apprehension lest any of the people who pressed towards the carriage might be trodden under foot. She appeared delighted to recognise Prince Arthur of Hesse and the Duke of Oldenburg on the balcony of the Mansion House, and their presence seemed to reassure her. The carriage was stopped for a minute to afford Mrs. Rose, the Mayoress, who was accompanied by a child young enough an opportunity of presenting the Princess with an elegant bouquet, in a holder of gold and opals, accompanied by expressions of welcome and goodwill. During this little episode the horse of a Life Guardsman, who rode on the off side of the carriage, became restive and kicked the left and 2nd Orderly, and other regiments too numerous to specify. At three o'clock the procession of the Lord Mayor's carriage had awaited the approach of the procession until half-past four. After hours of waiting, a squadron of the Queen's Bodyguard of Gentlemen at Arms, and the Lord Chamberlain's carriage followed the youthful pair. The Royal cortège passed through the double line of volunteers, many of which, notwithstanding the wet and cold, were in full uniform, and the bands played alternately "God Save the Queen," and "Partant pour la Syrie." Demands for three cheers broke the barriers joining in applause most heartily as the Royal carriage passed. And thus the Royal party passed out of the park by the Marble Arch.

THE ROYAL PROCESSION PASSING THE ETON BOYS' ARCH.

The Etonians determined to erect an arch at the entrance to the college in honour of the occasion, which carried out their intention at a cost of £400. It was modelled in imitation of the clock-tower in the college quadrangle. There were medallions of the Queen and Prince Albert, and a great quantity of festoons and evergreens, the motto above the arch being "Gratulatur Etona." At the bottom in college were ornamental lamps, and the whole appearance The schoolroom was illuminated on the outlines of all the windows, and on the top, and presented a brilliant appearance in the evening, when the procession passed it, the work was not completed. The whole length of the road from the college to Barnspool Bridge was adorned with festoons of flowers hanging from one house to another, and many were shields, banners, &c. The Eton Rifle Corps, 360 strong, under Captain Cracroft and Lieut. Richards, took possession of the side of the college facing the "wall." They came from the quadrangle about a half past five, and by the time the rain had fairly set in they had a disagreeable interiority. At about a quarter past six the long-expected procession arrived under the arch, which was by that time brilliantly illuminated, and the first carriage passed on under the Etonian zone with the cheering was tremendous. It had been arranged that two addresses were to be read to her Royal Highness as she passed Eton—one from the school, and the other from the Provost (as Rector of Eton) and the Fellows. Owing to the rain, which at that time was pouring down in a very determined fashion, the addresses were simply handed in to the Royal carriage. The Eton boys' address was signed by the whole of the boys, more than 800 in number, headed by "H. Moore." The other address was signed by Dr. Goddard, Provost; Mr. Hawtrey, Head Master; Mr. W. J. Hodgson, Vice-Provost; Assistant Masters, the Conduct; Mr. W. Farrar, J.P., of Willow Brook; and the Lower Master, Mr. Okes.

ENTRY INTO WINDSOR AND ARRIVAL AT THE CASTLE.

On the further side of Eton Bridge the Recorder and the Mayor and Corporation of Windsor were in readiness with their address to the Princess of Wales. The rain was still steadily pouring down, but it failed to make any impression on the crowd that lined the streets. The spectators had their spirits and their loyalty with them, and it is much cheerfulness to opine that they could welcome their own civic dignitaries in any kind of temper, not unmixed with irony. They seemed to be chiefly directed at the Recorder, who, arrayed in his wig and gown, and protected by an umbrella, was prepared to read the address. The Mayor, owing to the darkness and the heavy fall of rain, it was impossible to do. The Recorder, therefore, on the Royal carriage approaching, handed the address to the Mayor, who in turn presented it to her Royal Highness, bidding her welcome in the name of the Corporation and inhabitants of the borough. Her Royal Highness accepted the address with a gracious smile, saying, "Thank you, thank you; I am very much obliged to you;" while the Prince of Wales also acknowledged the compliment in a few words. The cortège then moved on up the hill, towards the castle, preceded by a portion of the Cavalry Brigade, escorted more and more by a most loyal and enthusiastic than those who followed at a slower pace. Up the winding hill the procession passed, amid the heartiest acclamations of the dense crowd in the street and at the windows. On the left hand side of the castle gates were drawn up as a guard of honour, under the command of Captain Evans, the Windsor Rifle Corps, who presented arms as the Royal carriages passed. The space by the "Hundred Steps" was occupied by 1200 school children, who added their shrill voices to the loud cheer of welcome which followed and accompanied the Royal party as it progressed. Thus, with the echo of the love and sympathy of a whole nation ringing in her ears, her Royal Highness Princess Alexandra entered the home of England's Royalty.

THE DANNEBROG, OR NATIONAL FLAG OF DENMARK.

ALTHOUGH at this moment the elegant white-cross banner of Denmark is fluttering in the breeze throughout the length and breadth of the United Kingdom, very few know what is the peculiar interest which makes this banner, beyond its mere national distinction, a sacred emblem of victory and triumph to the Danes. The ancient national ensign of Denmark is a red banner, one of the sacred birds of Odin. The raven banner floated from the ships of those seamarauders who defended our shores, and against whom our good King Alfred so successfully fought. This black-raven banner led on "the savage Danes" to battle against us on the very spot where the British host is now encamped in the Sebastopol and Inkerman crews, herself also an emblem of unity and love. The Danes fought with the fierce courage of barbarians against the Christian army. At this period Waldemar II., has band of the beautiful and beloved Princess Dagmar, daughter of the Duke of Prussia, Bohemia, took place, at Volmer, between the Christian and Pagan Danes, in which, when the former were nearly overcome, the Archbishop Anders Sunesen, standing on his holy benediction, on a rising overlooking the battle, and, as was the case with Moses of old and Aaron and Hur, when Israel fought Amalek, during the period of prayer, extended his arms on high the Christians conquered, for when they fell from fatigue the Danes had his advantage. Observing this, his arms were sustained by his brethren, and at the same time, a miracle occurred. The chief banner of the Christians was in the hands of the enemy, or had been lost in the confusion of the battle, when a crimson banner, bearing upon its surface a white cross, was seen to descend gently from heaven, and a voice was heard which said, "When this sign is borne aloft you shall conquer!" With that the tide of victory completely turned; the certain victories had hitherto gathered round the Pagan banner descended banner of the cross, and, assured of victory, rushed forward to the battle. The Christians, elated with success, fell upon the host of the Pagan slain covered the ground, and the Danish host, when were completely overthrown, and fled in every direction. The crossing, gave thanks to God. The King on ferred knighthood on thirty-five of his brave warriors under the banner of the cross, which bore from that day the name of Dannebrog, or the Banner of the Cross.

Jagusaan, whose historical romances have given him a high reputation, has made the Dannebrog his own country's property since the Six Waller Scott of Denmark, has related the above incidents in his great romance of "Waldemar Seier."

The last Danish King of the Swedish old heaven-descended Dannebrog is said still to be preserved in the Treasury of Northern Antiquities in Copenhagen. It is of red silk, with a white cross, and is fringed, and ornamented with gold, and was recovered by Frederick VI., in 1811, from a Swedish officer. Kiel also possesses a flag, which, at that banner, after having survived all the changes and disorders of the kingdom through so many ages, was taken to Kiel, in 1713, by Frederick IV., when he visited that city. It is said that Waldemar had carried it as a spoil of war. By him it was deposited in the church of St. Nicholas, in the city of Kiel, and there it hung, till, however, it fell upon evil days, for on the restoration of the church it was sold with other things as old rubbish. It is supposed that it has been burned, with the exception of this portion of the staff, which has not the value of sacred relic.

The Order of the Flag of Dannebrog was instituted, as above related, by King Waldemar, on the field of battle; but, like the glorious banner itself, it fell into disuse and oblivion, until, in 1671, King Christian V., who nominated the first nineteen knights, and established the statutes of the order by which nobles only could be admitted, and the eight days' festival, which was observed, was remodelled in 1808, by Frederick VI., who admitted also commoners, and greatly increased the number of knights companions. The order now consists of four classes, the gr and master, grand-cross, masters, and knights. The arms are described in Jagusaanson, that is, persons deserving of the badge of honour yet whose modest circumstances would not be consistent with the order of knighthood. The Knights of the Dannebrog are Knights Companions. The badge of the Dannebrogsman, on the contrary, silver crosses. The cross bears also inscription, "For God and Fatherland," and is surmounted by a white, with crimson edges. The birthday of the reigning Monarch is the order's day, and foreigners are admissible equally with natives. On the 16 of January, 1850, the order contained 2705 members.

THORWALDSEN, THE DANISH SCULPTOR.

In the description of our Engraving of the statue of Hebe, after Thorwaldsen, which the wedding guests to the Princess of Wales, we have referred the reader to a few biographic notes on the great sculptor, and we now proceed to give the same.

Albert Bertel Thorwaldsen—Thorwaldsen—who is considered by some of his admirers the greatest of modern sculptors, and to bear comparison with the ancient Greek masters, was born in Copenhagen, a fact not necessary to confirm or otherwise—was born in 1770, at Copenhagen, at his end, and his father was a poor Icelander, who had come to that town. His family was noble. He counted, it is affirmed, ancient Kings of Denmark and famous Icelandic poets and sages among his direct ancestors. But the family was poor, and had to struggle with fortune that his father could with difficulty provide for the education of his children. Albert, the future sculptor, was destined by his parents heads for ships in the Royal dockyard, and it was on these that the great sculptor first proclaimed your bent. He received some education, as all the children of workmen in the holm, or dockyard, were allowed to do, at the King's expense. Albert was a very clever boy, and showed from his first years a great aptitude in ordinary studies, and was supposed to be naturally dull. Nevertheless, he was not dull, for he gained the silver medal at the Royal Free Arts in Copenhagen. Here he attended for several years, during which he assisted his father, the family struggling all the while with poverty and hardship. After carrying on the business of shipbuilder for twenty-three Thorwaldsen gained the highest academic prize for a model in bas-relief, and was sent to Rome for three years, which period at the expense of the Academy, with a salary of 300 dollars for three years. This, even when Copenhagen was much cheaper than now, was so successfully developed, was, however, so ignorant of the commonest elements of literature, that it was necessary to detain him for a course of instruction. He left Rome in 1797, and after a visit to Naples he arrived in Rome, and there he passed a year or more doing nothing, but, apparently, the study of the antique. This study developed him, to the great discouragement and almost despair of his friends; and when at length he made numerous attempts, he was so little satisfied that he destroyed them. His first "Jason with the Golden Fleece," of the natural size, made no impression, and he was left to struggle with the modelling of small figures and groups—size—viz., 9 ft. high; this secured general admiration, and he did not long remain unknown.

He was now, however, thirty years of age; his pension had ceased, and he had to rely on the models that his own appeared hopeless. His therefore resolved to go home; his sole remaining property was completed: "Jason" was to be sent after him. At this critical moment the success of the "Jason" created a sensation in Rome, and without interval the well-known rich English connoisseur, Thomas Hope, invited him to his house, and commissioned him to model "Jason." He was struck by it—asked its price in marble—commissioned it; and, to the lasting honour of Thomas Hope be it remembered, generously paid down the hundred sequins which was the sculptor's demand. This was the turning-point of the sculptor's career; and Thorwaldsen remained at Rome to execute the innumerable classical works which are scattered all over Europe, and more especially in the Vatican, and to acquire a world-wide fame. After thirty-eight years' constant study and work in Rome Thorwaldsen returned, a rich and famous artist, to the city which he had left a poor, obscure, and melancholy young student. Had he been a great military conqueror his reception at Copenhagen could hardly have been more enthusiastic—he had been a conqueror in a fair field, where glory is never won by hazard or without dazard. A frigate was sent to convey him to his native shore, and when he landed the people drew his carriage in triumph through the city. In 1841 he revisited Rome, collected his property together, and finally returned to spend the rest of his days in the city of his long, happy, and glorious life was terminated, at the age of seventy-three. One evening, while taking his accustomed seat to listen to a musical performance, his head sunk on his breast and he never raised it again.

Among Thorwaldsen's best statues we may enumerate the "Shepherd Boy," the "Venus with the Apple," and the "Seated Mercury." His later works are principally sculptures. Thorwaldsen was the first modern who mastered the Greek and true sculptural treatment of bas-relief, in contradistinction to the Florentine. Of his many bas-relief the grand frieze of the "Triumph of Alexander" is perhaps the finest. He was not so successful in portrait statues as in ideal works; his bust of Lord Byron, for example, is a complete failure. Mrs. Jameson, whose excellent notes on the early Italian painters' writings in the Royal Palace we quote, says, justly, that "his inventive genius was as various as it was inexhaustible;" that his facility of execution was a matter of astonishment, and that "no man has left behind him so many works that may be pronounced excellent." But while admiring the sculptor's skill in composition, and fertile productiveness, as in the case of all the great and elevated moral sentiments, it must be admitted that his style was uniform to monotony, and that the works of no artist of modern than Canova's, the latter was, in some respects, more skilful in execution.

SOME OF OUR NORSE FOREFATHERS.

Our richest inheritance as a people is our descent from the Norse sea-kings. Ten centuries ago and they were the terror of all home-a free people, electing their own rulers and governing by the general voice of the nation; abroad they were conquerors and adventurers, planting colonies and laying the foundations of noble kingdoms. They subdued England, and ruled over Normandy; laid deep the foundations, part of Belgium, made inroads into Spain, and five centuries before Columbus discovered America, to say nothing of their colonies in Greenland, Iceland, and Switzerland. Almost the only things they sold were slaves; they were the pioneers of civilization, and were themselves amongst the most intellectual people of their age. Their old poems and mythological and historical sagas remain to this day the admiration of all who are acquainted with them. Far from the latter of these that we will now give a few sketches which are more immediately connected with ourselves, regretting that our space permits only a mere glimpse of these most ancient pictures of our forefathers' manners.

We will show, in the first place, in what manner Athelstane, King of England, and grandson of Alfred the Great, became a vassal-tribute to Hakon, son of King Harold of Denmark. Athelstane, who wished to humble the Danish Monarch, sent messengers to him with a handsome sword, the hilt of which was of gold, and richly adorned with gold and jewels, saying that he prayed him to accept it. Harold received it graciously by the hilt, but on the message—"Tell Him then art our King's subject, as thou hast taken from him a sword." Of course this dispute led to war, but it is not our object to be subject to any man. But, being wise and prudent, and never allowing himself to be carried away by passion, he took no notice of the affront, but consulted with his friends, when it was agreed that Athelstane must be allowed to depart quietly. Now Harold, though an old man, had a son born to him by a handsome young woman of great family. A wise and great Earl called Sigurd was the child's godfather, and the name that he had received from him was Hakon. He was a stout and handsome boy, very like his father, and grew up very strongly up in his house. The next summer, therefore, after Athelstane's affront, Harold sent for his son, and commissioned him to visit Hasbrok, who was a trusty friend of his, and with him went the boy Hakon. When they reached England Athelstane was holding a great feast in a hall in London. Thither went Hauk and his men, thirty in number, he having first, however, given them strict orders how to behave. Athelstane sat in the high seat of the hall in great state, and Hauk, who led the boy by the hand, advancing to him, saluted him, and the King bade him welcome, asking if he had come from Norway on his errand. The King was very much surprised at this, and, looking at the child, asked what it meant. "King Harold bids thee be foster-father to his manchild here, Athelstane," replied the Icelandic messenger. Athelstane was very angry, and, seizing a sword, was ready to kill the child. "Thou canst not do that, my lord," said Hauk very quietly. "Thou canst kill him if so thou will; but King Harold has many more sons." Athelstane was pacified in the end by the child followed by his men in perfect order, and, all going down to their ship, away they sailed. King Athelstane, on second thought, determined to do good unto the child. So he took brought up by him in the Christian faith and in good habits and all kinds of manly accomplishments, and he loved the child for the sake of the deepest affection for him, and he lived with him till his own father's death, when Athelstane sent him back, with excellent store of ships and everything needful; and he was made a wise King and he was surnamed "the good."

Sweyn, or Svend, another famous Danish King, has left many memorials in England, amongst which are his own name, in the words swein, Sweyn, Swayne, and many others, and many of the same significance in Danish to the present day. And here we may remark, in passing, that a great many surnames all over England, especially in the east and the pure Danish parts of Mercia, Sawvin, Swelling, Uph, Rolf, &c. Svend was a powerful man, who took possession of England in the name of Denmark and the Unready. From the north to the south, England was now in the hands of the Danes. Ethelred fled to Normandy; but scarcely had Sweyn been acknowledged King of all the Anglo-Saxons, enough and Canute, his son, reigned in his stead. At the time Ethelred was in Normandy, Canute was in Denmark and the Danish Court. Sweyn came to England with his fleet, he and Sweyn being at enmity. He sailed up the Thames and entered the Lea, and, by the other side of the river, says the Saga of Snorre Sturleson, is a trading-place called Southwark, where the Danes had a strong force within a bulwark of stone, behind a deep ditch and turf. Between Southwark (the Tower) of London and Southwark is a bridge so broad that two wagons could pass each other upon it. Upon this bridge were square towers-towers, breast-high, both of towers and parapets, and under the bridge piles were driven into the bottom of the river. The bridge was covered with troops which repelled any attack. King Olaf and Earl Eyvind, to possess the bridge, consulted with the chiefs how it might be broken down, which they found impracticable. Their purpose he made strong rooting to his ships down to the water's edge, and "put their backs and arms to it," and soon received from the stones which would be thrown down upon them from the bridge. Thus defended, they rowed up the river, and though the violent was the attack made upon them that many fell, yet Olaf's vessels succeeded in getting under the bridge and securing their cables to the piles, which they loosened from the bottom of the stream. The piles were loosened, and the bridge heavily laden as it was, gave way a great many perished, and others fled. So that Southwark and London Castle were taken. On this breaking down of London Bridge the Northern Scald rejoices; he says:—

Gold is won and bright renown, &c.
And the same event is celebrated in the nursery rhyme,
London Bridge is broken down,
Build it up with brick and stone.

The somewhat snowdrop of the Lady Day, having reference perhaps to the river Lea, which was at that time navigable.

Olaf, the Christian King, was, however, also a wonderful man, and his life is a perfect romance; but we cannot do more than close with an anecdote of the miraculous power which he possessed to cure the cripple of his feet. There was a man in Walland who had such bad health that he became a cripple, and went on his hands and knees. He lay by the side of the road, and had fallen asleep, when he dreamed that a gallant man came and stood over him, and bade him get up. He was seized the next town the man said, 'Go to St. Olaf's (St. Olave's) Church in London and thou shalt be cured.' When he awoke he inquired the way to this church. At last he came to London Bridge, and asked the men of the castle if they could tell him where St. Olaf's church was. They said there were so many churches that they could not tell the patron saint of each. Soon after a man came up, and, hearing where he wanted to go, said that he would show him, for that he knew the way. Thereupon they went, till they came to the shrine of St. Olaf; and when they reached the gates of the churchyard the cripple prayed to pass through the door to that was in the, but the cripple rolled himself in, and immediately afterwards rose up sound and strong; but when he looked about him his conductor had vanished.

We have had the pleasure of inspecting at Buckingham Palace the model by Mr. Marshall Wood for a colossal marble bust of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. The Prince gave sittings for this work up to the 8th Wednesday preceding his marriage; and we understand the sculptor (though not always the case in Royal commissions) has had every facility afforded him for making a masterly and faithful work. Mr. Wood has made the very best use of his opportunities. We can commend the truth to nature and fidelity of the likeness with an unreserve often permitted in regard to portraits of Royal personages. Frankly, we should not have given the sculptor of the "Jephthah's Daughter" so much as a subject purely ovelentiesse House of "Dublin," which we engraved from the International Exhibition, credit for being likely to produce an honest and literal resemblance. There is not a trace of the prominent eyes, the well-marked aquiline nose—the strong curves of the line, both in the lips and the junction of the mustache with the facial angle, which have so strong a resemblance to both his Royal Highness's parents, and even several other members of the Royal house; but there are the minuter, subtler features which always distinguish the individual. For instance, Mr. Wood has caught the almost imperceptible difference in the two sides of the face—which are never absolutely the same in Nature—differences which contribute, for Charles Bell tells us and every portrait-painter knows, most essentially to give character and expression. It has been the fashion, ever since the days of Lawrence and his "treated" portraits of the Prince Regent, to pander to a false and mistaken taste for so-called flattery in portraiture, both with pencil and chisel—a fashion which became a public nuisance when applied to personages of historical importance. It is the highest praise we can give Mr. Wood to say that he has chosen a manlier course, and has fully appreciated the greater value and dignity of truth. His Royal Highness himself has expressed his entire satisfaction with the sculptor's efforts. This is the only bust of the Prince of Wales taken from life since the first by Mr. Giblert, a photograph, now in the High School, of which was engraved last year. Several duplicates in marble are commissioned from the original bust. The Lord Mayor will present one, to be placed in the Council Chamber, Guildhall. As a companion, Mr. Anderton has promised a bust of the Princess of Wales for the same place. The Queen of Mr. Wood's bust was to be up in the Townhalls of Manchester and Liverpool. A fourth bust is destined for the M'Gill College, Montreal, the chief collegiate institution of Canada.

We stated last week that Mrs. Thornycroft was the only sculptor to whom the Princess had sat for her bust. We should have said "the only sculptor to whom the Princess had sat in England." A correspondent writes from Copenhagen to the effect, that he has visited the atelier of the distinguished sculptor M. Jerichau, on the 2nd inst., and saw him about finishing a clay model of the Princess who had favoured him with sittings, previous, we understand, at his own request, just before she left Copenhagen. Our correspondent adds that, although the likeness of her Royal Highness is difficult to catch, the features being remarkably regular, the sculptor had secured an excellent likeness, while the bust promised to be a most beautiful work of art. M. Jerichau is the author of "Adam and Eve," which we have already announced is commissioned as a bridal present. This sculptor, who has also his talents at Rome, Jerichau, the oil-painter, have already considerable reputation in this country. Both were distinguished contributors to the International Exhibition, and Mdme. Jerichau had been previously known by works exhibited in the French Gallery, Pall-mall.

The Crystal Palace Art-Union Society has just issued to subscribers for the present season a parian bust, somewhat less than half the height of the natural head, of her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales. We are not informed from what source or materials the likeness is taken, but this is by far the best work of the kind which has yet come before us. It is, as a work of art, modelled with a general truth to nature and a careful delicacy we seldom see in ceramic statuary. Moreover, although the size (5 inches) rendered minuteness had the advantage of giving breadth to the life, or we should have heard thereof, it certainly has a generalised resemblance to the Princess. We cannot say more, for the bust is strikingly like. It would, perhaps, not touch to expect that it should be so in such a material, and from so small a size; but paragraphs, as difficult to analyse.* The happiest part appears to us to be the characteristic smile playing in the cheek from the corner of the mouth and the wing of the nose. On the other hand, the character of the upper lip has not been noted, and the nostrils and extremity of the nose are too much thinned. Subscribers to the Union are also entitled to the chance of a print in the drawing next July.

Three interesting album photographs have been forwarded to us by Mr. Fall, Knemesbrook, Cheltenham, on the occasion of the debarkation of the Princess. In the first the Royal yacht is seen passing H.M. Steamer Osborne, with the yacht in attendance, Victoria pier; and in the third the Royal party is coming on shore. Though not very happy examples of the process, instantaneous photographs only could, we believe, have the details of such animated scenes and give us such accurate representations, comprising not only the Royal yacht, but the Warrior and Defence, the Royal yards manned, the gun-boats of the marine escort, the river shipping, &c.

Messrs. Colnaghi, Scott, and Co., of Pall-mall, announce that they are about to publish an engraving of a picture by her Highness the Princess of Wales, by Mr. Samuel Cousins, R.A., taken by permission from the Royal portrait painted for Her Majesty by M. Lauchert, the Court painter of Berlin. Engravings by Mr. Holl from Mr. Mayall's photographs are also to be published by Mr. Mitchell, of Bond-street.

A collection of photographic portraits of the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Queen, the King of the Belgians, and other members of the Royal family, and the Belgian Royal household, is now on view at the French Gallery, Pall-mall. They are executed by the Fotypie process of M. Ghemar, and are of a size and quality which are familiar from having been for some time past in the shop-windows. The portraits of the Belgian Princes cannot compare with the numerous chief's-room less happy examples of photographic art—with the photograph taken the other day by Mr. Mayall. Moreover, they are "touched" in the objectionable manner. The happiest of the series, too, from the photographs have very little value as art. From the large number of portraits, the collection must, however, from its bulk, less prove attractive. As specimens of photography, some "enlarged" works by this photographer are far more worthy attention. There is "A Woman Selling Spelling Books," like whose figure, from the size of life, which, though not above the suspicion of having been touched—that is, altered—in the intermediate processes of reproduction, is the largest photograph of a figure-subject we have seen, and very remarkable for its truth to nature. There are less noteworthy in a view of Tournay Cathedral (about 6 ft. by 5 ft.), and other large photographs of oxen, horses, &c.

The Council of the Society of Arts has appointed committees to consider various subjects relating to arts and manufactures. The committee of fine art, chairman Sir Thomas Phillips, also chairman of the council, have been invited to suggest any subjects connected with the arts in which they were of opinion that investigation could be usefully carried through the agency of the society, and to revise and recommend the subjects of frescoes, mosaics, and glass painting, and prizes proposed to which the attention of the society might be advantageously directed.

Mr. Morris Moore writes to us from Rome that the commission of the Pontifical Calcographic Department, consisting of Academicians of St. Luke, two or three, at least, of which are men of European reputation, have proposed and undertaken to engrave and publish for the department the picture in Mr. Moore's possession of "Apollo and Marsyas," considering it a genuine work by Raphael. The engravings is to be the same size as the original, and to be executed by Signor Consoni, under the direction of the celebrated engraver Overbeck. Perhaps this will finally confirm the opinion of many connoisseurs in England and on the Continent that the "Apollo and Marsyas" is a genuine example of an early and most interesting part of Raphael's career.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

INCORRECT.—Your inquiries should be addressed to the publisher, Mr. H. G. Bohn, of York-street, Covent-garden, who will, we have no doubt, obtain the information required.

R.B., Croydon.—We have no recollection of the Problem mentioned, It is perhaps, with several others, in the hands of the chess intern. Can you favour us with another diagram of it?

T. KEATING.—For solution of Mr. Cassidy's Problem, No. 899, which appears to have been misunderstood, see our Number for the 15th inst., page 299.

T.—Our multiplicity of replies to your problem, No. 901 have arisen from a further No. 2 solution being found only by half dozen of our correspondents, is has been discovered, on a great deal of re-, by at last half a hundred.

COLONSA.—A lodger so copious as that Jack musical, comprising games and problems of the Chess Player's Chronicle, would be a valuable addition to our present extent to Subscribers. The proposition is, we believe, under consideration, but we cannot at present announce more immediate attention.

T. W.—The solution is, we believe, as requested No 5. The examiner appears to have overlooked the mate.

BELGIUM.—Thanks. We hope to be expected on very shortly.

BELGIUM.—Thanks. We hope to be expected on very shortly.

CHESS CLUBS.—The following Clubs have forwarded rules received, and now under examination.

ERNEST.—The true solution of Enoch Sal No 4 both position is for his elaborate than you have given, and is as follows:—1. Q to Q 6th (ch) &c.

SOLUTIONS RECEIVED.—Of Problem No. 899, Mr. Hassell, S.M., Mr. Bell, Mr. Kinnear, Mr. Kennedy, W. W. P. R.S., Tiverton, A.S.A., Mr. Tweedie, Mr. Bell, Mr. Kinnear, Mr. Kennedy, W. W. P. R.S., Tiverton, A.S.A., Mr. Tweedie, Delta, Z. Ranelah, Reading; Percy, C.H.B., M.P., G. W., Bristol, Mitford, S.H., Mr. Bell, Mr. Kinnear, Mr. Kennedy, W. W. P. R.S., Tiverton, A.S.A., Mr. Tweedie, Delta, Z. Ranelah, Reading; Percy, C.H.B., M.P., G. W., Bristol, Mitford, S.H., Hull; J. Haviland Smith, C.S.A., John Jr Hilton, R.S.A., Wenn C.H., of Derby; J. L., Berwick, J. K., Chester, J. A., St. Cecelia, C. H. B., Percy, Tiverton, Shropshire, Rhoade, Josephus, Dinah, B. D. P., Aglionsort, are correct. All others are wrong.

SOLUTION OF PROBLEM No. 899.

WHITE.	BLACK.
1. R to K 5th	K moves, or (a)
2. Mate accordingly.
(a) If Bishop to Q B 7th or to Q B 4th, then follow 2. Q to Q B 5th (ch), and mate next move.
2. R to Q B 5th (ch) K moves
3. Kt takes P. Mate.

SOLUTION OF PROBLEM No. 900.

WHITE.	BLACK.
1. P to K 4th	Any move.
2. B to Q B 5th	Any move.

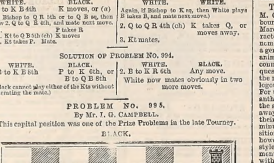
(Black cannot play either of the Kts without necelerating the mate.)

PROBLEM No. 903.

By J. CAMPBELL.

This capital position was one of the Prize Problems in the late Tourney.

BLACK.



WHITE.

White, playing first, to mate in four moves.

BLINDFOLD CHESSPLAYING IN PARIS.

The story achieved by Mr. Morphy and Mr. Paulsen in playing chess without seeing the boards, has given rise to a good deal of excitement and curiosity in the same direction. Among the latest of these is Mr. Macmaid, who, commencing a four months' tour by endeavouring only four simultaneously, walked out a board to aid his combinations, shortly afterwards increased their number to 16, and within the past week gave a public exhibition at the Salle de la Régence, at which he played no less than eight games in this difficult manner, with the following result:—

We have the pleasure to present one of the best games played during the last sitting, when Mr. Macmaid conducted eight games simultaneously and won:

(Allgoier Gambit.)

WHITE (Mr. M.)	BLACK (Mr. X.)	WHITE (Mr. M.)	BLACK (Mr. X.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th	14. Q to K 3rd	Q to K 2nd
2. P to K B 4th	P takes P	15. Q R to Kt sq	Kt to K 5th
3. Kt to K B 3rd	P to K Kt 4th	16. Q to K 2nd	Kt to K 3rd
4. B to K B 4th	P to K Kt 5th	17. Kt to Q 5th	Kt to K sq
5. Kt to K 5th	P to K R 4th	18. Q to K Kt 2nd	P to K 3rd
6. B to Q B 4th	P to K R 5th	19. P to K B 5th	P takes P
7. P to Q B 4th	R to K R 3rd	20. P to K 6th	P takes P
8. P to Q 3rd	P to Q 3rd	21. Q to K 3rd	Q to K Kt sq
9. P to Q 4th	P to Q Kt 3rd	22. P to K 7th	Q to K 2nd
10. P to Q 5th	P to Q 3rd	23. Q to K 6th	Q to K 3rd

(It to K B 4 would have been better play.)

11. P to K 6th	P takes K B P	24. Q to K 5th	Kt to K Kt 2nd
12. P to K 7th	R takes Kt	25. Q to K 6th	Kt to K B 4th
13. P takes R	K takes P	26. Q takes K B	Q to K Kt 2nd
14. Castles	K to K 2nd	27. Q to K 6th	Q to Q sq
15. B to K Kt 3rd	B to Q Kt 2nd	28. Q to K 5th	Q to K 2nd
16. P to Q B 3rd	B to K B 3rd	29. K to K 2nd
17. P to Q 3rd	B to Q 3rd

(The winning move).

30. P to K 7th	Q to K Kt 2nd
31. K to K 3rd	Q to Q 2nd
32. P to K 8th (ch)	R to Q 2nd
33. Kt takes R	Kt takes Kt
34. K moves	Q takes P

And Black surrendered.

CHESS ENIGMAS.

No. 1213.—By Mr. C. BAYER, Andrew's Crossroads, Scotland.

Set which gained the first prize in the late Tourney.)

White: K at K B 5th, Q at Q Kt 3rd, Bs at K Kt 4th and K B 6th, Kts at K 3rd and 6th, P at Q B 2nd.

Black: K at Q Kt 4th, Q at Q R 6th, Kt at Q 2nd, B at Q B 4th; Ps at K Kt 2nd, Q B 4th, and Q R 5th.

White to play and mate in two moves.

No. 1214.—By the Editor of "Shes."

White: K at R 8q, Q at K 4q, Kt at K 4q and K 5th, Ps at K R 2nd and K 4th.

Black: K at K 4th; P at K 4th, K B 6th, and K 2nd.

White to play and mate in three moves.

THE NEW CHESS LAWS OF THE LATE CONGRESS.

A general meeting of Philadelphia chessplayers was held on the 24th ult., in the Athenæum, to consider the new laws of chess, and to have expressed the opinion of each of them have proposed by certain members of the British Chess Association at the London Congress last spring.

The meeting is said to have been the largest and most respectable one that has been held in Philadelphia for years, and to have represented a numerous representative of every chess resort in the city. The result of the proceedings, which were not being tumble to give in full, was the emphatic and unanimous condemnation of the changes in the practice and theory of chess involved in the new code, such changes being in the opinion of the meeting, unnecessary and inexpedient—" unnecessary, because we believe the great body of chess players in all countries are satisfied with the existing laws of the game—and inexpedient, because the tendency of these innovations is to render useless the great mass of chess literature which we now possess, and which is based upon the code that has been the rule of chess for the past century."

The meeting is understood to have gone on to advocate of the new scheme were are unable to say; but they can hardly remain insensible to the absurdity of attempting to establish as a "universal code" a system which has been already rejected by Germany, by France, and by America, and which are indubitable in Russia and Italy

SCIENTIFIC NEWS,

THE COLOURING MATTER OF THE RED SEA is the subject of a paper by Mr. H. J. Carter, F.R.S., in the Annals of Natural History. The Erkenberg is due the merit of having first described (in 1824) the nature of the organism from which this colouring matter is described. He found it in the Bay of Tor, and called it Trichodesmium Erythræum, which another writer, Montagne, advisedly changed to T. Ehrenbergii. "No one," says Mr. Carter, "who has read the memoir of M. Ehrenbergii on this subject, can doubt that this is not the only occurrence of the organism in the sea red in different parts of the world. In June, 1862, Mr. Carter himself had an opportunity of seeing the colour of the Red Sea, on which he grows a few remarks. When approaching Aden, on May 31, he passed through large areas of a yellowish-brown oily-looking scum on the surface of the sea, and on June 1 he was off the Straits, also off the first island sighted in the lower part of the Red Sea, after leaving Aden, it again appeared, and he passed through large areas of it on June 2 and 3. Here also he saw a portion of brilliant red and one of intense green together in the direction of the Straits. The yellow scum from this scum was found to be of pelvil chlorophyl, or the that from water in which green vegetations have been steeped for some time, and the red was due to the same cause as in the short-cut fronds of filaments, like confervoids. On examining the specimens microscopically, Mr. Carter says he found the little bundles which constitute the fronds of the plant, when viewed laterally, like so much fine cambium. Their colour was still later yellowish-brown, but when viewed endways under the microscope were found to be red, referring to the evidence of other observers, Mr. Carter considers that the occurrence of this colouring matter is confined to the Red Sea, to the Mediterranean, to the Indian Ocean, and the Sea of Oman is so far substantiated; and, as the organism is found in comparatively pure water, he would suggest that the colouring matter is the evidence of these seas having been called by the Greeks erythræan ones. Now to the yellow colour, as it is found in the Mediterranean, he gives less of all. Although Mr. Carter adds many other interesting particulars, he concludes by saying that much yet remains to examine and to make out in this little known subject, more particularly, can only be obtained by watching it long and narrowly in its habitat.

THE CONTRACTILE TISSUES OF PLANTS.—An abstract of Mr. Cohn's memoir on this subject has been published related to the boundary line between the animal and vegetable kingdoms, appears in the March number of the Annals of Natural History. Though the contractile characters between the higher forms of each sub-kingdom is obscure; yet the phenomena of irritability and contractility are so similar in the higher grades that a general resemblance to these presented by the tissues of the higher classes of animals, though more active cases, may be attributed to mechanical effects of connection with structural peculiarities. Cohn addresses himself to the question whether there be any contractile tissue in plants analogous to nerves, the movements and irritability of plants are not referable to structures homologous with those of animals, but to the peculiarities and manifestations of cells. For this purpose he and his pupil, Krabsch, made many experiments with the anthers of centaurea. If the filaments be touched with a needle, irritability in the stamens it is only necessary to isolate a duct, as of centaurea, and to cut away one-half of the tissue, when the whole appear to be at repose for some time from their point of attachment, their whole length. After a period of rest of a few minutes the filaments, which had been straight and in the direction opposition with the central style, are seen to curve themselves outwards, bearing; however, their anthers and connective still closely applied to the upper part of the style. This bending proceeds until it reaches its maximum, when each filament stands out in a half-circle, and the tips of the anthers now touching with a needle they all, so to speak, collapse and resume their vertical direction and close together as before. Cohn has made a great number of experiments and due consideration on the phenomena, M. Cohn concludes that these and other researches go to demonstrate that the tissue of the filaments of centaurea possesses irritability (in the sense used by Haller), and likewise an innate motive power, both of these properties belonging in all essential points to their like as found in the contractile and irritable parts of animals. This analogy, however, does not imply the existence of nerves, which are peculiar to animals and to the higher animals, where a physiological differentiation of tissues prevails in order to provide for the performance of functions of the highest quality, for points more precisely to the irritable and contractile tissue of the lowest animals, which possess neither nerves nor muscles. The translation in abstract of M. Cohn's memoir is by Dr. T. Arlidge.

ROYAL INSTITUTION LECTURES.

PROFESSOR FRANKLAND, in his eighth lecture on "Chemical Affinity," delivered on Thursday, the 12th inst., resumed the consideration of the artificial synthesis of organic compounds from compound bodies, and alluded, among other experiments, how the young French chemist, Berthelot, succeeded in obtaining alcohol from olefiant gas, oxygen, and water. To begin with, the following order:—Carbonic oxide; 2, formic acid; 3, marsh gas (one-half); 4, olefiant gas; 5, alcohol; 6, ether; 7, acetic acid. He then showed how the decomposition of alcohol was effected in a similar manner, by obtaining acetylene from the combustion of alcohol vapour in a deficiency of oxygen. Hydrogen, Chemists found it impossible to obtain hydrocarbons from their elements; but no nitrogenous compounds (hydra, albumen, &c.), had been obtained. Wöhler artificially prepared urea by the same method and the chemical action termed "catalysis," i.e., the combination of two bodies effected by the presence of a third body which remained unchanged. Spongy platinum had the property of fluidly divided charcoal placed over decaying animal substances to give to a mixture of oxygen and hydrogen a chemical expression, and from this doctrine that these effects were due to a peculiar force. Catalytic combination, he said, might be effected by the concentration of the combining gases upon the surface of the catalytic body by which they are brought within the range of each other's attraction. Another theory was that the catalytic action was caused by the feeble attraction of the catalytic body for one of the constituents of a compound whose decomposition it effected. Again, it was thought that attraction of the catalytic body is too feeble to enable it to enter into combination. These suppositions were illustrated by experiments.

DR. JOHN HALL GLADSTONE, F.R.S., gave the Friday evening discourse on the 13th inst., his subject being Spectrum Analysis. Since the time that this attention had been much drawn to one of the Royal Commissioners on Lighthouses, Lieut. Drummond, who, in the early days of the discovery, made public the value of the vapour of water. London for contains a large quantity of smoke. Fogs are caused by the loss of light, colour, and heat of the spectrum first. To this is due the redness of the sun as seen through a fog. As fog becomes thicker the violet and blue rays are the last which disappears. (Of the experimental illustrations were given.) Some fogs are local. The dense fog in the city of Manchester is confined to Deansgate. Other fogs are of very large extent, spreading across tracts of country and along the coast as a continuous line. Illustrations of this were given. Dr. Gladstone referred to maps and diagrams based upon the returns of lighthouses, since each lighthouse was a meteorological station. Home Rule in Cumberland recommends that a pole, coloured vermillion, be erected at a certain distance from each lighthouse, and that it should be noted at what distance it can be visible. Some months are more foggy than others—e.g., November in London. January and June in the west of Ireland, and August in the Isle of Wight. Some places, also, are more foggy than others—e.g., Newfoundland. Dr. Gladstone said that in England it was not generally thought that the sea is more uniformly foggy than land. High headlands facing the south-west are generally very foggy in summer. In regard to "fog signal" sound alone can be relied on. For this purpose bells, gongs, guns, and steam-whistles are employed. The sound of a bell or gong could not be relied on as a distance direction, and that one sound may be confounded with another. Fog-steps sound in different directions. Dr. Tyndall had made a series of further experiments in regard to the pitch of the sound, its height above water, the action of powder, &c. Some interesting experiments were made, amongst the numerous illustrations given were the sounds produced by a gong, and by a trumpet invented by Professor Tyndall, which produced sound transmitted water by the friction of glass tubes, and by the apparatus termed "the Siren." Which is the invention of Professor Colladon of Lavenne (Geneva) because it could sing under water. By the two last, with proper arrangements, a mariner might listen for signals made at any distance under water, such as the Lizard Point, and might not only hear them at a great distance; but determine approximately the direction of the source of the sound. The lecturer showed, or even of the waves.—The Rev. John Barlow, F.R.S., V.P., was in the chair.

PROFESSOR MAX MÜLLER's third lecture "On the Science of Language," delivered on Saturday last, was devoted to the true device of the Alphabet of articulate sounds. He divided the sounds we hear into noises and tones, the last being lengthy, the first momentary. Many of the most articulate sounds are formed of breath ejected from the lungs, modified into sound by the vocal chords and regulated by the mouth. In tones we receive complete mentions—viz., 1, strength or loudness, due to the amplitude of the vibrations; 2, pitch, due to their number; and 3, quality of timbre, supposed to be due to the form of the vibrations. The last is shown in the different quality of the same note on the violin, clarionet, flute, and human voice. As also referred to the remarkable researches of various philosophers on this profound subject, especially to the remote analogy between the vowels and the fundamental given by tones of different qualities, irrespective of loudness or pitch, also given different tones. Of the various hypotheses propounded to explain this principle, has been able to produce several articulate sounds (so o, ou, &c.). The lecturer concluded with a few observations on the history of alphabets, the sounds while uttering various vowel sounds.

PROFESSOR HENRY, Mr. WILLIAM CROOKES, F.C.S., will give an account of his discovery of the metal, Thallium.

In the notice of the screw-pile pier, Madras, which appeared in this Journal of the 28th ultimo, we omitted to state that the contractor for the construction and erection of the pier was the late Mr. Frederick Johnson, of North-street, Westminster.

Advices from Vienna, says Galignani, state that a grand carousel is to take place in that city on the 16th inst., the receipts being devoted to the poor. The Emperor and Empress of Austria will be present. The number of horses to be employed on the occasion is considerable number of persons, each of whom will, however, have to pay 100 florins for admittance. The admittance into the interior of the Arsenals is 500 florins.

NEW MUSIC.

BOOSEY'S MUSICAL LIBRARY.—Every Subscriber at Two Guineas receives a splendid Guinea Volume of Illustrated Music, and has the use of twelve pieces of music in town and twenty pieces in the country. Subscribers at One Guinea have the use of three pieces. Full particulars from 28, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

14 SACRED SONGS in BOOSEYS' MUSICAL CABINET, No. 74, with Pianoforte Accompaniments. This beautiful collection by Pergolesi, Mozart, Rossini, Meyerbeer, Gounod, &c., includes "Inflammatus" and "Jerusalem thou Guilest." Price One Shilling. Published this day.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

20 SACRED COMPOSITIONS FOR THE PIANOFORTE, by the greatest masters, in BOOSEY'S MUSICAL CABINET, No. 73, price One Shilling.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' PORTUGUESE HYMN, an arrangement for the pianoforte of "Adeste Fideles" and quotation in the Offertory. Price 3s. Just published. BOOSEY & SONS, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

NORDMANN'S SICILIAN MARINERS' HYMN, as a Duet for the Pianoforte. Also, by the same composer, "The Advent" and "Adeste Fideles." Price 3s. each.—BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

HENRY SMART'S 50 PRELUDES and INTERLUDES for the Organ. Price 5s. 6d. in sixth An entirely new and original work.—Masterly, pleasing, and well varied.—Athenæum. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

KUHE'S DANISH HYMN, for the Pianoforte, Harmonised with the best Portrait extant of the Blessed Alexandra. Price 3s. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

FLOATING LEAVES. A plaintive and exquisite Song. By HENRY SMART, Author of "The Lady of the Lea." Price 3s. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

VIRGINIA GABRIEL.

DREAM, BABY, DREAM. A very beautiful Cradle Song for contralto and baritone voices. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

CLARIBEL.

THROUGH THE JASMINE, New Song, by CLARIBEL, Author of "Five o'Clock in the Morning." Published this day by BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

MISS GODDARD'S New Fantasia, CAMPBELL, Partants on Weak Airs by Benedict, composition to Mr. Sims Reeves's Song, "The Diver." Price 4s. each. Published this day by BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

"O SIR HENRY BISHOP'S GLEES in Vocal Score, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, price One Penny each or in books, price 6d., in one volume, cloth, 2s. Beautifully printed on excellent paper. Postage of 5 numbers, 1d. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

20 NEW CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS' SONGS in BOOSEY'S MUSICAL CABINET, No. 75. Price One Shilling. Contains "Ben Bolt" and "God bless the Queen." The most successful pieces by this popular Company. Price 4s. each. ARTHUR LE FARRE, 16, Hanover-square.

500 SONGS for ONE SHILLING. Just published this day, BOOSEY'S POPULAR VOCALIST, the choicest work of Irish Melody, Scotch, and general Songs and Ballads (written and sung) by all the most celebrated Artists. Price One Shilling. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

WELCOME TO THE PRINCESS ALEXANDRA. Song with Chorus. Written expressly for the occasion of the Royal Marriage. Price 3s. 6d. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street, W.

KUHE'S "ALEXANDRA" and "VICTORIA." Two new grand brilliant Fantasias on the national airs of "Alexandra to the Land" and "God bless our Queen." By the most successful pianist by this popular Composer. Price 4s. each. ARTHUR LE FARRE, 16, Hanover-square.

SYDNEY SMITH'S LA HARPE ECLIPSE, played by the Composer at his pianoforte recital at the Crystal Palace on every afternoon this week with enormous success. Price 4s. ASHDOWN and PARRY, 18, Hanover-square.

SYDNEY SMITH'S LE JET D'EAU, played by the Composer at the Crystal Palace with unbounded applause. One of the most popular pieces of the day. Price 4s. ASHDOWN and PARRY, 18, Hanover-square.

SYDNEY SMITH'S FAIRY WHISPERS, played by the Composer at the Crystal Palace. A remarkably brilliant, pleasing, elegant, and effective piece. Price 4s. ASHDOWN and PARRY, 18, Hanover-square.

SYDNEY SMITH'S MORNING DEWDROPS, played by the Composer at the Crystal Palace. A most charming composition, full of beautiful and original melody. Price 4s.—ASHDOWN and PARRY, 18, Hanover-square.

SYDNEY SMITH'S GAZE DE COEUR. Grand Valse. The last new piece by this universal favourite. Composer. Price 4s. ASHDOWN and PARRY, 18, Hanover-square.

SYDNEY SMITH'S PIANOFORTE MUSIC is published by ASHDOWN and PARRY, 18, Hanover-square, London, and may be had of every Musicseller in Great Britain and Ireland, India, and the Colonies.

SING, BIRDIE, SING. GANZ'S popular Song, sung by Mdlle. Parepa at the Crystal Palace and other concerts with unbounded success. Price 3s. ASHDOWN and PARRY, 18, Hanover-square.

THE ARMOURER OF NANTES. Libretto of the Opera, complete, Music by M. W. BALFE. Sung by Mr. Santley, Miss Louisa Pyne, and Miss Susan Pyne. Price 2s. 6d. "Fresh and lively."—Sun. "Well and tunefully written."—Times. "There's one who won't see, he'll see you."—Sung by Miss Louisa Pyne. Price 3s. "Graceful and tuneful."—Times. "Sung by Mr. W. Harrison .... 3s. 0d. "Oh, would my heart."—Sung by Miss Louisa Pyne ..... 3s. 0d. Benedict's Fantasia .... 4s. 0d. Kuhe's Fantasia .... 4s. 0d. Richards's Fantasia "Make a reed link low" ..... 4s. 0d. Kuhe.—Fantasia .... 4s. 0d. Dance Music by Coote. ADDISON and LUCAS, 210, Regent-street, London.

NEW NATIONAL HYMN—THE PRINCE OF OUR DARLINGS' LAND. Words and Music by GEORGE LINLEY. Sung by Mr. Sims Reeves, price 3s. each. ADDISON and LUCAS, 210, Regent-street, London.

THE ROYAL BRIDAL WALTZES. By CHARLES SIDNEY. Beautifully illustrated. Price 4s. ADDISON and LUCAS, 210, Regent-street, London.

STAMP GALOP, by ARTHUR O'LEARY. The stirrings in connection with the season is always alarming. The stirrings in connection with postage-stamps of all nations, beautifully printed in colours, post free for twelve stamps.—HOWE and CO., 49, Regent-street, Lubrin.

NEW MUSIC.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD'S MUSIC CIRCULATING LIBRARY for Town and Country. Terms—Two, Three, and Four Guineas per Annum.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD undertake the PUBLICATION of COMPOSITIONS for the Author.

HALF-PRICE.—All full-priced Music sent post-free at Half the Marked Price.

THE PRINCE OF WALES'S WEDDING MUSIC. Published by special permission to his Royal Highness the Prince.
THE PROCESSION MARCH. By ARTHUR S. SULLIVAN. Arranged for the Pianoforte. 4s. Performed by Coldstream Guards by the full Orchestra; also nightly at the Royal Covent Garden Promenade Concerts.
THE WEDDING HYMN FOR VALENTINE'S DAY. By ARTHUR S. SULLIVAN. 3s. Played by the Grands' Band on the 10th of November.
THE BRIDE FROM THE WEST. Song. By HENRY FARMER. Words by ARTHUR S. SULLIVAN. 3s.
THE BRIDE'S WELCOME. Song. By HENRY SMART. Words by J. E. HATTON. 3s. Sung by Mr. Henry Haigh.
THE WEDDING. Descriptive Fantasia for the Pianoforte. By J. PRIDHAM. 4s.
THE WEDDING RING. Valse. By CHARLES VALENTINE. 4s. The Valse has been brilliantly illustrated by the best lithographic artist. The complete set may be had in an elegant portfolio, price Half-a-Guinea.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

DREAM OF ST. JEROME. Price 2s. 6d. "This Chorale possesses some charm from the air it takes, and more from the manner in which it is treated. The harmony is full and effective, and the whole is well and skilfully put together. Fancy it in a grove of Tempyra in moat."—Adventures of Philip, by W. M. Thackeray.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

THE DANISH NATIONAL AIR. Arranged for the Pianoforte by BRINLEY RICHARDS. 2s. 6d.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' BISHOP'S MELODIES. Nos. I., II., and III., now ready. 3s. each.
No. I. Home, sweet home .... 3s.
No. II. 'Tis meet that I mourn .... 3s.
No. III. "Tell me, my heart"..... .... 3s.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' LOVE'S REQUEST. Arrangement for Pianoforte of A. Reichardt's Popular Song. 3s.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

WILHELM KUHE'S Arrangement of A. BOISSELOT'S Popular Song, "Le Retour." 3s. 6d.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

STEPHEN HELLER'S LATEST WORKS.
Book Two, 3s. 6d., complete, Nos. 1 to 12, and Nos. 13 to 24.
Douze Chansonnettes, op. 159 .... 4s. 0d.
Douze Nouvelles Promenades, op. 160 .... 4s. 0d.
Douze Romances sans Paroles, op. 165. In 2 Nos., each ..... 3s. 0d.
Promenades, op. 166 .... 4s. 0d.
Douze Etudes, op. 167 .... 4s. 0d.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

RENÉ FAVARGER'S ORPANELLA. 3s. "A good, original, pleasing, and well-carried out."—Saturday Review. Price 3s. net.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

POLYDORE DE VOS' SCHWABISCHES VOLKSLIED (Deutschen Imgen Tag). An elegant little piece for the drawing-room. 3s. net.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

PLAYED BY MISS GODDARD.
J. ASCHER'S FANTASIA on LUBLINE, Le Chant des Matelots .... 3s.
Theodore's Last Thought .... 3s.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

W. GANZ'S NEW PIANOFORTE PIECES.
1. Grande Valse brillante .... 3s.
2. Tarantelle .... 3s.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

WALTER MACFARREN'S PIANOFORTE SOLOS.
The fairy bark, Barcarole .... 3s.
Elfin, Valse elegante .... 3s.
Dreamland, Morceau de salon .... 3s.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

POLISH NATIONAL HYMN. Sung in the Churches of Warsaw. Now published by its Russian Governor-General, Prince Gortschakoff. Price 3s. net.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

VIRGINIA GABRIEL'S NEWEST BALLAD. "Lodge Model." 3s.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

HENRY SMART'S NEW SONGS for Contralto—
The pure in heart shall see God .... 3s. 0d.
Ne tirez the Bold .... 3s. 0d.
Your Kingdom come. "Thy your Life" .... 3s. 0d.
Waiting for the Spring .... 3s. 0d.
The Wind's Message .... 3s. 0d.
Thinking of you .... 3s. 0d.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

G. GRETTON'S PIANOFORTE WORKS, 2, Rota and Rhumel, 3s. Theodore's Last Thought, 3s. Fantasia, 4s.; Caprice Pastorale, 3s.; Toccata, Pizzes, 4s. 6d. CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

BLOCKLEY'S ROYAL PROCESSION MARCH. Descriptive Duet, with Type of the Triumphal Arch, Portraits of the Bride and Bridegroom, and Specially Designed Illustrations. Price 4s. Performed by the Grands' Band and Specially Blockley's Royal Procession March."
BLOCKLEY, 205, Regent-street; and all Musicsellers.

BLOCKLEY'S ROYAL WEDDING MARCH. Descriptive Piece, with View of the Interior of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, and Portraits of the Bridegroom and Bride. Price 4s. Orders should specify "Blockley's Royal Wedding March."
BLOCKLEY, 205, Regent-street; and all Musicsellers.

BLOCKLEY'S NEW BALLAD, "When thou art near me mirror seems to be." With Portraits of Prince and Princess of Wales. Song or Duet, 3s.
CRAMER, BEALE, Regent-street; and all Musicsellers.

"ENGLAND'S CHOSEN BRIDE." (The Bride of Wales.) Composed by E. LITOLFF. Illustrated with Portraits in Colours, 3s. Inscribed by special permission to the Princess of Wales.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

"WE GIVE HER TO THY KEEPING." DANISH BRIDAL SONG. As Composed by H. R. H. Bridegroom, with Illustrations in Colours, 3s. Inscribed by his late bride Grace.—ADDISON, 210, Regent-street; and all Musicsellers.

BLOCKLEY'S "ROYAL BRIDAL GALOP," with Portraits of Bridegroom and Bride. CARL RAUMANN'S GALOP, by CARL RAUMANN, with Portrait in Colours, 4s. CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

BLOCKLEY'S PRINCE OF WALES' MARCH. 3s. Also, BLOCKLEY'S PRINCESS ALEXANDRA MARCH. 3s. Illustrated in Colours. Each 4s.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

JERUSALEM THE GOLDEN. Sacred Song. Blockley's only authorised edition of this popular Song, beautifully illustrated. Price 3s. ALEXANDER EWING, Inscribed to the Lord Bishop of Argyll. Published by J. BLOCKLEY, Pall-mall, Hampstead; Cramer, 201, Regent-street.

THE CHRISTIAN MARTYR: Sacred Song, Composed by JOHN BLOCKLEY. 3s. With Illustrations, Portraits, Initial Letters, &c. "Mr. Blockley has produced a melody which will be sung in every drawing-room."—Sun. "Mr. Blockley has been very successful."—Morning Post. "Mr. Blockley has been very successful."—Morning Post. "My Saviour," by Stern, op. 7, 3s. "Margery, our Rose, or True Love" (Duet), 3s. "Fairy not, Christian." "Resignation" (There is no Rest), all Illustrated. Songs or Duets, 3s. 6d. each.—CRAMER, 201, Regent-street.

KUHE'S FANTASIA on IRISH AIRS, Just published. Price 4s. CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.
THOUP, Orchard-street, Dublin.

NEW MUSIC.

NOTICE.—HALF-PRICE.—All Music, and the best Editions, or half the published price, sent post-free for postage-stamps or Post Office order.
HOWGOOD and CHEW, 45, New Bond-street, W.

TINNEY'S PRINCE OF WALES' QUADRILLES. Price 4s. With a splendid Likeness of the Prince in Colours.
HOWGOOD and CHEW, 45, New Bond-street.

COOTE'S PRINCESS ALEXANDRA VALSE. Price 4s. Illustrated with a splendid Portrait in Colours, beautifully executed by Mr. Brandard.
HOWGOOD and CHEW, 45, New Bond-street.

The Latest Excitement.

COOTE'S FAIRY VISIONS. Illustrated. Price 4s. Forming the first of this Composer's supreme Ideas, sparkling and dazzling.—HOWGOOD and CHEW, 45, New Bond-st.

The best list of Lancers out.

COOTE'S THE CHIEF. Price 4s. Including "The Flight of Love," "My Pretty Page" "So Sad to be Alone," "Sweet Bird," and the Valse from the same opera. No dance programme complete without them. Always redemanded.—HOWGOOD and CHEW, 45, New Bond-street.

IMMENSE SUCCESS OF

COOTE'S DOMINO GALOP, Price 3s.
HOWGOOD and CHEW, 45, New Bond-street.

COOTE'S VILLAGE-BELLS POLKA, price 3s. No. 1 one of the most popular, and will send in popularity the celebrated "Great Eastern," by the same Composer.
HOWGOOD and CHEW, 45, New Bond-street.

Continued Success.

TINNEY'S SONGS OF THE WOOD VALSE, Price 4s. Illustrated. Sung by all the Bards in the United Kingdom.—HOWGOOD and CHEW, 45, New Bond-street.

COME WHERE THE MOONBEAMS LINGER. Price 3s. 6d. The melody is simple and beautiful, and like that of "Robin Adair" and "Home, Sweet Home." Lord by and the rose fades away."
HOWGOOD and CHEW, 45, New Bond-street.

Whispering Love's old strain.

PLODDING ON THROUGH THE RAIN. Price 3s. 6d. Written by HARRY SYDNEY. The most telling song of the day. Go-day. Go-day.
HOWGOOD and CHEW, 45, New Bond-street.

NEW BALLAD.

SIGHING FOR THE LIGHT. By F. BUCKLEY, price 3s. 6d., is sending a Valse.
HOWGOOD and CHEW, 45, New Bond-street.

ENGLAND and DENMARK. Mazurka de Salon. By G. M. E. OLIVER. Price 4s. Beautifully illustrated with Portraits in Colours.
HOWGOOD and CHEW, 45, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S SILVER MOONBEAMS, Price 3s. 6d. The most favourite piece by this celebrated Composer.—HOWGOOD and CHEW, 45, New Bond-street.

TWILIGHT REVERIE. Romance for the Piano. By G. M. E. OLIVER. Price 4s. Also, ENGLAND and DENMARK. Mazurka de Salon. By G. M. E. OLIVER. Price 4s.
HOWGOOD and CHEW, 45, New Bond-street.

HENRY FARMER'S VIOLIN SOLOS, with Accompaniment for Pianoforte.
No. 1. Home, sweet home.
2. Last Rose of Summer.
3. The Wind's Message.
4. Thinking of you.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S GEORGIANA VALSE, Price 4s. Illustrated in Colours.
Orchestra Parts in the Press.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S NEW PIANOFORTE TUTOR. Price 4s. "This is decidedly the most useful and best instruction book we have seen."—Musical Review.—London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars.

HENRY FARMER.—PROSERPINE GALOP. Price 4s. Also, by J. BRANDARD. Sea, Price 4s.; Dusk, 4s.—London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S CHRISTMAS QUADRILLES. Price, Solo, 3s.; Duet, 4s.; Septet, 4s. 6d.; Orchestra, 4s. (Postage-free for half-price.) Quadrilles beats the Metropolitan Bands.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars.

THE ORIGINAL LANCERS. Arranged by JOSEPH WILLIAMS from his own Tunes. Price 3s.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S ALEXANDRA GALOP. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S ALBERT EDWARD GALOP. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S PRINCE OF WALES' MARCH. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S "GUY MANNERING" WALTZ. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.; Duet, 4s.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

MARRIOTT'S "MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM" QUADRILLES. Price, Solo or Duet, each 4s.; Septet, 4s. 6d.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

BRIGHTEST HOPE OF ENGLAND'S GLORY. Composed and most humbly inscribed to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales by W. WEST. Price 3s.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

ELEURETTES MUSICALES, for Pianoforte Practice by J. T. STONE.
1. The Maids of the Village. Valse.
2. The Village Festival. Galop.
3. Merrily, merrily, over the Brine. Polka.
4. Gentle Annie. Mazurka.
5. Nelson the Prairie Flower. Polka.
6. Molly Carew. Polka.
Each 3s. Illustrated from Life and Incidents from Home
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside.

WANDERINGS AT MORN. By J. von JOEL. A charming air, with melody and effect, intended as the reply to "Wanderings at Even" and within the reach of ordinary performers.—HOWGOOD, 49, Regent-street, Lubrin.

ANGELS LISTEN WHEN SHE SPEAKS. Words by J. E. CARPENTER, and Music by F. L. HIME. This is a most charming Song, and will be sung by Madame Patey every evening at the Crystal Palace.—HOWGOOD, 49, Regent-street, Lubrin.

LOVE'S WHISPER WALTZ. By R. F. HARVEY. Composed expressly for the Private of Wales' Royal Wedding Ball, Sandringham House. Price 4s.
DALCOUR, 9, Heilbronn-place, W.

THE ANGLO-DANISH VALSE. By E. L. HIME. Price 4s.; orchestra, 5s. (post at half-price. The Clementina Valse, by Mr. Hime, was highly successful, but the present work will eclipse it in popularity. It is more elegant and fascinating valse has ever been written.
DUFF and HODGSON, 99, Oxford-street.

THE ANGLO-DANISH QUADRILLE. By E. L. HIME. Solo, 4s.; Duet, 4s.; orchestra, 5s. (post at half-price. This universally admired quadrille, now being performed by all the principal Bands, may be had arranged for solo or duet.
DUFF and HODGSON, 99, Oxford-street.

CRAMER BEALE, and WOOD'S PIANOFORTE GALLERY, 207 and 209, Regent-street. The largest in Europe.
Every Instrument for Sale or Hire on the most liberal terms, at least equal to the description given of it. Inferior Instruments are carefully excluded from the stock.
Pianofortes, by all the eminent English, Continental, and American Manufacturers, for Sale or Hire.

CRAMER'S ENGLISH PIANETTE, 37 Guineas. Cramer and Co. manufacture this capital small Instrument. It has all the requisites of the best Pianoforte—check action, trichord throughout, &c. The case is of handsome oak or pine. In preference on this Pianoforte the fingers of the player will not be fatigued after playing for hours. The touch is remarkably light and elastic. The tone is full and harmonious. In recommending it to the public Cramer and Co. have only the manufacturers of it in England.

CRAMER'S DRAWING-ROOM COTTAGE. 50 Guineas and Co. manufacture a Cottage Pianoforte of the medium size, and of the very best description. The tone is full, pure, and harmonious. The touch elastic, and the check action of the most perfect description. The case is of handsome design, quality of wood, and general substantiality which have gained for it universal approbation. The further perfection of this instrument could be made. In rosewood, 80 guineas; walnut, 87 guineas.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 207 and 209, Regent-street.

CRAMER'S FULL-SIZED COTTAGE. Those who prefer an instrument of larger appearance than the drawing-room Cottage will find this a most desirable Pianoforte. The tone is very full and powerful, being quite equal to that of the Semi-Grand. In rosewood, 90 guineas; walnut, 97 guineas.
207 and 209, Regent-street.

CRAMER'S INDIAN PIANOFORTE.—A superior COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, in solid mahogany, specially manufactured by Cramer and Co. for India, to withstand the effects of extreme climates. Nothing has been left out to render this instrument perfect. The compass is from A A to F in alt, and the touch sound throughout by screws. Unusual skill and attention have been bestowed on the tuning of this instrument, and the Proprietors of the Establishment refer to their excellent quality of tone as well as their durability.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 207 and 209, Regent-street.

CRAMER'S PIANO MÉCANIQUE. Invented and manufactured by Schmidt, of Berlin, for this Instrument enabled to work from one strong the triangles selected in the Pianoforte, and to produce the effect of the Grand Piano. The Piano-mécanique can be used by hand, and makes no ordinary pianoforte, 60 guineas. The instrument is very strongly made, and warranted to stand any change of climate.
207 and 209, Regent-street.

CRAMER'S HARMONIUMS, as manufactured by Schiedmayer, of Stuttgart, for the Queen, the Royal Prince Consort and the very highest commendation. Their superiority has been fully established. Prices from £8 8s. to £60. No. 1. Pedals not used, one rank, one octave £8 8 0
No. 2. Ditto ditto £10 10 0
No. 3. Ditto ditto, three stops £12 12 0
No. 4. Ditto £14 14 0
No. 5. Ditto £18 18 0
No. 6. Ditto £21 15 0
No. 7. Ditto £25 0 0
No. 8. Sixteen stops and bass octave £30 0 0
No. 9. Ditto £45 0 0
No. 10. Ditto £60 0 0
WITH PEDALBOARD.
No. 11. Ditto £9 10 0
No. 12. Ditto £11 11 0
seventeen stops and bass octave £60 0 0 twenty-two £67 0 0
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD.

CRAMER'S CHURCH HARMONIUMS, with two rows of keys, manufactured by Schiedmayer, the inventor of the Harmonium. Nothing can surpass these delightful Instruments for Churches, Chapels, Schools, and Mission Rooms. Nearly all those in the Pavilion for the Exhibition of 1862 are of this manufacture. Prices in Oak or Rosewood Cases, with Seven Stops, 17 stops, 20 guineas; 21 stops, 26 guineas; 23 stops, percussion action, 15 guineas.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, London.

CRAMER'S HARMONIUM PEDALIER Fitted for any Instrument.—M. DERAIN, the inventor of the Pedalier, has arranged this attachment for CRAMER'S HARMONIUMS, by which the performer can produce the effect of large Organ. It is admirably adapted for the practice of Pupils, and is strongly recommended by the Professors of the Organ. Cramer and Co. have three sets now at wholesale and two stops—viz., Bass, 16 feet C, and Quint Bass, 10 2-3 feet C.
207, Regent-street, London.

CRAMER'S CHEAPEST HARMONIUM is the Model Harmonium, manufactured by Cramer and Co. Price Six Guineas. Admirable tone, combined with the very best construction. Cramer, Beale, and Wood.

CRAMER'S ANTIPHONEL, or Substitute for an organist or harmonium player discovered by M. Debain, of Paris, and manufactured by Cramer and Co. It is played by both hands, pedals, and knee-swell, and is invaluable for the performers of overtures, quadrilles, waltzes, &c. It can easily be fitted to almost any harmonium or pianoforte, and is not liable to derangement. Price Twelve Guineas.
Cramer, Beale, and Wood, 207, Regent-street, London.

CRAMER'S CONCERTINAS—PRIZE MEDAL. Prices, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, 10, 12, 16, and 18 guineas.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 207, Regent-street.

CRAMER'S CORNETS, manufactured by F. BESSON, the receiver of twenty-three medals. Cramer and Co.'s new model Cornet is the best and most perfect Instrument known. Estimates for Bands furnished.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 207, Regent-street.

PRATTEN'S SEVEN-GUINEA FLUTE. PERFECTED CYLINDER FLUTE, old system of fingering. The experience of many years has proved that the cylinder flute is the most perfect instrument, and the cylinder system of fingering the most scientific principle, without changing the familiar fingering of the old 8-key flute, in addition to the advantage of the cylinder, the most important requisite in its construction, the manufacturer are careful to produce an instrument of even scale from one end of the compass to the other.
An illustrated prospectus may be had on application to the manufacturers, CLARKE and CO., 13, Great Marlborough-street.

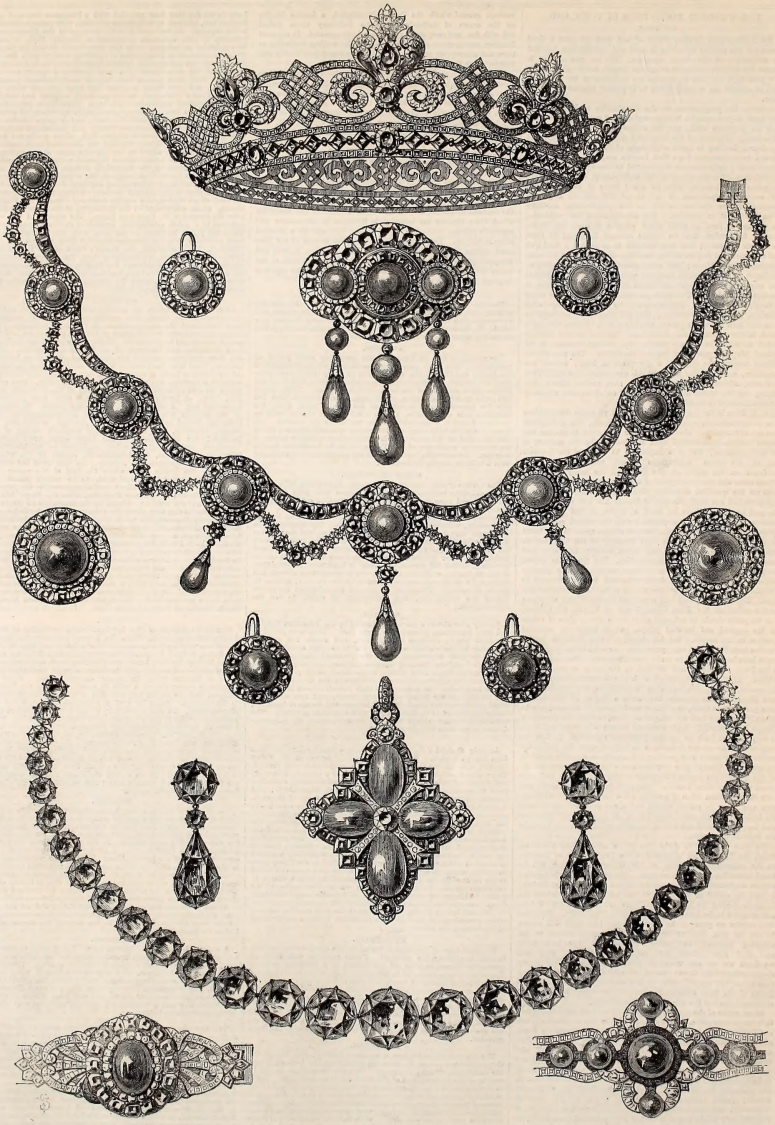
BOOSEYS' MINIATURE PIANOFORTE. This novelty has been made to combine a new description of Pianoforte action with the best principles of construction, and is a most elegant and effective Instrument. Price 50 guineas.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

EVANS' ENGLISH HARMONIUMS gained the Prize Medal at the International Exhibition, 1862, and are strongly recommended.
EVANS and CO., 314, Oxford-street.

EVANS' ENGLISH HARMONIUMS, at Spurious, and School Harmoniums at 10 guineas.
EVANS and CO., 314, Oxford-street.

EVANS' ENGLISH HARMONIUMS, for Churches, Drawing-rooms, &c., with one or two rows of keys, and made in every variable variety. Prices from 8 to 140 guineas. Illustrated Prospectus may be had on application to the manufacturers.—BOOSEY and CULLEN, 24, Ludgate-hill, London.

DISTIN and CO.'S PRIZE MEDAL.—Brass Musical Instruments, manufactured at 2, and 10, Great Newportstreet, London. New Models, entire Sets, Cornets. Silver and Patent Percussion Bugles. Illustrated Lists post-free.



WEDDING GIFTS TO THE PRINCESS OF WALES.

THE WEDDING FESTIVITIES IN TOWN AND COUNTRY.

IF the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS of last week we gave a short account of the popular rejoicings in town and country that followed the celebration of the Royal marriage. We are now enabled to resume this subject, to treat it at greater length, and to give, so far as is possible, a complete account of the festivities of the 10th inst. Such an account can scarcely fail to be of present interest and future value.

So far as the preparations for the illumination of London went, they must be pronounced a brilliant and decided success, so resolved were the respective bodies and the citizens generally to loosen their purse-strings in honour of the auspicious occasion. But, without in any degree desiring to speak slightingly of the result, we may be allowed to express our hope that London will not be allowed to present such a sight again as it presented on the night of Tuesday, the 10th inst. The experience of that night should, we think, satisfy every one that London, with its many miles of narrow streets and enormous population, is not at all the city for a general illumination like the one which so few people saw anything of on the night in question. The arrangements for regulating the passage of such as could afford vehicles through the streets were so far perfect that no serious accident happened to them nor to their occupants; but they resulted in so perfect a deal-lock that few succeeded in penetrating the fringe of sublety into the more important thoroughfares; and many passed the night in carriages, omnibuses, or cabs in some by-street watching, with what patience they might, the few gas-jets and lamps within sight of them against the approach of dawn. The sight presented by many of the larger thoroughfares—such as Edgware-road, for instance—long after midnight, was most extraordinary, and will long be remembered by those who were forced and passive spectators of it. From a very early period in the evening it was a cul de sac that had become literally choked up with the unwary vehicles that entered, trusting to Sir Richard Mayne's promise of open circulation. The rate of progression towards the City was a few yards an hour; retreat was impossible; and long after midnight this vast assemblage might have been seen, admirably resigned, but in most perfect silence that nothing but the tramp of the pedestrians on either side returning homewards could be heard.

But, if those in the roadways escaped with no worse consequences than despondency, ennui, colds, and catarrhs, the pedestrians were not so fortunate. We have no other desire but to observe the cautious reticence maintained upon this subject by the majority of our contemporaries; but it is impossible to ignore the dreadful fate of the seven unfortunate women who were crushed to death on the night of the 10th, and the many individuals of both sexes who received injuries of a serious kind, without taking course'vas the question, seriously, whether such a sight as London then presented was worth the cost of human life and suffering that was paid for it. We have no hard and fast course, by which the public holidays of this sort, but our quarrel is with the method adopted for making them popular. We can have no wish to speak in any terms but those of admiration of the loyal liberality of the City, but we desire, certainly, to direct it on such occasions into a safer and more desirable channels of demonstration. The truth has proved itself to be that, for London to indulge recently in any popular festivity of kind we have lately witnessed, the public mind must be diverted from the narrow, tortuous streets rather than attracted into them. That such a policy was considered desirable was evidenced by the orders of the First Commissioner of Works, Lord Cowper, that the parks should be left open all night to form a place of refuge for the crushed and buffeted public, and so abate the expected pressure in the streets. But his object, however judicious, proved abortive from the lack of any popularity to speak of in what they had might have been provided to make them attractive. The recollection of the Peace festivities must be fresh in the minds of many of our readers. It will be remembered that they passed off without accident. The reason was that care was taken to provide for the population of each district of our immense metropolis a display of fireworks in some park or open space, to which they could resort easily and certainly to drawn. The East had no temptation, then, to force the passage of Temple Bar westward; Hyde Park and Primrose-hill were not likely to envy Victoria Park its especial pyrotechnic display. In fine, the purpose of these cursory remarks is to impress upon the public the advisability in future of expending the money, so liberally spent by the citizens of London upon open displays of public rejoicing worthy of the name, upon separate displays in the great parks and open spaces which surround London. Displayed on these wide areas, and with the precaution taken of levelling a few yards of the iron railing here and there to render ingress and egress easy, the destruction of the deplorable events which have left so sad a gloom upon the otherwise happy 10th of March will be rendered, so far as human foresight can make it, impossible.

We have need to direct the public attention to the letter which Sir George Grey addressed to the Lord Mayor of London, at the benevolent instigation of the Queen, and which will be found in another part of our columns. We do not think that we could require confirmation of the watchful regard with which her Majesty follows the events of the day, and the tenderness with which she clings to the memory of her husband, than is afforded by this letter; and sunshine to the home made desolate by their death. But those who require no proof of the Queen's benevolent spirit will rejoice to see in this, another evidence of her happy return to the everyday cares and cares of life. It has been most truly said that grief which does not kill must itself die; and we think we are not wrong in looking forward to the speedy reappearance of the Queen in her old public position. At the same time comes her Majesty must be prepared to receive unmistakable proofs of the loyal attachment and affection which her long, and retirement had fed the sole object of her subjects.

In our notice of the country festivities we have no occasion to speak in terms of reservation. That some portion of the populace of Cork and Dublin should have seized the opportunity of disgracing themselves may pain, but cannot much surprise us. But their misconduct does not affect our opinion of the loyal people of Ireland, who celebrated the happy event of the 10th with true national ardour and spirit. In the noble metropolis of Edinburgh the public paid second to have abandoned itself to enjoyment. As our readers will observe, the whole day was one continued round of exciting and pleasurable events; public banquets following the review of the Scottish volunteers, and the romantic town of Edinburgh breaking out at nightfall into a light bright as that of day. Admirably adapted by its natural advantages for such a display, those who had charge of the illumination do not seem to have neglected a single point of importance in their arrangements. Those who have stood in Prince's-street and witnessed the many windows of the houses that are on any ordinary night can easily conceive what Edinburgh must have looked like on the 10th, with bright lights burning on every foot of vantage ground which the Castle-hill afforded, a bonfire blazing on the crown of Arthur's seat, the Salisbury Crags picked out with fire, and each street appropriately illuminated. In our next Number, among many other engravings of the wedding festivities in town and country, we purpose giving illustrations of both Dublin and Edinburgh on the night of the 10th inst.

Nor were the minor provincial cities and towns less exuberant in their demonstrations of loyalty. All of them, nay, every village even, from the Land's End to John o' Groats, put on a holiday aspect. The churches which the efforts of the clergy had in the principal places seem to have taken was principally towards feasting the 'poorer population; and the local newspapers brim over with accounts of dinners, teas, and suppers and not drunk in the manner described they proceeded. We can one who knows anything of the hardships of everyday rural life will be disposed to regret this, or will feel aught but pleasure that for one day of this month the hearty appetites of our agricultural population were satisfied.

Happily, we are all of us so enominded nowadays that we need waste no time in pointing the attention of our readers to the perfect unanimity exhibited by every county, city, village, and family upon the occasion of the Royal marriage. The account of the festivities which these remarks are intended to introduce to our readers will assuredly be read and studied with interest, and will fill a special niche in history. Years hence, when the social records of our time shall engage the historian's attention, they will form a fresh and pleasant episode of his task, and all hearts will throb afresh at the thought of the happy and picturesque description of the aspect of England on the 10th of March, 1863.

ABERDEEN.

The day was generally observed here as a holiday. At noon the military and volunteers paraded the Links and fired a feu de joie, and at two o'clock a banquet took place, at which the Lord Provost presided. In the evening there was a display of fireworks, and the public offices and many private houses were illuminated.

ABINGDON.

The rejoicings here in honour of the auspicious event passed off admirably. The day's proceedings commenced with a procession of the Mayor and Corporation, accompanied by many other of the principal inhabitants, to the new cemetery, which, before they were met by the school children of the town, 1500 in number. They planted five oaks in commemoration of the five children born of the union, and then returned to the market-place, where the labouring men of the town, 1000 in number, were regaled with a substantial dinner in a spacious marquee erected for the occasion. At three o'clock the bells rang, and the women were entertained with tea and cakes, and at the same time the children were regaled with tea, at the extensive warehouse of Mr. Yeates, which he kindly lent for the occasion. The proceedings were then lit up, and the evening concluded with a brilliant display of fireworks.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.

There was a general cessation of business. The mills, workshops, and other buildings and private houses were gaily decorated with flags and banners. The principal processions consisted of the Church of England Sunday-schools, the Wesleyan Sunday-schools, the volunteers assembled in the market-place, and, after marching through the borough, proceeded to Stamford Park, where they were regaled by R. Carter, Esq.; after which, three cheers being given for the Queen and the Prince and Princess of Wales, a feu de joie was fired by the volunteers, and the proceedings for the day were concluded. Tea was provided for them, whilst the cavalry and rifle volunteers stood tastefully arranged in front. The male and female adults, to the number of 1950, were regaled with a substantial repast. The town in the evening was illuminated, and bonfires, whilst the numerous devices in gas were elegant and novel.

BATH.

As early as eight o'clock in the morning a Royal salute was fired from the park guns. There was full choral service in the Abbey Church, at which the Corporation and the magistrates were present. Third service was performed in the Octagon Chapel, Milsom-street, and Christ's Church, Montpelier. The school-children, exceeding 2000 in number, assembled in Sydney-gardens, at nine, and marched, preceded by a band, into the Victoria avenue of the park. A grand procession marched into the park, where the several bodies composing it took up their appointed stations. After the proclamation of the Royal oath, &c., and the singing of the National Anthem, the military took up the line of march, and, on arriving at the saluting point, fired from the guns, and a feu de joie by the rifles. The procession then proceeded in the reverse order (the rifles leading), the pensionary being in the van, to the Guildhall. The Mayor and Corporation held a council to adopt an address, the rifle volunteers marched to the Pump-room to be regaled with wine, and the children and pensioners sat down to tea to the value of 2s. 6d. each to provide themselves with a dinner at home in the park, one an oak and the other an elm, in honour of the Royal nuptials. On the return of the procession to Bradford enthusiastic cheers were given for the Queen and the Prince and Princess of Wales. The day was kept as an entire holiday, and all the principal employers either gave money gratuities to their workpeople or treated them with good dinners. In the evening the Mayor gave a ball at St. George's-Hall.

BRIGHTON.

A general holiday was observed here. The Mayor, Corporation, and members of the Town Council attended divine service at church, comprising the volunteer corps and friendly societies. Dinner was provided for the children of the various schools and for the poor. The illuminations were very extensive and brilliant, and at night there was a display of fireworks from the Chain Pier, and two hulls charged with combustibles were sent adrift a mile from the shore and fired on. There was also a torchlight procession, and there were bonfires on the neighbouring hills.

BRISTOL.

The day was ushered in by peals and the firing of guns. The holiday was generally kept. The proceedings of the day were commenced by the Mayoress planting an oak on Brandon-hill, in the presence of several thousand spectators, and the ladies and children of those assembled. The volunteer review on Durdham Down was the most attractive feature of the day. At one o'clock the Queen and her review the rural sports, which had been got up by the general committee, began, prizes being given to be competed for by foot-racing, jumping in sacks, &c. A large number of children met together at the Zoological Gardens, Clifton, which had been kindly thrown open by the committee for their amusement. A dinner took place at the Hide Drill Hall, to which a large and influential company sat down, the Mayor occupying the chair. After the loyal and patriotic gratulations of the day was a plentiful and substantial dinner given to the working men, with their wives, at the parishes of St. Augustine and St. George, to which about 2000 sat down. In the evening the fireworks and illuminations drew together immense crowds. At the Victoria Rooms (where an exhibition of pictures was exhibited) a nuptial ball took place under the auspices of the Mayor.

Later in the day they were provided with a bounteous dinner of old English fare, and sent to their homes rejoicing, with presents sumptuous to the occasion. At half-past nine the members of the Birmingham battalion of rifle volunteers assembled in Bingley Hall, whence they marched in company with the detachment of the 1st Royal Dragoons stationed in Birmingham to Calthorpe Park to fire a feu de joie. They were accompanied by their respective bands, and followed throughout the entire route by a large number of spectators. At Calthorpe Park there were at least fifty or sixty thousand persons assembled, and after firing a salute the large cannons taken at Sebastopol were discharged, to the no small surprise and delight of the assembled crowds. At noon there were processions of Odd Fellows and Foresters, accompanied by bands of music. The police force also paraded the town, and a large number of the members of the Temperance Society and Rechabites marched through the principal streets to Bingley Hall, where a monster tea-party was held. Throughout the day the arrival of large numbers of people by railway added to the crowded state of the principal thoroughfares, which became, if possible, more impassable, the amusing themselves by admiring the decorations of flags, banners, &c., and the preparations for the illumination in the evening, which were on an unprecedented scale, far exceeding anything of the kind that has ever taken place in the midland counties. Among the illuminations the chief object of attraction was the dome and cross of St. Philip's church, which was effected by the lighting up of the cross and dome after the manner of St. Peter's at Rome. The expense of this was defrayed by a public subscription, upwards of £400 being contributed. The other public buildings in the town were also illuminated—the most attractive being the Grammar School of King Edward VI., the Townhall, the Market-hall, the Queen's Hotel at the London and North-Western Railway Station, the Free Library, &c. Among the minor celebrations may be mentioned the feasting of the letter-carriers, the making of the presents, and the Corporation dinner. In the evening the Mayor entertained the members of the Corporation and others at dinner at the Royal Hotel.

BLACKBURN.

Contrary to expectation, the morning broke fine and frosty, and the merry peals of the church bells and the patrolling of the streets by bands betokened the commencement of the day's rejoicings. The shops, manufactories, and all places of business were closed, and the people turned out in holiday attire. There was a very large display of flags, streamers, and banncrets of all devices and patterns. Here and there were mottoes and devices, and one of the latter bore the mottoes, "God bless the Prince of Wales," and "God bless the bride." At ten o'clock a Royal salute was fired from the Revedge battery of artillery volunteers, which is the head-quarters of the same. Soon afterwards the rifle volunteers drew up in front of the Townhall, when Mrs. Lord, of Stanhill, presented the colours to the 4th Lancashire regimental flag. A public procession was then formed. It consisted of the whole of the military volunteers, consisting of companies of the Grammar School scholars, county and borough magistrates, the Mayor, Aldermen, and councillors, and corporate officers of the borough; the rifle volunteers and cadet corps, trades' unions of Blackburn and district, enrolled pensioners of neighbourhood, letter-carriers, Sunday-school children, Oddfellows, Foresters, friendly societies, and Sunday-school children. In this order the cortège moved to Stanhill Park, where the lord of the manor (Mr. G. Fielden) planted two Royal oaks, to be named Albert and Alexandra. The procession then moved along several of the principal streets to the site of the new Exchange, when the Mayor laid the corner-stone of the building. Cheers for the Queen and for the Prince and Princess having been given, the procession then left the spot, and the assembly dispersed, the bands playing the National Anthems of England and Denmark. Soon afterwards the volunteers were entertained at dinner, as were also the inmates of the workhouse. The scholars who had walked in procession were treated at their respective schools, and the Mayor, Aldermen, and Ward representatives sat down to tea by the liberality of Alderman Cunningham. In the evening the Townhall, the Market-hall, the Free Library, the Exchange, the Board of Health, and various Clubs, the Mayor's residence, and that of Alderman Cunningham, with a number of tradesmen's and hotels, were illuminated. A torchlight procession paraded the streets, in the park, and a monster bonfire was lighted on the heights of Revedge, which illuminated that part of the town.

BOLTON.

The grand feature of the day here was a procession of 16,000 Sunday-school scholars. When the assembly point in the Exhibition square was filled by the immense mass of scholars and their teachers, the Bolton troop of Yeomanry, the 19th Lancashire Artillery, and a detachment of the 37th Lancashire Rifles, with the Townhall bands in the south-west corner, and the numerous mace, with their thousands of banners, in the north-east corner of the workhouse. The scholars who had walked in procession were treated at their respective schools, and the Mayor, Aldermen, Ward representatives, and the clergy sat down to tea by the liberality of Alderman Cunningham. In the evening the Townhall, the Market-hall, the Free Library, the Exchange, the Board of Health, and various Clubs, the Mayor's residence, and that of Alderman Cunningham, with a number of tradesmen's and hotels, were illuminated. A torchlight procession paraded the streets, in the park, and a monster bonfire was lighted on the heights of Revedge, which illuminated that part of the town.

BOLTON.

The grand feature of the day here was a procession of 16,000 Sunday-school scholars. When the assembly point in the Exhibition square was filled by the immense mass of scholars and their teachers, the Bolton troop of Yeomanry, the 19th Lancashire Artillery, and a detachment of the 37th Lancashire Rifles, with the Townhall bands in the south-west corner, and the numerous mace, with their thousands of banners, in the north-east corner of the workhouse. The scholars who had walked in procession were treated at their respective schools, and the Mayor, Aldermen, Ward representatives, and the clergy sat down to tea by the liberality of Alderman Cunningham. In the evening the Townhall, the Market-hall, the Free Library, the Exchange, the Board of Health, and various Clubs, the Mayor's residence, and that of Alderman Cunningham, with a number of tradesmen's and hotels, were illuminated. A torchlight procession paraded the streets, in the park, and a monster bonfire was lighted on the heights of Revedge, which illuminated that part of the town.

BRADFORD.

The triumphal arches, mostly having transparencies, were raised in the town, and there was a church service at one of the churches in the Bradford Peal Park. The weather was unfavourable for display, but snow and sleet overhead and mud under foot did not sensibly diminish the ardour of the rejoicings. In the morning there was a grand procession from Bradford to Peal Park, which is upwards of a mile from the centre of the town. About 14,000 persons walked and rode in the procession, and the entire number who assembled in the park could not have been less than 20,000. The children had a very pleasing effect, and was followed by a loud burst of cheering. The procession, military, and bands marched more than twice over in the course of the square, under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Gray, M.P., and Major Ripley, and the rear in review by the Mayor, Aldermen, and Councillors of the borough, the Corporation officers, and many gentlemen of the town and neighbourhood who had assembled at the park to hold in procession. Immediately the body moved from the square. At five o'clock there was a public dinner for the children of the Sunday-schools. There were two tents erected at the Temperance and Concert halls; and at nine an exhibition of fireworks in the Market-square.

BRADFORD.

The triumphal arches, mostly having transparencies, were raised in the town, and there was a church service at one of the churches in the Bradford Peal Park. The weather was unfavourable for display, but snow and sleet overhead and mud under foot did not sensibly diminish the ardour of the rejoicings. In the morning there was a grand procession from Bradford to Peal Park, which is upwards of a mile from the centre of the town. About 14,000 persons walked and rode in the procession, and the entire number who assembled in the park could not have been less than 20,000. The children had a very pleasing effect, and was followed by a loud burst of cheering. The procession, military, and bands marched more than twice over in the course of the square, under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Gray, M.P., and Major Ripley, and the rear in review by the Mayor, Aldermen, and Councillors of the borough, the Corporation officers, and many gentlemen of the town and neighbourhood who had assembled at the park to hold in procession. Immediately the body moved from the square. At five o'clock there was a public dinner for the children of the Sunday-schools. There were two tents erected at the Temperance and Concert halls; and at nine an exhibition of fireworks in the Market-square.

BURY.

At an early hour the streets of Bury were thronged by crowds who were attracted by the hoisting by the Company of cannon and the discharge of small firearms. The bells rang merrily from the parish church steeple, and the enlivening strains of a band were heard ere the people were thoroughly awake to the fact that the long-looked-for 10th of March had arrived. The long continuance of the distress prevented in a great measure any elaborate and expensive display of loyalty. In all the principal streets, however, flags and banners of all sizes, hues, and descriptions were displayed. The mills and railway stations were also profusely decorated with banners and streamers. Two large flag-masts were erected in the old market-place, from which were displayed the old flag of St. George and the Union Jack of England. Near Bury Bridge a similar pole was erected for the amusement of the working people. The volunteers mustered early. At ten o'clock they attended Divine service at the parish church, and then marched through the principal streets to their respective posts, where they were joined by the Heywood companies of the 8th Lancashire and the Wigan corps. An immense concourse of people had assembled at this point. At noon the volunteers fired a feu de joie, and then went through a variety of evolutions under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Hilton Greig. A public dinner took place at one o'clock at the Derby Hotel, at which the magistrates, town commissioners, and the leading gentlemen of the town were present. At night there was an effective display of fireworks in Union-square. The town was illuminated, and the neighbouring villages the day was celebrated in a similar manner, and at night a large bonfire on the top of Holcombe-hill cast its lurid glow over the valley of the Irwell.

BURY ST. EDMUNDS.

The Mayor and town council were in procession early in the morning to St. Mary's Church, where Divine service was celebrated. Meantime a guard of honour was formed by the 1st Suffolk troop of cavalry, under Captain Bennet; the militia staff, commanded by Captain Oakes; the friendly societies, to the number of upwards of 1000 members, the townspeople, &c., in the meantime having assembled at the door of St. Mary's Church at about the conclusion of Divine service. Around them the Royal standard was unfurled, and cheers passed through the principal streets, and finally halted on the Angel Hill, where the mayor and a square were formed, and a feu de joie was fired. At noon the aged poor, to the number of 200, were entertained at the Corn Exchange. Later a series of rural sports commenced, at which all these were present, with the exception of children and tea in the Corn Exchange. They were succeeded by the friendly societies and at eight p.m. an immense bonfire was lighted. The day's festivities concluded with balls at the Athenæum, Town-hall, and Corn Exchange,—all these buildings being illuminated and decorated.

CAMBRIDGE.

So far as the town was concerned, however, each one tried to outvie his neighbour. Joybells rang from morn till night, and it may be safely stated that there was no lack of merriment or loyalty. Business was suspended. The 4th Queen's Own Cambridge Rifle Corps had a field day on Parker's Piece, under the command of Captains Longmyndand and Pratt. At one o'clock the streets were lined with troops, and illuminated. At night the Guildhall was a blaze of light, and the undergraduates were especially conspicuous. The illuminations at the various colleges consisted of devices that became them all, in transparencies or gas.

CANTERBURY.

The day's proceedings commenced with a Royal salute on the Dane John. The Mayor and most of the members of the Corporation proceeded to the Cathedral, where they had pews reserved for them under the Dean and several members of the Chapter, accompanied by the choir, walked from the Chapter House to the chancel during the singing of the service. Between the services, which were well attended, the cathedral was thrown open free to the public, of which privilege a great number availed themselves. At twelve o'clock the whole of the troops in garrison turned out and fired a feu de joie, and shortly afterwards the two honorary corps of cadets, the Kentish and the Cinque Ports Volunteer Engineers, accompanied by their respective bands, marched on to the Dane John, and were put through a few movements. A little after two o'clock between 600 and 700 of the old people, of early years of age, sat down to an excellent dinner at the Corn Exchange. The names of the under-mentioned gentlemen, forgotten, the guardians having provided Christmas fare for them and their liberty for the day. The main thoroughfares were illuminated.

CARDIFF.

Here there was a general holiday, a profuse display of flags on the shipping in the docks, and a public procession. The schoolchildren (in number over 6000) joined in the procession, and were afterwards feasted. The aged poor were provided with a good dinner at home, and there was also a public dinner. The great display of fireworks after the procession and volunteer review was the illumination at night.

CARLISLE.

The day was observed as a general holiday in Carlisle, and was made one of general rejoicing and festivity. At an early hour flags were hoisted on the municipal buildings of the city. The Bishop, Dean, and Chapter held a prayer meeting, and afterwards had the use of the Cathedral for their personal friends at breakfast. At half past eleven the Mayor and Corporation assembled at the Town-hall, and, on the motion of Dr. Elliot, seconded by Mr. C. P. Hardy, adopted a loyal address to the Prince of Wales. Meanwhile, the volunteers were assembled in the market-place and fired a feu de joie, echoing back a Royal salute fired at the same time from the castle by the artillery volunteers. Crowds had by this time assembled, and the Mayor and Corporation then had played the National Anthem. The Mayor and Corporation then adjourned to the castle, joined on the way by other public bodies, and in the castle square a grand procession was marshalled, headed by the volunteers. The Mayor and Corporation, and including all the friendly societies and about 4000 children from the schools. They marched all the principal streets of the city, with bands playing and flags and banners flying. At one point the procession comprised a public dinner, under the presidency of the Mayor, another volunteer dinner, and several dinners of friendly societies. The girls of the three schools of the Sewing Society were entertained at the Athenæum, and received a gift of 1s. 6d. each. There were fireworks and illuminations at night, the most prominent of the latter being a device in front of the Townhall.

CARNARVON.

Such an outburst of spontaneous loyalty has never been witnessed in Carnarvon since it became a town. All ranks and degrees of men joined in heartily accord to celebrate with enthusiasm the joyful happy event. The day was all that could be desired, and what with the happy event, and the changed the streets to scenes of gay and animated succession, &c.; the numerous arches and banners with appropriate mottoes were to be seen across every street and lane of the town. The artistic taste displayed; the various old castle walls in the first Prince of Wales was born; the canon of Old England proudly waving over the joyous scene from the highest tower of the Eagle Tower, altogether presented a scene which few provincial towns could rival. Immediately after the termination of the procession the 3rd Carnarvonshire Rifle Volunteers and Naval Reserve fired a feu de joie from the volunteer artillery fired a feu de joie from the Victoria Pier. The distribution to the poor took place in the castle at one p.m., and the children of the public schools had tea given to them at three p.m. The Mayor, Llewelyn Turner, Esq., was in the chair at the dinner, and presided at the dinner held at the Royal Hotel in the evening. The proceedings of the illumination were very general. Old, hoary "Snowdon" blazed forth at nightfall with a monster bonfire, which presented an appropriate spectacle for many a mile. There were numerous other bonfires on the hills and near gentlemen's seats around.

CHATHAM.

The whole of the troops of the garrison, including the Royal Artillery, Royal Engineers, depôt battalions, and the Chatham division of Royal Marines Light Infantry, the whole numbering several thousand men, in full dress, were marched to the Great Lines, where they were drawn up under the command of Colonel H. Jervis, second in command at Chatham, when they fired a feu de joie, after which they gave a vociferous round of cheering for the Prince of Wales and Princess Alexandra. All the ships in harbour were decorated with flags from stem to stern. At dusk a torchlight procession, headed by the High Constable and the town authorities, preceded by the Royal Marines band, perambulated the town. From the Dockyard, the entrance to the Royal Marine barracks, and other public buildings were brilliantly illuminated.

CHELTENHAM

The centre of the attraction in this place was the Promenade, a long, straight, and broad road, with an avenue of trees planted at the edge of the kerbstone. Here were erected ten triumphal arches. Each was brilliantly illuminated with gas. The private houses and shops were also brilliantly illuminated. Similar triumphal arches were erected at the end of every principal street, and wreaths of evergreens with festoons of flowers were suspended in the air. The order of proceedings for the day consisted of a triumphal procession of the Gloucestershire Militia, the rifle volunteers, and the Cheltenham College cadets round the town; they afterwards assembled in the college grounds and fired a feu de joie. At four o'clock there was a dinner to the pensioners, and volunteers who participated in the proceedings, numbering 800 and 900. About 2800 was subscribed by the town for the festivities of the day. The Mayor and Corporation had the honour of treating the school-children and aged poor, to the number of some 7000. There was a torchlight procession in the evening.

CHESTER.

The fact that the Prince of Wales is also Earl of Chester gave the wedding-day somewhat of the character of a local festivity. A large quantity of beef and beer, and plum pudding distributed to the poor of the city. The principal decorations were upon the four city gates. At the Eastgate they were handsomely festooned with evergreens and wreaths. A procession of the authorities, the volunteers, the guilds, and benefit societies paraded the city and halted in front of the new Market-hall. The Mayor and Corporation on the left the proceedings, went round the hall, and formally declared it open for business. In the afternoon the volunteers fired a feu de joie, and the bells of the ringing public dinners were given. At dusk a large bonfire was kindled on the Roodee, innumerable fireworks were let off, and the whole city was illuminated.

COLCHESTER.

The day was commemorated in town with the most joyous demonstrations. The morning was ushered in by the firing of cannon. The ringing of bells, a display of flags, banners, triumphal arches, devices, and mottoes, all indicative of the best wishes to the Prince of Wales and his Royal bride. All the schools of the town entered into the spirit of the day. The Mayor, the Town Council and Corporation, and bands playing "Haste to the Wedding," and "God bless the Prince of Wales." The garrison consisted of the garrison troops and volunteers, who fired a feu de joie, and gave a round of cheering for the Prince and Princess, in the presence of some thousands of spectators. One of the greatest and most popular attractions was the roasting of a whole bullock in the Castle Bailey, and the distribution of the meat to the poor. The night that was spent in merry sports, a general illumination in the evening, a torchlight procession, bonfire, concert, and ball.

COVENTRY.

The demonstrations in this city were commenced by public proclamation, commencing at the Cross, by municipal authorities, the volunteers, a detachment of dragoons, and the various friendly and public societies. An immense number of persons afterwards assembled on a spot near the Cross, where, after the singing of "God Save the Queen and Anthem," a feu de joie was fired by the volunteers. The aged poor were entertained at the Drapers' Hall. The procession afterwards took place at dusk; illuminations by the electric-light from St. Michael's Church presented a fine attractive sight, and a good display of fireworks closed the festivities.

DERBY.

The festivities here were a great success. At an early hour on the morning had fired a feu de joie, the procession paraded the town, consisting of the military, the Mayor, the Corporation, the friendly societies, the various trades, and the Sunday-school children, who afterwards were roasted and the poor treated. Public dinners took place in the town; the public buildings were illuminated, and at night there was a display of fireworks.

DONCASTER.

A procession of the Mayor, Corporation, yeomanry cavalry, militia, and volunteer corps proceeded through the streets, gaily decorated, to the parish church, where choral service was performed. At the Market-hall a public dinner was provided. In the evening there were balls, illuminations, and fireworks.

DORKING.

The morning was ushered in by the ringing of bells and the performances of the gifts corps band. The streets of the town were gaily decorated by flags and festoons of evergreens. At one o'clock a procession, composed of nearly 2000 of the children of the various public schools of the neighbourhood, the Prince of Wales's Lodge of Odd Fellows, the members of the local committee, and others, left the concourse of inhabitants, perambulated the streets. About 1200 of the poor were regaled with roast beef, plum-pudding, and ale. The children of the schools, the inmates of the workhouse, and the almshouses, were also regaled with the same substantial English fare, and the aged, to the number of 200, were treated to tea and coffee. A variety of sports, including football and foot and pony racing, were also provided for the day. Illuminations, bonfires, and a display of fireworks and extensive ever seen in Dorking—was brought to a close in the evening by a monster bonfire and a capital display of fireworks.

DOVER.

At eight in the morning a signal-gun was a fired, and the steamfrigate of the Imperial Mail-packet Company, together with numerous vessels in the offing, the harbour, and the pier-head, then came the ringing of joyous peals from the churches. At nine o'clock the streets were gay with the various corps of volunteers, who numbered the number of nearly 2500, and sang an appropriate poem, full of loyal and patriotic sentiment. The juvenile choristers had mostly been breakfasted at the different schoolrooms, and were assembled with cheering and singing the National Anthem. At ten o'clock the Mayor, Corporation, and the Admiralty Pier Committee, assembled at St. Mary's, and afterwards joined in the corporate procession, which was led by the band of the volunteers and their bands. After proceeding through the principal streets at one o'clock the volunteers halted and joined the troops in garrison in a feu de joie, which extended along the whole seafront. The guns were heard on the heights and at the castle thundered a salvo of 101 guns, the troops in the garrison, and a small host of musicians played and sang "God Save the Queen," the hurras of those on the beach being echoed to the heights and at the castle. At one o'clock was a déjeûner at the Lord Warden Hotel for the Mayor and Corporation, the chief officers of the Royal Artillery and provided a sumptuous entertainment. At three o'clock the children sat down to the Shakspeare Hotel for the principal tradesmen. The members of the Odd Fellows' Society, by the kindness of the Mayor, had the Townhall in place, where an instrumental concert was provided. The children at the National Schools, the Townhall; the men of the Coastguard and Revenue Service at the Custom House. The most elaborate and extensive preparations made for them in the beautiful estate of Eastcliffe, the property of Mr. Thomas Brassey, M.P., who also liberally invited the two volunteer corps, the Imperial Mail Packet Company's servants, and a small host of friends to partake of the same hospitality, slaughtering the "fatlings of the flocks" and his choicest beeves for the occasion. The illuminations were general. The South-Eastern Railway station was lit with gas, and the Lord Warden Hotel, the Ship Hotel, the Royal Victoria and Marine Hotel, and other public places the exhibition of a bright-coloured light. The gas-jets disposed around it were stiff and awkward—a perpendicular line, a horizontal line, then a blank, a cluster and more perpendicular and horizontal lines, and clusters in succession, until the whole terminated in one lone star as an apex, being the effect from our elevated standpoint on the Calton Hill. The castle, West and East Prince's-street Gardens, the Bank of Scotland, and the roof of the Edinburgh and Glasgow station formed undoubtedly from this point one of the grandest views of which imagination is capable. Never, except in the poetic descriptions of fairyland, has such a scene been delineated. High over all on the castle there was a double belt of light; then, flanking this on each side, were single rows, as if all the portholes in the batteries were lighted up; then in wild disorder, like a broken charge of cavalry, the lights ran down the rocks towards Prince's-street, and thickered along the West Prince's-street Gardens, up Ramsay-terrace, where they met and intertwined with other bright and beautiful as themselves, and finally shaped themselves into the beautiful outline of the Royal Scottish Academy Galleries, or got lost in the variegated and exceedingly effective arrangement in the northern windows of the Bank of Scotland. The outline of the tall houses of the Old Town was not very well seen from any of the battlements of the monument; but the geometrical disposition of the lights in many of the windows could be definitely enough marked out. But, next to St. George's Church, by far the most attractive sight from the Nelson Monument was the brilliantly-lighted crown of Old Giles. The details of the crown were all clearly traced by the lights, and the coloured lanterns added very much to the impression produced upon the spectator as to the splendour of the original conception. Immediately beneath the feet, as it were, the west end of the pal, with its turrets and tower, shone out in dazzling brightness, the paddle being disposed into a kind of crown on the top of the staircase tower, and arranged in glittering array along the whole of the battlements of this part of the building. On Nelson's Monument itself numerous pabile were disposed round the parapets of the various landings, while in all the windows there was an exhibition of wax candles. Standing on the north side of the time-ball, several bonfires in Fife were seen to flame up into the sky; the revolving light of Inchkeith was also observable on turning more to the eastward; the illuminations on various public buildings in Leith shimmered through the darkness and the sleet. Facing south, the lurid glare from the huge bonfire on Arthur's Seat greeted the eye. It in no way, however, served to set forth to advantage on the Nelson Monument the grand outline of the lion rampant. Equally ineffective in revealing the full development of Salisbury Crags were the fires arranged at stated intervals along the summit; but the intense lights which ever and anon rose from the Radical-road exhibited the massive rocky ridge perfectly—now suffusing it in rose, now in the blue of the cerulean, again in the tinge of the orange, or the green of the fruitful meadow in spring."

LEATHER VASES PRESENTED TO HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES.

EXETER.

Here there was a procession of Mayor, Corporation, tradesmen, and volunteers to the cathedral, accompanied by four bands. At Bury Meadow three commemoration trees were planted, and the volunteers fired a feu de joie. Several public dinners took place, and about 6000 children were provided with tea. At night a monster bonfire was lit in the cathedral-yard, and brilliant illuminations took place.

FOLKESTONE.

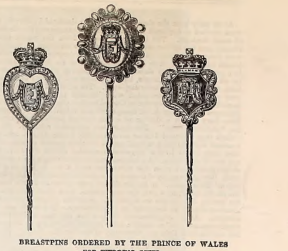
The great feature in the rejoicings organised by the loyal Mechanics of Folkestone was an enormous bonfire, which was got up under the careful superintendence of a "bonfire committee," by whom £100 was expended in supplying materials for this "blaze of triumph." Upwards of 3000 faggots of wood, twenty-five loads of timber, and ten barrels of tar were used in its construction. The bonfire was placed on Copt Point, a few hundred yards to the east of Folkestone, the highest hill on this coast, and the exact point at which English ground approaches most nearly the shores of France. In addition to the bonfire, a grand torchlight and burning tar-barrel procession was got up, in which thousands of persons took part, and which, after parading the town, wound its somewhat devious way up the height, cheered by the sound of triumphal music and the vocal outpourings of the more or less tuneful processionists. The spectacle was altogether most imposing, and admitted to be a "great success." The bonfire, a correspondent says, was seen in France more clearly than even the French marine lights could be seen at Folkestone.

GLASGOW.

No such gala day has before been known in Glasgow, the city being entirely and absolutely en fête. The long line of Argyll-street and Trongate had a very picturesque appearance, with its array of banners fluttering from one end to the other. The shipping in the harbour made also a very effective display, and the river were quite a gala aspect. Buchanan-street and James-street display a profusion of banners; but it is needless to particularise where every great

BROOCH PRESENTED TO THE PRINCESS OF WALES BY THE HIGHLAND VOLUNTEERS OF EDINBURGH.

LACE HANDKERCHIEF PRESENTED TO THE PRINCESS BY THE KING OF THE BELGIANS.



BREASTPINS ORDERED BY THE PRINCE OF WALES FOR WEDDING GIFTS.

line of thoroughfare and traffic vied with each other to excel. Places of business, large and small, were, almost without exception, closed during the whole day; public works were stopped; the hand of industry was suspended in the busy mart, and the bells of the city churches rang out, for two hours during the forenoon, their merriest peal. At three o'clock the Lord Provost presided at a banquet, at which the members for the city, the magistrates, and council were present. In the evening there was a grand ball in the Exchange, which was the most brilliant assembly known for years in the west of Scotland. The public buildings were illuminated, and many private establishments. The main thoroughfares were till ten o'clock crowded to excess.

GLOUCESTER.

In the morning there was a procession of the Corporation, volunteers, Foresters, and Oddfellows to the public park, where the Mayor planted a commemoration oak. The volunteers afterwards went through various evolutions, and fired a feu de joie. In the afternoon there were athletic sports, and the school children were entertained at tea. In the evening there were illuminations of the public buildings, and public balls. Flags were hung out from every house.

GRAVESEND.

The festive appearance of this town when Princess Alexandra passed through its gaily-garlanded streets was well maintained on the day of the Royal marriage. All the tasteful decorations were retained; flags fluttered from every steeple, and streamed across the principal thoroughfares; the ships in the river were brightly "dressed," the Osborne, which still remains off the Terrace Pier, prominently doing honour to the occasion by a show of colours and ornamental devices, surmounted by an illuminated crown above the funnel; and the day was celebrated as a general holiday. At one o'clock a salute of twenty-one guns was fired from Tilbury Fort, bells rung out merrily from all the churches, and the town and neighbourhood wore an unusually festive aspect. Early in the afternoon about 800 of the poorer inhabitants of the town were treated to a substantial dinner on the Terrace Pier, and a number of amusements was afterwards provided for them, which prolonged their enjoyment through the remainder of the day. The Mayor's ball at the Assembly Rooms, and a public subscription ball at the Townhall, were fully attended in the evening, and festivities of various kinds took place throughout the district. At Northfleet a dinner was given in the rifle-ground to 100 poor of all denominations, and an enormous bonfire was kindled in the evening on the Galley Bank—an eminence of 90 ft., rising from the picturesque excavations of the chalk-cliffs surrounding. Three thousand two hundred "barns," with ten tar-barrels and similar combustibles, were used for the purpose, producing a very fine effect, and illuminating the country for a considerable distance.

GREAT GRIMSBY.

The town was decorated with flags and devices. The Mayor, Corporation, customs officers, clubs, artillery and rifle corps, with bands, tradesmen, and school children paraded the town. Artillery fired a Royal salute and rifles a feu de joie, and the children sang the National Anthem. There were dinners and teas, and in the evening fireworks and illuminations.

GREENWICH.

The morning was ushered in by a peal from the bells of the parish church of St. Alphage. In the afternoon nearly a thousand children belonging to the different parochial schools, each wearing a wedding favour, assembled in the hall of the Greenwich Literary Institution, where a pleasing entertainment was provided, the children, at its conclusion, singing the National Anthem, with additions applicable to the newly-married Royal pair. The inmates of the Greenwich Union, numbering between 900 and 1000, were supplied with roast beef and plum-pudding, with porter for the adults and nuts and oranges for the juveniles, in honour of the event, the day being further commemorated among the inmates of the union by the opening of a block of buildings recently erected for occupation by married couples over the eve of entry. In the evening the illuminations were very general, the four entrance-gates of Greenwich Hospital being magnificently illuminated.

LACE LAPPET AND SCARF PRESENTED TO THE PRINCESS BY THE KING OF THE BELGIANS.

FLOUNCE OF LACE DRESS PRESENTED TO THE PRINCESS BY THE KING OF THE BELGIANS.

HALIFAX.

From an early hour the streets presented a very lively appearance. A procession, more than a mile in length, left the Piecehall at two p.m., and after making a circuit through the town, proceeded to Ekroyd Moor. Among those present was the Mayor, Sir F. Crossley, Bart. A grand banquet was held in the evening. The illumination commenced at six p.m., and was on a most brilliant scale. A grand display of fireworks took place on the Moor at half-past seven, and the beacon-fire at ten o'clock. A splendid electric light was also exhibited from the tower of All Souls' Church.

HARWICH.

Salutes were fired from her Majesty's ship Pembroke, and by the local harbour volunteer artillery. There were the usual pyrotechnic displays, processions, &c.; and in the evening the members for the borough—Captain Peel and the Hon. Colonel Rowley—invited the volunteers to dine at the Three Cups Hotel, while the Mayor presided at a public dinner in another part of the town.

HEREFORD.

A Royal salute was fired at seven o'clock. A procession was formed at the High Town, which paraded the town with music and flags. At two o'clock there was a series of rural sports in a meadow adjacent to the city. The children were entertained, and there were several public dinners, and two balls. The town was illuminated at night.

HUDDERSFIELD.

A general holiday was observed throughout the entire district, and, in addition to the official public demonstration, there were numerous private celebrations in the shape of dinners, tea-parties, entertainments, &c. An interesting feature in the day's proceedings consisted in a treat to 600 widows of the town and district, given by a few philanthropic gentlemen, in the large room of the Infirmary Institution. At night, a grand ball took place in the banquet-room, attended by the leading families and neighbourhood. Other balls also took place in different parts of the town.

HULL.

In the morning there was a procession of the municipal authorities, clergy, and corporation. After service in the Holy Trinity, a salute was fired from the citadel. A public banquet and ball followed, and an extensive and brilliant display of fireworks illuminations. Several poor were entertained, and a large number of other persons. Seventeen thousand school children received medals.

IPSWICH.

A procession marched through the town, and upon arriving at the top of Berners-street it divided, the Mayor, magistrates, &c., filing off to the upper corporation, where a tree was planted to commemorate the day, while the remainder marched to a meadow adjoining Henley-road, where various evolutions were performed by the 5th Lancers, the Suffolk Militia artillery, and the Ipswich volunteers. At five p.m. a public dinner took place in the Corn Exchange, the Mayor (Mr. C. E. Bacon) presiding. Several of the parties of the poor also dined in different sections, and the same plan was adopted with regard to 3000 school children. A ball and a National Anthem in the course of the day in one imposing mass upon the Cornhill. The Custom House, the Townhall, and other public buildings were illuminated in the evening, and there was a display of fireworks upon the dock estate.

KING'S LYNN.

At half-past nine in the morning a procession was formed upon the market, comprising the Enrolled Pensioners, Coastguard, Royal Naval Volunteers, Artillery, and Corporation, with their banners, the clergy in their academical costume, and other ministers of religion, friendly societies, and industrial bodies generally, and traversed the principal streets of the town, being joined on its way by the children of all the day and Sunday schools. The streets of the town, on the occasion, were indeed thronged but the town, were profusely decorated with flags, the bells of St. Margaret's Church at the same time ringing out merry peals. A dinner was given to the poor in the Assembly-house gallery at the Corn Exchange, the schools were all feasted in their respective buildings, and quite spirited in great variety was provided and greatly enjoyed. In the evening a public dinner took place in the Guildhall, under the presidency of the Mayor. The illuminations at night were on a scale never before seen in Lynn.

KINGSTOWN.

Tuesday morning opened beautifully clear and crispy, with a bright sunshine, at nine a.m. the signal was given to "Prepare for Sea," when the Ajax, the gun-boat Rainbow, the cutters Fanny, Stag, and Wellington, and the various shipping in harbour were decorated with their gayest flags. The Ajax had the Union Jack at the peak at the fore, the red ensign at the main, and the blue ensign at the mizen. The Rainbow, Stag, Austrian, and the merchantmen were each represented at their moorings; in fact, every craft that could boast of any hunting used it on the occasion. The Royal St. George and the Royal Irish Clubhouse, the East Pier Battery, the steamer, the Naval Depôt, the Harbour Master's office, coast-guard station, railway station, the hotels, and other establishments were all together with many houses in the town, also hoisted flags. At one o'clock a royal salute was fired (twenty-one guns), and the bells of the sailors manned the rigging, giving three cheers for the welfare of our future King and the Rose of Denmark, and the band played "God Save the Queen." This was first completed at a quarter past one. At six p.m. sunset was fired, and all flags were lowered. In the evening the Ajax and cutters were brilliantly illuminated, and rockets were fired off.

LEAMINGTON.

This fashionable town was the scene of extensive festivities in celebration of the auspicious event. There was a grand procession, and an ox roasted on an enormous quantity of "old English fare" was provided for upwards of 3000 of the working classes and 3000 children. At three o'clock the foundation-stone of the first working-fountain erected in the town was laid by Henry Jephson, Esq., M.D. At the same hour athletic games and rustic sports were taking place on Parr and Wood-end Greens. In the evening a grand display of fireworks, a torchlight procession, and all kinds of illuminations gave the town a most brilliant and animated appearance. J. W. Martin, Esq., M.P., presided at a banquet at the Regent Hotel; and a grand dress ball at the Royal Assembly Rooms, and a tradesman's ball at the Public Hall, brought the festivities to a close.

LEEDS.

At ten o'clock a procession of the yeomanry cavalry, the volunteers, the Corporation, the head of gentlemen, the town council officers, the surveyors of highways, and the auditors and assessors, was formed in front of the Townhall and in the streets adjacent. The Leeds squadron of Yorkshire Hussars occupied the right of the procession, in succession the volunteer artillery, the volunteer engineers (with cutters), and the volunteer rifles, all being under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Markham. Each of these corps mustered in full strength, and every officer and man were a new uniform. There was a military followed the Mayor and Corporation in carriages. They showed the other public functionaries of the borough on foot, about 1500 members of the working men's associations, friendly societies, and an immense train of vehicles of all descriptions, forming a procession of at least a mile in length. On the route the artillery were drawn up on the right, the engineers in the centre, and the rifles on the left. After the general parades and halts the trophy troops gave several hearty and ringing cheers for the newly-wedded Prince and Princess. There were 100,000 persons present. A subscription ball was given at the Townhall, and the day was kept as a general holiday, with a host of theatrical and other amusements, dinners given by employers to their workmen, and many other festive gatherings. The Mayor entertained about 250 gentlemen at dinner. Nor were the inferior forgotten, for the guardians made provision for the entertainment of the indoor and outdoor poor of the township; the illuminations at night were brilliant and attractive.

LEICESTER.

A general holiday was observed here, and the streets were gaily decorated. There was a procession of volunteers, Oddfellows, Foresters, brass bands, and regalia, headed by the Mayor and Corporation. Several thousand dinners, flags and banners, assembled in the market-place and sang the National Anthem. The united bands also played the same music. The various public buildings were illuminated.

LEWES.

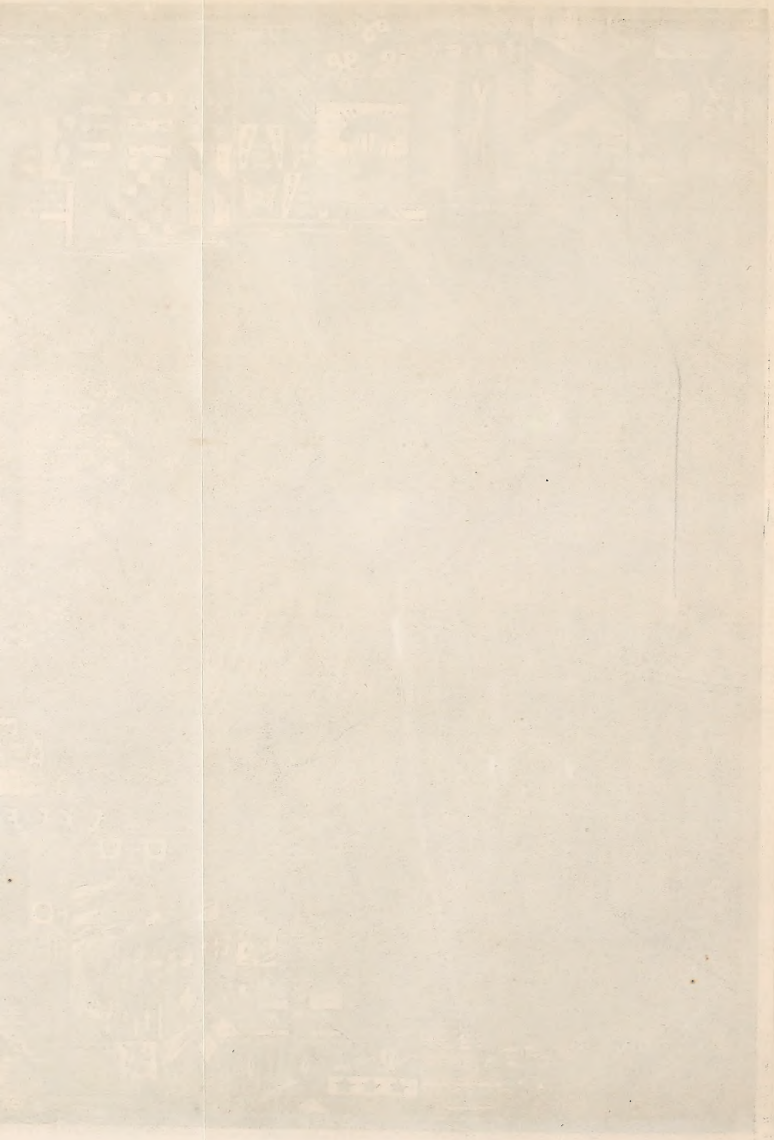
The bonfire upon the Cliffe-hill, Lewes, was lighted at eight o'clock p.m. Seven other bonfires were lighted about the same time on the hills within a range of eight miles of Lewes—viz., at Firle, Mount Caburn, Cliffe, Rottingdean, Piddinghoe, Ditchling, and Black Cap. The effect was extremely fine. The Lord of the Manor of Rottingdean was proposed at each gathering. The streets of the town were thronged with people. There was no illumination, but there was a grand torchlight procession. The High Constable presided at a volunteer dinner.

LINCOLN.

There was a grand procession of the Corporation, volunteer rifles, militia, Freemasons' friendly societies, and others, to the cathedral to hear a musical service. In the afternoon the volunteer rifles shot for a prize cup, and there were English sports. The grammar-school, the hospitals, and workhouse, were also visited, and at night the public buildings and the principal tradesmen's houses were illuminated. There were volunteers' and tradesmen's balls.

LIVERPOOL AND BIRKENHEAD.

The demonstrations in Liverpool were unanimous and most enthusiastic. All business was suspended, and from nine o'clock in the morning till late at night the streets were crowded with people, the leading thoroughfares at night being almost impassable from the crowds attracted by the illuminations and from the immense number of vehicles. The display of flags, not only by the shipping in the river and docks, but by the shopkeepers and inhabitants generally, was the most magnificent ever seen in Liverpool, some of the tabernacles in the fashionable districts of Rodney-street, Mount Pleasant, Mayon, Mr. R. G. Gardner, gave a grand banquet to a number of the leading inhabitants of the district, and in the evening his family gave a grand ball to upwards of 2000 ladies and gentlemen, the Exchange and Underwriters'-rooms being added to the Townhall in order to accommodate the numerous guests. There was also a very excellent display and procession in the afternoon, and in the evening a volunteer ball upon a scale of unusual grandeur. The Prince and Princess of Denmark, the drivers and horses decked with wedding favours, and bands and bugles and banners with appropriate and national inscriptions. Mr. Best, the organist to the Liverpool Philharmonic Society, performed upon the grand organ at St. George's Hall during the day, the hall being densely crowded. There were also special and excellent performances at the Queen's and the Royal.



CELEBRATION OF THE ROYAL MARRIAGE: THE CHOIR OF ST. GEORGE'S CHAPEL

CELEBRATION OF THE ROYAL MARRIAGE: THE CHOIR OF ST. GEORGE'S CHAPEL

wonderful brilliancy, bringing out clearly the outlines of the fleet at anchor. Ryde displayed a long line of bonfires along the esplanade, while the Portsmouth line of bonfires opposite the anchorage of the fleet at Spithead was a line of fire. The streets were one blaze of illuminations, and the dome of St. Thomas's Church was splendidly lighted up with blue lights and coloured stars.

READING.

The celebration of the Royal marriage may be said to have virtually begun here on Monday afternoon, when a whole ox, prepared for the spit and very smartly decorated, was drawn through the town, headed by a band, to the Public Recreation-ground, where the process of cooking commenced at ten o'clock at night in the presence of a large concourse of people. Bonfires, which will be the order of England's great day were those of the assembly of the 1st Berks Rifle Corps, who paraded about 200 strong, and marched to the camp where they joined the whole Berks battalion. The evolutions were out merry peals, and between ten and eleven o'clock a grand procession, composed of the Mayor and Corporation, with the civic officers, members of the Philanthropic Society, and inhabitants in carriages, the fire brigade, and other civic bodies, preceded by bands, and accompanied by several bands, passed through the principal streets, which were very profusely illuminated, and which were the scene of much enthusiasm as they neared various parts of the town. A Royal salute was fired from the Russian gun on Forbury-hill, and the ox was cut up and distributed, while many poor people were regaled with 4000 and 2000 aged people in the Corn Exchange. In the afternoon the children of the various schools, numbering several thousands, paraded the streets, and afterwards proceeded to the railway station to await the arrival of the Royal train. A very brilliant illumination of the public buildings and private houses took place in the evening; there was a grand display of fireworks, and the celebration closed successfully with an immense bonfire upwards of fifty feet high.

ROCHDALE.

The auspicious event was ushered in by the booming of cannon over the town at six o'clock, and this was followed by a hundred. At the top of Drake-street a magnificent triumphal arch entirely spanned the road. A procession was formed, and after parading the streets the principal children were brought, which presented an animated appearance and were densely crowded throughout the whole line of route, the procession broke up in the Butts, but not before the cheers for cheers were given for the Prince of Wales and his bride. The cortège comprised more than six thousand persons, and extended over a distance of from a mile to a mile and a quarter. The town was brilliantly illuminated at night.

ROCHESTER.

Flags and banners were suspended from nearly every house. The principal feature of the day was the opening of the new town quay, which has been for some time in progress, and which will henceforward take the name of the Prince of Wales's Quay. The Mayor and members of the Corporation, together with all the civic officers and a large number of the citizens, walked in procession through the town, after which they proceeded to the quay, and declared it open. The Mayor, the local volunteers firing a feu de joie. At three o'clock the whole of the children belonging to the various Sunday-schools, of all denominations, assembled on the England's, each child wearing a rosette and also a medal—the latter struck expressly for the occasion—in gilt of the two principal sides of the city. After singing the National Anthem, in which the public joined, the children were marched off to their respective schools, where they were feasted at the expense of the Corporation. There were in the evening an illumination and a magnificent display of fireworks.

SALISBURY.

The rejoicings in the city were on an extensive scale. The sum of £500 had been raised by subscription among the inhabitants, with which the various public school children were entertained. At ten o'clock the Mayor and inhabitants went in procession to the cathedral. At two o'clock there was a dejeuner at the Council House, and in the afternoon a number of sports came off on the Bemerton Meadows. In the evening the public buildings were illuminated, and there was an immense bonfire in the Green-croft.

SCARBOROUGH.

The festivities here were most animated. There was a public procession composed of the Corporation and every class of the people, with friendly societies and the volunteer corps, who fired a feu de joie. Many private houses were handsomely decorated and illuminated.

SHEFFIELD.

The principal thoroughfares in the centre of the town were spanned by triumphal arches, decorated and illuminated in a most elaborate and costly style. In the morning a procession started from the North Park and went through the principal streets of the town. It included the Mayor and Corporation, the magistrates, the Cutlers' Company, the Volunteers, and every public body of importance, the volunteers and yeomanry, the associated trades of the town, the members of the friendly societies, a number of tradesmen's carts, a trophies," including steam-plates, models of enormous castings; a number of representatives of the local educational institutions, &c. Several bands were occupied in playing over the assigned routes of the procession, and the Corporation, magistrates, and other gentlemen sat down to a cold collation in the Music-hall, where the health of the newly-wedded pair was drunk with enthusiasm. Dinners were also given to the whole body of the workhouse (1000); the aged and sick paupers in the 8th Poet, and the 16th Lancers (the latter being the corps in which the Prince of Wales learnt drill), were treated in a manner at the hands of the local committee of the aged poor to a substantial repast. A great deal was done in the way of private benevolence, in addition to the grants voted by the committee. In the evening the centre of the town was illuminated. The hall given by the cutlers' Company, on the scale of nearly a hundred feet square. The Corporation ball took place at the Music-hall, and was numerously attended. Balls were also given at various other places. About 20,000 medals commemorative of the occasion, and buns, were distributed to the Sunday-school children.

SHIELDS, NORTH AND SOUTH.

At South Shields the day's proceedings were opened with the distribution of 4000 lb. of beef, in 2 lb. pieces, and 2000 3 lb. loaves, among the poor. A similar distribution of meat took place at North Place at North Shields. At ten o'clock in the forenoon the school children of South Shields met in the market-place and sang the Morning Hymn and Old Hundred, Psalm, and the National Anthem. After this they were regaled with oranges. 20,000 people were present, and although the proceedings of the day were limited to be held in the large hall of the Mechanics' Institute. This was followed by a procession, composed of the civic authorities, the corporation, clergy, and leading public bodies, the Naval Reserve and sailors' societies, and artillery and rifle volunteers. The Corporation met at two o'clock, in the Town-hall, and presented loyal addresses to the Queen and the Prince of Wales. The illuminations were numerous and brilliant in both towns. Salutes were fired from Clifford's Fort and from her Majesty's ship Cactor.

SOUTHAMPTON.

The joybells commenced ringing here at seven o'clock in the morning. At nine a distribution of beer, bread, and beef to 3000 poor families took place in the West Marlands. This distribution was under the auspices of the clergy and ministers of the town. At the same time about 6000 school children marched four abreast, accompanied by their teachers, monitors, and deacons, from England Park to Watts Park, where each child received a commemorative medal, a mug, and a bun. At one o'clock the children were in volunteer band assembled on the platform, and passed up the town discourse appropriate to the occasion. Soon after this the Olympic games of Athletic Club commenced on the Common, and the finest athletes belonging to the town competed for prizes. At eleven o'clock the members of the various benefit societies marched from the Cricket-ground to the Audit House, preceded by bands of music. Soon after eleven the boys of her Majesty's ship Dauntless landed at the pier, and, preceded by a juvenile band of music, marched through the town. Each boy wore a white rosette. At noon the guns from the platform battery boomed forth a Royal salute. At half-past twelve the Mayor and Corporation, in their robes of office, and accompanied by a vast procession, marched from the Audit House to Andrew's Park, and there planted two oak-trees, which were named respectively by the Mayor and Sheriff as the Albert Edward and the Alexandra. After the ceremony was roasted, and servers were busy cutting out hot and fragrant steaks for poor people. It was conducted by the butchers. The meat was cooked in their respective shops under the superintend the cooking. It took sixteen hours to complete the roast. A medieval torchlight procession took place at nine o'clock, and the whole of the tradesmen were dressed in grotesque costumes. The illuminations were very splendid. Her Majesty's ships Dauntless and Dauntless were lit up, and from them ascended a vast number of beautiful rockets. At nine o'clock the heavens were illuminated with a display of fireworks from the mast and the yards of the ships. A magnificent display of fireworks took place in the upper part of the town.

STAFFORD.

The rejoicings were commenced at seven o'clock by a procession consisting of the Mayor and Corporation, the rifle volunteers, the fire-brigade, the local forces, the friendly societies, the various trades, and private schools of the town, and which, accompanied by two bands, paraded the leading thoroughfares. At ten o'clock the children were to a large number of the aged poor; the Sunday scholars were afterwards suitably entertained; and in the evening large public dinners took place in the two principal hotels of the town. Several balls were given, and at night a grand display of fireworks was made.

STRATFORD-ON-AVON.

This town infused into the public rejoicings a sort of Shakspearean character. A public procession was formed of the rifle corps, the Amateur Dramatic Society, the police force, and the band of the Warwickshire Militia, from a temporary battery. Beef was distributed among the poor, and 1200 school children were entertained. There was an illumination in the evening, a ball and private buildings. Dinners and balls completed the festivities.

SUNDERLAND.

There was a large procession of Sunday-school children, a public lunch, and a procession of gleemen in the employ of the Mayor, Mr. J. Hartley, and partners. The children assembled at the Exchange-square, and the gleemen in the employ of his firm with roast beef and plum-pudding. The school children were entertained, and there were great rejoicings at night.

SWANSEA.

The town and docks, which were full of shipping, exhibited a profusion of flags of all nations. Here, as elsewhere, there was a public procession and illumination, and the foundation-stone of a new public hall was laid with great ceremony by Mrs. Dillwyn, the wife of the borough member.

TAUNTON.

A salute of twenty-one guns was fired early in the morning, a choral service took place at St. Mary's Church in the forenoon, a military parade took place in the afternoon, a public meeting played during the day, and the bells from the church towers pealed merrily. Bread and beef were given to the poor, and tea was given to the children of the Sunday schools assembled on the parade and sang a piece suitable to the occasion, after which they were regaled with tea and cake. There was also a display of fireworks, a general illumination, and a torchlight procession.

TENBY.

This little town celebrated the marriage of the Prince and Princess of Wales in a particularly joyful manner, under the conduct of the Mayor, Mr. G. White. It is worthy of remark that the Mayor, during the thirty-four years he has held the family who has had the office, and that an ancestor was Mayor of Tenby at the marriage of Henry V., Harry V., Harry VI., and Harry VII. The order of the day during the day was the adoption of an address of congratulation to the Prince of Wales, which, of course, was carried by unanimous acclamation. Then a procession of the authorities, notables, volunteers, and others, the goal of which was a spot where two oaks were planted; and after this there was a dejeuner, with the usual loyal accompaniments. Two cedar-trees were afterwards planted, the school children were entertained, rustic sports were indulged in, and of course there was an illumination at night.

TONBRIDGE.

At noon the volunteers assembled in the High-street and fired a feu de joie, while a Royal salute boomed forth from the guns at the castle. Dejeuners were given at the Castle and at the Rifle Volunteers marched in procession through the town. Afterwards a public dinner took place at the Townhall, under the presidency of Henry Streatfeild, and in the evening there was a display of fireworks and a torchlight procession. Almost every house was decorated more or less profusely, and many were brilliantly illuminated in the evening.

WARWICK.

This old borough was beautifully decorated, and flags of every description floated from the windows. A public lunch in the Corporation was formed, which comprised the Mayor and Corporation, the militia staff, the volunteers, school children, and the benefit societies. After marching through the principal streets the procession proceeded to the race-common, where the Queen's fired a feu de joie, after which the National Anthem was sung. Prizes for various competitions were given by all assembled for the Queen, three for the Prince of Wales, and three for the Princess of Wales. On the return of the procession to the courthouse, the children were taken to their respective schools and the public buildings, where a good substantial dinner of roast beef, plum-pudding, and ale had been prepared for them. The adult population dined at their own houses, each of them having been supplied with a piece of beef from the ox roasted. During the afternoon a variety of rural games were indulged in on the common, and in the evening the whole of the public buildings were splendidly illuminated. About nine o'clock a huge bonfire was ignited on the common, which could be seen for miles around, and the whole of the festivities were appropriately terminated with a display of fireworks.

WILTON.

The poor were provided with a good dinner; and, permission having been obtained from Lady Herbert of Lea, rustic amusements of different kinds took place in the park at Wilton House.

WOLVERHAMPTON.

About 11,000 children, each wearing a medal and white ribbon, paraded the streets in procession, and afterwards partook of a hearty afterwards a most successful review of the volunteers and yeomanry was held. The corporation entertained the members of the respective schools, and at noon 1400 of the aged poor were substantially entertained at the Agricultural Hall. The Oddfellows and Foresters also paraded the town, and in the evening a ball was given at the residence of Captain George Hall Graham, in the front of which were erected a couple of triumphal arches, ornamented and lighted up with Danish coloured lamps and bearing various devices, which screened the entire front of the house. At eight o'clock a display of fireworks commenced in the grounds of the Royal Military Repository, consisting of about 7000 rockets, shells, tourbillons, mines, marcons, &c.

WORCESTER.

The city was gaily decorated. There was a procession of the Mayor and Corporation, volunteers, yeomanry, &c; rustic games on the racecourse; the poor and school children were most liberally feasted; and at night there were fireworks, illuminations, and a ball.

YARMOUTH.

At an early hour flags were hoisted upon the public buildings, and all the vessels in the harbour and roadstead displayed their colours. Numerous houses were decorated with flags, banners, and devices. The members of the Town Council accompanied the Mayor (Mr. R. Steward) to church, where the Rev. Canon Nevill officiated, and subsequently they met at the Council Hall and voted loyal addresses to her Majesty and the Prince and Princess of Wales. The volunteers, rifle and artillery, also assembled on the South Denes, where they performed various evolutions, and a Royal salute was fired from the South Battery by the artillery volunteers. In the afternoon between 2000 and 600 volunteers assembled on the Hall-plain and marched to the stores, North-quay, to dine with, and at the expense of, the member for Yarmouth, Sir E. Lacon, Bart., M.P., who is Major-Commandant of the artillery volunteers. The children of the public and other schools, to the number of about 4000, were regaled with cakes and commemorative medals, and were regaled with tea, cake, and other refreshments. At the close of the day the town was illuminated, and lamps were suspended from the rigging of the ships in port.

YORK.

The day was observed in York as a general holiday, and about 10,000 of the working population were provided with breakfast of tea or of coffee previous to the procession. The loyalty of citizens evinced itself by the exhibition of a profusion of flags and banners. At noon the artillery volunteers assembled at the Castle and fired a Royal salute of twenty-one guns. At the same time the rifle volunteers fired a feu de joie. The members of each corps were wedding favours, which had been supplied to them by their officers. In the afternoon a procession was formed, composed of the Lord Mayor and Corporation, the clergy, the volunteers, and the various benefit societies. In St. George's-field, near the castle, the Lord Mayor, Lady Mayoress, and the Sheriff planted three trees of the species Wellingtonia gigantea. The trees had been cut in the procession, on completing the route assigned, attended the service at the cathedral. Subsequently 6000 of the children went to the Sandring and other schools, after each receiving a medal commemorative of the marriage, and a souvenir of the occasion suitable to the occasion. They were afterwards presented each with a bun and a threepenny-piece. In the evening in the Guildhall a dinner took place. The Mansion House, the bars, the Guildhall, and the public and other buildings were brilliantly illuminated. There was a display of fireworks in St. George's-field, and a fashionable ball in the Assembly-rooms.

REJOICINGS ABROAD ON THE ROYAL MARRIAGE DAY

The marriage of the Prince of Wales and Princess Alexandra has been celebrated abroad as well as at home. Our last Number contained an account of the festivities which took place at Aachmen on the wedding day, and we now give a few particulars of the manner in which the auspicious event was observed on the Continent.

PARIS.

The portals of the Home Office on the Faubourg St. Honoré were illuminated by Count Persigny's direction, and the letters "A. A." figured sentiment among the gas jets. Large olive-branches radiated over the gateway of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and a large tripic entoh feather, in coloured lamps, fluttered over many memorable edifices. Congratulatory letters, English and French, balls and receptions marked the occasion among her Majesty's loyal subjects. The children of the British Free Schools, 130 in number, were entertained by the committee of those schools at tea, and received Bibles in commemoration of the day. At night in the evening about 150 of the English residents assembled to defeat the Republic of Tea in the Rue de Berri. The festival was got up by the clergy and some of the wealthy English residents. The room was well lit up, and adorned with banners, flags, and portraits of the Prince and Princess, and presented a most genial aspect. The English Choral Society sang various pieces, and addresses were delivered by the clergy, and refreshments were distributed in the intervals of theentire tainment. The proceedings wound up with the National Anthem, at about half-past ten.

BOULOGNE.

A banquet was given in honour of the marriage. The chair was taken by Admiral Hathern, supported on his right and left by the Sous-Prefet and Baron Brunow, formerly ambassador here, and a very excellent dinner at the Imperial Pavilion Hotel. The rooms were tastefully arranged for the occasion. The band of the Chasseurs attended and played the various airs. The principal guests were, with the Danish Consul, the officers of the garrison, and those of the naval department, were invited. This sumptuous entertainment passed off with the greatest harmony and good feeling, being enlivened from time to time with the sound of the cannon. During the day the different friendly schools, independent of ones, were entertained with an excellent dinner, presided over by the resident clergy. The health of the Queen, the Prince, and their very general, and amongst the most conspicuous were the South-Eastern Company's office, and Messrs. Dawes and Co.'s, the latter displaying in the harbour made a splendid display, being decorated with garlands, flags, &c., particularly those of the South-Eastern and General Steam Navigation Companies.

BERLIN.

In honour and celebration of the marriage of the Prince of Wales, a sumptuous banquet, a ball, and a concert, and illumination was given at the British Embassy. The King and Queen and the Princes and Princesses of the Royal family honoured Sir Andrew and Lady Buchanan with their company. The remainder of the guests included the members of the British Embassy, the chiefs of the foreign missions in Berlin, the Austrian, Russian, Bavarian and the Danish Secretary of Legation, the Prussian Ministers, several ladies and grand officers of the Court. Among the latter, especially, his Majesty King William proposed "The health of the Queen of England," and afterwards that of the Prince and Princess of Wales, and of "The English and Danish Royal families." The British Ambassador proposed "The health of their Majesties of Prussia." After Queen Victoria's health had been drunk the King asked for pen and ink to indite a telegram to her Majesty informing her of it, as well as to congratulate her on the event of the day. It is to her know the manner in which it had been celebrated in his capital. At that moment arrived a telegram from our Queen to the King of Prussia, with some information regarding details of the wedding that had just taken place. The dinner was at five o'clock, the latest hour observed in the highest circles. The whole of the Embassy was brilliantly illuminated with gas—Royal crowns, entwined initials, banners, and Prince of Wales's feathers. The whole entertainment went off in the most successful and satisfactory manner.

MUNICH.

At Munich, though no official entertainment was publicly provided for, by the generous hospitality of the Court, the British and Danish residents were enabled to commemorate the day together, like most of their friends at home. Lord and Lady Augustus Loftus, having issued invitations to all the principal British residents, a party of twenty-four ladies and gentlemen sat down to a most recherché dinner in their magnificent hotel on the occasion.

MENTONE AND NICE.

The English community passing the winter at Mentone celebrated the marriage of the Prince of Wales on the 10th inst. with great enthusiasm. The entertainments consisted of boat and foot races, enlivened by the presence of a good band, and the festivities were wound up by a brilliant display of fireworks. The close of the day, however, was a dinner given to 1 0 persons of the working classes, at the Cafe Turc under the presidency of Lord Leigh, in the spacious courtyard of the Victoria Hotel, in the midst of a garden ornamented with wreaths and evergreens, and bright already with many of our most charming summer flowers. The houses occupied by the English and Danish residents were brilliantly illuminated in the evening.

One of the most magnificent fêtes ever given at Nice took place at the Théâtre Impérial, on Tuesday, the 20th inst. The Duke of Hamilton took the lead, and, assisted by a committee of English gentlemen, organised a ball which will long get up in a style of extraordinary splendour. The King of Bavaria and all the principal visitors wintering at Nice, as well as the local authorities, were present; and the entire company consisted of about 500 persons.

THE PRINCESS QUITTING THE CASTLE FOR ST GEORGE'S CHAPEL.

THE BRIDAL PROCESSION APPROACHING ST. GEORGE'S CHAPEL.

VIENNA.

Lord Bloomfield, the British Ambassador at the Austrian Court, gave a grand dinner in honour of the event. With the exception of M. von Flener, all the members of the Austrian Cabinet were present at the banquet. His Lordship's other guests were the high dignitaries of the Austrian Court, the French and Turkish Ambassadors, and the representatives of all the reigning families related to the Queen.

THE HAGUE.

Her Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary, Sir John Milbanke, and Lady Milbanke, gave a grand ball, at which they had the honour of receiving the King and Queen of the Netherlands, all the other members of the Royal family, the whole of the diplomatic corps, the principal officers of State, and other members of the aristocracy of Holland.

THE BRIDAL PARTY LEAVING ST. GEORGE'S CHAPEL.

The British Minister to the Germanic Confederation celebrated the marriage by giving a full dress dinner to the members of the Diet and diplomatic body. The band of the 39th Prussian Regiment played during the dinner. At the dessert Baron Rehrck, President of the Diet, proposed the health of the Queen and of the Prince and Princess of Wales, and the toast was drunk with the greatest enthusiasm. Mr. Koch, the English Consul at Frankfort, gave a splendid dinner at the 10th to the English residents. At Homburg, also, the British residents held a dinner at which the Kursaal in honour of the day. At Havre, likewise, the English residents dined together, the Consul presiding. About fifty English guests assembled together at the Hotel de Bergues, Geneva, on the 10th. The British Consul presided, and the evening passed over with great cordiality. A similar manifestation took place at a banquet given among the British residents at Munich in the chair.

THE FRENCH PRESS ON THE ROYAL WEDDING REJOICINGS.

The language of some of the Paris papers on the rejoicings for the Prince of Wale's marriage is highly complimentary to England and creditable to Sentiment.

In the London correspondence of the Moniteur occurs this passage:—"The people of Great Britain have exhibited a great spectacle that of the concord, the joy, the form, and the independence which are the consequences of one of the political virtues of a free people—a unity, whose attachment to the Government, to the throne is called loyalty."

"These rejoicings, these triumphal arches, these unfurled banners, these decorations, these illuminations," says La Presse, "are not elliptical demonstrations paid for out of the Budget, commanded by authority, or prompted by motives of personal ambition. They are the spontaneous outburst of a whole people celebrating with enthusiasm an act of its own life, which adds another link to the long chain of traditions which constitute its glory and its grandeur. In that example how to behold the feature of a people? The pair as they passed along, in those blazings which issued from every breast, there is no courtier exhalation, no servility. They were the expressions of the delight and the pride of a people satisfied with itself; satisfied, too, with the form of its Government, which gives it the security and the means of liberty of order, and of prosperity; which saves it from revolution and allows it the full development of its natural and intellectual forces. And these rejoicings are all the greater and the more heartfelt that there is no disquiet as to the future. England hopes that the young Prince of Wales will give much advantage, and his royal bride-elect will follow the virtuous example which he has seen in his own family. Let what great England her parents have given her, she changed then never being at the mercy of any one man, or of any moral, physical, or intellectual fatality. One of the chief causes of the grandeur and prosperity of England is the unchangeableness of the institutions which does not exclude improvements, but which prevents revolution."

ILLUSTRATIONS OF ROYAL WEDDING GIFTS.

Mr. HARRY EMANUEL has had the honour of being entrusted with the making of some presents which the Prince gave, on the 10th inst., to his brothers and several friends. More than twenty of these gifts are in the form of bracelets, and of these are a co-related and exceedingly effective design. Three are of a heart shape, encircled by brilliants, and surmounted by an exquisite group of the Prince of Wales's three delicate masterpieces. A cipher, blending the initials of the Prince of Wales and Princess Alexandra, and traced in rubies, diamonds, and emeralds, o quites the centre of the crystal heart. The three hearts thus composed (engraved on page 328) were for Princes Alfred, Arthur, and Leopold. Another piece of the same groundwork serve as the tops of as many pins, which were presented to the gentlemen. These pins are also four-sided, and are of a very rich construction. The principal stone is cut to the shape of an octahedron, with the diamonds that are set in it without the aid of any metal. A scroll of diamonds forms an elegant frame to this device, and the top of which is the crown, modelled in gold, with diamond bands, and with the initials of crimson rubies prettily relieved by the white gems. The ten breastpins thus uniformly designed were presented to relatives and friends of the Prince.

Mr. Turner was intrusted with the manufacture of bracelets, brooches, and pins, to be given as marriage presents by the Prince of Wales, some of which are represented on page 321. One, made to order in our Engraving is a bracelet, the centre of crystal, with initials in diamonds and turquoise; a border of turquoise, pearl, and diamonds, enriched with diamond straps. This opens to contain a miniature. In it was the cipher of his Royal Highness in Princess Christian's hair. Next is a brooch, the centre being of crystal, on which are mounted the initials "A. E." in diamonds, rubies, and emeralds; the border is of gold and enamel, representing the blossoms and leaves of the rose. The stems are tied with an enamel ribbon bearing the date of the marriage; and the whole is surrounded with a border of pearls, executed in enamel and gems. There are three of these brooches, each containing a miniature portrait of the royal pair. One of these brooches, we believe, was presented to her Majesty the Queen. To that succeeds a crystal brooch, with enamel monograms, having opening for the miniature and a gold ribbon border. Next comes an amethyst bracelet, with a diamond-star centre, surrounded by a scrollwork of diamonds and pearls, with a laced gold band. We have next a crystal heart-shaped locket, with the initials "A. E. A." in emeralds, rubies, and diamonds, surmounted by an elaborately modelled and jewelled crown, the border of diamonds, also open for miniatures. There are three of these lockets, which were presented, it is believed, to the Danish Princesses. Last in the series is a brooch having an oval crystal centre, with initials in emeralds, rubies, and diamonds, surrounded by a crown studded with gems, and border being in open scrollwork of diamonds and pearls. There are five of these brooches, containing the miniatures of the bridegroom and the Royal Princesses of England. At the bottom is a gold bracelet, with double oval centre, with the initials "A." and "A. E." on the gold covers, pearl and diamond border. There were also given as a present an enamel bow, and surmounted by the Prince of Wales's feathers in blue enamel.

Among the jewels ordered by the Prince of Mesrs. Garrard for wedding gifts from the Prince, and engraved on page 325, are a diadem, a brooch, eardrops, and a necklace. The diadem is of rose brilliants; the circlet is formed of two rows, with ten large brilliants equidistant; it is surmounted by ten ornaments, having in the centre of each a large drop-shaped brilliant: these are connected by Greek scrolls, also in brilliants. The necklace, a splendid specimen of the diamond-setter's art, is composed of eight clusters with very large pendants surrounding diamonds; the centre clusters being composed of large drop-shaped gems, and the whole connected by festoons of diamonds. The brooch is composed of magnificent pearls, surrounded by diamonds, and the eardrops are pearls forming drops. The same firm had also the honour of making the present from her Majesty to the Royal bride, consisting of a costly suite of opals and diamonds. Near the bottom of Messrs. Garrard's group is shown the diamond eardrops and necklace presented by the Corporation of London to the Princess.

Of the two bracelets depicted at the base, that at the right hand is the gift of the Duke of Cambridge, by Garrard; while that at the left is the bracelet, of exquisite workmanship, manufactured by Messrs. Hunt and Roskell, presented to the Princess of Wales by the ladies of Manchester.

PRESENTS TO THE PRINCESS OF WALES BY THE KING OF THE BELGIANS.

THE Brussels lace of which we have engraved specimens on another page form part of a toilet of the same material presented by the King of the Belgians to Princess Alexandra upon her marriage. They are of great beauty of design and workmanship, and have been executed by the firm of Jacques Stehlier, of Brussels, from the drawings of M. Ernest De Ligne, of the same city. In his designs for the flounce, scarf, veil, and pocket-handkerchief M. de Ligne received the assistance of her Royal Highness the Duchess of Brabant. We are indebted for photographs of these laces to Messrs. Hayward, of Oxford-street.

VASES IN LEATHER-WORK PRESENTED TO THE PRINCE OF WALES.

THE taste of the ornamental flower vases in leather which we have this week engraved is Mr. F. A. Deer, of Neath, Glamorganshire. They stand twenty inches high, and are tastefully decorated with the following flowers executed in leather—the tulip, narcissus, rose, carnation, anemone, azalea, &c.

INDOOR AMUSEMENTS.

TABLEAUX VIVANTS.

FROM the days of the Greek play down to the present time every civilised country had its own peculiar drama. Rome could boast of a Roscius before Italy produced a Betterton; and in England, about 1110, dramatised miracles were performed in the Abbey of St. Albans. In 1174, according to FitzStephen, London had plays representing the worship of miracles and the sufferings of martyrs; while in the Harleian MS an ample detail of the sacred drama performed at Chester in 1327 by the leading companies of the city is given; amongst which was "The Creation," by the drapers, "The Deluge," by the tanners. Warton seemed to think that these dramas originated in the love fairs and pageantries, or the sylvan habitant in the time of William of Normandy; and that when these were suppressed the principal marts for trade, and were attended by the idle and dissipated, intermingled with the industrious, it was found necessary to increase the amusements so as to retain the gatherings as pleasurable to the gagging multitude as they were useful to those engaged in traffick. The "clergy, observing," continues the authority from whom we have quoted, "that the entertainment of dancing, music, and mimicry exhibited at these protracted annual celebrities, made them the occasion of great disorder and profaneness, by a love of festivity, proscribed these sports, and excommunicated the performers. But, fanday that necessity, which was to blow down empires, they changed their plan, and determined to take these recreations in their own hands. They turned actors; and, instead of profane mummeries, presented stories taken from legends or the Bible." Thus Mysteries (as they were termed), consisted of allegory, and were the next gradation in dramatic exhibition. Some degree of regularity was observed, and they contained some rudiments of a plot, and even attempted to delineate characters and to paint manners. The first appearance of moralities is supposed to have been in the reign of Henry VI.; but they did not banish the mysteries, which were kept up until a statute of Henry VIII. prohibited all religious plays and interludes of a nature not to be commonwealed. Eminent antiquaries have ascertained that moralities were performed in the reign of Edward IV., and entertained by Henry VII., and that so badly were they off in a pecuniary point of view as to be obliged to beg by the way. These strollers had made some improvement in the dramatic representation in the brief reign of Edward VI.; but it was not until that of Elizabeth, that a company of players, under the patronage of Leicester, Warwick, and Hunsdon, were formed, and the dramatic art began to make rapid progress. Shakspeare, Jonson, Beaumont, Fletcher, and Massinger, all of whose plays contained some rudiments of a plot, and even attempted to delineate characters and to paint manners. The first appearance of moralities is supposed to have been in the reign of Edward IV.; but they did not banish the mysteries, which were kept up until a statute of Henry VIII. prohibited all religious plays and interludes of a nature not to be commonwealed. Eminent antiquaries have ascertained that moralities were performed in the reign of Edward IV., and entertained by Henry VII., and that so badly were they off in a pecuniary point of view as to be obliged to beg by the way. These strollers had made some improvement in the dramatic representation in the brief reign of Edward VI.; but it was not until that of Elizabeth, that a company of players, under the patronage of Leicester, Warwick, and Hunsdon

Twelve only are to be reserved as the nucleus of the Branches herd No. 2. The first Batsbam catalogue for April 15 has appeared, and contains sixty-two females and twenty males. As a proof of the fecundity of the tribe it is mentioned that 190 have been bred from Dudcna and her daughters since 1858, and 160 from Calia, 6½, in seventeen years. Mr. Charles Howard's calf entries by his second Duke of Thorndale during the past year were seven bulls and only two heifers; but Lady Selina Spencer, twice commended at the Royal, has recently added a roan heifer to the herd.

On dit that Shorthorns will be in the Worcester lists, and that representatives of the herd of a noble Duke, who has never yet exhibited, will also be found among the white and the reds. Lord Feversham will also be found among the white Duke's herd, and Gunbolme—the former to Mr. Baldwin, and the has left for Mr. Knight, of Downton Castle, in whose noble demesne he and Lord Ivery will, no doubt, lay the foundation of another Grey herd of Hereford.

LITERATURE

Those who are desirous of weighing fairly the merits of the questions in dispute between the contending parties in America, as well as to judge of the exact condition of the contest, are impeded by the difficulty of getting at any accurate knowledge of what has occurred and is going on in the Southern States. Every one interested in the matter, therefore, eagerly welcomes the publication of a book which seems wise from a personage who has possessed since the civil war began of the Confederate districts. Thus, a new work just published by Chapman and Hall, entitled Six Months in the South, from the Commencement of the War, by a Blockaded British Subject, has all the breadth of a good intermediate, and promises to supply an opportunity. Very meagre accounts, and very rough notes of things down South, would be accepted without any regard to the point of view from which fitness in the publication; but, in the case of the book before us, its acceptance will, we think, be without qualification. It professes to be a connected history of those who took part in the battles of the great scene war from a personal acquaintance with them in their own homes which, being interpreted out of the jargon of the times, means that the author has had good opportunity of seeing and knowing Southern men and manners, and becoming acquainted with the points of character of domestic life. The writer seems to desire that the book should be considered as a contribution to the social rather than to the political history of the great struggle which has taken place; and, as it is the production of a lady, the statement of such a desire is fraught with reference to the character of the work which is before the reader who takes it up. At the same time, mind to be inferred in the author, it is impossible for one to be in any way deceived by the author, it is impossible for one to suppose that she is to be something of politician in disguise, where the business of sometimes and conventions is brought home to every household and family; and therefore, without any attempt to display saw and heard, politics inevitably find a place; and there have been introduced into the narrative extracts from the public acts of the Government of the United States, which, as the author says, are the result of the war. As regards the treatment of that part of the subject which touches on the condition of the slave, the writer claims to have given an impartial account of the "domestic institution," and therefore assumes a fear that no exception will be taken to the imputation of upholding a system which is repulsive to the opinion of England. All, however, she ventures to say is to give a plain statement of facts; and, without at all deprecating the notice, and even indulging the hope, of the ultimate extinction of slavery, she asserts that the most ample and unreserved inflection that could befall both master and servant would be to their mutual advantage and that of the United States. Having thus stated, almost in the author's own words, the scope and object of her work, it may be stated that it is not to the "rich Virginian," as the phrase is sometimes used—that is, she understoon the duty of instructors to the daughters of the proprietor of an estate in that State, and of their highly accomplished governess. Nor is the author given no name on her titlepage, she signs her preface with the initials E. J. L., and in the account of the battle of Bull Run, on the 21st of 1859, that the author went South, her route lying through Ohio, across the Alleghanies, by Wheeling, and the Baltimore and Ohio Railway, now historical, to the little town of Tuppahannock, whence, her journey proper terminating, she was conveyed to Everett, the family residence of the gentleman into whose family she was about to enter. In the very earliest chapters these are afforded proofs of the author's capability of estimating manners and characteristics in the persons around herself, and the descriptions of the negro servants, her room and its furniture, the idiosyncrasies of her young friend, the mistress of young American ladies of the South, domestic habits and discipline, are happy and lifelike. It is only in the course of the work that she sketches the character of the population and the more public and general features of the country. Circumstances having caused Miss Jones—for we may call her so—to leave Everett Hall, she took up her abode in Richmond, whence a new engagement took her to another part of Virginia, where the war began; and from this period until the narrative, though mainly confined to domestic occurrences, is interspersed with matter of which the struggle between the Federals and Confederates is the subject. In the course of these episodes there is an account given of a visit to one of the Confederate camps, and the man who is conveyed is given through the lines—Miss Jones having has permission to visit the camp at Yorktown, promising on her honour as a lady not to communicate, either by word or letter, on anything that may contribute to the endangering of the Confederate States or to the aid and comfort of the enemy. The author's own words, and dates, under which we print, which accounts for the amusing collocation of the words "man, and Miss Sarah. It is not within the province of a mere critic to say more upon the merits of this work; and it is only intended to indicate generally its nature and its peculiarities. Assuming its merits as believed in the preface, it may be said that it is conceived with sufficient comprehensiveness, but its chief feature is the power of miniature painting, so to speak, and the command of narrating, by means of but passages examples, the life of the South in all its varieties. There is a vein of humour, as especially to be distinguished from the sentimental, in the lady, which runs through the style and which renders it very agreeable. Some, indeed most, of the incidents are political and interesting, and there is one story which the author has to tell with singular felicity. As a whole the book is remarkably full of matter, all of which is informatory, much of it amusing, and none of it dull. There seems no prejudiced questions, and even when the object is to argue and discuss a question the decision of assumed conversation with a friend, or with a relative for himself, is adopted, and with considerable success. In short, all who wish to know the South—to understand what Sarah Jones is most agreeable and a very able and well-informed companion.

It has been sometimes a question whether the name of Thomas Mackintosh, the author of several biographies, was of pretended, was a real one, and whether the gentleman who wrote certain books bearing about the world of literature was entitled to the proper person under that designation. Some of the productions which he afterwards adopted by the name of Mackintosh when published anonymously, freely attributed to a gentleman, now well known, and then beginning to be known, in political life; but in reference to those works there was latterly some doubt on that conjecture, and Mr. Mackintosh has been accepted as a publisher and author of biographies of considerable merit, and now comes before the public as the author of a Life of Henry St. John Viscount Bolingbroke, Secretary of State to Queen Anne (Chapman and Hall). The subject is a tempting one to any writer who has devoted his powers to telling the stories of the lives of great and distinguished men. A distinguished man Bolingbroke undoubtedly was, a famous man, a notorious man; but his claims to be described as a great man may, we think, still be questioned. The vicissitudes of his ambitious and chequered life afford ample materials for the historian; and nothing could better tend towards the illustration and elucidation of the political history of a large part of the eighteenth century than the presenting in one compact view the career of Bolingbroke. The period embraced in the narrative before us is from 1678 to 1751, and the material from the life of Bolingbroke to the close of his early years title is given, for the sufficing reason that very little is known beyond the facts that he was educated at Eton and Christ Church, and that from his first rising into prominence manhood, his pursuit of pleasure, to use a delicate phrase, was so reckless as to shock even those who were the most indulgent to the follies of the age. Immediately after his marriage, at the early age of twenty-two, he entered Parliament as member for Wootton Bassett; and from that time his real history is to be drawn in Mr. Mackintosh's work begins. Looking at this narrative as here given, it will be perceived which has not been based on any previous biography of its subject which has appeared. It differs materially from other publications of the kind in the estimate of Bolingbroke himself, and in the manner of viewing the events in connection with his life, and the motives of his actions, as well in the view of his contemporaries as related to himself. The work is the volume with a political narrative almost from the very year in which Macaulay's history unhappily terminates, and the commencement of the May Queen; the characters of the different persons who figured most prominently on the political scene when young St. John was about entering on his career, therefore, naturally claim for some minutes, but by no means wearisomely, on England and her statesmen at the beginning of the last century. The volume has the first statesman of them all, King William III.; after him Somers and Montagu, Marlborough and Harley; while the position of the principal and the important political actors of the time—such as the Peace of Ryswick and the Partition Treaties—are sketched with sufficient clearness and comprehension. Parties, on the accession of Queen Anne, we come to St. John's appointment as Secretary at War; and from that period to the close of his career, his connection with Marlborough, which, in some degree, gave a colour to the to the whole of his future career. Indeed, it is argued that through connection with Harley, St. John's power his appointment really to Marlborough. Nevertheless, his obligations to the Duke of Marlborough were ignored, and the contradictory phases of the character of a man gifted with vast intellectual endowments and strong passions, which he never controlled by principle, are fully developed under such circumstances, and due consideration being had to the eventful and unsettled times in which he lived, the reader will find that he can understand why it was that, in action as well as speculation, a man in whom there was so complete a want of self-control should be working out of this problem that the author of this present biography has especially devoted himself, and, as we think, with success, to the task of its solution. Bolingbroke's career, as this has been to celebrate the general history of the time in order to bring out the character of the statesman, has been carried, in this respect, to take an impartial view of the subject. The result will, we apprehend, be found entirely favourable to Bolingbroke, if circumstances have not been neglected which was calculated to throw light on his career. Some documents are produced which are of importance, and which have been published before; but the whole due attention has been paid to the interesting episodes of his retirement, and to the close of his life, when the philosophy which in many pages is adequately dealt with. Some of the letters which are introduced, and they are not unnecessarily numerous, from Swift, Pope, and Lyttelton, bring out the character of Bolingbroke in a very favourable light, while a brief analysis of Bolingbroke's writings has been embodied in the work, and the author has given a fair abstract of the views of the philosophical questions of religion and philosophy, which occupied much of his thoughts in his retirement. The life of a statesman, a man of his country and of mankind, cannot avert mortification and defeat from their possessor nor receive his full appreciation from the opinion of the world.

The Channel Islands, a book recently issued by Messrs. W. H. Allen and Co., is in the nature of a tripartite work. Mr. David Austet, of Jesus College, Cambridge, takes on himself the responsibility of all the geological part, which extends to 200 pages. Agreement with Mr. Robert Gordon Latham, late fellow of King's College, Cambridge, who contributes an illustration in botanical science, and Mr. Paul J. Naftel, member of the London Society of Painters in Water Colours, demands due prominence as a collaborateur with the author. The first of these gentlemen, Mr. David Thomas Mr. Austed, with justice, founds his claim to be the undertaker of the work on the fact that he resided in the Channel Islands for years a resident in Guernsey, where frequent opportunities were afforded of making excursions to the other islands, and of intimate acquaintance with various residents in the Channel Islands, and visitors interested in literary and scientific pursuits. Assuming that these intimate relations with the author's subject in the book we will deny that—he states that no treatise embracing a general description of the whole of the islands, and their geology, botany, ethnology, and archæology, has yet been published. It is to supply this want that the present work is intended. The author has divided into four parts—namely, firstly, a physical and descriptive account of the islands and their climate; and, secondly, their general natural history, including their geology, botany, zoology, ethnology, and their geology carefully investigated. Then comes the history, archæology, and antiquities of the islands, and, lastly, statistical information on their economics and trade. To these is added a full appendix containing hints to tourists; information respecting the scenery, natural productions, and the manners and customs of the inhabitants; and a general elaboration of the literary portion of the work. It is impossible to speak with high praise. It must be remembered that this is no tourist's narrative of his seven weeks' visit to the Channel Islands, but a work of research and no amount of labour appropriate to its due development has evidently been bestowed upon it. Of the illustrations, which form so striking a feature in the work, the author says that it was his wish to have published to have their ideas and wishes in this regard so completely carried out by the artist. The illustrations which are spread thickly through the pages of the volume, are singularly picturesque. Almost all the views are taken from the sea-shore, and the coast-scenery is especially with a view to illustrate specially-selected points, and we are assured that the most conscientious accuracy has been observed; while of the taste, design, and finish of execution every reader will be able to judge for himself. Maps, plans, and diagrams are freely introduced into the book, and are all calculated to assist in the carrying out of the plan proposed, which we take to be the creation of an abiding chronicle of all that pertains to a very interesting group of islands, of the inner history of which very little is known in the country of which they are dependencies.

Countess de Morella has forwarded to the National Life-boat Institution a donation of fifty guineas.

MUSICAL PUBLICATIONS.

The Rose of Solency, an operetta, the words and music by W. Chalmers Masters (published by Messrs. Cock, Hutchings, and Co.), is a work which deserves, and promises to obtain, a large share of favour in our musical circles. The libretto is not only free from being as a respectable professor of music, but has never (so far as we know) shown the genius which he has here displayed. This musical drama is an unpretending production, not written for the stage, but, as the author says, "to meet the wishes and requirements of a few friends, and amateurs." It may be called a miniature opera, and was first for private performance in a drawing-room, and certainly, performed in this way, it would be a delightful entertainment. The libretto, Lisette, which is in two short acts, is founded on an old French vaudeville by the celebrated Mdme. de Genlis, "Le mystère mis au mystère," and called "La Rosière de Salency." The subject is simple and interesting. Lisette, the belle of a country village, and as good as beautiful, has been chosen the May Queen and the prize piece gone, on the eve of the festival-day on which she is to assume her rustic dignity, with the songs and rejoicings of her companions, and much activities. At night, when Lisette is alone in her cottage, she is disturbed by a gardener, whose brother Lisette has deserted from his regiment, and seeks from her concealment and shelter. He has quarrelled on her account with his Captain, the son of the Seigneur of the village, a gallant but somewhat "fast" young man. Talking rather lightly about Lisette, he had been overheard by her brother, on which they had fought, and the latter had fallen by the young soldier's hand. Lisette, in great trouble, conceals her brother, and as the first act ends. Next morning the festival in honour of the May Queen begins; but a jealous rival has discovered that Lisette has had a man hidden in her cottage, and proclaims her discovery with exultation. The young village girl, who does not speak, is covered with shame and disgrace; but suddenly a stranger appears on the scene—the Seigneur, who has returned from his wound, but repentant and eager to make reparation for the evil he has done. All is explained, and the piece ends with a joyous chorus. This little story is very prettily told in the libretto, and still more prettily by the music, which is full of grace, simplicity, and feeling, and would, indeed, be the delight of our drawing-room companions of the day. The opening chorus of villagers; Lisette's song, "O Happy Day" (No. 2); the duet (No. 3) for the two friends between Lisette and Pierre; and the serenade, "Sweet dreams attend thy sleeping," are all charming, and cannot fail to become popular. We must add that Lisette is intended for performance alone, this operetta might be brought upon the stage very delightfully. It is a mere trifle, but it is a pretty thing with a large share of merit. As published, the accompaniments are, of course, arranged for the pianoforte; but it is easy to perceive that the original score for a full orchestra is masterly and effective.

We have pleasure in meeting with a fresh specimen of Mr. M'Murdie's pure and graceful style in the following vocal pieces:—"Love's Test," entitled The St. John's Wort, for three female voices (published by Addison and Hollier); and "Lisette," a the old Jacobite Jacobites custom of searching for the above mystic herb on the eve of St. John's Day. A young maiden steals from her cottage to seek for the "herb of power," whose name is the sentimental title of the melody. The verses are quaint and antique, and the composer has clothed them with very charming music. The song is published as a duet for two sopranos or by two soprano and contralto, which is better, as the deep tones of the latter voice are very effective for the harmony. The key is C and is melodious and flowing, and their combined effect is rich and grateful to the ear. The parts are skilfully interwoven, and several very delicate progressions in the accompaniment show the hand of a master. There is an elegant pianoforte accompaniment, in the modern form, with introductory and concluding symphonies. The first verse is intended for single voices, yet we think it would be heard to still greater advantage as a part-song, and we think a number of voices to sing it. Sung in a concert by the ladies of Mr. Henry Leslie's choir, for example, its effect would certainly be delightful.

The Edinburgh Musical Miscellany, Vocal, and Dance Music for 1863 (Messrs. Cocks and Co.) is not only one of the most elegant musical year-books that we have ever received, but is also valuable for the ephemeral value usually attached to publications of this class. As much care has been bestowed upon the strathspeys and reels as upon the brilliant waltzes and the tender ballads of the table of contents. It contains a selection of vocal and instrumental pieces, every one of them, without exception, possessing merit in the art it has undertaken. There are songs by Miss Anne Fricker, Frank Abt, F. Kücken, and Miss M. Lindsay; pianoforte pieces by Dr. W. H. Callcott, Henry Richards, Vincent Wallace, and G. F. West; and waltzes, quadrilles, and other pieces of dance-music, by Adam Wright, Alphonse Leduc, Stephen Glover, Jonas, and Mr. Hall. "Bonnie Dundee," by Montgomery Marsh," by the last-named composer, is a most brilliant composition, and will be found very effective when executed to be specially popular.

Mr. Oliviere, of Old Bond-street, has published a Fantasia on Dowell National Airs for the pianoforte, by Harold Thomas, in which he commands itself at once. The work is published in two parts, each of which contains a selection from the Danish melodies which the composer has taken as his theme. The arrangement of the airs is very simple and skilful with which he has treated them; and thirdly, because of the appropriateness of the work to the occasion for which it is issued, the rejoicings for the addition of a Danish Princess to the Royal family of England. The first fantasia begins with the air "King Christian," known as the Danish National Hymn, and is treated in a most appropriately reverential manner. The second portion of it being almost identical with our "Rule Britannia." The second fantasia has Hartl Dan Anne can have borrowed any part of his famous air from the Danes, and the Danish melodies appear to be a mere matter of chance coincidence. Mr. Thomas has taken this melody in the key of B flat, giving it its its original simple accents, for accompanying it with full, rich chords, in the main key of E flat, and for one or two bars in the key of G, but to the second theme, entitled "Der ar et Yndigt Land" ("There is a Lovely Land"), he has taken the key of G flat, and has treated it very effectively, with a portion of it being almost identical with our "Rule Britannia." The third air, "Kong Christian Stod Ved Anne can have borrowed any part of his famous air from the Danes, and the Danish melodies appear to be a mere matter of chance coincidence. Mr. Thomas has taken this melody in the key of B flat, giving it its its original simple accents, for accompanying it with full, rich chords, in the main key of E flat, and for one or two bars in the key of G, but to the second theme, entitled "Der ar et Yndigt Land" ("There is a Lovely Land"), he has taken the key of G flat, and has treated it very effectively, with a portion of it being almost identical with our "Rule Britannia." The third air, "Kong Christian Stod Ved Anne can have borrowed any part of his famous air from the Danes, and the Danish melodies appear to be a mere matter of chance coincidence. Mr. Thomas has taken this melody in the key of B flat, giving it its its original simple accents, for accompanying it with full, rich chords, in the main key of E flat, and for one or two bars in the key of G, but to the second theme, entitled "Der ar et Yndigt Land" ("There is a Lovely Land"), he has taken the key of G flat, and has treated it very effectively, with a portion of it being almost identical with our "Rule Britannia." The third air, "Kong Christian Stod Ved Anne

Accept the gift, let England sigh no more,
But be a merry England as of yore.

The people respond to this announcement by joyous songs, dances, and old English revelry; and the piece concludes with a grand chorus, in which the Danish National Hymn and our English "God Save the Queen" are blended together with singular ingenuity and the happiest effect. The piece is in the dramatic form, like the masques of Ben Jonson and other celebrated poets of the seventeenth century; and it gives room for elegant poetry, for music, practical action, and splendid spectacle. All these are united in the masque.

NEW BOOKS.

Companion Volume to "Things not Generally Known."

THINGS TO BE REMEMBERED IN DAILY LIFE. With Personal Experiences and Recollections. By JOHN TIMBS, F.S.A. Cloth, 3s. 6d.—KENT and CO., Paternoster-row.

Companion Volume to "Things not Generally Known."

THINGS TO BE REMEMBERED IN DAILY LIFE. With Personal Experiences and Recollections. By JOHN TIMBS, F.S.A. Contents:—Time—Life and Length of Days—School of Life—Business Habits—Time Saved—Time Lost—Use of the World—Knowledge, &c. 3s. 6d. cloth.—W. KENT and CO., Paternoster-row.

SCOTT AND SEBRIGHT (own brother to "Sir Bernard Burke" and "Sir and Sealey"), or, Anecdotes of the Representative Men and Women of the Year and Clans. With several Illustrations by Phiz, Gilbert, Leech, Sir Noel Paton, Sir Daniel Sykes, at Hawthornden. By Percy Fitzgerald. Second Edition. 2s. 6d.

ROBERTSON and TUXFORD, 246, Strand.

In Great Marlborough-street.

HURST and BLACKETT'S NEW WORKS.

HISTORY OF ENGLAND; from the Accession of James I. to the Disgrace of Chief Justice Coke. By SAMUEL RAWSON GARDINER. Two vols. 8vo. 30s.

POINTS OF CONTACT BETWEEN SCIENCE AND ART. By Sir FREDERICK ARTHUR CRISWICK PEASE, Bart.

THE LAST DEGREE OF A QUEEN REIGN; or, Memoirs of CHRISTINA, QUEEN OF SWEDEN. By HENRY WOODHEAD. Two Vols. 21s.

LIFE OF THE REV. EDWARD IRVING. By Mrs. OLIPHANT. Second Edition. Two Vols.

LES MISERABLES. By VICTOR HUGO. Authorised English Translation. Third Edition. Three Vols.

FEMALE LIFE IN PRISON. By a Prison Matron. Second Edition. 2 vols.

THORPE, PHILOSOPHERS, AND COURTIERS OF THE THIRTEENTH AGE. By the Author of "The Secret History of the Court of France under Louis XV." 2v. 21s.

THE NEW AND POPULAR NOVELS.

Now ready at all the Libraries.

LIVE IT DOWN. By J. C. JEAFFRESON, Author of "A Woman Against Women," &c. 3 vols.

TRUE AS STEEL. By WALTER THORNBURY. "The story is interesting."—Athenæum.

EVELINE. By Author of "Forest Keep."

ST. OLAVE'S. By Author of "Janet."

"A charming novel."—Athenæum.

MISFIRED AIM. By Author of "John Halifax."

A POINT OF HONOUR. By Author of "Mosaics of Margaret."

DAVID ELGINBROD. By GEORGE MACDONALD, M.A.

HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-street.

DENMARK AS IT IS.

Now ready, with Illustrations, 2 vols 8vo. 24s.

DENMARK IN 1862. By JAMES HOLAND. 2ND EDITION, REVISED. Described from a TWO YEARS' RESIDENCE. By JAMES HOLAND, Author of "A Year in Sweden." Mr. Morgrat describes what he has seen vividly and effectively. He has evidently had the best opportunities of becoming acquainted with the many noble characters who have been personally associated with the King."—Times.

"It has seldom been our good fortune to fall in with such an agreeable work as Mr. Morgrat's tour through Denmark."—Literary Gazette.

SAMPSON LOW, SON, and MARSTON, 169, Fleet-street.

ONE YEAR IN SWEDEN, including a Visit to the Isle of Gothland. By CHARLOTTE BROME. 2 vols, post 8vo, 24s.

JOHN MURRAY, Albemarle-street.

A BOOK FOR THE SPRING.

CRAGSTON COTTAGE; or, Life in the Country. By the Author of "Indoor Plants," &c. With a Coloured Frontispiece. Fcap. 8vo, cloth.

A very nice children's book, treating of all sorts of little matters that interest children in the country, but especially of children's gardens."—Athenæum.

SEELEY, JACKSON, and HALLIDAY, 54, Fleet-street.

Just ready, with Twelve Engravings, 3s. 6d., cloth, or Coloured Plates, 5s. 6d.

THE CHILDREN OF LONG AGO. By the Author of "Little Wonder." Also in Twelve Numbers, Illustrated wrappers, 2d. two packets, 1s. each.

SEELEY, JACKSON, and HALLIDAY, 54, Fleet-street.

WORKS OF LARGE CIRCULATION.

MINISTERING CHILDREN: a Tale. By MARIA L. CHARLESWORTH. With six Engravings. Third Thousand, 5s. 6d. cloth.

MINISTERING CHILDREN. Cheap Edition, cloth, 2s. 6d.

THE MINISTRY OF LIFE. By MARIA L. CHARLESWORTH. With Frontispiece. 6th Thousand, 3s. 6d.

THE FOOTSTEPS OF ST. ERNEY MARTIN. Crown 8vo, Portrait and 62 Engravings. 34th Thousand, 5s. cloth.

THE WORLD OF WATERS. By MARIA and R. M. CHARLESWORTH. With 31 Illustrations, 1s. cloth.

FAMILY PRAYERS FOR SIX WEEKS. By the Rev. EDWARD BICKERSTETH. Small 8vo. 32nd Thousand, 3s. 6d. cloth.

JUDAH'S LION: a Tale. By CHARLOTTE ELIZABETH. In fcap 8vo, Engravings. 8th Thousand, 2s. cloth.

CHARLEY'S FLOWERS. By CHARLOTTE ELIZABETH. With coloured Engravings. 36th Thousand, 2s. cloth.

THE CHRISTIAN'S SECRET OF A HAPPY LIFE. By HANNAH WHITALL SMITH. 20th Thousand, 2s. 6d. cloth.

PERSONAL RECOLLECTIONS. By CHARLOTTE ELIZABETH. Fcap. 8vo, 10th Thousand, 5s. cloth.

MARRIED LIFE AND ITS DUTIES. By the Rev. W. M. JAMES. Fcap. 8vo, 14th Thousand, 3s. 6d. cloth.

THE WEEK. A Narrative. By Mrs. CHEAP. In Royal 32mo, Engravings, 4th Thousand, 1s. cloth.

THE WORLD. By Mrs. CHEAP. Royal 32mo, Engravings, 4th Thousand, 1s. cloth.

THE COMMANDMENT, WITH PROMISE. By Mrs. CHEAP. Royal 32mo, Engravings, 8th Thousand, 1s. 6d. cloth.

MY CHILD'S DUTIES. By Mrs. CHEAP. Royal 32mo, Engravings, 4th Thousand, 1s. 6d. cloth.

GOING TO CHURCH. By Mrs. CHEAP. Royal 32mo, Engravings. 36th Thousand, 1s. cloth.

THE SABBATH DAY. By Mrs. CHEAP. Royal 32mo, Engravings, 11th Thousand, 1s. 6d. cloth.

FARMER GOODALL AND HIS FRIEND. By Mrs. CHEAP. Royal 32mo, Engravings, 17th Thousand, 1s. 6d. cloth.

SEELEY, JACKSON, and HALLIDAY, 54, Fleet-street, London.

WORTH NOTICE.—What has always been wanted, a well-printed, portable, pocket-size, 960-page, Bible, enlarged, the DICTIONARY APPENDIX, with upwards of 700 words not found in any other Bible, Concordance, Subjects for Sermons, Index, Maps, Coloured Illustrations, Comparative size system of Bible Study, and all to be obtained in those who use it only for one hour earned fail to appreciate its value. It requires a determination to have appreciated, and may be placed not only in the hands of every youth but also of persons requiring a reliable Bible, and yet not to be found in the Bible Warehouse, 164, Piccadilly, Wholesale and Retail.—GILBERT, London and Warwick-yard and Co., 60, 61, Paternoster-row.

Illustrated, cloth, price 1s.

THE PRINCE CONSORT: his Life and Character. By CHARLES KNIGHT. Tenth Thousand.

"We venture to say that no other work will be found to give so thoroughly satisfactory a view of the best and most beloved of Princes and of men. It is a work for every Christian spirit. . . . We will not say we think all who love our widowed Queen, and all who mourn with her, should have it, but we do say that they will be unkind if they have it not."—Times.—WARD and LOCK, 158, Fleet-street.

SCALCOMANIE, the New Art of instantly TRANSFERRING PICTURES to SILK, WOOD, CHINA, &c., without any Skill. Sets, 2s. 6d.

STAINED WINDOWS (DIAPHANIE). Instructions, post-free, 1s.

WM. BARNARD 30, Cornwright-terrace, London, W.

TO AUTHORS.—How to Print and Publish. Estimates and Advice. Place of Publishing, Specimens of Type, &c., &c. Send two post-free on receipt of 19 postage stamps.

WILLIAM TWEEDIE, 337, Strand, 162, Fleet-street.

5000 CHURCH SERVICES, from 4s. 6d. per 100. Specimens, 6d. Post Free, and Family BIBLES, 3d. to 3 Guineas.

J. GILBERT is selling BIBLES, neatly bound, gilt edges, at 10d.; with Reference, morocco, 2s. 10d.; or with rims and clasp, 3s. 6d.; larger type, morocco, 3s. 6d.; or with rims and clasp, 5s.

PRAYER BOOKS, 2000 varieties, neatly bound, gilt edges, 3s. and 4s. 6d.; or morocco, with rims and clasps, 5s. 6d.; large type, morocco, rims and clasp, 8s. 6d.; or best Turkey morocco, gilt rims and clasp, 14s. 6d.

COMMON PRAYER, neatly bound, gilt edges, 6d.; morocco, rims and clasp, and tablets, 1s. 6d.

Catalogues of New Books gratis and post-free.

London: J. GILBERT, 19 Grasschurch-street, E.C.

NEW MUSIC.

THE NEW CANTATA.

HARVEST HOME. By G. B. ALLEN. Performed at the Concert of the Vocal Association, with the greatest success. Complete Piano and Vocal Score, 12s.

This work is admirably suited for Choral Societies, Festivals and Amateur Choral Societies.

Separate Choral Parts, 8d. each.

METZLER and CO., 37, 38, and 39, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE NEW CANTATA.

HARVEST HOME. Soprano Song. "Where the princess decks the wreath." Price 2s. 6d.

METZLER and CO., 37, 38, and 39, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE NEW CANTATA.

HARVEST HOME. Tenor Song. "Young Lubin of the vale." Price 2s. 6d.

METZLER and CO., 37, 38, and 39, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE NEW CANTATA.

HARVEST HOME. Contralto Song. "My mother bids me bind my hair." Price 2s. 6d.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 39, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE NEW CANTATA.

HARVEST DUET. Baritone Song. "The Man of the Mill." Price 2s. 6d.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, and 39, Great Marlborough-street, W.

ON AIR FROM THE NEW CANTATA.

HARVEST HOME QUADRILLE. By METZLER and Co. 37, 38, 39, and 39, Great Marlborough-street, W.

ON AIR FROM THE NEW CANTATA.

HARVEST HOME WALTZ. By EMILE DE GASPARI. Beautifully Illustrated. Price 4s. METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 39, Great Marlborough-street, W.

NEW VALSE.

THE DUKE'S MOTTO. By F. MUSGRAVE. Price 2s. 6d. Beautifully Illustrated. METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 39, Great Marlborough-street, W.

PRINCE OF WALES'S MARRIAGE.

NUPTIAL MUSIC and WEDDING MARCH. By SIGNOR BLUMENTHAL. Price 2s. 6d. each. Beautifully Illustrated. REGISTERED.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 39, Great Marlborough-street, W.

SIGNOR MARRAS'S New Song, LI FRUTTE DI SAPPETTE (Le Frutte Gostose). Price 3s. Just published in Signor Marras's Album of Twelve Italian Melodies.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 39, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE SPINNING-WHEEL (copyright), as sung by Mr. Kennedy, from Paterson and Sons' Guinea Concerts, Edinburgh, and Mr. Sims Reeves, from Paterson and Sons' Glasgow Concerts, Waterloo Rooms, Glasgow.

PATERSON and SONS, Music and Music Publishers, 27, George-street, Edinburgh, and 17, Buchanan-street, Glasgow.

GENERAL ILLUMINATION.

CHEERFUL and WEEDLY. Quadrilles. 24 Regent-street, and 192, High Holborn. Illustrated Catalogues Free by Family Post with the effects and motions, which proved perhaps more attractive than any other display on that occasion, and which they were sole makers of appliance. It is indicated that they were seen by upwards of 800 persons in the Hall on the one day. Address—CHEERFUL and WEEDLY, Lighting Engineers, 24 Regent-street, and 192, High Holborn.

CROSS and MINERALOGY.—Collections of Minerals, Rocks, Recent Shells, and Fossils, to illustrate the Study of Geology, Conchology, and Mineralogy, from 1s. 6d. to £5. 5s. 0d. Catalogues, 1s. each. J. TENNANT, 149, Strand, Museum of Economic Geology, Private Institution for Mineralogy.

DIAMONDS, PLATE, and JEWELS PURCHASED for cash or taken in exchange. Several Second-Hand Gold Watches for Sale.—J. W. BENSON.

BROOCHES, of RICHARD A. GREEN'S Manufacture, 25, Strand.—Honiton Moulds, Inlet Lace, Embroidery, Crochet, Guipure, Point Lace, Tatting, Cotton, and Needle after the Saxon and Bizarre Order.

WATCHES.—Gold and Silver Watches, Chronometers can be exchanged.

HAIR JEWELLERY.—G. HOOPER, Artist in Hair, Gold Gold-working Brooches, for Hair and Portraits, 5s. each. Hair Rings, Bracelets, &c. Illustrated Catalogue sent free.—313, Regent-street, London.

DECALCOMANIE.—The new Art of Transferring Pictures to Glass, China Drawings for taking off and water colour paintings. Instructions gratis from Winsor and Newton's, 38, Rathbone-place, Oxford-street. Sets and retail.

DECALCOMANIE.—Drawings transferred to Glass, Wood, &c., without using any medium except water. Instructions for transferring Drawings to Glass sent free by post on receipt of Eightpence in stamps.

WINSOR and NEWTON, 38, Rathbone-place, Oxford-street, London.

OS. PRIZE WRITING-CASE, fitted with 4s. Paper, Envelopes, Blotting-book, Pen-case, &c.; can be sent post-free. Catalogues of Writing-Cases, Dressing-Cases, Bags, Travelling Trunks, &c., gratis and POSTED to all the Country.—JAMES GOTTO, 24 and 25, Oxford-street.

ELEGANT PRESENTS.

FIVE LARGE NEWSROOMS.

Set Initials, from 6s. 6d. Set Monograms, from 10s. 100 Writing-cases, from 2s. 6d. 100 Dressing-cases, from 21s. 100 Envelope-cases, from 2s. 6d. 1000 Purses and Card-cases. Ivory Tablets, 1s. 6d. Chess and Draught Boards & Men. Backgammon Boards, 10s. 6d. Desks and Bagatelle Boards.

JAMES GOTTO, 24 and 25, Oxford-street.

NO CHARGE at PARKINS and GOTTO'S for Plain Stamping Writing-paper and Envelopes. Coloured Stamping from 1s. per 100. Crests, Monograms, Addresses, Creased, Initialed, and Address Dies cut at half price. The public supplied at Wholesale Prices. Price-lists free.—PARKINS and GOTTO, Paper Sellers, 24, Oxford-street, London.

DANCE PROGRAMMES, INVITATIONS, and ALL WORKS of ORNAMENTAL STATIONERY. At Reduced Prices. Patterns sent free by post. PARKINS and GOTTO, 24, Oxford-street.

NO CHARGE MADE FOR STAMPING PAPER and ENVELOPES with Arms, Crest, or Monogram. Steel Dies Engraved in the Best Manner. Price-list of Arms and Crests, and Illustrated Price-list of Stationery, post-free.—T. CULLETON, Heraldic Office, 25, Cranbourn-street, Leicester-square.

WEDDING CARDS and ENVELOPES Printed by the New Process. Fifty Cards and Copper-plate Engraved Die, 4s. 6d. At H. RODRIGUE'S, 23, Piccadilly.

WEDDING and BIRTHDAY PRESENTS. Dressing-cases, Travelling-bags, Despatch-boxes, Writing-cases, Envelope-cases, Work-boxes, Ladies' Companions, and a choice assortment of useful Elegancies suitable for presents at RODRIGUE'S, 23, Piccadilly.

CARTE DE VISITE PORTRAIT ALBUMS (2 Years in Stock), Manufactured and Sold at the Lowest Possible Family and Distinguished Persons of all nations. Single Portraits, 1s. 6d.—At RODRIGUE'S, 23, Piccadilly, Photographic Warehouse.

GUSH and FERGUSON'S celebrated CARTES DE VISITE, 25 for one guinea; Tinted Vignette Portraits, four for one guinea; Cabinet Portraits, one guinea and a half; Panoramic Photographic Portraits, fifteen guineas in oil, finished in the highest style of art.—Gallery, 35, Sackville-street.

COLD CREAM OF ROSES.—PIESSE and LUBIN'S Recipe for producing a perfect, pure, and permanent, fresh daily, in jars, 1s.; cold cream soap, free from alkali, 2s. per lb. Sold by all fashionable perfumers throughout the world. Depôt for Piesse and Lubin's manufactures to prevent disappointment, Laboratory of Flowers, 2, New Bond-street, London.

FELIX SULTANA'S CASSOLETTE—an elegant and useful Vase for Flowers with Pocket, to which the FELIX SULTANAS' GRATIFYING GOLDEN LOTION, while momentarily emits a delightful fragrance, 2s. post-free. This scent is still fine grit, elegantly chased and enamelled, 25s.

Felix Sultana, Royal Perfumer, 29, Poultry, City, London.

ORANGE BLOSSOM.—The PERFUME of the SEASON. Three bottles, packed in case, sent free to any railway station in England for 10s.

FELIX SULTANA Royal Perfumer 29 Poultry City London.

MILITARY CANTEENS for Officers, £10 each, Oak Case, containing the following :—

	£ s. d.		£ s. d.
6 Table spoons	0 18 0	Breakfast Forward	23 11 8
6 Table forks	0 18 0	1 Pair sugar tongs	0 1 6
6 Dessert spoons	0 12 0	2 Salt spoons	0 0 4
6 Dessert forks	0 12 0	1 Butter knife	0 0 6
6 Tea spoons	0 6 0	6 Table knives	0 11 0
1 Gravy spoon	0 3 0	6 Dessert knives	0 9 0
1 Soup ladle	0 4 0	1 Pair carvers	0 3 6
1 Pair fish carvers	0 14 0	1 Pair of chicken carvers	0 7 6
1 Mustard spoon	0 1 0	1 Pair fish-slice	0 5 0
1 Mustard spoon	0 0 10	Oak chest	1 15 0
Carried over	£3 11 8	Complete	£10 0 0

Every other size and pattern in stock.

MAPPIN BROTHERS, Manufacturers, Table-cutlery, Nickel-silver, Plated, Britannia-metal, and Electro-plate Warehouse, 222, Regent-street; and 67 and 68, King William-street, London-bridge. Show-rooms, Sheffield. Manufactory, Queen's Road, and Cutlers' Works, Hollis-street, Sheffield.

Observe the address.

GARDNERS' £2 2s. DINNER SERVICES, best Ashworth's ironstone china, with rich and elegant decoration; breakfast, dessert, tea, and toilet services in equal variety at the lowest possible prices. Purchasers are requested to visit the largest establishment, from 34, 35, and 36, Great Marlborough-street, 1, 2, and 3, Foubert's-place, Regent-street. Catalogue-gratis. Established 118 years. Illustrated Catalogue free by post.

GARDNERS' LAMPS are the Best.—The Best Lamp for Study, Writing, or Needlework, is the Moderator Table Lamps, from 8s. 6d. each. Engravings free by post. Moderator Lamps, 7s. 6d. each. Palmer's Candles, 7d. per lb. Established 118 years. GARDNERS, 34, 35, and 36, Great Marlborough-street, 1, 2, and 3, Foubert's-place, Regent-street. Catalogue-gratis. W.C. (opposite Northumberland House).

CHANDELIERS FOR DINING-ROOM and LIBRARY, Candelabra, Moderator Lamps, Bronzes, Ormolu, China, and Glass. Batteries in Parian, Vases, and other ornaments.—GARDNERS, 34, 35, and 36, Great Marlborough-street, 1, 2, and 3, Foubert's-place, Regent-street. Established 1807.

ORNAMENTS for the DRAWING-ROOM, LIBRARY.—An extensive assortment of Alabaster, Bronze, Ormolu, Parian, Porcelain, and Marble Statuettes, manufactured and imported by J. TENNANT, 149, Strand.

ORNAMENTS for the MANTELPIECE, &c. Large and elegant assortment, suitable for wedding and birthday presents, in Groups, Statuettes, Vases, &c., in Parian and English and Foreign Marbles, Alabaster, Bronzes, Ormolu, Glass, Porcelain, Terra-cottas, Lustres, Candelabra, Candlesticks and Ecclesiastic Glass.

J. TENNANT, 149, Strand.

HEWETT and CO., Importers of Chinese and Japanese Jars and Manufactured Goods. China Hall, Rupert-street, Haymarket, and 42, Piccadilly, corner of Air-street Bazaar. The largest Stock in Europe. Manufactory, Canton China.

MAPLE and CO.'S BEDSTEADS, in Iron, Wood, Iron, and Brass, fitted with Furniture and Bedding complete. Illustrated Price-list free by post.

Entrance, 145, Tottenham-court-road.

MAPLE and CO.'S FIRST-CLASS FURNITURE.

The Parquet Dining-room ..... £31 10s.
The Prince of Wales Couch ..... £5 15s.
The Private Couch ..... £4 4s.
The Rugby Easy Chair ..... 10s.
The Rugby Couch ..... £3 3s.
Entrance, 145, Tottenham-court-road.

MAPLE and CO.'S NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE contains a number of new articles required for completely furnishing a House of any class, post-free. This is the largest and most complete Book of Reference published in the World.—MAPLE and CO., Tottenham-court-road.

MAPLE and CO. for CARPETS.

Magnificent Brussels, at	2s. 3d. per yard.
Chiene New Patent Brussels	2s. 9d.
Axminster Carpets, at	3s. 6d.
Moquette Carpets, of all sizes	1s. 6d.

Entrance—145, Tottenham-court-road.

FURNITURE CARRIAGE-FREE to any part of Great Britain.

Dressing-room Suites, complete ..... £8 8s. 0d.
Drawing-room Suites, complete ..... £20 0s. 0d.
Dining-room Suites, complete ..... £20 0s. 0d.
Warranted First Class.

P. and J. DIXON, 213, 214, and 215, HIGH-STREET, Illustrated Catalogue-prints and post-free on application.

LIBRARY CHAIRS.—A most complete SUITE for a DINING-ROOM, consisting of a capital Telescope Table, 4 ft. 6 in. by 6 ft., with Extra Leaves, a Sideboard, a Side-table accommodating, and eight chairs in morocco; the whole in Mahogany, for £20. Also a Suite for a Drawing-room, consisting of other furniture suitable for a Library.—At 8, GREAT ANN and GO'S, 15, Hermitage-street, Drury-lane.

WALNUT SUITE of DRAWING-ROOM FURNITURE.—A Great Bargain, of sterling quality, must be seen, why we cannot describe it. The Suite consists of a Couch, Easy Chair, and Six Chairs, all in Rich Walnut Wood, Spring Stuffed, and Covered in Rich Velvet Tapestry. Also a large-size chiffonnière, a cover; two occasional tables, a cover; a pair of rich Velvet Curtains, and a chintz room screen; a writing whatnot, and two occasional chairs, to match the Suite. The whole of the above for £20. Cost treble the money. At GREEN and CO.'S, Auctioneer-street (five doors from Oxford-street).

CAPTAIN WHITE'S ORIENTAL PICKLE, CURRY POWDER, and CHUTNEE.

CURRY POWDER of the ROYAL EAGLE.

Sauce Vendors and wholesale of

CROSSE and BLACKWELL, Purveyors to the Queen, Soho-square, London.

FAU-DE-VIE.—This Pure PALE BRANDY, of the finest Cognac quality, is recommended by Dr. Conquest, in French brandy, 30s. per doz.; or, in a case for the country, 28s. Terms, cash.—ROBERT HUDSON, 77, Strand, and 39, Regent-street, W. Established 1799. Observe the only addresses.

HORNIMAN'S PURE TEA, "always good and reliable." Sold in packets, which produced medals prewards the Chinese quantity of low priced brown aromatic leaves as sold in London by grocers and tea dealers.

LETTERS PATENT, 1858. PRIZE MEDAL, 1862.

ROBINSON'S PATENT GROATS is the finest preparation of oats for human food. Modern chemistry has shown that this food is easy of digestion and highly nutritious.

ROBINSON'S PATENT BARLEY makes a delicious cream-like pudding, delicious for which have been given by Mesa. C. E. Pemberton, Mrs. Bowman, and Mrs. Hamilton, pronounced by a specialist for modern nursing, and has been used with great success in many cases of infantile disease.

KEEN'S GENUINE MUSTARD, made with the Original Receipt, is the finest English meal. This CELEBRATED BRAND, distinguished upwards of a century for purity and strength, has received the general approval of the public.

DIPLOMA and PRIZE MEDAL awarded, 1862.

Sold by most Grocers from the Cask, and in 1lb., 2lb., and 4lb. canisters.

KEEN, ROBINSON, BELLVILLE, and CO., Garlick-hill, London.

KINGSFORD'S OSWEGO PREPARED CORN, for Puddings, Custards, Blancmange, &c. The original and genuine American preparation of Indian corn. Established 1847.

No other article in America is allowed to use the right to the title of "Kingsford."

ORCHARD and CO., ARGYLL HOUSE, 245, Regent-street, Manufacturers to the Royal Family.—Their Majesty the Queen, Her Majesty the Queen Dowager, Her Royal Highness the Princess Alice, Her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales, Her Royal Highness the Princess Helena.

Great Sale of Paris Real Kid GLOVES, JAMES SCOTT, 80, Edgware-road, W.

has bought the whole of the Stock of the World Glove Warehouse, No. 26, Commercial-street, who has retired from the trade. The Prince Consort and Noble Lords and others can now obtain their gloves at 1s. per pair.

No. 1, 1s. per pair; No. 2, 1s. 6d. per pair No. 3 very best), 2s. per pair. Please note he has had far too extra stamps.

LADIES' UNDERCLOTHING of best make and workmanship, at Moderate Prices.—Ladies' Outfitting Warehouse, 183, Regent-street, Sartorial Arcade. Price-lists by post. Address "Ladies' Department," CHAPMAN and SON, 183, Regent-street.

WEDDING or INDIA OUTFITS supplied with best goods, at lowest prices. Detailed price-lists by post.—WHITELOCK and SON, 164, Strand (opposite the Church), near Somerset House.

UNINFLAMMABLE SILK DRESSES, 19 yards for 36s. 6d., or 14d. per yard, all colours. Warranted all genuine. Patterns free.

NICHOLSON'S, 50 to 53, St. Paul's-churchyard.

100 PATTERNS SILKS, POST-FREE, of the Newest Coloured Silks for Spring, 1863, consisting of PLAIN and FANCY SILKS, from 1 guinea the Dress.

BLACK SILKS, 40 to 80 per cent. below Present Prices.

At NICHOLSON'S, 50 to 53, St. Paul's-churchyard.

1000 DOZEN CAMBRIC HANDKERCHIEFS, at 4s. 6d. per dozen. Sample Handkerchief sent on receipt of 54 in stamps.

At NICHOLSON'S, 50 to 53, St. Paul's-churchyard.

DO YOU WISH YOUR CHILDREN WELL DRESSED?—Boys' Kaiserdecker Suits in Cloth, Tweed, and Velveteen, from 10s. 6d. to 21s. Youths' Suits in Cloth, Tweed, and Velveteen, from 21s. to 30s. Gentlemen's Suits in Cloth and Tweed, from 2l. 2s. Dresses, post-free.—NICHOLSON'S, 50 to 53, St. Paul's-churchyard.

EMBROIDERED CAMBRIC HANDKERCHIEFS.—Ladies' Embroidered Cambric Handkerchiefs, 1000 French Cambric Handkerchiefs, beautifully worked, at less than half price, 4s. 6d. per dozen. Sample Handkerchief sent to the amount in stamps.

COMPTON HOUSE, 44, 45, and 46, Old Compton-street; and 4, Princes-terrace, City-road, Finsbury-square.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES.

SEWELL and CO.

beg to announce they have purchased from a foreign agent his stock of Rich Fancy Chené and Brocaded Silks, which they are now selling at 2s 9d and 4 guineas the Dress.

SEWELL and CO.,

Print-street, Soho, W.

MARRIAGE TROUSSEAUX and INDIA OUTFITS.—Ladies are respectfully informed that the whole assortment of their extensive and perfected STOCK, comprising Furnishing Drapery and Underclothing, in every variety of material for which their house has been noted for upwards of seventy years, is now replete with every novelty of the season.

PETER ROBINSON, 103, Oxford-street.

LADIES' MANTLE CLOTHS.

Waterproof Tweeds and Meltons, Blue Diagonals, Black Cloths, Cloakings, Fancy Cloths, and Velvets, in every variety, at the Manufacturers' Prices.—PETER ROBINSON, 103, Oxford-street.

Dominions and Boys' wear, from 1s. 6d. per yard to the finest quality.—PETER ROBINSON, 103, Oxford-street.

C. MEEKING and CO., 111, Holborn-hill (corner of Hatton-garden).

SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE.

For Spring Dresses, Silks, 21s. Full Dress, 21s.

Fancy Spring Silks, 21s. Full Dress, 21s.

Rich Glacé Silks, 21s. Full Dress, 21s.

JOHN HARVEY and SON, 6, Ludgate-hill.

LADIES' WATERPROOF TWEED CLOAKS and JACKETS, in all the New Materials and Colours. Patterns of materials and prices sent post-free.

JAMES SPENCE and CO., 67, Ludgate-hill, London.

VALENCIENNES LACE, made with genuine Thread, the most beautiful distinguishable from the real, 1s. 6d. per yard wide. Sample sent post-free for 15 stamps.—PETER ROBINSON, 103, Oxford-street.

CRINOLINES.—STEEL SKELETON SKIRTS.—Messrs. W. S. and C. H. THOMSON, of 97, Cheapside, respectfully call the attention of the Trade to their NEW PATENT GIVE SPECIES in the TRADE that they will PROCEED at LAW against any INFRINGEMENT of their PATENT RIGHTS. Manufactory, Sheffield.

Messrs. Thomson have imposed the following cross ONLY under their said patent, viz., the Duchess, the Princess, the Ball Skirt, respective Names of Trade Marks, or both—viz., Messrs. C. S. Wilson and Co., Messrs. Jay, Messrs. Marshall and Snelgrove, Messrs. Nicholson, Messrs. Peter Robinson, Messrs. Shoolbred, Messrs. G. Gray, of Sheffield.

H. WICKENS, 3, Threadneedle-street, Bank, London, Sole Agent for the Manufacturers.

Dated this 19th of Feb. 1863.

THOMSON'S PRIZE MEDAL CRINOLINES.

THOMSON'S PRIZE MEDAL CRINOLETTE.

BONNETS.—MANTLES and GAVELL, 75, removed from Paris with their elegant GUINEA BONNETS, and every novelty in the Millinery Department on shop, 61, Regent-street (four doors from Swan and Edgar's).

THE ALEXANDRA HAIR-WAVER, a simple and effective Invention for Waving the Hair, impresses a wave to the hair, in the present favourite fashion, worn by the Princess Alexandra. Sold by all Perfumers and Hairdressers throughout the World. Prevention, at, in the pair; by post for 14 stamps, with illustrated directions.

GLENFIELD PATENT STARCH, As used in the Royal Laundry.

This universal Starch is

USED IN THE ROYAL LAUNDRY,

and pronounced by her Majesty's Laundress to be

THE BEST SHE HAS EVER TRIED;

Supplied to the Queen's Laundress.

Sold by all Grocers and Oilmen.

WOTHERSPOON and CO., Glasgow and London.

OSTEO-RIDON.—PATENT, No. 560. Instantaneous Curative Process for RHEUMATISM, GOUT, TIC, and FACIAL DOLOR, without quinine, syrups, or wine. Sold by all Chemists, in bottles, 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., and 22s. each. Sole Proprietor, Alexander Ridon, 57, Berners-street, Oxford-street, and 36, Ludgate-hill, London (1851, Duke-street, Liverpool), and 36, Rue de Richelieu, Paris. Pamphlets gratis and post-free from country patentees.

Testimonials of Practical Premiums on the Teeth," gratis.

STOOPING of the SHOULDERS has been entirely remedied by the Scientific Discovery of Dr. LEWIS, as ALFRED SUTTON'S PATENT CHEST-EXPANDER. Sent enough for immediate use, with full instructions, on receipt of 10s. 6d.

Ask for Young's 84, and 1a. box; by post, 14 stamps.

YOUNG'S Ia. BOX ANNICATED WHITE FELT CORN and BUNION PLASTERS. By E. Young, 31, Sherbourne-street, Aldersgate-street, E.C. The best relief to sufferers. Ask for Young's 84, and 1a. box; by post, 14 stamps.

LINNEFORD'S FLUID MAGNESIA is an effervescing preparation for Acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion, and is a mild aperient for delicate constitutions.—77, New Bond-street, London; and all Chemists.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Mary-le-Strand, in the City of Westminster, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY MARCH 21, 1863.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

No. 1196.—VOL. XLII. SATURDAY, MARCH 28, 1863. WITH A SUPPLEMENT, FIVEPENCE

STATE RIGHTS AND FEDERAL ASSUMPTIONS IN AMERICA.

THE great and fundamental doctrine of State rights in America, derived originally from the Royal charters by which the several colonies were established by the British Crown, was felt by the founders of American Independence to be the only possible basis upon which their Republican liberty could subsist. An immense territorial empire or monarchy, extending over the greater part of the continent, is possible though undesirable; because its principle is the concentration of power and authority in the hands of one strong, skilful, and able individual, who becomes the head and chief of the army, and, by means of the army, governs the people by exacting obedience to his supreme will. But a great territorial republic, as extensive as that of the United States in the time of Washington, if popular liberty were to be assured within its limits, was only possible by the decentralisation and diffusion of power, and by the jealous supremacy of the several sovereign commonwealths, within their original jurisdiction, in all matters of internal liberty. The idea was that the first allegiance of an American was due to the State of which he was a citizen; and so strongly was the idea rooted and enforced, that to this moment no man is or can become a citizen of the "United States." The native of Massachusetts is a citizen of Massachusetts, and not of the United States; and the foreigner or immigrant who settles in the country must choose his State, and qualify himself by residence in it, before he can take out letters of naturalisation. It takes five years to make him a citizen of New York; but he can acquire the privilege in six months in some of the rising States of the West, that are too urgently in want of people to till the land and drive off the marauding Indians to afford to be particular. A league of commonwealths, each governing itself, but united for purposes of defence against foreigners, and especially against England, who was thought to be capable of reannexing her rebellious colonies if they did not adhere closely together to resist her aggression, was the scheme of American liberty and independence that recommended itself to the judgment of the great men of the Washingtonian era. By that scheme each State had its own Constitution, its own legislature, it own executive chief magistrate, and its own militia; and the Federal or Central Government—kept within the limits of the Constitution by the Judiciary of the Supreme Court—had but a shadow of power, except in its relations to the outer world. Externally the Union was everything—internally it was nothing. So long as the idea was rigidly acted upon, the American Republics, with their nominal and scarcely felt central government, were free, prosperous, and happy. In proportion to the increase of the number of the States, and the extension of the Union backwards from the Atlantic seaboard towards the Pacific, ought to have been the jealousy entertained of any attempt at the centralisation of power. The States, as States, were entirely free. The only liberty denied them by the voluntary compact into which they entered was the liberty to make war upon each other, or to subvert, or endeavour to subvert, by external agencies, their separate Constitutions. To all other intents and purposes each State was free to shape its laws according to the social wants, necessities, observances, and prejudices of its people. Massachusetts and New York were free to abolish negro slavery within their boundaries; South Carolina and Georgia were free to retain it. At a later period the commonwealths of Indiana and Illinois were free to prevent the ingress or settlement of any coloured people within their lines. In no sense whatever were those States to be considered provinces of an empire or subdivisions of a unity, such as the English counties and French departments at the present day. In England the law of Northumberland is the law of Dorcushire; but in America the law of Maine is not the law of Pennsylvania, nor the law of Pennsylvania the law of New York or New Jersey. If the States had continued to respect in each other their solemnly secured rights, it is highly probable that the whole continent of North America would have been in due time covered with a congeries of free and happy Republics, and that Canada and the British colonies in the north, and Mexico and the Havanas terrificated in the south, would have, one by one, asked to form part of the American Union, and been formally admitted to the enjoyment of the privilege. This would, indeed, have been a noble Government. Had it been perpetuated, negro slavery would have gradually died out, because it would have proved unprofitable as well as wrong. War would have been at an end, except against any European Power that assumed the aggressive, which it would not have done against so stupendous a resistance as America would have offered. The principle of self-government would have been triumphantly asserted; and the American commonwealths would have presented to the world a sublimer spectacle than history has ever yet recorded—the spectacle of a free, untaxed, highly civilised, and progressive people, working out, under the most favourable circumstances, and with the widest field for their energy and development, the fortunes of the race, and solving happily the grea problem of the destinies of humanity.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES LEAVING WINDSOR FOR OSBORNE.—SEE PAGE 357.

But this was not to be. The third generation after Washington misunderstood and perverted the fundamental doctrine of Republican rule. New men, with new ideas, appeared upon the scene. The scum, the dregs, the refuse, and the rascality of Europe—everybody who had lost or could not obtain a chance in the Old World—flocked into the New; and, knowing nothing of the delicate machinery by which the slender fabric of the Republic was upheld, they set to work to destroy it. The civil war now raging shows with what success they laboured. They did not bring into the New World with them any knowledge of the checks and counter-checks, the nice balances and fine adjustments of the most complicated Constitution ever adopted by a civilised people; and they ignorantly interfered with its working, till the machine split with a noise that has startled the world. They were aided by the New England Puritans and Educationalists, whose ideas were mainly derived from European literature at a time when America had no literature of its own; and, as this class looked much more fondly to the realisation of their dream of being a great and dominant rather than a free and happy people, they strengthened the Federal power whenever they had the opportunity, and weakened the State power, which was the best guarantee of their own liberties. The manufacturing interest in New England and Pennsylvania, with a view ostensibly to the development of national industry, but really with the design of their own enrichment, agitated the question of a protective tariff, by which they might compel the agricultural people of the South and West to buy their goods at double, and often treble, the price at which a better class of fabric could have been imported from England. This was one of the first of the many predisposing causes of dissension which were introduced and fostered by those who wished to make America a nation instead of a confederation of nations. In due time, after the emancipation by Great Britain of the slaves in the West India Islands, the attempt was made to elevate negro slavery in America into the dignity and importance of a national instead of a sectional question. For nearly thirty years the question was agitated, not mainly by the European and Puritanic elements of American society—the sole results being, first to exasperate the Southern States against the busybodies of the North, who would not confine themselves to their own business; and, secondly, to strengthen the South in its determination, not only to adopt and maintain, but to justify, the institution. And all this was done in the fal-se assumption that the Union was a nation, and that the Federal Government had both the right and the power to interfere with the State constitutions whenever it deemed it just and expedient. Questions of free trade and tariff, extension of territory, and the abolition of slavery, were but the different phases assumed from time to time by the one great and paramount question of the Federal against the State authority. The clearest-headed and most patriotic men of America foresaw the inevitable result, and deprecated the encroachment with all the energy they could command. As the North increased in population more rapidly than the South, in consequence of the influx not only of gross and unprincipled and reckless foreigners, but of Northern and the South held out the more tenaciously to State rights the more vehemently they were attacked, the conviction forced itself upon the minds of all its leading men that the disruption of the Union was only a question of time. They did not wish to expedite it; nor, could they have ruled the country on the doctrine of State Rights, as enforced by the decisions of the Supreme Court, would they ever have thought of breaking up the nominal Union, under which all the States had so marvellously prospered. But they were too constantly goaded on the slavery question, and too constantly taxed in all articles of foreign produce by the operation of a protectional tariff, exclusively beneficial to Northern manufacturers, to be otherwise than dissatisfied with the partnership to which they seemed to be doomed. The North refused to take warning. Strong in theory, it despised fact. It required justice to the negro, even though the white race should be ruined, and the black along with it. Ultimately, as all the world knows, the Southern people took the remedy into their own hands by secession, and were willing to forfeit many solid advantages derived from the Union, in order that they might be free from the constant interference of the North with their system of labour. They could not abolish slavery, even if they wished to do so; for four millions of slaves could not be suddenly set free without danger to themselves as well as ruin to their masters; and when they knew that the agitation in the negro's favour was got up in Massachusetts and other New England States, in the Free States generally, that treated the negro as a social pariah, they hurled against the North the imputation of hypocrisy as well as illegality, and declined to have further partnership with it.

The North has misunderstood liberty and the principles of its own Government through the whole course of these unhappy disputes and the horrible war that has grown out of them. It was itself free from the guilt of slavery, and that ought to have been enough. Attempting coercion by the sword, it has attempted what was beyond its right and its province, and has suffered accordingly. Those who take to the sword perish by the sword. And, under the operation of so-called military necessities, it has lost its own liberties without doing the smallest particle of good to the black men whom it attempted to free, or removing a single obstacle that blocks the way to universal emancipation.

Twenty millions of white Northern men exist under a Despotism; and four millions of black Southern men remain just what and where they were before the war commenced. And all this has happened, because the Northern Americans would not agree to a national unity with a nation; and attacked that principle of State sovereignty and local self-government which was the only possible basis on which their Republican form of government could subsist. But they were a proud people, and needed to be taught a lesson of humility. They are receiving it at this moment, and all the world looks on with sympathy and wonder.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

FRANCE.

The Emperor has addressed to M. Billault the following letter of thanks for his late speech in the Senate on the Polish question:—

My dear M. Billault,—I know your eloquent speech, and to-day I have been delighted to find in you such a faithful and eloquent interpreter of my policy. You have succeeded in reconciling the expression of our sympathies for a cause dear to France with the consideration due to foreign Sovereigns and Governments. Thank you for having so well understood me with me, and I reject every other interpretation of my sentiments.—Believe in my sincere friendship. NAPOLEON.

The Emperor and Empress honoured with their presence last Saturday night the farewell representation given at the Grand Opera by Mdme. Ferraris. Their Majesties were received with the usual acclamations.

Prince Metternich, the Austrian Ambassador, returned to Paris on Monday from his journey to Vienna, where he was summoned to a consultation relating to the Polish question. He had an interview, lasting two hours, with the Foreign Minister, M. Drouyn de Lhuys. The Emperor received Prince Metternich on Tuesday.

The Municipal Council of the Seine has granted extraordinary credits to the Government was passed, after some discussion.

The Moniteur announces that the Government has made functions of President of the Prefectoral Council of the Seine from those of the Prefect, for the more prompt dispatch of public business. The President's salary is fixed at 25,000f. a year. A second Council follows, which appoints M. Dieu, Prefect of Savoy, to the office of President.

The Moniteur announces the appointment of M. Perrin, Parisian Opera-house, for cheating at cards, took place at Paris last week, and occasioned great excitement. M. de Marsilia was the prosecutor. On the 4th of February these three persons met Count Branicki among a select party in the salons of Mdme. Baracci, alias Bennai, alias Judi, Marsilia, who is a nobleman in the Queen of Spain's household, had already lost 35,000f. or 40,000f. to the two others the same evening, at the Imperial Opera-house, in the Rue de la Paix, though he says "he had always refused to play directly with Garcia." However, he now won on good terms with him, and could afford to make a joke of his loss. Branicki sat down at the table, and Garcia, Perrin, and Calzado kept walking about together, and the other guests seemed to notice them with a certain reserve. By and-by he says "manifested an intention of doing something." As there were only four-tables for seven, they sat down by a kitchen-table, which was covered with a cloth, and the game began. This was at 10 o'clock, about 30,000f. Garcia and Calzado then proposed carré; but, as no one would play with them, they played alone by way of a trial. Supper followed, after which a party was formed for a game of baccarat. Marsilia disappeared from the room, but on his return to play became high. Garcia was opposed to Miranda, while Calzado kept betting on Garcia's hand; and in the end, the stakes having been raised again and again, and Garcia having won 100,000f., a meeting Miranda lost some 130,000f. or 140,000f. At this point the Duc de Gabrovano-Branicki was interpellated and charged Garcia with foul play, seizing his cards and pointing out to the company that some were slipped in instead of those which he possessed he had brought in some cards, but with no dishonest intention, and "only to change his bad luck." That was too much. His pockets were searched, and a number of cards found upon him. The Duke then called upon a friend, and, after much resistance, was induced by a threat of sending for the police to hand over his bank-note case, 15,000f. Bow-street-rounded, and a general search was agreed upon. The result was that Garcia and Calzado had left the room from room to room, dropping bank-notes at every step, and almost all the missing notes were recovered. These facts being clearly proved against both, Garcia, who did not appear, was sentenced to five years' imprisonment, Calzado to "fifteen months', and each to pay a fine of 3000f. Both were further condemned conjointly to pay 41,000f. as damages to M. de Marsilia.

The New York journals publish news from Vera Cruz to the 17th of February. General Forey has issued a proclamation in which he announced his intention of speedily marching on Mexico. He declared that the Mexicans will be left to choose the form of their government, but that the French army will "remain long enough to enable it to aid the Government in proceeding on the path of liberty and progress." He expected that the French would be about to occupy the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. The report arose from the fact that detachments had been sent to the mouth of the Coatzacoalco with a gun-boat to blockade Minatitlan.

PORTUGAL.

A telegram from Lisbon states that the Chamber of Deputies have passed an unanimous vote of confidence in the Ministers.

Portugal has acceded to the proposal of England to make joint representations to Zurara in favour of Leland.

The marriage of the Prince of Wales was well fêted in Lisbon, there having been three public dinners of different classes of the British residents, and two balls in the evening.

AUSTRIA.

A letter from Vienna states that the Emperor Francis Joseph has decided upon a very early meeting of the Hungarian Diet. It also says that new reforms are to be granted to Hungary.

A Vienna letter of the 15th says:—"Prince Metternich, the Austrian Ambassador at Paris, had assured his Government that the Emperor Napoleon did not wish to see the peace of Europe disturbed, but wished Austria to co-operate with France and England in obtaining political amelioration for the Poles. Austria has determined to maintain her neutral policy." We learn from another source that the Austrian Government, while declaring itself willing to seek from the goodwill of the Emperor Alexander reforms and concessions for Poland, declines any co-operation or alliance with France which might impede its liberty of action, or which would seem to conduct logically towards a European war.

Count Thun, the Austrian Ambassador at the Russian Court, presented his letters of recall on Saturday last. It does not appear, however, that this act is of any political significance.

A "carousel," or mimic tournament, has been held in the Imperial riding-school at Vienna for the benefit of the distressed weavers. The Imperial family were present, and the galleries were filled with the best society of the capital.

ITALY.

The Ministry has undergone the modifications long expected. Signor Farini has retired because of his health; and Count Pasolini has resigned his post "for private reasons," as it was announced to the Parliament. Signor Minghetti becomes President of the Council, and Visconti Venosta Minister for Foreign Affairs.

The Opinione of Turin represents the Italian subscriptions to the national loan as going on very favourably.

Official papers respecting the Italian brigands have been published. From these we learn that from the 1st of May, 1861, to the 1st of March, 1863, the number of brigands taken with arms in their hands and shot was 1038; killed in fighting, 2413: made prisoners, 2763; surrendered, 932: in all, 7146.

A magnificent entertainment was given at Rome on the 10th inst., to celebrate the marriage of the Prince of Wales, by members of the English Club. Upwards of two hundred of the élite of society at Rome sat down to a splendid supper, the chair being taken by Sir William Fraser. The toasts were limited to "The Queen of the United Kingdom," "The Prince and Princess of Wales," and "The King of Denmark." Everything passed off most brilliantly.

PRUSSIA.

The first stone of the monument to be erected in memory of William III. was laid at Berlin on Tuesday week with great ceremony. The fête was extremely military, as the Feudal party had taken every precaution to exclude all the elements of the Liberal opposition. The Lustgurten, the place chosen for the monument, was occupied solely by the military authorities, the veterans of 1813, and such of the civil authorities as had received invitations. The troops' evolutions had evidently to take part in the ceremony. The veterans of the Landwehr, however, as they passed through the streets, preceded by their banners, were enthusiastically cheered by the people, to prove to them that the attitude of the capital did not proceed from indifference towards the old defenders of the country, but from the conviction that on the present occasion the monumental associations separated the Government from the people was ill-chosen to celebrate a victory over the foreigner. The proceedings passed over without any disorder.

The Prussian Moniteur publishes a Royal Ordinance founding a medal for the soldiers who took part in the wars of 1813, 1814, and 1815. It is to bear the effigy of King Frederick William III., with a branch of laurel, and the inscription "For Fidelity and Valour," on the initials of the present King, with the crown, and the date March 17, 1863.

In Monday's sitting of the Chamber of Deputies, M. Grabow made a report on the audience granted on Sunday by the King to a deputation from the Chamber commissioned to present an address congratulating his Majesty upon the anniversary of his birthday. M. Grabow said that the deputation had previously waited on Feudal party had taken every precaution to exclude all the elements of the Liberal opposition. The Lustgurten, the place chosen for the monument, was occupied solely by the military authorities, the veterans of 1813, and such of the civil authorities as had received invitations. The troops' evolutions had evidently to take part in the ceremony. The veterans of the Landwehr, however, as they passed through the streets, preceded by their banners, were enthusiastically cheered by the people, to prove to them that the attitude of the capital did not proceed from indifference towards the old defenders of the country, but from the conviction that on the present occasion the monumental associations separated the Government from the people was ill-chosen to celebrate a victory over the foreigner. The proceedings passed over without any disorder.

The Prussian Moniteur publishes a Royal Ordinance founding a medal for the soldiers who took part in the wars of 1813, 1814, and 1815. It is to bear the effigy of King Frederick William III., with a branch of laurel, and the inscription "For Fidelity and Valour," on the initials of the present King, with the crown, and the date March 17, 1863.

In Monday's sitting of the Chamber of Deputies, M. Grabow made a report on the audience granted on Sunday by the King to a deputation from the Chamber commissioned to present an address congratulating his Majesty upon the anniversary of his birthday. M. Grabow said that the deputation had previously waited on Feudal party had not got near enough to the fort to dismantle it on account of the obstructions of the river.

Federal gun-boats have passed through the channel cut by the army from the Mississippi into the Yazoo, in the neighbourhood of Vicksburg. They have done considerable damage on its banks.

Mr. Slidell's property has been confiscated at New Orleans.

It is reported from Texas that the Federals expedition up the Yazoo has captured Yazoo city and all the Confederate transports there in.

Immense numbers of the Federal troops are sick at Vicksburg.

President Lincoln has issued a proclamation declaring that absent soldiers who return to their regiments before the 1st of April will be reinstated; but that those who do not do so will be arrested and treated as deserters. He also issues a proclamation calling upon deserters to desert, and calls upon them to assist in preventing desertion.

The British steamer Peterhoff, from London, for the Rio Grande port of Metamoros, was captured off St. Thomas by a vessel of Admiral Wilkes's squadron and sent into to Key West for adjudication. She was heavily laden with boots, blankets, &c., for the Confederate Government.

THE CONFEDERATE STATES.

Richmond despatches speak discouragingly of the prospect of supplies of food, and say that the impressment of grain by the Government discourages production. The New York papers publish that gold at Richmond is at 350 per cent premium.

The Richmond papers state that the Confederates have much trouble with the Union men in Northern Alabama. One county is said to be full of them, and many deserters are joining them.

MEXICO.

The Spanish Government has confirmed the appointment of Mr. Cassius M. Clay as Minister to Russia. His confirmation was specially pressed by Mr. Seward and the President.

The Senate adjourned on the 14th.

Senator Sumner, the Chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, strongly urged the President not to issue letters of marque. On the other hand, the committee of the New York Chamber of Commerce have had an interview with President Lincoln, urging him to issue them forthwith.

The election in New Hampshire is rather favourable to the Republicans. Two Republican and one Democratic member have been elected to Congress. There were three candidates for Governor, and none obtained an absolute majority. The Republican candidate will be chosen by the Legislature.

The British steamer Queen of the Wave has run ashore at Charleston. The Federal Admiral Dupont was making efforts to save her.

The Federal debt, up to March 1, 1863, is set down at 553,000,000 dols.

In New York, in consequence of a new Act, endeavouring to raise 100,000,000 dols., one half in twenty-year bonds and the other half in short bonds. It was reported in Wall-street that the loan on offer from Europe for 100,000,000 dols. six per cent bonds at a higher figure than par. Gold was at 68 premium.

UTAH.

A collision between the military and the citizens of Utah has taken place. Congress having passed a law to put down polygamy, the Governor of Utah and his associates proceeded to enforce the military to arrest Brigham Young and Councillors Kimball and Wells. The citizens armed, but were not able to prevent the arrest of their high priest. He was released on giving bonds to appear for trial.

THE POLISH INSURRECTION.

The cause of Poland has received a great blow in the defeat of General Langiewicz, which is fully confirmed. The battle took place on the 18th inst., near Zagonice, and after a desperate struggle, which lasted the whole day, the Poles were defeated. Langiewicz managed to escape across the Vistula and took refuge in the Austrian territory, and is now at the house of the Austrian authorities. On the 19th the remaining portion of Langiewicz's forces had another engagement with remaining portion of Langiewicz's forces had another engagement with the Russian troops, and was defeated and dispersed. By a telegram from Vienna we learn that Count Mieroslawski has been sent at liberty on parole, and that he and his followers have proceeded to Brunn, in Moravia.

The central revolutionary committee at Warsaw seem, however, nothing daunted by the defeat of Langiewicz. They have issued a proclamation announcing the resumption of their functions in consequence of the Dictator being a prisoner, and calling on every Pole to take his place in the national ranks. Langiewicz has also issued a proclamation resigning his office, and warning his brethren against yielding to hasty counsels. He has dismissed such officers after many privates killed, besides a large number wounded. Amongst the latter was Prince Wladislas, who was taken prisoner by the Russians.

It is now asserted that a Russian column had entered the territory of the Grand Duchy of Posen (Prussian Poland), marching through Plaschen, Neustadt, and Yreschen, and afterwards returning to Russian Poland. The fact, however, has since been denied. The Montteur of Wednesday announced that the Russian Minister at Berlin had again have proved to the French Government that the report of a Russian column having entered the Prussian territory was void of foundation.

The Continental papers publish a series of documents conveying, in the name of General Mieroslawski, the charges of high treason against the conduct of Langiewicz. Mieroslawski alleges that the dictatorship was, in January last, formally conferred upon him by the Provisional Government of Poland, and that on the 19th inst. he was notified to and accepted by all the insurgent leaders, it was not at that time made public from regard to the Emperor Napoleon. It publicly in the meantime Langiewicz, encouraged by his successes, usurped the power and proclaimed himself Dictator. Rather than create disunity Mieroslawski left Poland, and the Provisional Government bowed to the usurpation. This, at least, is the charge now formally brought and to be fully proved.

An Imperial ukase has been published at St. Petersburg abolishing, "for certain reasons," all relations of an obligatory character existing between the peasantry and the landed proprietors in the governments of Wilna, Grodno, and Minsk, and four districts of Wilhelm. The emancipation of the serfs in these is to be completely effected. From the 1st of May next the peasants are no longer to pay their rent to the landed proprietors, but to the Government, which will itself pay to the proprietors the price of emancipation. This measure seems timed in order to check the well-known inclination of the Lithuanian chiefs to join in the Polish movement.

The Europe of Frankfort gives an analysis of the despatch upon the Polish question addressed by Prince Gortschakoff, on the 7th inst., to the Russian Government and the other Powers who signed the Treaty of Vienna. The suggestions contained in this document are stated to be as follows:—1. An immediate amnesty in favour of the insurgent Poles. 2. The withdrawal of the promise made by the late Emperor Alexander I. to the Poles in his celebrated proclamation of the month of November, 1815. 3. The immediate convocation of the Polish Diet.

COUNTRY NEWS.

Lord Sudeley has been appointed Lord Lieutenant of the county of Montgomery.

A resolution in favour of extending the principle of limited liability to private partnerships was carried by the Select Committee on Commerce on Monday.

The Marquis of Ailesbury was sworn in, on Wednesday, Lord Lieutenant of the county of Wilts before the Lord President and other members of her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council.

The Mayor of Hartlepool, who, in consequence of having accepted office as a Lord of the Admiralty, was obliged to appeal to his constituents in Hartlepool, were, on Tuesday, returned unopposed.

An old shoemaker, of most filthy habits, and believed to be "as poor as a rat," died at Crieff, a few days ago. After his death there were found in his house bills and other papers to the amount of securities to the amount £600.

Mr. Isaac Spooner, of the Midland Circuit, who has frequently sat as Deputy-Recorder of Birmingham, has been appointed stipendiary magistrate of Birmingham, in the room of Mr. Partridge, who has been appointed a metropolitan police magistrate.

The Right Rev. Dr. Moriarty, Roman Catholic Bishop of Kerry, has fined the Dublin Young Men's Association "of Trade, in consequence of the disorderly and disloyal conduct of the members at their annual dinner on the 17th inst.

A carriage and pair were dashed to pieces at Brighton last week. The horses took fright just as the coachman was mounting the box, and after a short but mad career darted through a narrow opening, and, turning a somersault, fell to the beach, a depth of 50 ft.

As six men were engaged in plastering a co-operative mill at Accrington, on Saturday, one of the floors fell in, bearing five of the number, two of whom were seriously injured, quite dead; but the remaining four are still under the ruins, no doubt killed. Two other men also received severe injuries, but were immediately handed in the rescue.

At a meeting held at the Manchester Townhall on Tuesday, for the purpose of expressing sympathy and encouragement to the people of Poland, and denouncing the oppressor policy of the Russians, were unanimously passed, addressed to the Queen, and presented to both Houses of Parliament, in favour of the Polish cause, were also adopted. Count Zamoyski and Mr. J. F. Maguire, M.P., were present, who addressed the meeting.

The Mayor of Liverpool presented on Saturday last, at the Townhall, three silver medals and £17, which had been voted by the Royal National Life-boat Institution to Thomas Evans, Evan Evans, William Evans, and several other men, in acknowledgment of their gallant exertions in putting off in a life-boat during a heavy gale of wind on the night of the 19th and the morning of the 21st of January, and afterwards assisting to rescue a large number of persons from the steamship John Bibby, of New York, which had stranded on the Great Burbo bank, near Liverpool.

The Greek Government have recalled M. Tricoupi, their Minister here, and have abolished the Greek Legation in London.

The harvest in South Australia this season is expected to yield 60,000 tons more than is necessary for supplying the colony.

Among other notices in last Friday's Gazette is one stating that the name of Prince Frederick of Hesse Cassel should be added to the list of sponsors (given in another column) of the marriage of the Prince of Wales.

SCREW-PILE PIER, MADRAS.—We are requested to state that the screw piers, of which an Engraving was given in our Number for 28th ult., was constructed from the design of the late Messrs Saunders and Mitchell, of Portsmouth, Wolfenbarger, who had become lessees of the Mitchell screw-pile patent; and that the late Mr. Frederick Johnson prepared the details, and was the contractor for its erection.

THE COURT.

The Queen has taken her accustomed out-door exercise during the past week.

The Duchess of Brabant and the Count de Flanders took their departure from the castle on Saturday, and returned to the Continent.

On Sunday the Queen, with Prince and Princess Louis of Hesse, Princess Helena, Prince Arthur, Prince Leopold, and the Ladies and Gentlemen in Waiting, attended Divine service in the private chapel. The Rev. F. C. Cook, Chaplain in Ordinary to the Queen, preached.

On Monday the Queen, accompanied by Princess Louis of Hesse, drove out in an open carriage. Prince Louis of Hesse accompanied her Majesty on horseback. His Royal Highness Prince Arthur, who is a pupil at the Royal Academy, rode on Saturday and Monday in Greenwich Park.

On Tuesday the Queen, accompanied by Princess Louis of Hesse, drove out in an open carriage. Prince Louis of Hesse rode on horseback. Her Majesty returned to the castle at two o'clock, attended by the Countess of Macclesfield and the Hon. Caroline Lascelles, Lieutenant Grey.

On Wednesday the Queen, accompanied by the Princess of Wales, drove out in the grounds. The Prince of Wales rode on horseback.

Her Majesty held a Council on Thursday, the Duke of London and a select deputation, who attended for the purpose of presenting a loyal address to her Majesty on the occasion of the marriage of the Prince of Prince and Princess of Wales. Congratulatory addresses to the Queen on the Royal marriage were presented also from the corporations of Dublin and Edinburgh. This is the first public act in which the Queen has taken part since the death of the Prince Consort.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

Their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales arrived at Buckingham Palace from Windsor Castle yesterday week. Their Royal Highnesses visited the Duchess of Cambridge, the Duke of Cambridge, and Princess Christian of Denmark at their respective residences. In the evening the Prince and Princess held a reception at St. James's Palace.

The Prince and Princess of Wales went to Marlborough House on Saturday morning, and afterwards received visits from Prince Arthur, from their illustrious relatives, and, later in the day, took a drive in an open carriage and four. In the evening the Prince and Princess dined with the Queen, and the Duke of Cambridge, Princess Christian, Princess Dagmar, Prince Frederick and Prince William of Denmark.

On Sunday the Prince and Princess of Wales and the Duke of Cambridge attended Divine service in the Chapel Royal, St. James's. The Bishop of Manchester preached the sermon.

On Monday the Prince and Princess of Wales, attended by the members of their household, received visits from the Duke of London and Princess Christian of Denmark at the Palace Hotel, Buckingham-gate, and paid visits to the Duchess of Sutherland, Earl Russell, Viscount Palmerston, and the Princess Christian, with Princess Dagmar, Prince Frederick, and Prince William of Denmark, dined with the Prince and Princess of Wales at Buckingham Palace.

On Tuesday the Prince and Princess of Wales, attended by the suite, left the Palace Hotel, Buckingham-gate, and visited Holland Keppel, left Buckingham Palace, at a quarter before one o'clock, for Windsor Castle, at which the Prince and Princess arrived at Paddington terminus, and travelled by the Great Western Railway to Windsor.

The Prince and Princess of Wales were to leave Windsor Castle for Sandringham on Wednesday.

We are authorised to state that after the return of the Prince of Wales from Denmark, a selection of the presents received by him, of which due notice will be given, for the presentation to his Royal Highness at a public meeting convened for that purpose by the mayor. The presentation of the addresses will be subject to regulations similar to those observed on the presentation of addresses to her Majesty at a levee.

It is officially announced that the bridal presents to the Princess of Wales will be exhibited in the South Kensington Museum as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made.

ROYAL RECEPTION AT ST. JAMES'S PALACE.

By command of the Queen, an evening party was given at St. James's Palace, on Tuesday evening, at which their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales. The invitations were issued for half-past nine o'clock, and were very numerous.

The company comprised the Royal family, the Danish Royal family, and the foreign Princes and Princesses staying in the metropolis, the whole of the foreign Ministers, the Ministers of the Crown, and the great officers of State, with their wives and daughters, a number of the leading nobility, the Lord Mayor, the Sheriffs, and a large portion of the nobility and gentry.

The State apartments, the rooms, corridors, and halls were brilliantly illuminated for this reception. The Banquet-room, Portrait-gallery, Guard Chamber, corridors, and hall, were lit by gas. The Throne-room, Presence-chamber, Queen Anne's Drawing-room, and the Presence chamber were lit by numerous wax lights. The entire suite was tastefully decorated with flowers and exotic plants. Refreshments were arranged in all the rooms.

The Princess of Wales, the Prince and Princess of Wales, attended by the Duchess of Wellington, Mistress of the Robes to the Queen; Viscountess Jocelyn, Lady in Waiting to her Majesty; the Countess of Morley, Lady in Waiting to the Princess of Wales, and the Ladies and gentlemen of the Royal household, arrived from Buckingham Palace at seven o'clock, and remained before the company received by the Lord Chamberlain, the Lord Steward, the Master of the Horse, and by the Groom of the Bedchamber in Waiting.

His Royal Highness Prince Louis of Hesse was attended by Baron Westerwaller.

Her Royal Highness Louis of Hesse was attended by Baron Senna Hugenes.

The Maharajah Dhuleep Sing was attended by Colonel Oliphant.

The above illustrious guests joined the Prince and Princess of Wales in the Royal circle.

The general company upon their arrival were ushered to the State rooms. Lord Alfred Paget, accompanied by the Lord Steward, the members of orders of knighthood wearing their respective insignia.

The Prince and Princess of Wales, accompanied by the Royal and illustrious visitors, and attended by the ladies in waiting and the principal officers of the Royal household, entered the Throne-room and passed to the Queen Anne's Drawing-room, where the Princess of Wales, attended by the Duchess of Wellington, presented the Royal and illustrious visitors, and attended to LONDON BRIDGE ILLUMINATED ON THE NIGHT OF THE 19TH INST.

EDINBURGH, FROM THE CALTON HILL, ON THE NIGHT OF THE 19TH INST.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING MARCH 28.

SUNDAY, March 29.—Sixth Sunday in Lent: Palm Sunday. Battle of Poitiers: Alarbe the Goth defeated by the Roman General Stilicho, 405. Edward IV. established himself on the throne by defeating the Lancastrians at Towton, 1461. The pleasant Vesta discovered by Dr. Olbers, 1807.

MONDAY, 30.—The massacre of the French termed the "Sicilian Vespers," 1282. The settlements at Darien encroached by the Spaniards, 1700.

TUESDAY, 31.—The Jacobin expelled from Madrid, 1767. The French defeated at Somahrvalle; the Allies entered Paris, 1814. The Poles under Skrzynecki defeated the Russians at Wawr, 1831.

WEDNESDAY, April 1.—"The Bull" in Coena Domini" issued by Urban VIII. against the opponents of the Papacy, 1627.

THURSDAY, 2.—Nelson's Victory at Copenhagen, 1801.

FRIDAY, 3.—Good Friday. Sir Richard Bishop of Chichester, d. 1245. Wallace defeated the Earl of Pembroke's army at Biggar, re-establishing Peter the Cruel, King of Castile, 1367. Vain attempt of General Stanley to establish Comte de Montemolin as King of Spain, 1860.

SATURDAY, 4.—Full moon, 5h. 9m. a.m.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON-BRIDGE,

FOR THE WEEK ENDING APRIL 4, 1863.

Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.	M. A.
5	5	6	6	7	7	8
h. m.	h. m.	h. m.	h. m.	h. m.	h. m.	h. m.
11 51	12 26	1 1	1 36	2 11	2 46	3 21

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE

KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

Lat. 51° 28′ N.; Long. 0° 18′ W.; height above sea, 34 feet.

DAY.	DAILY MEANS OF			THERMOMETER.		WIND.		Sun to 24 hours.	Rain in 24 hours.
	Barometer reduced to 32°.	Dew Point.	Solar Radiation.	Highest.	Lowest.	General Direction.	Movement in 24 hours.	Hours.	Inches.
March	Inches.	°	°	°	°		Miles.	Inches	Inches
19	29·981	29·0	·78	5	32·6	42·0	N. NW.	·154	·020
20	29·737	29·7	·96	5	29·6	42·1	NW.	·000	·000
21	29·234	41·8	34·2	·76	4	31·5	47·8	WNW. NW. N.	·000
22	29·324	42·8	32·9	·73	5	34·5	49·1	NW.	·144
23	29·387	41·7	31·1	·74	3	34·6	44·3	...	·157
24	29·577	41·1	·71	...	3	32·0	46·3	...	·153
25	29·794	39·4	30·8	·74	3	32·7	44·5	NNW.	·000
26	29·956	40·2	·81	·78	3	37·6	49·1	NNW. N.	·000
27	29·923	43·6	32·1	·68	5	34·1	48·9	NW.	·216
28	29·795	43·3	34·7	·77	5	34·0	47·6	NW.	·000
29	30·161	45·9	34·7	·68	9	42·8	51·2	NW. SSW.	·279
30	...	...	...	...	...	42·6	47·7	NW.	·000
31	30·403	42·9	41·7	·76	6	38·3	49·0	NW. SSW.	·167
April 1	30·434	39·0	30·0	·70	3	32·2	45·0	NW.	·160

Readings of meteorological instruments at half-past nine a.m.:

MARCH 19 TO MARCH 27.

Barometer (in inches) corrected ... 29·913 | 29·977 | 29·725 | 29·471 | 29·725 | 29·949 | 29·795 | 29·956 | 29·923
Temperature of Air ... ° ... 39·9° | 41·3° | 38·7° | 31·6° | 42·8° | 49·1° | 45·7° | 46·3° | 43·6°
Temperature of Evaporation ... ° ... 36·9° | 39·1° | 36·6° | 30·6° | 39·6° | 43·6° | 43·2° | 43·6° | 41·7°
Direction of Wind ... ... NNE. | NE. SW. | NW. | NW. | NW. | NW. | NW. | NW. | NW.

MARCH 19 TO MARCH 24.

Barometer (in inches) corrected ... 29·913 | 29·977 | 29·725 | 29·471 | 29·725 | 29·949 | 29·795 | 29·956 | 29·923
Temperature of Air ... ° ... 39·9° | 41·3° | 38·7° | 31·6° | 42·8° | 49·1° | 45·7° | 46·3° | 43·6°
Temperature of Evaporation ... ° ... 36·9° | 39·1° | 36·6° | 30·6° | 39·6° | 43·6° | 43·2° | 43·6° | 41·7°
Direction of Wind ... ... NNE. | NE. SW. | NW. | NW. | NW. | NW. | NW. | NW. | NW.

THEATRE ROYAL, DRURY LANE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. EDMUND FALCONER. On EASTER MONDAY and Tuesday, for the 50th time in London, Mr. E. Falconer's new and successful Drama, entitled PEGGY LEATHAM, with the original and striking scenic effects and the entire cast of characters which it has had on a larger scale in the Provinces. Preceded by a Selection of the National Theatres. Principal Characters—Messrs. H. Loraine, Addison, Walter Lacy, Ryder, Spencer, Lee, Hudson, Bland, Gaston Murray, and Mr. and Miss Falconer. To conclude with the Farce of MY WIFE'S MOTHER-IN-LAW. Mr. Hudson, &c

GARDNERS' £2 2s. DINNER SERVICES.—A large and magnificent pattern of the choicest description; breakfast, dessert, tea, and toilet services in great variety at the lowest possible prices; table glass of the richest brilliancy of colour; cut wines, from 2s. 6d. per dozen.—Gardners', 53, Strand, adjoining Coutts' Bank, and 453, Strand, Charing-cross. Established 110 years. Illustrated Catalogue free by post.

GARDNERS' LAMPS are the BEST.—The largest, most fashionable, and cheapest assortment in London. Moderator Table Lamps, from 8s. 6d. each. Engravings free by post. Floral Cotton Oil, 4s. per gallon. Colza Oil, 4s. 6d. (by appointment to her Majesty), established 110 years, 453, Strand, Charing-cross. W.C. (opposite Northumberland House).

DINNER, DESSERT, BREAKFAST, TEA, and TOILET SERVICES, in every variety of style and pattern, at the lowest prices consistent with strict regard to quality. Glass, Lamps, Chandeliers, and Gasaliers in great assortment. Cut Table Glass. The stock is well selected, and admirably suited for parties furnishing in the country.
Town-class quality—superior taste—low prices.
ALFRED JEE, 25, Ludgate-hill, E.C. Established 1760.

CHANDELIERS FOR DINING-ROOM and LIBRARY, Candelabra, Moderator Lamps, in Bronze, Ormolu, China, and Glass. Statuettes in Parian, Wax and Terra-cotta.—CHARLES, 65, Oxford-street, W.

OSLER'S GLASS CHANDELIERS, WALL LIGHTS, and Lustres, for Gas and Candles, Table Glass, &c.
Glass Dessert Services for 12 persons, from £7 7s.
All articles marked in plain figures.
Ornamental Glass, in great variety, suitable for presents.
Rich Export, and Useful Cut Glass Decanters and Wines.
Manufactory, Broadway, Birmingham.—Show-rooms, 45, Oxford-street, W.
Birmingham—Manufactory and Showroom, Broad-street. Established 1807.

FURNITURE CARRIAGE-FREE to any part of the Kingdom.
Drawing-room Suites, complete £35 0 0
Dining-room Suites, complete 18 0 0
Bedsteads complete 3 0 0
P. and S. BEYFUS, 144, OXFORD-STREET.
Illustrated Catalogue post-free and gratis on application.

OLD OAK FURNITURE.—A complete SUITE for a DINING-ROOM, comprising a magnificently-carved sideboard, with plate glass back, a telescope table, a side-table to correspond, and eight dining-chairs, the whole to be sold for 50 guineas, half in value. Also, four extra chairs and other furniture in Old Carved Oak.—H. S. BAKER and SON, 24, Holywell-street, Strand, W.C.

WALNUT SUITE of DRAWING-ROOM FURNITURE—
A Great Bargain.—A drawing-room suite, in walnut-wood, of the best description, original design, and in the finest possible condition, consisting of a very handsome and capacious couch, en suite, to match, with two easy-chairs and six small chairs, covered in rich silk brocatelle and chintz linen (every article a walnut whole back and not a veneer). Also, a SPANISH MAHOGANY DINING-ROOM SUITE, 32 guineas.—A. H. GREEN and CO.'S 94, Mortimer-street (five doors from Regent-street).

HANDSOME BRASS and IRON BEDSTEADS.—
THE REGISTERED Sheet-iron cornice is a very important and valuable invention, available both for bronze iron and for original iron-tube; handsome Iron Bedsteads with Brass Mountings and Quadrangular Pyramid Posts; Plain Iron Bedsteads in great variety. Descriptions of Wood Furniture that is manufactured in Mahogany, Birch, Walnut-tree Woods, Polished Pine, and Japanned Deal, with Portraits of Bedsteads, Bedding, and Bed-hangings, with Prices and Descriptions of Bedroom Furniture.—Heal and Son, 196, Tottenham-court-road, W.

HEAL and SON'S ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE, containing Prices and prints of the different BEDSTEADS, as well as of 100 different articles of Bedroom Furniture, sent free by post.—Heal and Son, Bedstead, Bedding, and Bedroom Furniture Manufactory, 196, Tottenham-court-road, W.

LE SOMMIER ÉLASTIQUE PORTATIF.—The foundation for all Mattress Bedding should be elastic and the usual Spring Mattress is too heavy and cumbersome for general use. HEAL and SON'S Spring Mattress is made so that it can be Portatif is made in three separate parts, and is therefore light and portable; it is also cheap and durable.—Heal and Son, Bedstead, Bedding, and Bedroom Furniture Manufactory, 196, Tottenham-court-road, W.

HEAL and SON'S ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE, containing Prices and 100 Bedsteads, as well as of 150 different articles of Bedroom Furniture, sent free by post.—Heal and Son, Bedstead, Bedding, and Bedroom Furniture Manufactory, 196, Tottenham-court-road, W.

J. MAPLE and CO.'S BEDSTEADS, in Wood, Iron, and Brass, fitted with Furniture and Bedding complete. Full-size Iron Bedsteads, 6s. 6d. Estimates, 140, Tottenham-court-road.

J. MAPLE and CO.'S PARISIAN CABRIOLET SUITE.
The Parisian Couch .. .. 14 guineas.
The Prince of Wales Couch .. .. 10½.
The Prince's Easy Chair .. .. 5½.
The Duchess Easy Chair .. .. 5½.
The Victoria Easy Chair .. .. 5½.
Estimates, 145, Tottenham-court-road.

THE ALEXANDRA EASY-CHAIR.
The Elegant Lively Chair.
The Ottoman.
J. MAPLE and CO., 145, Tottenham-court-road.

J. MAPLE and CO. for CARPETS.
They choose no patterns .. .. 2d. per yard.
Kidderminster Carpets .. .. 2s. 6d.
Real Axminster Carpets .. .. 3s. 6d.
Nos. 145, 146, and 147, Tottenham-court-road.

SUPERIOR EASY-CHAIRS and SOFAS, best quality only, made to any shape, on approval, at 7, H. ELMER and SONS' Manufactory, 31, 32, and 34, Berners-street, Oxford-street, W. An elegant Illustrated Catalogue sent post-free.

STEVENS'S FURE and CLEAN MACHINE-MADE BREAD and BREAD-MAKING MACHINERY.—Families, Public Institutions, Clubs, and the Public supplied with the best Household and Steam Bread, Biscuits, and generally. Patent Self-Raising Bread Machinery Company (Limited). Orders to be sent to the Managers at the Steam Bakery, Great Portland-street, Oxford-street, W. Offices, 17, Great Portland-street. Steam Bakery, 42, Great Portland-street, 13, Charlotte-street, Clerkenwell, and Stanley Machine-shops, several sizes, at the, &c. &c.; also Trade Machines mixing half a sack to six sacks of flour at a time, for Bakers and Biscuit Agents supplied with the Machines on sale or return. Two London references required.

CHUBBS' FIREPROOF SAFES, with their Drillproof and Pick-proof Locks, Cash and Deed Boxes, Complete Lock, Latch, and Bell Furniture for Doors, Patent Price-lists gratis and post-free.—Chubb and Son, 57, St. Paul's-churchyard, London.

KITCHEN RANGES! KNIFE CLEANERS! CRINOLINE SKIRTING! Powder, bilver, and money saved by using the "Tip Top Guinea of Modern Inventions." Prospectus free.
London: J. BEDFORD, 63, Cranbourn-street, W.C.

DO YOU DOUBLE UP YOUR PERAMBULATOR? Then you require the Patent Safety Perambulator, as used by the Royal Family. T. TILLING (late Baker, Hart-street, Bloomsbury), 326, High Holborn, W.C. All kinds on view.

IMPERIAL SHERRY, 20s.; XL, 30s.; Port, 36s.; Champagne, 42s. IMPERIAL WINE COMPANY, 314, Oxford-street, W.; City Office, 26, Great Tower-street, Churchwardens, &c.

PALE-DE-VIE.—This Pure PALE BRANDY, 18s. per gal., is a most superior article, pronounced by connoisseurs to be equal to Cognac, at a saving of 10s. per gallon. Sherries, Ports, &c. Sample bottles, 2s. each, free by post. Cash only. Delivery, Railway, &c.; and 36, Regent-street, S.W. Private Entrance free on application.

HEDGES and BUTLER, 155, Regent-street, London, W., beg to call attention to their Wines, particularly to their Sherry, at 24s. per gallon, and Port, at 30s. per gallon. Pale, Golden, and Brown Sherries, 20s., 24s., 30s., 36s., 42s., 48s., 54s., 60s., Champagne, 42s., 48s., 60s. On receipt of a Post Office order or reference, and quantity, with a private list of all other wines, will be forwarded immediately.
Originally established A.D. 1667.

HORNIMAN'S PURE TEA, "always good alike," Depositing is an event with perfection, and has obtained the Chinese passing off new-grown crown unknown leaves as the best. Sold in Packets, by Agents, in every town.

KINGSFORD'S OSWEGO PREPARED CORN, for Puddings, Custards, Blancmange, &c.
The original and genuine American preparation of Indian corn. Established 1840. No connexion or Imitator in the Trade. Sold by all Grocers, and Agents to the Trade.

GLENFIELD STARCH
awarded the Prize Medal, 1862.
This universal Starch is
USED IN THE ROYAL LAUNDRY,
and pronounced by her Majesty's Laundress to be
THE FINEST STARCH SHE HAS TRIED.
HER MAJESTY'S LAUNDRESS
declares it to be
THE BEST SHE HAS TRIED, and the above award, the highest of the numerous scientific merits of the age is the best proof of its purity.
WOTHERSPOON and CO., Glasgow and London.

COALS.—COCKERELL'S COALS, price 24s. cash, Central Office, No. 13, Cornhill, E.C.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, MARCH 28, 1863.

THE Greeks have been waiting with laudable patience until it should please some duly-qualified personage to offer himself as candidate for their vacated throne. "Everything comes to him who knows how to wait," says the French proverb. We are now authoritatively informed that England, having disposed of her own domestic business, has found time to apply herself on ce more to a solution of the Greek difficulty, and that she indicates a new candidate for the Grecian crown. To avail ourselves of another proverb, a Highland one this time, "If he is not Bren he is like Bren." The Bren in our Prince Alfred's he is brother to Prince Alfred's sister-in-law. The sailor-Prince of Denmark is now stated to be recommended by Queen Victoria to the Greeks. He is, as we all know, very young; but as youth was no objection on the part of the Greeks in the case of our own boy will—provided, in each case, the parents of present occasion. He is, moreover, a Protestant, as his beautiful sister was solemnly certified to be, on demand of Mr. Newdegate, by Lord Palmerston.

Presuming that the statement is authentic—and this point will probably be settled or added to in Parliament before these lines are read—we may observe that the arrangement is what the Lord Chancellor in "Bleak House" describes the appointment of the heroine to important office to be—namely, "the very best solution of circumstances in any case supposed to exist." Our Queen's advice is certain to have been well considered before it was tendered, and an exhaustive process has disposed of all the objections which arose in regard to other candidates. Denmark, in the first place, has no particular Oriental interests, except commercial ones, and is not a power whose fleets are to be reached by anything done in the Mediterranean or thereabouts. In the next place, Denmark is certainly not pledged to protect the Sultan of Turkey against any of his Christian friends; and if hereafter the Prince who, it is said, is to espo use the interesting Princess Dagmar should be called to the throne of Turkey, and assume "the sick man" is in articulo, there will be nothing to prevent the Danish King of Greece from improving his position by claims upon the estate of the moribund Mussulman. There will be a guarantee for wise and enlightened Government on the part of the Queen of the Seas and Isles. If he is recommended to his new situation by the Queen of England, whose Ministers, without interfering in Greek domestic affairs, or in any way exciting the jealousy of the other great Powers, will be supposed, always ready with sound advice in case of any difficulty. In fact, it would seem to us that all the advantages which the Greeks believed would accrue from the election of Prince Alfred will be obtained by their choosing the young sailor-Prince of Denmark, with the single deduction of any likelihood, in the present condition, between the two Royal houses. It may be hoped, therefore, that the Greeks will not be indisposed to accept the Danish Prince; and it may be presumed that all objections on the side of Denmark have been discussed and dispelled in the friendly conferences that have been held at Windsor Castle during the visit which has just terminated. This we are justified in taking for granted; for, though there was no ground under the feet of those who have lately been trying to prove in the House of Commons that our Government deluded the Greeks into the idea that Prince Alfred would accept their crown, such a charge would have real strength if Earl Russell should formally recommend a Prince whose advisers demanded anything from Greece that could not be conceded. We apprehend that the great Greek difficulty, the state of the finances of the country, has been, or will have by gravely taken in hand by the skilled financiers of England, and that some healthy scheme for enabling Greece to set herself right with her creditors, and to lay the basis for her future prosperity, will be one of the wedding presents made on the union of Denmark and Greece. This will indeed be to serve the Greeks in the very best way in which England can serve them.

France has doubtless been consulted; but as the Tuileries avowed no objection even to the candidature of Prince Alfred, other than which was found in treaty restrictions, it is difficult to understand that she can see any in the new proposal. Prince Napoleon has his wife's relations to attend to, and they are thought to tie somewhat nearer to France than Athens. Russia would have every reason to be satisfied with the proposition, even if the new matrimonial alliance, which would give her a direct interest in the welfare of the Royal family of Greece, should not take place for a few years. The first thing Prince Napoleon is to be the bride of the Cesarowitch, the recommendation of Queen Victoria would seem to be exactly what the Emperor Alexander would desire. What if diplomacy, for once, went a little way along with the wishes of the people of Europe, and that the plans by which the Danish family are to be elevated to so enviable a position before the world should comprise a means of doing justice to a noble and afflicted people who ought not to be forgotten amid the general joy! Suppose that Queen Victoria suggested to the Emperor Alexander that he should make happy not only his son but his Polish ex-subjects, and offer them something like a Constitution under the Regency of the Prince, and to be inaugurated with his marriage. That would indeed be "a revolution made with moderation," or rather with orange-flower water. The idea is so agreeable that we do not care to dispel it by a cold commonplace admission that such a scheme is improbable. We prefer to regard it as a likely project, in which case Royal arrangements will indeed have an interest not merely for Courts and for crowds, but for humanity itself.

CHURCH AND UNIVERSITIES.

The Bishop of London will hold his next General Ordination in St. Paul's Cathedral, on Sunday, May 31.

The Bishop of Ely will hold his next Ordination on Trinity Sunday, the 31st of May next.

The Memorial Church at Cawnpore has been consecrated by the Bishop of Calcutta.

The Bishop of London held a confirmation on Wednesday morning, at the parish church of St. Pancras, for that large parish and the district parishes belonging thereto.

The Rev. J. W. Williams, Rector of the Junior Department in Bishop College, Lancashire, has been elected, after eleven ballots, successor to Dr. Mountain in the Bishopric of Quebec.

The new church of St. John the Baptist, East Ham, was consecrated on the 19th inst. by the Lord Bishop of Rochester, as the result of the active exertions of the present Vicar.

The Lord Bishop of Oxford has given a lead for the enlargement of St. Thomas's Church, Heron Street, and has also forwarded a cheque for £100 toward the expense. A gentleman has promised to furnish the new chancel, which will cost about £300, at a cost of £600.

The Rev. Christopher Nevill, M.A., Vicar of Thorney, near Newark, has resigned his preferment on account of his inability to make use of some portions of the Book of Common Prayer. He is succeeded in his living by the Rev. J. P. Hopkinson, M.A.

Dr. Ellicott on Monday went through the ceremony of "confirmation" to the see of Gloucester and Bristol in the parish church of St. Mary-le-Bow, Cheapside. He was consecrated to his see on Sunday, in the cathedral at Canterbury; and Dr. Thomas, who has been appointed to the new see of Goulburn, South Wales, was also consecrated on Sunday.

The foundation-stone of St. Mary's Church, Hollingworth, was laid on Saturday week, by Mr. Nicholson, of Hyde House, in the presence of a large gathering of friends, collected by the peculiar interest of the event. Many of the workmen gave the day to the work, and received a recollect being appointed to by a circular headed "A shilling for a Church." This is the sole and single source of income. The Rev. Fred (wife of the Rev. J. A. Page, incumbent of Tintwistle, in which parish the new church is situated) has already raised £1000.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.—The Rev. E. R. Mantell, Rector of Grestwood, Lincolnshire, to be Texas of Stamford. Beckeries: The Rev. J. B. Coten to St. Alban's, Manchester. Bowes: The Rev. Edward Hopkins; Rev. J. Hall to Weston-upon-Trent, Derbyshire; Rev. E. Furry to Cricketh, Somerset. Bridgeman: The Rev. Wyatt Bridgeman to Bloxwich, Staffs. Rev. C. Cookson to Dallington, Northampton; Rev. G. Rose to Tywardreath, Cornwall; Rev. G. E. Bridges, Wonston, Winchester. Burnaby: The Rev. W. K. Richardson to Archbishop Denison's Chapel, Regent-street. Chepmanye: The Rev. J. Chepmanye to Ashby-de-la-Zouch, Leicestershire. Clarke: The Rev. Charles Percy-Clarke, Vicar of Barrow (only son Rev. Percy Clarke, author of the previous Number) to Worthington, Leicestershire; Rev. J. Clarke to St. Mary-at-Hill, Eastcheap. Cooper: The Rev. Septimus Cooper to Rev. T. King to Little Malvern, Worcestershire; Rev. E. B. Stott to Middleton in Teesdale, Durham. Dodd: The Rev. Arthur Dodd to Lamarsh, Essex. Dodson: Preston, Lancashire; Rev. C. P. Cuxson to Crowthorp, Worcestershire; Rev. H. A. Collier to Long Sutton, Somerset; Rev. J. E. Jackson to Rev. Rees Davenham, Kent; Rev. S. Craven to Heckington, Lincolnshire; Rev. C. Richards to Kidlington, Oxfordshire. Dale: Dodi to Ferrybridge, with Brotherton, Kent; Rev. J. W. Maltby to Clifton, with Glapton, Notts; Rev. T. W. Dale to Brotherton, Lincolnshire; Rev. J. Dale to Ashwell, Rutland. Ellis: Walton, Essex; Rev. J. M. Ward to Kemsley, Worcester; Rev. H. G. Ellis to Bramford, Suffolk; Rev. B. W. Wolseley to Trinity Church, Louth, Lincolnshire.—Guardian.

THE VOLUNTEER MOVEMENT.

THE REVIEW AT BRIGHTON ON EASTER MONDAY.

We are authorized to state that the arrangements made for War has approved of a review of volunteers taking place at Brighton on Easter Monday. Applications from corps intending to attend the meeting must be made in the form prescribed in Volunteer Circular, No. 37, of the 27th of August, 1862, for the sanction of the Secretary of State for War, and sent to the War Office on or before the 1st proximo, after which no further applications will be received.

Officers commanding corps should state in their letters of application the number of volunteers who will proceed by rail to Brighton on Easter Monday; 2nd, the number who will march past at the review; 3rd, the number who will return by rail on the evening of Easter Monday; 4th, the number who will return by rail on the evening of Easter Tuesday.

Under regulations which will be published by the railway authorities, tickets will be issued by them on the 30th inst. to Brighton, available for the day and night p.m., the same day, tickets unappropriated by corps may be returned to the secretary of the railway.

THE NATIONAL RIFLE ASSOCIATION.

The following are the conditions of distribution of new rifles to competitors for the Queen's prize at the Wimbledon meeting of the National Rifle Association for 1863:—

1. That new rifles shall be issued to the competitors for the Queen's Prize, in exchange for Government rifles held by them as members of the corps to which they belong.

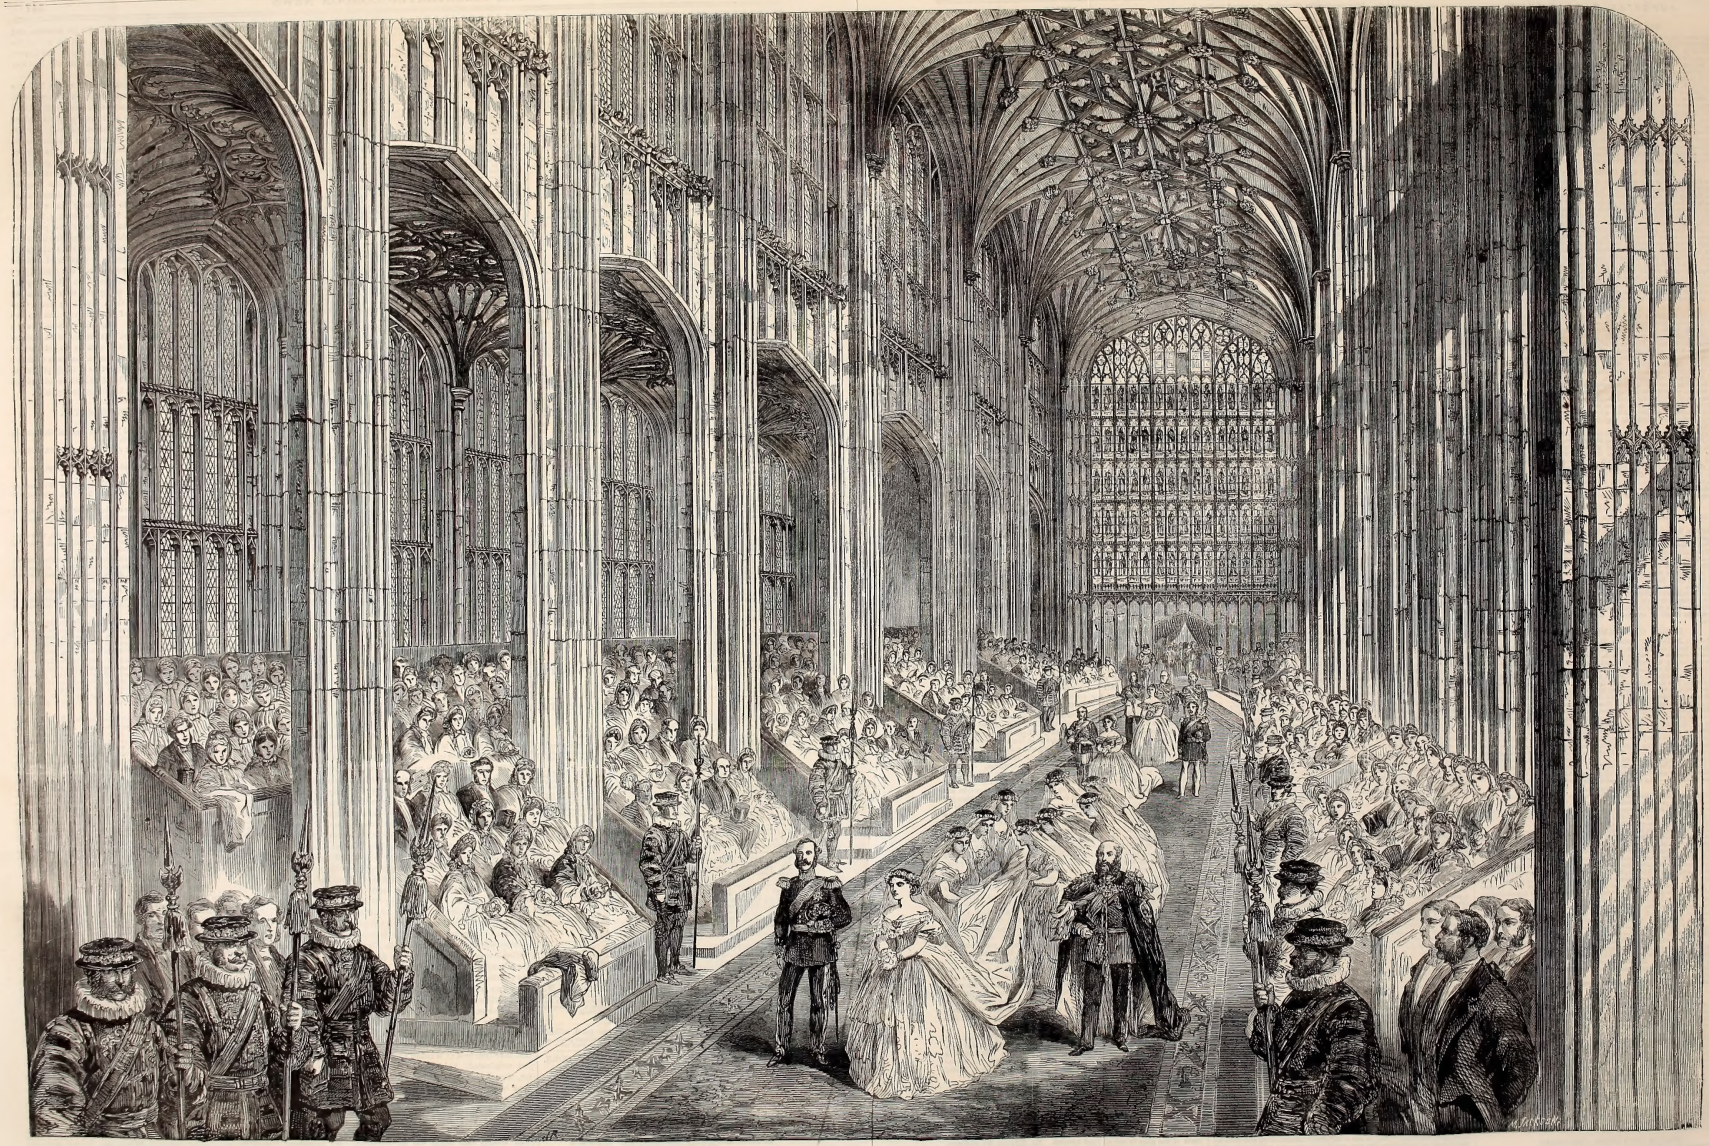
2. That upon the issue of the new arms to competitors the rifles previously held by them shall be immediately delivered into the stores of their respective corps.

3. That the rifles thus returned shall be retained in store by commanding officers, and held available for issue to such of the new arms that may become unserviceable, in abatement of the ten per cent of new arms now allowed in exchange for old arms, or for the service of any new members that may join the corps.

4. That commanding officers of corps shall forward a report to the War Office that the arms have so been returned into store, and a certificate that they shall be kept clean, and not leave the armoury or be used for any other purpose until required for the above services.

5. That the distribution of, and all arrangements connected with, the new rifles, be carried out by the National Rifle Association; and, further, that the association shall forward a report to the War Office, Pall-mall, giving the names of the competitors to whom the arms are issued and the corps to which they belong.

6. That all new rifles supplied by the War Department for the above-named service shall bear a distinctive mark on the barrel, so that they may be at any time identified.



THE ROYAL MARRIAGE: THE BRIDE PASSING UP THE NAVE OF ST. GEORGE'S CHAPEL

THE NAVE OF ST. GEORGE'S CHAPEL

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—MONDAY.

The Consolidated Fund (£10,000,000) Bill passed through Committee.

RECOGNITION OF THE SOUTHERN STATES.—The Earl of DERBY called attention to the question of acknowledging the Government of the Southern Confederacy, and strongly advocated the justice and the expediency of our adopting that policy.—The Earl RUSSELL said he was sure every honest man in the country must feel a sense of anxiety that her Majesty's Government should not enter on the policy of putting an end to the destruction of life in America if they could do so justly and usefully; but he felt persuaded that at the present moment any such step would be premature, and therefore of no advantage and would be attended on their part would be productive of no good. If a similar resolution to the one which had been moved in the House of Commons by Mr. Gregory, the Government of the day would be unhesitatingly declined, and would create in the minds of the people of the country a feeling of irritation and annoyance; and if they were formally to recognise the Southern States such a step would be justly regarded as one of a very unfriendly character towards a Government with which this country had hitherto preserved amicable relations. Our duty at present was to maintain the existing relations with our perfectly neutral position, whatever might be our conviction that the people of the South were struggling against the tyranny and power of the American Union was final and irrevocable.—No further discussion ensued.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer stated that he would make his annual financial statement on Thursday, the 16th of April.

The Mutiny Bill was read a third time and passed.

The Marine Mutiny Bill passed through Committee.

The Tuchet Peerage Bill, as amended, was reported and agreed to.

POLAND.—THE TREATY OF VIENNA.—Mr. HENNESSY put a question to the noble Lord at the head of the Government as to the nature of the obligations with respect to Poland involved in the Treaty of Vienna.—Lord PALMERSTON stated in reply that all the engagements the right of which was maintained to the other evening, that Great Britain had incurred, under the Treaty of Vienna, no obligation to declare war against the Russian Government for the purpose of enforcing the stipulations of that treaty in reference to the Government of Poland. But he readily admitted that it was the duty of her Majesty's Ministers should address the most earnest representations in their power to the Russian Government, with a view to bring about considerations of the condition of the unhappy Polish nation; and he believed that, when the time came for publishing the communications which they had entered, it would be found that they had not neglected their duty.

THE ARMY ESTIMATES.

The House went into a Committee of Supply upon the Army Estimate, pursuing the consideration of the vote for the Land Forces, commencing with the item for the manufacture of warlike stores, and of Sir H. Willoughby's amendment, to take the item at £400,000 instead of £600,000. Sir H. Willoughby's amendment, at 4 o'clock, became attached to the office occupied by Sir William Armstrong.—After a long discussion, in which Mr. Lindsay, Mr. Ayrton, and Mr. Bentinck took part, on altering the system of inspection at the gun factories at Woolwich, suggesting that the inspection should not proceed on the same scale as at present, the Committee divided, when the amendment was negatived by 94 to 66, and the original vote was agreed to.

The following vote was likewise agreed to :—£698,969 for military store establishments and expenditure for warlike stores.

On the vote of £810,941 for works, buildings, and repairs at home and abroad, Mr. HASTED moved a reduction in the sum of £100,000.—Mr. PEACOCKE seconded the motion, which was opposed by Lord ELCHO, and negatived by 72 to 62. The vote was agreed to.

The following votes were also agreed to :—£172,201 for Military Education, £80,441 for Surveys and Topographical Department, £58,125 for Miscellaneous Services, £21,777 for Administration of the Army, £15,363 for rewards for Military Service, £77,782 for pay of General Officers, £464,895 for pay of Reduced and Retired Officers, £2,731,317 for Pay and Allowances and Compensation Allowances, £32,843 for Pensions and allowances to Wounded Officers, £35,176 for Pensions, Allowances, and Gratuities to Soldiers, and for Compensation Allowances, &c., £37,786 for Disembodied Militia. These concluded the Estimates.

The report of the Committee of Supply was brought up and agreed to.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—TUESDAY.

The Births and Deaths Registration (Ireland) Bill passed through Committee.

The Salmon Exportation Bill, and the Consolidated Fund (£10,000,000) Bill, were read a third time and passed.

Earl Grey having presented petitions from inhabitants of Australia praying for alterations in the Constitution of the Australian Colonies, the Duke of Newcastle said that the applications made for the formation of distinct colonies in Australia were so numerous that he thought it unadvisable to comply with them till until the different districts should become more settled and more populous. The progress of explorations, however, was such as to have enabled him to state that he believed it would be a short time be desirable to create the territory to the south of the Gulf of Carpentaria into a distinct colony under the name of Albert River and the other on the Victoria River. But, in the meantime, the former district would be connected with Queensland, and the latter to South Australia.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—TUESDAY.

The Tobacco Duties Bill was read a third time and passed.

Mr. Harvey Lewis moved for returns of the persons killed and injured in the metropolis on the 7th and 10th of March.—Mr. Ayrton, while he saw no objection to the return, for the numbers killed and injured at the funeral of the Duke of Wellington, did not think returns were agreed to.

LAW OF PARTNERSHIP.—Mr. SCHOLEFIELD moved the second reading of the Partnership Law Amendment Bill, the object of which was to alter the law so as to extend the principle of limited liability by allowing individuals to enter into partnership with others without compromising their whole private property. The hon. gentleman said that, if the House would read the bill a second time, he would not think it necessary to move to commit it.—Mr. Serjeant BUCKNALL stated several objections to the bill, and moved as an amendment that it be read a second time that day six months.—The amendment was seconded by Mr. Ayrton.

Mr. M. GIBSON said that as Parliament had already sanctioned the principle of limited liability, he could not but support the principle of the present bill. The bill, subject, however, to any modifications that might become necessary.—Mr. MAJOR supported the bill.—Mr. T. BARING said that he thought there was no need to sanction further legislation in this direction.—Sir H. CAIRNS also opposed the bill.—The Solicitor-General for Ireland supported the bill.

After a few words from Mr. HUBBARD in reply, who complained that the Chancellor of the Exchequer had not given the House an opinion of his arguments,

The House divided, and the resolution was rejected by 118 to 70.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—WEDNESDAY.

The Partnership Law Amendment Bill was referred to a Select Committee.

The Inclosure Bill was read a third time and passed.

THE SALMON FISHERIES.—Mr. HUSSEY MACGREGOR moved the debate, which was set down on the 4th inst., on the motion for the Committee on the Salmon Fisheries (Ireland) Act, which Lord Fermoy had moved for the appointment to the effect that the measure should be referred to a Select Committee.

Mr. MAGUIRE said Mr. Lawless now proposed that the measure should be committed, instead to a confirmation of the rights which the lower river proprietors possessed to under the Act of 1842. Lord Fermoy had proposed to give to the owners of each of the two contending interests, who were to be added by a legal assessor, the power to veto the bill. The question was a most important one, and it would be well if the House, for the purpose of discussing this suggestion, would agree to its committal, instead of the adjournment of the debate. A great principle was involved in the present question, and in the course of which several members expressed their belief that the controversy which had been raised could only be terminated by a compromise, and that it was by the Government such a settlement of the difficulty could be best effected. The debate was not concluded at a quarter to six o'clock, and was, therefore, again adjourned.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—THURSDAY.

The Tobacco Duties Bill was read a third time and passed.

GREAT EASTERN RAILWAY (METROPOLITAN STATION AND BRANCHES) BILL.—On the adjourned debate on the second reading, the Earl of ELLESMERE BURY said he thought the best speech he could make on the subject would be to read sect. 17, p. 6, of Colonel Yelland's report. He moved that the bill be read this day six months. After considerable discussion, the second reading of the bill was negatived without a division.

ECCLESIASTICAL PATRONAGE.—The Lord CHANCELLOR introduced a bill, the main object of which was to authorise the sale of about 200 livings in his patronage with the view of improving the position of parish churches, to extend and repair them, to build parsonages, schools, &c. It was also intended by the measure to augment the smaller livings by applying to them the surplus obtained from the sale of the advowsons. The bill was read a first time.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY.

The Marquis of Hartington took the oaths and his seat for North Lancashire on the re-election.

Several notices were given in reference to questions to be brought on after Easter.

The Civil Service Estimates were under consideration during a great portion of the evening.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—FRIDAY.

ROYAL COMMISSIONS.—The Duke of NEWCASTLE moved the commission to sive following Bills :—Consolidated Fund (£10,000,000), Tobacco Duties, Malt Duty, Naval Coast Volunteers, Militia Ballots Suspension, and Mutiny Continuance.

The Confirmation of Benefices Bill was read a second time.

The House adjourned to Tuesday, at half-past 5.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—FRIDAY.

THE DISTRESS IN THE MANUFACTURING DISTRICT.—Colonel WILSON PATTEN asked the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether he had any information relating to the manufacturing districts, wishing to know from him officially his opinion of the state of those districts.—Sir G. GREY said that if the hon. and gallant gentleman had asked him the question yesterday he could have given an answer with perfect confidence; but he was sorry to inform him that the disturbances in Staffordshire and elsewhere were entirely aggravated. He had received a letter from the Mayor of Wolverhampton only this morning, he had received letters from persons, who were well informed on the subject, stating that the disturbances were assuming a more serious form, that their predecessors had taken together have done during the present century. They regret to learn that their tenure of Covent Garden Theatre is so near at an end; but they are not without comfort in the reflection that they have left behind them a name which will be remembered with gratitude.

Last week we gave the substance of Mr. Mapleson's prospectus of his arrangements for the ensuing season as lessee of Her Majesty's Theatre. A subscription of the Royal Italian Opera at Covent Garden has just been put forth by Mr. Gye. Like the other, it is long and more serious than an ordinary play-bill, and accordingly we have not room for its space. The Covent Garden season begins on Tuesday, the 7th of April, and "Masaniello" will be given on the opening night. The subscription is for twenty-four nights, divided into three series of four nights each week. The company will include nearly all the principal artists of the Royal Italian Opera—Sophie Cruvelli, Didiée, Battu, Dotti, Rudersdorff, Tagliafico, Carvalho, and Priola; tenors—Tamberlik, Mongini, Naudin, Lorini, Rossi, and Neri; baritones and basses—Ronconi, Faure, Graziani, Formes, Tagliafico, Zelger, and Champi. A considerable number of names are mentioned; but these must be taken with the usual uncertainty that attends such lists. The most favourite operas belonging to the repertoire of the theatre will be given. Of the novelties which have not been performed for several years, among which are "La Gazza Ladra," "L'Elisir d'Amore," and "Il Barbiere," Mlle. Titiens will appear. The new will be produced, entirely new in England—Verdi's "La Forza del Destino" and Gounod's "Faust." Mr. Costa, we need scarcely add, continues to hold his post of director of the music and leader of the orchestra. Mr. A. Harris will be acting manager, and the scenic department will be in the hands of Mr. Grieve, and Mr. Telbin, jun.

The Philharmonic Society gave their second concert of the season, at the Hanover-square Rooms, on Monday evening. Its quality may be judged from the following programme :—

	PART I
Sinfonia in B flat, No. 91		Haydn.
Recits. ("Gionne alfin")	Miss Louisa Pyne (Le Nozze di Figaro)	Mozart.
Concerto, violin, in G major, No. 11. Mr. H. Blagrove		Spohr.
Aria ("I'm not a single")	Miss L. Pyne (The Bohemian Girl)	Balfe.
Aria ("Ah! what a night")	Mr. Santley (Don Giovanni)	Weber.
	PART II.
Sinfonia in C (Jupiter) No. 6		Beethoven.
Aria ("Ah! perfido")	Miss L. Pyne (accompanied on the Piano-forte by "May Song.")	Beethoven.
Wedding March	Mendelssohn-Bartholdy	Mendelssohn.

Here is a superb selection of music, and equally superb was the performance. Haydn's graceful, melodious symphony, and Beethoven's colossal work (Jupiter) were the delights of the magnificent orchestra. Mr. Blagrove made good his claim to be regarded, par excellence, as the English violinist of the day. Among his own countrymen he has no equal; among his foreign rivals he has no superior. His execution of Spohr's beautiful concerto was received with the warmest demonstrations of admiration and delight. Miss Louisa Pyne made a great power in a variety of styles—in Mozart's grace and tenderness, in Balfe's brilliancy and Beethoven's passion, in Mendelssohn's expressive melody. All her performances were applauded with enthusiasm. Altogether, the concert was one of the best and most successful given by the Philharmonic Society.

THE MUSICAL SOCIETY OF LONDON gave their second concert of the season on Wednesday evening, the 25th inst., at St. James's Hall. It was the intention of the Directors of the Philharmonic to give a further proof of the society having arrived at the conviction that it is better to give a few compositions of the highest character than to strive to bring forward novelties. The programme of this concert was made up of a selection from the works of Haydn—a symphony—and by Weber and Schumann, and vocal pieces by Mozart and Meyerbeer. Schumann's overture to "Manfred" may in some measure be called a specimen of the style of composer which he has little known in this country; but it does not appear that the attempt to make him popular in this country is to receive English aid to be attended with success. Haydn's symphony, which began the concert, is one of his productions composed before the symphony had attained to that proportion and power to it by Mozart and Beethoven. But, though these old compositions of Haydn, "the father of symphony," have not the grandeur of the later works of his successors, they have never been excelled in that beauty and freshness which give to the "Surprise" symphony its charm. Mozart's last symphony in C minor, which began the second part, is one of his earliest compositions, written when he was little beyond boyhood; and though made up of the same forms of writing (the German, the Italian and his Scottish symphonies), will always be interesting as a specimen of the manner in which the overture was first and long chosen. Schumann's, introduced at the end of the first part, proved an entire failure, and was received with a general yawning. The concluded the concert, is the slight prelude to his slightest opera. The vocal performers were Mdme. Rudersdorff and Mr. Weiss. The former sang a scena from Mozart's "Idomeneo," and Meyerbeer's operas, "Andromeda," which showed little of the genius of the author of "Robert le Diable" and "Huguenots;" and Weber's comic air from the same composer's "Seraglio;" and they sang a duet from Meyerbeer's "Crociato in Egitto." It is to be regretted that all the orchestral pieces were most admirably executed by the magnificent band under the direction of their able conductor, Mr. Mellon.

The annual report of the Society for the year 1862 was distributed in the hall—a well drawn-up and satisfactory document, which gives a very favourable view of the affairs and progress of this large and important body.

Mdlle. Carlotta Patti, sister of our favourite Adelina, has just arrived in Paris, and is engaged at the Opéra Comique. She is a native, and where she enjoys the highest reputation. Her voice is described as "the highest soprano ever known, reaching to the unprecedented height of sharp as in altissimo!" and her execution is said to be as wonderful as her voice.

THE THEATRES.

HAYMARKET.—Changes have at length been initiated in the bill of this theatre. "The Little Treasure" has been substituted for the burlesque of "Rasselas," and played during the week. The casts of the pieces is not without interest. Mr. Selbern, for instance, plays Captain Walter Maydenbush, and Miss Ellen Terry has made a decided hit in the character of Ellen Lovell. The lady is very much intelligent and lively, and will probably become an acquisition to the theatre. We are glad to see Mr. Bothern in a new part, and willingly bear witness to the success with which he added to the whole eccentricities of the Captain those that are due to his own peculiar genius and style of acting. He kept his audience in perpetual laughter. He has also appeared as Lord Dundreary every evening. On Wednesday next, it is announced, Mr. Sothern will take his benefit, and conclude his present engagement at this theatre.

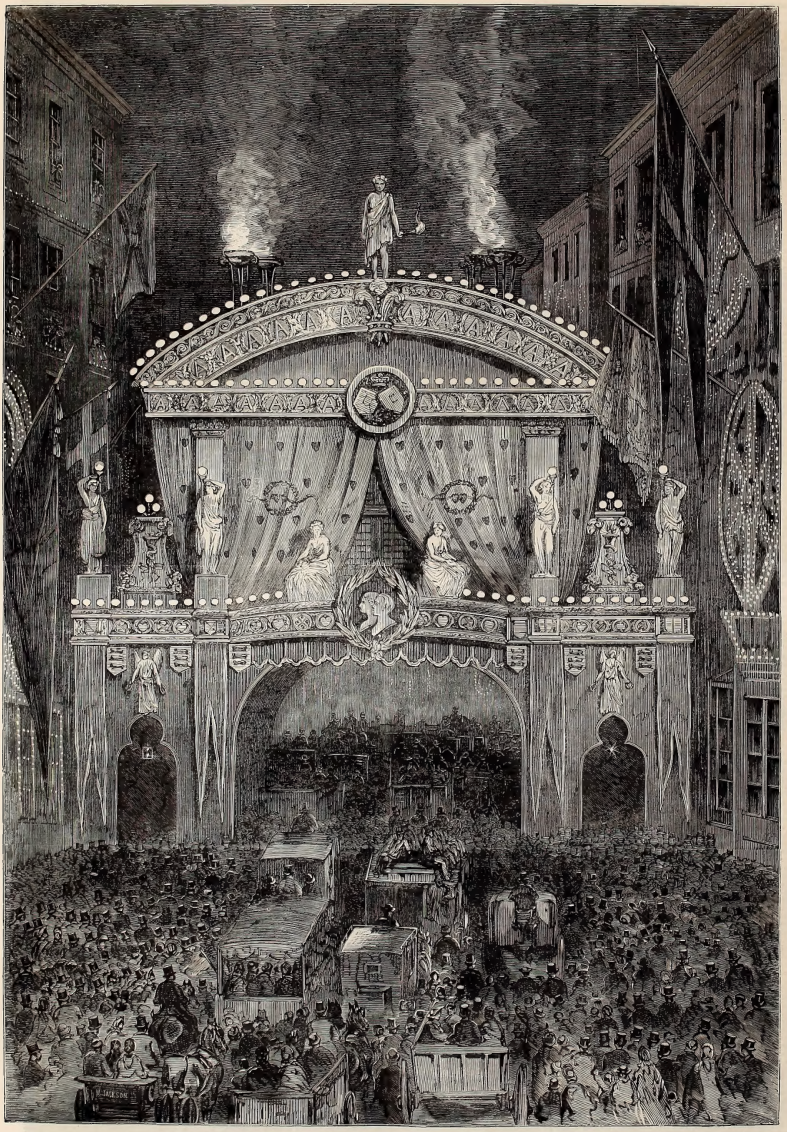
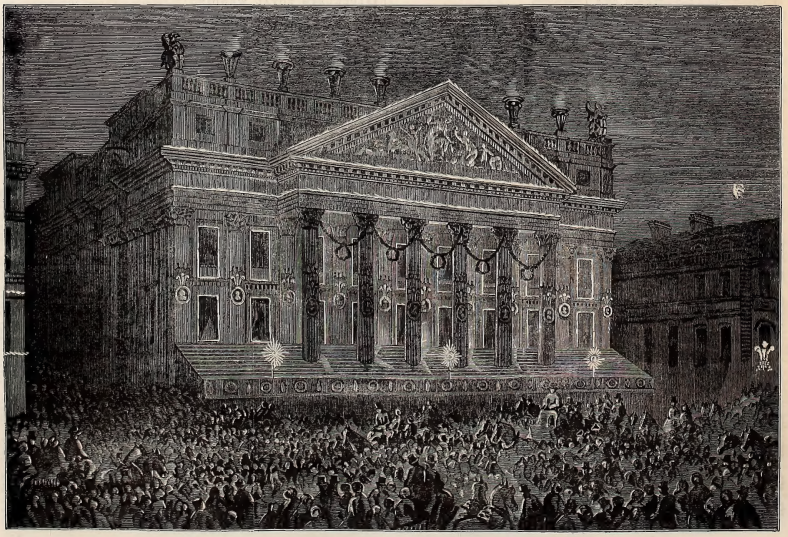
OLYMPIC.—A new piece was produced on Thursday week. It is an adaptation by Mr. Horace Wigan of a French comedy, by M. Victorien Sardou, and entitled "Le Papillon." Mr. Wigan has entitled it "Flutter," and he has given it to us in a new name he has not so much altered the nature of "le papillon" as thoroughly to have Anglicised it. The scene is placed, indeed, at Great Malvern, and Flutter and the other characters are English; but the action attributed to them is altogether foreign, and even on the Continent is only barely possible. Here, then, is the material of an English vaudeville, which Flutter (Miss Latimer), who has left her husband in London, and regards her existence from him as a sort of widowhood. We need not say that Mr. Flutter (Mr. H. Neville) enfures the test but ill. From the window of his club he remarks the figure of a lady mysteriously approaching him more than an ordinary interest, and whom therefore he follows in a cab to a railway station and succeeds in accompanying in the same carriage, and in the same direction. Unfortunately accessible to though the lady herself has only spoken in Italian. He is delighted, however, into the fancy that his adventure is unexpected, and willingly accepts a hint let fall by her supposed maid that he should make an assignation with the lady, and, on arriving at their destination, finds her coming under some pulpers which are described, and which, indeed, form the avenue to his wife's villa. The supposed lady's-maid is really his wife's aunt, and the supposed Italian Countess her schoolfellow, whom she has met by chance in the train. As in a vaudeville may be easily imagined, he is not the very pleasant, and he is glad to be led by his aunt, Amelia Howard (Miss Hughes) into the house, though on condition of his being conducted blindfold up the stairs, that he may continue to make him believe that he has travelled a great distance, though he has only been led in and out of the various rooms of the house. His wife participates in the plot and presents her own hand to him as that of the foreign Countess. Hereupon he protests, as he always does when he is found out, is surprised



ILLUMINATION OF TEMPLE BAR.

ST. PAUL'S, FROM THE RIVER, ON THE NIGHT OF THE 10TH INST.



ILLUMINATION OF THE MANSION HOUSE.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths, is Five Shillings for each announcement.*

BIRTHS.

At Cardiff, on the 11th inst., the wife of William Sage, Esq., C.E., of a daughter.

On the 20th inst., the wife of John Fadmore, Esq., the Lindens, Bromley, of a son.

MARRIAGES

On the 24th inst., at Trinity Church, Upper Chelsea, by the Rev. G. Wilmot Horton, M.A., Rector of Gartmoidsham, Yorkshir, Agent Rear Boyes, Commander R.N., only surviving son of the late Genry F. Boyes, Esq., and the Lady Amelia Boyes, to Henrietta Sarah, daughter of the late Sir Charles Des Voux, Bart., and Lady Des Voux.

On the 18th inst., at St. Mary's, Paddington, by the Rev. Henry Lettsom Elliot, brother-in-law of the bride, Charles A. H. Cochrane, Esq., of Dogden, to Julia Burton, third daughter of the Rev. John W. Buckley, Incumbent of the above-named parish. No cards.

On Saturday, the 21st inst., at All Souls' Church, Langham-place, by the Rev. Robin B. Wood, M.A., the Earl and Countess of Galmborough, with Miss Alice Irwin, daughter of the Rev. Lord Roe, Esq., late Dean of the Dotenon Bank at Beyrut. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Canon Ellis, Lelund Noel. The bridesmaids were Miss Pa'ua Roe, sister of the bride; Miss Stuart, and the Honourable Miss Irwin. Among those present were the Countess of Galmborough, Viscountess Gerard, the Hon. Miss Jocelyn, and Mrs. T. Wood, Lord Dorre, Hon. Miss Shaw Lefevre, Viscount and Viscountess Molerton, Hon. Mrs. Bagot, Sir Stuart Stuart, Bart., Lieut. Hon. Gerard Noel, Hon. Henry Noel, Mrs. Noel, Rev. F. Chalmers, Mr. and Mrs. Noel Buxton, Mr. Cyril Graham, Hon. Stringe Norton, Mr. Lee Dentsley, Mr. E. Bowes, Mr. Wodmer, Mr. A. Bridgeen, Viscount Powerscourt, Hon. Maurice Wingfield, Hon. Lewis Wingfield, Viscount Canterbury, Lord Torwell and Lady Victoria Burton, Lady Grey, Hon. and Rev. Leland Noel, &c. The bride and bridegroom left early in the afternoon for Hyde Hall, Herts, the seat of the Earl of Essex.

DEATHS.

On the 20th inst., at Sunnyside Villa, Hornsey-lane, Highgate, Edith May Leighton, youngest daughter of George Leighton, aged 10 months.

On the 21st inst., after a few hours' illness, Hannah, wife of Joseph Bevington, Esq., of Cave Dale, near Bedford, aged 78.

On the 15th inst., at St. Helen's, in the county of Dublin, Frances Maria Viscountess Gough, in the 76th year of her age.

PLATE.—A. B. SAVORY and SONS, Goldsmiths and Jewellers, 11 and 12, Cornhill, London, invite the Bank. The best wrought SILVER SPOONS and FORKS, Made expressly for Family Use, and warranted of the Standard Quality of Sterling Silver. Fiddle pattern, plain or bright engraved.

	Per Dozen.			Per Dozen.
12 Table Spoons	£1	7	0	£2	5	0
12 Table Forks	1	7	0	2	5	0
12 Dessert Spoons	1	1	0	1	12	0
12 Dessert Forks	1	1	0	1	12	0
12 Tea Spoons	0	15	0	1	0	0

Tea Kettles, Coffee Pots, &c. &c. Queen's Pattern. Oz. £ s. d.
12 Table Spoons and Forks ... 81 ... 40 16 0
12 Dessert Table ... 71 ... 7 6 0
12 Table Spoons ... 30 ... 15 0 0
12 Dessert Table ... 30 ... 13 10 0
12 Tea Spoons ... 14 ... 3 10 0
1 Pair Sugar Tongs ... 3 ... 0 15 0
1 Gravy Spoon ... 11 ... 2 15 0
1 Soup Ladle ... 14 ... 3 10 0
1 Sauce ditto ... 3 ... 0 14 0
1 Salt Spoon (gilt) ... 1 ... 0 5 0
1 Fish Slice (pierced) ... 7 ... 1 15 0
1 Pair Sugar Tongs ... 1 ... 0 5 0
1 Pair Sugar Tongs ... 1 ... 0 5 0

A pamphlet is published, with 300 Engravings, as a guide to the Stock in Silver, containing Illustrations of Tea and Coffee Services, Tea Trays, Cruet Frames, Liqueur Stands, Dish Covers, and other articles suitable for presents or ornamental plate for private use or presentation; also, of the best and most recent Dessert, Breakfast, and Silver watches, clocks, and jewellery. Gratis on application, and post-free to any part of the United Kingdom.

Re-silvering, replating, repairing, and making, a work in connection with large Illustrations of Plate kept ready for presentation.

Nos. 11 and 12, OXFORD-STREET.

MAPPIN AND COMPANY'S ELECTRO-SILVER PLATE and CUTLERY.

MANUFACTORY—QUEEN'S CUTLERY WORKS, SHEFFIELD.

Full Size.	Fiddle.	Thread.	King's.	Lily.
12 Table Forks ...	£1 7 0	£1 12 0	£2 0 0	£2 15 0
12 Table Spoons ...	1 7 0	1 15 0	2 10 0	3 0 0
12 Dessert Forks ...	1 1 0	1 7 0	1 15 0	2 5 0
12 Dessert Spoons ...	1 1 0	1 7 0	1 15 0	2 5 0
12 Tea Spoons ...	0 15 0	1 0 0	1 5 0	1 10 0

MAPPIN and COMPANY'S TABLE CUTLERY.

All Balance Handles.	Ivory Handle.	Medium.	Superior.	Transparent Ivory Handle.
Any Table Knives ...	£0 13	£1 0 0	£1 15 0	£2 0 0
1 doz. Dessert ditto ...	0 10	0 16 0	1 10 0	1 16 0
1 Pair regular Meat Carvers ...	0 4 6	0 7 0	0 10 0	0 15 6
1 pair extra size ditto ...	0 5 6	0 8 6	0 12 0	0 18 0
1 Pair Poultry ditto ...	0 4 6	0 7 0	0 10 0	0 15 6
1 Pair Cheese ditto ...	0 4 6	0 7 0	0 10 0	0 15 6
Complete Service ...	£3 0 0	£3 15 0	£5 0 0	£6 7 0

NO CHARGE FOR PLATE-CHESTS for Orders of £5 and upwards.

Illustrated Catalogues post-free.

CAUTION.

MAPPIN AND COMPANY beg to return their best thanks for the favours conferred on them for the daily-increasing support they have received since the opening of their Establishments in and to respectfully request that all orders may be sent to them by post may be addressed to

OXFORD-STREET,

Nos. 11 and 12, Oxford-street.

MAPPIN AND COMPANY

have received numerous complaints of the inconvenience of a small shop, admitting their premises, having been recently opened, from obvious motives, by another firm of a similar name and address.

Please observe carefully the address,

Nos. 11 and 12, Oxford-street.

MILITARY CANTEENS for Officers, £10 each. Oak Case, containing the following Service:—

PLATED SPOONS AND FORKS.
	Brought forward ...	£2 15	0
6 Table spoons ...	0 18	0	Gravy spoon ...	0 7	0
6 Table forks ...	0 18	0	Pair sugar tongs ...	0 3	0
6 Dessert spoons ...	0 15	0	Salt spoons ...	0 2	6
6 Dessert forks ...	0 15	0	Mustard spoon ...	0 1	6
6 Tea spoons ...	0 6	0	Table knives ...	0 10	0
1 Egg spoon ...	0 1	0	Cheese knives ...	0 0	9
1 Soup ladle ...	0 5	0	Pair of meat carvers ...	0 7	0
1 Pair fish carvers ...	0 4	0	Pair of chicken carvers ...	0 3	6
1 Sauce ladle ...	0 2	6	Pair of cruets ...	0 3	6
1 Mustard spoon ...	0 1	6	Oak Chest ...	1 0	0
Carried forward,	£3 11	6	Complete ...	£10 0	0

MAPPIN BROTHERS, Manufacturers to the Queen, Nos. 220, Regent-street, and 65 and 66, King William-street, London Bridge. Some prizes charged at both houses as at their Manufactory, Queen's Plate and Cutlery Works, Sheffield.

Observe the address.

THE EXHIBITION of ALUMINIUM and ALUMINIUM BRONZE

is NOW OPEN at 56, Old Bond-street.

TWO THOUSAND SPECIMENS illustrating the application (Occasionally) of these Interesting Metals will be Exhibited on the Opening of MAPPIN BROTHERS' NEW ROOMS, 220, REGENT-STREET.

Admission by Cards.

DR. DE JONGH'S

(Knight of the Order of Leopold of Belgium)

LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL,

prescribed by the most eminent Medical Men throughout the world as the purest, most efficacious, and most effective remedy for CONSUMPTION, CHRONIC BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, COUGHS, RHEUMATISM, GOUT, GENERAL DEBILITY, and all DISEASES OF THE SKIN, SCROFULA, INFANTILE WASTING, AND RICKETS.

Is the most powerful, yet the most easily taken, and is incomparably superior to every other variety.

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

DR. LETHEBY,

Medical Officer of Health to the City of London.

"Dr. De Jongh's Oil is acknowledged that Dr. de Jongh's Light-brown Cod Liver Oil has great therapeutic power; and, from the observations I have on doses of it being a pure and unadulterated article."

DR. LAWRANCE,

Physician to H.R.H. the Duke of Saxe Coburg and Gotha.

"I invariably prescribe Dr. de Jongh's Oil in preference to any other variety, as I have found it more uniformly pure, efficacious, and MILD & MANUFACTURED EXPRESSLY TO SUIT THE DELICACY OF THE INVALID'S MEDICINE IS INSTRUCTED."

ON THE JOURNEY LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL is preferred to its more dark shade, as it, of course, is of a more pale, delicate, and delicious taste, and has all the medicinal properties, WITHOUT WHICH NONE CAN POSSIBLY BE GENUINE, be respectable Chemists and Druggists.

SOLE CONSIGNEES:

ANSAR, HARFORD, and CO., 77, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.

NEW MUSIC.

THE NEW CANTATA.

HARVEST HOME. By G. B. ALLEN. Performed at the Concert of the Vocal Association, with the greatest success. Complete Piano and Vocal Score, 12s.

Also, the Overture, Septet, and Chorus for Orchestra. Price and Selected Parts on application.

Season Ticket Parts, 6d. each.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE NEW CANTATA.

HARVEST HOME. Soprano Song. "Thou the Spring hast blessed." Price 2s. 6d.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE NEW CANTATA.

HARVEST HOME. Tenor Song. "Hark! the echo of the vale." Price 2s. 6d.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE NEW CANTATA.

HARVEST HOME. Contralto Song. "My own sweet Mary." Price 2s. 6d.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE NEW CANTATA.

HARVEST HOME. Baritone Song. "The Mill by the Stream." Price 2s. 6d.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

ON AIRS FROM THE NEW CANTATA.

HARVEST HOME QUADRILLE. By Coote. Beautifully Illustrated. Price 4s.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

ON AIRS FROM THE NEW CANTATA.

HARVEST HOME. Valse Rustique. By EMILE DE CEVE. Beautifully Illustrated. Price 4s.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE DUKE'S MOTTO. By F. MUSGRAVE. With splendid Illustrations and Autograph of H. Nicolas. Price 2s. net.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

PRINCE OF WALES'S MARRIAGE.

NUPTIAL MUSIC and WEDDING MARCH. Composed expressly for the Marriage ceremony by REDFIELD SOLOMON. Price Solo, 4s.; Duet, 4s.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

H. W. GOODBAN'S PRINCE of WALES'S BRIDAL MARCH. A very effective and difficult arrangement. Price 4s. Also, by the same Composer, the Prince of Wales's Wedding Quadrille. Price 4s.

THE SPINNING-WHEEL (copyright), as sung by Mr. Kennedy, from Talgrove and Sons' Golden Edition of the Choicest Scotch Songs. Price 1s. Paper cover.

PATERSON and SONS, Music-sellers, Edinburgh and Glasgow.

DREAMLAND. By VIRGINIA GABRIEL. Performed at the Concerts of the Vocal Association with the greatest success. Price 2s. net. Also, the Orchestral Parts, 12s. net.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

VIRGINIA GABRIEL'S NEW CANTATA.

DREAMLAND. Complete, price 12s. "Dreamland" is one of the most charming works for a chamber solo ever."—Soprano ... ... 2s. 6d.
"Sing, sing, sing."—Contralto ... ... 2s. 6d.
"Hark! hark! the lark."—Quartet, Soprano and Tenor ... 2s. 6d.
"Light through darkness."—Baritone or Contralto ... ... 2s. 6d.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

LUTZ'S OPERETTA.

BLONDE OR BRUNETTE. Now performing with the greatest success at the Egyptian Hall. "As I lay under the linden-tree." Tenor Song. 2s. 6d.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

LUTZ'S OPERETTA.

BLONDE OR BRUNETTE. The Words by F. C. WOOLER. "The Bells of Ballingary" is the popular song. 2s. 6d.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

NOTICE.—HALF-PRICE.—All Music, and the best Works on the Art, at HALF-PRICE. Lists post-free for postage stamps or Post Office order.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

TINNEYS PRINCE OF WALES QUADRILLES. Price 4s. Illustrated with Likenesses of the Prince in Colours.

HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

Introducing the Danish National Air,

COOTE'S PRINCESS ALEXANDRA VALSE. Illustrated with a splendid Portrait in Colours, respectfully inscribed to H.R.H. the Princess of Wales.

HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

The Latest Excitement.

COOTE'S FAUST QUADRILLE. Illustrated. Price 4s. Solo or Duet. One of the Composer's happiest ideas; sparkling and fascinating."—Court Journal, May 4, 1878. New Bond-st.

The best set of Lancers are

COOTE'S CURE LANCERS. Price 4s. "The Composer's Lancers are the best."—Court Journal, May 4, 1878. "Merry as Schoning."—The Queen," and other popular Airs. A real merry set. By the most successful Composer of the day. Always redemanded.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

COOTE'S DOMINO GALOP. Price 3s. Always redemanded.

HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

COOTE'S VILLAGE-BELLS POLKA. Price 3s. "Is full of melody, and will be sure to become popular in the orchestra."—Court Journal, May 4, 1878. "Great fantasy by the same Composer.

Continued Success.

TINNEY'S SCHOTTISCHE WOOD VALSE. Price 4s. Solo or Duet. Performed by all the Bands in the United Kingdom.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

BUCKLEY'S BEAUTIFUL SONGS.

COME WHERE THE MOONBEAMS LINGER. Words by Mrs. Hemans. "Another exquisite ballad by Buckley, which promises to become popular."—Court Journal, May 4, 1878. "Lord by long the moon falls."

HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

PLODDING THROUGH THE RAIN. Price 2s. 6d. Written by HARRY BUCKLEY. The most telling Song since "Sailing." "Plodding through the rain."

HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

NEW BALLAD.

SIGHING FOR THEE, by F. BUCKLEY. Price 2s. 6d. Is pronounced by the Court Journal "Beautiful."

HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

ENGLAND AND DENMARK. Marches, Waltzes, Quadrilles, and Galop. Beautifully Illustrated with Portraits of the Royal Family. Price 4s. net.

HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, NEW BOND-STREET.

KUHE'S SILVER MOONBEAMS. Price 2s. 6d. The most favourite piece by this celebrated Composer.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

TWILIGHT REVERIE. Romance for the Piano. By C. H. RIVIERE. Price 4s. Also, by the same Composer, the Prince of Wales's Waltz. Price 4s. net.

HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

ROBERT WILLIAMS, 19, Old Bond-street, Westminster.

Just published.

SIX STUDIES, of moderate difficulty, for the Pianoforte (Illustrated in Mrs. Wm. Pitt). By H. C. DEACON.—R. WILLIAMS, 19, Old Bond-street, W.

OLD ENGLAND'S FUTURE KING. New Patriotic Song. By JOHN BLOCKLEY. Composer of the Popular Songs "Thinking of Thee" and "Across the Sea." Sung by encore.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

NEW MUSIC.

HENRY FARMER'S VIOLIN SOLOS, with Accompaniments for Pianoforte.

No. 1. Home, Sweet Home.
" 2. Last Rose of Summer.
" 3. Blue Bells of Scotland.

London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S GEORGIANA VALSE. Price 4s. each, Solo and Duet.
Orchestra, Parts for Hire.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S NEW PIANOFORTE TUTOR. "This is decidedly the best, simplest, and most instruction-book for the pianoforte we have seen."—Musical Review.—London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER.—PROSERPINE GALOP. Illustrated in Colours by J. BRANDARD, Reg. Price 4s. London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S CHRISTMAS QUADRILLE. Price Solo, 2s.; Septet, 2s. 6d.; Full Orchestra, 3s. 6d. "Contains many pleasing tunes and unrivalled popularity."
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars.

THE ORIGINAL LANCERS, Arranged by HARRIOTT. With additional new Tunes. Price 2s.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S ALEXANDRA WALTZ. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S ALBERT EDWARD QUADRILLES. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S PRINCE OF WALES' WEDDING QUADRILLE.
Price Solo, 4s.; Duet, 4s.; Septet, 2s. 6d.; Full Orchestra, 3s. 6d.
JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S "GUY MANNERING" WALTZ. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.; Duet, 4s.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

MARRIOTT'S "MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM" WALTZES. Price Solo or Duet, each 4s.
Orchestra, 3s.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

BRIGHTEST HOPE OF ENGLAND'S GLORY. Dedicated to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. National Song. Price 2s. net. Arranged in Sacred Song, for Sunday evening Choir.

J. WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and Cheapside.

FLEURETTES MUSICALES. By CHARLES COOTE. Price 4s. each.

1. The Maids of Merry England
2. The Wind and the Wave
3. Merrily, merrily over the Brine
4. Sunrise in the Forest
5. Beside the Fairy Fountain
6. Sultry Grey

7. Sauna Lucia
8. The Nightingale's anner
9. The sun goes down and smiles
10. The Fairy Dance in Sunny Pet
11. Good news from Home

Price 1s. each.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside.

THE WALTZ OF THE SEASON. So much admired in the pantomime of "Beauty and the Beast," performed at the Princess's Theatre Royal, Crown Gardens. By MONTGOMERY. Price 4s.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

THE DANISH NATIONAL HYMN. By J. T. STONE. Fantasie and Brilliant) introducing the Danish National Hymn, Price 4s. net. Arranged in Sacred Song, for Sunday evening Choir.
JOSEPH WILLIAMS, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

THE DANISH NATIONAL SONG. For the Pianoforte. By Dr. SELLE. Brilliant and effective. Price 2s. net.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

BLOCKLEY'S ROYAL PROCESSION MARCH. Respectfully dedicated to the Princess Alexandra on her Entering Bridge during the Royal Procession, beautifully Illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD. Orders should specify "Blockley's Royal Procession March."
ADDISON, 210, Regent-street; and all Musicsellers.

BLOCKLEY'S ROYAL WEDDING MARCH. Composed in honour of the Marriage of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. Beautifully Illustrated in Colours, by BRANDARD, expressly Dedicated to Royal Wedding March."
ADDISON, 210, Regent-street; and all Musicsellers.

BLOCKLEY'S NEW BALLAD, "When Spring Comes Back Again." With Portraits of Prince and Princess of Wales. Song or Duet, 4s.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, and all Musicsellers.

"ENGLAND'S CHOSEN BRIDE." (The Bonny Rose of Denmark.) Composed by J. P. KUHE. Illustrated with Portraits. Is. Inscribed by special permission to the Lord Mayor of London.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, and all Musicsellers.

"WE GIVE HER TO THY KEEPING." Song. Composed by J. P. KUHE. Is. Illustrated by Brandard.
Beautifully Illustrated with Likenesses of Princess of Wales in her Wedding Dress.—ADDISON, 210, Regent-street; and all Musicsellers.

BLOCKLEY'S "ROYAL BRIDAL GALOP." Expressly Illustrated in Colours, by Also the ALEXANDRA GALOP. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s. each. Orchestra in Colours.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

BLOCKLEY'S PRINCE OF WALES'S BAND MARCH. Also, Blockley's PRINCESS ALEXANDRA BAND MARCH. Illustrated in Colours. Portraits in Colours.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

JERUSALEM THE GOLDEN. Sacred Song. Words of very ancient date, adapted to a beautiful Hymn, beautifully Illustrated, 2s. 6d. Composed by ALEXANDER LEE. Sung by Mr. Sims Reeves.—CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

THE LOST CHORD. Sacred Song. Composed by SIDNEY. Sung by Mr. Sims Reeves. Price 2s. 6d.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

I'LL WEEP FOR THEE EVER. By the Hon. Mrs. NORTON. Price 2s. 6d. Beautiful Melody of Ballad. Words and Music of rare intelligence.
A. HAMMOND and CO., 214, Regent-street.

THE MAIDEN'S PRAYER. Ballad. Sung by Miss Louisa Pyne. Composed by THOMAS BADER. Price 2s. 6d. "A melody of rare intelligence."—Court Journal, Feb. 22, 1879.—A. HAMMOND and CO., 214, Regent-street.

JERUSALEM THE GOLDEN, the celebrated Hymn, with permission of the Bishop of Aberdeen) set to a Procession Solo by BUXTON RICHARDS. Price 4s.; Duet, 4s.; Septet, 2s. 6d.; Full Orchestra, 3s. 6d.
JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 11, Holborn-bars, and 123, Cheapside.

THOSE EVENING BELLS.—Just published, RICHARDS' new arrangement of this beautiful Melody. By BUXTON RICHARDS. Price 4s. London: A. HAMMOND and CO. (late Ashdown), 214, Regent-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' MOST POPULAR PIECES.

These evening bells ...	Piano Solo, 3s. ; Duet, 4s.
Jessamine the gallant ...	3s.	4s.
Les Cloches de Corneville ...	3s.	4s.
Robert le Diable ...	3s.	4s.
A Christmas Prize ...	3s.	4s.
Robert le Diable ...	3s.	4s.

Post-free at half-price.—A. HAMMOND and CO., 214, Regent-street.

G. A. OSBORNE'S MOST POPULAR PIECES.

Home, sweet home ... Piano Solo, 3s. ; Duet, 4s.
Bonnie Dundee ... Piano Solo, 3s. ; Piano Solo, 4s.
Rhineland, my Rhineland ... Piano Solo, 3s. ; Duet, 4s.
Dal ma matilde ("Mind be Kitty") ... Piano Solo, 3s.
Post-free at half-price.—A. HAMMOND and CO., 214, Regent-street.

NEW MUSIC.

ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S LIST of NEW PIANOFORTE MUSIC PUBLICATIONS.

DUO BLESS THE PRINCE OF WALES—THE PRINCESS OF WALES. An additional verse suggested to the Royal Bride, may be had without additional charge. Price of the song, with choral ad lib. accompaniment, 4s. net. Duet, 4s. net. Septet, 2s. net.

THE BURLINGTON GAVOTTE-BOOK. No. 1, for Piano, 2s. net. Contents:—Gavotte, Minuet, Gavotte, Minuet, 2 parts, 6d. net.

THE FAIR DANE WALTZES. By Lamothe. Price 4s.

THE FAIR DANE QUADRILLES. By Lamothe. Price 4s.

THE BATTLE OF WATERLOO. Fantasia. By Vincent Wallace. Finely illustrated (by kind permission of the London Photographic Company).

NEW DANCE AIRS. Arranged for Piano or Harmonium by Charles Coote.

ALL'S WELL and THREE MINUTES GONE AT 4.30. Piano Duets. Each 2s.

ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S QUARTERLY CIRCULAR OF NEW MUSIC, gratis and post-free.

ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S PIANOFORTES, in Walnut and Rosewood Cases.

London: ROBERT COCKS and CO., New Burlington-street, and Foubert's-place, Regent-street. Publishers to the Queen and the Royal Family.

Manufactory for Pianos: Messrs. BURNETTONS and CO., Musical Manufacturers to the Queen, Upper-ground, Surrey-side, Blackfriars-road, &c., to his Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General of India.

THE ARMOURER OF NANTES. Libretto by J. V. BRIDGEMAN. Music by CHARLES JOSEPH.

"A flower is lonesy, by fairy hands planted." Song by Mr. Santley ... ... 2s. 6d.
"Fresh and free." Song by Mr. Maas ... ... 2s. 6d.
"Where was you rose-tree, loved one." Song by Miss Lulu Veck ... ... 2s. 6d.
"O Love, thorn like a red heat love." Song by Mr. Maas ... ... 2s. 6d.
"Hark, hark, sweet is heart." Song by Miss Louisa Pyne ... 2s. 6d.
Bendelo's Pantasia ... ... 2s. 6d.
Osborne.—Gems from ... ... 2s. 6d.
Richards.—"O Love, thou art like a red heat love" ... 2s. 6d.
Kuhe.—Fantasia on ... ... 2s. 6d.

ADDISON and LUCAS, 210, Regent-street, London.

NEW NATIONAL HYMN—THE PRINCE OF WALES. Words by ALFRED LAIRD. Music by GEORGE LINLEY. Price 3s. Separate chorus parts, price 2d. each.

METZLER and Co., 37, 38, 39, and 40, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE ROYAL BRIDAL WALTZES. By CHARLES MILLARD. Beautifully Illustrated. Price 4s.

HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE ANGLO-DANISH VALSE. By E. L. HIME. Price 4s.; orchestra, 3s. Great at half-price. The Composer's best Waltz. "Is full of melody, and will be sure to become popular in the orchestra."—Court Journal, May 4, 1878. "Great fantasy by the same Composer. Always redemanded.

HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE ANGLO-DANISH QUADRILLE. By E. L. HIME. Solo, 4s.; duet, 4s.; orchestra, 3s. Sweet as Waltz. "Is full of melody, and will be sure to become popular in the orchestra."—Court Journal, May 4, 1878. "Great fantasy by the same Composer. Always redemanded. The Composer's best Quadrille. "Is full of melody, and will be sure to become popular in the orchestra."—Court Journal, May 4, 1878. "Great fantasy by the same Composer. Always redemanded. It was sung by him with the greatest success at the Egyptian Hall.

HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

MAGDALENA, CRASE THY WEEPING. By FESTA (the VENEGALIA, A.D. 1601. The most interesting Sacred Song ever published. Pathetic, devotional, and beautiful. It enraptures the sympathies of all into the chaste of Sacred Music. Price 4s. net. Also, by the same Composer, 12 Sacred Songs, 4s. net.

OUTRAMS and Co., 27, Baker-street.

Twenty-fifth Edition, with Portrait of Charlotte Pines,

LA PRIÈRE EXAUCÉE (The Prayer Granted). Sacred Song. By Princess CHARLOTTE CZARTORYSKA. RADAMOWSKA. Pianoforte (as in No. 1, Duet, 2s.—"LA PRIÈRE EXAUCÉE" (The Prayer Granted). Sacred Song. By Princess CHARLOTTE CZARTORY

NEW BOOKS.

Companion Volumes to "Things not Generally Known."

THINGS TO BE REMEMBERED IN DAILY LIFE. With Personal Experiences and Recollections. By JOHN TIMBS, F.S.A. Cloth, in 6d.—KENT and Co., Paternoster-row.

This day, at all the Libraries, in 2 vols. 8vo, with Illustrations, price 30s.

THE POLISH CAPTIVITY: an Account of the Present Position and Prospects of the Poles in the Kingdom of Poland, and in the Polish Provinces of Austria, Prussia, and Russia. By H. SUTHERLAND EDWARDS, Author of "The Romance of Music" and "Lives of Celebrated Airs."

"This book will be read with deep interest."—Athenæum.

London: T. C. NEWBY, 30, Wellington-street, Strand, W.C.

COMPANION TO THE BALLROOM. Just published, a NEW GALOP, entitled the Clear Description of Quadrilles, Lancers, &c. is now ready.

To be had of MR. MITCHELL, Royal Library, 33, Old Bond-street; and at her residence, 14, Granham-street, New Road-street. Price 3s. by post, 36 stamps.

CHEAP EDITIONS OF POPULAR TALES.

Just ready, Third and Cheapest Edition, post 8vo, 6s., cloth,

ARDEN: LIFE'S WITHIN A NOVEL. By JOHN SAUNDERS.

"We have seldom met with a book so thoroughly true to life, so deeply interesting in its detail, and so touching in its simple pathos."—Morning Post.

Also, now ready, Second Edition, post 8vo, 6s., cloth,

THE SHADOW IN THE HOUSE. A Novel. By JOHN SAUNDERS.

"Refinement of taste, purity of moral tone, are pretent as characteristics of this interesting and powerful work."—Sun.

London: LONGMAN, BROWN, and Co., 1, Stationers'-hall-court, E.C.

On March 31, price 1s., ornamental boards,

THE PEARL OF THE ANDES. By GEORGE ALFRED LAWRENCE, Author of "Life on the pelican prairie this work is unrivalled."—London: WARD and LOCK.

Third Edition, price 7s. 6d., coloured plates; 4s. 6d. plain,

THE HIVE AND THE WIFE. By One with Experience in her own Poultry-yard. By Mrs. FERGUSON BLAIR, of Rednock-castle, Perthshire. The Second Edition sold 3000 prizes at various poultry shows. This volume contains a practical treatise on poultry, with coloured plates of the Hive and the Wife.—London: WARD and LOCK, 158, Fleet-street, E.C., and Simpkin and Co.

Price 6d. Monthly,

THE ENGLISHWOMAN'S DOMESTIC MAGAZINE.

Contents of No. XXXVI (APRIL).—1. Constance Cherby. Chap. XLI. to XLV. 2. Fashions. Costumes, Bonnet, Cap, Hair, Ornaments and their Properties. Chap. IV.—Hints on Dress. 3. Hints on Health. Chap. XXXVI.—Hints on Home. Chap. VIII.—The Lady's Wife. A Novel. By JOHN HAMILTON REYNOLDS. Sketches from the Sea in her season. Chap. X.—An Old Acquaintance in a New Dress. 4. The Book of the Month. Sylvia's Lovers; by Mrs. Gaskell. 5. The Music of the Month. 6. The Fashions. 7. The Work Table. Crochet Edging, Knitted Edging, and Simple Knitting. 8. Cookery.

A Coloured Fashion-Plate, and a pretty Coloured Slipper Pattern of Roses and Buds.

Also, Part 6, price 1s., of Parts for useful and economical Needlework, Illustrated by Full-size New Models, with back and front view, and full descriptions of each.

A Supplement of the "Englishwoman's Domestic Magazine" is published with each Part, containing a Full-size Pattern of some article of Dress and Needlework; a Full-size Pattern of some size and a large Sheet in Crown-quarto, containing the New Colours and Designs for Netting Silk, &c.

A Specimen Number of the Magazine sent post-free for 6d.

A Specimen of the Needlework Pattern, 1s.

London: JOHN DICKS, 148, Strand, W.C.

Price 6d. Monthly,

THE BOY'S OWN MAGAZINE. Contents of No. IV. (APRIL).—1. The Battle Horse. 2. Cocoa and Pedestrians. By J. G. Edgar. 31. The Reptile House in the Regent's Park. By Dr. J. G. Wood, M.A., F.L.S. 41. The Wanderer Boys. 51. The Adventures of Reuben Davidger, Seaman. Chap. XXXIII. to XXXVI. 61. Sea Stories. By W. H. G. Kingston. Chap. XXXIII. to XXXVI. 71. Stories of the World. No. V. A Dashing Voyage from the Thames to the Tyne. VI. The Young Mutineers. VII. The Knave of Diamonds. VIII. The Boy Captive. VIII. Scamander. IX. The Rise of the Grimbs. X. The Story of Jack Ketch. XI. The Boy Pirate. XII. The Boy Slave. 81. Curiosity Corner. 91. Boys' Sports and Pastimes. XII. Glimpses into Fiction. XIII. Upon the Death of the Lord Protector (Poetry). XIV. Notes. 101. Part 4 Boards, &c. Every Article Illustrated with Splendid Engravings from designs by eminent Artists. A Number sent post-free for 7 Stamps.

London: J. S. VIRTUE, 16, Ivy-lane, E.C.

Price 6d. Monthly,

THE BOY'S OWN MAGAZINE. Contents of No. IV. (APRIL).—1. The Reptile House in the Regent's Park. By J. G. Edgar. 31. The Battle Horse. 41. Cocoa and Pedestrians. By J. G. Wood, M.A., F.L.S. 51. The Wanderer Boys. 61. The Adventures of Reuben Davidger, Seaman. Chap. XXXIII. to XXXVI. 71. Sea Stories. By W. H. G. Kingston. Chap. XXXIII. to XXXVI. 81. Stories of the World. No. V. A Dashing Voyage from the Thames to the Tyne. VI. The Young Mutineers. VII. The Knave of Diamonds. VIII. The Boy Captive. VIII. Scamander. IX. The Rise of the Grimbs. X. The Story of Jack Ketch. XI. The Boy Pirate. XII. The Boy Slave. 91. Curiosity Corner. 101. Boys' Sports and Pastimes. XII. Glimpses into Fiction. XIII. Upon the Death of the Lord Protector (Poetry). XIV. Notes. 111. Part 4 Boards, &c. Every Article Illustrated with Splendid Engravings from designs by eminent Artists. A Number sent post-free for 7 Stamps.

London: J. S. VIRTUE, 16, Ivy-lane, E.C.

Price 6d. Monthly,

LAND REGISTRY.

In one vol. 8vo, price 8s., free on receipt of stamps,

THE NEW LAND TRANSFER AND REGISTRATION OF TITLES ACT. With Short, Clear, and Explanatory Notes. By T. W. DOWNING SMITH, Esq., Barrister-at-Law, Lincoln's-inn, Barrister-at-Law.

"Mr. Brown appears to have read the language of the law with a very critical eye, and to have discovered all its difficulties, and he has explained them in a manner which is equally as lucid as how they may be overcome."—Law Times.

"If anybody wishes to know more than is here set down of the working of the Land Transfer and Land Transfer Act, and the expenses thereof, and to read also thereon the commentaries of a practical lawyer, he must look for them in the future, for we have no more to say upon the subject, and whenever you find he may wish to ask, there he will find it lucidly, fully, and most intelligently answered."—Solicitors' Journal. "All The Year Round."

V. and R. STEVENS, SONS, and HAYNES, 26, Bell-yard, London, W.C.

BOY'S JOURNAL, with Tales by Captain MAYNE REID, Dr. Gordon Stables, Lieutenant Wraxall, G. P. Hodgson, and others. Articles on Tobacco, Chemistry, Cheese, Cricket, and other subjects. Price 1d., or 7 Stamps. Edited by M. NICHOLS, 180, Leicester-square. Free for Eleven Stamps. French stamps or Post Office orders.

Sixth Edition, price 1s., with 14 Lithographic Plates,

A GUIDE TO THE USE OF ALPHABETS AND ORNAMENTS. By W. R. HARRISON.

"Excellent."—Builder. "Good and full."—Athenæum.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, gilt, post-free, 32 stamps, with Lithographic Plates,

THE ART OF ILLUMINATING. By ALBERT H. HAMMATT, Instructor to the Royal Family. London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street.

Just published, price 1s., with 11 Lithographic Plates,

ALPHABETS AND DESIGNS OF DIFFERENT PERIODS, for Illuminators and Artists. By A. WORDSWORTH. J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street.

Price 6d., by post 8d., with Twenty-one Lithographic Plates,

STAINED WINDOWS, by the Improved Method of Transparency, Originally performed at small cost.—London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street.

THE TILLER. No. 3. How to make a Model of Windsor Castle; with the Marriage Procession of the Prince of Wales. 16 Coloured Engravings, post-free for seven stamps. No. 1. A Model Village, post-free for 7 stamps; No. 2. A Model Farmyard, post-free for 7 stamps.

H. G. CLARKE and Co., 252, Strand, W.C.

Price 1s., post-free, 14 stamps, 8vo, cloth, 16s., post-free.

HOMŒOPATHIC DOMESTIC MEDICINE. By J. LAURIE, M.D. No medicine is prescribed without the fullest directions for its administration, and the whole treatment of each form of disease is carefully adapted to the use of domestic surgeons, and nonmedicines. Also, just published, an Epitome of the above, Price 6d., post-free 7 stamps. A Case of Diabetes, reduced to the former, price 10s.; and to the latter, 2s.

LAURIE and SMITH, 3, New Cavendish-st, and 5, 6, Fleet-ch-yard.

Sixty-first Edition, bound, price 1s., post-free.

HOMŒOPATHIC FAMILY GUIDE, containing Plain Directions for the Domestic Treatment of Common Forms of Sickness in Men, Women, and Children. By LAURIE and SMITH, 3, 5, 6, Fleet-ch-yard, and 3, New-st, Oxford-st.

Price 1s., post-free, 14 stamps,

HOMŒOPATHIC TREATMENT OF INDIGESTION, Constipation, and Piles. By W. MORGAN, M.D. Contents: Indigestion, Constipation, Piles, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Flatulence, Sickness, Loss of Appetite, Sour Eructations, Heartburn, Acidity, Nervousness, Nervous Headache, Nervous Irritability, Hysteria, Hypochondriasis, Spasms, Cramp, Palpitation, Sleeplessness, Nervous Debility, Nervous Trembling, Nervous Tremors, Nervous Weakness, Nervous Exhaustion, Nervous Prostration, Nervous Apoplexy, Nervous Paralysis, Nervous Epilepsy, Nervous Tetanus, Nervous Hysteria, Nervous Hypochondriasis, Nervous Spasms, Nervous Cramp, Nervous Palpitation, Nervous

NEW MUSIC.

WEDDING MORN.

DENMARK QUADRILLE. Composed entirely on Danish National Melodies. By D. GODFREY, B.M. Grenadier Guards. Illustrated with a Photograph of H.R.H. the Princess Alexandra. Price 4s.

N.B. This Quadrille was performed by the Bands of the Guards on March 10.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

ALBERT LINDAHL'S WEDDING WALTZES. Just published, with a full-length Portrait, beautifully printed in colours, of her Royal Highness the Princess Alexandra. Price 4s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S WEDDING QUADRILLES on the CHRISTY MINSTRELS' MELODIES. 16th Edition of this very popular work. Price 3s.; Duet, 4s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S ROYAL WEDDING MARCH, for Pianoforte, splendidly Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

GOODBAN'S WEDDING BELLS, for the Pianoforte. Illustrated in Colours. Price 3s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE PRINCESS OF WALES. A Fantasia on Danish Melodies for the Pianoforte. By KUHE. Price 3s. Illustrated with a fine Photograph of her Royal Highness the Princess Alexandra, by Hering.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE PRINCE OF WALES: a Fantasia on Welsh National Melodies for the Pianoforte, by BENEDICT; performed by Arthur Sullivan at the Concert given at Cambridge House by command of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. Price 4s. Portrait of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales by John and Charles Watkins, of Parliament-street, Illustrated in Colours, 2s. 6d. extra.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S PRINCE OF WALES'S GALOP. A new Edition. Beautifully Illustrated with a Portrait of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales by BATTEN. Price 3s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE PRINCESS ALICE WALTZES, with full Portrait, in colours, of the Princess in Highland Costume. By T. BROWNE, Author of the Aspen Polka, &c. Price 3s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S SOLDIER'S POLKA. A New Edition of this splendid Polka is just published, with a Portrait of his Royal Highness the Prince of Cambridge in SCARLET, in full Uniform. Price 3s.; Duet, 3s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S KATHLEEN MAVOURNEEN WALTZ. Founded on the favourite Song of Crouch's Harmonicon. "The waltz of the season." Beautifully Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S WEST-END POLKA. A new Edition of this charming Polka, splendidly Illustrated in Colours, with Portrait of the Princess of Wales.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NAVA'S DANISH NATIONAL SONG and HYMN. Arranged for the Pianoforte. Beautifully Illustrated by HALL. Price 3s. 6d.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' COMPLETE EDITION for the PIANOFORTE. The best, the newest, and most part of all Instruction Books containing elementary instructions, with Progressive Lessons and Exercises, and a Selection of the most progressive Pieces by the best modern composers, price 1s. each. N.B. A list of Brinley Richards' Popular Pieces will be sent on application to

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' JUANITA. This popular Song is arranged as a very easy and effective drawing-room Pianoforte piece. Price 3s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' MARAQUITA. This popular Song is arranged as an easy and effective drawing-room Pianoforte piece. Price 3s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' GOD SAVE THE QUEEN. "As a drawing-room piece, we are disposed to class 'God save the Queen' one of Mr. Richards' most striking achievements."—Review. Price 3s. 6d.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S NATIONAL MELODIES FOR THE PIANOFORTE.

No. 1. "The Minstrel Boy." No. 2. "Scotch Airs." Price 3s. each.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S SEMIRAMIDE. Grand Fantasia on Airs from Rossini's favourite Opera, for the Pianoforte, in his popular Operatic Series. Price 3s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S MASANIELLO.—Just published, a Grand Transcription for the Pianoforte on Airs from the charming Opera. Price 4s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

C. H. OSBORNE'S POPULAR AIRS, arranged for the Pianoforte in

The Bridge and Dee.
Bate Brimmond. 3s.
Bonnie Dundee. 3s.
Bonnie Dundee. 3s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

TREKELL'S SWING LILY BELLS. Morceau de Salon for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

TREKELL'S LA VOIX CELESTE. Reverie for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

TREKELL'S LA BELLE MARIETTE. Valse for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

ALBERT LINDAHL'S New Piece, the MIDNIGHT BELLS. Popular Arrangement for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S NEW TWENTY-GUINEA PIANOFORTE, with check action, in French walnut-wood and full compass. This Instrument has only just been brought to completion, but the success which has attended it in the hands of the leading artists who have tried it, and in the lowest price pianoforte it has the very best check action, the full compass; is made in a hard and durable wood, and is of very superior price of furniture as well as a perfectly satisfactory pianoforte. Messrs. Chappell and Co. have every confidence in recommending this Instrument to purchasers for successful performance. The advantages to practice to be gained on a good pianoforte, with a perfect touch, will be found incalculable, and the price is so low as to be within the reach of by the best machinery in a part of France where skilled labour is plentiful and cheap.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN PIANINO. The only Pianino in which the Prize Medal was awarded.—A very elegant Pianoforte, of small size, the full compass, check action, and most perfect touch, admirably adapted to small rooms, parties, and for practice, and which will be found to be the best and cheapest Pianoforte ever made solely and all the latest improvements.

Price, in mahogany, rosewood, or walnut, 25 and 26 guineas. A great variety may be seen at

CHAPPELL and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ENGLISH MODEL PIANOFORTE, 25 guineas, is unanimously preferred by the leading lovers of the Broadwood—its equal in every respect. This Model will be found the most perfectly satisfactory Instrument, at a moderate price. The action is of the same simple description as that in the Broadwood Pianoforte, especially adapted to the country where the more complicated mechanism is undesirable in many of the tuners. In elegant rosewood case, with full compass, check action, and all the latest improvements in 86 guineas, price 25 guineas; in walnut, 26 guineas.

Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BOADWOOD, COLLARD, and ERARD. The best Pianofortes of every description, including all the newest improvements, for SALE or HIRE, on the most favourable terms, by the sole agent for the above manufacturers at the new Illustrated Rooms of CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW MUSIC.

ALFRED TENNYSON'S WELCOME TO ALEXANDRA, set to music (with the Poet's sanction) by HOWARD GLOVER, and sung by Mr. Santley. This beautiful setting of Tennyson's song is worthy of the national event it is meant to celebrate. Illustrated with the Royal Portrait of the Princess Alexandra. Price 4s.

BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

KUHE'S DANISH HYMN, for the Pianoforte. Illustrated with the Royal Danish extant of the Princess Alexandra. Price 3s.

BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

MISS GODDARD'S New Fantasia, CAMOENS, Fantasia on Welsh Airs by Benedict, composition of the Princess of Wales, and Fantasia on Danish Melodies. Price 4s. Published this day by BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

HENRY SMART

FLOATING LEAVES. A plaintive and characteristic Song. Sung by Madame Patey at "The Lady of the Lea." Price 2s. 6d.—BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

VIRGINIA GABRIEL.

DREAM, DEAR DREAM. A very beautiful Cradle Song for contralto and mezzo-soprano voice. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

CLARIBEL.

THROUGH THE JASMINE. New and Popular Song by Claribel, Author of "Five o'Clock in the Morning."

Published this day by BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BOW-BELLS POLKA. By FRANK MUSGRAVE. Illustrated in Colours. Price 3s. Two most popular Polkas by this composer.

BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' PORTUGUESE HYMN, an arrangement for the pianoforte of "Adeste Fideles" and suspension in the Chapel Royal." Price 3s. Just published.

BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

NORDMANN'S SICILIAN MARINERS' HYMN, as Three Duets for Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello. "The Ancient Hymn" and "Adeste Fideles." Price 3s. each.—BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

THE POLISH PATRIOTIC HYMN, as sung by the Insurgents in Poland. Now first published in full, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, by Count Lasinge. This is the only authentic edition of the National Hymn.

BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

THE GOLDEN HARVEST. A series of 12 easy Duets, arranged as short and moderately easy pieces, by ALBERT LINDAHL.

1. Harvest Song.
2. Shepherd and his Dog.
3. Reapers' Song and Dance.
4. Town without Inhabitants.
5. My Native Home.
6. The Village Fair.
7. Return from the Harvest Field.
8. Town without Inhabitants.
9. National Hymn.

BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

THALBERG'S ART OF SINGING applied to the Pianoforte. Twelve Books of the Favourite Numbers as performed at the Audit-rium Concerts. With the Introductions and Cadenzas by the Composer. Price 2s. each. Invaluable Works for Students and Amateurs. Price 2s. 6d.

BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BOOSEYS' PIANOFORTE CLASSICS. A Selection of classical sound music, forming the following works at one-fourth their original price—viz., 2s. each.

1. Beethoven's Sonatas, Vol. 1.
2. Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony.
3. Beethoven's Sonatas, Vol. 2.
4. Mendelssohn's Sonatas (complete).

500 SONGS FOR ONE SHILLING. Published this day, BOOSEYS POPULAR VOCALIST, containing the words of Five Hundred Songs, and Indexes of First Song and Ballads (arrias and duets) by all the most celebrated authors. Price 1s. 6d.—BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

14 SACRED SONGS in BOOSEYS' MUSICAL CABINET, No. 74, with Pianoforte Accompaniments. The favourite compositions of Balfe, Benedict, Blumenthal, Meyerbeer, Ayre, &c., includes the favourite Song, "Jerusalem the Golden." Price 1s. 6d.—BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

20 SACRED COMPOSITIONS FOR THE PIANOFORTE, by the greatest Masters, in BOOSEYS' MUSICAL CABINET, No. 75. Price 1s. 6d.

BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

24 OF SIR HENRY BISHOP'S GLEES in Vocal Score, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, price One Shilling each, or in 2 parts, 2s. each; or in one volume, 24 Glees, 2s. Beautifully printed on excellent paper. Postage of 5 numbers, 1d.

BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

200 NEW CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS' SONGS in BOOSEYS' MUSICAL CABINET, No. 74. Price One Shilling, published THIS DAY. This volume contains all the Songs of Christy's Minstrels now being sung by the various troupes of Christy's Minstrels.

BOOSEYS' VIOLINIST. 15 Nos., price 2d. each, comprising all the favourite New Scotch Dances in Collections from Operas, &c. Each number contains from 20 to 30 pages.

BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BOOSEYS' MUSICAL LIBRARY.—Every Subscriber to the Musical Library should obtain Volume of Illustrated Music, and has the use of twelve pieces of music in town and country. The terms are moderate. Prospectus and Guinea have the use of four pieces. Full particulars from 28, Holles-street.

KUHE'S "BRITANNIA" and "VICTORIA." Two new grand brilliant Fantasias on the national airs of Great Britain, composed by KUHE, and played by him at his last most successful Concert. Price 4s. each.

ASHDOWN and PARRY, 18, Hanover-square.

SYDNEY SMITH'S LA HARPE BOLIENNE, played by the Composer at the Crystal Palace and Crystal Palace upwards of 400 times with enormous success. Price 4s.

ASHDOWN and PARRY, 18, Hanover-square.

SYDNEY SMITH'S LE JET D'EAU, played by the Composer at the Crystal Palace with unbounded success, and encored at every performance. Price 4s.

ASHDOWN and PARRY, 18, Hanover-square.

SYDNEY SMITH'S FAIRY WHISPERS, played by the Composer at the Crystal Palace. A remarkably fanciful, pleasing, elegant, and effective piece. Price 4s.

ASHDOWN and PARRY, 18, Hanover-square.

SYDNEY SMITH'S MORNING DEW-DROPS, played by the Composer at the Crystal Palace. A most charming composition, rich in beautiful and luscious harmony. Played and encored at every Concert. Price 4s.

ASHDOWN and PARRY, 18, Hanover-square.

SYDNEY SMITH'S GAITÉ DE CŒUR. Grand Brilliant Waltz. The last new piece by the universally popular composer. Played with immense success. Price 4s.

ASHDOWN and PARRY, 18, Hanover-square.

SYDNEY SMITH'S PIANOFORTE MUSIC is published by ASHDOWN and PARRY, 18, Hanover-square, London, and may be had of every Musicseller in Great Britain and Ireland, India, and the Colonies.

SUSPENSION SING. GANZ'S popular Song, sung by Mdlle. Drasdil at the Crystal Palace and other Concerts with immense success. Price 3s.

ASHDOWN and PARRY, 18, Hanover-square.

STAMP GALOP, by ARTHUR OLLEARY. One of the most successful Galops of the season. Played by the Composer (a proficient) with perpetual encore of all nations at the Crystal Palace, Brighton, Hastings, Eyre's Rooms, &c. Illustrated. Price 4s.

ASHDOWN and PARRY, 18, Hanover-square.

T. BADARZEWSKA'S JERUSALEM THE GOLDEN. This celebrated Hymn, transcribed for the Piano by the above celebrated Author. Price 3s.

D'ALCORN, 9, Baldwin-place.

OH, MEET ME AT EVE. Serenade. By S. L. HIME. Price 3s. 6d. A charming song, full of melody and pathos, and deserving of success.

D'ALCORN, 9, Baldwin-place.

LOVE'S WHISPER WALTZ. By R. F. HARVEY. Beautifully Illustrated. Price 4s. Duke of Wales' Royal Wedding Set. Superbly Illustrated. Price 4s.

D'ALCORN, 9 Baldwin-place, W.

NEW MUSIC.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD'S MUSIC CIRCULATING LIBRARY for Town and Country. Terms—Two, Three, and Four Guineas per Annum.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD undertake the PUBLICATION of COMPOSITIONS for the Author.

HALF-PRICE.—All full-priced Music sent post-free at Half the Marked Price.

THE PRINCE OF WALES'S WEDDING MARCH. Composed and performed to his Royal Highness on the Piano at Marlborough House, by ARTHUR S. SULLIVAN. Arranged for the Orchestra, and performed at the Crystal Palace by the full Orchestra; also nightly at the Royal Covent Garden Promenade Concerts.

THE PRINCESS OF WALES'S MARCH (on Danish Airs). By CARL ROSA. Performed by the Band of the Royal Italian Opera at the Concert at the Residence of the Princess.

THE BRIDE FROM THE NORTH. Song. Poetry by HENRY F. CHORLEY. Composed by ARTHUR S. SULLIVAN. 3s.

THE SNOW-WHITE PLUME. Song. Poetry by W. H. WILLS. Music by CARL ROSA. Sung by Mr. Henry Pyatt.

THE WEDDING; Descriptive Fantasia for the Pianoforte. By J. PRIDHAM.

THE PRINCESS ALEXANDRA. By LOUIS DIEHL. 4s. The titles have been brilliantly illustrated in Colours by a talented artist. The compositions may be had in an elegant Portfolio, price Half-a-Guinea, net.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

DREAM OF ST. JEROME. Price 2s. 6d. Miss Charlotte presently came down from the old folks, and went to the piano, and sang a little German song, full of fervour, which she sometimes sings out of doors in the Tyrol, and which, as nearly as I can translate it, runs somewhat in this manner:—"Adventures of Philip, by W. M. Thackeray.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

THE DANISH NATIONAL AIR. Arranged for the Pianoforte by BRINLEY RICHARDS. 2s. 6d.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' BISHOP'S MELODIES. Nos. 1., 2., and 3., in Large Book, 4s. each.
No. I. "Lo! hear the gentle lark." 3s.
No. II. "Should auld acquaintance be forgot." 3s.
No. III. "Home, sweet home." 3s.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' LOVE'S RECEIPT. Arrangement for Pianoforte of a Recitation by Dupuis Delcourt. 3s.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

WILHELM KUHE'S Arrangement of A. Reichardt's Song, "Love's Repose." 3s. 6d.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

STEPHEN HELLER'S LATEST WORKS.

Douze Valses, Op. 124	4s. net.
Douze Cassantes, op. 105	4s. net.
Douze Nouvelles Etudes, op. 101	4s. net.
Nocturne, op. 103	4s. net.
Douze Etudes, op. 47	4s. net.

Douze Nouvelles sont Faciles, op. 125. In C Maj., each 3s. 6d. net.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

RENÉ FAVARGER'S ORPANELLA. 3s. Favour, Beauty, Fascination, and well carried out."—Saturday Review, March 1, 1873.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

POLYDORE DE VOS' SCHWABISCHES WOLKSLIED (Suabian Boggn Tap). An elegant little piece for the Pianoforte. 3s. net.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

PLAYED BY MISS GODDARD.

J. ASCHER'S FANTASIA on LURLINE. Le Chant des Sirènes. 4s.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

W. GANZ'S NEW PIANOFORTE PIECES.

« Grande Valse brillante	3s.
« Mazurka	3s.
« Souvenir Polonaise	3s.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

WALTER MACFARREN'S PIANOFORTE SOLOS.

The fairy boat. Barcarolle	3s.
Rose Mary. Valse	4s.
Dreamland. Morceau de salon	3s.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street. 4s.

POLISH NATIONAL HYMN. Sung in the Grand Duke of Warsaw. Now published by the Russian Government as the National Hymn of Poland. 3s.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

VIRGINIA GABRIEL'S NEWEST BALLAD, LADYE MABEL. 3s.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

HENRY SMART'S NEW SONGS for Contralto

The pure in heart shall see Him	2s. 6d.
He Heads the Bold	2s. 6d.
The Bridge and the Dee. "Price your Elfe"	2s. 6d.
Bright be thy dreams	2s. 6d.
Thinking of thee	2s. 6d.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

G. GRETTON'S PIANOFORTE WORKS, 4s.; Fantasia, 4s.; Caprice Pathétique, 4s.; Toccata, Petite, 4s., &c.
CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

CRAMER & BEALE, and WOOD'S PIANOFORTE GALLERY, 207 and 209, Regent-street.

Every Instrument may be relied on as at least equal to the best manufactured. The Pianofortes are carefully visited by Mr. Cramer's Tuner.

Pianofortes by all the eminent English, Continental, and American Manufacturers for SALE or HIRE.

CRAMER'S ENGLISH PIANETTE, 22 Guineas. Cramer and Co. manufacture this capital small Instrument. It has all the best Pianoforte improvements in action, solid touch, agreeable tone. The case is of polished ash or oak, and is remarkably elegant in appearance. It is a most useful Instrument for a small room, and will be found to stand in tune, and in the key and worn in the business. In rosewood, 23 guineas; in oak, 22 guineas, and walnut.

Purchasers are particularly requested to observe that this instrument is manufactured by Cramer and Co. and no dealer or other person is authorized to sell it. Any one who can procure it can be made. In rosewood, 22 guineas; walnut, 23 guineas.

CRAMER'S FULL-SIZED COTTAGE. Those who prefer an Instrument of larger appearance than the Pianette will find this Model to be the best adapted for their purpose. The tone is very full and powerful, being quite equal to that of the Cottage Pianoforte, but the Model is more elegant. In rosewood, 30 guineas; walnut, 31 guineas.

CRAMER'S INDIAN PIANOFORTE.—A superior COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, in solid mahogany, with the best Pianoforte action, and every improvement to meet the effects of extreme climates. Nothing has been left untried by the planting. The Instrument has been submitted to the test of a voyage to India and back. Pianofortes by Broadwood, Collard, and Erard, and other makers, have been sent upon the same occasion, and they have obtained the highest testimony. These Instruments are sold at the same price as their ordinary.

Cramer and Co. deliver these instruments fully packed in cases lined with tin, at any large port, for 30 guineas. Size: height, 3 ft. 11 in.; width, 4 ft. 4 in.; depth, 1 ft. 11 in.

PIANOFORTE GALLERY, 207 and 209, Regent-street, London.

CRAMER'S PIANO MÉCANIQUE, manufactured by the inventor, M. Debain, of Paris, is an Instrument recently brought to such perfection as to be unequalled by the mechanical arts. Any one can play upon it. Price 25 guineas. Also, a Piano Mécanique, with Organ Pedals, 40 guineas. Every delivery carefully packed for the country. Size: height, 3 ft. 11 in.; width, 4 ft. 4 in.; depth, 1 ft. 11 in.

207 and 209, Regent-street, London.

CRAMER'S HARMONIUMS, as manufactured by the inventor of the instrument, M. Debain, of Paris, received the Prize Medal and the very highest recommendation. Its superiority has been incontestably maintained. £ s. d.

No. 1.	Three stops	12 12 0
2.	Three stops, five octaves	8 8 0
3.	Ditto	10 10 0
4.	three stops	15 15 0
5.	five	14 14 0
6.	seven	12 12 0
7.	eight	21 0 0
8.	nine	25 0 0
9.	thirteen stops and knee action	31 10 0
10.	sixteen	42 0 0
11.	with percussion	52 10 0
12.	Harmonium Organ	87 0 0

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD.

CRAMER'S CHURCH HARMONIUMS, with two rows of keys, as manufactured by M. Debain, the inventor of the instrument, are especially adapted for the performance of Church Music, from the remarkable solidity of workmanship and beauty of tone. When united to the new Pedalier few organs of any ordinary pretensions can boast of a finer Instrument. Price, with knee action, 17 stops, 56 guineas; 21 stops, 69 guineas; with Pedalier attached, 10 guineas extra.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street, London.

CRAMER'S HARMONIUM PEDALIER fitted for any instrument.—M. DEBAIN, the inventor of the Harmonium, has recently brought out this Pedalier, giving a quality of tone similar to the Pedal Pipes of a large Organ. It is placed under the feet, and the pressure of the foot as well as the hand produces sound of a high class. The compass is 13 octaves (C to G), and the Pedalier may be attached to any Harmonium. Bases, 1 foot; 1 and Contra-bass, 16 feet. Price 12 guineas.

201, Regent-street, London.

CRAMER'S CHEAPEST HARMONIUM is WEALE'S beautiful Small Instrument for Private Use. Price Six Guineas. Admirable tone, combined with the very best workmanship.—Cramer, Beale, and Wood.

CRAMER'S ANTIPHONEL, or Substitute for an organist or harmonium player (invented by M. Debain, of Paris), enables any person to play the Harmonium or Organ upon any hymn tunes, psalms and chants. It is also adapted for the performance of Church Music generally, and is found to be ideal to any other Instrument. Price Twelve Guineas.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

CRAMER'S CONCERTINAS—PRIZE MEDAL. Prices, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, 10, 12, 16, and 18 guineas.

CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

CRAMER'S CORNETS, manufactured by F. BESSON, the receiver of twenty-three medals. Cramer and Co. are sole agents for these Cornets, which are the best well-known Brass Instruments. Estimates for Bands furnished.

201, Regent-street, London.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN MODEL PIANOFORTE, price 30 guineas in rosewood; or in walnut or polished deal, 28 guineas, with Three Strings and the latest improvements of Sebastian Erard. It is strengthened by every possible contrivance to withstand the effects of the most extreme climates. In any climate it will be found to keep in tune, to be more easily in tune, to stand in tune, and to stand longer in tune than any other Pianoforte. Its touch, and the repetition are equal. Its Pianoforte, in all respects comparable, has hitherto been made to order at a price from 50 to 100 guineas. Sold only by Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street, and all dealers in Pianofortes.

Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

ERARD'S NEW BOUDOIR GRAND PIANOFORTE. This Instrument has been brought to perfection, one is tuned, with the option of purchase, at

CHAPPELL and CO.'S, 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES by CHAPPELL and CO. have a large Stock of SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES, by CHAPPELL, BROADWOOD, COLLARD, ERARD, &c., at very reduced prices. Also, two Instruments of every description taken in EXCHANGE.

50, New Bond-street.

PIANOFORTES at CHAPPELL'S.—The largest Stock in London, by Broadwood, Collard, Erard, &c., for Sale or Hire on the Three Years' System.

A LEXANDRE'S DRAWING-ROOM A MODEL HARMONIUM, the best that can be made, price £20, after extensive alterations at 19 and 20, Regent-street. Illustrated Catalogues of Pianofortes and Harmoniums upon application to ALEXANDRE and SON, 19 and 20, Regent-street.

SIX-GUINEA HARMONIUM by ALEXANDER, with five octaves, two fauxbourds, and in oak case, with handsome carved panels and lower in front exposed to all other stamp harmoniums. Description free on application to ALEXANDER and SON, 19 and 20, Regent-street.

SECONDHAND HARMONIUMS. ALEXANDER'S MODEL HARMONIUM, for the CHURCH, 18 stops, from of various descriptions, from 10 guineas to 100 guineas. Lists free, by which purchasers at a distance may be always suited at CHAPPELL and CO.'S, 50, New Bond-street.

THE SICILMA FLUTE.—Old System of Flutes, Improved Model.—Those who have tried these Instruments are now widely manufactured, at prices varying from £5 to £9 guineas. CRAMER, BEALE, and WOOD, 201, Regent-street.

ANTOINE COURTOIS' CORNETS-à-PISTONS, manufactured by the inventor, and exclusive of imitations in the kingdom, are made solely for ARTHUR S. HILL, 4, Argyll-street, Regent-street, from which price-list and drawings may be obtained.

BOOSEYS "MINIATURE" PIANOFORTE, 18 guineas, by Wornum, of Mahogany, has the full compass, is in a simple but elegant case, and possesses great brilliancy and sweetness of tone. It is also manufactured in rosewood and walnut, and is especially adapted for the cabins of a ship or extreme climates. Illustrated prospectus upon application to BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BOOSEYS MINIATURE PIANOFORTE, 18 guineas, by Wornum, of Mahogany (English model—the full compass, and possesses great brilliancy and sweetness of tone. It is also manufactured in rosewood and walnut, and is especially adapted for the cabins of a ship or extreme climates. Illustrated prospectus upon application to BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

EVANS' PEDAL ATTACHMENT for Pianofortes, by which the performer can play an Organ Fugue on a Pedal Pianoforte, with full-size pedals; compass 2½ octaves. Price 10 guineas. This attachment is applicable to any Pianoforte, and the manner in which it is attached may be applied without an alteration to the Instrument. Testimonials from the most eminent Professors. Illustrated Prospectus upon application to the Manufacturers, BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BRATTEN'S SEVEN-GUINEA PRIZED CYLINDER FLUTE, all system of fingering. The improved, the result of many years' experiments, possesses all the reputed advantages of the cylinder flute on Barbu's and other systems, with the addition of the most perfect intonation in all the keys. In addition to the testimonials of Mr. Richardson, Mr. Nicholson, and Mr. Pratten, the Instrument is recommended by numerous professors and amateurs, and is pronounced by them to be the most perfect flute in existence.

Any intended prospectus may be had on application to the manufacturer, CLARK BRATTEN, 4, Argyll-street.

EVANS' ENGLISH HARMONIUMS gained the Prize Medal at the International Exhibition.

BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street, London.

EVANS' COTTAGE HARMONIUMS at £7 guineas, and School Harmoniums at 10 guineas.

BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

EVANS' ENGLISH HARMONIUMS, for Churches, Drawing-rooms, &c., with one or two rows of keys, and every variation of stop, from 10 guineas to 100 guineas. Illustrated Prospectus may be had on application to the manufacturers, BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street, London.

THE ROYAL MARRIAGE: PROCESSION OF THE BRIDEGROOM TO THE ALTAR.

ILLUSTRATIONS OF THE ROYAL MARRIAGE.

THE RECEPTION-HALL.

In order efficiently to conduct the Royal wedding in the Chapel Royal at Windsor it became necessary to build proper apartments for the accommodation of the bride and bridegroom on their arrival, and for the Lord Chamberlain to marshal the processions properly. For this purpose the Board of Works built an immense Gothic hall, opening out of the west door of the chapel, surrounded by apartments appropriated to the Royal family. Facing the chapel, the two rooms upon the right were assigned to the bridegroom; those to the left, to the bride. Behind her saloon was another appropriated to the Royal Princesses; and, at the west end of all, a suite of rooms for general purposes. This extensive structure was erected under the superintendence of Mr. Turnbull, Clerk of the Works; and furnished and fitted by Mr. Seebrook, Inspector of Windsor Castle. The appearance of the central room is that of the banqueting-hall of a baronial mansion. The roof displays open Gothic beams, springing from the cornice of the walls, round which run a series of oak panels, each panel displaying the arms of a Knight of the Garter. Upon the walls a handsome paper, designed with an heraldic pattern, admirably sustains the feeling of style intended to be imitated. Beneath, a deep oak wainscoting surrounds the hall, also divided into panels, and upon each another shield and crest is displayed. The light is admitted from the roof, and the glare of light is subdued by cotton diaphane, which look-like transparent damask linen, with the star of the Order of the Garter worked upon it. This material had been manufactured for the purpose by Messrs. Cayley, of Windsor, to whom also was intrusted the provision of the materials used for furnishing the bride's reception-room, of which an Engraving was given in our last Number.

BOUQUET HOLDER PRESENTED TO THE PRINCESS OF WALES BY THE MAYORESS OF GRAVESEND.

PROCESSION OF THE BRIDEGROOM IN ST. GEORGE'S CHAPEL.

Shortly after twelve o'clock one of the two great processions of the day—namely, that of the Royal bridegroom—commenced. The Prince probably never appeared to so much advantage as upon this important occasion. His Royal Highness wore, over a full general officer's uniform, with the stars of the Garter and the Indian Order, the magnificent flowing mantle of the Order of the Garter, and in it looked a model of youthful grace and manliness. His step was full of firmness and dignity, and his whole carriage that of a Prince. His Royal Highness's supporters, the Crown Prince of Prussia and the reigning Duke of Saxe Coburg, both also Knights of the Garter, walked on his right hand and left; but the public had no eye except for the Prince, whose appearance and entire deportment received the meed of universal approbation. His Royal Highness bowed gracefully to the ladies right and left as he passed along, and with marked reverence to the Queen as he approached the haut pas. The Duke of Saxe-Coburg and the Prince of Prussia retired to the south side of the altar, and the bridegroom, after kneeling a few seconds in prayer, stood at the communion table, and waited the coming of the bride. The entrance of his Royal Highness into the choir was the signal for the first music in the day's programme. The organ and the band pealed forth Mendelssohn's March from "Athalie" as the Prince was being conducted to the haut pas, and remained playing until the trumpets announced the approach of the bride.

PROCESSION OF THE BRIDE.

With a great clangor of trumpets the long-looked-for procession of the bride entered St. George's Chapel. The Queen immediately rose, and, bending forward from her closet, stood prepared to receive and to welcome her future daughter. At this moment the sun broke out in great brilliancy, and, shining into the chapel, fell directly upon the Queen's head and face, and seemed to illumine the shadow recessed about the altar. As the bride proceeded up the nave, dressed completely in white, her train borne by the eight bridesmaids, her father (in uniform, wearing a blue ribbon) supporting her on one side, and the Duke of Cambridge, in the robes of the Garter, on the other, even the etiquette of a Court and the considerations of the place could not stifle or conceal the murmur of intense admiration to which every tongue gave involuntary expression. On reaching the haut pas, having made a deep courtesy to the Queen, the bride took her place towards the north, her bridemaids clustering behind her.

GOLD ORNAMENTS PRESENTED TO THE PRINCESS OF WALES BY THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES PRINCE AND PRINCESS FREDERICK WILLIAM OF HESSE.

DEPARTURE OF THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS FROM WINDSOR CASTLE FOR OSBORNE.

At four o'clock on the 10th inst., the Prince and Princess of Wales took their departure from Windsor Castle for her Majesty's marine residence, Osborne, Isle of Wight. Their Royal Highnesses were conducted down the grand staircase by the Lord Steward, the Lord Chamberlain, the Master of the Horse, the Groom of the Stole to his Royal Highness, the Treasurer of the Household, the Vice-Chamberlain, and the Comptroller of the Household. The members of the Danish Royal family, and most of the Royal visitors, followed the Prince and Princess to the grand entrance, where the Princess of Wales took leave of her parents and other relatives. The Royal pair left the castle on their way to the Great Western station, whence they were to depart on their journey to Osborne, and the multitude, which, after the conclusion of the marriage ceremony, had been anxious to catch the last glimpse of them, collected is dense masses upon their route, and thronged all the approaches to the city.

THE WEDDING BOUQUET HOLDER PRESENTED TO THE PRINCESS OF WALES BY THE MAHARAJAH DHOLEEP SINGH.

THE WEDDING BOUQUET HOLDER.

The bridal bouquet holder of the Princess of Wales was the present of his Highness the Maharajah Dhuleep Singh. The upper part, for receiving the flowers, was carved out of "rock crystal," and took the lapidary some months to execute. It is trumpet-shaped, the crystal being inlaid with large emeralds and diamonds, relieved with pink coral and Oriental pearls. The shaft contains four plates of feathers, composed of brilliants, and under each the letter "A" in rubies, also four times repeated. A crystal knob with tubes terminates the shaft or handle; and by an ingenious piece of mechanism it is made to fly up, and, releasing the four sides, forms four supports to stand upon the table. Above this comes a gilt cup, arranged as the Princess a corset, to which is attached a chain of large pearls and gold, having a locket of gold to wear on the finger, the only delicate allusion to the donor being a small star of India in diamonds introduced in the ornamental work. The entirely gift was by Messrs. London and Hyde, of New Bond-street.

GIFTS TO THE PRINCESS OF WALES BY PRINCE FREDERICK WILLIAM OF HESSE.

Among the many gratifying tokens received by the Princess, previously to her leaving Denmark, of the esteem and affection with which she is regarded by her fellow-countrymen, and women of all classes were some valuable presents from her uncle, Prince Frederick William of Hesse, who resided at Copenhagen. These consisted of a gold cincture and other ornaments made by Michelsen, the Court jeweller, in imitation of the ornaments worn of old by the Queen and Princesses of Denmark.

THE BOUQUET HOLDER PRESENTED TO THE PRINCESS BY THE MAHARAJ OF GRAVESEND.

The holder in which the bouquet was presented to the Princess on her landing in England by Mrs. Sams, the wife of the Mayor of Gravesend, resembles a cornucopia, and is so arranged that by touching a spring it may be converted in any of the positions it may be required in. The ornamentation consists of the arms of England and Denmark, surrounded by the motto of Wales's feathers issuing from a gold crown set with sapphires. On the reverse are represented the arms of Gravesend and Tilbury Fort. The goldwork of the cornucopia is enriched with coral and pearls, being the national colours of Denmark. The design and execution of the holder were entrusted to Messrs. Dodd and Son, of Cornhill.

ILLUMINATIONS IN THE METROPOLIS.

LONDON BRIDGE.

Notwithstanding the gloom and mistiness of the night on the 10th ult., the view from this bridge, looking westward, was one of the Monument to Victoria Tower, and between these points London emitted the grand flood of light which illuminated the line of lofty buildings on the north and loftiest buildings, but the very clouds themselves. All the beautiful decorations on the bridges at the entry of the Princess were removed, and looked more beautiful in the splendour of the illuminants, which was produced by a series of small gas-lamps placed round the different pedestals which line the Corinthian warriors and other pieces of sculpture on each side of the bridge. The magnificent arch was lighted up in a similar manner, the lamps running along the cornices and other architectural mouldings of the structure, and presented a very grand appearance, which was greatly heightened by the excellent transparencies on the arch. One of these represented the Prince of Wales and the Princess in a car drawn by leopards, and accompanied by a crowd of nymphs and Cupids, each being upon the loving pair every earthly blessing. The illumination at Fishmongers' Hall added to the brilliancy of the scene. A conspicuous object in this portion of the town was the Monument, illuminated by the new equivalent of electric light. This work was under the charge of Mr. Lidell, who employed for the purpose the same light as that in use at the late International Exhibition. The principal light was placed 3 ft. above the flaming ball, or urn, and the lesser lights round the electric lights reflected on the same point from the gallery. There were 420 nitric acid batteries brought into requisition upon the occasion. The whole of the illuminations, extending from the immediate neighbourhood of London Bridge, was strange, aerial, weirdlike.

THE MANSION HOUSE.

The Mansion House, the Exchange, and the Bank drew immense crowds of spectators, and the large space which lies between these buildings was completely blocked up with carriages, and pedestrians and carriages. Along the balustrade at the top of the Mansion House tripods emitting volumes of flame were placed at intervals; and many of gaslights followed the cornices and pediments of the building, while over the temporary gallery were five large gas stars, which illuminated with great effect all the surrounding architecture. The Corinthian columns were covered with crimson cloth, and from the capitals were sags of flame. Over the columns were four handsome medallions of the Prince and Princess, surrounded with wreaths of the oak and surmounted by the Prince of Wales's plume. From the windows were suspended crimson cloth, similarly varied in the distribution of colouring, were suspended like a necklace, so to speak; while from the centre hall and over the electric light was to dart its rays like a jewel in the forehead of the great cathedral. The naval portion of the illumination was tolerably successful, but the electric light was placed in a fitful, uncertain manner. The dome of the cathedral and the temple surmounting the dome were, however, illuminated by a kind of electric light which emitted a strong, weak window of the premises of Messrs. Dakin, opposite; and, upon the whole, the contrast had a great measure of success, though not attended by any very brilliant results.

TEMPLE BAR.

At this point in the western termination of the City boundary, Temple Bar was an object of considerable attraction. The arrangements for the preparation of which occupied the persons employed by the City authorities almost a fortnight, were made to illuminate the arrival of the Prince and Princess of Wales, which was placed in the centre of the principal gateway, surrounded with flags. The entire summit of the pediment was covered with emblematical devices in gold, and over the footways angels were placed, holding in their hands sage of orange-tawny hue, above which were the royal supporters, and over the centre and surmounting the whole was a statue of "Hymen" holding a torch. The pedimals of the arches were covered with crimson cloth, and over the centre arch were the arms of England and Denmark, surrounded with a crown of gold, with the letters "A. A." on each side. Drapery, covered with gold and gold leaf hearts, entirely enveloped the front of the bar on the side of the City, and on that of Westminster. The front was lighted up with gas with about one hundred and twenty gas-lights, under white ground-glass globes, and the effect was very beautiful, in addition to the blaze of light from adjoining houses on each side of the bar was thrown thereon, and materially heightened the effect.

THE TEMPLE.

The architectural design of the building was portrayed by means of gas jets, and was very effective. On each side of the structure was placed a Brunswick star, with garter in the centre, bearing the motto, "Honi soit qui mal y pense," ten feet in diameter, under which was placed a neat device of crystal, containing the initials in monogram of "A. A.," surrounded by a garter in crystal, above which is placed the Royal crown of England, executed also in crystal glass in their proper colours. In the centre of the building was fixed a crystal Prince of Wales's feather, the largest of the kind ever manufactured, containing upwards of 50,000 pieces of pyramals in it. Above this was a device representing the rising sun; and under it, in a semicircle, were the words in crystal glass, "Long live the Prince and Princess of Wales." In the centre was placed a St. George's star, the whole being surrounded by laurels.

ILLUMINATIONS AND REJOICINGS IN THE COUNTRY.

LIVERPOOL—SCENE ON THE MERSEY.

Business was entirely suspended at Liverpool on the 10th inst., and all day the inhabitants thronged the streets, which were handsomely decorated. The Rifle and Artillery Volunteers and Naval Reserve marched in procession through the town, and the Mayor gave a banquet, and at night a ball to two thousand persons. Sixty thousand day and Sunday scholars were treated at the expense of the Corporation. The shipping was in a grand display of flags. Her Majesty's ship Majestic, Captain Inglefield, R.N., left her moorings off Rock Ferry, and took up her station in the Mersey, to receive on board the Prince's Landing, about midday between the Woodside and Egremont ferries. As it had been announced that she would take a very active part in the rejoicings on the river, she was naturally an object of great attraction throughout the whole of Tuesday. At nine o'clock in the morning she was already surrounded by hundreds of the gay pleasure boats. At one o'clock she fired a Royal salute, and the yards were manned. As the evening came on she was twice illuminated, first with blue lights hung in the rigging, and rockets discharged. On all these occasions she moved about on the landing stage, and gave very good exhibitions. Our Engraving of the scene on the Mersey is from a sketch by Mr. William Woods, of Queen's road, Liverpool, taken at the time the Majestic was lying for the Prince's landing.

SACKVILLE-STREET, DUBLIN.

Few persons were prepared for the grand display of loyalty which took place in the city on the 11th inst. Chief among the amusements during the day were the review and naval sham fight, and in the evening the whole city was ablaze with illuminations and fireworks. "It would be impossible," says a local journal, referring to the scene presented in Sackville-street, "to convey an idea of the appearance presented by that noble thoroughfare between the hours of sunset and midnight, from a sketch by Mr. Tomelin, may assist the imagination to realise the scene. Sackville-street was not one of the finest streets in point of evidence of Irish loyalty. Myriads of people thronged the street, and graced with delight on the various balconies and from the tops of carriages as vehicles of all kinds occupied the centre, and moved slowly on. The first object that struck the eye was Nelson's Pillar. From Carlisle Bridge to the Rotunda, and from the Rotunda to Carlisle Bridge on the other, the spectacle was magnificent. The illuminated windows literally took the name of them at the most glorious of battles of Europe, were in themselves equal to a volume of history; whilst the word "Peace," substituted for the name of a well-known abandoned letter, was a sentiment which all the world, we think, can adopt. The refulgent light of the Post Office had a very considerable effect, but the most splendid spectacle of the Pillar, as it bestowed a mellow brilliancy which was very beautiful indeed. But the great attraction was the electric light which was given out from the and the fireworks let off from time to time. Although almost every house was similarly lighted, still there was a considerable diversity. Not only in the devices, but in the manner in which they were displayed. This, however, had a good effect. Happily the background was not shrouded and dark, and Sackville-street was in consequence brilliancy.

EDINBURGH.

The illuminations at Edinburgh were a great success. The leading thoroughfares were densely crowded all night with admiring spectators. The streets, public buildings, and private residences were in a magnificence anything ever before witnessed in Edinburgh. The Princes-street Gardens, the Castle and the Calton Hill, with the buildings in the High-street were brilliantly illuminated. The Scott Monument was tastefully lit up with innumerable gas-jets, and Nelson's Monument was also illuminated. A bonfire was lighted on the top of Arthur's Seat; fireworks were displayed from Salisbury Crags; and the Government offices and public buildings, and the hotels, leading shops, and places of business were illuminated with devices, flags, transparencies, and variegated lamps. To give a representation of the illuminations would require the pencil of a Martin, from a sketch taken by Mr. Keeley Halswell. A gentleman who observed the scene from the top of the Martello tower on Calton Hill speaks of the sight as one such as had hitherto been thought impossible to be fairy-land, and not as a possible realisation in this workaday world.

FINE ARTS.

A full-length portrait of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, painted by Mr. Walton, an artist of much promise, is on view at Mr. Gambart's gallery in Pall-mall. The Prince is in full dress, represented standing in the open air, in morning dress, hat in hand. The background consists of a mountainous landscape, in the distance of Mont Joshua Reynolds, to the left of which is given a glimpse of Windsor Castle. The colouring of the picture is extremely agreeable. The pale, sunny tone of the flesh is excellent, and the hair is treated with the fair young face, and both are pleasantly relieved by the breaths of tawny and golden whiskers. The figure is rather below the proportion of being too slight and tall; but portrait-painters are, of course, allowed a good deal of latitude in this respect. The likeness is pleasing rather than striking: a little more force of modelling, a decision of drawing might, perhaps, have been ventured on in the treatment of the features, according to the rules of art, without naturally developed at the age of his Royal Highness.

Mr. Thomas Earle has just completed a colossal seated statue of the Queen for the Royal Exchange Hall; and another colossal statue (the figure in this case standing) of the late Prince Consort, to be placed before the Royal Albert Hall, in front of the Royal Horticultural Society. In neither of these colossal statues is the sculptor seen to such advantages as in some o. his busts and ideal works.

The cartes-de-visite photograph of her Majesty the Queen, taken by Mr. Mayall, of 224, Regent-street, Mall; and another colossal other day, has been published, by her Majesty's permission, in a larger size by Messrs Marion and Co., of Soho-square. As the only open-air photograph of her Majesty, taken since the late melancholy likeness, this photograph will be esteemed; but we should have much preferred to see her Majesty, when sitting for her picture, painted out. An artistically-toned background would have added softness and relief to the figure.

The committee appointed last year by the Fine-Arts Commission to inquire into the cause of the decay which has so generally and unaccountably attacked the fresco paintings in the Houses of Parliament, has been unable to arrive at a satisfactory conclusion, though many causes have been suggested, such as the effect of gas, the dampness of the walls, and the probability that the plaster was not laid on properly, to the time when the latter was drier than it ought to have been. This fact has been proved by the experiments of Mr. Maclise. We have not had the long experience of the Italians, and our artists cannot, therefore, be expected to have acquired the knowledge of this climate attacking colours imperfectly crystallised, so to speak, on the surface of the plaster. We know that some of the earlier frescoes at Westminster were executed in distemper, and that such retouchings would very rapidly blacken, and become detached with the least moisture, or the slightest change in the state of the atmosphere. Otherwise the dampness of the climate will not alone account for the decay. Can it be from the presence of gas in the corridors? Gas is also probably very injurious, as this produces a condition of atmosphere to which the early Italian frescoes were not exposed. We speak from considerable experience when we say that we believe the injurious effect of gas on oil pictures to be greater than is commonly supposed, and far more so than was concluded by the Parliamentary inquiry of some two years ago. The Fine-Arts' Commission has now brought its labours to a conclusion, and has made its final report, which is shortly to be published. We are glad to hear that no more paintings at Westminster are to be executed in fresco, but that the method of encaustic, or water-glass, is to be employed for future works. Water-glass has been found to be perfectly permanent after the Pompeian process, and Mr. Herbert, R.A., is engaged in the Queen's great picture, the "Interview between Wellington and Blucher after Waterloo," in the Royal Gallery of Westminster Palace, is executed in encaustic, as we have already informed our readers, and the artist expresses himself perfectly satisfied with the result, and believes that it can suffer deterioration only by mechanical disintegration.

The report has been circulated that it is not yet decided whether the proposed mural decorations for the interior of St. Paul's shall be executed in mosaic, fresco, or water-glass. This report is, however, entirely without foundation. Mr. Fawcett, the chief secretary, has communicated to us the information that "there has never been any hesitation as to this point—namely, that mosaic is the proper material to be employed." Were himself wished to see the interior of St. Paul's decorated with "rich and durable mosaics." Similarly of architectural interiors, the metropolitan cathedral and St. Peter's, and the striking effect of the mosaics in the spandrils of the arches of the nave of St. Paul's Church, and in other parts of the Roman basilicas, promise the happiest result to the proposed decoration. We regret to hear that the fate of the Cathedral Decoration Fund does not yet admit of executing any mosaics in the cathedral itself. The public should be reminded that subscriptions to this fund are invited. A small model of the proposed work (where the first is to be placed) in, however, being prepared, and in this the first design is to be executed in fresco. This model is intended to the competitive design sent in to the Chapter House, and from which this first design for the model was to be executed. Although this design contributes reference only to the model, it is, nevertheless, of great importance that it should be judiciously selected if the public are to be tempted to subscribe, and if the project is to fail to be carried out once again. It was unfortunate that (from circumstances we have already explained) the competition was so limited. The design, by Mr. G. F. Watts, the painter of the great fresco in Lincoln's Inn illustrative of temperance, and one of the finest productions of highest honours on two occasions in the Westminster Hall competitions, and who contributed, we understand, while declining to compete, indicated nobility of conception, as might have been expected from this very distinguished artist; but, either from ill-health or misapprehension of the degree of finish required, he has executed only a sketch and a limited memorandum of his intention. It would have been difficult to conjecture what the artist might have given from such a sketch, even had he superintended its reproduction. It would, indeed, have been difficult to reproduce it at all without a more finished drawing. The chances, then, seemed to be in favour of Mr. Leighton and Baron Henri de Triquetti. Mr. Leighton, ever since he painted the magnificent "Phidias Showing the Frieze of the Parthenon," now in the Gallery of Lord Dudley, has been distinguished as a painter of fine, decorative feeling; and his recent pictures of religious subjects seemed to promise special aptitude for the highest class in compositions—namely, "The Procession," in the drawing Mr. Leighton sent, unlike Mr. Watts, he had evidently done his very best. Although the design was not remarkable for religious or feeling, his design had just sufficient detailed precision for reproduction in mosaic. The composition is breadth in the figures, the befitting a work to be seen some 80 feet from the ground. The expressions of the Saviour, Moses, and Elias were full of majesty and fervour, and were, therefore, commendable. Moreover, it had only one possible drawback—a degree of freedom, especially in the way in which arms, hands, and fingers were spread from the figures, that might possibly offend architectural purists, but would be considered a merit by the majority of artists. It is, however, from a fair view of the strictly pictorial effects which in Italy have been obtained from mosaic it seemed difficult to imagine such freedom would be considered objectionable. Baron de Triquetti's design, likewise, and as might have been expected from a practised designer for sculptures, his drawing escaped the objection of being too elaborate, but, south to say, it had few other recommendations, either as to expression or beauty. The drawing was laboured yet feeble, the "foreshortening" of the upturned head of Christ dead unskilful. The conclusion seemed inevitable—viz., that, however eminent as a sculptor, the Baron de Triquetti was not a draughtsman. Now, if architectonic symmetry were the only consideration, a mosaic of some sure conventional, hieratic figures, surrounded by the usual set of fine art at all; and a subject demanding the highest truth of expression, such as "The Transfiguration," is perhaps too difficult for our first attempts in this country. We should recommend by way of Raphael's great picture of this very subject, "The Transfiguration," on the side of one of the piers of the cupola of St. Peter's. We do not, however, think that the Commission went further. The design of the Baron de Triquetti has been selected for execution in mosaic, naturally, to our regret, as we have stated; but we do not wish to offer any discouragement to the present attempt to render the interior of our beautiful cathedral less dreary and tombike. We hope the design will improve in execution. It would, however, suggest that, when the model is ready, a committee of taste should be formed, and that it should consult eminent painters and architects—to decide upon the advisability of proceeding further with a design found for so objectionable a destination. We may inform the reader not familiar with the Baron de Triquetti's artistic antecedents that some thirty years ago he handled the brush, but that the success of a work in bronze—that for sculpture—he has designed and modelled the bas-reliefs of the large bronze doors of the Madeleine at Paris. Since then he has executed innumerable statues, busts, bas-reliefs, ivory carvings, vases, and designs for incised work—having once received a commission for the reverse of the first-class medal and "la décoration," toujours as a sculptor, for works exhibited in the French salons. Some of his performance have been refused, though the greater number have been ornamental works. In some respects in the style known as that of "the late Romans."

A portion of the artist's cartoon for mosaic, "Fishing," has been executed by Messrs. Minton and Co., and is now being mounted the original drawing at South Kensington. The piece selected is the head of the upper fisherman, the figure then he has drawn, and the execution therefore looks coarse when seen near; but this is the proper point of view to obtain effect in a work of art especially proposed to be placed some thirty to forty feet from the ground upon the International Exhibition building, though its destination must now, we presume, be a temporary opportunity. On account of the dean of St. Peter's the visitor is not a little astonished at the extreme coarseness of mosaics which are to be placed so far off for close discovery and finish. Some of the colours, however—though these, too, the eye has a wonderful power of harmonising—appear to warm the needless exaggeration—as, for instance, the green lights on the hair. But the chief defect is the want of brilliancy. The lessons seem to us composed to too large a proportion of the nature of dead colour to produce polychromy, and not to have the vitreous enamelled character of the beautiful Italian smalti, which produce extraordinary effects of brilliancy of colour.

Mr. Edward W. Wyon has just finished a very beautiful statue of "Britain," the Britain of the "Bud," for Mr. George R. Stephenson.

A collection of small wax models, the property of Mexican life, &c., is on view at 68, Newman-street, Oxford-street.

James Tibbetts Willmore, the eminent Associate-Engraver of the Royal Academy, was born at Birmingham in 1800, and died at Hawksmoth, Staffordshire, September, 1860. He was a pupil of the late W. Radclille, of Birmingham, with whom he served seven years, and in 1824 he came to London, where his other engravings, who have subsequently distinguished themselves, obtained employment in the studio and under the direction of the late Charles Heath. Mr. Willmore was elected Associate-Engraver of the Academy in 1843, in the place vacated by the death of Mr. Heath, and he thus contributed very constantly at the Academy Exhibition. He was one o. the most eminent and deservedly well known of that band of landscape-engravers who have acquired lasting fame by reproducing the works of Turner. While supporting the dignity and purity of line-engraving, Mr. Willmore, like other engravers of the present day, formed a style peculiar to himself—a style of great delicacy and finish, admirably suited to render the subtle aerial perspective and endless gradations of his great exemplar. Among his most successful engravings from Turner are the "Mercury and Argus," "The Old Temeraire," "Italy," and "The Golden Bough" (the picture in the Vernon Collection), all of which are well known to lovers of art. Among his other works may be mentioned "Harvest in the Bridge" and "Harvest in the Highlands," after Landseer; and "Wind against Tide," after Stanfield.

SKETCHES IN PARLIAMENT.

